The letter of Miss Merkley, whose picture is printed above, proves beyond question that thousands of cases of inflammation of the ovaries and womb are annually cured by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Great relief from all strength and nerve force lost are something was radically wrong with me. I had severe shooting pains through the pelvic organs, cramps and extreme irritation compelled me to seek medical advice. The doctor said that I had ovarian trouble and ulceration, and advised an operation. I strongly objected to that and decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I soon found that my judgment was correct, and that all the good things said about this medicine were true, and day by day I felt less pain and increased appetite. The ulceration soon healed, and other complications disappeared, and in eleven weeks I was once more strong and vigorous and perfectly well.

"My heartfelt thanks are sent to you for the great good you have done me." Miss Ella Merkley, Box 1, Merkley, 77 Third St., Milwaukee, Wis.—100% Pure! If original or above letter genuine, guaranteed to prove satisfactory.

FINDS LIGHT WITHOUT HEAT

New York Physician Accidentally Makes Important Discovery.

REDUCES DANGER IN SURGERY

Fluorescent Liquids Are Used to Illuminate the Intestines and Make Diagnoses in Internal Ailments a Comparatively Easy Matter.

New York dispatch: Dr. William James Morton, inventor of electro-therapeutics in the New York Post Graduate Hospital, who first announced his fluorescent liquids, which used in conjunction with radium or Roentgen rays, would cure cancer, has made another important discovery in the line of fluorescence, and has also obtained results in another experiment that warrant the belief that he has reached what has been the objective point of this line of scientific research for years past. The experiments made so far indicate that Mr. Morton has found a cold light illumination without heat, or effect of treatment.

The new discovery in fluorescence has added another law to the phenomena of action of the X-ray, announced by Roentgen, and explains why the treatment for cancer with fluorescent liquids should be successful. Up to the present time all authorities on the Roentgen ray declare that density alone has stopped the activities from the Roentgen tube.

To this law of the X-ray, which deals only with dense matters and does not mention liquids, Dr. Morton adds fluorescent liquids. When the stomach is filled with fluorescent liquid, it will be just about as if you fill it with some plastic material—food, for instance.

The discovery of this important scientific feature was made practically by a chance. Dr. Morton was desirous of make a photograph of a rack of test tubes containing aesculin, fluorescin and quinine bisulphate. These were placed in front of the machine and subjected to the light. The negative when the fluorescent tubes a deep black.

Great Aid to Surgery.

Then the hand of one of Dr. Morton's assistants and afterward a stomach were photographed. Comparisons were made with negatives taken of other portions of the body when the patient had not been treated with fluorescent liquid. Where there had been no treatment the impressions were indistinct, but where fluorescent liquid had been taken it gave a shape to the interior and a clear reproduction was obtained on the negative.

Dr. Morton's discovery makes the X-ray practical for diagnosis, and in intestinal diseases or appendicitis enables the surgeon to abort the seat of trouble accurately and use his knife without fear of making a hazard incision.

If Dr. Morton develops his discovery it means that if an electric light costs 1 cent an hour, he can produce a cold light that will cost one-hundredth of a cent and give greater illuminating power.

ONE DOLLAR WHEAT.

Western Canada's Wheat Fields Produce It—Magnificent Yields—Free Grants of Land to Settlers.

The returns of the Interior Department show that the movement of American farmers northward to Canada is each month the distinct and large areas of the United States. Time was, says the Grand Forks Press, when the Dakotas, Minnesota and Iowa furnished the Dominion with the main stay of American contingent. Last year, however, forty-four states and territories were represented in the official statement as to the former residence of Americans who had homesteaded in Canada. The Dakotas still head the list, with 4,006 entries. Minnesota being a close second with 3,887, but with the exception of Alabama and Mississippi and Delaware every state in the Union supplied settlers who, in order to secure farms in the fertile prairie country of Canada, became citizens of and took the oath of allegiance to the Dominion. Last year no less than 641 Americans entered for homestead lands in Canada.

From the Gulf to the Boundary, and from ocean to ocean, the trek to the Dominion has been, not only the wheatgrowers of the central Mississippi valley, but the ranchers of Texas and New Mexico, and the cultivators of the comparatively virgin soil of Oklahoma, are pouring across the impositive mountains of the Canadian Northwest. It is no tentative, half-hearted departure from the country that is manifested in this exodus, it has become almost a rush to secure some portion of the X-ray. It is feared by those imperfectly acquainted with the conditions that Canada's vacant lands, may all be acquired before they arrive. There is no element of uncertainty or adventure in the migration. The settlers have information concerning Canada's wealth, the farming methods, the laws, taxation and system of government of the country which they are moving, and they realize that the opportunities offered in Canada are in every respect far more and greater than those they have enjoyed in the land they have left behind.

Canada can well afford to welcome cordially every American farmer coming to the Dominion. It is a question but that these immigrants make the most desirable and valuable for the development of the prairie portion of the Dominion. Full information as to the land from at authorized Canadian government agent whose address will be found elsewhere in this paper.

Renan and the Soldier.

One summer afternoon while walking near Tregnier Renan met a German French writer, met a German and four soldiers and the sergeant, after saluting him most courteously, said: "Sir, I want you to do me a favor. We are alone here and as no one can see us I want you to shake hands cordially indeted to you if you will allow me to give you a tangible token of my respect and admiration."

Renan was taken aback at his words but could not that the man was in earnest, he replied politely: "All right, sergeant! I am sure I am much obliged to you."

Thereupon, turning to his four men, the worthy sergeant bade them stand in line as a guard of honor, and then, drawing his sword, he said gravely, "Present arms!"

At this unexpected compliment Renan remained speechless and dazed and there was an unusual tremor in his voice as he thanked the sergeant for his courtesy.

How to Keep House.

With all the luxuries and pleasures of this life, its life enjoyments and its humble comforts, there is a vein of antithesis which we have to contend with in the form of aches and pains. In some way and by some means every one has a touch of them in some form at some time. Trifling as it may seem to some, the fact is that they will grow to something severer and rack the system with constant torture. There is nothing therefore, of this kind that we have to fight to refer to, but, at the time, the worst forms of pains and aches yield readily and easily to the 25c. use of St. Jacobs Oil. No well-regulated household should be without a bottle of this great remedy for relief.
