Sales Tax Must Apply to Car Trade In Value

Joseph J. Rice, director of the department of finance states that the retailers' occupational tax of two per cent must be applied to the trade-in value of an automobile when a sale involving such a transfer is made. Mr. Rice calls attention to the fact that special ruling No. 21 applies to all sales where part of the consideration or purchase price is represented by any tangible personal property.

15,000 Pheasants, 10,000 Quail to Be Hatched

Assistant director Thompson of the department of conservation informs us that the state game farm will hatch 15,000 pheasants and 10,000 quail this season which will be delivered to different sections of the state. Artificial brooding and hatching is being experimented with at the game farms and a larger percentage of hatch and maturities, are being shown.

Criminal Offense to Sell Motors Without License

Secretary of state Edward J. Hughes, calls attention to the provisions of the uniform motor vehicle antitheft act passed by the last session of the legislature to Section 12a, which provides "That it shall be unlawful for any person from and after August 1, 1933 to carry on or conduct a business of buying, selling or dealing in used motor vehicles or parts thereof or accessories unless licensed to do so by the secretary of state under the provisions of this act, except that any manufacturer or importer of motor vehicles or his subsidiary or selling agent, may buy or take in trade or sell any used motor vehicle incident to his new motor vehicle business without such a license." All dealers who have not as yet received blanks for application should do so at once, in order to comply with the law.

Tells Difference Between Dog and Horse Racing

The attorney general refers to a decision of the Supreme court of Illinois in which the horse racing act was held valid. In discussing the difference between horse racing and dog racing, the court said: "It is claimed that the act is unreasonable in that it discriminates against dog races. There is a great difference between dog racing and horse racing. In dog racing, dogs are turned loose on the race track without human management or guidance to run or not to run the race according to their own will, mood, temperament or instinct and subject to be distracted by circumstances from efforts to win, while in horse racing, the horses are subject to human guidance, management and urging to put forth their best efforts to win."

Yale Bulldog Mascot

The Yale University Athletic association says that the 125 mascot is no myth. Handsome Dan was his name, and he was owned by Andrew B. Graves of the class of '92. Handsome Dan was the official Yale football mascot for over ten years. He was a big, white, bulldog, and when he died his carcass was stuffed, and it shows an important position in the Yale trophy room.

English Courses Popular

Ability to use and write good English, one of the essential assets for business and social success, was an ambition acknowledged by many hundred Wisconsin citizens whose study requirements were analyzed by the University of Wisconsin extension division. A compilation based on such inquiries over a ten-year period indicated that English courses led in the volume of those who expressed a preferred interest

Leprosy Old Time Disease

Although Egypt is called the cradle of leprosy, the disease was by no means confined to that country even in early days. Assyrian and Babylonian hieroglyphics relate to the disease, which was held in dire dread. It has existed in India at least 3,000 years. Chinese authorities wrote of it 2,600 years ago. It was introduced into Arabia before the time of Mohammed.

Hammer, Oldest Tool

For more than a million years, the hammer has carried on, the first implement of prehistoric man and the "father of all tools," according to an official of the American Museum of Natural History in New York. Only in modern times has the hammer served so promote a purpose as that of tapping at nails. Hitherto, it had pounded meat, rocks, bones, fruits, bones and clay. The hammer was used to shreds steaks, to grind food, to club enemies, to crush nuts, to pound hides, to stunt or wood and was even thrown—the forerunner of the sling shot and the bullet.

Good Old Days

The good old days were when the selfish indulgence in good food honour conscience.
