Book Sale to Be Held at Country Day School Soon

A book sale is being arranged at Barrington Country Day school for Tuesday evening, Nov. 22 from 7 to 10 p. m. and all day Wednesday, Nov. 23. Refreshments will be served both days and all proceeds of the sale will go toward establishing a permanent library for the school, it was reported.

Following is a new item concerning the event, sent in by those in charge of the event:

Living in and around Barrington there are many people with hobbies and interesting ones too. There are gardens which bear witness to their owner's love of flowers well arranged and cared for. In cars parked in the village streets are sleek, shiny haired dogs whose masters have informed themselves about their care. For a few days in the fall hunting season some of the desks of the high school boys are empty while the boys are in the fields trying to get their quota of birds. There are excellent cooks and housekeepers always alert to learn more of their craft. There are youngsters who wish they were Indians, soldiers, air pilots or mechanics and whose leisure hours are completely occupied pursuing these ambitions. The number and varied ages of those who are actively studying music in Barrington indicate how important it is to the people of the town.

It is for people with such varied interests that the book sale at the Barrington Country Day school has been arranged. Mrs. William Saul, 144 W. Main street, who is helping the library committee plan the sale has promised that these and many more hobbies (old silver, art, horses, photography and so forth) will be represented in her list of books. There will be all the new books, both fiction and non-fiction. She has promised that "anything you do not see can be ordered and delivered well before Christmas."
