The DAIRY

DAIRY NOTES.

When a farmer knows which cows are paying as a rule he will feed them better.

Money invested in better stock is money put in the best bank in the world.

The man that skins a cow must get enough of her profit to make black again He began it

Give good weight in parching of printing. It is better to give a pound than to have a pound short.

Practice cleanliness in every detail. Good butter cannot be made unless cleanliness is the watchword.

Milk your cows in the same order every day. Cows know the difference and it affects their flow of milk.

You should not only know how much each cow produces, but how much it costs to do the producing.

Mangels and ensilage replace one another as succulent foods for milk production. but the ensilage is cheaper

Keep the cows comfortable at night and when the weather is cold and wet. In daytime if they have pasture and good water they can care for themselves.

Always park butter with a view to tidiness in the wrapping and packing, no matter what form of package is used, especially study the requirements of the markets for packages.

Cool milk quickly before delivering it to the creamery. To cool the milk place the cans in cold water and stir thoroughly, so as to drive out animal heat and odors.

IMPROVED TYPE OF STANCHION

Trouble Usually Experienced in Getting Cow Free is Done Away by a Small Inexpensive Device.

When a cow gets down in the stall it is quite a job to get her head out of the ordinary stanchion. The loose side of my stanchion works in a socket at the bottom. If a cow gets down the loose yoke is pulled out, and she is free, says a writer in Missouri Valley Farmer. For the bottom all I use 6x6 inch timber for upper sill 2x4 inch planks and for the yoke pieces of 2x4 The stanchions are made 3½ feet apart from center to center of posts. A quarter-inch rod 15 inches long bent to form a latch is hinged at side of stationary yoke. When loose yoke is in place the latch slips over automatically, holding it in place.

TO CURE CONFIRMED KICKER

Idaho Dairyman Has Devised an Excellent Method of Preventing Kicking.

To prevent a cow's kicking while she is being milked take a rope or strap and fasten around body, letting it pass in front of udder and over rump

FIX OLD STRAWBERRY BEDS

How They Should Be Treated and Cleaned Without Overrun and Choked With Weeds.

(By C. H. DRAKE).

We always have to fight the weeds in strawberry beds. They hinder much less in a season of abundant rainfall than in a dry one, and do special damage when fruiting is backing in the soil. So if one wishes to prolong the productiveness of the old bed another year it may be done, providing it is not too old or has not become molded thickly with weeds. We grow in the worst enemy of the strawberry as the years advance. But the roots have complete possession of the soil. Other weeds, like dalisia, carpet, dandelion, etc. may be quite easily coped with

Rather than do without any of this delicious fruit next year the old bed had better be replaced unless it is beyond all hope of production. If it is not closely mown after fruiting or this be done right away drying shaking and gathering the weeds, grass, etc.

An Excellent Variety.

It may be burned over but if near the barn this is not advisable. It is a good plan to take off as much of the old top as possible in order to stimulate new growth

After raking it may be scarified with a harrow quite thoroughly. This will break the surface, letting in air and opening ways for the strength of a manure top dressing to enter.

Now let an even coat of well-rotted stable manure be applied, thick enough to fertilize without shutting out the air. Rains coming on will fertilize the ground, so that much larger crowns will be grown by the plants than would be possible with out it

The crown of the plant is but a stage of material with which the plant will push the next season's growth of fruit. How can the plants grow good crowns with only an overdrawn supply of fertilizer beneath them? The top dressing will serve also to protect the plants during the winter. Thus treated one is sure of a much larger crop of strawberries next year than if the bed were plowed up and reset in August or September. Of course if the plants have been set too long, so that the bed old very poorly this year not many berries can be expected next year even with the treatment above recommended

For the best in the set next spring it is well to begin preparations now, or as soon as land and manure are available. If the plan be to have one the sooner manure is applied the better. It will tend to rot the sod and help its decay after fall plowing. The manure should be applied thickly on the stable door may be evenly spread on the sod and the land plowed. This is to benefit the land.

An excellent variety is shown in the illustration

Profit in Bees.

Bee keeping is profitable as well as pleasant adjunct to many classes of business and has proved itself to be a thorough agriculturist to make it a reasonable success, yet of all classes of business it will pay as well as any to give it the necessary intelligent care its importance deserves.

Blue Grass Seed.

Raising blue grass seed requires expert work, but that it pays the producer of from $200 to $250 per acre has been demonstrated by a Kansas farmer.
