HAS PROVED VALUE

PASSAGE OF PAYNE TARIFF BILL ALREADY JUSTIFIED.

Not One Single Feature of the Bill Has Disappointed the Expectations of its Friends—Large Net Income Gained.

In two important respects the Payne tariff has more than met the expectations of its some-time friends, and correspondingly disappointed its critics and the agitators who are working it for selfish and political purposes.

We refer to its power as a revenue producer and the defeat of its maximum and minimum features.

Under the first eight months' operation of the new tariff, talk of an impending deficit has ceased. For the first nine months of the current fiscal year customs receipts have increased by $38,000,000, which means a net income gain of $48,000,000, approximately.

So, instead of the once dreaded deficit, the prospect is for a substantial surplus when the books are balanced on June 30, and that without reducing in the large expected receipts from the new corporation tax, which now seems clearly superfluous as a revenue measure. As a revenue producer the Payne tariff is a shining success.

Now as to its operation as a new departure in the American tariff system or as an experiment in the dual tariff plan. How about the dire predictions of tariff revision to grow out of our maximum and minimum scales? Why, gone glimmering of course.

Instead of the 25 per cent surtax having operated as a club of provocation to wars, the conditional proffer of the minimum rates has proved a most potent persuader, and practically every considerable commercial power has yielded to its attractions and come in under its benefits. It has won for us equality of treatment on the "most favored nation" principle and the surtax "club" has not been used on a single head.

So far from benefiting us in wars of tariff reprisals with Germany and Canada, the Payne tariff has actually paved the way for better and smoother and practically reciprocal trade with those countries. The campaign lie that the secret, ulterior "standpat" purpose of the dual tariff scheme was to make the maximum scale of rates the normal and prevalent scale has been absolutely refuted.

In respect of its importance as a tax, or its bearing on consumers, the Payne tariff is unquestionably an improvement on the tariff it displaced, and the president has already started the machinery of the new tariff board at work to secure still further improvements in that direction on tariff commission lines, or the only lines on which we can reach really scientific tariff making in this country. The real, effective programme on this tariff question is President Taft—the man who is not playing politics with it, but is working for and toward right, rational and scientific methods of revising and standardizing rates.

Our Flag at Singapore.

Singapore is the commercial gateway between the Occident and the Orient. It is the eighth greatest seaport in the world, and its astonishing growth is bound to advance it more higher in rank within the next ten years.

We import more than $12,000,000 worth of merchandise from Singapore every year. In the harbor there one may find steamers and sailing vessels from nearly every maritime country in the world. In 1909 there 12,234 ships with a total tonnage of 19,597,102 tons entered that port. Of course many of them flew the Stars and Stripes. Would you say 1,000, keeping in mind the fact that half a century ago American clipper ships sailed every sea and had the cream of the Oriental trade—or would you raise your estimate to 2,000?

Then let the humiliating truth be known. Of all the 19,234 ships that entered that port of Singapore in 1908, only one was an American ship, and she was a miserable little thing of 862 tons and was sold there to a foreign buyer! In the last four years only five vessels with the Stars and Stripes at the masthead have appeared at that great seaport, and one of those was foreign built, while two arrived in ballast and were sold to foreigners. The history of our decaying commerce on the sea contains no more reproachful chapter than this.

AT THE CHICAGO THEATRES

At the Olympic

"The Fixer" which opens its seventh month at the Olympic Theatre, with Thomas W. Ross in the title role of the young city slicker who is sent to the country town to win the affections of the girl he has ruined through the scheme of the shrewd Wall street broker.

The long run this comedy has enjoyed in Chicago demonstrates the appreciation by the public of the intimate association of life characters, romance, sentiment and humor.

The adventures of Nat Dunson in his search for the fortune according to the rules are replete with comedy and humor, through which there is an an additional strain of the pathetic. A happy combination of tears that make you happy and laughter that invigorates. The honesty, big-hearted, but impovident druggist-inventor as played by Frank Bacon, is a pleasing foil for the ingenious, but genuinely generous young city chap, in the working out of the moral of real life that shows an intimate knowledge of his subject by the author, Winchell Smith.

The young Wall street broker, who has achieved fame and who prepares the fortune hunting scheme, is played by Shelly Hull, a well known former newspaper man and son of the late William Hull, a prominent editor and writer. The heiress is played by Isabel Fulwell; Alma delwin plays the druggist's daughter, who loves and is loved by the fortune hunter, and the other principal parts are taken by Kathryn Marshall, Francis X. Conlin and J. E. Miltern.

Chicago Opera House.

Not in years has a more delightful musical play been offered to the public than "The Gay Hussars" which is now the reigning attraction at the Chicago opera house and it is booked for an all summer run. The American public has always shown a fondness for the Hungarian music and never in the compass of an evening have so many rich tunes been subjected or blended. The piece is richly melodious, gaily tuneful and charmingly sentimental. The gowns worn by the women were brought by Mr. Savage from Vienna specially for the production while the Hussar uniforms worn by the men are exact duplicates of those of the Imperial army. The military flavor of "The Gay Hussars" is used merely as a background for the piece. It is a purely romantic story intermingled with side-splitting comedy. The author has introduced to the stage one of the most ludicrous characters of modern drama in a corporal who has been drafted into the army and knowing nothing of military tactics tries to command a troop.

Marvelous Discoveries

mark the wonderful progress of the age. Air flights on heavy machines, telegrams without wires, terrible war inventions to kill men, and that wonder of wonders—Dr. King's New Discovery—to save life when threatened by coughs, colds, la grippe, asthma, croup, bronchitis, bronchiages, hay fever and whooping cough or lung trouble. For all bronchial affections it has no equal. It relieves instantly. Its the surest cure. James M. Black of Asheville, N. C., R. R. No. 4, writes it cured him of severe lung cough after all other remedies failed. Sold and $1.00. A trial bottle free. Guaranteed by all Druggists.

Knowledge.

A Woman's Great Idea.

is how to make herself attractive. But, witness health, it is hard for her to be lovely in face and form, because a weak, sickly woman will be nervous and irritable. Constipation and Kidney poisons show in pimples, blotches, skin eruptions and a wretched complexion. But Electric Bitters always prove a godsend to women who want health, beauty and rhythm. They regulate Stomach, Liver and Kidneys, purify the blood; give strong nerves, bright eyes, pure complexion, and many a lovely complexion, good health. Try them. Sic. at all druggists.

Say! Mr. Farmer

HOW much of your corn rotted in the shock last year? How much time did you spend digging it out of the ice and snow? Also what have saved all the crop with half the labor and would have fed more than one third more cows. It is estimated that ten acres of average corn will feed twenty-three cows for six months. In every large dairy district the farmers are seeing the advantages of the silo. The round stave silo can be erected at a moderate cost. The Bushnell Hinge-Door Silo is made in one of the most up-to-date plants in the country, by the latest improved machinery. The mechanical construction is correct, and its record as a perfect silage keeper serves to substantiate its claim to having no equal—in a class by itself—the silo pre-eminent.
