MILLER BROS. FUN & FACTS

VOL IV Barrington, Illinois, November 12 Number 46

We know one Barrington man who has cleaned out his furnace already. And bought a new can for the ashes.

You don't have to be extravagant to buy the things you actually need. List your needs. Then buy to a plan. We can help you with such a plan, and there never was a better time to start than now.

Check up on your milk cans. Need some? We have some dandy ones here right now. That's the reason we mentioned it.

A certain drug dealer thinks sold ice cream had this sign in the window: "Take a Brick Home, You Might Have Company."

Ruth and Johnnie Side by side; Went out for an Auto ride. They hit a bump. Ruth hit a tree. And John kept going Ruth-less-ly.

You can't expect a pump to last always. Anyway, better come in and see the new line of Myers Hand and Electric Pumps. They're good for years of service.

Miller Bros. Edw. & Farn Imp. Barrington, Ill. Phone 225

A salesman in here said he noticed a sign on a Lake county road: "Go Slow—Road Under Destruction."

Want a new poultry waterer? We have some dandy ones here both in electric and lamp heated 5 and 10 gallon sizes.

One of the boys was telling the story the other day about a business man who wired: "Regret I cannot attend the banquet. This is the children's night out and I have to stay with the nurse."

Every dog has its day, and every cat has its night.

Model Home Demonstration Will Open Saturday, Nov. 14

An All-Modern home, demonstrating the application of a finance plan which provides for the inclusion of all major gas and electric appliances in the first or contract price of construction, is to be on public exhibition beginning Saturday in Jewel Park.

The home, located at Elm and Willow streets, Barrington, will remain open to visitors from Nov. 14 to 20, inclusive. The Jewel Tea Co., Inc., who built the home, is sponsoring the exhibition in cooperation with the Public Service Company.

During the exhibition there will be, with the exception of Mondays and Tuesdays, daily demonstrations in cooking and home management conducted by women from the home service department of the Public Service Company.

Jewel Park has extended an invitation to the public to pay a visit during the All-Modern home exhibit, according to Robert Hilton, assistant to the president of Jewel Tea Co., Inc.

Mr. Hilton said that despite the popular misbelief that Jewel Park is restricted to homes of employees of the tea company, the park is and always has been open to others who wish to build their homes there.

Radio Connections
The six room house is a model of convenience, comfort, and arrangement for economy of housework. It is electrically wired and provided with light and power sockets distributed to meet the approval of any housewife, regardless of how she might plan her furniture arrangement.

Floor lamps, desk lamps, or electrical appliances can be placed anywhere within the house and easily connected with the power supply. Three radio loud speaker sockets are distributed in the living room, kitchen, and master bedroom. This bedroom is equipped with a switch to turn on the coffee percolator in the kitchen. An automatic switch in a down stairs closet to turn on or off the closet light as the door is opened or closed, a switch which may be turned on as guests leave but will permit the light to glow until the guests are in their automobile, these are a few of the electrical wiring conveniences of the home.

All walls of the rooms are painted an ivory color. Paper can be added after the walls are seasoned beyond any probability of cracking.

The living room with south and east window exposure, is of comfortable long, but not too narrow dimensions with a fireplace at one end offset by built-in book shelves. The dining room is not too large and is conveniently located. The kitchen, with the latest in gas stove, electric refrigerator, electric clock, and a great deal of built-in cupboard space, is one of the gems of the house. A suction fan is neatly tucked away in an upper built-in cupboard space. With the opening of the door, the fan starts operating, drawing the air out of the kitchen through vents in the wall which open when the fan starts and close when it stops.

The inside heated garage, an extra wash room, the cheery breakfast nook are other features of the ground floor.

The second floor is divided into three bedrooms and bath room. Each of the bedrooms has a completely equipped closet, and two fairly roomy storage closets for trunks, out of use furniture, etc., are connected with two of the rooms. A built-in electric heater harmonizes nicely with the other bathroom fixtures.

State Income Tax Favored by Taxpayers Association Formed at Grayslake Nov. 7

The state income tax as a replacement tax and greater economy in government administration were emphasized at a meeting and organization of the Central Lake County Taxpayers association at Grayslake Community house November 7. The meeting was attended by approximately 60 persons.

 the season's hits when it played recently. Clark Rollen-has his review of the picture as follows:

If you have a good story with capable principals, and a comedian in Jimmy Du-say: "If you miss this one it's your own fault. Don't say we didn't warn you."

"Waterloo Bridge," the much-distinguished picturization of the sensational E. Sherwood drama of the same name, will come to The Catlow picture for next week, with H. Wood's latest "Find" Mae Kent Douglas; and Doris Lloyd in the principal role.

The Sherwood story depicts the ill-fated of a pretty chorus girl who destined to be a star, is gradually corrupted by a villain, eventually a boyish soldier literally runs into her during the course of a war raid, on London's well-known Waterloo bridge, and eventually falls madly in love with her.
 In situations in which the girl grows to love the boy and the scenes in which he takes her to his aristocratic parents are said to be the ultimate in drama.
 Next week Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday brings to The Catlow the football picture, there have been football pictures and there have been college pictures, but there never was either a football picture or a college picture which contained the genuine thrill, legitimate heart interest, honesty, goodness college atmosphere and wild enjoyment of "The Spirit of Notre Dame." Everyone who had a hand in making this picture put his extra heart in it because it was made as a memorial to the late Knute Rocke, the best loved and most famous character that American football has developed. Knute Rocke is the star and never since "All Quiet" has been a picture which so thoroughly used his remarkable talents.

In addition to a cast which includes Wm. Bakewell, J. Farrell McDonald, Sally Blane, Harry Harris and M. P. Doolittle, it has the tremendous support of the Four Horsemen in football, talking, acting, playing, and Frank Carideo, twice All-American quarterback, and fourteen famous Notre Dame football stars. For a real, genuine, thrilling, blood-tugging entertainment, "The Spirit of Notre Dame" ranks as one of the greatest pictures of 1931.

Rise of Workhouse Boy

 100 years ago a poverty child called John. To be born in a gloomy workhouse and reared there, as a child, unloved and unknown, was but a promise for a boy, but in later life he changed his name to Henry M. Stanley and was the man to found David Livingstone in Africa—in its day the greatest feat of the age. To become one of the world's greatest travelers that is worth a visit for his life and also for its own.

STATE NEWS

According to a prediction made by Director Henry H. Kohn of the state department of purchases and construction, the state's part of the Lakes to Gulf construction program will be finished for the opening of the Century of Progress Exposition, May 1, 1933.
 Bids on the project will be opened November 24 and, at Governor Louis L. Emmerson's request, water division engineers have arranged to place as much construction under contract as soon as possible in order to relieve the unemployment situation.

Ralph E. Bradford, director of the state department of conservation, recently announced that an income in excess of one million dollars was received by the department during the past biennium. This is a new high record and the vast increase is attributed to the fact that hunting licenses and licenses to fish with hook and line have grown in popularity.
 Director Bradford stated that the collections from the sportsmen of the state, now in excess of $500,000 per year, finance the entire cost of conducting the fish and game propagation and protection service of the state.

State highway police, under the supervision of Chief Walter L. Moody, have made 29,704 arrests since the first of 1930. Fines and costs assessed by the local courts, as the result of these cases, totaled $445,008.14, according to a recent tabulation made in the highway division office. The report reveals that the crime of drinking while intoxicated brought the highest fines and costs—a total of 764 arrests and fines and costs amounting to $79,- 010.53 resulting from that cause.

Bids on construction of a sewage treatment plant at the Vandavia state penal farm will be received Tuesday, Nov. 10, at the state architect's office.
 Other proposals will include: Power house addition to Research and Education hospital, Chicago; alterations to main building at the Northern Illinois State Teachers' college, De-Kalb; repairs to the One Hundred Twenty-second field artillery armory at Chicago, and the Kewanee armory.

In a recent address, Dr. G. L. Dungan of the University of Illinois, declared that increased yields ranging from three to six bushels per acre result from careful selection and culling of seed corn. On the test plot of C.
 E. Canterbury, Cantrall, utility dent, a special grade of corn, made the highest yield.

The standardization committee recently appointed by Governor Louis L. Emmerson was called into conference on Nov. 3, by Director Rodney H. Brandon of the state department of public welfare. The commission discussed plans for the production of four classes of staple commodities—auto license tags and road signs, steel furniture, knitted underwear and soap in accordance with the law which provides for the use, by Illinois and other governmental bodies, of the products of prison industries.

With an infant mortality rate 14 per cent lower than that of the nation as a whole, Illinois now ranks eighth among the states. In only seven other states was the rate lower than that of Illinois, and none of the seven have had as great a population as Illinois.
 For each 1,000 births in Illinois last year, there were 56 deaths, among infants. This was a decline of 36 per cent when compared with 1920.

Indications are that Judge Truman Snell, who is running for the Democratic nomination for Attorney General of the State of Illinois, will have no opposition in the primary down-state. Judge Snell is one of the outstanding attorneys of southern Illinois and has a host of friends among the lawyers and the Isaak Walton League. He is also a very prominent Elk.

According to a recent report of the state department of public health, whooping cough is the most prevalent epidemic disease at this time in Illinois. Reports average about 220 new cases weekly. Pneumonia is beginning to manifest the seasonal increase with about 125 new cases per week, while typhoid is on the downward trend.

Emphasizing the importance of more friendliness and cooperation between the United States and Canada, Chester D. Pugsley of Peckskill, N.
 Y., recently announced that he had endowed the MacMurray College Institute on Pan-American Affairs for two more years. The third annual institute was held at Jacksonville on Oct. 27.

According to a recent bulletin from Chief of State Police Walter L.
 Moody, owners and drivers of trucks that, with or without trailers, exceed 20 feet in length, are urged to see that the markers and reflectors that the law demands are properly installed.

According to a recent opinion of Attorney General Oscar E. Carlstrom, a county board has no authority to settle with a former county treasurer and his bondsmen for less than the full amount of county funds tied up by reason of a bank failure. The opinion pointed out that the county is protected by the treasurer's bond, and the board has no authority to waive

Two Illinois persons have been cited by the Carnegie Hero fund commission to receive awards for outstanding feats of bravery. They are: Eugene Robert Osting, 12-year-old school boy of Rockford, who saved his companion from drowning; Oliver Diehl, 60, a truckman, Morrison, who saved Henry B. Elmendorf from being killed by a train.

A recent report of the Illinois Commerce commission showed that formal and informal proceedings instituted in the electric utility field by the commission, caused reductions in rates charged by twenty of the thirty-nine utility companies rendering service in Illinois. These twenty utilities, the report stated, served approximately 90 per cent of all users of electricity in the state.

A Man's Place in the World

There are two kinds of energy in this world—energy which comes of motion and energy which belongs to position.
 In youth every man can so direct his activity that he will have attained a substantial position during his prime of life. The sole requirement is that he shall not waste energy—nor throw away its results. The product of his youthful surplus energy should be saved that he may possess the means to help him to position. Save part of

But With Wives It's Very Different

By JANE OSBORN

HILDA HOPE, Kate Walters, Bob Hilton and Jim Dutton constituted the "Eastern office" of Barrington. This quartet, besides a couple of ever-varying office boys and two or three very young and inexperienced stenographers, was all there was to the "Eastern office."

At thirty or thereabouts Hilda and Kate regarded themselves and generally were regarded as perfectly safe spinsters. "And of course no one could ever take a too personal interest in men like Bob and Jim," Hilda and Kate told each other.

Then came Peter Yarmouth from London. For the first week or so his presence made little difference, Hilda and Kate assured each other that he was a "perfect lamb" and let it go at that.

One dreary day in March Peter came to drop in the private office of Hilda Hope on some business deal. Hilda Hope was already on the phone. The gentle hissing of a tea kettle over an alcohol lamp attracted her attention. His gray eyes glistened. The very sound of a steaming kettle suggested tea—and afternoon tea spelled comfort and content to this son of Britain.

Having finished perfunctory business Peter started toward the door. "I'll leave you ladies to your tea," he commented throatily.

The door closed. "Should we have asked him?" asked Hilda.

"Certainly not," insisted Kate. "If we had him, then we would have to have Jim, and if Bob found out that he and Jim were drinking tea in here then he'd have been sore. It would have meant tea for five. They never make tea for us."

"But I think he was offended," said Hilda. "You know they always have it in offices in London." "Have we got three cups and saucers?" asked Kate weakening.

"Counting the one without a handle," said Hilda. "I know for a fact that Bob's not."

"And Jim's seeing a terribly important customer from South America," countered Kate. "We might miss this time."

So it was that Peter Yarmouth presently received an invitation to tea in Kate's room. During his brief stay he was occupying a bit of a room beside that of Bob. "I really can't see for the life of me why you don't do this every afternoon," said Peter, as he regarded his cup of amber infusion contentedly before tasting it. "We always do in London, and 'pon my word, we get every bit as much done in a day."

"All very true and pretty," said Hilda, stirring her own tea with a steel paper cutter. "But who washes the tea cups?"

"The girls, of course," said Peter. "In my own office my private secretary does it—why not?"

"Well, you needn't think that our girls here would wash dishes in the office. They'd leave first," said Kate. "We actually did try it here a few years ago. Really the girls wouldn't do it. They thought it was menial—"

"But don't you see," Peter said turning to Hilda, the younger of the two women—Hilda, whose slender features seemed to Peter so pre-eminently feminine, "don't you feel that making tea and even cleaning up is something that is a woman's privilege to attend to? I'd say it really is a privilege. Why, at home I never think about the cups and saucers. My secretary attends to that, and I get it all neat and tidy every afternoon."

Hilda found herself wondering about that secretary of his. It seemed to her he had brought her into the conversation an unnecessary number of times.

Peter had arranged with Hilda to go to lunch with him the following day. When one o'clock arrived Peter was ready in Hilda's office waiting.

"Perhaps, though, you'd rather not go," he said.

Hilda looked amazed. It seemed now as if this robust young Englishman looked almost lost. Something was clearly disturbing him. "Why, Peter Yarmouth," she asked, "using his first name quite as she had always used that of Bob or Jim, 'have you offended you?'"

"No," said Peter, standing there before Hilda's desk. "Only I'm afraid I don't make you out. Hilda, I always thought a woman regarded it no honor to attend to those things. I thought that when a woman married she looked upon what she had to do to her home as not so much menial work."

"When she married," said Hilda. "That's very different."

"Then you wouldn't think it was beneath a woman's dignity to wash tea cups or breakfast cups, for instance, for her own husband—that is, of course, I guess you know what I'm driving at—"

"Peter Yarmouth, I do believe you've fallen in love with an American girl and what we said yesterday about the tea cups has begun to worry you—"

"Peter Yarmouth," she said, "you don't mean—me? Why bless you, dear old heart, I'd wash tea cups for you and—"

"And I'd black boots for you," gasped Peter as Kate Walters peeped at the door.

The football season in Arlington Heights when the team played around over a field with rain and prepared to make a score. The Arlington Heights team was able to complete only one play in the first half. The Red Kollins of Heights had a punt which was perfectly dry. The Arlington Heights team was in a scoring position on several occasions. Once they had a lead of 14-0. The Arlington Heights team had a lead of 14-0. The Arlington Heights team had a lead of 14-0.

Greatest of Women Bowlers Engaged One-Day Exhibition

Mrs. Floretta D. McCutcheon, world's greatest woman bowler, will appear in an instruction and exhibition program on the new Barrington Recreation alleys next Monday, Nov. 15.

Although Mrs. McCutcheon has been bowling for only six years, she has become recognized as the queen of bowling through the marvelous records which she has made during that time. With less than two years experience she defeated Jimmy Smith, then the greatest man bowler, 704 to 678, in a special match at Denver, Colo., on Dec. 18, 1927. This was the highest score ever rolled against him by either man or woman on all his tours.

She reached even greater heights on her tour last season when she made a record breaking average of 200 and a fraction for 1,015 games in 96 cities. On this tour she rolled her fourth perfect game of 300 on new alleys at Aurora, Ill., in a three-game series of 813. Shortly after at Sturgeon Bay, Wis., she amassed a grand average of 246 in 11 games for a world's record for women. A month later she rolled a world's record three-game total of 832 with successive games of 278, 290, 255 on alleys less than a year old at Morris, Minn.

Included in Mrs. McCutcheon's program will be a series of group instruction classes in which beginning women bowlers will be taught the fundamentals of bowling and the more experienced bowlers will have an opportunity to receive helpful suggestions that will improve their game. Although this instruction will be the feature of the program, Mrs. McCutcheon will play exhibition matches against local bowlers. Her opponents have not yet been selected.

Fishing Superstition
If a Buckle fisherman's nets become tangled at sea he spat upon a piece of glass and threw it overboard. This mysterious act was supposed to untangle the line, writes Gerald Griffin in an article on Scottish fishermen and their superstitions, in the Baltimore Sun. The Nafrin fisherman held it unlucky to shoot nets on the port side, to taste any food before fish were caught, to fall to draw blood from the first fish caught. No fisherman of Morayshire would carry a parcel for a friend or go to sea before blood had been shed, although to accomplish the latter very often a fight had been started. The fisherman's wife would not comb her hair after sunset while her "guid man" was at sea.

Oleous District
Gargonzia is the center town of cheese-making in Lombardy. The cheese takes its name from the place—not the other way round.

3 RULES big help to BOWELS

What a joy to have the bowels move like clockwork every day! It's easy, if you mind these simple rules of a famous old doctor:

1. Drink a big tumblerful of water before breakfast, and several times a day.
2. Get plenty of outdoor exercise without unduly fatiguing yourself.
3. Try for a bowel movement at exactly the same hour every day.

Everyone's bowels need help at times, but the thing to use is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. You'll get a thorough cleaning-out, and it won't leave your insides weak and watery. This family doctor's prescription is just fresh laxative herbs, pure pepsin, and other helpful ingredients that couldn't hurt a child. But how it wakes up those lazy bowels! How good you feel with your system rid of all that poisonous matter.
