BARRINGTON REVIEW

BARRINGTON, ILLINOIS, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 10, 1931

$2.50 A YEAR IN ADVANCE. SINGLE COPIES, FIVE CENTS

Charts Distributed Showing 413 Per Cent Gain in Enrollment of Barrington Senior High School

An interesting chart has been prepared by the Barrington high school showing the growth of the school from a unit with 45 pupils enrolled in 1910 to a 231 pupil institution at the present time.

This chart on one page reveals that the Barrington senior high school had 45 pupils enrolled in 1910, 84 pupils in 1920, 186 enrolled in 1930, and 231 at the present time, a 413 per cent increase in 21 years.

A similar chart for the entire United States reveals that 1,000,000 pupils were enrolled in senior high schools in 1910, 2,000,000 in 1920, 5,000,000 in 1930. In Barrington as well as in the rest of the country the number of pupils attending high school is increasing much more rapidly than the population of the country is growing. This means that a much larger percentage of the youth of today is seeking education (beyond grammar school) than was the case 20 years ago or even ten years ago.

No figures are on hand for the school enrollment over the country, but it is believed that high schools all over the United States are crowded. Scarcity of employment is forcing many boys and girls into the school room who might have drifted into jobs.

The large number of pupils enrolled in Barrington can be well taken care of, but may necessitate a faculty increase next year, Erman S. Smith, superintendent said. The only problem relative to the school building that the board of education will be faced with during the coming year is that of installing a new heating unit. The present boilers are inadequate for the load and cannot be insured beyond the present school term, Mr. Smith said.

Clothing Donations for Relief Work May Be Left at Miller Brothers Store

The Barrington Relief committee is ready to accept donations of old or discarded clothing to be used in relief work.

Mrs. Inez Brown, Legion Auxiliary representative on the committee, reported that arrangements have been made to receive the clothing donations at Miller Brothers Hardware and Implement store. All persons having clothes to donate can take them to the store where they will be collected ready to be sent to a dry cleaning establishment.

After being dry cleaned, the clothes will be sorted and put away in the rooms above the Public Service Co. offices from where they will be distributed to the needy.

Persons needing garments, blankets, etc., should get in touch with one of the members of the Relief committee, Mrs. Brown said. The committee includes H. R. Smith, M. J. Schaefer, Eldon Gieske, D. J. Hoffman, Mrs.
A. L. Robertson, Rev. H. E. Koenig, and Mrs. Brown.

George Washington Pictures Received by Local School

The Barrington public school has received a number of colored portrait posters of George Washington to be hung on the walls of school rooms, one for each room in the building, according to Congressman Charles E.
Chittenden of Evanston, who is sending out the portrait pictures to all schools in the old Tenth district in cooperation with the United States Bicentennial Commission at Washington, D. C.

These are sent out to the schools to stimulate interest in the coming nine months celebration of the two hundredth anniversary of the birth of the first president.

The portrait pictures are reproductions of the famous Gilbert Stuart Athenaeum painting and are 32 inches by 28 inches in size.

Second and Third Babies of November on Same Day

Although the stock race for First Baby of the Month in Barrington district was not even close for the November winner, second and third place babies arrived in a close finish on the same day.

Marjorie Ann Whittemore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Whittemore of Cuba township, was the second baby of the month with birth registered as 8:45 a. m., Sunday, Nov. 15. To young Miss Whittemore is due a gift from the Plague Home Furnishing Co. and a gift of 50 birth announcements from The Review.

James Robert Reardon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry T. Reardon of Cuba township, was born at 10:30 p. m.
Sunday, Nov. 15. Master Reardon is also entitled to 50 birth announcements from The Review.

Local Committee Lets Contract for Diamond Lake-Mundelein Road

H. D. Kelsey returned Wednesday from Springfield, where he attended a meeting of the Lake county board of supervisors, road and bridge committee and state highway officials regarding road work in the county.

The road and bridge committee late last week let a contract to the McCarthy Construction Co. for paving the Diamond Lake-Mundelein road. The contract, which was let at $96,000 covers paving of slightly more than five miles of county road. Work preparatory to paving will be done this fall if weather permits. The actual paving will be started next spring.

The road and bridge committee consists of Frank Stanton, Ed. Brown, Harry Stratton, James O'Connor, William Roseng, and H. D. Kelsey.

This is in the form of a fall opening sale of seasonable goods.

Local Teacher Is Seriously Hurt in Automobile Crash

Miss Esther Strauss Injured in Head-on Collision on Main Street

Miss Esther Strauss of the high school faculty was seriously injured Friday evening at about 9 o'clock when the car in which she was riding was struck in a head-on collision near the corner of Main and Hough streets by a machine driven by Chester Long of Barrington.

Miss Maude Strauss, a sister of Miss Esther, from Hinckley, had driven to Barrington Friday to spend Saturday and Sunday with her sister.
The two young women in a Chevrolet coupe were returning from the Methodist church and were in front of the Hough, 110 W. Main street, when the driver saw a car coming straight toward them from the west.

She applied the brakes, she later reported, and the driver of the approaching car swung his machine toward the right side of the street, it was reported, but a collision could not be avoided. The cars crashed head-on with contact between the left front of the machines. Miss Esther Strauss struck the windshield with such force that her head went through the glass. The coupe was forced back about 40 feet where it banged against a post in front of the Keystone service station.

First aid was given the injured people at the service station and later they were taken to a local doctor's office.

Five stitches were necessary on Miss Esther Strauss' forehead and one stitch in each eyelid. She received a severe shock in the scalp, is suffering from a severe shock and is in a weakened condition. The sister who was driving was badly bruised and is suffering from shock. She was able to return to Hinckley Sunday.

Mail Christmas Packages Early, Postmaster Says

Christmas is not very far off in spite of the Indian summer weather, and the United States mail will soon be taking on the annual holiday load of packages and Christmas cards.

A plea to mail packages early in order to insure delivery before the holidays has been sent out by E. J.
Langendorf, local postmaster. Mr.
Langendorf offers the following suggestions:

"Mail early for delivery before Christmas Day, on which there will be no mail delivery. Post offices will make every effort to handle the Christmas mails without congestion and delay, but owing to the enormous volume this can be done only with cooperation of the public.

"Before preparing your Christmas packages read suggestions contained in bulletin posted in the lobby of the local post office.

"Insure or register valuable mail, use strong paper and heavy twine and securely wrap all parcels. Mark all parcels fragile that contain articles, easily broken.

"Parcels for delivery in foreign countries should be mailed in November and should be packed most carefully, owing to the long sea travel involved.

"There will be no regular deliveries or window service on Christmas Day and the public is therefore urged to mail sufficiently early to insure delivery before Christmas Day, to prevent the last minute jam and not delivered until after Christmas.

"The use of a special delivery stamp will insure delivery on Christmas Day if mailed at the proper time—only special delivery mail will be delivered on Christmas Day."

Hunter Shoots Red Fox South of Barrington

A sleek specimen of red fox, measuring five feet from nose to the tip of his tail was shot on the old Redhan farm, south of Barrington, Friday morning, by Ralph "Happy" Topple, who was hunting pheasants in a field of the farm.

Mr. Topple, who was accompanied by Leslie Rieke, was stalking through a field heavy with growth, when the fox ran out in front of him.

The hunter plans to have the pet mounted.

Christmas Boxes Sent By St. Paul's Church

Members of St. Paul's Evangelical Sunday school sent two Christmas boxes to a mission station in Honduras this week.

Each class had a part in this work.
One class of girls sent 24 dresses for girls from 10 to 15 years of age.
One large box was sent also to a mission station at Bixol, Miss.

The congregation of St. Paul's enjoyed a musical program Sunday evening given by the Elmhurst Girls' Glee club and the Men's quartet. This program was planned and sponsored by the young people of the church.

Prizes Offered for Best Outdoor Lighting Homes of the community will be gaily offset by colored ornamental Christmas lights shining on small spruce, pine, and cedar trees or hanging in artistic clusters in the front yards this year if the Lions club Outdoor Lighting contest succeeds in bringing out the Christmas spirit that is expected.

The club members voted at Monday night's meeting to award two prizes, one for the best outdoor lighting effect in Barrington and the other for the most artistic store window display. The nature of the prizes will be decided later.

For next holiday seasons the community has been attractively decorated. It is not believed that the community will fail this year with the special incentive for artistic store windows and gaily lighted front yards.

Final Decision Is Expected Soon on Lake Zurich Case

Lake Zurich's title case will be definitely decided months before another summer outing season rolls around, according to indications at the county court house at Waukegan. After three years of court controversy over the ownership of the lake, it is expected that the body of water will be declared navigable and turned over to the state or declared private property and the claimants to the title will be given full ownership and control.
Counsel for Mrs. Marguerite Peare George Peare and August Froelich appeared before Judge Ralph J. Dady Friday and petitioned for an extension of time in which to plead against State's Attorney A. J. Smith's bill.

Suit against the Peares and Froelich was first brought before Judge Edward D. Shurtleff by outagers and summer residents at the lake in 1929.
The outagers contended that the Peares and Froelich could not keep them from swimming, boating and fishing in the lake.

In January Term
Arguments were heard by a master-in-chancery who ruled in favor of the Peares and Froelich. Then several court actions resulted in what were considered favorable decisions for the claimants to the lake.

Col. Smith, acting for the people of the county, then filed suit, claiming that the lake was navigable and therefore belonged to the state and not to private owners.

It was to plead against this complaint that counsel for the Peares and Froelich, asked an extension of time to plead. Judge Dady granted a 20-day period.

The case will probably be up before Judge Shurtleff or Judge Arthur E.
Fisher during the January term of court.

Review A Day Ahead Next Week, News and Advertising in Early

Because the regular press day of The Review would fall on Thanksgiving Day next week, a legal holiday, the newspaper will go to press Wednesday afternoon.

This will be early enough for distribution at the post office window Thursday morning.

In order to go to press a day early, the staff will need the cooperation of advertising patrons and persons handling in regular news items, church and club notes, and classified advertising. All correspondence and church notes should be turned in not later than Monday afternoon. Classified advertising should be in not later than Tuesday evening, and display advertising Monday and Tuesday.

The staff thanks the public in advance for the cooperation.

Most of Barrington's stores will be closed on Thanksgiving Day.

Want Old Toys for Children of War Vets at Normal Home

An opportunity for little tots to help others, for boys and girls of one figure ages to make other little boys and girls happy, has been offered by the Barrington post of the American Legion which has sent out a call to Barrington children for used and broken toys for the Orphan Home youngsters at Normal.

The Legion has made arrangements with Miller Bros. store to accept all broken or second hand toys which Barrington children want to give.
These toys will be picked up by the Legionnaires, who, with the help of Boy Scouts will repair and fix up the toys for shipment to Normal.
When the collection of made-over playthings is ready, it will be sent as 27 Hunters Plead Guilty to Charge of Trespassing

Arrested Near Barrington Each Pays Fine of $15 and Court Costs

The Barrington district is not "hunters' paradise" with 90 per cent of the rural land posted against hunting and trespassing and with a fe-active deputy sheriffs and constables roaming through the territory. The fact has been forcefully taught to a gressive nimble in the last two weeks.

Twenty-seven arrests have been made from Elgin, Chicago, De Plaines, and the North Shore communities, who were found trespassing on posted property in Barrington and Cuba townships. The arrests have been brought before Barrington justices to stand on the charge of trespassing on posted property without a permit, and have paid fines of $15 each for a total of $405 in addition to their court costs.

This is a high price for game at very few of the hunters were in possession of birds when arrested. They were, however, trespassing on private property and refusing to respect the rights of property owners by observing the conspicuous warning signs.

"Additional officers could be used," said Matthew Depek, constable, "to patrol the territory while those of hand are attending court hearings.
There has been a deluge of trespassers who might have been apprehended."

Among the hunters who have been arrested near Barrington and fined $15 each are:

From Chicago—Charles Danegger, Rudolph Nicoletti, Andrew Ekkit, Thomas Compagnis, A. B. Schaefer, Andrew Johnson, H. C. Schaefer, Carroll, Louis Brown, Anthony De Carl, E. Egido De Carl, Anthony Wright, L. P. Holton.

From Elgin—Edwin Jacobson, Paul Wingberg, and Ralph Boyer.
From Des Plaines—Herbert Boy-lens.

From Highland Park—D. Onder-dank, A. E. Mory, Harry Beiske.

Two Misdemeanor Charges Against Long Following Accident on Main Street

"Reckless driving" and "trumping away from the scene of an accident" were the two misdemeanor charges brought against Chester Long of Barrington in the court of Harry Hammond, justice of the peace, Saturday morning in connection with the automobile accident Friday night in which automobile driven by himself and by Miss Maude Strauss of Hinckley collided on West Main street.

The defendant was driving a car east on Main street when the accident occurred and was driving on the left side of the street, according to the complaint. Following the collision, which bumped a large metal post and caused the occupants to be hurt, the defendant pulled away from the scene without stopping to ascertain what damage had been done, the complaint states further.

Mr. Long appeared in Justice Hammond's court Saturday morning. The charges against him were filed, trial was set for Saturday, Nov. 21, and his appearance bond was fixed at $1,000. He furnished the bond.

What was it the governor of North Carolina said to the governor of South Carolina?

It's A Long Time Between Drinks, Legion Men Find

What was it the governor of North Carolina said to the governor of South Carolina?

However, in this case the governor appeared to be very hesitant in expressing his wish and as a result it was a long time between

It all happened at the Armistice Day party of the legion post in Liber-tyville.

Throats dry from a steady flow of conversation on the happenings in those stirring days of 1918 were in need of wetting. Eyes of wet searched the room for promised moisture.
They didn't like to say anything about it. Still there is a limit to everything.

Finally husky voices began to form inquiries. An investigation disclosed that a truck containing several barrels of beer had been destined for the party had broken down and was stalled alongside of the road near Waukegan.
A rescue party was hastily formed, the truck towed to Libertyville but the legionnaires were due to meet more delay. Finding the street blocked in the vicinity of the hall they were forced to roll the barrels down the street.

But the worries of the thirsty ones was not yet at an end. There was a little thing about the lack of a beer pump. The party was forced to wait for another hour until one could be obtained at Graylake. Eventually however, pipes were moistened and memories revived.—Waukegan Times.

E. J. & E. Plans Big Harbor at Waukegan

Plans for an extensive water and rail shipping terminal point in connection with the Waukegan harbor, to cost several millions of dollars, has been unfolded to city officials, by A.
E. Rogers, president of the Elgin, Joliet and Eastern railroad, it was learned today.

The plan when carried out will make the Waukegan harbor one of the largest and likewise one of the most important on the Great Lakes.
Mr. Rogers states that the great development of the Waukegan harbor is assured and that it is included in the program of improvement of the property of the railroad company slated within the next few years.

The railroad company in preparing for the construction of the great rail and water shipping terminal is arranging for future demands that will be made upon the railroad in the transfer of commodities shipped in by boat through the waterways now being completed and destined for points on the many railroads which their railroad, the outer Belt line of Chicago intercepts.

Attorney Wants to Test Illinois Speed Laws

Anxious to start a test suit, Attorney J. A. Miller appeared at the police station in Waukegan in search of a defendant. None was to be found.

"The principle in the matter of speeding arrests and fines should be thoroughly tested," the attorney said.
"If a man is found to be speeding appeal his fine through to the state supreme court, the present ambiguous speeding law would be re-written to conform with the present day needs and would provide a uniform speed law."

Yesterday morning, Attorney Miller threw a bombshell into police practice by announcing that, under the state law, a person could not be arrested on charges of speeding unless evidence could be found that he was endangering the life or limb of other persons.
Under this interpretation, an automobile could be driven at 50 miles an hour on a clear highway with no violation of the law. At the same time, a speed of even three or four miles an hour would be against the law when the streets were crowded with pedestrians.

The Illinois Master Plumbers association will hold its fortieth annual convention in Springfield, Jan. 19, 20, and 21, 1932.

Stock Reducing SALE

Super Buys Throughout the Store

Price alone tells only half the story. Quality foods of the kind always found at this store make up the other half of an economical saving.

It is regrettable, from our point of view, that we must announce a sale of this kind.
Circumstances make it imperative. Our stock at present is much too large. It must be reduced, and if, after scanning over the following specials, you are not convinced of their real, honest values, come in anyway, make your comparisons with competitive prices and see for yourself. Reduced prices prevail throughout the entire store.

Sale Begins Friday, Nov. 20, and Continues Through Saturday, Nov. 28

know of this work to attend the next meeting. The clinic meets at the school building. A local doctor and a registered nurse are in attendance.

The work of the school welfare committee during peace week is gratefully acknowledged by the club. No project is nearer the hearts of women than that of instilling into everyone, young and old, the love of peace and the desire to free the world forever from the barbarity and waste of war. This same committee with Mrs. Walter Sears as its chairman, has chosen Girl Scout work for its next undertaking. A plan of action has not as yet been made but it is hoped that by the beginning of 1932 the work will be well underway. Parents of young daughters, who have long been hoping for the establishment of a troop in Barrington, will welcome this news of a beginning and look forward with interest to any further developments of the idea.

THANKSGIVING DAY

Thanksgiving Day, as we know it, is a distinctively American institution, although festivals of similar import may be traced back many hundreds of years. The Hebrew Feast of the Tabernacles, the Greek Thesmophoria, the Roman Cerealia and the English Harvest Home all appear to have had something in common with our national holiday.

Immediately after the first harvest of the Pilgrims in 1621 Thanksgiving was first observed in America. Similar observances were instituted by other colonies—by Massachusetts in 1630, by Connecticut in 1636, and by New Netherlands in 1644. During the Revolution several Thanksgiving Days were appointed by the Continental Congress.

President George Washington designated November 26, 1789, as "a day of public thanksgiving and prayer," and in 1795 he made a similar designation. President Madison appointed a day of thanksgiving at the close of the War of 1812. Various states observed the day irregularly during succeeding years, but it was not until 1864 that it became a fixed, annual event.

In that year President Lincoln appointed the fourth Thursday of November as a day of national Thanksgiving by official proclamation, and the example thus set has been followed by all the succeeding Presidents.

Washington's original Thanksgiving proclamation is preserved in the Library of Congress. The precious document was lost for more than 100 years, until it was discovered among Washington manuscripts being auctioned in New York in 1921, when it was purchased for $300 and restored to the government activities.

INNOCENT MEN LYNCHED

At least two of the 21 persons lynched last year were innocent of any crime, and 11 others were possibly so, according to a commission which has studied each of the cases in which death was inflicted by mobs. George Fort Milton, editor of the Chattanooga News, is chairman of the commission, whose principal conclusions are summarized as follows:

"There is real doubt of the guilt of at least half the victims of mob violence; less than one-fourth of persons lynched since 1890 have been accused of assaults upon white women; mob leaders can be identified without difficulty, but are seldom indicted.

Mentioning specifically some of the lynchings last year, the commission said: "One man was lynched solely because he had offended political opponents, and another to prevent his appearance in a serious court case against white men. In five cases it was not clear that the mobs got the guilty persons, and in six there was doubt as to the truth of the charges against the men lynched."

It is encouraging to note the marked decrease in lynchings in recent years, however, as compared with the frightful prevalence of mob violence in the past. Lynching reached its height in 1892, when 255 persons were killed by mobs. Since then it has steadily decreased, the average for the past six years being 17 a year, the lowest number being 10 in 1929.

Not until we reduce the lynching record to zero can we lay claim to being an entirely civilized people.

The Way of Life

By BRUCE BARTON

A QUICK MILLENNIUM

When I was in London I read an interesting, and rather pathetic, newspaper article by the "baby member" of Parliament. His name is Frank Owen.

He recalled his maiden speech in which he proclaimed: "High hopes brought this Parliament into being. We will make it a Parliament of high endeavor."

He had been full of fine plans in those days. For one thing, the timber men were to have higher wages. "We got them another 15.6d a week," he says, "and then the State sank some of them."

"We looked forward to the debates on unemployment and agriculture and the mines," he adds, "and spoke from the back benches when the heavy guns were in dinner."

He was twenty-three in those days. Now he is twenty-five, and wiser. His hopes have faded. He thought he was going to play a large part in changing England and the Empire. Instead of this he is "spending his time answering letters issued by organizations ordering us

(a) to vote for humane slaughter of beasts (b) to vote against it.

(a) to open cinemas on Sunday (b) to close them. (a) to prohibit kveestakes (b) to extend them.

He has about reached the conclusion that all effort is futile, and that the world is on its way to perdition.

Some of us who are older can tell him from our own experience that he is now at the age of greatest discouragement. We, too, came into life full of determination to set things right instantly. We were frankly critical of the bungling of our predecessors. There should be no more mistakes and no delay!

In a couple of years we, too, were in the depths of despair, deeper depths than we have ever been in since. It is not clear to any human mind just what is the whole purpose and plan of human life. But two things are reasonably apparent.

First, it does not seem to be any part of the program to have the millennium come quickly or easily. Gain is won only as a result of sweat and blood, and time.

Second, as we get older we become more clearly how destructive it would be if all the good ideas of youth were allowed to become immediately effective. The first two Great Reforms in whose service I myself labored were both successful. I think now that both were bad mistakes.

So in our later years we give up the idea of a quick millennium. Some of us do it in deep discouragement. Others say: "I cannot lick the world, but there is one part of it I can lick, namely, myself. I'll see what I can do with that."

It's a good sporting proposition. And who knows? Maybe the spread of that simple idea is the real plan.

CHILDREN ON WHEELS

The chance of an automobile accident is much greater if the driver is under twenty than when he or she is over thirty, according to statistics compiled by one of the large accident insurance companies. The records of some four million licensed automobile drivers were examined and it was found that by far the highest percentage of accidents occurred when children under age were driving a car.

There are still a good many states and communities where very little or no inquiry is made into the qualifications of anyone who wants to drive a car. In the majority of the states today licenses are required, but the examinations and driving tests vary. And there are still a great many places in which any child who is physically able to hang on to the steering wheel and reach the pedals is allowed to drive.

Of course, the earlier in life one learns to drive, the more confidence the motorist acquires and the better he or she is likely to be as time goes on. But we think there is a great deal of wisdom in the law which obtains in some states, under which no one under eighteen may be licensed to drive, and then only after a severe road test of ability.

Wandering
From This to That

Cure Radio Fading

A cure for fading radio signals, which disturb television, broadcasting and communication reception, is being sought by federal scientists who have launched a cooperative campaign to eliminate this "plague" of radio, according to oral statements Nov. 11 at the bureau of standards, the naval research laboratory, and the federal radio commission. Additional information furnished follows:

Dr. John H. Dellinger, in charge of the radio division of the bureau of standards has been conducting experiments along this line for the last year. He has reported his discoveries to the naval research laboratory, which is now planning a polar expedition to study the same problem in the far North.

The whole problem hinges on variations of what is known as the "heavily-laden" layer, a stratum of ionized gaseous atmosphere surrounding the earth, at a distance varying from 70 to 200 miles from the earth's surface.

The distance of the layer from the earth varies daily and seasonally. It is low during the day, high at night; low during the summer, high during winter. This variation accounts for the fact that radio reception is better at night than during the day; better in winter than in summer. Especially does this variation influence long-distance reception. When the layer is high, distant stations are received better and more clearly than when it is low.

Fading is caused by variation in position of this layer, or if there are two layers, of the refracting layer. When a sky wave is refracted back to the earth "out of phase" with a ground wave from the same transmitter, it causes interference. Waves are said to be "out of phase" when the time required for transmission of one wave causes the other wave to arrive a fraction of a second before or after the first.

It is to determine how transmitters may overcome the influences of the variations of the refracting layer that Federal scientists are experimenting. Should they evolve some method whereby transmission might be adjusted to the height of the layer, fading out "out of phase" reception, causing interference, might be eliminated.

Chicago Civic Opera

Masse's Herodias, one of the revivals announced for the current season by the Chicago Civic Opera, comes to production to feature the fourth week of the season. The work will be presented with Mary McCormack as Salome, Maria Olszewska as Herodias, Rene Maizon as John the Baptist, John Charles Thomas as Herod and Chase Barones as Phaul.

The opera will be presented for the first time on Thanksgiving night. Another first performance of the season will be Verdi's La Traviata, to be given for the Saturday night, Nov. 28, popular-priced performance. Claudia Muzio will present her incomparable characterization of the role of Violetta, with Charles Hackett as Alfredo and Augusto Benf as the father.

The fourth week of opera opens Monday evening, Nov. 23, with the season's second performance of Samson and Delilah. Madame Maria Olszewska will be singing the role of Delilah for the first time in America. Otherwise, the cast is unchanged to include Charles Marshall as Samson, Cesare Formichi as the High Priest of Dagon, Chase Barones as the Old Hebrew and Sergio Benoni as Abimelech. Emil Cooper will conduct.

On Tuesday evening will be given La Boheme with Claudia Muzio as Mimì, Marie Buddy as Musette, Jan Kiepura as Rudolph, Augusto Benf as Marcel, Virgilio Lazzari as Colline and Salvatore Baccaloni as Schaunard.

The performance for Wednesday evening will be Tristan and Isolde with Frida Leider as Isolde, Maria Olszewska as Brangäne, Paul Alt-house as Tristan, Rudolf Bockelmann as Kurwenal and Alexander Kipnis as King Marke.

The matinee bill for Saturday, Nov. 28, will be the season's third performance of Mozart's The Magic Flute. The cast includes Noel Eagle, Maria Rajski, Frida Leider, Thelma Votipka, Helen Freund, Leola Turner, Maria Olszewska, Helen Ornstein, Paolo Marion, Theodore Ritch, Octavia Dun, Giuseppe Vavadore, Rudolf Bockelmann, Eduard Habich, Alexander Kipnis, Edouard Cotreuil and Antonio Nicollet.

Airplanes Mosquito Carriers

In its first authentic investigation of the possible danger of the airplane as a carrier of disease-spreading mosquitoes, the public health service has determined that the facility with which planes can be freed from the insects at ports of departure should not prevent any obstacle from this source to the progress of international air traffic, according to a report made public by the Service Nov. 11.

How to play Bridge AUCTION and CONTRACT by Wynne Ferguson Author of "PRACTICAL AUCTION BRIDGE"

Copyright, 1931, by Hoyle, Jr.

ARTICLE No. 3

In what way does this expert differ from any other auction player? Has he more imagination, more courage, more resourcefulness, more originality? What particular quality makes him stand out among his fellows? If there is anything that we don't understand, we usually subject it to a close examination and analysis, so let's do the same with the expert. Let us place him under the microscope and let his lens magnify his tactics. Let us observe and analyze his bidding and play. The following is illustrative of the writer's contention that in the language of sport, the expert "has everything."

Hearts—A, 10, 9, 7
Clubs—Q
Diamonds—A, K, 10, 5
Spades—K, Q, 8, 7

No score, rubber game. The expert, Z, dealt and bid one diamond, a perfect example of the four-card suit bid in preference to the no trump. The singleton club is a danger spot in no trump because a dumber player with a set-up club suit and the lead would pass the no trump. In this particular hand, A had a six-card club suit and his partner bid by Z would have failed to make the contract by one trick. Z, however, possessed the first requisites of the expert: good judgment; so he bid one diamond to give his partner another chance to bid. B passed and Z now had to do a little thinking. Y's bid of two diamonds indicated a willingness on his part to have Z bid another suit. This suit could be either clubs, hearts or spades.

The expert figured that his partner would not bid two diamonds merely to obtain a club bid from him because it is just as difficult to go game at clubs as in diamonds. There would be nothing to gain by such tactics so Y must be prepared for a heart or spade bid. Z, therefore, bid two spades. A passed and B bid three diamonds. B passed and Z was in a predicament. He was holding a heart bid so bid three hearts with the greatest assurance in the world. All passed. Y's hand was as follows:

Hearts—K, 8, 6, 4
Clubs—J, 7
Diamonds—Q, J, 9, 7, 2
Spades—Q, 4

The foregoing hand was not selected as unusual but only as representative of the margin of superiority that the expert has over the average player. To excel at Auction and Contract, as in any other game, the expert must "have everything." He must be able to do the right thing at the right time and it is this quality that is most strongly evident in the hand given. It may seem easy and the expert's play and bidding the natural thing to do, but how many players could honestly say that in actual play they would have done the same? If they can, they are in the class of the expert. If not, they will have something to which to look forward. We cannot all be experts, but we can all improve our game by analyzing the expert's methods and profiting thereby.

Put the expert under the lens at every opportunity and you can not help but benefit. Another example will be given in a later article.

Solution to Last Week's Problem

Hearts—K, 8, 7, 3, 2
Clubs—none
Diamonds—none
Spades—A, 10

Hearts—Q, 6
Clubs—K, 10, 4, 2
Diamonds—none
Spades—Q

Hearts—none
Clubs—A, Q, 5
Diamonds—none
Spades—9, 5, 4, 2

There are no trumps and Z is in the lead. How can Y Z win five of the seven tricks against any defender?

Solution: Z should lead the deuce of spades. A must play the queen and Y should play the ten, thus allowing A to win the trick. B should discard the seven of clubs. A now has the choice of two leads: (a) He may lead a heart or (b) a club.

(a) Suppose A decides to lead a heart. If he leads the six of hearts, Y should play the king and lead back the deuce of hearts, which A must win. On these tricks Z should discard the five of clubs and the four of spades. A is thus obliged to lead a club up to the ace queen in Z's hand. On the first lead of spades and thus all of Z's cards are good. If at trick No. 2, A leads the queen of hearts, Y should let it hold the trick. If A then leads another heart, tricks will be lost.

(b) Suppose A decides to lead a club. If he leads the six of clubs, Y should play the king and lead back the deuce of clubs, which A must win. On these tricks Z should discard the five of clubs and the four of spades. A is thus obliged to lead a club up to the ace queen in Z's hand. On the first lead of spades and thus all of Z's cards are good. If at trick No. 2, A leads the queen of hearts, Y should let it hold the trick. If A then leads another heart, tricks will be lost.

False Solution: Suppose Y wins the first spade trick. He must then lead hearts. If he leads a low heart, B will win the trick with the nine and make his diamonds. If Y leads the king of hearts, A should play the queen and thus enable B to win the second heart trick. Played in this way, Y can only win three tricks.

This is a good example of not allowing an opponent to force the lead in one's hand when by so doing one or more tricks will be lost.

At hearts Z made four odd, losing only one heart, one club and one spade trick. At diamonds, the result would have been the same, so the expert's imagination and clear analysis of his partner's bidding gave him a name not otherwise possible. How many players would have bid this hand like the expert?

At Contract, the bidding would have been the same up to Z's three-heart bid. His partner, Y, would then have bid four hearts.

The foregoing hand was not selected as unusual but only as representative of the margin of superiority that the expert has over the average player. To excel at Auction and Contract, as in any other game, the expert must "have everything." He must be able to do the right thing at the right time and it is this quality that is most strongly evident in the hand given. It may seem easy and the expert's play and bidding the natural thing to do, but how many players could honestly say that in actual play they would have done the same? If they can, they are in the class of the expert. If not, they will have something to which to look forward. Five Players of Last Year's Team Back in Run

Non-Regulars Will Action in Zoo League Intramural Team

Coach Clark issued his call for basketball players on Monday this week and practically the school turned out. By actual count there were sixty embryo stars through their paces on the court in the squad will be in order immediately for there are practice games scheduled for the month and a team was whipped into shape at once. The candidates who do not play basketball will get a chance to play in the Zoo league of intramural teams.

Five of the sixty who reported on the first squad last year are likely to be a complete re-creation of this year and no one of his job. Thorp and Willis are two speedy players who are places this year. Reese played most of the games last year looking bigger and faster than the regulars. Waggoner is a southpaw with a basket eye but he could be the eye to work at the right year. Willard Grabenkort is a man from the squad. He is at home at present with a fever sign on the front door should be out before Christmas.

The big question mark is whether any of the last year's team can step in and regulars' shoes. Anderson is a man who has the necessary skills. He needs lots of polish, though. Miller, Meisner, and Lantz are the regular forwards and Lantz and Caplin are the regular guards. They made a good second team just how good they will be in the fast coming season is a question.

This article was written watching one night's practice and potential stars may be over.

His annual call to the players on Monday of last week was practically the whole story. By actual count, the embryo stars going back on the court. Cuts are made in order almost as a matter of course. There are some practical considerations for the last of a team must be made at once. All of who do not make the chance to play some of the winter however because of intra-mural sixty who reported were and last year but there is a complete reshuffling of the team and no one is sure. Thompson and Williams are players who should go back. Reese played in the games last year and he is a southpaw with a dead-end but he could never get work at the right time last year. Grabenhorst is the fifth on the squad. He is resting at present with a "scarlet" fever. The question mark at present is the last year's second baseman, Anderson and Kuhl. The necessary height but to polish to their floor work. Anderson and Landwer were forwards and LaPointe, and both were the guards. Anderson a good second team but he will be when they get company remains to be

Mrs. McCutcheon Shows

Bowlers How It's Done

Meyer was the only bowler to win a victory out of a group of women and four men who were bowled against Mrs. Floretta D. McCutcheon, hailed as the world's champion woman bowler, in exhibition Monday night at the Barrington Bowling Club. Although three bowlers gathered up more pins than Meyer in their respective games, Meyer scored 171 pins in her lowest game, her lowest score during the evening.

Although Mrs. McCutcheon showed a form of bowling with precision, she failed to score her average of 200 which she made on her four last season.

Mrs. McCutcheon was matched by Mrs. F. Shepherd, Mrs. M. W. and Miss E. Zwisler with scores of 168, 189, and 202. Mrs. Weirich was the only woman competitor with 169 pins. Mrs. McCutcheon's 189.

McCutcheon rolled an average of 171 pins in the seven matches during the evening. She ran up a total of 1201 pins to Mrs. McCutcheon's 1014. The four men rolled a total of 1014 pins. The exhibition attracted approximately 100 spectators. It was estimated that the total score was 2000.

Hager's Pin Team

But Sustains LeadPomeroy's Bowlers Are Only Group to Exceed Last Week's Score

Only one team exceeded its last week's record in the Lions pin series Monday night, and that team was Pomeroy's. Hager's and Hager's teams fell far short of increasing their average, while Caldwell's - maple maulers made only eight pins less than their last week's series of 2288.

Hager's team continues to maintain its lead over Doerman's keepers by 252 pins. Pomeroy's team played Doerman's team Monday and took the first two games and lost the last game by a matter of one pin. Caldwell's pin maulers humbled Hager's team to the tune of three games, but the latter holds enough pins to its record to keep the lead in the league.

High game was rolled by Caldwell's who pushed the mineralite down the alley for a score of 215. His series of 545 also was high for the week.

Cage Schedule Completed

The coaches of the Northwest Junior high conference met last Friday evening in Barrington and drew up the basketball schedule for the coming season. Both first and second teams will compete and conference standings will be posted weekly by the secretary, Mr. Landahl of Crystal Lake.

The Barrington schedule follows: Dec. 4—Dundee at Barrington. Dec. 11—Barrington at Wauconda. Dec. 18—Barrington at Crystal Lake. Jan. 8—Arlington Hts. at Barrington. Jan. 15—Barrington at Algonquin. German War Decoration

The war decoration worn by the Germans in the World War is sometimes mistaken for a Maltese cross, but it is the Iron Cross and dates from the former Prussian kingdom. It was presented for the first time in 1813 for bravery and merit, regardless of rank. It was renewed in 1870 and again in 1914.

In 1813 the iron cross had curved arms and a silver border. The front side was smooth and the reverse had three oak leaves, the initial of the donor, and beneath that the year. In 1870 this cross bore the letter "W" for the Kaiser's name, and above it a crown. It was the same in 1914 except for the change in dates.

All Clear Sailing
After the Fog

By H. LOUIS RAYBOLD

BLUE sky, blue seas, blue eyes looking into his! "I wouldn't call the king my own cousin," cried Forrester Knowlton, as he helped Peggy Sanford into his shining mahogany speed boat. "Where shall we go—North pole, South pole, or merely the blue Canary Isles?"

Pretty Peggy laughed. "Personally, I'd choose the Blue Canary Isles. If it weren't for worrying Aunt Georgiana. As it is, how about Tamara Cove?"

"You're captain!" said Forrester, and the next moment they were off.

The two of them were members of a Murray bay house party and had been irresistibly drawn to one another from the very start, although it seemed at times as if Aunt Georgiana were contriving to keep them apart.

But now he had her to himself for a whole afternoon with the blue summer skies over them and the blue St. Lawrence stretching ahead. Little was said until, suddenly and quite on the impulse of the moment, Forrester reached across to where Peggy sat in a cretonne wicker chair and possessed himself of her hand.

Slowly she withdrew it, a troubled look in her eyes. "Please!" Forrester's heart sank. "I wasn't just playing, Peggy," he said hoarsely. "I—I am quite crazy about you. I want you for my wife."

Peggy lifted a pair of miserable eyes to his. "It's impossible!" she said.

"Impossible? Then you must care for someone else?" "Oh, no!" cried Peggy quickly. "That is—I mean—well, I'm engaged to Lester."

Forrester stared, unable to believe what he had heard. True, he wasn't her own cousin, and yet—why, everyone, including his own family, knew what sort of a boy Lester was. Weak, unable to resist temptation of any sort.

"Peggy!" he began desperately. But Peggy interrupted him. "Look, Forrester, is that smoke?" Forrester looked ahead where a formless gray cloud was blotting out their view.

"Fog," he said briefly, "rolling in from the ocean. With a turn of the wheel, he swung the Starling about so sharply she showed her blades above water. "We'll have to race it home," he said.

At that instant, the engine sputtered, caught, and died. With an exclamation, Forrester sprang to the tank. Then he groaned: "Hang Lester! I let him have this boat all day yesterday and told him to be sure and fill up at the landing. Instead, he turned in the reserve and we've been running on that!"

He was too concerned over the discovery to notice that Peggy's eyes had widened suddenly at the mention of Lester's name. It was important that they get out of the ticklish situation they were in. Already, cool wisps of the incoming fog were brushing their faces.

"Take the wheel and point her headed toward that point," he directed his companion.

Reaching under the cushioned seat, he extracted a half length of oar, used in fending when the usual bumpers proved inadequate. "We'll just about make it," he said quietly, and set to work.

After what seemed an interminable length of time but was in reality little more than a couple of hours, the bow of the Starling nosed the sandy beach that stretched at the foot of a low bluff.

"We'll find the main road not far from the river," said Forrester
