

This might be accomplished quickly and cleanly by the enactment of two measures. First, the law covering assessment and review must have sharp teeth placed in it and compel personal property to pay taxes.

Second, the unpaid taxes for 1928 and 1929, and the total assessment for 1930 must be funded on a twenty year amortization bond issue, backed by the full faith and credit of the city of Chicago and the county of Cook.

Boy Scouts

Troop 21

Scouts of Troop 21 assembled in the troop meeting rooms on Thursday, Jan. 7, for a business and patrol meeting. The meeting was called to order at 7:30 and adjourned at 9:15. The business lasted for 30 minutes and the patrol meeting came to order and adjourned after one hour.

Mr. Engleman, a lieutenant in the National Guard is teaching the troop the advantages of marching. He gave instructions for about 20 minutes. The troop then played a game similar to the initiation of the Order of the Arrow. The Order of the Arrow is a secret organization in scout camps. This was furnished by the Wolf patrol, being assisted by the Black Bear patrol.

As there were only a few scouts at the Board of Review, there will be no Court of Honor. Their awards will be mailed to the troop and given to them by their scoutmaster.

Oddity in Nature

It is a curious fact that some plants are poisonous to live stock when stunted. If plant growth is interfered with by drought, frost, bruising, these plants develop a much larger amount of cyanogenic glucoside than normal growth would provide and this substance taken into an animal's stomach causes serious poisoning.

Fix This in Memory
This is the verse which Coleridge wrote to illustrate the varieties of medical feet: "Trochees trips from long to short; From long to long in solemn soft slow spindles staid; Strong foot, yet all alike ever to come up with dactyls; iambic ambles march from short to long; With a leap and a bound the swift anapests throng."

E. T. H. S. Student Digs Up Practical Geological Study

Ela Township School Compiled Weekly by the Pupils

During Christmas vacation Rick Buck, a Freshman, helped his brother dig out of a slough. About five feet below the surface was a layer of peat. This layer was a small shell. Underneath this one foot thick. Underneath this of shells was a bed of peat which is a golden brown color. This peat is an interesting as well as educational geological study.

BEWARE OF FALSE PROPHETS
(Sterling Daily Gazette)

Far be it from The Gazette to unduly criticize any lady—but the editorial in the Rockford Register-Republic on Monday, Jan. 4, under the editorship of Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, certainly was not inspired by any real desire to help the republican party. In a heavy-weight, hairsplitting effort Mrs. McCormick intriguingly tries to convince her readers that "a political habit should not be permitted to defeat the republican party." She tries to convince readers of the Register-Republic that President Hoover is a most unpopular President. She tries to convince her readers that if he is renominated, it will be because it is "the usual custom." She tries to make her readers believe that it is a very foolish custom to renominate a republican president just because it has been the habit of the party to do so.

As a matter of fact those who remember the national convention at Kansas City which nominated President Hoover will remember that Mrs. McCormick was one of the leaders of Illinois who engaged in the dismal failure of attempting to organize a movement which had as its central idea "Anybody to stop Hoover," or some such slogan as that.

At Kansas City the politicians did not want Hoover nominated. They were opposed to him then. They have been opposed to him ever since he has sat in the presidential chair. They thought him, they have learned since, and they now know, that he is not the type of man who can be twisted around the fingers of the politicians for their personal or political gain. And that is why thinking people are going to re-elect him in spite of all the enmity of newspapers of the Chicago Tribune and the Register-Republic type. It is well known that no president in the history of the republic has been assailed with the vindictiveness, the unreasonableness, through innuendo and false statements, to the same extent as has President Hoover. A systematic campaign of propaganda has been working against him in the magazines and the big city papers ever since he was elected. Nothing like it was ever known before in America.

Mrs. McCormick suggests that "if a considerable number of republicans would prefer to have Mr. Hoover step aside as a candidate for renomination, why should not the party leaders select somebody else?" Why should Hoover step aside? No person of intelligence suggests for a moment that he is responsible for the depression. Then why blame him for conditions which no one could control. If Governor Al Smith had been elected the depression would have been here just the same. The country was in such condition that no president, no congress, no political party, could stop the tide that was rushing back upon us. Then why blame Hoover?

Even if they do blame Hoover can the voters of this district follow the advice of Mrs. McCormick? She had her opportunity to lead in this state as a candidate for senator. Those of us who supported her in sincerity and good-will know that result. Certainly it would be impossible by even the greatest stretch of imagination to blame Hoover for the election of Senator Jim Hain Lewis in Illinois over Mrs. McCormick.

As a matter of fact the opposition to President Hoover comes from those who feel that they are or should be the republican "machine," and not from the voters who constitute the republican party. The opposition and the propaganda against Hoover have been directed by those who have been, who are now, or who aspire to be leaders of the republican party, and not from the rank and file of the voters in the party. Look at the record. President Hoover has worked like a coal heaver. He has refused to take a vacation. He has aged twenty years in three, carrying the burdens that were thrown on his desk, burdens for which he was in no wise responsible, which no party could foresee and which no party could prevent. Must he be condemned for sticking to his desk working like a Trojan in the interest of his country?

His moratorium program was condemned by such newspapers as are opposing his renomination from one end of the country to the other. Yet in the democratic house, where the democrats have a majority, that program appealed to the common sense of democratic congressmen to the extent that it was approved by three to one. Can our good friend Mrs. McCormick suggest any candidate for the presidency who could win greater approval from the leading men of both parties of the nation? In the senate the same program was adopted overwhelmingly. Senator Johnson made a bitter attack on the moratorium—but the senate carried it by five to one. Do these opponents of President Hoover have in mind any republican who could make better headway? The house and senate adopted overwhelmingly Hoover's measure for $200,000,000 for the veterans of the country. There is every assurance that both houses will approve his $500,000,000 proposition to release the frozen assets of the failed banks and get that money into circulation. That will be a great help to returning prosperity. Hoover's whole program is one of constructive statesmanship. The indications are that he will have better support for his public measures than any recent president. Yet in the face of these plain facts the false prophets are starting a clamor to prevent his renomination. Beware of false prophets.

SHORTER HOURS

Aside from all these temporary conditions, however, it must be admitted by all thoughtful observers that a new situation has been growing on us gradually for years, that it was apparent long before the stock market crash and will continue after quotations begin to go up again. It is the situation brought about by the invention of so many labor-saving devices. The machine age has put great numbers of earnest, willing and competent workers out of their jobs, and the return of prosperity for other people will not help them materially. Some way must be found of adjusting the world to new conditions.

If machines have cut down the amount of work to be done, we should all share in the results. Less work and more leisure for everybody will give employment for all. This could be arranged without much difficulty for factory hands and mine workers. Just how it is to be arranged for lawyers and doctors and editors is not so plain. Once it is recognized, however, that this is the problem which must be solved, the world will find a way.—Brooklyn Times.

PROSPERITY NEWS

Plans for the construction of a modern emergency hospital building to cost $100,000 are being made in Waukegan.

Approximately 1,000 employees have been added to the payroll of the Locomotive Manufacturing Co. within the last two weeks. Practically all departments are working on a full six-day week basis.

Chicago territory showed construction contracts totaling $13,640,700 during the month of November. Almost $3,000,000 were spent on residential building.

Quincy is utilizing relief funds for the cleaning up of the city parks and employment has been given to many men.

Construction of a sweeping compound and grease manufacturing plant will begin in Rockford soon.

Orders have been pouring in to the Carlinville Glove factory and the plant has found it necessary to work overtime. More than 50 people are employed in the plant.

The Gunite corporation, manufacturers of cast brake drums and general castings, Rockford, has announced that that December tonnage of the company will be appreciably ahead of any other month since the business was started four years ago.

During 1931, 64 new industries have located in St. Louis, 65 plants were enlarged, and 203 prospects are now under negotiation. The 64 new industries have given employment to 2,533 workers.

Edwardsville has launched a city improvement program as a means of carrying on unemployment relief. On one day, 28 Edwardsville men were given employment.

Two large industries in Jefferson City, Mo., have paid out more wages this year than they did last year. But one factory is idle in the city and it is expected that it will re-open soon.

John L. Bennett, president of the U. S. Manufacturing corporation, Decatur says that 1931 has been the best in the history of the corporation. Since August, the company has made and shipped over 3,000,000 corn poppers.

Libertyville, with a 308 per cent gain in building started during September over that started in August of this year, was well up among the leaders in building activities in suburban Chicago.

PLAYING POLITICS

It is becoming increasingly apparent that a goodly share of the legislators are so busy weaving protective devices for their political future that even their best intentions for the public's welfare are side-tracked. Their fervent promises for the rendition of a service do not jibe with their performance. In a word, they are victims of their own vanity for these public servants are unwilling to publicly admit that there is a limit to their power. Unless the dust is blown from their eyes by strong voices in their ballistics the chances are that the vacillating policies will continue indefinitely. A clear non-partisan analysis of congressional performances to-date through friendly spectacles would show that eliminating spectacular gestures is nothing but the tapping of dry wells.

AN OLD BRITISH PROVERB

says "In politics, what begins in fear usually ends in folly." This description aptly covers our national legislative situation. By a simple comparison of deeds with promises it will be readily discerned that many good plans have been hamstrung or poisoned by vanity. A current illustration may be found in efforts to adjust federal expenditures to revenues. An enormous deficit must be met by economies in cost of government and by increased taxes. The senators and representatives perpetually calculating risks are in a quandary. Shall they authorize wage cuts for nearly a million government employees now enjoying comparatively high salaries? To do so means enmity from those on federal payrolls. The alternative is voting money for high-cost government work and then asking the taxpayers in their districts to make up the difference this year.

THOSE OUTSIDE WASHINGTON

do not realize the temptations of a legislator to satisfy the world and impress the country with his importance. It is a natural human characteristic but one destined to play havoc with facts. Just now executive departments are releasing employees who immediately call on their senators and representatives to find them jobs when theirs have been abolished. The department chiefs point out that no funds are available to take care of this political patronage. The demands of this constituent cannot be met without increasing taxes. A legislator does not relish the idea of having his job-seeker turned down because it makes politician appear politically impotent. The relatives of the disappointed job-hunter back home never understand. Multiply this case by the number of congressional members and you have a partial answer to the present statement.

The most insistent demand of the day is to do something for impoverished citizens. Reflection will show that it is a problem which will admit no counterfeited remedies. Though there is obviously a need for expediency, it is generally recognized that relief must not be voted at the expense of good sense. In a degree this may account for the slowness which marks congressional action. Veteran leaders of both parties realize that nothing must be enacted into law which will eventually react against the authors.

THIS POLICY IS MANIFEST

in the senate debates in which banking legislation was subjected to searching studies as to the real purposes and might later be construed as helping bankers. Rightly or wrongly, sentiment exists in congressional circles that bankers are more or less responsible for the nation's economic ailments. As a consequence relief measures are minutely tested for loopholes.

Opera Dates

The twelfth week of opera at the Civic Opera house, Chicago, will bring Carmen into the repertoire for the first time in two years. Two performances of the Bizet work, one on Monday evening, Jan. 18, and one on Saturday afternoon, Jan. 23, will be sung. In both Conchita Supervia, favorite Carmen of European opera houses, will appear in the title role as guest artist.

Ambrose Thomas Mignon will be singing for a third time on Tuesday evening, Jan. 19. There is an important change in cast, for Charles Hackett will have the role of Wilhelm Meister.

Monday, Jan. 18—at 8—Carmen (In French)—Opera in four acts by Georges Bizet. With Conchita Supervia (soprano), Leola Turner, Rene Maitson, John Charles Thomas and others. Ballet. Conductor, Emil Cooper.

Tuesday, Jan. 19—at 8—Mignon (In French)—Opera in three acts by Ambrose Thomas. With Margherita Salvati, Conchita Supervia, Hackett, Vanni-Marcoux and others. Ballet. Conductor, Emil Cooper.

Wednesday, Jan. 20—at 8—Madame Butterfly (In Italian)—A Japanese tragedy, founded on the book by John Luther Long and the drama by David Belasco. Music by Puccini. With Rosetta Pampinini, Helen Ornstein, Charles Hackett, Victor Damiani and others. Conductor, Roberto Moranzoni.

Thursday, Jan. 21—at 8—Lohengrin (In German)—Opera in three acts by Richard Wagner. With Lotte Lehmann, Maria Olszewska, Rene Maitson, Hans Hermann Nissen, Edward Habich and Alexander Kipnis. Conductor, Egon Pollak.

Saturday, Jan. 23—at 2—Carmen (In French)—Opera in four acts by Georges Bizet. With Conchita Supervia (soprano), Leola Turner, Rene Maitson, John Charles Thomas and others. Ballet. Conductor, Emil Cooper.

Saturday, Jan. 23—at 8—Cavalleria Rusticana and I Pagliacci (In Italian)—Opera in one act by Pietro Mascagni and drama in two acts by Ruggero Leoncavallo. With Claudia Muzio, Rosetta Pampinini, Conchita Supervia, Charles Hackett, Victor Damiani and others. Conductor, Isaac Van Grove and Frank St. Leger.

Violate Suffrage Amendment?

The barring of women from jury lists in Massachusetts under a recent decision of the supreme judicial court of Massachusetts, denies to this sex equality of legal protection contrary to the federal constitution. It is claimed in briefs filed with the supreme court of the United States by counsel for the National Association of Women Lawyers and the national women's party. The briefs were filed pursuant to leave of the court, granted on January 4, in the case of Welosky v. Commonwealth of Massachusetts, No. 504, in which the petitioner is seeking a review of the decision of the Massachusetts court holding that she was not entitled to have women on a jury which tried a criminal charge against her. The supreme court has not yet acted upon the petition for review.

Museum Popularity Grows

More than one and one-half million persons visited Field Museum of Natural History during 1931. It was announced by Stephen C. Simms, director of the institution. The exact number of visitors, when the figures were checked at closing time Thursday, December 31 was 1,515,463.

This marks a new record for a year's attendance, and makes the fifth consecutive year in which the one million figure has been exceeded. Mr. Simms stated. The previous record was made in 1930 when the attendance was 1,332,799, over which the 1931 total represents an increase of 182,664 or approximately 13½ per cent.

How to play Bridge AUCTION and CONTRACT
by Wynne Ferguson
Author of "PRACTICAL AUCTION BRIDGE"

ARTICLE No. 11

One of the writer's correspondents has asked for an opinion on the following question which, as he says, "is not sufficiently or explicitly covered in any recent book we have been able to obtain, to definitely settle the matter." It is of such nature that any discussion regarding it is bound to be of interest to all Auction and Contract players: "Under what conditions should the initial bidder, if he has one suit missing entirely or represented by only a singleton, declare no trump? Do the ordinary no trump indications hold in such cases?"

A sound no trump bid is composed of two elements: (1) the proper values for the no trump bid; (2) the proper distribution of such values among the four suits. The authorities practically all agree that the minimum strength on which the dealer should bid one no trump is two and one-half quick tricks, distributed among at least three suits. The quick trick strength must not only be there, but it must be so divided among the four suits that there is more than a reasonable chance to make the contract. A hand might very easily contain two and one-half quick tricks and still not justify a no trump bid. If these quick tricks are confined to one suit, the suit bid is the correct bid. If these quick tricks are distributed among two suits only, it is not advisable to bid no trump. Experience has shown that with two suits unprotected, a no trump bid seldom is sound. For that reason, to justify a bid of one no trump, the hand must contain at least two and one-half quick tricks and these should be distributed among at least three suits. That leaves only one suit for partner to protect or if he also has no protection, only one suit for opponent to make.

In case the dealer has a singleton of a suit or none at all, experience has shown that the no trump bid as a rule is a losing bid. For that reason with this type of hand, it is better to bid a suit even though hand contains two and one-half quick tricks divided among three suits. If the opponents bid the missing suit, then, of course, the dealer should not subsequently bid no trump; but, if his partner should bid the missing suit, then the dealer should bid the no trump on the second round of bid.

If the opponents bid the missing suit, they will bid it against a suit bid but sit tight and lead it against a no trump bid. Prefer a suit to the no trump bid, when the hand contains a singleton or void suit, and you will win many a game and rubber not otherwise possible.

If spades are trumps and Z is in the lead, how can Y win eight of the nine tricks against any defense? Solution: Z should lead the jack of spades and discard the king of diamonds from Y's hand. This is the key to the trick and must, therefore, lead to the lead to his disadvantage. Z should now lead the deuce of clubs and Y should win any card played by A. At trick three, Y should lead the ace of hearts and follow with the five, which Z should trump with the eight of spades. Z should then lead the trey of clubs and once again Y should win any card played by A. Y should then lead his last club and follow with the five of diamonds. B is forced to win this trick and must, therefore, lead a diamond, which Z wins with the jack, and then makes his last club. Play in this way. Y must win eight of the nine tricks against any defense.

Broncho
Orr Williams and Harry Miller Star in Final Barrage

Ponies Win in Seesaw T
Warren Boys to Play Here Friday

The Barrington High heavyweights won their second game of the week Friday night when they came behind in the last quarter to defeat the veteran Wauconda five 18 to 10. The game started rather slowly. The Maroons apparently stopped Wauconda's tight zone defense. Wauconda's basket from the top was the only scoring drive. But half way on during the entire first half, the opponents scored twice from the field and three times from the line to take a 7 to 2 lead.

In the early part of the second there was little scoring and the game was a dead heat. At the three quarter mark, Barrington suddenly began coming with their shots. Led by Williams and Harry Miller, the Bronchos passed their rivals the middle of the last quarter. Wauconda then opened up with a range barrage in which Balesy, Hironimus both scored pretty well but Barrington had too large a lead to overcome. The thrilling last quarter more than made up for the lull of the first half.

The Barrington guards, Meier and Thorpe deserve a lot of credit for holding down those clever Wauconda forwards. Balesy, who is one of the hottest forwards in the conference, only able to connect with two shots and both of them were difficult. Bobby Wolf did not get any baskets but he was busier than a crank at Christmas trying to bring down Wauconda's score.

Ponies Stage Comeback

The Ponies got back in the victory column with a 17 to 10 win over Wauconda lights. They caused their adherents quite a few nervous moments however for they frittered away a 6 to 2 lead which they held at half and led Wauconda take the lead away from them. Chubb, three butts and Brandt's two keep them in the game. In the second half, Beerman and Dora Conelli have a doing in "Hack Wilson" the last couple of games when it comes to getting baskets but they may start hitting again soon.

Warren Here Friday

Warren township high school Gunner, Northwest conference champs last year, will invade the Barrington gym this Friday night. Co. Kelson has another one of those zone defenses and his offense is made up of a series of blocks which are plenty hard to stop. Those are the usual two games with lightweights looking horse at 7. Barrington will also meet Palatine the Palatine floor on Tuesday night, Jan. 19. This game was originally scheduled for Saturday night but has been postponed to the following Tuesday.

Unusually Warm Weather Sets New Official Record

The record-breaking warmth of the last four months, which has continued through the first week of 1932, has displaced normal climatic conditions nearly everywhere east of the Rock Mountains by 300 to 450 miles. J. Kincer, Chief of the Division of Cultural Meteorology of the United States weather bureau, stated orally Jan. 6, St. Louis, Mo., for instance, has had for the entire period the climate which normally belongs to Meridian, Miss. Des Moines, Ia., has had the climate of St. Louis, and Indianapolis, Ind. has had the climate of Nashville, Tenn. Mr. Kincer said. The following information also was given by Mr. Kincer: There has never before been so long a displacement of climatic conditions, such as a displacement for a full month has caused comment. In such a long period, it is entirely unprecedented.
