"Three Men on a Horse" Coming to Catlow Sun., Mon.

Shirley Temple in 'Stowaway' Begins Three-Day Run Wednesday

Grim mystery and solution of a baffling crime by the tiny claw of a pet dog's rubber ball are the exciting elements in "Under Cover at Night," coming Saturday to the Catlow theatre. Edmund Lowe creates the newest detective character of the screen as Christopher Cross, super-scientific sleuth.

Manager W. R. Catlow has the answer for everyone in town who happens to be in need of a real down-to-earth, guffawing evening of fast and furious fun.

He had booked "Three Men on a Horse," the First National screen version of the Broadway stage play. The date for the local opening is Sunday, Feb. 28.

"Three Men on a Horse" is the side-splitting story of Erwin (pronounced Orwin) a meek little writer of greeting card verses—who has the weird gift of picking winners in horse races. He keeps that secret to himself, and as he rides to and fro work from his home, he jots down in a little book his prognostications and imaginary winnings. His nagging wife finds the book, denounces him as a philanderer, and browbeats him to the point of desperation.

When his boss orders him to produce 50 Mother's Day greeting verses before the noon whistle blows—his troubles begin to pyramid.

The cast is headed by Frank McHugh and Joan Blondell.

"Jailbreak," the new Warner Bros. mystery melodrama, comes to the Catlow theatre Tuesday. The picture is said to be one of the most exciting ever screened, with a gun battle between dope runners and police, a penitentiary riot scene, two murders within the prison walls and a jailbreak.

Dendik featured with "Jailbreak" is the Pulitzer Prize play, "Craig's Wife," starring John Boles and Rosalind Russell.

The difficult task of learning some 500 Chinese words for her latest triumph, "Stowaway," coming Wednesday for a three-day run at the Catlow theatre, proved loads of fun, rather than tedious work to Shirley Temple.

When the picture was completed, Shirley, with the help of her Chinese teacher, carried on a conversation in Chinese with a six-year-old youngster from Peiping, China.

Robert Young and Alice Faye play the romantic leads in "Stowaway."

Pure Milk Prices to Be Unchanged

The price differential paid Pure Milk association dairy farmers shipping Grade A milk to Chicago will remain the same, it was announced this week by the Milk Arbitration committee who had been taking testimony from both the association and milk distributors who purchase fresh milk from the cooperative.

Pure Milk association dairy farmers shipping Grade A milk to Chicago are now receiving 58 cents over the condensary price for 100 pounds of milk having 3.5 per cent butterfat content for 100 per cent of the basic production allotment. For amounts over this allotment they receive 10 cents over the condensary price.

The association members were seeking a spread of 70 cents over condensary price on the grounds that high cost of feed had made production of milk more expensive; while milk distributors desired a drop in the spread over condensary price to 50 cents on grounds that production of milk had risen and therefore milk was more plentiful.

Unable to agree, the association and milk distributors sought to settle their differences through an arbitration committee.

Fruit School for Local Growers on March 3

With prospects for higher average fruit prices during the last few seasons than they have had for the past five years, fruit growers in Lake county will meet in a one-day school to be held in the Farmers Hall, Grayslake Wednesday, March 3. The program will start at 1 p. m. New facts and ideas aimed to help growers make the most of their more favorable outlook will be featured on the program. The school is being held by the college of agriculture, University of Illinois, in cooperation with Farm Advisor H. C. Dirkson.

Fruit prices promise to be higher during the next few years because of the expected increase in consumer buying power, it was explained. On the other hand higher prices may not materialize if citrus fruits should be cheaper. Also an abnormally large crop of any deciduous fruit would lower prices for that fruit.

A feature of the program will be a pruning demonstration on the farm of Albert J. Stahl, Prairie View, at 10:30 a. m.
