Tosses Bottle Into Des Plaines River; Travels 3000 Miles in 11 Years

It was 11 years ago next June that B. C. Wagner, a Highland Park laborer, tossed a small screw-topped bottle into the Des Plaines river, west of Highwood. Just before liberating the bottle he placed a piece of paper containing his name and address within the container. Last week Farmer received a letter from H. A. Talbot of Miami, Fla. Along with the letter was the note written by the Highland Park man. Mr. Talbot wrote that he had discovered the bottle half-buried in sand and lying in shallow water while on a fishing trip near Miami. It was estimated the bottle had floated 3000 miles.

Philippine Mahogany

"Philippine mahogany" has about the same relation to genuine mahogany as "Hudson" seal (dyed muskrat) has to genuine sealskin. "Philippine mahogany" is really a Philippine hardwood, greatly different in grain and beauty to genuine mahogany. Mahogany trees are not native to the Philippines.
