Home Burns When Family Is Out of Town on a Visit
Fire at 1:30 a. m. Monday; Blaze Earlier Extinguished by Friend of Family

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Wigo Anderson, 400 South street, was destroyed by fire at about 1:30 a. m. Monday while Mr. Anderson and family were at Madison, Wis., visiting relatives.

The origin of the fire has not been determined. A neighbor, smelling smoke, called the police department; and Ernest Wessel, night marshal, combed through the neighborhood until he discovered the home with the basement filled with flames. The department responded quickly but was unable to save more than the walls of the house. They prevented spreading of the fire to the garage.

A suspicion that the fire might have been a case of arson has not been verified. The family had been absent for several days, returning Monday. While away, a friend, August Dore fed and watered some rabbits at the home. He called at the house at 9 p. m. Sunday to feed the rabbits. While there he smelled smoke, and on investigation found a tiny fire blazing among some kindling wood in the basement. Mr. Dore extinguished the blaze and removed from the house two or three large pieces of wood which had started to burn. After entering supper at his home on Condit avenue, Mr. Dore decided to return to the house to make sure that the fire had not started up again. There was no sign of a blaze at that time. The fire which burned the house was not discovered until after 1 a. m. There is no definite evidence that some enemy of the property owner started the blaze which Mr. Dore extinguished and later started another blaze; although that theory has been pointed out as a possibility. A persistent short circuit in the wiring could have done the same thing. The house and contents, with estimated value of $5,000 was partially insured.

Body of Lindy's Baby Found Near His Home
Every daily paper of the first three editions starting with the base-ball edition of the Chicago Daily News was sold and within a few minutes after receipt at local news stands Thursday evening.

The news of the finding of the Lindbergh baby, flashed over the radio brought scores of Barrington people down town to the news stands to find newspaper information on the tragedy.

The formal statement given out by New Jersey police was: "We have to announce apparently the body of the Lindbergh baby was found at 3:15 p. m. William Allen, a negro, was riding from Mount Rose, N. J., to Hopewell with Orville Wilson on a truckload of lumber. Under a bush Allen saw a skeleton on the ground and a person's foot."

"He called to Mr. Wilson. Mr. Wilson saw what it was and decided to go to Hopewell to get police. They notified Chief Wolf of the Hopewell police, who notified these headquarters. Inspector Walsh of Jersey City, Sgt. Moffett of the Newark police, Lieut. Keaton of the New Jersey state police, and a number of other detectives immediately went to the scene. They reported finding the body of a child estimated to be between 1½ and 2 years old in a bad state of decomposition, having blonde hair and wearing what appeared to be an undershirt and a flannel band around the body."

Social Activities Reach Peak With Annual Ela Prom

Ela Township School Notes Compiled Weekly by the Pupils

The Juniors entertained the Seniors at the Annual Junior-Senior Prom at Ela Township High school, Friday, May 6. The banquet was served at 7:30 p. m. and everyone agreed that the food was delicious. It was served by the Sophomore girls, who were dressed like sailors. The excess of this dinner was due to the services of Mrs. Johnson, Mrs. Sturm, Mrs. Schwaner, and the Freshman and Sophomore girls.

The rooms were decorated to represent the interior of a ship, and all the guests played the part of merry sailors on board, who were out for an evening of fun. In order to increase their appetites, the guests sang songs between the courses. This added much gaiety to the banquet.

Emma Tins, toastmistress, quite covered herself with glory by her witty remarks in introducing the speakers. She added much to the interest of the program. Gladys Kropp gave an official welcome to the Senior class. Ethel Rudolph followed by giving a speech on "Entering the Channel" in which she gave everyone some very valuable advice on how to live. This was followed by a talk by Helen Huns, the title of which was "Nothing Lost." This was a very appropriate speech for Helen as she is the valedictorian of the Senior class.

Violet Udenbueck brought in a touch of fun with her humorous reading. Our principal, Mr. Clements gave his views on what should be the ideal memories of a high school student. Phyllis Sudberg, in her speech, told about the importance of making friendships while at school. Mr. Dorsey gave everyone a real treat when he sang the delightful and very appropriate song called "The Vagabond." Mr. W. C. Peterson, the sponsor of the Senior class, had as the title of his speech "Moving Onward," and he gave some very good advice to the Senior class of 1932 which they should remember. In his speech he stressed the importance of rowing, and not drifting where school work was concerned. Last but not least, Russell Sussinger ended the program by giving a very humorous talk on "Slow But Sure."

After the banquet, each Senior received a pink carnation as a token from the Junior class. Then the Juniors, Seniors, and faculty, along with their guests formed into a line for the grand march. The library, where the dancing took place, was beautifully decorated with blue, white, coral, pink, and Nile green streamers and was a very good imitation of the interior of a ship. The girls, prettily dressed in silks and laces, added to the beauty of the scene, and made the dancing even more enjoyable.

Time usually flies fast at times like these, and soon it was time for the last time to cross the gang plank for the last time and leave the ship, taking with them pleasant memories of an evening well spent.

The Freshmen are starting to read "The Lady of the Lake" by Walter Scott. Dorothy Wickersheim injured her knee while running around on the baseball field. Pardon Leland has missed quite a few days lately. We guess it's spring fever!

The Freshman agriculture class went to Clover Hill farm to judge horses last Monday and Wednesday then went there to judge hogs.

Next Saturday the Soils and Crops class will judge at the Hawthorne and Wilson farms.

Ela started out "Great Guns" at the beginning of the baseball season beating Lynden 14 to 9 and Warren 14 to 10, but last Friday they were beaten 6 to 5 by Wauconda.

A few samples of the original poetry the Junior class has been submitting follows:

Blackness
(A poem written to reveal the thought which a man has just after killing someone).
Night like a lurking spy, its cloak over,
And another me because I am afraid.
It is all around me, folding me in its cold arms
And I struggle madly for an escape.
Wrapped in the night, with one long loud lament
I cry helplessly.
No one hears.
Then, Night, the triumphant victor
Laughs and sneers
And hurles me into a blinding madness
When, like a shadow, it passes o'er me
And leaves me groping blindly for the light.
I cannot see.
A victim of Fate.
I suffer—for sad to say, once I lived
And lived to learn too late.
Night leaves that bitter something.
Pain.
To torment me, to make my life a hell.
My heart is still.
We grow accustomed to things.
Good things, bad things, all things.
I, who once was Master of My Soul,
am dead.
Alas! Where can I find some rest?
—Emma Tins.

A Little Dream
A little dream once came to me
That stayed a long, long while;

Lake County Organization Honored With Two Loving Cups for T. B. Fight

The cooperation and interest of Lake county people in fighting tuberculosis was rewarded recently when the Lake County Tuberculosis Association was awarded two silver loving cups, one for having the largest Christmas seal sale in the state and the second for having the largest per capita sale, at the annual meeting of the State Tuberculosis Association held at Danville.

The total income from the seal sale for the year was $8,100.55, which makes 7.9 cents per capita. Incidentally, this is the largest seal sale in the history of the county.

The seal sale as well as the work was under the direction of Miss Ruth Hendrickson, acting executive secretary for the Lake county association. She was assisted by Mrs. Austin H. Niblick, of Lake Forest, who is the newly elected president for the local organization.

In her talk at the state meeting Miss Hendrickson said: "The foundation for the present accomplishments has been laid in previous years and every citizen in the county who has participated in this work shares in the honor."

The objective of the organization is to lend a helping hand toward the prevention and cure of tuberculosis. Plans are being laid at present to center its attention upon the prevention of this disease among children. Lake county has at present some 300 cases among its children with no definite means of protection.

County Treasurer Begins Collections on Specials

Collection of $2,700.00 in special assessments throughout all the cities and villages of Lake county was started Monday by County Treasurer Jay B. Morse.

The specials to be collected are the amounts owed for public improvements through the municipalities of the county on which city and village treasurers were unable to make collections.

The penalty date on specials started Jan. 1 when the interest for the new year became effective.

The treasurer is preparing to distribute approximately 20 per cent of the general taxes to the taxing bodies as that is close to the percentage collected.

$39,000 of State School Fund Distributed in County

A sum of $39,000 constituting a part of the state distributive fund was sent out Saturday to Lake county schools in the rural and village division. The checks were sent out by W. C. Petty, county superintendent of schools.

An amount of approximately $63,000 still is due from the state distributive fund. The delay in Cook county work makes it uncertain as to when the amount will arrive.

Schools in Lake County Begin Final Examinations

Final examinations in the rural and village schools in Lake county were started Tuesday and will continue for the next two weeks after which classes will be dismissed for the season, according to W. C. Petty, county superintendent of schools.

On May 20 the first schools will close for the year, while others will close at intervals until June 20, when Highland Park and Winthrop Harbor, with a full ten-month schedule, will be the last to dismiss classes.

A little dream that seems to be
A sunbeam's golden smile.
A little dream that fled away
All sobbing, worn and gray;
And oh, it took the light of day!
I wish it could have stayed!

—Ethel Keisler.

Somebody
Somebody thinks of you all day long,
And all through the night you are Somebody's song.
Bringing the dawn of another day,
Brighter than that which dawned away;
Past and present and future you are,
Guiding the passage of somebody's star.
Happily onward through pleasures or cares.
Bringing the gladness that somebody shares.

Sundial for Nightwork
A sort of sundial which works without the sun is being erected on the top of a Moorish tower in the gardens of the port of Guayaquil, in Ecuador. A powerful beaconlight is being revolved from the top of the tower, operated electrically from a synchronized clock. The beams of light, which makes a complete revolution every 12 hours, will tell the time at night by shining on a number of well-known landmarks as it revolves. The same spots will be lighted up at the same time every night.

Original "Patent Law"
In very early times in England the reigning prince considered himself entitled to grant privileges of the nature of monopolies to anyone who had gained his favor. These grants became so numerous, oppressive and unjust that during the reign of James (1603-1625) a statute was wrung from the king declaring all previous and inconvenient monopolies to be void. There was a special exception from that enactment of all letters, patents, grants and privileges of any "sole working or making of any manner of new manufactures within the realm to the true and first inventor." Upon these words hangs the whole law of letters and patents for inventions.

King James' Bible
The authorized version of the Bible is the same as the King James version because the revision was made by some of the greatest scholars of the country and of the world, under the authorization of King James I of England, who was also King James VI of Scotland, and in whose reign England and Scotland were united. James was the son of Mary queen of Scots; the Grandson of Henry VIII and the nephew of Queen Elizabeth. He was, under English law, a Protestant, but had extreme leanings toward the Roman Catholic faith.—Washington Star.

Wobbly Pitcher Saved by Astute Band Leader

A band once won a world series baseball game, according to James J. Coughlin, of Boston, and Mr. Coughlin should know, for he was the band leader.

It was the world series of 1915, between the Boston Red Sox and the Phillies. The home team took the first game in Philadelphia and the Boston band became worried because if the series ended in four games, the musicians would get no return trip to the Quaker city.

Foster of the Sox and Mayer of the Phillies had been pitching a tight ball, with the score 2 to 1 in the sixth inning of the second contest. Mayer was working smoothly, but Foster was tired. He started to wobble and Philadelphia got two men on bases with none out. The pitcher needed a rest and he needed it badly.

He was taking his time and was just about to put the ball over when the umpire called time. The gates in the first-base bleachers opened and President Wilson and his party made a dramatic entrance. Coughlin signaled for "The Star-Spangled Banner." But what a rendition he directed.

The band took nine minutes to go through music that should not take more than two. It was a funeral dirge. When the piece had been played once the band started it a second time. Every one was at attention except Foster. He had his hat off but he was industriously relaxing. When the performance was over he went in and struck out two batters and made the other a pop fly. The funeral dirge was a life-saver for him.—Detroit News.

Touchy About Wrinkles
When Queen Elizabeth's wrinkles waxed deep and many, it is reported that an unfortunate master of the mint incurred disfigure by a too faithful shilling, said an article in the Quarterly Review in October, 1823. The die was broken and only one mutilated specimen is now in existence. Her majesty of honor took the hint and was thenceforward careful that no fragment of looking glass should remain in any room in the palace. In fact, the lion-hearted lady had not heart to look herself in the face for the last 20 years of her life.—Detroit News.

Hard to Get Farmer to See Beauty in Thistle
We scorn the thistle, but Scotland has made it its national flower, its honored emblem. The story goes, however, that the selection of this flower as Scotland's emblem was not due to admiration. Scottish soil was once, at least, pretty thoroughly covered with thistles. The Danes invaded the country. Danes are now one of the most civilized of nations, but then they went barefooted. They stole up on the Scottish camp by night, unperceived, but one of them stepped on genuine Scotch thistle, and let out a yell of pain. The Scots heard it, awoke, arose, drove away the Danes, and saved the country. So the Scots, out of gratitude, made the thistle their emblem. The thistle is a fine and decorative plant, and nearly every spear of it has a pretty flower and a fragrant one. Certainly the bumblebees love it. It has a long and prolific flowering season.

Speaking of emblems, the Nova Scotians have apportioned our mayflower, the trailing arbutus, for their emblem. Why, being New Scotland and also Canada, did they not choose the Canada thistle for the purpose? They would have been good and welcome to it.—Boston Transcript.

Paint-up, Fix-up, Spruce-up, to Win Lions Club

Local Carpenters and ers Reasonable; Cost Materials Low

An important angle to Barrington Yard and Garden is that of fixing up and painting. Many persons will avail of the opportunity to repair up the buildings and appurtenances on their property in connection with the contest, thus piling up a prize and at the same time actually putting in some improvement. Barrington is fortunate in some very able carpenters and ers who can do a lot of repair work for a small amount of money. A small amount of money, hardware stores and two lumber yards supply all the material necessary for building improvement. They build, and offer a wide range of which to shop. The present time is the most able time in a decade for painting a home. A job can now be done for a fraction of what it would have cost two or three years ago. Now is the time to paint and spruce-up.

Buy Plants for Pansy Bed; Seed for Late F

Pansies are the most popular annuals. They have been a part of our garden since the dawn of color by the size of plant both in the United States and there are numerous strains. Young plants can be bought most any store and set out or planted now can not be expected to produce a full crop until fall. Seed is sown in the fall to bloom as well as in the spring. Pansies are now a transplanting into boxes or a to permit the seedling plants to develop. Pansies are perennial plants, although short-lived in our climate. They may be over for a season or so, but to depend on plants from a year.

Plant, Clean-up, Improve, Will Be in Order Locally

Next Monday Final Entry Day; Tuesday, Wednesday for Village Clean-Up

The Barrington Yard and Garden contest will open next Tuesday morning, May 17, the first day of the annual clean-up campaign.

Monday is the last day for entering the contest. After Monday evening, the affair will be closed with only those homes entered which will have previously notified the Barrington Review or one of the members of the Lions club committee.

Although a few last minute entries may come in Monday, the majority will be in Saturday or earlier, and the home owners, members of the family, etc., will be at work Saturday afternoon getting their yards and gardens in shape for the final inspection of the judges some days next week. The happy results of Barrington who are in the contest will not overlook the equipment that they may receive from the village. After cleaning up their yards, scrubbing out dead bushes, removing unsightly boxes and what have you, there will be large collections to pile on the tree banks for the village street employees to haul away.

Expect to Work

The entries who will win prizes are those who go into the contest wholeheartedly and do not overlook anything that might help in making a better appearing home. Many fine vegetable gardens are already planted. Many flower gardens are planted, but those who have not yet put in their gardens are not out of the running.

Vegetables which ripen in May are just as nourishing as those which ripen in June, and flowers blooming in July are just as beautiful as those blooming in June. The judges will make two inspection trips, one next week and one in the middle of July. The advanced gardens will make more of an impression next week, but the later gardens may use all their best at the time of the second inspection.

Some persons are improving the appearance of their homes. Painting is not necessary, but it is a definite improvement which helps pile up points. A coat of paint costs a little money, but it is always a paying investment.

No home will have much chance of winning unless the lawn is well kept. The lawn is the most apparent feature of a good looking home. No doubt a lot of pleasant work will be done in the front and back lawns will be done. Dandelions and thistles and other weeds should be eliminated with a little work and without much expense. The lawn mowers will be kept busy as they are the most effective tool for improving home appearance.

A little lawn seed scattered in bare places just before a rain and watered during dry weather, will work wonders. Inexpensive tools for keeping the lawn trimmed along fences, sidewalks, etc., will help.

The contestants will keep in mind the fact that the judges will make the awards on the basis of the appearance of the back yard, will count a varying number of points depending on the general impression, details, shade, flower gardens (with their patterns, composition, color, and bloom) the vegetable gardens (with their freedom from weeds, systematic arrangement, competition, and

Landscape Grounds on a Several Year Easy Budget Plan

Trees and Foundation Planting Are Suggested for First Year

No longer does a home owner make actual use of only that part of his home grounds on which his house stands. The modern home embraces the entire lot, and assigns to every square foot of surface a function, useful or ornamental.

The owner who neglects to develop his grounds on this principle not only limits his own enjoyment of a property which has cost him plenty, but lessens its resale value, and why should he? Complete planting, according to a modern plan, may require more outlay than he cares to make in one year; but it is easily possible to spread the expenditure over several years on a budget system.

Of course, if one can plant all at once, one gets the enjoyment of well-planted grounds the sooner. But it is much easier to plant part at a time, than to rebuild in that way. Gardens do not depreciate with years as buildings do. With intelligent care they grow more valuable, and newer plantings quickly mature into perfect harmony with the old.

Of course no planting can be done until the grounds are graded and the walks established. And there must be a definite visualization of the ultimate effect. This means a plan, in the mind or on paper, and it is safer on paper than in the mind.

Think out the successive steps to be taken according to the amount which can be expended each year. Mark out your shrub and flower beds and borders, and see that they have good

Pointers Given for Planting of Trees and Shrubs

Roots Kept Wet in Transportation Necessary; Ground Condition Important

Never allow the roots of shrubs or trees which are being transplanted to be exposed to the sun, to drying winds or to frost. Keep them wrapped in damp moss, or heel them in the ground.

Whenever you cut or prune wood, make a sharp, clean cut; leave no ragged or jagged ends on roots or top. Be sure that holes dug to receive points are large enough to receive all roots without cramping.

Spread out the roots in a natural position and work fine loam among them. Be sure that no air holes remain, but that all roots are in contact with earth, which is firmed and compacted.

Never allow any decayed manure to come in contact with the roots; for undecayed leaves, or wood, in any quantity.

Be careful not to plant too deeply, but always set the plant about an inch lower than it grew in the nursery.

Mother Regains Her Happiness in First Prize Home

A garden is the place to rear children says Mrs. Charles A. Emery of Pomona, Calif., whose modest but beautiful little place has been awarded first prize in The National Yard and Garden Contest (amateur division) according to official word received here today.

From their cradle days Mrs. Emery's three children, Bill, Lois and little Rob Roy, have grown up in the garden. The first words spoken by Lois when a baby were "pitty-town" even preceding the word "Mama." Her little brothers seem to know a weed from a flower by its name. Each of the children enjoys perfect health, the result of living so much in their beautiful out-of-doors playground, their parents believe.

Mrs. Emery was not always a gardener. She took it up after she had lost her first born. The grief-stricken mother found solace in caring for the little flowers in the beautiful out-of-doors.

With her own hands she created a paradise on her 20-foot lot. There, with her three soliciting youngsters, she has found happiness again. In fact, Mrs. Emery is one of the happiest women, with a ready laugh and sparkling eyes. She is in excellent health too, weighs 112 pounds and finds that gardening makes unnecessary either dieting or reducing exercises.

Mrs. Emery too, who does the heavy work in the prize-winning garden, is the picture of health. He is a sergeant of police. His spare time and vacations are spent helping his wife in the garden instead of playing golf or fishing. He cheerfully admits, however, that in the garden his wife is chief.

Flowering Shrubs Form Beautiful Part of Garden

Flowering shrubs play an important part in the garden. Many of them are conspicuously beautiful when in blossom, and fit into planned effects in combination with flowers while before and after their flowering season they serve as a green background, against which the annual and perennial flowering plants are displayed.

Such shrubs should be selected and placed in relation to other plants in the garden with as much care as needs to be used in placing a group of perennials for their conspicuous appearance may easily spoil a picture into which they do not fit. In general they should not be used in the public areas of home grounds except sparingly and with careful consideration of their effect. Indiscriminate planting of such shrubs as bridal wreath, hydrangeas, etc., in front yards is commonplace.

Keep Gay Color in Summer Gardens With Perennials

The old-fashioned perennial border of our grandmother's day has come to its own again in a glorified reincarnation in the modern outdoor living room. Here one finds a perfect setting for these delightful flowers. Masses of delphiniums or larkspurs, feverfew, hardy carnations, foxgloves, peonies, lilies and roses, all the old favorites and new, combining with annuals and shrubs, form the colorful walls that bound the garden room. But the always dependable perennials will predominate.

Nearly all the hardy perennials can easily be grown to full perfection in the garden room of any town or city home. They require very little special care and, once the plants become established they soon develop into quite sizeable clumps.

Give the perennial border plenty of sunlight and air, prepare the soil by spading or trenching deep and add fertilizers as ingredients necessary to make it sufficiently rich and in good condition.

There are hundreds of varieties from which to choose, of which the following are a few favorites: Monks-hood with Achillea ptarmica, the Pearl, planted nearby for July and August; Alyssum saxatile compactum with its masses of bright yellow flowers makes a good edge; delphiniums, hollyhocks and madonna lilies to be planted near the back of the border; iris and columbines are also old favorites. In fact, a continuous parade of color may be produced for the summer months by carefully selecting perennials so the border includes some for each successive blooming period.

Plant a Tree in Honor of Father of Our Country

A trail of ten million trees stretching across the face of the continent along roadsides, streets, in parks, school grounds and home grounds, living monuments to the memory of the "Father of Our Country." Such is the planting program planned for the Bi-Centennial Celebration of the birth of George Washington.

In this notable program every citizen should have a part. Everywhere individuals, garden clubs, civic, fraternal and patriotic organizations, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Camp Fire Girls, the American Legion, schools and colleges are giving their support to this tree-planting drive. Whether planted as specimens on the lawn, grouped in the shrubbery border or windbreak, planted along highways, parks, or in state, town or school forests, each tree is symbolic of the honor a great nation pays its beloved hero.

George Washington was a lover of trees, for he had numerous references to their value and care in his diary, and surely his selection of Mount Vernon as a home site is evidence of his appreciation of their beauty and value.

May and October of 1932 are the last seasons during this drive when the trees which are to be dedicated in honor of George Washington can be planted. This is an opportunity for everyone to plant trees for home beautification—to assist in creating attractive highway plantings—to share in replenishing the steadily decreasing crop of timber. Make plans today to plant a tree this spring so that you may be among the thousands of thoughtful citizens to set out trees in commemoration of George Washington—"First in the hearts of his countrymen."

Leave the center of lawn unobstructed, planting the borders with masses of shrubs and trees.

Fruit Trees Productive and Also Ornamental

The possibilities of combining ornamental values with fruit production in selecting plants for the home grounds are being recognized more widely by Americans than formerly. They have long been realized in British and northern European gardens where fruit growing is more difficult than with us, and a ripened peach is an achievement.

To train peach and pear trees against a southern wall, where a maximum of heat from the sun will hasten their ripening, is not necessary here. But it can be done, and there is much interest in the quaintly pruned fruit trees, trained on espaliers, especially in the garden too small to harbor a full-grown tree.

But a thirty-foot garden is large enough for one full-grown cherry, peach, plum, pear or even apple tree; and there are also dwarf trees which will do in much smaller space than the standards. A fruit tree well cared for will provide shade as welcome as that from a shade tree; and besides its fruit it gives glorious flowers.

Choice and Selection of Evergreens Depend on Location and Grouping in Landscape Scheme; Six Groups Given

Almost all of the evergreens are valued for their distinctive shape and structure. In selecting and grouping evergreens, it is well to consider their shape as a pleasant result is to be secured.

Evergreens can be divided according to shape into six general groups. A classification such as this makes it much easier to select the right evergreen for the right place. It must be remembered that the members in each line, each has its own characteristic shape and may be a dwarf grower or tall grower according to its class.

Group 1. This broadly pyramidal group of Christmas tree type evergreens, including some of the Fir, Hemlock, Spruce and Pines, as a rule have large trees at maturity and are most perfect specimens when growing without interference. This class is good for lawn groups, dense planting, avenues or specimen.

Group 2. The evergreens in this group usually medium height and are suitable for background and full to light at corners and adjacent to each side of a doorway, gate-

Old Fashioned Vegetable Gardens Add to Beauty

As an ornamental feature, the old-fashioned method of growing vegetables, particularly those of smaller, lower growth which are not needed in great quantities, in beds with neat paths between them is coming into vogue again. It is a useful method when the garden is brightened up with flowering plants such as annuals, alternating beds of flowers and beds of vegetables. When the bed method of laying out the vegetable garden is employed in combination with occasional beds of flowers, the vegetable patch needs more carefully designing than if it were to be devoted solely to producing food supplies.

In the latter case the most practical method by far is to stick to the plan of growing vegetables in straight rows for ease of cultivation and for the purpose of obtaining the greatest output from the soil. Vegetables suitable for growing in beds which later in the season may figure in a transformation from a vegetable to a flower garden are radishes, lettuce, spinach, and young onions, all early crops.

very row. The mark of the surface will usually be plainly seen.

Remove all broken branches in the top, and cut back at least one-half of the previous year's growth of wood.

In cutting back dormant stock, as in pruning, be careful to cut just above a bud and close to it and let this be an outside bud, that is one which will send the new wood which grows from it away from the center of the plant. This keeps the center open, to let in air and light, and lessens the likelihood of emerald stems.

Shrubs and trees should be allowed to grow naturally, unless they are to be shaped to conform to a set pattern; and it is important to place them in their new location, in the same position relative to the sunlight to which they have been accustomed. They will usually incline a trifle toward the sun. Set them so this inclination need not be changed, as it will take energy to change it. In the open, plants will incline slightly toward the south; but in sheltered and partly shaded places, they will bend in the direction from which the sun shines upon them.

When to Use Lime on Soil Explained; Not a Plant Food

The question of whether or not to use lime on the lawn has always been troublesome to many people because the function of lime as an aid to successful gardening is sometimes not fully understood. Some folks are under the impression that lime applied to the lawn makes it unnecessary to apply complete plant food. The fact is, lime is a soil corrective.

The function of lime is to correct or neutralize acid soils when they are to be used in growing plants which do best in a neutral or alkaline soil. It is necessary, therefore, that you know the condition of your soil as well as the preference of the plants you are going to grow in it before lime can be intelligently used. Many dealers in lawn and garden supplies will test your soil free of charge. Other dealers offer inexpensive soil testing kits which enable you to do your own testing.

Most varieties of grasses do best on soil that is slightly acid. Therefore, it is seldom advisable to use lime on soils which are to be planted in lawns, especially when it is known that weeds, including the dandelion, prefer alkaline soils. Contrary to general belief, lime is not necessarily a sign that your soil is acid, although it is a sign that present conditions are not favorable to the growth of grass. Lack of available plant food in the soil is often indicated by the growth of weeds.

New Trees Line Highway

A summation of the results of the tree-planting campaign undertaken in February under the supervision of the Louisiana highway commission just announced by the chief maintenance engineer who had the work directly in charge, shows that 23,150 trees were planted approximately 50 feet apart along a front of 230 tree miles. Forty-three cities and towns along the highways were employed as rallying points for the armies of tree planters that launched the work in every congressional district in the state. The campaign was commensurate with the Washington, Bi-Centennial, and, at the same time, served a useful and lasting purpose.

Helpful Hints for Yard and Garden Contestants

When you begin to garden, have a definite object in view. Make a comprehensive plan of developments.

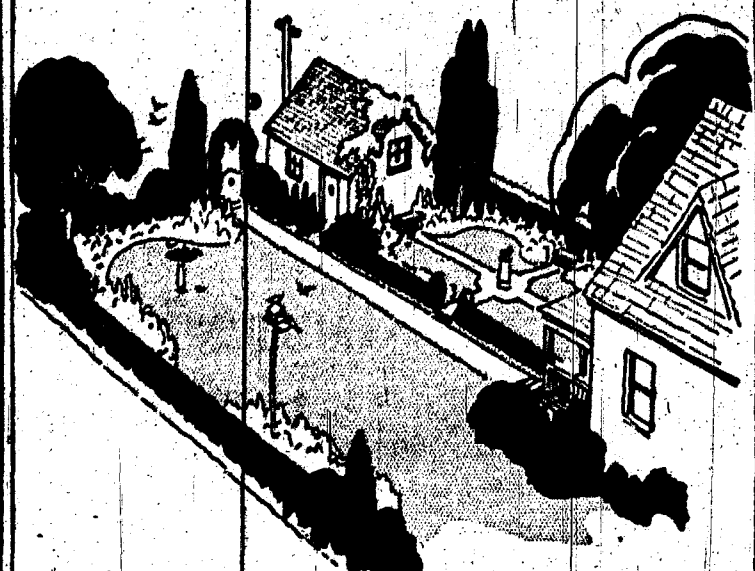

Soften straight lines and sharp angles where possible. Graceful curves are more pleasing to the eye.

Why not get a few houses where the birds can nest? A bath for the birds will give even more pleasure to you than to them.

Nobody wants to plant an oak—they seem so slow growing. Plant some anyway. Others will benefit as you have.

progress and the border plantings. The front yards will count a varying number of points depending on the general impression, lawns, plantings, shade, etc. The appearance of the houses will be taken into consideration, principally in the matter of paint condition and good repair. The improvement in front and back yards and houses will also add points to the total. This improvement will be noticed between the first inspection in May and the last inspection about July 15.

baths, seats, rose arches, sun dials, etc., if properly placed make the lawn much more attractive. These little touches help beautifully.

A new surface coat will not repair a broken or worn out pavement. Neither will sodding bring about luxuriant turf when the soil and conditions beneath are not right.

Avoid too much variety in mass planting; alternating or "salt and pepper" arrangement is not nearly so effective as grouping plants of each kind.

We throw the cut flowers out when they wither and fade. Why not replace some of the growing plants which have not done so well outside?

If you admire your neighbor's flowers and wish to have some as good, make sure you prepare the beds as well as he.

Fertilizer of some kind is like medicine. Given at regular intervals according to prescription, it will bring results. An overdose may kill.

soil to a proper depth. Then plan the location of your trees.

Trees and foundation planting may well be planted the first year. The trees need time to grow, and the foundation planting will help your house to fit into its new surroundings. The lawn should be seeded and annuals sown the first year.

The second year you may plant the shrubbery masses which are to screen objectionable views, and put in the evergreens and other accent plants. Then shrubbery backgrounds for the borders may be planted, and in front of them perennials for the permanent garden picture. Later the architectural features can be added as the final touch to the garden picture.

Such a budget program can be found full of interest. As the planting develops, you may acquire a new conception of the complete development, perhaps, and desire to make changes, perhaps additions to your plan. Do not hesitate to do so, for a garden is a growing thing. When we stop changing it we are apt to lose interest.

Shrubbery, Emphasis

Notice the contrast in the pictures. They are identical, except in one and improvement has been created by planting. Almost any defect can be achieved with plan the house seems too tall, it made to look lower with plan the house seems harsh in appearance the house picture can be with the proper use of shrubs and flowers. If the home lacks color, it can be secured by blooming trees, shrubs and flowers. Whether you realize it or not, opinion of the man you meet to his personal appearance. Clo the first time is largely influenced not make the man but they are factor in the impression we creates in those who come in with him.

The same principle applies home even more than to the ul.

In planning your improvement ways bear in mind the fact that from the house itself, the important feature of the ground, lawn and any shrubbery, and trees which are used as placed in such a way as to make a setting for them.

Shrubbery and trees are essential on any grounds, highly important that they be raised as to produce the best possible on the place as a whole.

School Children Write on the Contest Slogan "You Win If You Lose"

A junior high school English class of the Barrington high school adopted the "You Win If You Lose" slogan as subject for composition. Three of the best compositions are printed below:

By BERNICE THIES

The Yard and Garden contest benefits all who enter. Everyone wins the prize of a happy and healthy summer. Some win extra prizes of five, ten, or fifteen dollars, or special prizes given by the merchants of Barrington. If some people do not win the prizes of money or merchandise, they do win the prize of a beautiful home and surroundings. This, the most valuable of all, can be won by everyone.

By ALFRED CASTLE

This contest will build up loyalty to the city of Barrington. If the contestants try to keep their yards clean and well-kept, they will probably make a habit of it so that the town will keep looking nice even after the contest is over. Even though this loyalty cannot be measured in real money, it is very valuable to a town. If the lawns and gardens are kept in good condition, the value of the property will increase. A well-kept yard will make the property worth much more than if it were run-down. This has been proved many times.

This contest will make Barrington a more beautiful place in which to live besides making it more beautiful. If the rubbish is picked up, there won't be so many flies because rubbish heaps are breeding places for flies. Flies carry germs which spread disease. If there are fewer flies, disease and epidemics will decrease.

Barrington will be a more beautiful town to live in if more people enter the contest. The homes will be more attractive and useful. Besides doing all these things to the town as a whole, the contestants having the best kept hedge, trees, flower garden, buildings, shrubbery, lawn, or yard and garden as a whole, will receive very useful prizes to help keep these things in good condition.

By ROBERT KOENIG

"You Win If You Lose" is the slogan of the Barrington Yard and Garden contest. As I was passing to another class, I heard someone read that slogan aloud and laugh. He said, "How can you win if you lose?"

When I heard him say that I wondered how many people thought as he did.

What does that mean? It means that if you really try to win those prizes, your garden and yard will show so much improvement that you will be proud of it. You win beauty for your surroundings even though you do lose one of the prizes. You can win to a greater extent, too, for if you keep on improving your lawn, it will become of help to Barrington.

For front line or border planting especially, choose few varieties and plant more of them. The results will be more pleasing. Plant the taller things in the back of the border and with the lower growing ones alternating and the border plants in curves or groups. Never expect to get mass effect by straight-line planting.

Proper Setting Helps

Background and sky line are features not half appreciated. Given a proper setting, a cottage will often be more attractive than a poorly set mansion. Plant heavily behind and to the rear sides of your home if on a big lawn.

Look Over Your Bulbs

Summer flowering bulbs such as gladioli, dahlias, cannas, etc., should be looked over carefully. Excessive heat or moisture will start them into growth. Dampness and low temperature are apt to cause decay.

Is Your Home In Style?

How quickly home styles change... styles in houses, styles in furnishings, styles in landscaping. Only yesterday it was all the style to beautify the lawn with flowering shrubbery, showy beds of cannas and geraniums, edgings of gaily-colored foliage plants, a few shade trees, and... an evergreen or two. But not today... today is the day of Evergreens! A newly-aroused interest in evergreens is sweeping the country, until no up-to-date planting is in style without them.

"POOR LITTLE RICH COUNTRY"

— by Henry T. Ewald —

Like the "poor little rich girl" of the old Broadway play, America has been sighing and sorrowing in the midst of plenty for almost three years.

True, we are not the fabulously wealthy nation we thought we were in 1928-29. We have lost other things besides confidence, although that, by all odds, is the greatest loss. But we are exaggerating our poverty today as we exaggerated our wealth a few years ago—over-emphasizing failure as we over-emphasized success—turning a deaf ear to encouragement as we turned a deaf ear to warnings. Deflation of national spirit, too, can be carried to an unjustifiable degree.

Advertising, and business men who employ advertising wisely, can play a leading part in righting conditions and rebuilding industry, with profit to both the country and themselves. Now is a time of wonderful opportunity. If there be any one who doubts this, or who believes that the "poor little rich country" isn't rich in many ways even now, let him consider these facts:

Our population of 123,000,000 people, long husbanding their resources, are greater potential producers and consumers of products of all kinds than at any other previous time.

Savings deposits are at a record peak of $28,215,000,000 and depositors number more than 51,000,000.

Life insurance totals $109,146,440,473, by far the greatest volume in our history.

Almost five billions in gold are piled up in our national treasury. And the amount is steadily increasing.

In natural resources we are one of the richest nations in the world, with coal, oil, timber and precious metals in vast stores and practically every base mineral deposited in our areas.

The gross income from our leading crops last year was more than $7,000,000,000.

We can, if we wish, interpret even these great advantages pessimistically or we can know them for what they are, great tools for recovery. We can grasp them purposefully and remind America that she wants things, can achieve them and is still rich, still able.

This is the major task confronting Advertising today. Advertising is ready for the task—when and as business puts its own house in order. Advertising can and will win markets for good products now, and increasing markets in the future. It is the swift, direct, economical way to bring values to the attention of great masses of people, to stimulate desire and promote the will to buy, always assuming that it is good advertising—soundly planned, ably prepared, well directed.

Some day, soon or late, but preferably soon, we shall believe in ourselves again and act upon our beliefs. And then our "poor little rich country" will not be poor, even in spirit, very much longer.

"All God's Chillun Want Things" and will discover ways to get them as surely as desire is the mainspring of

but remember that bad habits are hard to break. You may lose a trick or so on a big hand and still go game but, if you are just as careless on the next hand, the trick you lose may prevent you from going game. The only way to become a good Auction or Contract player is to play every hand, strong or weak, for the maximum. Concentration on what you are doing will win more for you than any other one thing.

The following hands were played in a recent duplicate tournament and the bidding showed a wide diversity of opinion. The hands are given, so that you will have an opportunity of comparing your analysis with the actual results.

extant that he would not embarrass his customers and clients. The honesty to which I refer must be of a much higher and greater type.

It must be willing to forego momentary advantages because in the long run the specific action may bring harm to his customers or possibly to business generally.

Sentiment in Business
Sentiment in business? Yes, there is nothing else. What is it that prompts agitation for reforms in every avenue of life? Why is it we are interested in better agriculture, better roads, better schools, better community life? It is sentiment; it is affection; it is pride; it is sense of duty.

It is faith, confidence, hope, the intangible that forms the very warp and weft of modern business, and without it in so large a degree is this trust as in banking, and in no sphere of banking to be so great an extent as in the country bank.

Farm Board Wheat for Needy
Farmers of Illinois families in need will be helped from the federal farm board surplus, it has been learned. Under an act passed in congress recently the federal farm board was authorized to distribute its wheat surplus to "provide food for the needy of the nation." A large quantity of wheat was recently milled into flour at Beardstown, a part of which was sent to Danville and the remainder at Beardstown.

Union of Pawnbrokers

Commemorated in Flag
Five long-dead pawnbrokers are commemorated by the flag that the duchy of Cornwall, of which the prince of Wales is duke, had made for itself.

The design of the flag, which flies over the duchy offices in London, is 15 yellow balls arranged in triangular form on a black ground. This is the coat of arms of the duchy, which came into being thus: In the days of the early Plantagenets the pawnbrokers of Cornwall were among the most enterprising and prosperous merchants in all England. Five of these "uncles," whose names appear on the manuscript of the British museum, formed an association to finance the crown jewels being pledged—a war which King John had planned against France.

For a trade-mark, the five pawnbrokers combined the balls of their five shops and adorned the symbol with the motto "One and All," to indicate that no business could be arranged unless all of them were present.—New York Times Magazine.

Barrington Track Teams Out-Point Bensenville Squads

Group to Compete in State District Contest at Elgin Saturday

The Barrington varsity track team ran over the Bensenville team last Friday, between showers, and won by a 77 to 40 score. At the same time the Freshman-Sophomore squad from Barrington took eight of the thirteen firsts, ten of the seconds and seven of the thirds, with sweeps the 100-yard dash and the shot put.

Broncho point winners were as follows: Master 15, Thorpe 11, Reese 10, Williams 8, Wolf 6, Roth 6, H. Miller 5, Daum 4, Brandt, Dave Campbell, E. Miller, and Catlow 3 each, and Lipofsky and Berman 1 each. The locals also entered two relay teams and won first and second in the half mile relay which finished off a rather late afternoon.

Offer Real Competition

These Frosh-Soph affairs are arranged so that Coach Clark can give his future stars some active competition and the meets have proved to be very interesting. In this meet Earl Eilers topped the mile, Earl Hutchings took first in the 440 and a third in the 50, Henry Brandt got five points in the 100 and three in the 50-yard dash, Roscoe Rowland won the 220 and took second in both the pole vault and hurdles, and Ublrich came in ahead in the half mile. Howard Meiners won the broad jump and placed second in the high jump and 100-yard dash, and LaVerne Kuhlman won the hurdles.

Dave Capull topped the discuss the farthest but he was entered as a varsity man in his specialty, the pole vault. Don Moore won second in the mile, Willis Altemeyer second in the 220 and 440 as well as a third in the 100. Ray Osborne tied for second in the half mile, Claude Conn took second in the shot and third in the javelin. Art Workman second in the javelin and third in the vault, while Harold Calkins in the mile, Frederick Wendt in the 440, Mike Taylor in the discuss, Dave Capull in the shot and Bob Kampert in the high jump each came in third.

Earlier in the week the Soph-Frosh combination from Heights proved to be about eight points stronger than the ponies from Barrington and topped the meet on the Palatine field.

Enter State Qualifying Meet

This week there is a combination meet scheduled at Libertyville for Wednesday after school, a Frosh-Soph contest with Palatine on Friday, and on Saturday the state district meet at Elgin. In the district meet the winners and runners up get to go to the state meet at Urbana. Coach Clark has entered 14 of his squad but experience is all that most of them are expected to get. If Orr Williams gets off one of his good jumps he has a slim chance that Bill Meister might make the grade in one of the hurdle races.

Just to prove to any doubtful man or woman that Kruschen Salt is the SAFE way to reduce—let us take the letter of Mr. F. J. Fritz of Cincinnati, O., recently received.

He writes: "I've tried extreme dieting, setting up exercises with very little results—but the results from Kruschen are almost incredible. In 3 months I reduced from 205 to 179 pounds and feel stronger than ever—no more wheezing or gasping for breath—friends say I look 100% better."

Bear in mind, you fat man, that there is danger in too much fat—try the safe way to reduce—one-half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salt in a glass of hot water every morning—put down on faty meats and sweets—one bottle that lasts 4 weeks costs but a trifle—get it at Freulund Drug Co. or any druggery in the world.

Johnson Scathed His Wigs
The famed Doctor Johnson's wigs were usually very shabby and their fore parts burned away by the near approach of the candle, which his short-sightedness rendered necessary in reading. At one home he visited, the butler always had a new wig ready and as Johnson would go to the dining room the butler would change his wig and this ceremony was sometimes performed every day.

Mankind Yet May Find Use for Desert Wastes

Whoever finds a cheap way to separate water and salt will change the face of the world. Deserts, according to the late Prof. Percival Lowell, are the beginning of the end of life upon the earth, and they are widening. Lower California and the west coast of Mexico, Central and South America down to Cape Horn are arid most of the year. Australia is ringed around with water and vast stretches of barren beaches. The Sahara and Arabia are bone-dry all year. Yet here are the seas, covering more than three-fourths of the earth, used by us merely to sail on and fish in.

In every 100 pounds of sea water there are only three and one-half pounds of salty materials, three-fourths of the salts being sodium chloride, or common salt. If we know how to separate the salt and water economically, we could drive back the deserts from every shore.

Nature knows one way; she evaporates the water, leaving the salt behind, and then condenses the vapor into rain. On ships at sea, man makes use of the same process, but this evaporation process is too expensive for use ashore. Unless willing to let nature take its course, multiplying man will in time have to tackle the water problem in a new way.—Los Angeles Times.

Warning About Neglect Credited to Franklin

The authorship of the old saying about "fog want of a nail a kingdom was lost," is attributed to Benjamin Franklin. In the preface of his "Poor Richard's Almanack for 1758," Richard Saunders, the name Franklin assumed in the writing, quotes a man named Father Abraham as saying: "And again, he Abraham adviseth to circumspection and care, even in the smallest matters, because sometimes a little neglect may breed great mischief, adding, for want of a nail, the shoe was lost; for want of a shoe the horse was lost; and for want of a horse the rider was lost, being overtaken and slain by the enemy; all for want of care about a horseshoe nail." No historical incident of the nature is known, and it is believed that Franklin invented the story. In old school records; Franklin's precept is given as follows: "For the want of a nail the shoe was lost; for the want of a shoe the horse was lost; for the want of a horse the rider was lost; for the want of a rider the battle was lost; for the want of a battle the kingdom was lost—and all for the want of a horseshoe nail."

Dives With Her Babies

The grebe is a tiny bird endowed with a wonderful amount of cunning. She hides her nest in a manner that makes it impossible for any human to discover, but it is when the five tiny young appear that the parents bring out their cunning. You will seldom see them, although the babies are able to swim and dive short distances a few hours after they leave their shells. If there is the slightest sign of danger, the mother gives the alarm cry, and instantly the distinctive birds scuttle across the water to her. She lifts both wings, and all five scramble underneath. Then she brings her wings to her side, with her family safely hidden underneath, dives with them, and carries them under water to a place of safety.

Two Men Carlyle Honored

Two men I honor, and no third. First, the toll-woman craftsman that with earth-made implements laboriously conquers the earth and makes her man's. Venerable to me is the hard hand, crooked, coarse.

A second man I honor, and still more highly: Him who is seen tolling, for the spiritually indispensable; not daily bread, but the bread of life. These two to all degrees I honor; all else is dust and dust, which let the wind blow whither it listeth.—Thomas Carlyle in "Sartor Resartus."

Knew His Host

He was well known to his friends for his weakness for extravagant living and a distinct aversion to paying anybody when he could possibly avoid it; and the other day, having taken and furnished a somewhat sumptuous flat, he invited some of his friends to dinner.

"Don't you think," he asked proudly, as he was showing them round the place, "that it's rather nicely furnished? Don't you consider I deserve great credit for it?"

"You do," remarked one of the party dryly, "and I should imagine you've got it, too."

Americans Use Most Power

Some years ago a farm power survey showed that each farm worker in the United States produced more than six times as much farm products as the average Italian farm worker, and used 2.65 horse power as compared to 1.5 horse power for the Italian worker. Now the average Nebraska farmer with more than 5 horse power available is able to produce 18 times as much as the average Italian. This difference in productive capacity accounts largely for the difference in their scale of living.—Wisconsin Agriculturalist.
