Anticipate Record Vote in Townships Near Barrington

Registration Greater Than on Previous Years; More Election Interest.

The total vote which will be cast on November 8 in Cuba and Ellettsburg townships as well as in Barrington and Palatine townships will be great.

er than the total vote cast at any previous election, according to registration increases recorded in all precincts.

A total of 1378 voters registered in Cula township. This included the "carry overs" from two years ago as well as new registrations of October 18 and November 1. The total registration in Ela township is larger than two years ago. In Barrington township the total registration is 1419. In Palatine the total registration is 1647. These fi-figures are about 25 per cent greater than the registration figures of 1930. Population growth is partly responsible for the record breaking registration in the four townships. surrounding Barrington. The greater interest in elections—comparable with the interest in 1912—is another factor. A record breaking country wide poll is expected this year.

In both Cook and Lake counties the polls will be open from 6 a. m. until 5 p. m. The early morning hours will be especially convenient to commuters who will have an opportunity to vote then rather than to attempt to get back home in time to vote before the prompt closing hour at 5 p. m. precinct judges and clerks have advised.

LAKE ZURICH REVIEW

Millions of Fish to Be Planted in Lake County Lakes

Zurich, Bangs and Other Waters Nearby May Receive Fingerlings

Lake Zurich, Bangs lake and others of the southeastern part of Lake county may be included among the waters recipient of fish fingerlings distributed by the state department of conservation. Although no specific mention of the lakes has been made, there is no objection to sportsmen interested in certain bodies of water writing to the state department of conservation or the hatchery at Spring Grove asking for allotments for their lakes.

Approximately 6,000,000 fingerling blue gills, crappies, black and small mouth bass, will be distributed in waters of northern Illinois, according to Ralph Bradford, director of the state department of conservation. The stock will go into the waters of McHenry, Boone, DeWitt and Cook counties. Hundreds of thousands of the fingerlings will be planted in the Kishwaukee, Fox and Rock rivers, where the department has already released this year 250,000,000 lake fry. The remainder of this year's crop of fingerlings will be planted in 65 lakes in that region, 52 of which are in Lake county and 12 in McHenry county.

The first shipment from the Spring Grove hatchery was 1,200,000 blue gills and crappie fingerlings. This week and next blue gill and crappie fingerlings will be taken from two ponds, black bass from one 20-acre breeding pond and small mouth bass fingerlings from a three-acre pond. As soon as the ponds are refilled the breeding stock of 600 black bass, 170 small mouth bass, 500 blue gills and 350 crappies will be returned to the ponds.

Clothing Class at Elia High School Has Good Display

The clothing class of Elia Township High school has on display at Fink's store, the garments made at their first sewing project. They are baby dresses, little girl's dresses and two pairs of culottes. The girls are justly proud of their effort since several of them had never even tried to treadle a sewing machine until they took up this work at school. Each girl figured the amount of material necessary and the final cost of the garment she made. There is a lot of satisfaction to be had from the ability to mold an attractive dress from a little material and a paper pattern.

The school wishes to take this opportunity to express their appreciation to Mr. Fink for his cooperation in giving up his display window for our exhibit.

She leaves to mourn her death, five daughters, two sons, many grandchildren and many other relatives and friends. a history making epoch that will affect the Home, Church and School. The Farmer, Merchant and Professional Men; the Manufacturer, Mechanic and Laborer; the Rich and Poor alike are all mutually interested and have felt the depression which was the aftermath of the world war. Every nation has felt it, which has proven to us that no nation can live by itself alone; we are all dependent upon one another.

Now that the depression is somewhat abated and business is beginning to look up again, it would be the greatest folly of the American people to change Political Leadership at this time. President Hoover has become a world figure who has performed a herculean task and has rendered a service to all of us for which we can never repay him. No President of our country has ever been called upon to face such grave problems, and he did it with great courage and skill; therefore we owe him our allegiance.

Herbert Hoover is a practical man whose mind runs parallel with American Ideals and Traditions unlike his opponent whose utterances have only been visionary and impracticable. However he did say:

"The deep question in this campaign is one of confidence in leadership—in leaders. The measure of truth of what they say, is what they have said; the measure of what they will do is what they have done."—Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Now the above test is an acceptable challenge to all supporters of President Hoover and we feel certain he will carry the day by that standard next November 8th with flying colors.

We all indorse the straight Republican ticket for State and Nation because all candidates in the Republican Column are committed to indorse the platform adopted at the National Republican Convention and are accepting President Hoover's leadership.
Now if you vote for any candidate outside of this column you will impair the success of the National Ticket, as President Hoover must have the support of all office holders in the State as well as in the Nation—that means the Governor as well as the congress of State and Nation. Personal grievance must be forgotten.

WHEN you save food you save MONEY

AN electric refrigerator saves food every day. And food saved is money saved.

Meats and vegetables that are left over from meals can be safely stored away in your electric refrigerator . . . and served later in the week as delicious as ever.
When you have extra milk and cream on hand, there's no danger of its souring over night. When markets feature low prices, you can buy foods in large quantities . . .

keep them fresh for a long time. And so it goes. In countless ways an electric refrigerator saves and saves and saves.
Nickels, dimes or quarters every day. These savings more than offset the cost of operation . . . they actually help you pay for the model you select. And all the time you are enjoying the priceless convenience of perfect, automatic refrigeration.

You will find interesting displays of electric refrigerators at your Public Service Store and other neighborhood refrigerator dealers. There are models for large and small families. Stop in and learn how conveniently you can purchase a money-saving electric refrigerator on a monthly payment plan.

ABOUT THE PUBLIC SERVICE COMPANY

Several outstanding facts about this Company probably are not as well understood as I think they should be.

(1) It is purely an operating company and is not owned or controlled by any other company. (2) The majority of its stockholders live right here—it is "home owned".

(3) All of its officers and employees live here. (4) Its future is irrevocably dependent upon the growth and prosperity of northern Illinois.

War Town

Of France, Miss Wood told of her experiences on the occasion of her first trip to Europe in 1921. She was sent to Cuneil by a friend who had given a bell to the village of Cuneil in memory of her son who was killed in the war.

She described the desolation of the French villages near Verdun and told of the important part the village bell plays in the life of a French village.

Miss Wood acted as godmother in the dedication ceremony. At the dinner following the ceremony, the mayor of the village and some of the more prominent citizens toasted the giver of the bell, Miss Wood, America and many other toasts. Miss Wood was then called upon and her toast was to the friendship of America and France. She made them a pledge to do all she could to foster that friendship.

The large American cemetery of Romagne was cited as a symbol of the friendship of America for France.

TELEPHONE, BARRINGTON NO. 1

LINCOLN 1864—HOOVER 1932

Mid-October, 1864—Abraham Lincoln sat in the White House, his re-election very uncertain. The Civil War had been under way for three and one-half years. Gettysburg had been fought and won by the Union and the outcome of the war had really been decided. But the people did not realize this fact. Financially, physically, mentally, morally—they were exhausted. Misery was everywhere and the average man's personal troubles were overshadowing the real issues of the day.

Throughout the land democratic orators echoed the party's platform, which declared the war a complete failure, and, in mid-October, 1864, the tired American still believed that such was the case. But, as election day approached the mist rolled from the voters' eyes. They saw that the man of the people whom they had criticized so harshly was winning their battle and was entitled to a square deal. The result was that Abraham Lincoln—to all appearances a loser in October—emerged from the fight an overwhelming victor. The people had seen the truth in time!

Mid-October, 1932—Herbert Hoover sits in the White House facing an uncertain election. His problems have equaled those of Abraham Lincoln. The financial and economic cataclysm which, as the aftermath of the great war, has swept Europe, America and the rest of the world nearly resulted in general chaos. We and other nations have stood on the brink of the greatest catastrophe ever known. For more than three years the war has been waged in America. Some mistakes were made at the start, as in the Civil War, but through the leadership of a genius we are emerging from our difficulties. The Gettysburg of this war has been fought and won, but the exhausted people do not yet realize that fact.

The democratic platform proclaims the economic war a failure and, to a large number of Americans, exhausted with his or her battles, this seems a fact. But, is it not likely that before the average citizen votes he or she will awaken to face the real truth?

A man of the people, deep in his understanding of their problems, is winning the world's greatest war for them—a war in which we were engulfed by factors beyond our control—and deserves re-election to the same extent that Lincoln deserved it in 1864. It would seem likely that America will think and will re-elect Herbert Hoover by a wide majority. This is as it should be.—Cumberland (Md.) Daily News

Governors of 29 states and the commissioners of the District of Columbia initiated a concerted program of automobile accident prevention on August 1, when simultaneously they issued proclamations or public statements to the citizens of their respective commonwealths, calling upon them to participate in a general movement to safeguard life and limb upon streets and highways. The proclamations, messages and statements of the governors in general commend the activities of the press and the many clubs, societies and organizations which are co-operating and spreading street and highway safety principles.

OUR
WASHINGTON
LETTERBy National Editorial Association
(Special to The Review)

A TUG-OF-WAR this winter between transportation systems is apparent from casual statements of financial and industrial chiefs. The battle ground will cover all state capitals—42 states where legislatures are due to convene. The railroads want the highway transport—a competitive media—placed under drastic regulation. The highway users are insistent that motorists should not bear the burden of taxation. States and the national government, the highway groups complain, have found that gasoline and car taxes will produce revenue with only scattered and hence inappreciable protests. The motorists of all classes have put on their fighting clothes to check additional imposts. The importance of this legislative subject may be gleaned from the appointment of such national figures as Calvin Coolidge and Alfred E. Smith to the special committee, organized by mutual savings groups having investments in securities.

CONSIDERABLE BUSTLE and pre-election activity among residents of Washington who are in the government service has developed. The political leaders back home have kept tabs on former voters with the sole idea of having them qualify as absentee voters. Some states are stringent about the voting franchise and do not permit ballots by mail. Usually the two major parties canvass the non-residents with the same caution as precinct workers. They want to have assurances that the ballots will be marked for their candidates. Absentee voters have frequently changed local elections where the margin was close. Indiana voters in Washington, in particular, have been induced to return home for registration. Transportation has been provided by volunteers, owning cars and special rail and bus rates are available. The "get-out-the-vote" movement has been pushed vigorously in the eastern states.

WIN OR LOSE, there are a score of men who realize their duties require their presence at the capital. The members of the house appropriations committee must be ready with drafts for fiscal measures for the main body early in December. Department officials are ready to defend their budget estimates for the year beginning July 1, 1933. With pledges given for drastic cuts, the federal agency men know full well they will be obliged to operate far under the figures they submit. The veterans of the house committee are hard-boiled and familiar with departmental edicts. More than other years, the budget will be anxiously watched by government employees whose jobs are in the balance.

THE ELECTION CONTEST committees of the senate and house will have several cases filed for re-election. Already, contestants for congressional jobs are freely charging violations of the law in the excessive use of funds. These official investigations are designed to purify politics. Sometimes the expenditures of the members go beyond bounds which brings the pertinent question "After all, is it worth the taxpayers' money?" No one believes the sworn statements of the candidates as to election expenses in the majority of election cases which pass unchallenged.

CAMPAIGN BALLYHOO will officially close next Saturday. One problem left to prevent party spirit, so essential to the success of the ticket, from languishing over the week-end. With the blasts of partisan orators called within a few days, the responsible leaders would like to know—has the voting public been impressed or entertained?

Season's Final

Encountered Strongest Team of Conference in Game
Here Wednesday

By the time this is in print the Libertyville Wildcats will have another scalp slapping at their belt if things run true to form. They are strongly moved down all opposition in the conference and prior to Wednesday had left only Barrington and Antioch between them and another championship. Still, when our romancers what happened to Notre Dame last week it makes that add some spine up again.

Heights and Turner have both shown that there are holes in the Libertyville line and that they of course can be stopped at times although neither school was able to beat them. In Duddle they have an excellent punter and passer while the red-headed lineerman can both pass and hit the tackles and could make a specialty of smashing the center. This Libertyville line is so big that the Bronchos seldom have much to do on downfield except it was considered little more than a miracle if the Bronchos could turn them back. Coach Clark hoped to find the Wildcats over-confident and if his boys played that real kind of underdog football they would give Libertyville a real battle. Short was banged up in practice this week and was a doubtful starter. His absence from the line would be sure to hurt.

Win or lose, on Wednesday night the Bronchos will start getting ready for their Armistice day game at Arlington Heights. This will be the last game of the season and a victory over the Cardinals will make the season a complete success. The conference standing at present is as follows:

Team	W	L	T	Ave
Libertyville	3	0	0	900
Arlington Heights	2	1	1	863
Warren	2	2	0	800
Barrington	2	2	0	806

GEORGE WASHINGTON'S TRAVELS

IN picking up historic odds and ends en route, the traveler is directed to Fort Frederick, fifteen miles west of Hagerstown, Maryland, on U. S. 40 turning south at Indian Springs, to Big Pool on the Potomac River. This crumbling entrance is one of the scarred reminders of anxious days on the Colonial frontier. Washington visited here while in Command at Winchester.

TURNING in the saddle for a moment to survey Washington's travels as a youth in Colonial service, his perilous mission to Fort Le Boeuf in 1753, his surrender with honor at Great Meadows July 4, 1754, and his heroic conduct under Braddock in 1755 move swiftly in review as he approaches final action at Fort Duquesne.

WHILE leisurely on his way to Williamsburg early in 1753, Washington had stopped at this place to dine with a friend, Colonel Chamberlain, and here he met Martha Dandridge Parke Custis. In her kitchen, at the right, in Williamsburg, he spent delightful evening days. Released from the strain of military travel, he was back again on quiet home roads of Tidewater Virginia, with his wedding day near at hand.

By James W. Brooks

HARD beginnings often make easy endings. It had fallen to the lot of Washington, at 21, to uncover French designs for older heads to prevent. But Fate would otherwise, and on November 24, 1753, the French, having had enough of this persistent youth, abandoned Fort Duquesne and set it on fire. Washington raised the British flag on the ruins, rode to Williamsburg, resigned his commission, and prepared for his wedding to Martha Dandridge Parke Custis.

Small and Horner Same on Major Issue

mental organization in Cook county should go into effect unless approved by a majority of the people in the several and separate municipalities affected by such proposed change. In short, I believe that no village or city government should be abolished and another put in its place unless desired by a majority vote of those living in such city or municipality.

Very truly yours,
LEN SMALL

Also Opposed
Judge Henry Horner, democratic nominee for governor, also stands for protecting the rights of the country towns in Cook county, according to a statement he made. Judge Horner declared his opposition to House Bill 275, introduced in the state legislature by a republican representative, which would provide for compulsory abolition of country town government functions.

Judge Horner said:
"I am unqualifiedly opposed to passage of House Bill 275.
"While I recognize the pressing necessity of the consolidation of some of our taxing bodies for the purpose of effecting a much needed reduction in taxes and other economies, I am against any proposed legislation which takes away from the people, as does the bill in question, their right to determine their own form of government. The enactment of such legislation violates the principle of home rule for which I have always stood and on which my record before the public is entirely clear.

"Local self government as administered in sturdy and thriving communities clearly indicates that the best form of government is the government closest to the people.

"Not only should any enactment of the legislature of this kind require that it be submitted to the people in interest for approval or disapproval, but it should not become effective with relation to any particular municipality until a majority of the voters of that particular municipality adopts its provisions."

A Century of Progress Pageant at Salem Church Sunday Evening, Nov. 6

A popular pageant, showing in about 100 living characters, the development and progress of the Sunday school movement in the Evangelical church, will be presented at Salem Evangelical at 7 p. m. Sunday.

This pageant is like a library from which one may draw suggestions for study of the general history of the Evangelical church covering a period of 100 years.

Out of the store-house of information these living characters will link the present with the past and the young with the old. This pageant teaches the valuable lesson how zealously and devotedly our forefathers carried on the work of the church and the effect will be wholesome and helpful to the present age.

Prof. C. E. Oliver of North Central college is the author of this pageant and deserves credit for his widespread success. The pageant will be open to the public.

Advises Against Closing of School Due to Scarlet Fever

With a number of schools already suspended because of scarlet fever and the probability that others will close for the same reason, Dr. Andy Hall, state health director, declared in a recent statement that this method of dealing with an epidemic is both wasteful and ineffective. The temporary employment of medical and nursing service is far more effective and much cheaper than closing the schools as a means of combating scarlet fever, he states.

House to House Relief Canvass to Start Monday

First Door North of Fredlund Drug Store Secured for Relief Station

An extensive campaign of the Barrington Relief committee to raise money and collect food and clothing for relief purposes throughout the coming winter will be officially opened Monday with members of the committee and some 30 women who will assist in a house to house canvass of the community. A last meeting of the women who will take part in the drive will be held at the village hall Friday for the final preparations. The drive will continue throughout the week. The canvassers plan to contact all persons in the community who are in a position to lend assistance either financially or through donations of food or clothing. A relief station will be opened in Barrington Saturday evening for the receiving of donations of food and clothing from those who wish to assist the organization in its work. For their convenience the station will be kept open every Saturday evening from 7 to 8:30 p. m. The vacant store building, the first door north of the Fredlund Drug Co. on North Hough street, has been secured for the relief station and will be used to store the donations until they will be needed.

Already the relief committee is receiving supplies of clothing, vegetables, fruit, etc., most of which were collected in a drive through the Barrington rural districts conducted by various local organizations two weeks ago. These supplies are now being used until they can be supplemented through funds expected to be raised in the campaign next week.

Simultaneously, campaigns will be conducted throughout Cook county by the Emergency Welfare Fund of Cook county of which the local unit is a member. Elmer G. Gleason is chairman of the suburban district 2 which includes Barrington, Wheeling and Northfield townships. Mr. B. Schreiber is chairman of the Barrington Relief committee.

Many new juvenile books will be on display and a splendid selection is assured. On Monday the district schools will visit the library and enjoy the exhibit of books on Wednesday afternoon. Miss Beulah Beckley's fourth grade will entertain at the library with a little play. On Saturday diplomas will be presented to the children who completed their vacation reading courses. Parents as well as children have been invited to visit the library for these programs. Beginning next Monday the library will be open on Mondays from 3 to 6 p. m. It was decided at the regular monthly meeting of the library board held Monday evening, Nov. 7. The board felt that the public could be served more efficiently during these hours on Mondays.

Committee Starts Sale of Tickets for Benefit Play

Who will miss seeing the home talent play drama "House of a Thousand Thrills" which will be given at The Catlow theatre December 1 and 2 under the auspices of the Barrington Lions club? "Not many persons in Barrington" answers R. E. Willmering, chairman of the ticket sales committee which has started canvassing the town for distribution of tickets for the play. The proceeds of which will be added to the Barrington Relief fund. The first response to sale of tickets has been encouraging. Mr. Willmering says. "The committee believes that a packed house will greet the players on both evenings. The plot revolves around the attempts by several crooks to purloin the jewels of a wealthy eccentric, a retired leader of society. The play is filled with thrills as the name indicates. It is the type of plot for home production which proves most popular. A cast of 11 persons has been rehearsing twice weekly under the direction of T. E. Davis and R. A. Mundorff. The full cast and their character parts will be announced next week.
