EDITOR OF THE PARK RIDGE HERALD. -So many of our friends have expressed the wish that they might see something in print of my daughter's experience and work in India that I avail myself of your offer to publish, and send you herewith some extracts from her recent letters. Yours very truly,

GEORGE W. COLMAN. Allahabad, India.

"I don't know when I have wished more, that my friends at home could be here, than I have during the past week. Nov. 4 and 5, a Sunday school convention was held in the Methodist church here. At 4 o'clock Nov. 5, there was a our school girls and they enjoyed it. I played for the singing and have not heard girls sing better since I have been in India. They almost all understand English. Towards the close they sang "When He cometh to make to make up His jewels," in Hindustanic. A native pastor spoke, and the meeting closed with a Hindi bhajan sung by our school. A bhajan is a peculiar kind of hymn with many repetitions. Some of them are very pretty. Both the words and tunes are Hindu-

Nov. 6, 7, and 8, meetings were held here at the church in our compound for the native Christian pastors and catechists. Although I could not understand all that was said, still it was interesting to see these Christian of our missionaries have Many spoken of the good feeling prevading this convention for native Christian pastors and teachers, and said it was remarkable. One who has been in India between fifteen and twenty years said he nad never before been so impressed at a Hindustani meeting.

The son of a native Christian, an unconverted man, came here from Futtengurh on purpose to disturb by disagreeable remarks. But he was converted and went home in a very different spirit.

Soon after the opening remarks most of the meetings were thrown open, and anyone could talk who wished to. Many of the brethren told incidents of their own personal experience, how their relatives had persecuted and cast them off when it was known they had been baptized. One man said that his brother recanted under the pressure brought to bear, and when he went home his relatives begged him to do as his brother had done. He said he could not deny that he was a Christian, and though sorely tempted, God gave him strength to stand firm.

A missionary told of an earnest native Christian pastor who had a son who was very bad. He hated his father and Christianity and told his companion he would kill him. At a certain time his father went through the jungle on his way to preach. The son followed with a gun in his hand ready When he came to shoot him. near to where his father was he saw him kneeling on the ground in prayer. This so softened the boy's heart that he turned back and left his father unmolested. To-day he, also, is a Christian and engaged in missionary work. I wish some of the people at home who do not believe in foreign missions could have attended these meetings and seen what a difference there was, and is, between earnest Christians in the quiet services and the idol-worshiping heathen around them.

Another missionary spoke of a fakir who, since his conversion, has been laboring among those who were formerly his disciples in Hindooism, endeavoring to lead them to Christ. who taught a day school attended by high caste boys, was on Sunday the attending a young people's meeting, were no marks of violence and only a Journal.

This was done, and seventeen active and seven associate members. We have Presbyterian, Baptist, Methodist and, I think, members of the Church of England, among our active members. In order to get the benefits of the comments in the Golden Rule, we intend to take up the topics given a month later than you do. Now if you know of any one who has books on Christian Endeavor, that they have read and wish to give away. them that I can make good use of now.

The decided stand that the convention in Minneapolis took against the opening of the world's fair on Sunday cheered the Christians here very much.

Now we want you to pray for us, that we may increase in numbers and influence; but most of all in spirituality and all Christian graces. We have about fifty scholars now, all we can accomodate, still we are sorry when one has to leave for any reason. Last year, in April or May, a little girl named Ruth left us, and the last news we had about her was that she had been married to an old man, and was very unhappy. This was the mother's doing, which seems almost incredible to us, for Ruth is only 11, and the man, besides being old, is said to be very bad. Poor little child, our hearts ache for her, but there is nothing we can do. The mother, who was thought to be a Christian, has gone back to Mohammedapism entirely, and will probably bring up her little boys in couldn't class it at all, and when this that faith. The customs of the country make their life such a burden, and little, if anything, can be done to prevent it. Most, if not all, of the girls we have now, are the daughters of native Christians so their lot is much brighter than tians, so their lot is much brighter than destination. Fish, flesh and fowl was that of the Hindu or Mohammedan girls around them. Very often they have Dancing, singing and the usual formula their own choice in the matter of marrying, and are not obliged to marry a man whether they are willing or not. In his pockets were an envelope containing $18.00 and a quart bottle of whiskey of which the greater part had run out in the snow. The dead man had been visiting his brother-Nov. 8 a society was formed with in-law, A. Scheunemann, at the seventeen active and seven associate "Point," and had started home at s o'clock the evening before. He was sober at the time. Arund was a laboring man and leaves a family. An inquest was held on Thursday and developed the following facts: That deceased came to his death from exposure, superinduced by the excessive use of alcohol. The jury comprised the following: Hiram Bassett, foreman; C. B. Moore, W. E. Blaikie, John Humor reports of the convention, please tell mel, J. W. Miller and C. Tarnow. Although the testimony of the Scheunemann boy at the inquest would make it appear that the deceased was sober, there does not appear to be any doubt that such was not the case, and popular sentiment con-demns the course taken by relatives at "The Point," for allowing the man to start for home on this bitter cold night without some one to look after him. To C. B. Moore, the village policeman, cannot be accorded too much praise in connection with the matter, for the close attention which he gave it from the beginning until the close of the whole affair. community was startled by the report that John Longley, youngest son of W. S. Longley, had been accidentally shot by Irving Allison, while the two were out on a rabbit hunt. As they were getting over a fence on the north town line road near Feehanville, Allison thought he would let down the hammers of his gun, but in doing so the gun went off, the whole charge of shot taking effect in John Longley's back. The boy fell to the ground, and Allison, seestand alone, hastily wrapped him in his coat and vest that he had on and ran to Feehanville for assistance. He and stated the facts to Mr. Condon, the foreman, who immediately rendered all the assistance necessary and brought the wounded boy down to Des Plaines thoroughly exhausted and chilled through by lying so long in the snow, that it required the persistent application of warm flannels, hot bricks and jugs of hot water to restore his normal temperature. Dr. Earle attends the case and the prospects are now favorable for recovery. There has been much comment on the refusal of the Feehanville brotherhood to render any assistance in the case. Irving Allison says he applied to one of the brothers-but does not know his name—and was told to wait till he could consult somebody higher in authority. He soon came out stating that no horse could be furnished. If this statement is not according to the facts, it is due to the brotherhood and the public at large to give some explanation of what now seems to be an inexcusable negligence in the matter. ### "IS MANNING IN PURGATORY?"

Father O'Connor, the Ex-Priest, Lectures on the Subject in New York.

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.-Father O'Connor, the ex-priest, lectured in this city last night on the subject: "Is Cardinal Manning in Purgatory?"

Father O'Connor quoted from the Book of Purgatory," by Father Muller, the Paulist father, and read from Cardinal Pellamy's treatise the paragraph in book II., chapter 6, where it says that 'almost all theologians teach that the damned and sacred in purgatory occupy the same place and are burned by the same fire."

TOW BOATS CAST ADRIFT IN A HEAVY GALE.

About 125 Italian Workmen Helplessly Floating Out to Sea in Four Garbage Scows-Last Seen Off the Long Island

New York, Jan. 28 .- The tow boat Webster and two scows belonging to the department or street cleaning are drifting out to sea. The steamboat is beyond control of her skipper and crew. She has not been seen since 9:20 o'clock Tuesday morning, when she was sighted by the Rockaway life-saying station. At that time she was signaling for assistance. She had about seventy-five Italians on board.

The tugboat H. S. Nichols, with two other scows which had been discharged of garbage, anchored her tow and then started to the assistance of the Webster. The captain of the Nichols concluded, however, that with his own anchored scows in extreme danger and chances of reaching the Webster against him he would be better to come up to the city at once to report and secure help.

So the Nichols turned her nose cityward and steamed home in the breast of the gale. She had done better had she clung to her own scows, on which, as on those drifting seaward with the Webster, there were about sixty human souls, most all Italians. Scarcely was the Nichols out of sight when her scows were beaten from their anchorage and with their human freight were blown rapidly out to sea.

A Sermon From the Text "Whether Therefore, Ye Eat or Drink, or Whatsoever Ye Do, Do All to the Glory of God-A Message for the Day.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Jan. 24, 1892. - Dr. Talmage's sermon this morning was on the topic on which he is never tired of insisting, and which, more than any other, constitutes his message to this generation—the application of religion to the affairs of daily life. His text was taken from t. Corinthians 10:31: "Whether, therefore, ye eat or drink, or whatsoever ye do, do all to the glory of God."

When the apostle, in this text, sets forth the idea that so common an action as the taking of food and drink is to be conducted to the glory of God, he proclaims the importance of religion in the ordinary affairs of our life. In all ages of the world there has been a tendency to set apart certain days, places, and occasions for worship, and to think those were the chief realms in which religion was to act. Now, holy days and holy places have their importance. They give opportunity for especial performance of Christian duty, and for regaling of the religious appetite; but they cannot take the place of continuous exercise of faith and prayer. I purpose, this morning, to plead for a religion for to-day.

In the first place we want to bring the religion of Christ into our conversation. When a dam breaks and two or three villages are overwhelmed, or an earthquake in South America swallows a whole city, then people begin to talk about the uncertainty of life, and they imagine they are enpositively religious in gaged conversation. No. You may talk about these things, and have no grace of God at all in your heart. We ought every day to be talking religion. If there is anything glad about it, anyportant about it, we ought to be continuously discussing it. I have noticed that men, just in proportion as their Christian experience is shallow, talk about funerals, and grave-yards, and tombstones, and death-beds. The real, genuine Christian man talks chiefly about this life, and the great eternity beyond, and not so much about the insignificant pass between these two residences.

a glad heart. It is brighter than the waters; it is more cheerful than the sunabout your religion, when you ought ful tones of voice. How often it is that | bewitched of wonders will never find it. we find men whose lives are utterly inconsistent, who attempt to talk religion, and always make a failure of it! My friends, we must live religion, or we cannot talk it. If a man is cranky, and cross, and uncongenial, and hard in his dealings, and then begins to talk about Christ and heaven, everybody is repelled by it. Yet I have heard such men say, in whining tones, "We are miserable sinners;" "The Lord bless you;" "The Lord have mercy on you;" their conversation interlarded with such expressions, which mean nothing but canting; and canting is the worst form of hypocrisy.

Again I remark: we must bring the religion of Christ into our employments. "Oh," you say, "that is very well if a man handles large sums of money, or if he have an extensive traffic, but in my thread-and-needle store, in my trimming establishthat I am called to, the sphere is too small for the action of such grand heavenly principles." Who told you so? Do you not know that God watches upon God's mind as the waving tops of cow's hoof, sounds as loud in God's ear as the snap of a anything to do in life, however humble it may seem to be, God is always there is drawing water, then he will help you, as when he talked at the wellcurb to the Samaritan woman. If you are engaged in the custom-house, he will lead you as he led Matthew sitting at the receipt of customs. A religion that is not good in one place is not worth anything in another place. The man who has only who rattles the keys of a bank, and could abscond with $100,000 hard dol-

There are those prominent in the churches who seem to be, on public occasions, very devout, who do not put the principles of Christ's religion into practice. They are the most inexorable of creditors. They are the most grasping of dealers. They are known as sharpers on the street. They fleece every sheep they can catch. country merchant comes in buy spring or fall goods and he gets into the store of one of these professed Christian men who have really no grace in their hearts, and he is completely swindled. He is so overcome that he cannot get out of town during the week. He stays in town over Sunbox in the church is the one who bird means by its song? The aroma of cians are non-plused, but Ashelman relieved him of his money! But never the flowers smells like incense, and the feels no ill results yet.

now. He looks solemn, and goes home talking about the "blessed sermon." If the wheat in the churches should be put into a hopper, the first turn of the crank would make the chaff fly, I tell you. Some of these men are great sticklers for gospel preaching. They say, "You stand there in bands and surplice and gown. and preach-preach like an angel, and we will stand out here and attend to business. Don't mix things. Don't get business and religion in the same bucket. You attend to your matters and we will attend to ours." They do not know that God sees every cheat that they have practiced in the last six years; that he can look through the iron wall of their fire proof safe; that he has counted eyery dishonest dollar they have in their pocket, and that a day of judgment will come. Thesse inconsistent Christian men will sit on the Salbath night in the house of God, singing, at the close of the service, "Rock of Ages Cleft for Me," and then, when the benediction is pronounced, shut the pew-door, and say, as they go out, "Good-bye, Religion. I'll be back next Sunday."

I think that the Church of God and the Sabbath are only an armory where we are to get weapons. When war comes, if a man wants to fight for his country he does not go to Troy or Springfield to do battling, but he goes there for swords and muskets. I look upon the church of Christ and the Sabbath day as only the place and time where and when we are to get armed Christian conflict; but the battlefield is on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, and Saturday. "St. Martin's," and "Lenox," and "Old Hundred" do not amount to anything unless they sing all the week. A sermon is useless unless we can take it with us behind the plough and the counter. The Sabbath day is worthless if it last only twenty-four hours.

There are many Christians who say We are willing to serve God, but we do not want to do it in these spheres about which we are talking; and it seems so insipid and monotonous. If we had some great occasion, if we had lived in the time of Luther, if we had thing beautiful about it, anything im- been Paul's traveling companion, if we could serve god on a great scale, we would do it; but we can't in this everyday life." I admit that a great deal of the romance and knight-errantry. of life have disappeared before the advance of this practical age. The ancient temples of Rouen have been changed into store-houses and smithies. The residences of poets and princes have been turned into brokers'. shops. The classic mansion of Ashland My friends, the religion of Jesus has been cut up into walking-sticks. Do not go around groaning | read about have disappeared before the emigrant's axe and the trapper's gun. to be singing it or talking it in cheer- and that man who is waiting for a life

Again, we need to bring the religion

Christ into our commonest trials.

For severe losses, for bereavement, for trouble that shocks like an earthquake and that blasts like a storm, we prescribe religious consolation; but, business man, for the small annoyances of last week, how much of the grace of God did you apply? "Oh!" you say, "these trials are too small for such application." My brother, they are shaping your character they are souring your temper, they are wearing out your temper, they are wearing out your patience, and they are making you less and less a man. I go into a sculptor's studio, and see him shaping a statue. He has a chisel in one hand and a mallet in the other, and he gives a very gentle stroke-click, click. click! I say, "Why don't you strike harder?" "Oh!" he replies, "that would shatter the statue. I can't do ment, in the humble work in life it that way; I must do it this way." So he works on, and after a while the features come out, and everybody that enters the studio is charmed and fascinated. Well, God the faded leaf on the brook's surface as has your soul under process of developcertainly as he does the blazing sun? ment, and it is the little annovances And the moss that creeps up the side of and vexations of life that are chiseling the rock makes as much impression out your immortal nature. God says that is not the way. And so he keeps world's conflagration. When you have on by strokes of little annoyances, little sorrows, little vexations, until at last you shall be a glad spectacle for angels to help you to do it. If your work is and for men. You know that a large that of a fisherman, then God will fortune may be spent in small change, help you, as he helped Simon when and a vast amount of moral character he dragged Gennesaret. If your work may go away in small depletion. It is the little troubles of life that are having more effect upon you than great ones. But you do not recognize the architecture of little annoya day's wages in his pocket as certainly lances that are hewing, digging, cutneeds the guidance of religion, as he ting, shaping, splitting and interjoining your moral qualities. Rats may sink a ship, One lucifer-match may send destruction through a block of store-houses. Catherine de Medicis got her death from smelling a poisonous rose. Columbus, by stopping and asking for a piece of bread and a drink of water at a Franciscan convent, was led to the discovery of the new world. And there is an intimate connection between trifles and immensities, between nothings and everythings.

I compare our indifference to the brule; but perhaps I wronged the brute. I ao not know but that, among its other instincts, it may have an instinct by which it recognizes the Divine hand that feeds it. I do not know but that God is, through it, holding communication with what we call "irraday, goes into some church to get | tional creation." Yet who thanks God for the water that gushes up in the well, and that foams in the cascade, and that laughs over the rocks, and that patters in the showers, and that claps its hands in the sea? Who thanks God for the air, the fountain of life, the bridge of sunbeams, the path of sound, the great fan on a hot summer's day? Who thanks God for this wonderful physical organism-this sweep of the vision-this chime of harmony struck into the ear this soft tread of a myriad delights over the nervous tissue—this rolling of the crimson tide through artery and vein-this drumming of the heart on our march to immortality? We take all these things as a matter of course. I was preaching one Thanksgiving > day and announced my text: "Oh, give thanks unto the Lord; for he is good; for his mercy endureth forever." I do not know whether there was any blessing on the sermon or not; but the text went straight to a young man's heart. He said to himself, as I read the text: "'Oh, give thanks unto the Lord; for he is good-' Why, I have never rendered him any thanks. Oh, what an ingrate I have been!" Can it be, my brother, that you have been fed by the good hand of God all these days-that you have had clothing and shelter and all beneficent surroundings, and yet have never offered your heart to God? O, let a sense of the divine goodness shown you in the everyday blessings melt your heart; and if you have never before uttered one earnest note of thanksgiving, let this be the day which shall hear your song. What I say to one, I say to all of this audience. Take this practical religion I have recommended into your everyday life. Make every day a Sabbath, and every meal a sacrament, and every room you enter a Holy Holies. We all have work to do; let us be willing to do it. We all have sorrows to bear; let us cheerfully bear them. We all have battles to fight; let us courageously fight them. If you want to die right you must live right. Negligence and indolence will win the hiss of everlasting scorn, while faithfulness will gather its garlands, and wave its sceptre, and sit upon its throne, long after this earth has put on ashes, and eternal ages have begun their march. You go home to-day, and attend to your little sphere of duties. I sphere of duties. Every one in his own place. So our every step in life shall be a triumphal march and the humblest footstool on which we are called to sit will be a conqueror's throne.

His Prison Experience. John P. Brook, Co. I. Thirth-fifth Ohio, Ashland, Neb., enlisted in September, 1861, and served with his regiment until captured at Chickamauga, Sept. 20, 1863, along with several hundred of the boys, while near Horseshoe Ridge. They were marched to Ringgold and then to Dalton, from whence they took cars for Richmond and were placed in Pemberton prison, opposite Libby. "The President was glad to see me, and we talked a long time," said Crockett, "and finally the General asked me if I wouldn't like to have a drink, saying that he had a fine brand that was the real old stuff, and of course 1 couldn't refuse the President. So he went and brought it out, and he didn't pour out a drink and hand it to me, and he didn't tell me to pour one. Comment on Rifle Bullets. Col. Lonsdale Hale, London, states that the minimum thickness of ordinary soil affording protection is 30 inches, while single brick walls after being struck a few times no longer afford any cover. The new German rifle ranges up to 4,000 yards, and at 900 yards the bullet will penetrate 10 inches of fir or pine and 14 inches of sand. At 450 yards the bullet can pierce three or four ranks, and at 130 yards a man may no longer consider himself safe, even if the bullet has already penetrated two of his comrades. With regard to "smokeless powder," the same authority observes that, though the report of the rifles when fired is heard, it is very difficult to see whence the rifles are fired. Under certain condiditions no trace of smoke can be distinguished. On the whole, Col. Hale considers that only a war can absolutely decide what the effect of the improvement in small arms will be.

Like Idle Wind.

The Atlanta Constitution has made a bitter attack on Gen. Palmer, commander-in-chief of the G. A. R., con-Atlanta.

When Gen. Lee surrendered to Gen.

Grant at Appomattox, the latter would not accept Gen. Lee's sword, and he included in that surrender a provision that all the Rebel officers should retain their side-arms. That courtesy of Gen. Grant expressed exactly the feeling of the great generous heart of the North toward the defeated and conquered South. Southern poets have written ballads and Southern women have sung of the sword of Robert Lee. This is all as it should be. But when Gen. Lee surrendered to Gen. Grant there was no provision made that the flag of slavery and secession should ever be retained, either as a souvenir or standard. It represented something that cost this country a million of men and many millions of money, and at Appomattox its bloody folds should have been furled forever. War relic or no war relic, it should never float over American soil. All the attempted show of slushy sentimentalism indulged in by such rabid papers as the Constitution, spiced with bitter spleen, will pass by such patriots kept such articles of wearing apparel as as Gen. Palmer like the idle wind which

Why Don't They Write?

A. H. Silsbee, Co. A. 2d Wis., Co. G. 6th Wis. (Iron Brigade), Stronghurst, Ill., notices that the veterans of the Western army are active in writing of their work, which they had plenty of. but the Army of the Potomac, with the exception of the "Cannoneer," has very little said about it, and what is written is by members of the Second, Sixth, Ninth, and Eleventh Corps. A person reading these articles would suppose that they did all the work that was done in that army. But the writer has a distinct recollection that there was a First Corps which was a grand one, which was merged into that grand old corps called Fifth commanded by that prince of Generals, G. K. Warren. He wonders if the vets of these corps are afraid to say anything, but presumes not, as there was nothing to be ashamed of. as the records of Antietam, Gettysburg, Chancellorsville, Wilderness, Cold Harbor, and many other fields will show. The writer was but 18 years old when he joined the 2d Wis. at Culpeper Courthouse in Dec. 1863, and after the battle of Cold Harbor his regiment was merged into the 6th Wis., and he was initiated into the reality of war, and staid with the procession un-Appomattox.

The bookmakers spend hard-earned money to get their work in print, and publishers who have business sense wax fat accordingly. There are nine chances to ten that the American writer who publishes a book has worked at some other business and earned money enough to indulge in the costly luxury of authorship.

THERE is a great deal more in some men to preserve and destroy than there is in other men. Not that there are not the same number of life oped in some, and therefore in them are void and fruitless. When some men pass away it is like the momentary puff of dust that follows the bursting of a puff-ball, and as nothing is gone nobody misses anything, and the world moves right on in the even tenor of its unhindered way. But when other men, men who really amount to anything pass away there is a sudden halt along the whole length of the world's marching column.

OUR universities have counted among their students a very large percentage of immature and unformed minds and characters, furnished them by the imperfect nature of preparatory machinery, and by the desire of wealthy parents to get their sons off their hands at as early a day as possible; and to fit them out with a university degree much as they would buy them, at majority, a seat in the stock exchange or an elegant drag. These callow beings are always full of the animal spirits of the boy, and have not yet got rid entirely of the perfectly unthinking and hardened cruelty which seems to be a natural inheritance of the male human being until years and experience have knocked some of it out of him. With study a secondary aim, and the pursuit of enjoyment at the front, all sorts of deviltry are sure to crop out, to the trial of professorial souls and the great scandal of the grandmotherly public.

GOETHE admitted that he could find little in music, that is, he could not arrange and label its emotions as if it belonged to natural history, nor cup and bleed its life out like metaphysic; nor had he the sensibility that finds in music pictures such as even the ordinarily sensitive perceive in Mendelssohn or Gade, or architecture such as rises before one's imagination in Beethoven. Napoleon, on the contrary, found in music the most powerful influence on human passions and was of opinion that governments should more liberally encourage it than any other of the arts. Lamb, with delicious unconsciousness of the absurdity of his words, confessed himself 'susceptible of noises;" 'the carpenter's hammer fretted him into midsummer madness," but that was nothing to 'the measured malice of music." Like one of Shakespeare's pensive dreamers, he was never merry when he heard sweet music. Carlyle, astonishing antithesis, all things considered, was profoundly calmed by music, inarticulate speech that leads us," as he put it, 'to the edge of the infinite."

CHICAGO AMUSEMENTS

A List of Chicago's Most Popular Theaters.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.

Legitimate farce, of which "The Trivate Secretary" and "Mr. Wilkinson's Widows' may be taken as types, is extremely popular at the present time, and the announcement of an addition to the limited number of such plays is sure to be received with favor. One of the latest successes in this line is "Incog," which has met with unqualified favor in Boston, Philadelphia, Washington, San Francisco and other large cities, and which comes to the Grand Opera House, Chicago, for two weeks, beginning Sunday. Jan. 31st. The comedy is by Mrs. Romualdo Pacheco, wife of an ex-Governor of California, and a woman prominently known in Washington and San Francisco society, as well as in eastern library circles

Legitimate comedy of the broadest type, of which "In og" is a bright example, is perhaps less frequently produced ow ng to the fact that it requires, for its interpretation, a company of unusual ability, composed of players capable of giving to each part its full value, and drilled to a high degree of dashing brilliancy and artistic finish. Such a company was organized at the beginning of the present season by the well-known New York manager, George W. Lederer, and it has met with a degree of success which is most gratifying not only to those directly concerned, but to all theatre-goers who are interested in a style of entertainment on a higher plane than is reached by the stereotyped farce comedy recently in vogue. At the same time it must be borne in mind that the aim of "Incog" is to amuse without a resort to horse-play or knock-about methods. and this purpose it accomplishes most successfully. The New York Herald in its criticism of "Incog," dated Dec. 29th last, remarks: "There was literally almost no end of laughter and applause." This verdict has been echoed by the critics of Boston, Philadelphia, Brooklyn, San Francisco and other large cities without a dissenting

The company presenting "Incog," as has been stated, is a most carefully selected one, chosen with view to giving a performance of uniform excellence. It. is headed by Charles Dickson, who may be classed as the leading light comedian of the American stage. Mr. Dick-son has already established himself as a welcome addition to the list of comedy stars. He is a young man of varied experience, who has filled a number of most important parts. He will perhaps be be t remembered as the creator of the part of the "War-correspondent" in the original production of "Held by the Enemy," which part he played with pronounced success for two seasons. Later he was a leading member of Daniel Frohman's Lyceum Company, during which time he created a number of prominent roles in the chief plays of that company's erepertory. The remaining members of the "Incog" cells that might have been developed company are actors of prominence in all but they simply are not devel- whose abilities are by no means overshadowed by those of the leading member of the company. The organization includes four young women who in ability and talent are said to compare most favorably with those of any high-class combination now before the

> The story of "Incog" is a laughable one, and is filled with amusing complications which invariably excite unbounded mirth in an audience: depending as it does however, to a certain extent on its brilliant dialogue and the clever work of the comedians, it is difficult to give an adequate idea of its merits in a mere recital of the plot. The story in brief is as follows:-

> Young Tom Stanhope has tallen in love with the companion of his father s ward. The father, General Stanhope, has set his heart on his son's marrying the ward, and upon discovering the bent of his son's inclinations and his refusal to accede to his wishes, he orders him from the hotel where they are staying. Determined to be near the object of his affections, Kate Armitage, Tom determines to disguise himself and return "Incog." He had on his way picked up a photograph, and it strikes him that it would be an easy matter to take pattern after that. The photograph happens to be that of Dick Winters, one of a pair of twin brothers who bear a remarkable resemblance to each other. Dick has been confined in a private sanitarium in order to cure him of some mental trouble; he has just been discharged and is on his way to join his wife and two children, who are stopping at the hotel.

Harry, his brother, who has been abroad, is also on his way to the house to meet his fiancee. Tom arrives first, introduces himself to his father as the son of an old friend, and clalms to have fallen in love with Kate. The general is delighted to hear this, and resolves to do everything in his power to further his suit, believing that if he can only get Kate out of the way Tom will marry his ward. Tom reveals his 1 lentity to Kate, and the general is just chuckling over the success of his plan when Mrs. Winters enters with her children, and promptly claims Tom as her husband, whom she is expecting. The children and she cling to him and the general is outraged, both at the duplicity of Tom's alias and the failure of his plan, Miss Somers, Hary's fiancee, next appears, and declares that he is her betrothed, and she and Mrs. Winters nearly come to blows over poor Tom. Dick arrives next. and shortly after him Harry turns up. They are both made victims of the most ludicrous mistakes, and the plot thickens until the final unravelling of the tangle just before the end. "Incog" will be presented by a curtain raiser, a one act comedietta entitled "The Salt Cellar," adapted from the German by Henry Doblin. It is said to be a charming bit, showing the faith of a young bride in the teachings of her mother. At the first dinner after their marriage, a salt cellar is overturned, and the wife predicts that it augurs a quarrel, because her mother told her so, and upon the husband's ridiculing the idea, proceeds to prove her mother's superior wisdom by getting up a violent domestic breeze. The husband surrenders at the weeping point, as all men do, and peace them, eats up the supper.

M'VICKERS' THEATER. Commencing Sunday evening, Jan. 31, matinees Wednesday and Saturday. American tour 1891-92, under the direction of Messrs. Resenfeld Brothers, the Liliputians in their phenomenal success "The Pupil in Magic," with en-tirely new and magnificent scenery and decorations. Gorgeous costumes and properties, Grand spectacular fairy, musical, comedy, drama, with chorus and ballet, in four acts-nine tableaux-by Robert Breitenbach. The music selected, composed and arranged by Carl Joseph. Press manager, Mr. Herman Strelitz. Stage management, choregraphic arrangements, decorative designs. dresses and elaborate properties by director Charles Rosenfeld. Leader and musical director, Mr. Christiani. The choregraphic part arranged by the Maitre de Ballet, Mr. Leoni. The machinery and mechanical effects by the machinist, Reisig.

The now famous Liliputians will be seen at McVicker's theater in a rep-ertoire including "The Pupil in Magic," which created such a sensation here last seasor. In Philadelphia they were compelled to give extra matinees in order to accommodate the crowds of ladies and children whi h they could not accommodate at the regular matinees. "The Pupil in Magic," which is described as a 'spectacular comedy-drama with chorus and ballet," has enough genuine fun to make two or three comedies, and nearly enough music for a comic opera. while it has all the scenic magnificence of a grand spe tacle proper. Franz Ebert, the smallest, but the greatest of comedians, continues to excite the wildest merriment and win extraordinary enthusiasm by his inimitable wit, gesture and variety of facial expression. His drunken scene is immense, and he receives many recalls. Selma Georner as Fritz is not only a beautiful little brunette, but has a voice of such sweet penetrating quality that her songs are a delightful feature of the entertainment. The other principals of these miniature actors, Bertha Jaeger, Minchen Becker, Toni Meister, Johann Wolf, Max Welter, Hermann Ring and Adolph Zink, are all great favorites of the audiences. The Liliputians will be here to stay a few weeks, and it is not likely that they will have anything but large audiences during their engagement.

CHICAGO OPERA-HOUSE. DeWolf Hopper and his merry company have scored one of the biggest hits at the Chicago opera-house that has characterized the present season's business among the Chicago theaters. 'Wang." that airy diaphanous nonsensical conglomeration of fun, music and spectacle, which is presented under the anomalous generic title of a musical burletta, has repeated in Chicago the success which characterized its long run in New York. Houses have been packed to the doors at every performance since the opening night, when the throng was so great that picture frames and railings in the lobby were smashed by the surging crowd. And no wonder, for "Wang" combines about every delight imaginable for eye or ear. Its hosts of pretty girls, its splendid scenic setting, its gorgeous costuming, its succession of brilliant pictures, its light, its color, its action, its numerous delightful features offer a menu from which even the most jaded and blase must select something to please. Hopper's humor is contageous; it dominates everything and precludes the possibility of a single dull moment. Dainty little Della Fox shares the honors nearly equally with the tall comedian, and statuesque Jeanette St. Henry, pretty and shapely Anna O'Keefe, charming Marion Singer and Edward Stanley have scored individual successes of note. One of the hits of "Wang" is made by a dissolute mechanical elephant which drinks beer and drives its diminutive black keeper, Alfred Klein nearly distracted by its disreputable conduct. There are plenty of other clever features too. including the splendidly drilled banjo chorus, the charming nursery rhymes sung by a number of pretty litt'e tots, a gorgeous barge, and a magnificent wedding procession. "Wang" en-tered upon its second week Monday, an. 24, and those desiring to secure good seats for the remainder of the engagement should not delay.

Madame Modjeska, the great Polish tragedienne, will follow DeWolf Hopner at the Chicago opera-house.

HAVLINS. It is with more than ordinary pleasure that Manager Havlin announces the engagement at his dainty and popular theater of the 'Pearl of Pekin" comic opera company for the week beginning with the matinee Sunday, Jan. 31. When the theater now known as Havlin's was first opened to the public, it was dedicated by "The Pearl of Pekin" company, and the pleasure afforded by the enjoyable entertainment has never been forgotten by those who witnessed the charming opera, and it is safe to say that all who saw the performance then, will hail with pleasure the announcement of its return to the theater. "The Pearl of Pekin' is superior in many respects to the light operas that have been seen in Chicago since it was given here. The scene is laid in China, and this gives splendid opportunities for the introduction of picturesque and quaint scenery and costumes, and these, it may be added, are brilliant in the extreme. The music is likewise quaint, novel. sparkling and very catchy. The libretto is full of fun and jollity, and the criginal wit that flows through it | paid. is very laughable. In a word, it may be said that "The Pearl of Pekin" is an exceedingly bright, animated, breezy, musical and delightful entertainment, and should attract crowded houses all the week. The company this season is a large and superb one, the principals being well-known artists, while the chorus contains a coterie of pretty and lively young ladies. CENTRAL MUSIC-HALL.

THE AUDITORIUM.

The two Patti concerts at the Auditorium next Tuesday evening and Saturday matinee will be musical events of great interest. Patti's present tour is the most successful she has ever made in this country. Her audiiences have been extraordinarily large and enthusiastic and the critics are united in pronouncing her voice as beautiful as it was in her younger

The concerts are given under the management of Henry E. Abbey and Maurice Grau, who pay the renowned artiste an immense sum for each appearance. For this season the ticket rates in the Eastern cities where the seating capacity of the principal theaters are not great, have been placed at a very high figure. The splendid accommodation of the Auditorium, however, permit the establishment of prices on a much lower scale than exacted elsewhere, viz; $3, $2, $1 and boxes $25 each.

The advance sale began Thursday, Jan. 28, and the demand for tickets indicates that immense audiences will attend the concerts.

Madame Patti will be strongly supported by a company including Madame Fabbri, contralto; Signor Del Puente baritone: Signor Novarra, basso, and M. Guille, tenor. An efficient orchestra of fifty pieces will be directed by the veteran Signor Arditi. The program will embrace, besides popular selections, the third act of "Faust" on Tuesday, and the third act of "Lucia" on Saturday. These will be presented with seenic accessories and costumes the same as in regular productions of the work. Patti vill sing in both parts of the programs, and for the inevitable encores will give "Home, Sweet Home," or other equally familiar songs which the public delight to hear her sing.

THOMAS CONCERTS.

The next regular concert in the Theodore Thomas series at the Auditorium, to take place on Friday afternoon the 29th and Saturday evening the 30th inst., will offer a program of varied attractions. Two arias will be sung by Mrs. Seabury C. Ford, one of tnem Mozart's "Bella Mia Fiamma."

The program includes as its chief feature Mozart s symphony in E flat, and the Beethoven "Leonore" overture. The Mozart symphony is recognized as the first of the three great works of its class composed by the great creator of exquisite melodies, in the year 1788. Like many another immortal masterpiece, it was written for material gain, because Mczart, at the time he composed it, was in severe financial distress. Yet there is nothing melancholy in it. It is full of joy and spirit, exepting, of course, the andante or third movement.

The Leonore overture No. 3 is the greatest of the four overtures that Beethoven wrote for his only opera "Fidilio," or, as he pre erred to call it, "Leonore." It is a magnificent specimen of the great composer's best style. The remaining numbers of this interesting program are Phillip Scharwenka's "Fruehlingswogen," Liszt's symphonic poem "Les Pre-

"The Private Secretary" is a legitimate comedy, skillfully written, bubling over with pure and wholesome fun. Note-The play abounds in humor and ridiculous situations, no horse play or vulgarity blurring any part, but is smooth, well arranged and calculated to please the most critical audience. A Main-Strength Job That Went Through Without Detection-Robbers Left on a Train Evidence That Dy namite Was Used No Clews.

DAVENPORT, Iowa, Jan. 28.-Three safe-blowers made a raid on the Union Bank of Wilton, Iowa, west of this city, young man of affairs, who has had ex last night and secured about $4,000 in paper and coin.

Wilton is a town of about 1,500 soberminded people, seventeen miles west of Davenport, and the Union bank is a flourishing little financial institution. It is patronized not only by the local merchants but by stock buyers for miles around. Tuesday it had $7,000 in currency, but during the day a part of this was paid out on account of grain shipments. This is the reason the bankers do not lose more than they do. When the clerk went to the bank yesterday morning he discovered that the front door had been pried open with crowbar. Gaining entrance he saw the vault open. Its lock had been drilled and smashed to pieces. On the floor was a crowbar, a big hammer, a wrench, a screw plate, and other articles, showing that burglars had been having a lively time of it. There was nothing valuable in the vault. Closer examination shows that dynamite was the explosive used to blow the safe open. This was of St. Louis build and sup-posed to be burglar-proof. The safe weighed 3,800 pounds. The Union bank is loser to the extent of a little over $4,000. Of this amount $3,600 is in paper, $100 in gold, and about $360 in silver. The officials of the bank and the people of Wilton generally are at a loss for clews.

REPORT ON LUMP-JAW

Meat of Cattle so Afflicted Not Necessarily Unsafe to Eat.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Jan. 28.—The results of a special investigation made by Dr. Simon, J. J. Harger and Dr. Robert Formad of the University Veterinary school were presented last night at a meeting of the Philadelphia Society of Veterinary Medicine.

The investigation was on the subject of actinomycosis or lump jaw, common I am guilty of a wilful lie in that in cattle, and which has been declared to render the meat of the affected animal unfit for food.

The investigators find, first, that the disease is a local one, being rarely found outside of the head and neck; and, second, that there is no case on record where the disease has been transmitted to a man from eating the diseased meat. The disease comes from a vegetable fungus found on many plants but especially in the husk of barley, and the germ probably finds a lodgment in Harger and Formad arrived is, therefore, that where the lungs, the liver, and other organs are found not to be affected it is probably safe to use the meat, the head and neck having been removed from the carcass, and they see no reason why such meat should not be sold after proper inspection.

These conclusions agree substantially with those of Drs. Cruikshank of London, Nocard of Paris, and Ivanov of Moscow, who are recognized as the chief authorities in Europe, where meat from cattle affected with lump-jaw in the head only is invariably sold.

READY TO REPORT.

Behring Sea Commissioners Hopeful of a Satisfactory Settlement.

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 28.—Sir George Baden-Powell, who is a guest of the Governor General, says that he and Dr. Dawson will put the finishing touches to their report and await a summons to Washington whither they might go any day now. It has been agreed that both the American and British commissioners shall submit their reports direct to the board of arbitration and not to their respective governments. Sir George says he is very hopeful of a satisfactory result of the negotiations.

Cliff Wants His Pay.

DES MOINES, Jan. 28.-J. W. Cliff, the ousted Secretary of the Senate, began action for an injunction against S. N. Parsons, the present Secretary, the Speaker of the House and the State Auditor to restrain them from signing a certificate and warrant for the pay of Parsons as Secretary of the Senate. His grounds for action are that Cliff was elected Secretary for a whole session, and he claims that the election of Parsons was illegal. The case is to heard next Saturday.

The Escher-Dubs Church Row. CHICAGO, Jan. 28.—The important Escher-Dubs church fight, which has been attracting so much attention, was this morning decided by Judge Shepard at length. Inasmuch as the two factions are disputing ownership over property worth $1,000,000 the opinion rendered to-day will be of interest. According to the views of the court a decree will be entered finding the conference held at Indianapolis, and presided over by Bishops Escher and Bowman, was the lawful one, and that they have committed no acts which would take away their rights.

THE REPLY OF CHILE.

THE DAWN OF GENTLE PEACE SCATTERS THE WAR CLOUD.

She Makes a Full Apology for the Baltimore Affair, Disowns the Matta Note, and Promises Indomnity—Says She Is Uncle Sam's Friend.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—Chile surrenders. Its yielding is not so complete as reported, but it is enough to show that the country realizes the emergency. The honor of the United States will not be arbitrated, nor will there be any need of upholding it by force of arms. Chile acknowledges the wrong done the United States in the

The tentative propositions which were received by Minister Egan and which, while a step in the right direction, were unsatisfactory in some details, were supplemented by Minister Egan's transmittal of the definite and formal reply of Foreign Minister Pereira to the ultimatum sent by Secretary Blaine Jan 21. This reply concedes much that President Harrison's administration has demanded.

Outline of the Reply.

It completely and unequivocally disavows the Matta circular, and expresses regret for the sentiments therein contained. So this question is disposed of absolutely.

Further than this, Chile makes an apology for the Baltimore outrage, but how fully can only be known when the exact text is given. It admits in terms that the attack on the sailors in Valparaiso Oct. 16 was an injury to the United States which required reparation.

Profound regret on the part of the Chilean government is acknowledged, as well as deep respect for our flag and our uniform, and a sincere feeling or friendship for the United States. Chile declares itself ready to do what is proper to show its sincerity in deploring the occurrence.
As to the terms of settlement, which means indemnity for the families of the victims of the Baltimore outrage, it is willing to leave that to the United States to determine by its own Supreme

The reflections on Minister Egan contained in the request for his recall are withdrawn.

This is the outline of the reply as David. Mary, you are my heir; all I gleaned through Chairman Blount of the Foreign Affairs committee, who had an interview with Secretary Blaine and saw the rough sketch of the cipher

No information could be had at the State department or at the White House. It was stated that as the matter was not yet in shape for transmission to Congress it could not be made public. The further statement was made that courtesy to the Chilean government would require an answer from this government on which President Harrison and Secretary Blaine are now engaged. Both will go to Congress together and may not reach that body to-morrow, though the Congressmen evidently look for the latest information at once. It is learned that President Harrison, while pleased with the general tenor of the reply to the ultimatum, will insist on more specific requirements on one or two matters.

Neither he nor his Cabinet views the proposed submission to the Supreme court of the United States favorably. prize fight between Bob Brown and The reasons for this are obvious to Charles Vokes, amateur pugilists, the Americans, but as they might not be understood in Chile the President will explain the objections to such a course. There is no objection to leaving the question of indemnity to the arbitration of some country on the American continent---possibly Mexico.

An Able State Paper.

The document is quite a long one and is said to be an able state paper. Some of its expressions are touching as showing the feelings of the present Chilean government, that in the future it must look to the United States more as a friend and protector than as an enemy. In substance Chile says that her feelso great that no misunderstanding shall be allowed to continue between the two nations if any action on her part will prevent it. In some of the expressions of friendship there is a hint of closer relations in the future between the two countries.

EXCITEMENT THROUGHOUT CHILE.

The Answer to the Ultimatum Awaited with Interest.

SANTIAGO, Jan. 28.—Intense anxiety is felt in this city as to the reply of the United States to the answer sent by Minister of Foreign Affairs Perreira relative to the ultamatum. For the last twenty-four hours nothing else has been discussed in the streets, in the cafes-in fact, in all public placs. The papers which favored Balmaceda, and the supporters of the late Dictator generally, are crowing over the manner in which this matter has been handled by the present government and are doing all they can to inflame the not generally known, or the papers are purposely keeping them back. This is regarded as strange. A majority of the intelligent people of this country regard the act of the government in regard to the apology and the withdrawal of Minister Egan's recall in a favorable light.

It is reported that the Cabinet is much dissatisfied with the course of Pedro Montt, the Chilean Minister at Washington. His last message, received Friday, it is said, assured his government that the affair was coming to a speedy conclusion. He has all along led President Montt and his advisers to believe that Mr. Blaine was desirous of submitting the whole affair to arbi-

The naval officers are reported to be much stirred up at the thought that they may be called upon to salute the stars and stripes. They go so far as to say, according to the reports published in papers, that they would see the Chilean fleet sunk before they would salute the American flag.

Whatever the government may say officially in withdrawing the offensive note of Senor Matta of Dec. 11, there are abundant indications that Senor Matta's popularity will not in any way be decreased because of his authorship of that now famous dispatch. Instead, it looks very much as though this was the most popular act of his administration of the department of foreign affairs.

Is a Blow to Pan-American Union. PANAMA, Jan. 28.—The feeling here is favorable to Chile in the controversy between that country and the United States. The Spanish press believes that Uncle Sam's present move is a death-blow to Mr. Blaine's dream of Pan-American union.

HARRISON'S MESSAGE

THE CHILEAN MATTER LAID BEFORE CONGRESS.

A S'VERE ARRAIGNMENT OF THAT COUNTRY'S COURSE.

The Language Blunt, Undiplomatic and

Designed to Carry Insult to That Government.

The Reading of the Message Causes Great Surprise in Diplomatic Circles-Chile Sues for Peace.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25 .- The President has sent the following message to Con-

TO THE SENATE AND HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES:—In my annual message, delivered to Congress at the beginning of the present session, after a brief statement of the facts sion, after a brief statement of the facts then in the possession of this government touching the assault in the streets of Valparaiso. Chile. upon the sailors of the United States steamship, Baltimore on the evening of the 16th of October last, I said: "This government is now awaiting the result of an investigation which has been conducted by the Crimnal court at Valparaiso. It is reported unomically that the investigation is alout completed and it is exinvestigation is alout completed, and it is expected that the result will scon be communi cated to this government, together with some adequate and sat sfactory response to the note by which the attention of Chile was called to this incident. If these just expectations should be disappointed or further needless delay intervene I will by special message bring this matter again to the attention of Congress for such action as not be referred.

waters and the Secretary of the Navy, and also the evidence taken at the Mare Island Navy Yard since the arrival of the Baltimore at San Francisco. I do not deem it necessary in this communication to attempt any further analysis of the correspondence or of the evidence. A brief restatement of the international questions involved and of the reasons why the responses of the Chilean government are unsatisfactory is all that I deem necessary

Mr. Egan Justified.

ter at Santiago, the true history of this exciting period in Chilean affairs, from the outbreak of position or that could justly be the occasion of serious animadversion or criticism. He has, I think, on the whole, borne himself in very trying circumstances with dignity, discretion It is worth while also at the beginning to say that the right of Mr. Egan to give shelter in the legation to certain adherents of the Balmaceda government who applied to him for asylum has not been denied by the Chilian authorities. nor has any demand been made for the surren-der of these refugees. That there was urgent need of asylum is shown by Mr. Egan's note of Aug. 24, 1891, describing the disorders that prevailed in Santiago, and by the evidence of Captain Schley as to the pillage and violence that prevailed at Valparaiso. The correspondence discloses, however, that the request of Mr. Egan for a safe conduct from the country on behalf of these refugees was denied. The precedents cited by him in the correspondence, particularly in the case of the revolution in Peru in 1865, did not leave the seemed very clearly to support Mr. Egan's con-tention that a safe conduct to neutral territory The deep eyes opened and looked was a necessary and acknowledged incident of the asylum. These refugees have very recently, without formal safe conduct, but by the ac-

The Chilean authorities have as will be observed from the correspondence, charged the refugees and the inmates of the legation with insulting the police, but it seems to me incredi ble that men whose lives were in jeopardy and whose safety could only be secured by retirement and quietness should have sought to provoke a collision which could only end in their destruction, or to aggravate their condition by intensifying a popular feeling that at one time so threatened the Legation as to require Mr. Egan to appeal to the Minister of Foreign Affairs.

Attack on the Baltimore's Sailors. But the most serious incident disclosed by the correspondence is that of the attack upon the sailors of the Baltimore in the streets of Valparaiso on the 16th of October last. We have now received from the Chilean government an abstract of the conclusions of the fiscal general upon the testimony taken by the Judge of Crimes in an investigation which was made to extend nearly over three months. I very much regret to be compelled to say that Then in one great confession, with this report does not enable me to modify the conclusion announced in my annual message. I am still of the opinion that our sailors were assaulted, beaten, stabbed and killed not for anything they or any of them had done, but for what the government of the United States had done, or was charged with having done, by its civil officers and naval commanders. I that be the true aspect of the case the injury was to the government of the United States, not to these poor sailors, who were assaulted in a manner so brutal and so cow-

Legal Aspect of the Case.

Before attempting to give an outline of the facts upon which this conclusion rests I right to say a word the legal aspect of two upon the legal aspect of the case. The Baltimore was in the harbor of Valparaiso by virtue of that general invitation which nations are held to extend to the war vessels of other powers with which they have friendly relations. This invitation, I think, must be held ordinarily to embrace the privilege of such communication with the shore as is reasonable necessary and proper for the comfort and convenience of the officers and men of such vessels. Captain Schley testified that when his vessel returned to Valparaiso on Sept. 14 the city officers, as is customary, extended the hospitalities of the city to his off

Infraction of Our Rights.

It is not claimed that every personal collision or injury in which a sailor or officer of such naval vessel visiting the shore may be involved raises an international question, but I am clearly of the op nion that where such sailors or officers are assumited by a resident populace animated by hostality to the government vhose uniform the autiors or officers wear, and in resentment of acts done by their govern ment, not by them, their nation must fraction of its rights and dignity: not in a sec ondary way, as where a citizen is injure t and presents his claim through his own government, but in a primary way, precisely as if its minister or consul or the flag itself had been the object of the same character of assault. The officers and sailors of the Baltimore were in the harbor of Valparaiso under the orders of their government, not by their own choice. They were upon the shore by the own choice. They were upon the shore by the implied invitation of the government of Chile ond with the approval of their commanding of-ficer; and it does not distinguish their case from that of a consul that his stay is more permanent or that he holds the express invitation of the local government to justify his long residence. Nor does it affect the question that the injury was the act of a mob. If there had been no participation by the police of military in this cruel work and no neglect on their part to extend protection, the case would still be one in my opinion, when its extent and character are considered, involving international rights.

Story os the Outbreak. The incidents of the affair are briefly as fol-

"On the 6th of October last Capt. Schley, commanding the United States steamship any collision or outbreak occur until about 6 o'clock pr m. Capt. Schley states that he was himself on shore and about the streets of the city until 5:30 p. m.; that he met very many of his men, who were upon leave: that they were sober and were conducting themselves with propriety, saluting Chilean and other officers as they met them. Other officers of the ship and Capt. Jenkins, of the merchant ship Keweeraw, corroborate Capt. Schley as to the general sobriety and good behavior of our men. The oisters of Charity at the hospital to which our men were taken, when inquired of, stated that they were sober when received. If the situation had been otherwise we must be that the Chilean police authorities would made arrests. About 6 p. m. the assault began, and it is remarkable that the investigation by the judge of crimes, though so protracted, does not enable him to give any more satisfactory account of its origin than is found in the statement that it began between drunken sailors. Repeatedly in the correspondence it is asserted that it was impossible to learn the precise cause of the riot.

Participation of the Police.

As to the partic pation of the police, the evidence of our sailors shows that our men were struck and beaten by police officers before and after arrest, and that one, at least, was dragged after arrest, and that one, at least, was dragged with a lasso about his neck by a mounted policeman. That the death of Riggin was the result of a rifle shot fired ly a policeman or soldier on duty is shown directly by the test mony of Johnson, in whose arms he was at the time, and by the evidence of Charles Langen, an American sailor, not then a member of the Baltimore's crew, who stood close ly and saw the transaction. the transaction.

Origin of the Animosity.

The origin of this feeling is probably found in the refusal of this government to give recognition to the congressional party tefore it had established itself in the seizure of the Itata for an alleged violation of the neutrality law in the cable incident and in the charge that imiral Brown conveyed i formation to Valparaiso of the landing at Quainteros.
The communications of the Chilean government in relation to this cruel and disastrous at-tick upon our men as will appear from the correspondence have not in any degree taken the form of a manly and satisfactory expression of regret, much less of apology. The event was of so serious a character that if the injuries suffered by our men had been wholly the result of an accident in a Chilean port the incident was grave chough to have called for some public expression of sympathy and regret .rom the local authorities.

Chilcan Authorities Advised.

In our note of Oct. 23 last, which appears in the correspondence, after receiving the legislate of the board of offiers appointed by Capt. Schley is investigate the affairs, the Chilean government was advised of the aspect which it then assumed and called upon for any facts in its possession that might tend to modify the unfavorable impressions which our report had created. On the 21st installations of the content of the co created. On the 21st inst. I caused to be com-municated to the government of Chite by the American minister at Santiago the con-clusions of this government. They were as fol-1. That the assault is not relieved of the aspect which the early information of the event gave to it, viz.: That of an attack upon the uniform of the United States navy, having its origin and motive in a feeling of hostility to this government and not in any act of the sailors or of any of them

2. That the public authorities of Valparaiso flagrantly failed in their duty to protect our men and that some of the police and Chilean soldiers and sailors were themselves guilty of unprovoked assituts upon our sailors before and after arrest. He (the President) thinks the preprinted of the avidance of the sailors and the resident. the preponderance of the evidence and the in-herent probabilities lead to the conclusion that Riggin was killed by police or soldiers.

That he (the President) is therefore compelled to bring the case back to the position taken by this government in the message of Mr. Wharton of Oct. 23 last and 15 ask for a suitable apology and for some adequate repara-tion for the injury done to this government.

The Matta Letter.

In the same note the attention of the Chilean government was called to the offensive clarac-ter of a note a idressed by Mr. Matta, ex-Minis-ter of Foreign Affairs, to Mr. Montt. its Minis-ter at this capital, on the 11th ult. This dispatch was not officially communicated to this government, but as Mr. Montt was directed to translate and give it to the press of this country "it seemed to me that it could not pass without official notice. It was not only undiplomatic but grossly insulting to our naval officers and to the executive department, as it directly imputed untruth and insincerity to the reports of the naval officers and to the official communications made by the Execu-tive department to Congress. It will be observed that I have notified the Chilean govern-ment that unless this note is at once with-drawn and an apology as public as the offense made I will terminate diplomatic relations.

The request for the recall of Mr. Egan upon the ground that he was not persona grata was unaccompanied by any suggestion that could properly be used in support of it, and I infer that the request is based upon official acts of Mr. Egan which have received the approval of this government. But however that may be, I could not consent to consider such a question until it had first been settled whether our correspondence with Chile could be conducted upon a basis of mutual respect.

Demands Should Be Adhered To In submitting this paper to Congress for that grave and patriotic consideration which the questions involved demand, I desire to say that I am of the opinion that the demands made of Chile by this government should be adhered to and enforced. If the dignity as well as the prestige and influence of the United States are not to be wholly sacrificed we must protect those who in foreign ports display the flag which are the colors of this government against insult, brutal-ity and death, inflicted in resentment of the acts of their government and not for any fault of their own. It has been my desire in every way to cultivate friendly and int mate relations with all the governments of this hemisphere. We do not covert their territory. We desire their peace and prosperity. We look for no ad-vantage in our relations with them except their increased exchanges of commerce upon a basis of mutual benefit. We regret every civil coatest that disturbs their peace and paralyzes their development and are always ready to give our good offices for the restoration of peace.

Chile agrees to withdraw the offensive note sent by Senor Matta to all the Chilean ministers abroad and acknowledge that its issue was due to an error of judgment. Chile also withdraws its request for the withdrawal of United States Minister Egan.

In addition to this the Chilean government, in its answer, proposes that the affair of the attack on the Balfimore's sailors in Valpariso be submitted to the arbitration of some neutral If this proposition is not acceptable

LESSONS IN SHORT-HAND.

Something New.

Short-hand is coming so much into demand that it has been decided to publish a course of instructive lessons in the columns of this paper. These lessons will be for the benefit of all readers, old or young. It is very pleasant to know how to write Short-hand; besides, it pays. A stenographer is required to-day in every business house. The supply of competent writers is not equal to the demand. Short-hand is both useful as an accomplishment, and profitable as a calling. Every business and professional man would find a system of brief writing useful every day-almost every hour. There are several reasons why Shorthand is not understood by more people. In the first place there are comparatively few teachers, and they are for the most part located in large cities, and charge a high price for instruction. In the second place most people imagine Short-hand to be so terribly hard that they will not so much as give it a trial. It is a fact, however that the system has been so simplified in late years that there is no good reason at all why any one of average intelligence should not learn the art in a few months, if he works under proper guidance.

It is our belief that if clear and easy instructions could be obtained by young people right at their homes, thousands would take hold and learn it without difficulty, and be benefited by it all their lives. Recognizing the importance of the subject, and the need of a cheap homestudy course, one especially adapted to the young, we have decided to publish this series of lessons. We have secured the services of one of the most skilled and best known of American teachers of stenography, to edit these lessons and take charge of the work as class con-

Write us a letter if you are willing to help form such a club, and we will tell you how to go about it.

A large Special class will be formed, and individual lessons given by mail by the author, Professor Moran. The charge for Membership Ticket in this class is $2. Those who wish to join may remit this amount to the Secretary University Extension, Box 733, St. Louis, Mo. Further information in regard to this class will be published next week. If you ever intend to learn Short-hand, now is the time to begin. You will never have a better chance! Do not fail to subscribe for this paper at once if you want to take advantage of this extraordinary opportunity of learning Short-hand.

The Drevel Institute.

By the generous action of one of Philadelphia's noble citizens, a magnificent institution for industrial learning has been established in that city; and on Dec. 17 the beautiful structure was the scene of dedicatory exercises of a highly interesting nature.

The institute was built and endowed by Anthony J. Drexel, head of the great banking firm of Drexel & Co., and its scope and objects as outlined by him "are the extension and improvement of industrial education as a means of opening better and wider avenues of employment to young men and women." The building was erected at a cost of $600,000, and Mr. Drexel has endowed it with a fund of $1,000,000.

The work of the institute will be arranged under the following divisions: 1, art department; 2, scientific department: 3, department of mechanic arts: 4, department of domestic economy; 5, technical department; 6, business department. 7, department of physical training; 8, normal department for the training of teachers: 9, department of lecture and evening classes; 10, library and reading room; 11, museum.

Independent of the regular departments, students will have the option of taking such courses as they may elect and can advantageously pursue. Other departments will be added as the need or demand for them becomes apparent. A department of choral music will probably be instituted at an early day. A system of free scholarships will be established for the regular and special courses.

In order to guard against the abuse will be required, but the liberal endowment of $1,000,000 is designed to make the charges moderate, and all moneys received will be applied to the maintenance of the work of the institute. Deposits will be required to HALL'S CATARRH CURE. guard against loss through breakage in the laboratories. Students will be expected to sapply text books, and those classes will provide part of the material used, but all tools and materials used in the workshops will be furnished by the institute.

Builder of the White House. It was James Hoban-the friend of

George Washington-to whose genius we owe the White House and other public buildings in the district, who was employed by the year, at the suggestion of President Washington in 1792, at an annual salary of 300 guineas, continuing until 1798, when he was appointed supervising architect of the United States Capitol, admittedly the building par excellence of the United States. James Hoban, born in Kilkenny county, Ireland, taught the profession of an architect in Dublin, and was awarded as medal by the Dublin society. In 1780 he left Ireland for Charleston, where he first settled. When Washington City was contemplated, Henry Laurens of South Carolina, long a state captive in the Tower of London, gave Hoban a letter of recommendation to George Washington. After filling various high political positions, Hoban died in 1831, leaving considerable property to his children.

The wrong way, with Catarrh, is to stop it without curing it. The poisonous, irritating snuffs, strong caustic solutions, "creams," balms and the like may, perhaps, palliate for a time. But they may drive the disease to the lungs. The wrong way is full of danger.

The right way is a proved one. It's with Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. It cures, perfectly and permanently, by its mild, soothing, cleansing and healing properties, the worst cases of Chronic Catarrh. It has proved itself right, thousands of times, when everything else has failed.

And this makes its proprietors willing to prove that it's the right thing for you, no matter how bad your case or of how long standing. If they can't cure your Catarrh, they'll pay you $500 in cash. They mean it. They're certain of their media

SKINNED ALIVE.

Seal Hunters Do Not Take the Trouble to Kill the Poor Animal.

E. H. Wells thus describes an incident which he witnessed last spring while crossing the North Pacific. from Kadiak Island to Sitka, Alaska, in a sealing schooner:

"We all gathered round the gasping creature as it lay upon the deck, while one of the hunters, an experienced hand at skinning seals, bared his long. sharp kni'e and prepared to remove

"He made several cuts about the flippers, when I enterfered. The seal was breathing hoarsely, its chest rising and falling spasmodically. Kill that beast. I exclaimed, before you skin it. · He obeyed, or attempted to, by cutting a long gash across the creatur's throat.

·Blood flowed forth in torrents and covered the deck. The struggling ceased and I thought death had ensued. The hunter proceeded with his skinning operations and the pelt was about one third removed when I was horrified by another loud gasp from the seal and a renewal of the heavings of the chest. Evidently it was not dead and was undergoing torture!

"Kill it!" I cried, and a man with one long, slashing cut ripped the animal open and partially disemboweled it. Then, with dexterous movements of the knife, he rapidly continued to remove the pelt, and had almost sepopened and it breathed hoarsely once

"I could searcely believe my eyes! There lay a creature alive, yet skinned, disemboweled and its blood lying in pools on the deck.

"Cut its heart out!" I ejaculated. unable longer to bear the sight of the apparent suffering.

"The hunter reached his hand inside and plucked forth the heart. It was warm and throbbed regularly. Cut loose from the body and held out in the hand, it continued to pulsate, the girl declared that she did not regard the valves opening and closing for fully three minutes with unfailing regularity. It was a grewsome sight. But the seal was now dead. He no longer breathed nor moved. A feeling of relief swept over me. " Do they usually die that hard?" I demanded. " Oh, yes," replied the hunter coolly. 'They always act that way when we skin them.'

"I felt like skinning the cold-blooded wretch then and there. He had no compunctions when cruelty was concerned. He told me the truth, how-
