The touchstone to apply to every man is this: "Is he true and honest?" he is, whatever his faults may be, they are capable of correction. If he is not true, not honest, then beware of him for his apparent virtues may be the veriest shams, and he has within his moral nature a cancerous fault whose corrupting influence no one can measure. There should be no kindly tolerance of the liar, he should be made to feel the indignation of every one whose ear he abuses, and be cut off from association with those who desire to maintain their good characters and reputation .- Exchange.

We present the following extracts from a recent letter of Miss Jennie L. Colman in India: ALLAHABAD, India.

DEAR FRIENDS AT HOME-In answer to your inquiries I will say that you are right in supposing that we could not have begun work so soon if we were not in a school where English is taught to all the pupils. All our studies are taught in English, with the exception of reading and writing, which are also taught in Hindi, Persian Urder and Roman Urder. If we can get our girls to always speak the truth, and remember the difference between 'mine" and "thine," we shall be glad. Some of them are indeed obedient, neat and tidy, while it seems almost impossible to teach others any of these things so that they will remember them when our backs are turned. Still, as we see how some that were naughty have improved we take courage and pray that by the grace of God even the naughtiest may at last be made good. Of course it seems as though things improved very slowly and the girls sometimes try our patience, but so do children at home who have had much better advantages, and all good work is slow in leaching perfection. With my year's experience I can say that I am glad I

All have not this helpless, dependent spirit, I am happy

There are a great many fakirs, or religious beggars, in India to day. At the mela last year there were 400. They can be readily distinguished by their dirty, matted hair and generally forlorn looking appearance—for bathing is not a part of their religion, though it is of most of the Hindoos. Their religious books advocate all kinds of penance, and the Hindoo person, king, or warrior, may do as he pleases. Whatever sin he may commit is not sin in his case, because he is powerful. They don't see that sin is sin no matter who commits it, and that the stronger person the more reason why he should do right and resist temptation.

In one of the books we have read for our first year's study in Hindi some of the deeds of their gods are mentioned. but none of them are represented as coming to the world to make it any better, or to reform any of the existing

Our native Christian girls have a far pleasanter lot than their heathen sisters, who have little to cheer or comfort them all their lives through. It is a pity that girls are not welcomed. Our Syce's wife has a little daughter, born a few days ago, and we asked the avah (nurse) if the mother was happy? She replied no! that Hindustani people were never happy when girls came, they were always angry. [Remainder

One Hundred Laborers Make the Charge Against Their Employer.

MANISTEE, Mich., April 111 .-- About one hundred Polish laborers at the Peters Salt and Lumber company's works, near this city, have been dissharged by the manager, the alleged cause being that they did not support the manager's ticket election day. Most of them have lived around the mill from five to ten years and have boughs homes from the company. Forty of them visited the Polish priest to-day and threatened to do damage if they are not restored to their places. The priest quieted them by saying he would intercede for them in the court, as the company is now being run by a receiver, appointed when Peters failed a year ago. The company fears an outbreak of violence and extra police have been provided to protect the property and life of the manager.

The Senate has made public the correspondence transmitted by the President touching the declination of the Chinese government to receive H. W. Blair as United States Minister. The correspondence begins with a cablegram received by the Chinese Minister from his government, stating that Mr. Blair bitterly abused China and Chinese laborers while in the Senate, and was conspicuous in helping to pass the exclusion act. For these reasons China deems it inexpedient to receive him, and requests to have a persona grata appointed instead. The House.

In the House on April 8 Mr. Cobb, of Alabama, submitted the minority report on the Rockwell-Noves contested election case. Bills were reported to make Laredo, Texas, a sub-port of entry and to authorize the Continental Bridge company to construct a bridge across the Rio Grande river at or near Brownsville, Texas. Mr. Wilson of West Virginia took the floor on the free wool bill, to close the debate. He said the absence of Mr. Springer at this time was due to his untiring energy and unswerving industry in the close application given to the tariff measures, for which he had paid the penalty of a dangerous illness. He also complimented Mr. Breckinridge on the speechhe delivered. Standing in the second aisle he made a masterly arraignment of the principles of protection. His speech was frequently applauded by his colleagues, who paid close attention to his remarks. At the conclusion of Mr. Wilson's remarks the bill was passed by a vote of 192 to 60.

On April 9, in the House Mr. Enloe of Tennessee moved to go into Committee of the Whole for consideration of business on the private calendar. Mr. McMillin said he hoped that some day next week could be set apart for that busines, as it was most important to proceed with the miff bill. Without further colloquy the House proceeded to vote on Mr. Enloe's proposition, which was lost-101 to 94 -and the House went into committee of the whole on the cotton tie bill, Mr. English of New Jersey taking the floor in opposition to the bill. Mr. Mc-Creary introduced for Mr. Springer a bill to authorize the holding of an International Monetary Congress. The bill covers all the details of the congress. It provides that the congress shall meet in Chicago, Aug. 8, 1893, and continue in session at the will of the majority. Twenty-one delegates are to represent the United States; seven to be chosen by the President; seven by the President of the Senate, and seven by the Speaker of the House. The President's appointees are to be citizens not holding office; the others are to be Senators and Representatives. On April 12 a resolution passed the House permitting the State of Wiscons'n to place a statue of Pere Marquette in statuary hall. Mr. Blanchard of Louisiana reported the River and Harbor bill. The House then proceeded with the consideration of the cotton-tie bill. Mr. Dalzell of Virginia, taking the floor in opposition to the measure. He maintained that the bill could not be justified upon any sound principle of tariff legislation. It proposed to keep the duty on iron, coal and pigiron and to make the finished product free. The bill was a direct blow at American industries. It was a proposition to close the hoop and band industries of this country. Mr. Turner followed Mr. Dalzell and at the close of his remarks the bill was passed by a vote of 156 to 45. The bill placing tin plate on the free list was then reported to the House. The House Committee on Indian Affairs has non-concurred in the Senate amendments to the Indian appropriation bill. The committee will report to the House and a conference committee of the two Houses will be appointed to settle the matter.

Notes. A resume of Congressional doings for the last four months shows that the military and navalestablishments have not been neglected. The two great questions, new ships and sea coast defenses, have been pretty thoroughly considered by the committees. Several new ships will undoubtedly be authorized, but the prospects are not so bright for liberal appropriations for coast defenses.

Secretary Blaine and the British minister had a conference with the President on the Behring Sea matter, andit is understood that an agreement was reached for a renewal of the modus vivendi, with the exception of a few preliminaries. nois reports that wheat is not as far advanced as a year ago. It is from Ave to six inches high and has made rapid growth during the last week. This is owing largely to the heavy rains of the last ten days. There are no indications of as large a crop as last year. Farmers have sold little wheat since the recent decline, and a large proportion of it will be carried over into the new season if prices do not improve. Millers as a rule do not carry large stocks of wheat. Central Illinois reports that although price, the amount purchased each the growth of wheat is not as great as at this time last year the plants look healthy and now cover the ground well.

In Indiana no reports from the northern portion of the State show any wheat being plowed up to amount to anything. The weather has been exceedingly favorable for the last fourteen days for the winter wheat crop. Farmers are holding their wheat, as they claim the present price is decided ly too low. Southern Michigan reports that the mild weather together with the copious rains have started wheat to looking brick. green. On sandy and light soil the crop is looking well but on clay lands not as good. Farmers have not been delivering any wheat to speak of and the opinion seems to be that they are going to carry their surplus over unless prices advance materially.

Sr. Paul, Minn., April 12.-The Minnesota weather bureau has issued its first crop reports for the season. They embrace all the principal grain-growthe spring seeding will be done rather late. The central counties report that the seeding is retarded in the Northern half by the recent rains. In the region of Monte vidio the seeding is well under way. On the whole the seeding is somewhat backward in that section also. The southern counties are in a similar condition. At some places seeding is under way, but in the majority the farmers are waiting for the ground to dry. Some localities report winter wheat to be in poor condition. From all parts of the State the reports state that the recent rains have furnished sufficient moisture to insure a good start for the growing Socialistic Labor Party.

Boston, Mass., April 12.—The State convention of the socialistic labor party was held yesterday in the German Workingmen's association hall Roxbury, fifteen sections being repre sented. The platform adopted was practically the platform of the Chicago convention of 1889. The convention voted to make no nominrtions for the State ticket, but that each section should vote by the Australian ballot system. After much wrangling, it was voted to request the State central committee to call for a national convention, the time place to be decided at discretion, that convention to have full power to act on party measures.

Our Flag.

The closing sentences of the Rev. Dr. Fair's address before the Junior Order United American Mechanics on the occasion of the presentation of the national flag to the public schools at Richmond, Va., recently, were so very eloquent and appropriate that the order has requested that they be published in full. The doctor said:

"We take this flag, which we once feared-ah! never shall I forget the moment when, a trembling child, my eyes saw it for the first time in those dark days of '65 in my Carolina home; my heart stood still as if frozen with an icy chill of terror; the flag that | dent of the department of New York floated over the happy days of my childhood, whose golden cross I had learned to love, was lowered, furled forever, and as this took its place, it seemed to ferred to the Sons of Veterans: me an object of terror, of oppression and of wrong. # Chaplain of the Irish Brigade.

In the midst of these peaceful ecclesfastical labors, one might well say, triumphs, the tocsin of war sounded. From the very first demonstrations of rebellion the attitude of those in the Episcopal residence was not to be mistaken, and the United States flag waved above the beautiful mansion overlooking Lake Michigan. It was during these first days that an American gentleman and a protestant, meeting Dr. Butler on the street, after saluting him, not only respectfully, but affectionately, exclaimed: "O, Dr. Butler, what a dreadful day for our country! Can nothing be done to stop this unrighteous war?"

"Not unrighteous on our part," returned the doctor, with some warmth, "for we are fighting for a principle; and principles, my dear friends are worth fighting and even dying for."

This was the man and the priest selected by Col. James A. Mulligan for chaplain of the Irish brigade, and never was this choice regretted by the gallant leader. The Colonel, who was as spotless in his morals as he was noble and chivalrous as a a patr ot, found in Dr. Butler one to check in the bud every vice among his men. Intemperance, and, even more sharply still. blasphemy, were weeded out of the regiment from officers and privates alike. During the battle of Lexington. amid its awful scenes of wounds and death, Col. Mulligan found Dr. Butler panoplied in the armor of a true priest.

After Our Good Friday Here.

The grave will get nothing of us except our wounds and our imperfections. Christ went into the grave exhausted and bloodless. All the currents of His life had poured out from His wounds. He had lived a life of trouble, sorrow, and privation, and then He died a lingering death. His entire body hung on four spikes. No invalid of twenty years' suffering ever went into the grave so white and ghastly and broken down as Christ, and yet, here lie comes up so rubicund and robust she supposed Him to be the gardener. Ah! all the sideaches and the headaches and the backaches and the legaches and the heartaches we will leave where Christ left His. The ear will come up without its heaviness, the eye will come up without its dimness, the lungs will come up without oppressed respiration! Oh, what races we will run when we become immortal athletes! Oh, what circuits we will take when all earthly imperfections substracted and all celestial velocities added, we shall set up our residence in that city which, though vaster than all the cities of this world, shall never have one obsequy!

almost within a few days of another anniversary of the day which celebrates the shattered masonry of our Lord's tomb, I point you to a world without hearse, without muffled drum, without tumulus without catafalque, and without a tear! Amid all the cathedrals of the blessed no longer the "dead march in Saul," but whole libretti of hallelujah chorus. Oh, put trumpet to lip, and finger to key, and loving forehead against the bosom of a risen Christ! Glorious Easter! Let the memory of the day come to each of you, my readers; and if I cannot sound the bugle-note of joy to you by voice, let my pen be the instrument of my jubilant expression.

Nearly $3,000 were expended for relief during the year, with a surplus on had in the various corps treasuries amounting to $14,661.22. Aside from the $3,000 expended in relief, the estimated value of relief other than money is $1,983.85.

DR. TALMAGE ON THE MARCH TO JERUSALEM.

The Triumphal Entry of Jesus and the Despoliation of the Palm Graves-Every Victory Must Have Its Carnage.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., April 10.-This day is recognized as Palm Sunday throughout the world, and that fact gave direction to Dr. Talmage's sermon. Among the hymns sung was the

Clad in raiment pure and white,

Victor palms in every hand. Text: John 12: 13, "They took branches palm trees and went forth to meet him." How was that possible? How could palm branches be cast in the way of Christ as he approached Jerusalem? There are scarcely any palm trees in Central Palestine. Even the one that was carefully guarded for many years at Jericho has gone. I went over the very road by which Christ approached Jerusalem, and there are plenty of olive trees and fig trees, but no palm trees that I could see. You must remember that the climate has changed. The palm tree likes water, but by the cutting down of the forests, which are leafy prayers for rain, the land has become unfriendly to the palm tree. Jericho once stood in seven miles of palm grove. Olivet was crowned with palms. The Dead sea has on its banks the trunks of palm trees that floated down from some old-time palm grove and are preserved from decay by the salt which they receive from the Dead sea. Let woodmen spare the trees of America, if they would not ruinously change the climace and bring to the soil barrenness, instead of fertility. Thanks to God and the Legislatures for Arbor Day, which plants trees, trying to atone for the ruthlessiness which has destroyed them. Yes, my text is in harmony with the condition of that country on the morning of Palm Sunday. About three million people have come to Jerusalem to attend the religious festivities. Great news! Jesus will enter Jerusalem today. The sky is red with the morning, and the people are flocking out to the foot of Olivet, and up and on over the southern shoulder of the mountain, and the procession coming out from the city meets the procession escorting Christ, as he comes toward the city. There is a turn in the road, where Jerusalem suddenly bursts upon the vision.

Long before that morning the palm tree had been typical of triumph. Herodotus and Strabo had thus described it. Layard finds the palm leaf cut in the walls of Nineveh, with the same significance. In the Greek athletic games the victors carried palms. I am very glad that our Lord, who five days after had thorns upon his brow, for a little while, at least, had palms strewn under his feet. Oh, the glorious palm! Amarasinga, the Hindoo scholar, alls it "the king among the grasses." Linnaus calls it "the prince of vegetation." Among all the trees that ever cast a shadow or yielded fruit or lifted their arms toward heaven, it has no equal for multitudinous uses. Do you want flowers? One palm tree will put forth a hanging garden of them, one cluster counted by a scientist containing 207,000 blooms. Do you want food? It is the chief diet of whole nations. One palm in Chile will yield ninety gallons of honey. In Polynesia it is the chief food of the inhabitants. In India there are multitudes of people dependent upon it for sustenance.

Oh, the palm! It has a veriety of endowments, such as no other growth that ever rooted the earth or kissed the heavens. To the willow, God says: "Stand by the water courses and weep." To the cedar, he says: "Gather the hurricanes into your bosom." To the fig tree, he says: "Bear fruit and put it within reach of all the people.' But, to the palm tree, he says: "Bo garden and storehouse and wardrobe and rope-walk and chandlery and bread and banquet and manufactory, and, then, be type of what I meant when I inspired David, my servant, to say: 'The righteous shall flourish like a palm tree." Oh, Lord God, give us more palm trees-men and women made for nothing but to be useful; dispositions all abloom; branches of influence laden with fruit; people good for everything, as the palm tree. If kind words are wanted, they are ready to utter them. If helpful deeds are needed, they are ready to perform them. If plans of usefulness are to be laid out, they are ready to project them, If planes of usefulness are to be forwarded. they are ready to lift them. People who say, "Yes! Yes!" when they are asked for assistance by word or deed, instead of "No! No!" Most of the mysteries that bother others, do not bother me, because I adjourn them, but the mystery that really bothers me is why God made so many people who amount to nothing so far as the world's betterway. They object. They discuss road of life instead of pulling in the traces, they are lying back in No. They are bramble trees; they are willows, always mourning, or wild cherry trees, yielding only the bitter, or crab apple trees, producing only the sour, while God would have us all flourish like the palm tree. Planted in the Bible that tree always means usefulness. But, how little any of us or all of us accomplish in that direction. We take twenty or thirty years to get fully ready for Christian work, and in the afterpart of life we take ten or twenty years for the gradual closing of active work, and that leaves only so little time between opening and stopping work that all we accomplish is so little, an angel of God, needs shall stand in numbers like the stars, to exert himself to see it at all. in splendor like the morn, waving their Nearly everything I see around, be- palms!

The only way to ascertain it, they feel in their impatience, is to scratch up the mental subsoil and expose to rough tearing or to the harsh outer air the secret be carried on in seclusion and fostering warmth.

THE sentiment of honor already prevails in the world, and by it alone! the world will be governed when the golden age of the millennium comes. Its requirements will be the only statutes of the perfect society of which we dream. All men will do right simply because it is right. Even now the order of society depends on the obedience of its members to this bills were allowed and ordered paid. principle. Without it the whole business of the world would be thrown into confusion. It is the basis of the confidence that makes possible the to notify Dr. D. H. Richardson to build dealings between men. They could a sidewalk in front of his property on not go on with any safety without a feeling of mutual trustfulness. The laws for the collection of debts would not avail for the protection of creditors, if by them alone men were held up to their obligation to keep their promises. Oaths and bonds are not sufficient substitutes for confidence in the honor of men. Society could not hold together if there was not this trust, if the sole safeguard was in the enforcement of the penalties of the law. Nobody's property could be made secure if the only deterrent from thievery were fear of legal house painted. L. Krahn and son are

FUNNY THINGS

and be Lost in Oblivion.

During the last Aldermanic campaign in the Twenty-seventh ward many very funny things happened and many very funny men came to the front, or to speak more truthfully came momentarily to the surface and then burst like a bubble and disappeared in the air, politically speaking.

One of these funny things-excuse us of Mackburney, who is said to live in 64 36 Irving Park or thereabouts, and who imagines that he is a politician.

Laboring under this fallacy, he started out like a soldier-a tin soldier to a dance and boldly announced 1049 Milwaukee Avenue, himself and his multitude (?) of friends for a gentleman named Loucks, who for several days labored under the delusion that he was a real live candidate for Alderman.

"Go it," whispered Mackburney, in Loucks' left-hand ear; "I am with you!" Thus assured Loucks "went in" so to speak, and kept going it with the redoubtable Mackburney at his heels, as a sort of body or rear guard, Loucks' furnishing the necessary and Mackbur-Subscribed and sworn before me, this 29th ney supplying the wind and gall.

"Let's hold a meeting," proposed Mackburney, "and I'll make a speech." Accordingly a meeting was held in a hall within the purliens of the beautiful suburb of Irving Park. Mackburney was there. So were a number of that Mackburney was going to enlighten the world and came out of curi-

STATE OF ILLINOIS, SS: Be it ordained by the President and Board of Trustees of the Village of Park Ridge. SECTION 1. That a cement walk be constructed along the westerly, northerly and easterly sides of the Public Park known as Lot A in L. Hodge's addition to Park Ridge, as follows, to-wit: Commencing at a point where Courtland avenue intersects with the north line of Park Place, thence running north along the east side of said Courtland avenue to the intersection thereof with Prospect avenue and the southerly line of Vine avenue; thence running along the northerly and easterly side said Park to the intersection of said Vine avenue with the northerly line of Park Place. raid walk to be six (6) feet in width and to be laid in sectional and separate flags to be composed of fine gravel mixed with Portland cement in the proportion of one (1) part of gravel to eight (8) parts of cement, the tops of said flags to be covered with a dressing from one-half (1-2) to three-fourths (3-4) of an inch in thick-ness, to be composed of fine gravel mixed with Portland cement in the proportion of one (I) part of gravel and one (1) part of cement, so that said flagging when laid and completed shall be four (4) inches in thickness at the inner and outer edges of said walk and five (5) inches at the center thereof. The whole of said flagging to be laid upon a foundation or bed composed of four (4) inches of gravel, thereby making said walk in its entirety six (6) feet in width and eight (8) inches in thickness at the outer and inner edges, and nine (9) inches in thickness at the center thereof.

SEG. 2. That the payment for the whole cost for the construction of said walk shall be made by general taxation as provided by Sec. 131, Article 9, of an Act entitled, "An Act to provide for the incorporation of Cities and Villages," approved April 10, SEC. 3. That said walk shall be constructed under the supervision of the street commissioner and subject to his approval. Passed April 7th, 1892. Approved April 7th, 1892. Published April 15th, 1892. W. P. P. BLACK, President Board of Trustees, Village of Park Ridge.

The pressure that can be produced by electrolytic generation of gas in a closed space has recently been tested by a French scientist. The highest pressure heretofore realized was 6,570 pounds to the square inch. In this instance the pressure obtained was between 12,000 and 18,000 to the square inch, when the manometer cracked without any explosion. The liquid used was 25 per cent solution of soda. The electrodes were of iron, and the current 112 amperes.

The London Fine Tailor-made Clothing Parlors of New York City, who have for many years been famous for handling the finest line of Tailor-made garments of any house in the East (their stock comprising exclusively the production of the most artistic merchant' tailors), were closed by the sheriff and their entire stock was sold at auction to satisfy the claims of the creditors. Among the greatest purchasers at this sale was a representa-tive of the firm of J. S. Mossler & Bro., proprietors of the Misfit Clothing Parlors, 121 Monroe street. They have these goods now on the counters of their parlors and present the grandest fine-made clothing that Chicago has ever witnessed, and are sold by them at one-third of what they were originally made for.

Chinchilla Overcoats and Ulsters, originally made for $30 and $35, shall be sold from $10 to $15. English Corduroy, Melton and Kersey Overcoats, in light, medium and heavy weights, with silk and Italian cloth linings, made originally for $40 and $45, will be sold for $15.00. Also a few extra fine Overcoats, made for $50 to $55, we will sell for $20. Tailor-made Suits of the best imported and domestic fabrics, comprising Clay and Martin Diagonals and Silk Finished Cassimeres, and made in the latest styles of Sacks. Cutaways and Prince Alberts made order originally for $30, $35, $40 and upwards, as high as $65, will be sacrificed during this sale for $10, $12, $15 and upwards to $22. Pantaloons in exquisite styles and pat-terns from $3 to $5, made to order for $7 to $15. Don't miss this sale, as you will never again get a similar opportunity. Go early and get first choice at the Mossler's Misfit Clothing Parlors, 121 Monroe. Established ten years.

Sweet Solicitude. Husband-My dear, the air is very damp to-night. You'd better wear our furs.

Wife-I have them ready.

Husband-And tie your boa on closely. A little exposure often leads to sore throat, and sore throat leads to diphtheria, a most dangerous disease. Wear your thick rubbers, too, and good thick shoes and warm gloves; and, my love, I think you'd better wear warm veil. One can't be too careful when one's life insurance is in arrears. and yours is.

Labor-Saving Devices.

Mamma-I wish you would go to Madam Modestte's and tell her that Small Son (complainingly)-Madam Modestte's is so far off and I'm tired playin' ball. Mayn't I go to a nearer dressmaker?

Mamma-Another dressmaker won't

Small Son (after reflection)-Well, mayn't I go to the drug store around th' corner and get you a bottle of Anti-Fat?

Getting Even.

Church Usher (confidentially)-That woman I just seated is Mrs. Stuckupp. She had me sent around to the back door one day when I called at her house on a business errand. Made me transact the business through a servant, too. But I've got even with her. Friend-You have given her one of the best pews in the church.

Usher-Wait half an hour. She's right where a stained glass window will throw a red light on her nose.

Particular About Butter. Little Boy -- Mom wants two pounds o' butter exactly like wot you sent us last. If 'taint exactly like she won't Grocer (to numerous customers)-Some people in my business don't like very particular customers, but I do. It's my delight to serve them and get them exactly what they want. I will attend to you in a moment, little boy.

Little Boy-Be sure to get the same kind. A lot o' pop's relations is visitin' at our house, an' mom wants to drive 'em away.

A Reliable Man.

Merchant-Your credentials are satisfactory. Have you a grandmother? Youth-No. sir.

"Any dear old aunts?" "No, sir."

"Or great aunts?" "No, sir."

"Or any other relatives who will be likely to die during the baseball season?"

"N-o, sir." "You'll do," mall Boy-Mamma wants you send her up a quarter a pound of coffee and a pound of tea.

Careful Grocer-Isn't it a quarter of tea and a pound of coffee she wants? Small Boy-Well, it's somehow that way, and-oh, I forgot, send us up a barrel of onions and half a dozen Bermuda potatoes, and a peck of eggs; now don't forget.

Artists Well Insured.

Insurance Agent-I wish, sir, to call your attention to the Life and Annuity Benefit-

Artist-I have no need of insurance. "But, sir, you are poor, you have a family, and your studio is crowded with pictures which you cannot sell." "True. But they will sell at big prices after I am dead."

One Fashion Explained.

Little Dot-Mamma says when she was a girl little girls wore white stockin's wat didn't make their feets all black like these do.

Little Dick-Then wot did they begin wearin' black stockin's far?

Little Dot (after some thought)-I guess it's because it's easier to wash feets than to wash stockin's.

Out of Observation.

Miss De Fashion-I've been having a perfectly lovely time; teas and parties, and music and dancing, and private theatricals, and everything you can think of. Haven't had so much fun for

dear. We were in the country.

Determined Not to be Beaten. Dawson-I've seen divers go down and stay under water an hour. Jawson-Pooh! I've seen em' go down and stay an hour and a half and smoke all the time.

Dawson-I saw one go down a year ago and he has not come up since!

An Important Whistle. Mother (severely)-Why didn't you come when I called you? Small Boy-Why, just as you was calling me Tommy Traddles, down street, whistled for me. I couldn't go to both, could I?

Public Servants.

much and do so little.

Inquiring Child-Why do the papers call office-holders public servants? Mother-Because they are paid so

Obstinate Blood Humor.

I HAD TERRIBLE ECZEMA FOR EIGHTEEN YEARS-WAS in bed six months at a time-body limbs swollen and scaly like a dead fish. The itching was terrible, and finally LOST MY SIGHT. After treatment by five physicians, and other remedies without relief, I took S. S. AND IT CURED ME. My skin is soft and smooth, and the terrible trouble is all gone. - R. N. MITCHELL, Macon, Ga. I know the above statement to be true. - S. S. HARMON, Macon, Ga.

I was for some time troubled with an obstinate RASH OR HUMOR, that spread over my face and breast. I consulted physicians, and used many remedies without a cwre. At the suggestion of a friend I used Swift's Specific, which completely cured me. This was two years ago, and I have had no return of the trouble.—E. H. Wells, Chesterfield, Va. S. HER EASTER BONNET

[BY AMY RANDOLPH.]

ASTER CAME late that year. Netis Raymond was glad of that. It never seemed quite right or natural for the churches to be dressed with tlowers while snow was heaped high without, and the wind carried sheets of frozen hail upon its restless wings. But this year Easter was in time and tune with the daffodils, the blue-birds, the spring violets, all the first faintly scented. delicately colored favorites of April. Even the stunted magnolia shrub in the South garden-ah, such a contrast to the giant groves of cream and pink bloom to which Netis had been accustomed in her far-off Southern homewas putting forth its flesh-colored buds, in the resolve to keep Easter.

"Can't I go to church?" said Netis, opening wide her blue eyes. "But why not? I always went to church on Easter day, at home."

"Bless your heart, child, are you crazy?" replied Mrs. Pytchley. "You've nothing to wear!"

"My winter suit is very nice," said

"Plush!" said Mrs. Pytchley. "And velvet! And ostrich plumes! My dear girl, we should be socially ostracised if we presented ourselves at church with a girl dressed in last winter's things. If your uncle cares to send you money for an entire new suit now-

"Uncle Basil will not send me any more money at present," hurriedly interrupted Netis, feeling as if a ball were rising up into her throat. "Uncle Basil has failed. He has accepted a clerkship at $800 a year. And he hopes I shall be able to find some respectable and remunerative employment here in the North. I got his letter yesterday, Mrs. Pytchley, but I didn't intend to spoil your Easter with it. I was going to tell you afterward."

Mrs. Pytchley and her daughters, Verona and Sabina, looked aghast at each other. The young Southern cousin had been enough of an infliction before. Now she had become a pesitive incubus.

"What are we to do?" said Verona. "Goodness only knows!" piously remarked Sabina.

"Something must be done," said Mrs. Pytchley. "But at present we all have our hands full to finish Verona's grosgrain overskirt. Do thread your needle, Netis, and not sit there staring. One would think you had no desire whatever to be useful."

Netis threaded the needle, as well as she could through her tears, and began diligently to sew. It was two months now since she had been sent North to her Uncle Basil's relations to finish the education which had been left at loose ends down there in the sunshine and butterfles of the Southern plantation. Mrs. Pytchley had been kind to her, in a cold, passionless sort of way; but Netis could scarcely be blind to the fact that her two consins, Verona and Sabina, were decidedly distant and frigid toward her. Somehow, she never that she laughed too loud. Sabina was, go to church. I wonder." always trying to train her into the proper method of entering a room.

the housemaid bringing coals," said Sabina, "nor yet dragging back, like a child that is brought to see the dentist. Why don't you watch Verona? Or graceful."

And, then, too, they never let her come down any more into the drawingroom when they had company of an evening.

"Netis is only a child," they said. "I am 18," pleaded the girl. "And I should so like to dance. We always danced at Uncle Basil's in the evening." "You must wait until you are 'out,"

Mrs. Pytchley said, autocratically. "But I have never been 'in," piteously argued Netis.

Once or twice she pleaded her way the knot of pink ribbon and the precious old lace on the edges of the frills. and then she proved herself so dangerously pretty and attractive, that Mrs. Pytchley prohibited it for the future.

You have got your education to attend to, Netis," said she. "It is for that purpose that your uncle has sent you here. And all these late hours and exciting side-issues are entirely out of the question."

"But," Netis gasped, "I told Mr. Arbuthnot that I could be one of the theater-party on Mardi Gras night!"

"Then you spoke very unadvisedly," primly remarked Mrs. Pytchley. "I shall certainly allow nothing of the sort, Netis!"

"Shan't I see him again?"

"Him?" "Mr. Arbuthnot, I mean." "Not with my consent," said Mrs. Pytchly. And Verona and Sabina, who had been plotting and planning for a week to make properly unconscious opportunities for the especial purpose of meeting Mr. Arbuthnot, looked shocked the question further," said Mrs. Pytchley. "Netis is not to go-that is enough! We must try to get her a place as companion, or, perhaps, a genteel post in some confectionery or fancy-store. But all that can be thought of in the future."

Mr. Arbuthnot came that evening. He very often dropped in, in a friendly way, at Mrs. Pytchley's; but he looked disappointed when he did not see Netis. "Miss Raymond is not at home?" he

"Netis sees no company in the ovening," said the maneuvering vidow. "She is such a little recluse. And, really, she is getting so homesick that I think she will leave us soon."

But on Easter Eve, when Mrs. Pytchley and the two girls had gone to assist in the decoration of some fashionable church, in their most becoming toilets, Netis sat down for a hearty cry.

"My poor old bonnet!" she said to herself as she turned it around and around. "It is a little shabby, I admit; and the feather has never looked

"And the ribbons aren't so bad," she told herself, consolingly. "If I only had something to trim it with!"

Just then Maria, the parlor-maid, came up the stairs with a vase of superb magnolias.

"I had to cut 'em, mtss." she said. apologetically addressing Netis. "Them boys was stealin' 'em over the fence. So, I'll just set 'em on the parlor mantel.'

"Sure, miss, you're welcome," said she, handing out the sweetest and largest of all the blossoms, as she went on her way.

"My own sweet Southern darling," said Netis; and, as she pressed her lips to the lilac petals, the great flower slipped down and lay athwart the violet-velvet bonnet. Netis uttered a ery of joy.

"The very idea!" said she.

And when she stole quietly out to church the next day, after the Pytchley family had driven off in the carriage, which the liveryman on the next street had instructions to send around, looking as "private" as possible. Netis wore the remodeled bonnet with a roval magnolia on its side.

On Easter Sunday, with the sunshine -pale and wintry still-playing on the pavement at her feet, the church-bells clanging out their triumphant melody, her own heart full of dim, vague happiness, as if something very, very delightful was about to happen.

It was a quiet, unestentatious church, in a sidestreet, where fashionable peomodel yourself after Mrs. Singham ple never went, to which she betook Singleton, who is always so elegant and herself. And as Netis rose from her prayers, she was amazed to see, in a pew nearly opposite hers-Mr. Arbuth-

She looked up shy, lovely, altogether beautiful. Did he see that she had no new dress; that her gloves were mended; that-horror of horror!the purple-tipped magnolia was already into the room, in her white dress with beginning to droop, from the heated atmosphere of the church?

> "No," she faltered, "I had not returned. But I think I shall soon go.

My cousins are tired of me, I think;

and, of course, since I must earn my own bread, the sooner I get accustomed to it the better."

"Netis." said Mr. Arbuthnot, gravely, 'I advise you not to go."

Netis looked at him with a grave, puzzled smile.

But what am I to do?" said she. 'Stay where I am not welcome?" "Stay where you will have the warmest welcome, the tenderest love in all the world," said Arbuthnot, "Dear to L 3 little Netis, can it be possible that you

FARM AND HOUSEHOLD.

BEST CROP FOR THE SOIL NOT ALWAYS PROFITABLE,

Much Depends on the Market-Animals and Fertility-Hilling Potatoes-The Big Pen and Household Helps.

Unprofitable Fertility. The best farms do not always pay most profit to their owners. The farmer needs to be a business man. carefully studying the conditions of his farm and locality, and adapting his rotation to it. If he does not the fertility of his soil will not benefit may easily be too rich in nitrogenous manures for small grains, causing breaks down before the grain can fill may be so easily grown on soil far less fertile that its crop will not sell for half or even a quarter what the same fertility would have produced had more skill and labor been applied. It demands good farming to make the most from the best lands. Cropping pends largely on the use he proposes simply to get something from such soil with least labor is a wanton waste Second Boy-He, he! Wot good'il of its fertility.

> This is the reason why in all the older states at least land is being divided into smaller holdings, and more concentration of manure, of labor and of skill is put upon these than used to market gardeners, seedsmen and nurbe thought necessary or even possible. It is often said that land cannot be too to purchase commercial or mineral rich for corn. This is true. But it manures, which are better in propormay be rich and so located that the corn crop, profitable as that is generally on rich land, will not produce as much money as will some other with which the land may be cropped. Talking recently with a market gardener, we were not surprised to hear him say: ·On my land I cannot afford to grow plied that makes them so generally field corn. Indeed, I only grow a used. limited amount of sweet corn for the earliest market." If he grew even in corn and stalks the feed for the teams he is obliged to keep, it would use up so much of his land that he would have room for little to sell. To buy hay and grain for feed and the straw, which is partly fed and partly used for bedding, is cheaper than it is to try to grow them for those who have nearness to market and plenty of labor at reasonable prices with which to grow more expensive crops.

What this market gardener has learned needs to be impressed upon all classes of farmers, says the American Cultivator. There are doubtless for all some crops which the r land can grow successfully, but not profitably. In other words, there are crops which even when used on the farm had better be bought than grown. At the prices wheat has brought the past few years it pays most Eastern farmers better to buy flour for bread than to grow wheat and manufacture it from their own product. This, indeed, is rarely possible anywhere now. The farmer who takes his grist to mill is allowed so much per bushel, and takes his flour from that already made from Western wheat. He probably gets better flour than his own wheat ground alone would produce. But it is easy to take one short step further, grow some other crop, sell it, and purchase the wheat flour.

It is now comparatively easy in most places to buy linseed and cottonseed meal wheat bran and coarse grains, like oats and corn for feeding. This makes it possible for farmers who have small pieces of land to fertilize them highly and give their attention to those crops which require most labor and pay best per acre. It requires the use of two, three and sometimes four or more acres in hay and grain to keep a team of horses through the year. The farmer who owns 10 to 15 acres cannot afford to devote so much land to merely keeping a team to do plowing and to market his produce. Yet he must have a team, and his alternative must be to grow more profitable crops than Lay and grain, and buy what of these he needs. There will still be the necessity for frequent seedings with clover. though where land is very dear it may pay better to use the clover as green manure, and buy enough more clover hay to take its place. It requires too much and too expensive stable manures to maintain the highest fertility without the use of clover in some way.

Animals and Fertility. After some thought and considerable hesitation I have concluded to call the attention of your readers to some of the fallacies regarding the raising of animals as a means of keeping up fertility. The idea seems to be quite prevalent that the mere fact of keeping animals makes a farm more fertile. Indeed, some of our foremost both farm and farmer will grow. While this is the theory upon which many build. I believe in practice, and as it is practiced there is nothing, according to the amount of human food it contains, that is so exhausting to the soil as the production of animal flesh. In the first place it is utterly impossible to self life and strengthsustaining, bone and muscle-building human food and not sell fertility. And in the next place, it is not only the amount of fertility contained in the bodies of animals that exhausts the soil, but millions of tons are as utterly wasted as if sunk in the At-

animals kept on the farm the fatter

In view of the above facts. I believe. the time has come when we must lessen the number of our animals or would be poor policy to raise corn. pats or rve, or in fact any other product for others to raise animals on, it is equally poor policy to produce animals that consumers don't want bad enough to pay for the labor, in order to soak a barnyard with fertility.

Again if we keen animals enough that we are obliged to maintain them on corn, oats and rve, we will have to pay just as much for the products of the mill. according to the feeding value, as it costs to produce those products. But consumers will not eat bran, shorts or oil meal until they are so converted into beef or pork, milk or mutton. while they will eat corn and rye, at least to some extent, before they will pay for such conversions. And even if consumers will not eat the corn and rye it is not necessary that they should pay for the complicated process of converting them into beef and pork. Why? Because our gardeners and fruit-growers are ready and willing to furnish not only a wholesome and nutritious, but a luxurious bill of fare and a cheaper him, but may result in damage. Land one. I believe our gardeners and fruit-growers, our oatmeal, pearl barley and hominy mills, bananas, prunes, them to grow too rank foliage, which dates, etc., have had more to do with the depression of our animal industry Even when the grain is not injured it | than all the oleomargarine and cottonseed oil ever made. - Ohio Farmer.

Who Buys Manure? It is not true that every one has equal chance to purchase manure. Whether he can afford to do so deto make of it. Farmers generally grow cheap crops, which do not sell for enough more than cost of cultivating and harvesting them to afford expensive manures. Hence near cities and large villages the stable manure they produce is usually gobbled up by serymen. What is left the farmer is tion to their cost for grain crops than stable manure. In no other way than by mineral fertilizers drilled in with the seed can an acre of land be manured for three or four dollars. It is the cheapness of commercial manures and the ease with which they are ap-

The Pig Pen.

Keep the pigs' bed always dry. Do not feed a suckling sow too much Better stay up all night than lose a litter of pigs. A good hog is born with a constitution

f he has any. Breeding only from mature animals is one way to avoid disease.

There are but very few farms but that will support some hogs with profit.

Better feed corn twice a day for growth han to rely entirely upon pasturage. The best plan of feeding the young pigs

s to plan a place especially for them. The only safe plan of being sure of saving all of the pigs is to be ready for them. A tight feeding floor kept clean, is preferable to feeding on the ground at all To feed to young growing pigs at least, wheat middlings is more economical feed than bran. Do not rely too much on the breed; good feed is fully as important in obtaining a good growth. If any of the pigs fail to grow as they should, it will pay to give them a little special attention. The ration must always be determined by the condition of the pigs, they cannot be fed by set rules.

It is not a good plan to make a specialty of hogs unless the farm is well adapted to growing grain. It is of as much importance that breeding sows and ewes should be good milkers as that the cows should. That Is necessary if one would raise good pigs and lambs. The only way to obtain this is by selecting and retaining as breeders those that come from strains of milkers.

One of the most expensive hog sheds the writer ever saw was the most uncomfortable and unhealthy. The floors of the apartments were laid with paving limestone and had the appearance of being always damp and necessarily cold. Pigs would very soon go lame if confined to such a floor. For comfort there is probably no floor that is superior to a properly made earthen one. —Western Stockman

The proprietors of Ely's Cream Balm do ot claim it to be a cure-all, but a sure remedy for Catarrh and Cold in the head.

I have been afflicted with catarrh for 20 years. It became chronic and extended to my throat, causing hoarseness and great difficulty in speaking, indeed for years I was not able to speak more than thirty minutes, and often speak more than thirty minutes, and often this with great difficulty. I also, to a great extent, lost the sense of hearing. By the use of Ely's Cream Balm all dropping of mucous has ceased and my voice and hearing has greatly improved.—Jas. W. A List of Chicago's Most Popular Theaters.

CHICAGO OPERA-HOUSE.

The world famous German Liliputions who, during pasted engagements, have created a veritable furor among the best classes of Chicago theater goers, return for a brief engagement and will present for the first time in Chicago their new American spectacular novelty "Candy." "Candy" is said to be far superior to the "Pupil in Magic," both as a vehicle for the exhibition of the remarkable versatility and eleverness of the wonderful Midget actors and as a spectacular performance. The piece is said to be a sort of a musical extravaganza which gives in its many changes of scene ample op- gram has been prepared with great portunity for superb scenic environment, and a gorgeous profusion of coloring in the way of costumes. The first scene of "Candy" is laid in New York City, and introduces the ten clever pocket edition actors and actresses in a number of characters typical of the locality. Mr. Franz Ebert, the smallest of the Midgets, and a comedian of really notable attainments, has a congenial role as a typical New York boot black, a daring, impudent, aggressing and bright little fellow who eventually, in the language of the streets, "gets there" most consumately. The dashing little soubrette of the company, Miss Selma Goerner, assumes the character of a rollicking messenger boy, who has formerly been apprenticed to a Berlin hair-dresser, but has drifted to New York. Adolph Zink, another of the diminutuve comedians, assays for the first time in his life, a character requiring the use of burnt cork. He appears as a little darky boot black. From New York the scene of "Candy" shifts to the deck of the steamer Miscroscope, where one of the ballets; the festival of the sailers, occurs. By the Miscroscope all hands are eventually transferred to a tropical island off the coast of Africa, where, of course, after a lot of fun and ludicrous happenings, the transformation scene, the bower of roses, unfolds. The plot is said to be fascinating, the music extremely catchy, and the dialogue clever and witty. Miss Ida Mahr, the soprano of the Midget company, will introduce a number of English songs which are destined to become popular, and little Ebert is said to have in "Candy" more opportunity for the exercise of his comicalities than in any of the pieces previously presented by the company. "Candy" will be most company. gorgeously set. WINDSOR.

Next attraction, Sunday, April 17, "A Fair Rebel." Edward Mawson and an excellent organization will commence a week's engagement of this very successful play. This is a play founded on one of the most dramatic events of the late civil war. The escape from Libby Prison by way of the now well known historical tunnel is well represented in this play. Finday evening, April 22, grand souvenir night, 475th performance of "A Fair Rebel," on which occasion every lady holding a reserved seat coupon will be presented with a beautiful silver coffee spoon, suitably engraved with the compliments of Edward R. Mawson and M. B. Leavitt. Saturday matinee, April 24, "The Soudan."

HAVLIN'S. Manager Havlin has the honor to announce that he will present to his patrons, as a great Easter week bill, Miss Florence Bindley, the popular and talented actress, in her great comedy drama, styled "The Pay Train," during week beginning Sunday afternoon, April 17. Tais play, which has never been presented in Chicago, is pronounced by competent critics, where it has been produced, the great dramatic, scenic and mechanical event of the season, carrying such an enormous amount of special scenery that a whole train of cars is required for its transportation. Among the wonders of stage mechanism introduced into this play are the thrilling incline wreck scene where a train is dashed over an embankment, apparently killing a man who has a coal car tumbled on top of him. Then there is the wonderful railroad scene, in which a train of cars (regular size) rushes across the stage at full speed. The pay car is uncoupled in sight of the audience, and it is lit up by electricity, showing the dramatic action in the interior of the car. There is also a boiler explosion, so terrific and startling that persons who have never witnessed such horror readily conceive a realistic impression of what such a scene would be. Last but not least of these great stage effects is a grand optical illusion showing a coal mine in full operation. In fact the play contains everything that the modern audience want to see. It is crowded with exciting incidents, overflows with startling surprises, and is replete with fun, laughter, singing and dancing, while each member of the company presenting it has been selected for their individual excellence in their respective roles. The star, Florence Bindley, the sparkling little sonbrette, is known the world over. A number of pleasing specialties will be

Do you know? That unless you secure your tickets for Denman Thompsen and "The Old Homestead" very soon you will not be able to see it. MADISON STREET OPERA-HOUSE.

The phenomenal business which the big Sam T. Jack Gaiety company has done and is doing is all the result of good organizing and good execution by the company organized. The Gaiety company is one of the best and biggest burlesque troupes ever organized and is added to by a large number of specialty performers whose novel acts are unequalled. The ladies are the most bewitching creatures imaginable, and clad as they are in the airiest and most artistic costumes imaginable they present a most pleasing sight indeed. The opening is one of the most pleasing sees in most performances, and indeed it is doubtful if one company ever presented such varied acts. The bill contains circus, minstrel, burlesque, comedy and light opera turns, and the music, costumes and scenery are all new. The second week of this justly famous company commenced Sunday, April 10, and the two performances of that and each subsequent day were played before very big audiences. Every visitor to Chicago should make it a point to see the plays presented in burlesque shape at the Madison street opera-house, and especially now, AUDITORIUM. Special. The fourth popular concert to be given at the Auditorium on the afternoon of April 15 and the evening of April 16 by the Theodore Thomas orchestra will be one of the rarest musical treats of the season. The procare and is replete with musical delicacies. Wagner, Dvorak, Weber-Liszt, Massonet, Grieg, Mozart, Chopin, Thomas, Handel and Svendson will be the composers represented. Perhaps the most striking attraction will be the Dvorak Slavonic Rhapsody, the Weber-Liszt Polonaise Brilliante, opus 72; the Massonet Suite Esdermonde, which has the claim of freshness. Mr. Thomas' arrangement for the orchestra of Chopin's Last Mazurka, opus 68, No. and his valse in A Minor, and the Handel Largo has charmed the public many times. There is not only variety but plenty of melodic inspiration in the program.

The soloists will be the pianist, Adolph Carpe, and the vocalist, Miss Medora Head, who will sing the charming aria from Mozart's "Marriage of Figaro," "VoiChe Sapete."

Mr. Carpe is a new comer here and is a pianoforte artist of brilliant attainments. He was a pupil of Carl Remecke; the great Leipsig teacher, for five years, and was regarded by Remecke as one of the best of his pupils. Mr. Carpe was also associated with Mr. Thomas in the Cincinnati College of Music. He has a strong intellectuality coupled with a delicate sentimentality, and a technique that knows no obstacles. He will play the Weber-Liszt number which is a remarkably striking and brilliant work, in a striking and brilliant manner.

CLARK STREET THEATER. Another great week artistically and financially is confidently looked for by the management of this handsome and popular North Side theater, beginning with the matinee next Sunday, April 17, when will be presented, for the first time at this theater, Henry De Mille's great realistic drama, "The Danger Signal," with Miss Rosabelle Morrison as the star, supported by a strong and efficient company. Special and appropriate scenery will also be seen in the production. Secure your seats early. The Danger Signal" is by Henry De Mille, one of our foremost American dramatists. "The Danger Signal" was written for Miss Rosabeile Morrison. The play has been produced in New York, Brooklyn, Philadelphia, Buffalo, Toronto, Detroit, Kansas City, St. Louis, St. Paul and Chicago, and in each of these cities it has met with favor. It is now playing a phenomenal of the head. It lived several hours. engagement in Minneapolis.

Notwithstanding the general depression of amusement business consequent upon the growing observances of Lent her his seat. "You are very kind, sir," and "Holy Week," the audiences attending the performance of Haverly's Mastodon Minstrels at the Casino, Eden Musee, the past week have been large and enthusiastic. And this is not to be wondered at, considering the excellence of the entertainments present ed at this favorite resort. Col. Haverly takes especial pride in supervising every detail of the business, both that of the stage and the Musee department, and nothing is left undone for the comfort and convenience of visitors, and new stage specialties are constantly being produced for the delectation of the minstrel-loving community. The fun is simple, pure and unalloyed. The singing, the best ever heard on the minstrel stage, and the programs as a whoie, are always enjoyable. For the coming Easter Week, Col. Haverly has prepared a list of attractions which excels all previous attempts. Ellwood, the wonderful male soprano, makes his reappearance in his unapproachable feminine impersonations, in which he will sing new concert gems, and display his exquisite taste in 'La Belle' toilettes. So perfect is the "make-up" of this gentleman, that wagers as to his identity are matters of daily occur-THE PEOPLE'S.

Manager Baylies takes great pleasure in announcing for next week, be ginning Sunday matinee, April 17, the Bob Fitzsimmons Athletic and Specialty company, including Bob Fitzsimmons, the middle weight champion; Jimmy Carroll, ex-light weight champion, Johnny Griffin, feather weight: and a superb company of specialty stars. Fitzsimmons and Carroll at every performance in exciting glove contests. Two great entertainments for one price of admission. Sunday matinee, April 24, John L. Sullivan and Duncan B. Harrison's company in the new play, "Broderick Agra." This will be the champion's last appearance previous to the battle for the champion-

The Chicago, St. Paul & Kansas City railway has recently inaugurated a line of first-class Pullman Tourist sleeping cars to the Pacific Coast, to leave Minneapolis and St. Paul, Dodge Center, New Hampton, Sumner, Oelwein, Waterloo, Marshalltown, Des Moines, and all main line stations on their daylight train, No. 4, Thursday of each week, and to make through connections to San Francisco and Los Angeles, Cal., and passengers to intermediate destinations can also have the privilege of this service. This is an accommodation which the people of the great States traversed by this line, namely-Minnesota, Iowa, Illinois, Missouri, and Kansas-should appreciate, and it, no doubt, will result in largely increasing the Pacific Coast travel of this enterprising line.

Returning, these cars will leave Los Angeles every Thursday and San Fran-cisco every Friday, leaving Kansas City the following Tuesday evening, and arriving at Minneapolis Wednesday of each week.
