EASTER EXERCISES.

Good Programs at the Different Churches.

SALEM CHURCH.

The members of the Salem congregation fittingly observed Easter Sunday by appropriate exercises. The church had been beautifully decorated. The following program, rendered in an exceptionally entertaining manner, was given in the morning:

Song by congregation. Prayer and scripture reading.

Dialogue, "What Does Easter Mean?"-Mrs. S. Gieske's class. -An Examination of the Mission Band on the Resurrection of Jesus, led by Miss Mary Frye. Song by Choir.

Dialogue, "The Women at the Empty Tomb"-Mrs. Geo. Stiefenhoefer's class.

Song by choir.

"The Congregation in Corinth"eight young gentlemen, led by Mrs. George Stiefenhoefer.

Address and announcements by Rev. Theo. Suhr.

Song by congregation. Benediction.

At the evening service the following was the program:

Song by congregation.

Remarks by Rev. Suhr. Selection by double quartet.

Scripture reading and prayer by the pastor.

Selection by double quartet. Remarks by pastor. Song by society.

M. E. CHURCH.

Sunday morning at the usual hour of service a large and appreciative audience attended the M. E. church to hear the Easter exercises given by the Sunday school.

The exercises were entitled: "The Pilgrim's Vision", and was rendered by a young man, "The Pilgrim", and several young ladies, "The Symbol bearers", while the entire school and choir took part in the singing and responsive reading.

The following is an outline of the program as rendered, with the names of those taking part:

Introductory March-Miss Allie Myers.

"Easter Song"-School and choir. Prayer-Rev. T. E. Ream.

Song, "Joy and Hope"-Belle Catlow, Gertrude Kitson, Olga Waller, Mary Cowden, Millie Page, Lillis Colby and Myrtle Runyan. The young ladies were dressed in white and carried symbols.

Recitation by "Pilgrim"-Benj. Beinlich; "praise" anthem, school and choir; recitation, "Christ as a Lily", Belle Catlow; recitation, "Faith in Christ"; Gertude Kitson; recitation, 'Hope", Olga Waller; Song, school and choir; recitation, "The Story of Love", Mary Cowdin; recitation, "The Saield of Salvation". Millie Page; Song, school and choir; recitation, "His Crown of Glory," Lillis Colby: ited the public school Wednesday. recitation, "The Guide of Life", Myrtle Runyan; "Pilgrim's Decision," Ben Beinlich: Closing song, school and choir;

The exercises were very beautiful and impressive. The Pilgrim, Ben ter. Beinlich, was dressed in a fitting garb. Each part was well rendered.

After these exercises Rev. T. E. Ream spoke for a few moments on the "Resurrection of Christ". A good collection was then taken, which is the Sunday school's gift to the cause of missions.

Especial mention is due Prof. J. I. Sears and his orchestra for some extra fine sacred selections rendered. The Professor's talent is so well known and appreciated by the Barrington public that it is needless to comment on his work.

The Village Election.

Very little excitement was manifested Tuesday at the village election, only one ticket being in the field. The only question at stake was whether the people wanted a new village hall or not, and that question was decided 50 for.

The vote as cast was as follows: For President-Henry Rochmer, 120.

For Trustees-F. O. Willmarth, 111: John Robertson, 122: Wm. Peters, 117. For Village Clerk-L. A. Powers, 120. For Police Magistrate-M. C. McIn-

STATEIS RESPONSIBLE

MUST RESTORE FUNDS OF THE ILLINOIS UNIVERSITY.

By Its Agreement with the Federal Government the Institution Must Be Preserved Trustees Are Accused of Neglecting their Duty.

The state of Illinois is responsible to the federal government for the state university endowment fund which has been hypothecated by ex-Treasurer Spalding, president of the Globe Savings Bank, which recently suspended at Chicago. This endowment fund was originally received from the government by the state, and was then in the shape of lands. Before giving this fund the government required that the state agree to forever maintain it, and in case of its depreciation from any cause to make it good.

In accordance with the proposition made by the government to the state, the endowment fund was accepted. After a few years the lands became valuable and were sold. The proceeds from the sale of these lands, together with the interest, were invested in bonds. These bonds, amounting to $418,810, were deposited with ex-Treasurer Spalding, and are the ones hypothecated by him with Chicago banks. Ex-Treasurer Spalding's shortage will have to be made good by the state, and the investigation of the ex-treasurer begun by the board of trustees may be taken up by the state authorities. The trustees favor the investigation by the state.

WANTS NO TERRITORY.

Turkish Commanders Do Not Contemplate a March to Athens.

London cable: The outbreak of hostilities on the Greek frontier has caused but little sensation here. The prominent officials and the Turkish embassy have received no information beyond the fact that war has been declared.

The correspondent of the Associated Press understands that Turkey has no idea of territorial conquest, for she knows the powers would not sanction an advance to Athens. She probably will first attempt to capture Larissa and then march on Trikahala and Phanari. If these also are captured Turkey could compel Greece to comply with the demands of the powers. The Turkish fleet, however, is still in the Dardanelles, where it is likely to remain as long as the Greeks continue active. It is reported that the powers, instead of blockading Greek ports, will allow Col. Vassos and his army to return to Greece if he desires to do so.

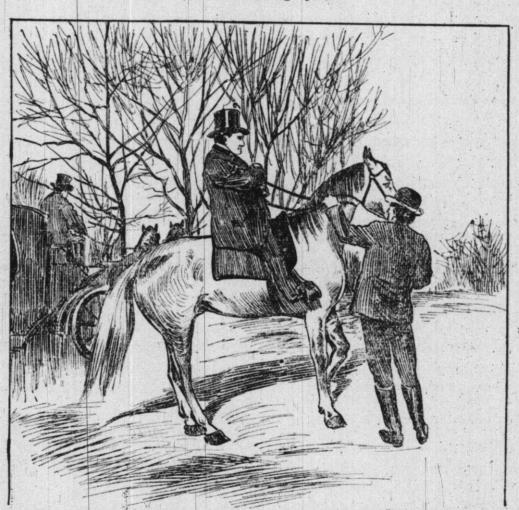

ACCUSED MURDERER CAUGHT. Man Charged With Killing Cashim Stickney Arrested.

Joseph E. Kelly, accused of the murder of Joseph A. Stickney, cashier of the Great Falls National Bank at Somersworth, N. H., was captured at Montreal Monday night. On Kelly were found two letters, one to his father, stating that an accomplice, whose name he claimed he did not know, but was an inmate with him in a reformatory somewhere in New Hampshire, had done the deed, and that it was at the suggestion of the accomplice that Stickney was murdered. The original design was to scare Stickney by showing a revolver, Kelly waiting outside while the accomplice accomplished hiv

LOCOMOTOR ATAXIA.

AN OLD SOLDIER'S HOT FIGHT FOR LIFE AND HEALTH.

While in a Hospital a Physician Hands Him Some Pills, and After a Few Doses He Feels His Health Returning-Asked for the Name of the Pills, the Physician States they were Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. The Patent a Widely-Known Man.

From the News, Indianapolis, Ind. Sol. Yewell of 96 Hill Ave., Indianapolis, Ind., who is well known to the dramatic profession, when a boy seventeen years old enlisted in Company H, 13th Indiana Volunteer Infantry, the first three years regiment that marched to the front from the Hoosier State. In the fall of 1862 he was honorably discharged, because of disabili-ties contracted in the service. After a short ties contracted in the service. After a short time spent at home he went to New York and entered college. He was a bright young fellow, a diligent student and a great future seemed opening before him. But he again heard the bugles and the fires of patriotism were again aglow in his bosom. He enlisted as a recruit in Company M of the Second Harris Light Cavalry, Kilpatrick's famous old regiment, and was soon again at the front. There was a great demand for cavfront. There was a great demand for cavalry in Virginia, and the active young trooper found plenty of fighting up and down the Shenandoah Valley and in the various campaigns on the Potomac. In 1864 he attracted the notice of the dashing and dountless Custer, and was selected as one of his famous body guard, in which he served until the close of the war.

After the war Mr. Yewell began to be known as a skilled newspaper writer and correspondent, and he was later in demand as a theatrical writer and press agent, a pro-fession in which he achieved signal success. He was a hero in private life as he had been on the field and in the camp, and few of those who knew the genial and versatile Sol. Yewell had any idea that he was a great sufferer from diseases and disabilities, contracted during the war. Such, however, was the fact. He suffered from rheumatism, "As if these were not enough," said Mr.
Yewell the other day at the Marion Home, emorrhoids and chronic tonsilitis for years. relating his experience to the reporter, "I was doomed to fall a victim to the grip in 1890. This last fell monster accentuated all my previous troubles and added, seemingly, half a dozen new ones. It was in November of that year that I was compelled to rive up work and came to the Marion Home. Oreeping paralysis or locomotor ataxia developed, and in 1892 I went to the hospital where I remained for several months. My condition became so alarming that the surgeons here, who are my very good friends, were compelled to admit they could do nothing for me. My locomotor ataxia was attended with vertigo and I was liable to fall at any unexpected moment. The surgeons having nothing else in mind recommended that last resource-a change of climate. So in may, 1894, I went to Boston, Mass. I had secured employment at the Columbia Theatre there as press writer, as I was de-termined to do something. I remained there two seasons.

"My vertigo and paralysis continued to distress me greatly. I consulted a number of eminent physicians in Boston and became a patient at the Harvard College clinic on Bennett Street. The surgeons there appeared to desire to make much of me as a patient and I was willing. One day a doctor there gave me a box of pills. The wrapper and all identifying marks were gone, but the coating of the pills were of a pink color.

ly used the box before much to my surprise, I found that the locomotor ataxia was leaving me. On the second box the vertigo entirely disappeared, my paralysis or locomotor ataxia was gone and I began to have my old-time confidence in elf. Yes, all these ailments under which I had suffered were leaving me. I used about four boxes of these pills before I knew what they were. At the close of the dramatic season of 1895, I took a vacation, going up into the White Mountains and into Northern Vermont. I asked my doctor and insisted upon knowing the name of the won-derful pills that he had been giving me. He laughed and said, 'I have been giving you a remedy called Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People.'

"I said, 'I think they are the best medi-cine I ever took, and I can directly trace to them all the benefit that I have received. I should have said that along with my other afflictions I was at times seriously troubled with a valvular affection of the heart, but the pills have proven to be a splendid remedy for that also. I certainly believe they strengthen and correct the action of that organ.'

Mr. Yewell has a clear, fresh complexion, the hue of health, weighs two hundred and twenty pounds, has a first-class appetite, and to use his own words: "I sleep like a top." He is fifty-two years old, and while Williams' Pink Pills have not made a young man out of him, they have certainly re-stored him so that he bids fair to see many years of usefulness.

"I will leave here soon," were his parting words to the reporter, "as I have an offer to go to Boston and take up my old theatrical work."

Mr. Yewell's many friends in the newspaper and theatrical profession will be glad to know that he is again in good health and restored to the pursuit, which he so long

OUR SPRINGFIELD LETTER.

Libel Bill Debate. The fight in the Senate over Lundin's bill to repeal the libel act of 1895 was a lively and interesting one. Statesman Lundin was the late Republican candidate for city clerk at Chicago and went down with the rest of the machine in one grand collapse. It seems he does not yet know what struck him, but as soon as he got back here he introduced a bill to repeal the libel act. I do not know whether anybody has libeled him or not, but if Lundin has got sense enough to be a State Senator and run for City Clerk, he ought to know that repealing the libel act will not save him. He also ought to know that with that act on the statute books he is in a much better condition to see a wealthy newspaper mulcted in punitive damages than he would if that law is repealed. All the same, if Lundin wants to sue anyone he cannot begin his action and file his precipe a minute too soon, for the act of '95 is not going to be repealed this year.

Lundin Was Anxious. So anxious was he to get this repeal bill passed when he introduced it he asked to have it read a first time and ordered to second reading without going to committee. Nobody objected, and he got it set for Tuesday morning immediately after the reading of the journal. Everything was in swimming order with the gentleman, but he struck a snag as soon as he had got it read a second time. Senator Dunlap moved to postpone the consideration for one week. He said this bill was not of so much importance as to require it to be railroaded through without the ordinary legislative precaution against hasty legislation. Mr. Baxter made a strong and effective plea against this bill, Mr. McCloud offered a substitute which reads as follows:

The McCloud Substitute. A bill for an act to compel the newspapers to publish the truth only about persons:

Section 1. Strike out all after the enacting words and insert as follows: Any newspaper found guilty of unduly eulogizing any persons, thus falsely building up for such person a reputation without merit, thereby misleading and deceiving the public, shall, after ten days' notice served on the publisher of said newspaper, make a retraction or correction of said eulogy in manner and place as conspicuous as was its original unduly eulogistic article, for three successive issues of said newspaper, or be assessed in punitive

Sec. 2. This act shall not apply to deceased persons nor be operative agains: funeral orators nor writers of obituary notices.

Mae had just spread himself to make the speech of his life in favor of his substitute when Lundin cut him of by moving to table it. It was a great disappointment to all of us that Sidney was not permitted to get in his work on that substitute.

Chicago Tribune Reporter "Roasted." Mahoney came to the help of our late friend Lundin and tried to stem the tide that was setting against his bantling. He said that God hated a coward and so did he and was proceeding to pour out the vials of his righteous wrath against those who were. He said cowards were attempting to defeat this measure by tomporizing motions and substitutes, when the funby side of this co-operative partnership between Mahoney and the Father of Mercies struck the Senate, and a broad laugh ran through the hall in spite of the frown of the chaplain. When the partnership got through denouncing the opponents of the bill, it was about ready to be skinned. Mahoney went on to advise Senators not to be afraid of the newspaper reporters, one of whom was dancing round the room, making his appearance here and there, hovering over Senators as if he was about to embrace them. (He was understood to refer to John Corwin, of the Tribune, who, was making himself conspicuous.)

To Protect Country Publishers.

Mr. Dunlap insisted that the act of '95 might be so amended that it would protect honest newspaper publishers, and that was the extent of what the Senator had called cowardice. He did not care a fig for the papers which made a practice of attacking public men without any regard to the justice of such attacks. Berry said this bill ought to go to committee and it would not pass unless it did. He was not in favor of shoving legislation through here in thirty-six hours. He was not afraid of newspapers or reporters. Senators Warder and Bogardus both said that this bill could not pass, but that its friends ought to let it go to committee so that certain provisions which are in the act of '95 can be amended. It was understood that the objection to the act of '95 is that its provisions were only made to apply to newspapers viten they should have been general in their application. After various tacks and fillings, amid motions to postpone, refer, commit and worked successfully.

what not, a motion was made to send it to the committee on judicial department, which is only a subdivision of the judiciary, or rather a second, and carried by 27 to 18. These votes Mr. Lundin can rely on to vote for repeal, and no more. There is no possibility of a repeal passing this Senate and by the time another one meets the law will have had such a trial that there will be no wish to repeal it.

Motive for Repeal. Already have bills been introduced in both houses to repeal the civil service law-in the house by a Democrat and in the Senate by a Republican. I asked Senator Campbell what his idea was in repealing the law. He said they had determined to break it down and could do so in large measure. "The adoption of this law by the Republicans had added very largely to the vote Harrison got. Every man who could not pass the examination believes he could have got a place by aldermanic pull, and all his brothers, his cousins, and his chums voted against us. As long as we let the law stand it will be held up as an excuse for Harrison's heelers getting no office. Repeal it and nineteen out of twenty of the applicants for places under him will get left, and they will know why, and will not have the law for an excuse."

Cause of McBride's Defeat. In Springfield they did the thing a little different. They had no intention of letting McBride put the whole city into the condition the state house was while he ran it as chief of janitors, "extra" and otherwise. A man who has been at work on the force since the new officers went in said that he never saw rooms in such condition as those in the state house were. They were mouldy with rubbish. In one room, where Fred Wines had stored all his records and books, when opened for him, since his reappointment, he found only remnants of part of the records, and they were torn up, cut to pieces, and ruined. Only twenty-four of the high backed chairs with which every committee room was supplied two years ago, aggregating over 200, could be found at all; tables, typewriters and desks were gone, the state house being the victim of wholesale robbery, which could not have taken place but through McBride's knowledge or connivance. He seems to have been the real issue here.

The "Fellow Servant" Bill.

The fight is on in the house on the fellow servant bill." This is a subject that for years has been very much in evidence in most of the western states. It amounts to an attempt to hold a railroad corporation liable for injuries and deaths which may come to their employes for accidents resulting from the act of another employe. It has often been before the legislature, and as often been defeated, and by general public sentiment its defeat is attributed to strong "corporation influence." The railroads naturally do not want such legislation. They argue, with a good show of honest intent, that juries are willing enough to find for the plaintiff in any suit where a railroad is the defendant without such legislation as is contemplated in this bill. They now pay heavy judgments, some of which are unjust and which would not be rendered in cases between man and man. They, of course, do not expect to escape from penalties and judgment there gross negligence is shown, but they think that sufficient.

The Earth's Atmosphere.

And now some scientists are endeavoring to prove that out atmosphere, by mingling with the water and rocks, is continually diminishing, and that the terrestrial globe will soon be as badly off as the moon in this respect. A series of experiments have been conducted in France with a batloon called the aerophile. It is conical in shape. A double platform hangs below the reservoir. In front of this is an instrument which registers the speed the machine is making. Behind is a meteorograph, which registers changes in the atmosphere. A dial shows highest point attained and another mechanism records intermediate altitudes. At the rear of the platform is an automatic camera, which takes accurate photographs of atmospheric scenes at different heights from the earth. There are reservoirs which are airtight and exhausted when the aerophile leaves the earth. When these are opened at a desired height a specimen of rarified air rushes in. This part of the apparatus is the idea of M. Cailletet. It has worked charmingly, and results in analyses of air secured from time to time will indicate changes that have taken place in the atmosphere.

The latest in a series of experiments with the aerophile was very successfully made a few days ago. The machine arose with great rapidity to a height of 10,000 meters. Highest temperature recorded was 60 degrees. The balloon remained in the air two hours. and traveled a distance of 102 kilometers. All the recording apparatus Treatment of Young Sheep.

Sheep can stand any amount of cold dry weather, because they are clad in the warmest of woolen goods, but soak this up with water and it will soon cause disease and death in the flock, says a writer in Kansas Farmer. Go out and jump into the pond yourself, and then lie down till the warmth of the body dries the moisture all up, and you will see how it goes yourself. A perfect roof and a well-drained yard is a necessity with sheep. As always have my lambs dropped in February and March, I find it convenient to feed the lambs by themselves, so in one corner of my shed I have a "lamb creep." It is made so lambs can go in at will, while the grown sheep cannot, and shelled corn and other feed is kept in there for the lambs. A lamb will cut its jaw teeth on shelled corn, and when only one week old will consume a quantity that is simply surprising. It is said that sheep do not need water. This is a mistake. They should be regularly watered with clean water, and thus avoid indigestion and other troubles. One ram for 100 ewes is sufficient. He should be well fed with a rotation of palatable food that would not cause him to get too fat, but would give him strength and vigor. The usual way is to keep the ram up in the day time and allow him with the flock at night. As all of my lambs are dropped before grass comes, this happens in the ward or shed, where care can be readily supplied. When the lambs come later on, when the pasture is green, it takes the constant care of a shepherd with the flock, or else many lambs will get lost, and many more disowned by their dams. This is a risk I cannot afford to run, and the man who practices this will probably tell you that he does not raise many lambs, has no luck, and that there is no money in sheep. This is another of the little details of the business, and is a large factor in the net receipts from the flock. When a man tells you he raises thirty lambs from twenty ewes, you can set it down that they were dropped in the shed when he could give them his personal care, when the rush of plowing and planting had not yet arrived. During lambing time I usually visit the shed just before I retire and as soon as I get up in the morning, sometimes in the night also. Most every morning one or more pairs of twins will be found, and these, with their dams, must be carefully removed from the rest of the flock for several days. I divide my sheep yard by a fence, and cause the hay rack to make the division in the shed, and the young lambs and their mothers are kept on one side by themselves, and yet they are in the same shed and eat out of the same troughs and rack that they have been always used to. This is another important little thing, as to remove a ewe from the rest will cause her to be uneasy, easily frightened and always worried. The first two hours of a lamb's life are the important ones, and if you see that they have sucked and are quite dry they are all right. Twenty good ewes ought to drop thirty to forty lambs, and while some will be lost, yet a large mortality is unnecessary if one understands his business. When lambs are dropped early, when the sheep are confined to the yard, and also when sheep are well fed on milkproducing food, the ewe will rarely disown her lamb, but should this occur, or you wish to put a lamb on another sheep, the two must be separated from the rest, then put some pine tar on the ewe's nose and the top of the lamb's head, and the scent being the same as the one constantly in the ewe's nose she will usually own it. Any strong scent, such as turpentine, camphor, etc., will do, and I have often simply used the ewe's milk to rub on, with

Feeding Buttermilk to Hogs.

Many patrons of creameries and private dairymen have often a larger supply of buttermilk than they have a rightful number of hogs for its consumption. Where buttermilk is fed in too large quantity it generally causes colic and then scours-more so in younger swine. The hair will become dead, and they grow pot bellied and flabby. While buttermilk, when fresh, is a valuable food, properly fed. I would not take it as a gift if I had to feed that and nothing with it. If it has taken on acidity to a large degree, as often cannot be avoided in hot weather, a tablespoonful of soda to a gallon, well stirred in, proves very beneficial. It is always best, when pigs are on grass, to dilute it with water, and use to each two quarts a quart of mill feed, corn and shorts. Young pigs, such as are weaned, will do better, eight or ten of them on two gallons of the mixture, fed twice a day, than if they received larger pertions of pure milk. With older hogs, one must be guided by their ability to digest, but it is surely a mistake to feed the milk alone, more so when on grass.-Theo. Louis.

Skim milk is an excellent human food. It makes muscle. If the milkman can sell it for 2 cents a quart, that will be equal to $1 per 100 pounds for it, and at such a price he will realize good profit. The progressive milkman might educate his customers gradually to a realization of the value of skim milk food.

LLINOIS LEGISLATURE REPORTED BY A SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.

Springfield, Ill., April 12.-Representative Cochran, under a suspension of the rules this afternoon, introduced in the house a bill amending the municipal civil service act by giving ex-union soldiers and sailors the preference in the making of appointments. The following bills were introduced, the first by unanimous consent, the second by a suspension of the rules: By Mr. Sayler-To establish a boulevard in the south park district in Chicago. By Mr. Cochran-Amending the municipal civil service act by giving ex-union soldiers and sailors the preference in the making of appointments. Mr. Anderson's bill limiting the number of employes of the general assembly was advanced to third reading. All of the house bills on the calendar on the order of first reading were advanced second reading. There were fifty in all, the number including the following: Committee bill to enable corporations of other states and countries to lend money in Illinois, to enforce their securities and to acquire real estate as security. By Mr. Brignadello-Making $2 a day the rate of wages for labor on public works. By Mr. Merriam-Fixing the salaries of the judges of the supreme court at $7,500 per annum. By Mr. Lathrop-Authorizing the adoption of voting machines. By Mr. Lamonte -Revising the law concerning local improvements by special assessments and otherwise. By Mr. Fuller-Creating a board of pardons. By Mr. Branen-To regulate the mannufacture and sale of beer, ale and porter. By Mr. Hunter-To regulate the profession of public accounting. By Mr. Revell-Providing for the inspection of beer by a state inspector. By Mr. Farrell-Providing for the taxation of foreign insurance companies. By Mr. Bevey-Providing for the placing of the flag on schoolhouses and other public buildings. By Mr. Storchie-To prohibit theaters from selling tickets when there are no vacant seats. By Mr. Lamb-Antitrust bill. By Mr. Galliger-Anti-trust bill. By Mr. Revell-To fix the salary of the mayor of Chicago at $20,000 and of aldermen at $8,000 per annum. The house adjourned to 10 p. m. tomorrow. Owing to the absence of a quorum no business was transacted in the senate today. Senator Little called the body to order at 5 p. m. and immediately after the reading of the journal an adjournment was taken until 10 a. m. tomorrow.

After the presentation of committee reports in the House Mr. Cochran called up the judicial apportionment bill on third reading. After a spirited debate further action on the measure was postponed till 11 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Governor Tanner sent, in a message transmitting a communication from George Torrance, general superintendent of the State Reformatory at Pontiac, asking for an appropriation of $175,000 for a new cellhouse. The House at this point took a recess to 4 o'clock. Upon reconvening the House passed the bill of Mr. Murray of Stark to authorize the trustee in a trust deed to release the same on the margin of the record. Hansberger's bill authorizing the administrator of the estate of a deceased person to cause a monument to be erected to the memory of such person, after all just debts are paid, failed to pass-yeas, 33; nays, 79. The Senate bill (Hull's) giving Marion county an additional term of court was passed.

Mr. McLaughlan moved that the House non-concur in the adverse report of the committee on resolution No. 5. The McLaughlan amendment, if concurred in by the Senate, will thus go to the people at the general election in November, 1898. It is an exact copy of the amendment which was voted upon in 1894 and defeated,

The House adjourned to 10 a. m. tomorrow. In the Senate Mr. Dunlap's bill authorizing school boards to establish day schools for the deaf was advanced to third reading without opposition. The House bill providing for the establishment of branch Appellate Courts in Cook County was advanced to third reading. The following bills were passed: Senator Mahoney-To clear titles under the alien law of 1887 and to give the widow and orphans of aliens homestead rights. Senator Harding-To ratify railroad consolidations made under the law of 1874 and prior to 1883 and to equalize their rights under the present law. Senator Templeton's appropriating $1,000,000 for the salaries of the state officers and of the officers and members of the next General Assembly. The Senate adjourned to 10 a. m. to-morrow.

April 14.

The governor transmitted to the senate the following appointments, which were confirmed: Trustees of the eastern Illinois normal school, H. A. Neal of Charleston to succeed A. J. Barr, resigned; L. D. Wolfe of Peoria to succeed Calvin L. Pleasants, resigned: A. H. Jones of Robinson to succeed M. P. Rice, resigned; W. H. Youngblood of Carbondale, resigned, to be his own successor. nois normal university, Thomas S. Ridgeway of Shawneetown to succeed F. W. Dunnaway, resigned; F. A. Prickett of Carbondale to succeed William R. Ward, term expired; S. P. Wheeler of Springfield to succeed Charles W. Bliss, term expired; A. C. Brookins of Duquoin to succeed Charles W. Terry. resigned. Trustees of the Illonois home for juvenile female offenders, A. K. Perry of Aurora to succeed William Prentiss, resigned; Mrs. Victoria M. Richardson of Princeton, resigned, to be her own successor; Mrs. J. G. Harvey of Geneva, resigned, to be her own successor; Henry Whittemore of Sycamore to succeed M. J. Carroll, term expired; Mrs. F. H. Blackman of Geneva to succeed Frank M. Annis, resigned. Senator Dwyer introduced a bill to tax telegraph companies on their gross receipts. A joint resolution providing that when the legislature adjourns Friday it stand adjourned until Wednesday, April 21, was adopted. At the conclusion of the routine business the senate went into committee of the whole for the purpose of considering the Humphrey railroad bills.

Immediately after the house met Mr. Merriam offered a joint resolution providing for sine die adjournment May 6. After an animated discussion consideration of the resolution was postponed one week. Mr. Avery was given unanimous consent and introduced a bill which repeals the indeterminate sentence and parole law, applicable to the Illinois reformatory at Pontiac. On account of the numerous country elections the house decided to adjourn from Thursday, April 15, to the following Wednesday. Mr. Cockran called up the judicial apportionment bill, which was a special order for 11 o'clock, and for the purpose of shutting off debate Fred A. Busse moved the previous question, which was carried. The speaker then ordered the roll called on the passage of the bill with the emergency clause. The bill failed to pass, the vote standing: Yeas, 85; nays, 59. The emergency clause was then stricken out on motion of Mr. Cochran. The motion then recurred on the passage of the bill, and by a vote of 84 yeas to 59 nays the bill was passed. A motion to reconsider the vote was tabled. After the passage of several appropriation bills the house adjourned to 10 a. m. to-morrow.

April 15.

In the house Mr. Nohe, from the committee on insurance, made a favorable report on Kilcourse's bill to prevent the organization of associations or combinations for the purpose of fixing rates of fire insurance. The bill was ordered to first reading. Mr. Anderson, Republican, asked unanimous consent to take up on third reading his bill to prevent the name of a candidate from appearing on the official ballot more than once or under more than one party appellation. The Democrats objected, but Mr. Anderson secured a suspension of the rules and the bill was passed. A message from the senate announced that that body refused to concur in the house amendment to the judicial apportionment bill striking out the emergency clause. Mr. Cochran moved that the house do not recede from the amendment and that a conference committee be appointed. This motion prevailed and the speaker appointed Cochran, Allen of Vermilion. and Organ as the house members of the joint committee on conference. Mr. Cochran called up his bill against the objections of the Democrats, his bill giving ex-union diers the preference in civil service at contments in cities. The bill was advanced to third reading. The house then adjourned.

The senate, on motion of Senator Warder, refused to concur in the house amendment striking out the emergency clause in the judicial apportionment bill. The president appointed Senators Warder, Edwards and Landrigan a committee to confer with a like committee from the house in regard to the bill. Senator Dunlap offered a resolution, which was adopted, providing that the president of the senate appoint a committee of five to investigate whether or not the treasurer of the university of Illinois had misappropriated the funds of that institution, as is currently reported. The president appointed on the committee Senators Berry, McKinlay, Fisher, Aspinwall and Dunlap. On motion of Senator Dunlap consideration of the Chicago real estate board revenue bills was postponed until next Wednesday immediately after the reading of the journal. The senate committee on warehouses reported favorably on the following bills: Mr. Lecper's, providing that warehouses of Class A shall receive grain for storeage without discrimination, and that all grain received for storage shall be inspected and stored with grain of similar grade; Mr. Kingsbury's, providing that public warehouses in East St. Louis be placed under the control of the railroad and warehouse commissioners of Illinois.

Greek Diplomacy.

Events occurring in the Hellenic kingdom show that the Greek has lost none of the shrewdness which helped him to build up the most glorious nation of ancient times. There is every promise that the present generation will see Greece more powerful and prominent than she has been since the days of her old time splendor. Liberty and enthusiasm are in the blood of the Greeks, and they are wild to get at the Turk and restore their former supremacy.

To this end the Ethnike Hetairia, or National league, was formed. Its members are vowed to use all means to forward the power of Greece and to unite under one flag all peoples of Hellenic blood and faith, no matter to what government they have been assigned by the powers of Europe.

In spite of official denials at Athens and in the camp of Prince Constantine from his headquarters at Larissa in Thessaly, nothing is plainer than that the invasion of Turkish soil by so called irregulars and insurgents from Greece was known beforehand and approved by the Greek government. The orders to the Greek regular army to stop their movements are not intended to be obeyed. These "irregulars" are commanded by able military men. The officers of the Greek army itself are members of the Ethnike Hetairia. But the Greek government itself is purposely left in a position where it can disclaim any connection with the raid into Tur-

The plan is for the Greek government to publicly disavow the rising of the irregulars and at the same time secretly aid them. When they have irritated the Turks into fighting back and have cut off communication between the three divisions of the Turkish army in Macedonia, Epirus and Thessaly, it will be an easy matter for the Greek regular army to follow them and in the very face of the protest of the vacillating and cowardly powers to bring on the longed for war between Turkey and Greece. Then the Greeks will wipe out old scores gloriously.

A Boston Dog.

Even a dog from Boston is worth more than dogs elsewhere. In truth, a canine of genuine Boston birth and bringing up has lately brought a higher price than a man would have done in the old days of slavery. "The noted blue ribbon Boston terrier Squanto" of the Squanto kennels was lately sold to a Philadelphia lawyer for $3,000. It tock a Philadelphia lawyer to fully discern Squanto's merits.

We are informed by an enthusiastic reporter that this interesting $2,000 dog has "an even blaze and collar;" also that he is "light brindle in color, handsomely ticked." It must have been the ticking of him that so tickled the fancy of the Philadelphia lawyer. Or was it his eyes, which are "very large and expressive and as round as a silver dollar?" They ought to be fully as large as a silver dollar, too, according to the hand at the commencement of said price, which was the largest ever paid discal year, the amount of public funds for an American bred dog. But this was a Boston bred dog, which constitutes all the difference.

To most people Squanto would not as aforesaid. be worth that money. To most he would be just a plain deg. They would not give 10 cents for him, even though his tail has "two twists in less than amount of public funds on hand at the him his fictitious value.

The Hawaiian Islands have been understood to be under a sort of moral protectorate by the United States. While we have not claimed them, other nations have understood that none of them should do so. Our missionaries civilized the islands and drew thither the white population. The white inhabitants are largely either the descendants of American missionaries or of the friends and associates of American missionaries. Since the revolution which turned the fair islands into a republic the people have looked longingly for annexation to us, but have received one long straight snub. We shall now have to pay some attention to them or let Japan have them. Which will the United States do?

It Pays to Raise Percheron Horses

It does not pay to raise cheap horses when horses are cheap. It does pay to raise horses that command a good price in the market. Percheron horses have always and are still commanding good prices. hence Percheron horses are the ones to raise for profit.

Already the demand for good working horses is on the increase and the supply is limited, with certain prospects that prices will advance rapidly in the next few years. Over 40,000 horses were shipped abroad during the years 1895 and 1896, with prospects for an increasing demand this year. It is with confidence that I offer to the farmers of the surrounding district the services of my highly bred Percheron stallion

BERESFORD," 17307.

This horse is 5 years old and is one of the finest specimens of his race in this country. His sire, Reaper 8076 (10437) was one of the highest bred Percherons ever brought across the water, as was his grand sire, Confident, 3647 (397), winner of the first prize and gold medal as a 3-year-old at the New Orleans Exposition, his owner at that time refusing $5,000 for him. Beresford 17307 is recorded with pedigree in the Percheron stud-book of America: "Dapple grey; weight, 1900 lbs; heighth, 16 3-4 hands."

A horse like BERESFORD cannot be stood at a "scrub" price, but owing to the hard times I have put the service fee for this horse down to the very nominal figure of $10.00 to insure colt. BERESFORD will stand in my barn at Palatine every week-day during the season of 1897. If you are interested we would be pleased to send you a descriptive circular.

To the Poles.

Two important projects of popular exploration are now being planned, one to the north, the other to the south pole. The one to the north will be managed by Lieutenant R. E. Peary. The plans are made. The lieutenant is sure that with his experiences of arctic travel he can reach the pole on a third expedition. There is at present only one thing lacking, that is the money to conduct the expedition. Some of those Americans who give fancy balls costing $250,000 and who build houses that cost $1,000,000 are respectfully invited to devote their attention to an enterprise that if successful would make the United States as illustrious as Spain became in connection with the discovery of America. A new world was discover I under Spanish patronage. Let the north pole be reached by the munificence of an American private citizen.

Meantime Professor Andree gives out that he will this summer go to the north pole by balloon. We shall believe Professor Andree intends to start when be has actually cut loose his strings and soared with his balloon into the blue empyrean. It may be mentioned in passing that Andree's expenses for his balloon voyage are paid by King Oscar of Sweden.

The English government will appropriate $80,000 toward a thorough exploration of the south polar seas and continents. The request for two ships for three years, which Dr. John Murray has made, will probably be granted. The object of the British south polar expedition will be more commercial than scientific. The explorers, after thoroughly sounding and charting the seas south of 60 degrees south latitude, also examining their products, will endeavor to reach the south pole itself by sledging over inland ice.

Shall England and Norway surpass us in commercial and scientific enterprise?

Advertising Art.

All the resources of the skilled artist are now taxed to produce simply advertisements. There is more money for an ingenious and industrious wielder of brush and pencil in illustrating a bicycle or bonnet catalogue than in painting a rare landscape. It is not a sign of degeneracy in art either. It is a sign that the best artist's talents are at the service of the common people and that his skill and ideality can educate and please the eyes of all.

From such a collection the prevailing thought and customs of civilized people at the close of the nineteenth century can be read 3,000 years hence. Some of the posters are monstrous. Yet others show a wealth of beautiful and delicate idea and workmanship. The rare green and lilac shades formed a background of exceeding beauty for marvelous sprays of shining Easter lilies. Certainly never in history were there such striking and beautiful color effects in poster art as at present. A color craze possesses the inhabitants of the earth. In dress, in house drapery, in flowers, everywhere, they revel in dazzling rainbow tints.

The color craze has even invaded journalistic letterpress and partly driven out the sober black ink that so long monopolized the newspaper page. Articles printed in cerulean blue, advertisements in type of flaming red, are becoming common. So are colored advertisement pictures in the newspapers. first intended the attendance no doubt

In this case the leather interest is diametrically opposed to the hide interest, and how will congress fix things?

The latest trust is-the saints preserve us!-the Onion trust. A Kansas City man whose plans not even the fragrance of his breath could give away has quietly made a deal whereby he controls 27,000 barrels of onions. A rare opportunity for caricature is here offered to the newspaper artist. A huge, bleated onion will stand for the wicked trust, which is said already to have advanced the price of its odoriferous commodity a dollar a barrel.

The prowess of the Greeks in Europe and of the Japanese in Asia command the admiration of the civilized world. It is likewise to be noted that neither one of these fine races has a drop of Anglo-Saxon blood in its veins.

Big guns are thundering in the mountain passes of Thessaly and Macedonia. The impregnable forts of the Dardanelles are belching forth shot and shell | their troops near Damasi. at every attempt of the Greek fleet to pass up into Constantinople. Once more the pass of Thermopylae is defended by the soldiers of the Cross. Blood and carnage is everywhere. Europe looks on impatiently. Every Christian statesman knows what this war means, knows that it is the beginning of the greatest general war of history, knows that it will be a fight to the death between the Cross and the Crescent. Every European nation, with the exception of England, mands ready to assist the Greek nation, England does not want to go into this war. Her vast commercial interests in India and Egypt have added the Crescent, the insignia of Mahomedanism, to the British standard. England is today in no condition to take sides Egypt would at once revolt. British commerce would be driven from northern Africa and the richest part of Asia. Much as the people of England love Christian civilization, they are fonder still of the commerce that makes England rich as a nation. If that wealth depends on Mahomedan trade England will stand by that trade. England's position is easily explained. In her course she is without an ally in Europe. Christendom is appalled at her course. Germany, at first inclined to stand with England, has revolted. The young emperor has leagued the empire's fortunes with those of Russia and France.

The news of this success at Reveni and of the imminent fall of Prevesa has changed the dismay caused at Athens by the loss of Milouna into the wildest rejoicing.

The latest advices are that the Greek troops are advancing to reoccupy their positions at Milouna and at Gritzovali, the latter of which, it is alleged, was abandoned owing to a misunderstanding by the general in command, who interpreted as an order of retreat what was really intended as an order of advance. The Greeks report that the Turks lost 7,000 killed and wounded at Reveni, but this estimate is probably excessive. The Greek engineers constructed a bridge at Pachyskalos to enable their troops to cross the river. It is stated that the Turkish forces atagainst the Mahomedans. India and tacking Reveni numbered more than 10,000 men.

> It is reported that among the other matters considered is the expediency of ordering the international fleets to leave Cretan waters and to go in the direction of Salonica and the Dardenelles, to watch the fighting with a view to localizing it if necessary by naval intervention. Should this suggestion, which is understood to emanate from the Italian foreign office, be acted upon, it is probable that only half the fleet of foreign warships would be withdrawn for such a purpose, the other half remaining to continue the Cretan blockade.

WHERE THE BATTLES WERE FOUGHT.

The heavy dot on the southwest coast indicates the location of Preveza, where the Turkish fortifications were situated which sunk the Greek steamer Macedonia, and which were subsequently destroyed by the Grecian warships.

The second dot on the line of the northern frontier between Elassona and Larissa designates the scene of the heavy fighting at Milouna Pass.

But Captain Salisbury, like the greater portion of the English nation, will not heed the warning. England is drunk with foreign commerce.

is wildly rejoicing over the latest news from the Turkish frontier. Gen. Smolenitz, exminister of war, is in command of 14,-000 Greeks at Reveni, not far from Tyrnavos, northwest of Larissa. At this point Edhem Pasha, closely pressed, was nearly taken prisoner. His plan was to force the pass of Reveni, to enter the plain of Larissa, to cut off the retreat of the Greek army with his cavalry and thus take Larissa without resistance. But this plan was de-

London Cable: In spite of the fact of its being a holiday here Monday, there was great activity in the foreign office, where the full staff was at work the whole day long. The Italian, German, Austrian, Swedish, French and Turkish ministers had a lengthy conference with Sir Thomas H. Sanderson, the permanent secretary of the foreign office. The latter informed a representative of the Assofeated, Gen. Demopoulos, at the head ciated press that the powers had not 6 months and 19 days.

yet decided to interfere in the war between Greece and Turkey, which, he added, should be sharp and decisive, as the Greeks have little chance of ultimately winking.

THE FIRST BATTLES.

Some of the Earlier Cablegrams from the Seat of War. has broken out between Greece and Turkey. Fierce battles have been fought at Karya, at Milouna pass and at Prevesa on the Gulf of Aeta. The most desperate battle was fought at Milouna pass where 20,000 men fought more than thirty hours without food or sleep.

Diplomatic relations between the two nations have been severed. Turkey insists that Greece has provoked the conflict by her aggrtssive attitude on the frontier of Macedonia. On the other hand Greece insists that Turkey has been the aggressor. Crete, which was the original cause of the conflict, seems now to be overlooked.

Unless some of the great powers intercede there is certain to be great loss of human life before the quarrel is Greek subjects in Constantinople will probably remain under the protection of Mr. Terrell, the American minister.

A dispatch to the Daily Chronicle from Athens, dated midnight, says the Greeks have captured Menaxa after severe fighting. The Turkish losses were very heavy; the Greek comparatively light. The correspondent adds: 'The Greek fleet has destroyed half the fortresses at Prevesa and silenced their guns. I am assured that the bombardment will be continued to-morrow (Monday) morning.

"The latest news received here is that the Greeks have captured and hold all the positions except Ana and Milouna along the Thessalian line. I have had access to an important document from a European capital showing that the powers have done nothing for several weeks, because they have hoped that Greece would be either financially ruined or soundly beaten by Turkey. If Turkey gets Larissa she will remain there until Greece evacuates Crete. It was Germany that urged Turkey to declare war."

press understands that Turkey has no idea of territorial conquest, because she is aware that the powers would not sanction an advance to Athens. The idea is that she will first attempt to capture Larissa, and then march on Trichala and Pharari, If these also are captured Turkey would be in a position to compel Greece to comply with the demands of the powers. The Turkish fleet, however, is still in the Dardanelles, where it is likely to remain as long as the Greeks continue active.

It is reported that the powers, so far from blockading Greek ports, will even allow Col. Vassos and his army to return to Greece if he decides to do so. In any case the Greek fleet would be able to harass Turkey at many points, besides in addition keeping open the supply of provisions and munitions for the Greek army.

The latest advices from Arta show that the rains have been followed by three days of hot, fine weather, and the river, Arakphos, which alone separates the opposing armies, is rapidly shrinking. The hill roads are improving in condition. It is at this point that the severest and deadliest fighting may be expected.

Another question of dominating influence is whether the Greeks can engineer an uprising in Macedonia and the Sporades islands. Russia and Germany are meanwhile content to see Greece and Turkey crippling each other for many years to come, so long as the other Balkan states are kept quiet.

AMERICAN WARSHIPS ABROAD.

Formidable Fleet Could Be Gathered

Together at Short Notice. Washington Special: Up to this time there has been, so far as could be learned, no consultation with regard to re-enforcing the fleet of the United States in Mediterranean waters. Should the presence of ships of war of foreign nations be required in Turkish or Grecian waters to protect our citizens as a result of the impending conflicts, th. United States could assemble a for midable fleet, if necessary. In the Med iterranean squadron at this time the navy department has four ships-the cruiser San Francisco, the flagship or the station; the triple-screw cruise: Minneapolis and the cruiser Cincinnati, all modern vessels of high type, and the small gunboat Bancroft. The Detroit is now on her way to the Medit erranean from the China station, and now probably is somewhere near the Red sea. Another addition to the flee; will soon be made by the presence c: the Raleigh, which is getting ready to join the European station. Other ves sels that might be used for service in Europe, if necessary, are the Montgom ery, Marblehead, Maine and Texas, al. of which are now on the Atlantic coast The opinion exists, however, that the presence of any number of war vessels will not be necessary.

Special reports received at the office of the Illinois department of/agriculture under the date of April 10 in regard to winter wheat are even more discouraging than on March 10. Reports from nearly half of the counties in the state, including almost all of the winter wheat growing counties, are to the effect that two-thirds of the wheat seeded last fall, 1,749,000 acres, was winter-killed or destroyed by floods, and the condition of the remaining third is so poor that under the most favorable conditions from now until harvest only about one-third of an average crop may be expected. The outlook is that but little more than enough wheat for seed will be harvested in Illinois this season.

Loren E. Wheeler, mayor-elect of Springfield, was in the city Saturday. The correspondent of the Associated | He fled from home on account of the horde of fellows who wanted offices under the new administration. In conversation regarding the campaign at the capital city he said: "I won my campaign on the question of electric lighting. The city of Springfield owns a plant, and it has been a bone of contention between the city and the corporation which also owns a plant there. But we won the fight. The city plant is a great thing for the municipality. It not only lights the city, but has a commercial circuit as well, and there where the fight came in. But through that commercial circuit the price of commercial lighting has been cut a half to the consumer, and at the same time brings in enough profit to pay for the plant in two years and give the city its lights for streets free. I think that is enough, don't you?"-Peoria Journal. A New York special to a Chicago > newspaper contains the following item of interest to Central Illinois people from former associations with one of the principals, who was born in Peoria: Justice Brewer of the Venezuelan boundary commission was engaged in the preparation of an important decision last March when Perry Allan, secretary of the commission, blushingly asked for two weeks' leave. Mr. Justice Brewer frowned and said: "Why do you want two weeks' leave?" The young secretary blushed some more and drew tenderly from the left hand inner pocket of his coat a photograph and handed it sheepishly to his superior. Justice Brewer gazed on the photograph, and finally granted the two weeks' leave. The picture was that of Miss Bertha Sloan, of Omaha, who is so pretty that Col. Henry Watterson, a good judge of loveliness, went to a theater in Omaha one night, saw Miss Sloan, and spent the evening gazing, not at the stage, but at her. Mr. Allan fell in love with the photograph first, which he borrowed from the album of a friend, and then devoted his diplomacy to getting that friend to secure a visit from Miss Sloan. She arrived in Washington to attend the inaugural ceremonies and Cupid did the rest in the quickest time on record, Then came the interview with Mr. Justice Brewer. The young people decided to go to Omaha at once and secure the consent of the prospective bride's parents. Leaving so hurriedly, the impetuous lover quite forgot to mention to his parents the matter of his sudden departure or its object. By the time they reached Cincinnati they had decided the parental sanction was a pure formality. In short, they went to Lawrenceville, Ind., where hey were married, March 24. A first society looked grave, but after the mother of the bride had marched the couple down to All Saints' Protestant Episcopal church and had them remarried by the Rev. Thomas J. Mackay, society was a bit more lenient. Mr. Allan is the son of William H. Allan, general manager of the Postal telegraph company at Washington, 26 years old, a lawyer and splendid linguist. local applications, as they cannot reach diseased portion of the ear. There is the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound, or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

A New Botanical Discovery.

The Wonderful Kava-Kava Shrub. -Nature's Cure for Diseases of the Kidneys, Rheumatism and other maladies caused by Uric Acid in the Blood.—A Blessing to Sufferers.

SENT FREE TO PROVE ITS POWER.

A few weeks ago we told our readers of the new botonical discovery, the Kava-Kava Shrub, or as botanists call it, PIPER METHYSTICUM, found on the Ganges River, East India. This wonderful shrub has proved to be a true specific cure for all diseases caused by Uric Acid in the Blood, such as Kidney and Bladder disorders, Rheumatism, etc. It was no doubt used for centuries by the natives as a specific remedy for jungle fevers, miasma, and other maladies, when it was required to clean out the poisons from the Blood through the two months.

The strongest testimony is given by ministers of the gospel doctors, business men and others who have been restored to health by the use of Alkavis, the new remedy prepared from the Kava-Kava Shrub. The New York (bristian Witness of Feb. 10th, tells the story of Rev. John H. Watson, of Sunset, Texas, sricken down by Kidney disease after thirty years' service as minister of the gospel, given up to die by two ex ellent doctors, and finally restored to health and to his religious duties by Alkavis. Rev. A. C. Darling, of North Constantia, N. Y.. whose case is described in the Christian Advocate of Jan. 30, had lost confidence, as he says, in man and medicine, and was preparing for death, when he learned of this wonderful remedy, took it, and was healed. In his sufferings he was often compelled to rise ten times during the night from weakness of the Eladder, but Alkavis quickly cured him. Many cases of Brights' Disease have been promptly cured by this wonderful shrub, as testified to in the New Yerk World, of March 9, by Hon. F. D. Jackson, Governor of Iowa, and others. Many leadies also, including Mrs. Alice Evans, of Baltimore, Md.; Mrs. Mary A. Layman, of Neel, West Va., twenty years a sufferer; and Mrs. L. E. Copeland. Els River, Minn., join in testifying to its wonderful curative power in various forms of Kidney and allied diseases, and of other troublesome afflictions peculiar to womanhood. It is truly a wonderful discovery and fraught with blessings to afflicted humanity.

TO CUT LEVEES.

New Orleans Man Speaks of Perforating

the Embankment. New Orleans, La., April 20.-The city has caught the fever of excitement and though the authorities insist that the line is well protected and no danger exists, the citizens held several mass meetings and urged action, pledging all the money needed.

At one of the meetings a citizen suggested the cutting of a levee on the opposite bank of the river, in order to save the city. Some of the people from over the river were present and quietly replied that any such attempt would mean the perforation of the cutting committee. A groundless fear that New Orleans would attempt such measures has been abroad in adjoining sections for several days and at the monster Bonnet Carre embankment the rumor has caused the camping of an armed company of volunteers on the levee each night.

The Carrolton levee, about which most of the agitation is in progress, stands at the head of the finest residence avenue in the city, and as a spectator stands at the top he looks upon the roofs of mansions, while almost wetting his feet in the mighty river seeming eager to break its bonds. One glance at the picture is sufficient to account for the anxiety which has led to much bitter attack upon the really good work the levee board has accomplished.

BANK CASHIER KILLED.

Brutal Crime of Robbers at Summerworth, N. H.

Cashier Joseph A. Stickney, of the Great Falls National Bank in Somersworth, N. H., yielded his life Friday after a desperate but futile struggle to prevent robbers from taking the bank's cash. The amount of booty secured by the robbers is a matter of conjecture. All the cash is missing, and this is estimated to be $6,000, though it may be

The robbers overlooked $100,000 in United States bonds, kept in one of the drawers of the vault. None of the negotiable paper or bank securities was touched, the robbers having evidently determined to take nothing but

The crime was not discovered until some time had elapsed, and the perpetrators had ample opportunity to escape. Mr. Stickney was a well-known resident of this city, and threats of quick vengeance are freely being made in the event that his murderers are captured and brought here.

Two men were arrested at Waltham, Mass., charged with the crime, but they proved an alibi.

A TEST VOTE.

Senators Show Their Leanings on the Tariff Question. The first skirmish on the tariff question occurred in the senate Wednesday. It was followed by a vote which served as a test of strength of the various elements in the senate. The vote occurred on a motion of Mr. Morrill (Rep., Vt.), chairman of the committee on finance, to refer a resolution by Mr. Vest, one of the Democratic members of that committee. The resolution was in the nature of a criticism of Secretary Gage, and declared illegal his recent order relative to goods imported after April 1, when, according to the retroactice clause of the pending Dingley bill, the new tariff rates are to apply. Mr. Morrill's motion prevailed by the close vote of 24 to 23.

Senator Kyle, whose position is a question of interest, and Senator Allen (Pop.) were absent.

The affirmative vote was given by Republicans, including one silver Republican, Mr. Mantle (Mont). The negative vote was made up of Democrats, Populists and two silver Republicans-Pettigrew (S. D.) and Cannon Eight-Hour Day Agitation.

Washington, April 21.- The regular quarterly session of the executive council of the American Federation of Labor was opened at the headquarters of the federation in this city Monday morning, and will continue for the next two or three days. The most important subject to be considered at present is the agitation in favor of an eight-hour working day. The plan agreed upon contemplates simultaneous mass-meetings throughout the country May 1 to discuss and agitate the question, and the selection of a member from each of the national unions of the country in affiliation with the federation to act as an advisory board.

Merit Wins.

The invention of Alabastine marked a new era in wall coatings, and from the standpoint of the building owner was a most important discovery. It has from a small beginning branched out into every country of the civilized world. The name "kalsomine" has become so offensive to property owners that manufacturers of cheap kalsomine preparations are now calling them by some other name, and attempting to sell on the Alabastine company's reputation.

Through extensive advertising and personal use, the merits of the durable Alabastine are so thoroughly known that the people insist on getting these goods and will take no chance of spoiling their walls for a possible saving of at the most but a few cents. Thus it is again demonstrated that merit wins, and that manufacturers of first-class articles will be supported by the people.

Ideal farming comprehends not only the growing of the tallest grain—the most tons-to-the-acre of hay; the best farming—the farming that pays—must contemplate something more than this; for there is a harvest time, and just in proportion as a crop is saved successfully, speedily and economically, in just that proportion may be measured the season's profit or loss.

When the young lady was 18 years Of course, Martin was invited, and acting on the advice of his devoted mother, he attended. Rev. John's description of Martin's feeling and nctions at the social function provoked continual merriment.

The time came when Martin plucked up enough courage, and in his straight, his love. She dismissed him with a scornful laugh, and Martin retired to the background.

It was at this period that Mr. Schufthat caused much anxiety to his family. which was very respectable, met Miranda. He was always dressed in the height of fashion. He was accustomed to society, and his flattery soon won the affections of the young lady.

Miranda's father pleaded with her in vain, and finally told her that if she persisted in marrying Schufterly she would never be expected to enter the old home again. Strong-minded Miranda accepted the challenge, and was married to her unwise choice.

The pastor's description of the experience and culinary efforts of Mr. and Mrs. Schufterly were ludicrous in the extreme, and were highly appreciated by the audience.

But there came a time, and that very soon, that Mr. Schufterly lost his job, and having saved nothing in his prosperous days, the family was soon reduced to want. From this time on bad came to worse. Schufterley took to drink, and the domestic troubles increased. The climax came when Miranda, having given birth to a little child, lay in her cold bare attic room, her baby very ill, she received a note telling her that she was

After an unsuccessful attempt to get help from her father, she returned to her desolate home to see her child die of want.

Pastor John's description of the scenes were realistic, and the audience was spell-bound from the beginning to the end. The reverend gentleman concluded his lecture with a graphic late George W.
