About forty Woodmen and friends attended the memorial exercises of Barrington camp at Barrington last Sunday. One of the Barrington trains made a special trip for the occasion and those who attended were impressed with this tribute of the order which is paid to deceased members. The observance is kept throughout the United States where camps are located.

The high school base ball team went to Wauconda last Saturday afternoon accompanied by many hooters. There were two bus loads in all. The team won an easy victory from the Waucondas, shutting them out in seven of the nine innings. The boys wore their new suits of red pants and shirts and white stockings, and their martial appearance may have been partly responsible for the defeat of the inlanders. The boys played ball from start to finish and every man of the team distinguished himself at some time during the game. The final score was 21 to 3.

A box of clothing is being prepared for the Lake Bluff Orphanage, where are fifty-eight orphan children from one to fourteen years old. Special mention is made of the need of straw hats, partly worn shoes, hair-ribbons, stockings and in fact anything and everything your own child would need if left without your love and care. Leave goods at Methodist parsonage within the next ten days. Hurry, please, for the things are needed this summer.

Palatine Memorial association met in the M. E. church parlors May 31 and elected the following officers for the ensuing year: President, A. R. Baldwin; vice-president, C. E. Julian; secretary, Mrs. A. E. Arps; treasurer, J. W. Thurston. A vote of thanks was extended to all who so kindly assisted in the exercises, and especially to Rev. J. C. Hoffmeister and Prof. W. L. Smyser, as without their assistance the exercises would have been incomplete.

The Bureau of Associated Charities of Chicago desires to send a detachment of children from 6 to 14 years old, to Palatine for a summer outing of two weeks. Many of them come from poor homes where food is poor and scarce. To live two weeks with plenty to eat, fresh air, green grass, shade trees, birds and flowers, to enjoy will be to them a rare treat. Who wishes to do good in this way? Already about twenty are provided for. The second and third weeks in July are set for their coming. Those to whom this work appeals, but who can not entertain, may substantially help by contributing to the transportation of the children. Rev. Mr. Hoffmeister and Mrs. Hardin have the work in hand and may be consulted any time. Detachments are to be sent to other towns along the line. Please attend to the matter early. w2

Louis Langhoff.

Otto Carl William Louis Langhoff son of Mr. and Mrs. William Langhoff, died at the home of his parents southwest of this village last Saturday evening of blood poisoning. He was taken ill the Monday before and the doctor was summoned but the case had not proceeded far enough for diagnosis. On Thursday his face broke out in pimples and it was found that he had blood poisoning. The doctor gave no hope from the first but an operation was performed by Dr. Muffat assisted by Dr. Holstead of Chicago, which proved ineffectual and the young man died Saturday.

The deceased was born in Palatine on November 28, 1882, where he has always resided with his parents. The funeral services were held at the house last Tuesday and a large number of friends and acquaintances were present. Rev. J. C. Hoffmeister of St. Paul's church preached an appropriate and touching sermon. Burial took place in the Palatine cemetery.

SCHOPPE-FLURY.

Mr. Harry Schoppe and Miss Amelia Flury were married at the home of the bride's mother in this place last Thursday evening at 8 o'clock. Rev. J. C. Hoffmeister, pastor of St. Paul's church performed the ceremony which united these lives for life.

Only the immediate relatives of the family were present. After the ceremony a wedding feast was spread and the young couple were serenaded by the Palatine band of which the groom is a member. The groom is one of Palatine's most popular and enterprising young business men, being the junior partner of the firm of Schoppe Bros. and a general favorite among his host of acquaintances. The bride is the youngest daughter of Mrs. R. Flury and has a charming circle of acquaintances.

The young couple have taken up their residence in the rooms over the groom's store which they have elegantly furnished. THE REVIEW joins the host of friends in wishing them a long, prosperous and happy voyage.

Board Proceedings.

The village board met in regular session last Monday night and transacted much important business. All members were present and C. D. Taylor acted as clerk in the absence of A. G. Smith.

The village treasurer's report for the month of May showed a balance of $260.34 and was read, accepted and placed on file.

Bids were received from Battermann, Abelmann & Ost and W. R. Comfort & Co., for furnishing stone for street crossings and the matter was left in the hands of the street and drainage committee to purchase 2,000 feet of stone from the lowest bidder. The former tendered the lowest bid at 22 cents per foot, being 1 cent lower than the other firm.

The judiciary committee presented an ordinance relating to peddlers license, and same was left over for next meeting.

An ordinance relating to the construction of laying of drains in the village was presented and passed.

An ordinance for the appropriation for the fiscal year was passed.

It was moved and carried that the salary of Henry Law be increased $5 per month, making his salary $45 per month.

The village hall was let to the high school alumni for their use on the evening of June 22.

CURRENT TOPICS

TAKING THE CENSUS.

The object of the federal census now being taken are of three kinds: To furnish a basis for the apportionment of representatives in the lower house of congress; to ascertain the growth of the United States in numbers, wealth and industry, and to investigate the social organizations and institutions which determine the growth of population and wealth. The first is a constitutional necessity, the second a study of facts, and the third a study of causes.

Probably no social institution is so intimately connected with the growth of population as that of marriage. Investigating material conditions the law requires about each person a statement whether he or she is single, married, widowed, or divorced; if married, how many years the marriage has lasted; if mother, how many children she has had, and how many of these children are now living.

From the answers to the questions it is possible to determine the birth rate, the prevalence of marriage, the proportion of women and children to the whole population, the duration and fruitfulness of marriage. So far as the power and importance of nations are dependent upon the size of the population, to that extent is the accurate determination of these questions a matter of public necessity.

In the United States there would seem to be little danger of a decline in the population. But even when we are sure that the population is growing, it is still necessary to know how it is growing. The millions of India are increasing, but it is by a process of many births and many deaths. In good years millions are born; in times of famine millions die, the population increasing because a few more are born than die. It is growth, but savage growth. There is a more excellent kind of progress, that resulting from the combination of a moderate birth rate and a small death rate.

The marital statistics collected by the census are in many respects very interesting. Thus, the extent and power of the anti-marital forces can be estimated in a way by ascertaining the proportion of people between 55 and 64 years of age who have never been married. Census statistics show that the proportion of unmarried females between these ages is greatest in the East, in North Carolina, Rhode Island and Massachusetts, for instance, while the proportion is smallest in the West, South Dakota, Utah and Oklahoma bringing up the rear in the order named.

Men, on the contrary, are far more likely to remain single in the West than in the East. The proportion of unmarried men between 55 and 64 is lowest in the Southern states, e. g., Arkansas, Alabama and Georgia, and greatest in the block of Western states west of the Mississippi. In Nevada 38.2 per cent of the males between 55 and 64 have never been married, Idaho coming next with 32.4 per cent, Montana next with 29.5 per cent, etc.

That marriage is still pre-eminently the sphere of women seems to be indicated by the fact that more women marry than men, and they marry at earlier ages. Thus, only 31 per cent of females 15 years of age and over are unmarried, while among males of the same ages the proportion is 41 per cent. Taking girls and boys between the ages of 15 and 20 years of age, it is found that one out of every ten girls is married, while among the boys the proportion falls to one in two hundred. These were the proportions in 1890. Whether these conditions have changed since then is a question that can only be answered by the census of 1900.

FRANCE SENDS US GREETINGS.
Vendome, France, unveiled a statue of Rochambeau Monday and the people of that municipality, through Ambassador Porter, sent fraternal greetings to the American people. Lafayette, Rochambeau and De Grasse are names equally cherished by the great republic of the new world. It was Count de Grasse's fleet of twenty-eight ships of the line with 4,000 infantry on board that blockaded Cornwallis by sea at Yorktown and thus made his capture possible. It is possible that of recent years America has been somewhat too forgetful of the great aid France rendered it a hundred years ago.

HISTORY OF THE BOER-BRITISH WAR.

|------------------------|---------------|
| British Troops Engaged | 240,000 |
| Boer Troops Engaged | 50,000 |
| British Losses | 30,000 |
| Boer Losses | 11,000 |
| Cost to Britain | $260,000,000 |
| Cost to Boers | Not Known |

Britain's victory over the Boers is one that has seamed the hearts of the victors with sorrow. It was not achieved before the British nation had passed through seasons of humiliation, when even their ultimate success was doubted. It was not achieved without a loss of life greater, perhaps, than among the Boers.

The war began with an ultimatum by the South African republic, issued on October 10, and put into effect October 12. For days before this it had been known that such a result was inevitable. Grievances asserted by outlanders in the Transvaal, made an occasion for intervention by Great Britain, had remained uncorrected. Mediation had failed. Long negotiations, tentative on both sides, made clear differences of intention which could not be reconciled. President Kruger, pressed by the aggressive element of young Boers, finally decided to take the initiative. President Steyn of the Orange Free State at once announced that his government would stand or fall with its brother republic.

General Sir, George Stewart White was then commander in Natal. His force numbered 15,000 men, most of them at Pietermaritzburg in reserve, but 4,000 at Ladysmith.

Skirmishes in Natal quickly followed. Newcastle was occupied on the 14th. Then on the 20th came the battle of Glencoe, to the north of Ladysmith, where General Joubert was defeated by General William Penn Symonds. This, with another victory at Elandslaagte, where the victors lost in killed and wounded 150, was not sufficient to stay the Boer advance, and soon General Yule, second in command to General Symonds, was forced to fall back to join General White at Ladysmith, leaving his superior officer, wounded at Glencoe, to fall into the hands of the Boers, who treated him well until his death a few days later. The withdrawal required a three days' terrible march before Ladysmith was reached.

Victory for Burghers.

In the meantime General White had received re-enforcements from Pietermaritzburg, and he settled himself to hold Natal for his country. The first great battle came at Ladysmith on the 30th of October, when the Boers shelled the town, wounding or killing 100 British, and capturing during a sortie the First Gloucester regiment and the First Battalion of Irish Fusiliers.

At Kimberley and at Mafeking fighting had also been going on. President Steyn had issued a proclamation declaring Bechuanaland annexed to the Orange Free State, and this had been answered by a counter proclamation from Sir Alfred Milner declaring the first null and void. Sir Redvers Buller had been given the command in South Africa as soon as war had been declared, and with his staff and heavy re-enforcements was on his way thither.

Invade Cape Colony.

The fighting in the month of November was marked by two characteristics. One was the capture by the Boers of various points around Ladysmith, Colenso, Estcourt and others, so as to effectually invest General White's force. The other was their passage over the line into Cape Colony in strong forces, and the fighting with the forces of Generals Gatacre and Methuen, which were working their way north on the road to Kimberley from the seaports. To all this there was the steady rumbling accompaniment of discontent and threatened uprising by the Boer subjects of Great Britain in Cape Colony, while the Basutos and other natives were very restless. When General Buller arrived in Africa with his re-enforcements in the middle of the month his combined army numbered 80,000 men. The Boers seized Colesburg, Cape Colony, November 17, and a week later they occupied Stormburg, putting themselves in front of the advancing army of Gatacre, which passed through Queenstown on its way north.

Killing of Wauchops.

Methuen was marching north further to the west, and he was the first to come into conflict with the Boers on a large scale. His direct objective point was Kimberley, and it was at Belmont, fifty-six miles south of there, that he won his first big victory. About 250 were killed or wounded on each side, but the Boers fell back to Gras Pan, where their position was carried at the point of the bayonet on the 25th.

Three days later came the fearful fight of the Modder River, at which 475 British were killed or wounded, and General Methuen himself was hurt. Here for a month the fighting was repeated and severe. The British could not get forward until the time when Lord Roberts arrived to take command in person.

The greatest of the fights at this point was that of Magersfontein, December 12, where the casualties numbered 832 and the Black Watch and the Highland Brigade suffered severely. It was there that General Wauchope was killed.

Gatacre in a Trap.

This defeat cost Lord Methuen all the glory he had gained in his earlier victories. It was all the harder for the British people to bear because of the fact that only two days before General Gatacre's army had been entrapped and defeated at Stormburg. A foolish advance in the night without proper scouting cost him 632 men, most of them taken prisoners, and shattered the fairest hopes which any general took to the war.

Things looked no brighter at that time in the neighborhood of Ladysmith than they did further west. General White had held his own, but General Buller, advancing to his relief, had not been able to establish communication with him. His force got as far northward as the neighborhood of Colenso, where it attempted by a frontal attack—one of the standing errors of the British generals in the early stages of the war—to force the Boer position on the Tugela. It cost him 1,100 men and many officers and silenced his further work for many days.

Spion Kop Disaster.

With the first of the New Year the British losses had exceeded 8,000. Fighting was going on in four centers, one at Ladysmith, one at Mafeking, one near Kimberley and one at Gatacre's camp near Stormburg.

The 6th of January saw hard fighting at several points. The Boers were repulsed from Ladysmith, but they surrounded the First Suffolks, seventy men and seven officers, near Stormburg, and captured them. Four days later Generals Roberts and Kitchener arrived at Cape Town, and for some time after that speculation as to their future plans was more active than interest in the daily details of the fighting.

Toward the end of the month, however, the fighting became hot again, and the word "Spion Kop" was burned into British consciousness. It was on the 20th that General Warren moved on Spion Kop, under General Buller's orders, and after a three days' fight he took it, only to be driven back again. Fifteen hundred were lost in these five days of fighting, but worse than that for the British was the fact that they were forced to withdraw south of the Tugela as a result of it. The news was so terrifying to British hopes that the British war office held it secret for two days before gathering courage to make it known.

Dark Days for Britain.

This was the darkest moment of the war for Britain, and soon after it the clouds began to lift. Buller's army proved still to have fight in it, and on the 8th of February it again had a foothold on the bank of the Tugela nearest to Ladysmith.

Relief, however, was not to be gained for the starved and fever-stricken defenders of Ladysmith by the direct efforts of the Buller army, but rather as the result of far off movements directed by Roberts and Kitchener, which had for their direct object the relief of Kimberley. On the 10th of February Lord Roberts arrived at the Modder river and within two days the river had been crossed at several points by Generals French and Gordon. Then came General French's spectacular ride to Kimberley, the news of which marked Britain's return of happiness. Cecil Rhodes was among those rescued from the place. The Boers were forced to fall back from Magersfontein without a battle, their position having become untenable.

Capture of Cronje.

The British advantage was rapidly pushed. Swift cavalry corps pursued the Boers under Cronje. Finally they cornered them at Paardeburg. For seven days the British poured shot and shell into the ravine that hid their enemy. Then the enemy surrendered. Cronje was sent to St. Helena. Four thousand of his men were made prisoners.

This left the way open to Bloemfontein, capital of the Orange Free State, which the British after two weeks more of skirmishing entered and where Lord Roberts made his headquarters till he was ready to move once more.

The rescue of Ladysmith had been made certain then, could the garrison but hold out a few days more. On the 19th the Boers evacuated Colenso. On the 23d there was severe fighting between them and Buller's army while the latter were pursuing them toward Ladysmith. The last day of the month Lord Dundonald was able to get supplies to General White and the next day General Buller marched in with his army and ended the four month's siege.

Death of Joubert.

The month of March was a quiet one when compared with those that had preceded it. General Gatacre was able to advance through the cities that had so long marked the limit of his way. General Buller's army reconnoitered in Natal and found it clear of enemies. On the 27th General Joubert, the commander in chief of the Boer armies, died, and Louis Botha succeeded him. The inaction of Lord Roberts for several weeks excited comment in Britain, although it was admitted that what he had accomplished showed he knew his business better than any of the other officers at the front. There was some alarm occasioned when in the early days of April three or four British columns were defeated within easy reach of Bloemfontein, and over a thousand prisoners were taken.

Relief of Mafeking.

General Roberts predicted about this time that he could relieve Mafeking, the last beleaguered British garrison, about May 18, and it was known that he had fitted out an expedition for the purpose. The greatest mystery attended the movement, however, and not until after it was successful, the day before the one he named, was it known who led the relief column. London had one of its wildest days of joy when the relief of the town was known, and Baden-Powell, its defender, was made a major-general for his work.

Before this time Lord Roberts had already started his forward march with a battle line three hundred miles long. Its progress was steady and almost uninterrupted, taking Johannesburg, and then on toward Pretoria.

PRETORIA AND JOHANNESBURG.

Pretoria, capital of the South African republic, is a charming little town set inside a circle of formidable forts. So strong are its defenses that not even the most optimistic British general would have hoped for a speedy capture if the Boers had desired to make their last stand within it. That it should be surrendered without siege and without fighting is as pleasant a bit of news as Britain could receive. Pretoria is a historic spot for the Boer. Its name is a modification of that of Pretorias, the sturdy Dutchman who led his countrymen in their last "trek" to the country beyond the River Vaal. It occupies a large, uneven valley, everywhere surrounded by low, grassy hills, and the mass of green foliage within it renders its appearance very attractive and in great contrast to the barrenness of Johannesburg. The size of Pretoria is only a quarter that of Johannesburg, however, and it has nothing of the commercial importance of the latter city. It is distinctively a Boer community, with the quiet of an agricultural settlement.

Situated in the center of the richest gold bearing area in the world, Johannesburg has sprung up with that tremendous rapidity which Americans know so well in the history of their own gold and silver districts. As a consequence of the importance of the town from a purely monetary standpoint, it was natural that the Boers should have used much cash and ingenuity in fortifying the place, but at the crucial moment they have abandoned it. The principal fort is a mighty piece of military engineering and has been held by the Boers to be practically impregnable. On this fortification searchlights of great power were mounted to guard against any surprise in the night. The auriferous tract of country of which Johannesburg stands as the center is known as the Witwatersrand. This range is about 5,000 feet above sea level. The city, at the last census in 1896, had a population of 100,000 within a three-mile radius. The population was about equally divided between whites and blacks.

FREE GOVERNMENT LANDS.

There are still thousands of acres of government lands in the states of Washington and Oregon, also prairie and timber lands near railroad or water communication, that can be bought for $5 per acre and upwards. Finest climate in the United States. No failure of crops. If you wish to raise grain or the finest stock on earth, you will find locations in these two states where you can do this to perfection. Take your choice. I have no lands for sale, but if you want information where it is best to locate, call on me when in St. Paul or write me at corner Third and Rosabel streets, St. Paul, Minn.

R. E. WERKMAN.

Proved Too Much.

The troubles of housekeepers with their "help" are endless, and many that actually happen are quite as funny as those that find their way into print through the active imaginations of the gifted young men who write for the comic journals. The mistress of an establishment went into the kitchen one morning to see how her new cook was getting along. There was a wash-basin in the sink, half-full of water, and a cake of soap was floating in it. "This is wasteful, Keturah," she said. "When you wash your hands, always take out the soap and empty the water." "I haven't used that wash-pan at all today, ma'am," replied Keturah, indignantly. The next day Keturah was hunting for a new situation.—Youths' Companion.

"Doors open at 6, overture at 7, carriages at 9:30."

Dublin's Temporary Gateway.

A suggestion has been made that the temporary gateway at Dublin at which Queen Victoria received the city keys from the lord mayor and corporation should be erected permanently in stone as a memorial of an historic event.

A South African Love Story

Here John Martin met him with an old-fashioned English welcome and Hendrick was ushered into the sitting room, where sat Nancy and her lover. Nancy greeted him heartily, if somewhat shyly:

"I am glad to see you, Hendrick—let me introduce you to Mr. Harvey. Dick, this is our friend, Henry Hoopstad."

"I am very glad to know you; we can't have too many friends these troublous times. You look like a fighting man. I hope you are with us?"

"I cannot fight against Miss Martin's countrymen, and the blood in my veins is more English than Dutch. I am on my way now to volunteer."

"Then we are well met; I am enrolling a body of volunteers to act as scouts. I saddle in a few hours, so if you are willing we go together."

"I ask nothing better. But what of Miss Martin—surely she must not stay here."

"I am glad you add your entreaties to mine. I am trying to persuade Mr. Martin and Nancy to retire to the coast until danger is past."

"That's all right, Dick," answered Mr. Martin. "I should like to persuade Nancy to go, but I am going to stick to the farm."

"You run great risk, Mr. Martin," said Hendrick. "If you stay here you will be commanded to join the Boer army."

"I am an Englishman, and my farm is in Natal; that, I take it, is out of their jurisdiction."

"Possibly, but I hardly think they will draw so fine a line."

"Well, anyway, I stay here, and it won't be healthy for the commando that interferes with me."

"Then, if you are so determined, I must ask you to be equally determined in insisting upon Miss Nancy going to Durban. My married sister lives there, and she would be quite safe."

After much discussion it was decided that Nancy should depart for Durban immediately, with Hendrick for an escort. Dick Harvey would accompany them as far as Mooi river, where he would have to leave them, and Hendrick was to rejoin Dick as soon as Nancy was safe on the coast. Hendrick knew now that Nancy could never be to him more than a friend, and in that friendship he determined that no sacrifice should be too great for him.

The three rode together until Dick had to leave them; then, with a tender and almost heart-rending farewell, he passed her into the care of Hendrick and departed. They reached Durban without mishap, and Hendrick, having handed Nancy to the care of his sister, prepared to return.

"I thank you, Hendrick, for your care of me."

"I wish no thanks; to be of service to you is the aim and end of my life."

She looked at him curiously and seemed to penetrate his secret.

"I am going to the war," he continued, slowly, fixing his gaze upon the ground; "to fight for your countrymen and you. It may be that I shall not survive, and I should like you to think kindly of me. You are the only English woman I have been privileged to know with any degree of friendship, and the days have passed happily with me. A hope full of vanity was born within me that perhaps the caprice of fate might turn your heart towards me in love. Forgive me for saying this. I am only a fooling man, but I thought I would like you to know."

"Poor Hendrick!"

"I have seen the man you love, and my vanity is dead. Good-bye. I should like—may I—I should like to kiss your hand to seal my vow that henceforth my life is consecrated to serving you and yours to the death."

The tears rolled down her cheeks as she gave him her hand. The strong man kissed it passionately and departed.

Hendrick made his way back to Dick Harvey, and was formally enrolled as a volunteer. News came soon after that the Boers had crossed the border and were invading Natal, and Captain Harvey began to have fears for the safety of John Martin. He consulted Hendrick on the subject.

"What do you think of it, Hoopstad?"

"Bad, very bad. John Martin will have to join a commando, or be shot."

"So I fear, and I want you to start tonight and make your way to Caladon Farm. If you find John Martin there persuade him to come back with you; but if our worst fears are realized, and he has disappeared, find out what has become of him."

"I will start in an hour, and I thank you for giving me the opportunity."

"Good luck go with you."

In an hour Hendrick took the road for John Martin's farm. Numerous parties of Boers were about, and extreme caution was necessary. This meant slow progress, and it was not until the second evening that he reached the homestead. Dismounting, he rapped on the door, but elicited no response, and it was soon evident that John Martin was absent. Upon looking round, Hendrick discovered the frightened face of a Kafir boy, peeping at him over a fence.

"Halloa, Cabbage! Where is your master?"

"Baas! him dun gorn 'way."

"Where to?"

"Baas Shiel 'im dun took 'im 'way.' 'Shiel?"

"Sarten, 'im ride up, big many, took Baas Mart'n, tied um hands, an' dun gorn 'way."

"Which way did they ride?"

"Cabbage um follow Baas—Glencoe—then um come back here an' wait fo' Baas."

And then Hendrick realized that the worst had come to pass, and John Martin was a prisoner in the hands of Commander Shiel.

"I will not return with such meagre news," he said to himself. "I will push on toward Glencoe and learn more, even if I have to penetrate in their camp."

He accordingly made his way towards Glencoe and found his progress more difficult every mile. Time after time he was stopped by bands of Boers, but always got away by saying that he was riding to join Shiel's commando. As he had taken the precaution to wear his own clothes, this explanation was accepted as satisfactory.

Nearing the heights of Glencoe, Hendrick thought it prudent to remain in hiding until evening. Tethering his horse in a small wood, he concealed himself in some bushes and endeavored to get some sleep. He was awakened some hours later by the sound of voices, and peering from his place of concealment, he discerned a party of Boers on horseback about twelve yards away.

"Do you think they will attack tonight?"

"Either tonight or tomorrow morning. Villjoen brought word."

"Well, he is a reliable scoundrel."

"A good spy. Well, if the cursed Rooineks storm Glencoe they will find our guns manned by their own countrymen."

"Aye! manned by Rooineks with their hands tied behind their backs. Ha, ha, a good plan of Shiel's to trust those who refuse to fight and make them targets for their friends. I'm sorry for John Martin though—he was a good friend."

They moved away, and Hendrick realized from their conversation that Shiel had tied those who had refused to join his commando behind the Boer guns, so that there was every possibility of their being killed should the English make an assault.

Carefully picking his way he led his horse to within two miles of the Boer position. After making the animal secure he proceeded on foot. He advanced at first without any attempt at concealment, answering when challenged that he was on his way to Shiel with news of the enemy.

The audacity of this proceeding was justified by its success, and Hendrick found himself well inside the Boer position almost without question. On the ridge where the guns were posted some twenty men were lying. Hendrick walked among them unsuspected. They could not tell whether he had just joined the commando or had been with them for weeks. New arrivals were pouring in daily.

Passing along the ridge Hendrick came to the guns, and there, with his hands tied behind him, and secured to the gun carriage, lay John Martin.

"Mr. Martin!"

The captive looked at him wearily. "I am Hendrick—sst—make no noise—do not speak. Miss Nancy is safe at Durban. The English storm this position tomorrow. I will cut your bonds, but it is all I can do for you. If you can escape you will find my horse in the brush, two miles along the road to the right. Should you see Nancy again, say I did my best to keep my promise."

He hastily severed the captive's bonds, and bidding Martin hold his hands as if still tied, he left him the knife and passed along the ridge. He proceeded down the mountain and was just congratulating himself on his lucky escape, when he was confronted by a band of armed men.

They challenged him, and he gave his usual reply that he was on his way to Commander Shiel. The band opened out, and Hendrick was faced by a tall man on horseback.

"I am Commander Shiel. Who are you and what do you want?"

For a moment Hendrick was silent, and before he could speak a light was flashed on his face.

"I know him—it is Hendrick Hoopstad," cried a voice.

"Hoopstad, the man who refused to obey the call of the government, and enlisted as a volunteer with the English! You see, we are well informed, my brave spy. Bring him along, men, we will show him the reward we reserve for traitors."

Hendrick was seized by rough and willing hands and hurried to the Boer camp. Without any delay he was sentenced to be shot at break of day, and as he was being taken from Shiel's presence he heard a messenger announce the news that John Martin had made his escape and could not be traced.

"Thank God!" he exclaimed aloud. "I do not die in vain."

Are Popular in Tunis, But There Is a Different View Here.

In Tunis plumpness constitutes the popular idea of female beauty. Among marriageable young ladies of that province, slenderness of form and delicacy of proportion are regarded as disqualifications for the wedded state. The fatter the maiden, the better chance she has of making a good and early match, and the loveliest litherness remains unwooed, while homely corpulence can pick and choose from a throng of eligible suitors. Thus countries vary in their tastes! For I overheard a man and a woman seated behind me at a place of amusement the other night discussing some avoirdupois on the stage, when the man frankly declared he abhorred the squeezed in, corseted look of this Junoesque person. "I would rather see a bag of bones that would slip round—" "You mean rattle," interjected the woman. "No, I don't! I mean 'slip'; bones are pliant and seem to be at ease at every movement. Youth should be, and is, thin, but it doesn't improve you women when you do grow plump to brace up like that." "Oh, nothing satisfies you men," laughed the woman. Then the drum in the orchestra banged, and his muttered denial was lost in noise. But the modish figure had been observed since then, and it is found to be in great perfection among those "smart" girls, who apparently wear eighteen-inch belts.

MAGIC OF FIGURES.

Trick in Simple Subtraction That Will Puzzle Every One.

You can never tell what figures will do. Of course they are truthful, if properly handled, but some of them are capable of the most bewildering antics. Here is a method by which figures may be made to tell secrets in a way that will astonish those who are not informed about how to do the "figuring." Ask some person to put down unknown to you a number composed of three figures (say 762). Tell him to transpose the figures (making 267) and to subtract the lesser from the greater. Then ask him to tell you the first figure of the result, and you can tell him the entire number. For instance, your first number in the present example is 762, which transposed makes 267. Subtract 267 from 762 and you have 495. The only figure that you are told is 4, the first of the result. All you have to do is to subtract 4 from 9, which will give you 5, the last figure, and the central figure is always 9. So your number will be 495. This is true in all cases where only three figures are used in making up a number. The central figure will always be 9 when the transposed number is subtracted from the original number, and the two end figures when added together will make 9. So, knowing either the first or last figure of the result, you can give the entire number.

Moving the Great Obelisk.

The work of moving the great Egyptian obelisk from Alexandria to New York was managed by Commodore H. H. Goringe, U. S. N. The officer reached Alexandria October 16, 1879, and at once began work with 100 Arabs. The machinery for lowering the monolith was then attached, and the block was laid in a horizontal position. The obelisk was then removed to the wharf and upon the steamer waiting for it, by means of cannon balls rolling in metal grooves. The steamer bearing this freight left Alexandria, June 12, 1880, and arrived at Staten Island July 20. The iron tracks and cannon balls were adjusted after some delay and on these the monolith was unloaded September 16. Next the rise and fall of the tide was used to float it up the North river, and land it at the foot of Ninety-sixth street, whence it was moved by steam power on tracks with rollers.

Turkish Women Can Marry at Nine.

The Turkish woman is marriageable at the age of 9 years, and by Turkish law, at that age, if married, she is competent to manage her property and dispose of one-third of her fortune. The law allows her to abandon her husband's house for just cause, and will protect her in so doing. She cannot be compelled to labor for the support of her husband.

ROBERTS IS IN PRETORIA.

Transvaal Capital Surrenders to the British.

BOERS ARE REFUSED TERMS.

Sharp Fighting Preceded the Relinquishment of Control by the Burghers—Lord Roberts Reports the Captivity of the Irish Yeomanry.

Lord Roberts has taken Pretoria, the Transvaal capital, but he followed the report of his victory with a dispatch telling of the loss of an entire battalion of Irish yeomanry in a battle in the Orange river colony, so recently annexed by the British commander. Sharp fighting preceded the surrender of the Boer stronghold. The British casualties at Fabersput were fifteen killed, including Col. Spence, and thirty wounded.

England has been celebrating the fall of Pretoria very much as she did the relief of Mafeking. Drunkenness has been a trifle less than when Baden-Powell was the hero of the moment, but in London and in other large towns the scenes were practically a repetition of those which marked the other victories, and long after midnight uproarious yelling, the tooting of horns and discordant chants ascended from city streets usually at such an hour as silent as the grave.

Lord Roberts reports: "I regret to report that the Thirteenth imperial yeomanry had to surrender to a very superior force of the enemy on May 31, near Lindley. On receiving information of the battalion being attacked I ordered Methuen to proceed with all speed to its assistance, but he was too late to rescue Col. Spragge's yeomanry. Methuen attacked the Boers, who were between 2,000 and 3,000 strong, and after a running fight of five hours completely routed the enemy. It is a very regrettable circumstance, but I trust it will not be very long before the Irish yeomanry are released from captivity."

Car Shed Wrecked by a Bomb.

An attempt was made to blow up a car shed in Easton avenue used by seven policemen and a number of non-union Transit employes as sleeping quarters at St. Louis. A bomb was exploded in front of the house and the building was almost shaken from its foundation. The roof was cracked, all of the windows were broken and the police and non-union men hurried from their benches to the floor, but no one was seriously hurt. Two of the policemen were struck by flying glass, and a part of a window sash struck a non-union motorman on the head, inflicting a scalp wound. The explosion shook dwellings for blocks around and there was general alarm in the vicinity. Citizens are leaving the city to avoid service in the posse comitatus.

Say Strikes Are Lawful.

"Our law recognizes the right of men and women to work or not to work, as interests or fancy incline them, and if any number of employees determine to strike there is nothing unlawful in their doing so. If by combination they can obtain shorter hours or higher wages they may do so." Justice James Fitzgerald of the New York Supreme court handed down the above opinion Tuesday.

Plan to Stop Flirting.

Because the medical students at the College of Physicians and Surgeons "eye" the girl pupils of the West Division High school too much the Chicago board of education is considering the sale of the school. The university of Illinois, of which the medical college is a school, is the probable purchaser. A proposition for the purchase of the school has been received, and, as it is considered to be located unfortunately in its proximity to the medical college, the offer will be accepted if valuations can be agreed upon.

Slew Wife and Stepchildren.

William H. Hummel was hanged at Williamsport, Pa., Tuesday, for the murder of his wife and her three children on Nov. 16, 1899. He died bravely. Hummel married a widow with three children, and a week after the wedding he quarreled with his wife. While she and the children were sleeping he killed them with an ax.

Found Intact by Americans.

New York's New Road Law.

Oneida county, N. Y., has taken prompt advantage of the Armstrong-Higbie law, an act passed at the last session of the New York legislature to facilitate the construction of good roads. Under its provisions the state pays 50 per cent of the cost of improved highways, the county 35 per cent and abutting property owners the remainder.

The Oneida county authorities, acting under this law, have begun the construction of a road of the most modern and scientific kind near the city of Utica. An interesting and novel feature of the work is the utilization on it of the labor of county prisoners. As explained by the Utica Saturday Globe, the plan followed entails no extra cost upon the local taxpayers. The latter pay their road tax in cash, and the fund thus created, added to that received from the state, enables the road commissioner having the work in charge to pay the county 25 cents a day for each of 40 prisoners, the salaries of the necessary guards and that of an engineer to run a steam roller. Trap on a limestone foundation is the material used, and the state engineer, who has inspected the work in progress, says that, when completed, the road will be one of the best in the state of New York.

The opinion is expressed that, in so far at least as the locality in question is concerned, labor unions will find nothing objectionable in the plan of employing convict labor on the work, as there is little or no competition with skilled workmen, and the effect on the prisoners themselves is said to be excellent, partly through keeping them out of doors and partly in tending to decrease the number of offenders.

Sir Moses Ezekiel, who has attained a worldwide distinction as a sculptor, arrived in this country a few days ago, and one of the first things to receive his attention was the naval arch erected at Madison square, New York, commemorating the return from Manila of Admiral Dewey and his men. After having completed his inspection of the artistic and imposing though temporary structure he said to a friend that, in his opinion, it was the most beautiful arch in the world. Sir Moses is probably as familiar with the leading sculptural productions of European artists as any man, and his opinions are of positive value. This is a splendid tribute to the American masters of the plastic art, but indirectly it furnishes decidedly unpleasant commentary upon the enterprise and public spirit of the great metropolis of the nation in its failure to provide the funds to perpetuate in enduring stone this "most beautiful arch in the world." More than eight months have elapsed since the structure of wood and staff was erected, and New York has thus far struggled in vain to secure the sum of $500,000 necessary to its permanent construction. The light, destructible material of which the temporary arch is constructed cannot much longer withstand the elements, and it must soon be taken down. It will be a matter of very general regret and a lasting reproach to the metropolis if the plan to perpetuate this splendid work of art shall come to naught. The words of so eminent an art student as Sir Moses Ezekiel ought to be an inspiration to New York.

The tenure of office of the census enumerators is decidedly tenacious. The census director rules that an enumerator, after having accepted an appointment, cannot resign without laying himself liable to a fine or imprisonment or both. This is done for the reason that the enumerators are held responsible for the completion of their work within a specific time. In 1890 something like 5,000 enumerators resigned before completing their work, thereby causing the government much annoyance, inconvenience and additional expense. To avoid any such embarrassment in compiling the present census provision has been made by imposing penalties upon delinquents.

The recent $13,000,000 failure in New York may be taken as another evidence of the misfortune which accompanies the unlucky number.

The women are gaining victories no less renowned than men. The Methodist conference will hereafter admit them as delegates, and the British house of commons has just voted to make them eligible to election as members of the borough council.

Six ships landed 5,500 immigrants in New York the other day, the largest number ever arriving at once at an American seaport. The incident shows the size of modern ships as well as the strong current of newcomers to the United States.

It isn't the payment of $80,000 that perplexes the sultan. He has a settled principle against the liquidation of any debt and a superstitious dread of having a receipted bill around the sultan's premises.

Oddly enough, St. Louis has not attempted to ascribe her present turbulent condition to the demoralizing effect of the Chicago canal drainage.

If General Jubal Early were alive, he would never uphold the contention that Sheridan's Shenandoah campaign was valueless.

Excitement reigned supreme last night at the Leopho Vaudeville and Medicine Co's show, when Miss Mary Schafer was awarded a diamond ring, first prize for handsomest and most popular young lady in Lake Zurich. The second prize was awarded to Miss Eda Seip.

A woman in Idaho got a divorce from her husband because he would not take her to the Paris Exposition. He testified in court that he was afraid of water and that he was afraid to get into a bath tub even, he got so seasick. That man has indigestion just as a good many others we know and should take Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Get it at Chas. E. Church-

The Woodmen picnic held Monday in Oak Park was a decided success and Lake Zurich camp succeeded in increasing the balance with their treasurer. The day was an ideal one and early in the morning crowds of people came pouring in from every direction. The Barrington M. W. A. band, which has recently come in prominence as the leading band in Lake county, furnished music during the day and gave a band concert in the evening, which was highly enjoyed by all. Hapke's orchestra furnished dance music and more than one hundred couples participated in the festivities of the evening. Taking all in all Lake Zurich camp may well feel proud of this, their first annual picnic.

Wauconda will celebrate July 4th, under the auspices of the Mystic Workers and Odd Fellows of our village. Such was the decision reached by the Mystic Workers last Wednesday evening. As the Odd Fellows previously reported favorable it is now a reality and active work for necessary arrangements will begin at once.

Ben Dobner met with a fatal accident Wednesday noon. While returning home from Wauconda he stopped at Riley's hill to load on a few plank. While doing so the horses became frightened and started to run. Mr. Dobner grabbed the lines, but as the ends had been tied onto the dashboard of his rig, he was unable to check their speed. He clung to the reins, however, and was dashed against a telephone pole but still retained his grip and was dragged for about a half mile when the horses freed themselves and he was left lying by the road side. Neighbors immediately came to his assistance and took him home, where he died in a few hours. Dr. Rosduetcher of Volo was summoned, but found him dead upon reaching his home. Death was the result of internal hemorrhage.

High School Entertainment.

The entertainment given under the auspices of the senior class of the Barrington High school at Zion church Tuesday evening was one of the best of its kind ever given in Barrington.

Prof. H. W. Carnes is a master of his art, rendering both humorous and pathetic selections equally well. His dialect stories were true to nature and exceedingly well given.

Mrs. Carnes' selections were also of great merit, many considering her the equal of her husband.

Miss Portia simply won the hearts of her listeners by her superb delivery and lady-like demeanor. She is a young lady of great promise.

The orchestra received warm words of approval from Prof. Carnes, in which he likewise voiced the sentiments of the entire audience. The clarinet solo by Herbert Plagge was exceptionally well rendered and enthusiastically received.

Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets allay the disturbances of the stomach and create a healthy appetite. They also tone up the liver to a healthy action and regulate the bowels. Mark Twain for President.

A recent dispatch from New York says the speech Mark Twain made in London on Wednesday night, and which has been referred to in cablegrams, which has convulsed London with laughter, is printed today in the World. In the address the celebrated author announced his candidacy for the president of the United States, saying: "I am now on my way to my own country to run for the presidency because there are not yet enough candidates in the field, and those who have entered are too much hampered by their own principles, which are prejudices. I propose to go there to purify the political atmosphere. I am in favor of everything everybody is in favor of. What you should do is to satisfy the whole nation, not half of it, for then you would be only half a president."

Hooks in Closets.

So often when cleaning closets we find it would be especially convenient to have an extra hook or two. It is such an easy matter to put up the new wire hooks, that there is little excuse for one not always keeping a supply on hand. This is the one I have in mind, and they come in bronze wire at twenty cents per dozen and brass lacquered at thirty cents per dozen.—Boston Journal.

Who are injured by the use of coffee. Recently there has been placed in all the grocery stores a new preparation called GRAIN-O, made of pure grains, that takes the place of coffee. THE CONGRESSIONAL RECORD

Proceedings of Six Days in National Congress.

SENATE POSTPONED PETITION

For Indian Famine Funds Pending Answer as to What England Is Doing for the Sufferers—Trust Measure Fails in House.

Friday, June 1.

House failed to give necessary two-thirds vote for constitutional amendment to empower congress to regulate trusts. Each party charged other with bad faith. Senate postponed petition for funds for Indian famine sufferings pending information as to "what England is doing when she is spending hundreds of millions in her war." Senate voted to create rank of lieutenant general and to make the adjutant general a major general.

Battles of McCoy and Gardner.

At New York, "Kid" McCoy defeated Jack Bonner in the thirteenth round, but it was not the sort of a victory that his admirers had predicted. McCoy tried hard to accomplish a knockout in the early part of the battle, but so well did Bonner defend himself that the "Kid" failed to accomplish his purpose. In the twelfth round McCoy pounded Bonner unmercifully and had him greatly distressed, bruised and bleeding when the bell rang. In the last, after McCoy had thumped Bonner hard and knocked him down, the Pennsylvanian's seconds threw up the sponge.

Oscar Gardner added another knockout to his long string of decisive victories at the Star theater, Chicago, when, with a left and a right drive to the pit of the stomach, he knocked out Harry Forbes after one minute and fifteen seconds of fighting in the first round. The knockout came like a thunderbolt from a clear sky.

Robbers Led Dual Life.

Three safe robbers, the story of whose careers is as dark as that of the James boys, and who, like the frontier bandits, were associates of well-to-do business men who never suspected them of wrongdoing, were arrested in Chicago by detectives. They are wanted at Toronto, Canada, on the charge of having robbed two banks at Aurora, thirty miles distant, securing $700 in currency, $200 worth of stamps and a large assortment of mining stocks.

to fire 8,640 bullets a minute. Congress' important acts included the financial bill and Porto Rican and Hawaiian government bills. Appropriations will reach $700,000,000.

Monday, June 4.

Senator Morgan presented resolution to abrogate Clayton-Bulwer treaty as inoperative. Mason introduced resolution expressing hope war would end at an early day, and Boers would secure independence. House agreed to senate amendment appropriating $5,000,000 for St. Louis exposition if city raises $10,000,000. Cuban postal steel estimated at $90,000, not including fraud in surcharged stamps.

Tuesday, June 5.

In the senate Bacon (Ga.) quoted Pettigrew's charge that Cramps contributed $400,000 to republican campaign fund in 1892 upon promise he would receive shipbuilding contracts. Hanna and Carter denied charge, and Pettigrew charged Ohioan secured election to senate by bribery. Hanna said he thought Pettigrew insane. House judiciary committee favorably reported bill to limit power of courts in granting injunctions during labor disputes. Committee investigating immigration bureau at New York charges bribery, brutality and indignities to women.

Wednesday, June 6.

Congress has enacted 200 laws, of which four are creative—the financial bill, with provisions for refunding public debt; the formation of complete territorial government for Hawaii; the enactment of a complete code of laws for Alaska; the law creating a temporary government for Porto Rico. Adjournment of congress is delayed by disagreement between senate and house as to whether navy or coast survey should make ocean surveys. Debate in house was one of the most bitter during the session. Appropriations for session will be about $709,729,476, indicating a billion and a half for the whole congress. Senate confirmed J. R. Hazel's appointment as district judge, despite New York Bar association's declaration he is unfit.

Diploma Mill Men in Jail.

After four years of defiance of the state board of health of Illinois the proprietors of the Metropolitan Medical college were arrested at Chicago by United States marshals on the charge of using the mails to defraud. The institution has been graduating 1,000 "physicians" a year without serious molestation because of the inadequacy of the state health laws. The men arrested are: James Armstrong, president of the college; J. H. Randall, vice-president; Thomas Armstrong, secretary; Charles M. Hovey, attorney.

Aged Pair Drink Acid.

Sickness, debt and failure in business were the lot of John L. Harden and his wife, who kept a little grocery store at 153 North Center avenue, Chicago, until adversity broke their courage. They then found quittance for all their troubles in draughts of carbolic acid on the beach above the Saddle and Cycle clubhouse, Edgewater. An amateur photographer in search of sunrise pictures among the sandhills found their bodies.

Fire Costs $100,000 a Week.

The temperature of the burning shaft in the Calumet and Hecla mine practically is unchanged, which is a sign the fire, if not decreasing, is certainly not gaining. The mine at present is sending about 3,000 tons of rock daily to the stamp mills, instead of 6,000 before the fire. Accordingly it is losing about $100,000 a week in profits which would have been earned but for the fire.

Millions to Clark University.

Jonas G. Clark of Worcester, Mass., founder of Clark university, who was estimated to have been worth $10,000,000, as filed for probate, gives to his wife $100,000 and the income from $400,000 during life. To Clark university the will offers double the sum that can be raised by the friends of the university. If $500,000 is raised he will give $1,000,000, and also the residue of his estate.

MISERABLE

You're not feeling just right this spring, are you? Somehow, you haven't your old-time strength, cannot take hold of things with your usual push and energy. You just drag around, fairly well one day, not so well the next. You are wretched, disconsolate, discouraged; you are miserable.

That's Nerve Poverty

To be rich in nerve power you should take a good spring medicine, something that will give you pure and rich blood. A perfect Sarsaparilla will do this every time; not a cheap Sarsaparilla, not one that promises you a great deal of bulk for your money; but a highly concentrated Sarsaparilla, one that has more cure in it than any other Sarsaparilla in the world.

Dr. Truman W. Miller, whose name ranks among the foremost in medical science in the northwest, died in Chicago the other morning. Death was due to blood poisoning, which attacked him subsequent to a slight touch of the grip.

Dr. Miller was born in Seneca, N. Y., March 2, 1840. He attended Hobart college and later studied at the College of Physicians and Surgeons, New York city. In 1862 he entered the hospital service in the army and for many years was connected with the United States army and marine medical corps.

Envoy Fisher on Boer Cause.

At the Chicago reception, Abraham Fischer, chairman of the Boer delegation and high in the councils of the Orange Free State, raised his hand and said:

"Our cause is a holy one. We give to America the message that we love our freedom not less than she does hers. And so long as there is an Afrikaner left—so long as there is a boy to grow up on the plains—Great Britain shall not stamp out our liberty."

Briefly sketching the causes of the present strife and asserting the right of their position before God and man, the envoy closed his address with the reiteration that death alone could drive the image of liberty from the hearts of the fighting burghers in far-away Africa.

Three Killed in Texas Court.

Sheriff Noel Roberts was fatally wounded and his brothers Felix and Sidney were shot dead in the courtroom at San Augustine, San Augustine county, Texas, Monday morning. The shooting was done by the friends and relatives of King Borden, who killed Sheriff Ned Wall a few weeks ago, and who was to have an examining trial. The entrance of the Roberts brothers into court was the signal for a volley from twenty of the Borden-Brooks faction, with the result as stated. The Wall men fired a few shots, but did no harm.

Steel Mills Close.

In line with the action taken by the American Steel and Wire company, the Federal Steel company has begun to reduce its output by closing three departments of the Illinois Steel company's works at South Chicago. Notices have been posted announcing the closing of the plate and slab mills, the open-hearth furnace and three gas-houses, employing in all about 3,500 men. The order came suddenly and is for an indefinite period.

Two Girls Perish in Fire.

The residence and saloon of John Williams, at Dewey Station, three miles west of Belleville, Ill., was burned and Williams' two daughters, aged 5 and 6 years respectively, were suffocated. Their bodies were rescued before the flames reached them. The lot on which the building stood was No. 13, and within seven years five buildings have been burned upon the site. The loss on building and furniture is $9,000, partly insured.

Dr. Ward's Will Is Probated.

The will of Dr. David Ward, the multi-millionaire lumberman, was probated at Pontiac, Mich. His widow receives $100,000 in cash and the Detroit and Orchard Lake homesteads. He leaves $12,000 each to his grandchildren and several bequests of $1,000 to $4,000 each to relatives in the state. The estate is to be held in trust for six years, and anyone making an effort to break his will is cut off without a penny.

United States Box Looted.

The New Orleans Picayune's special correspondent in Port Limon, Costa Rica, under date of May 26, sends news of the most serious nature, which may result in an international investigation. The postoffice box of United States Minister Merry at San Jose was broken into on the night of May 24 and robbed of all letters, including diplomatic correspondence of importance.

Aguinaldo Probably Killed.

An officer, shot by Major March's men in fight near La Gat, 100 miles northeast of Vigan, is believed to have been Aguinaldo. He was badly wounded, and his men carried him away, leaving saddlebags containing Aguinaldo's diary and other documents.

ACTIVE POWER IN COAL.

One Pound Will Perform the Work of 236 Horses.

Let us take a pound of what we will call average coal, containing, say, 10,000 heat units. This would be somewhat smaller in size than a man's fist. A pound of this coal, if expended in mechanical work, would give us 236 horse power. Imagine at the time of the Pharaohs two long lines of men, extended over half a mile, all pulling steadily at the command of the taskmaster, at a great rope to raise some huge obelisk, and as you see them sweating, tugging and straining, think again of this small lump of coal in which nature has placed an equal amount of power. In some countries men who have been specially trained as porters to carry heavy loads on their backs will, as a full day's work, carry a total of from 350 to 600 pounds a distance of one mile. And yet each has expended but one-third of the power stored up in this pound of coal. An exceptionally strong man has been known to do one-half horse power of work as his mightiest effort, but in two and one-half minutes' work at this rate exhausts his muscular force. Let us suppose 100 such men putting forth such extreme effort at rope or crank or crowbar; as they fall back, red-faced and puffing, to catch their breaths, we might imagine this little black lump saying to them: "I can do as much as your whole company, and then can stand it for fully two minutes longer before I am exhausted."—Cassier's Magazine.

Her Exact Words.

Housekeeper—How's this? You promised to saw some wood if I gave you a lunch. Tramp—I recall no such promise, madam. "The idea! I told you I'd give you a lunch if you saw some wood, and you agreed." "Pardon me, madam. Your exact words were: 'I'll give you a lunch if you saw that wood over there by the gate.'" "Exactly. That's just what I said." "Well, madam, I saw that wood over there by the gate, as I came in."

Few Claims Left.

"There will be very few claims left for people who are now going to Cape Nome," says Mr. E. S. Osgood, of Alaska. "Those persons who spent the winter at the cape have gobbled up most of the good claims. The newcomers will have to go back into the interior. They will undoubtedly make some good strikes, but it will be quartz mining. There is any quantity of gold in the interior, but it is hard to get at."

A Great Bandit.

The death of Bellacoscia ought to revive some lively tales of the Corsican banditti. Bellacoscia was by so far the greatest of Corsican bandits that he divided with Napoleon the affections of all true Corsicans.

Although a "first book," The Sea-Farers, by Mary Gray Morrison is a novel of unusual strength and merit. It deals with life in a New England seashore town, covering the period just before and just after the Civil War, and presents very strikingly in the course of the narrative the spirit of those changing times, and the contrast between the merchant princes of former days and the settlers of the New West. A dramatic portion of the story introduces a band of pirates on the Mediterranean—the fact that piracy did exist as late as the date of this tale being well authenticated.

An accurate and intimate account of the nests, eggs and breeding habits of the land birds that nest in the Eastern United States is given in "Bird Homes," by A. Radcliffe Dugmore, recently published. It is the first time that this fascinating subject has been adequately treated for the general reader, and the book is a revelation of bird "personality" in many ways. The notes on bird photography and on the rearing of birds give information not attainable elsewhere and of great interest to nature lovers and students.

Hon. W. V. Sullivan, U. S. Senator from Mississippi.

Hon. W. V. Sullivan, United States Senator from Mississippi, in a letter recently written to Dr. Hartman from Oxford, Miss., says the following:

"For some time I have been a sufferer from catarrh in its most incipient stage, so much so that I became alarmed as to my general health. But, hearing of Peruna as a good remedy, I gave it a fair trial and soon began to improve. Its effects were distinctly beneficial, removing the annoying symptoms, and was particularly good as a tonic."

"I take pleasure in recommending your great national catarrh cure, Peruna, as the best I have ever tried." "W. V. Sullivan."

New Binding Twine, 9⁷/₈ Lb.

The only reason that we could possibly obtain this twine was that a party needed spot cash. We had no expectation of being able to get any twine at anything like this price, for if you will just think of it a minute, it is 1-8 OF A CENT LESS THAN OUR FARMER FRIENDS PAID TO THE PENITENTIARY PEOPLE A FEW WEEKS AGO. We always believe, when we get a bargain, in dividing it with our friends and customers, feeling that when they know that we are always willing to treat them right and give them the benefit of our own basis on which we do business, namely large sales and small profits, that they will appreciate it, and in the end we will make more by favoring them with something of this kind than we would by charging them the regular market value. Consequently we divide this profit with you and will simply say that when this twine is out you rest assured that we will try to make you as low prices as possible, but, nevertheless, we would suggest that you get your order in at once for any part that you may want of this lot. We will be able to ship by May 25th, as the twine reaches us by fast freight. The above telegram was received May 22. Send for agricultural implement catalogue.

Woodmen Memorial Day.

Barrington camp, No. 809, M. W. A., set aside last Sunday as their Memorial Day and a better day could not have been selected. The weather was fine and the largest turn-out in the history of the camp was the result. In the afternoon nearly two hundred Woodmen were in line.

At 10:30 o'clock in the morning the Woodmen marched from their hall to the Baptist church, where they were invited to listen to a sermon by the pastor, Rev. Blanchard. His sermon was delivered in an eloquent and able manner and was well received. After the services they marched again to the hall and broke ranks for dinner.

At 1:30 o'clock they again assembled and marched to the public square where an exhibition was given by the foresters of Barrington camp. The drill was greatly enjoyed and the foresters looked neat in their new uniforms. Flowers were then passed to the Woodmen in line and the procession moved towards the Evergreen cemetery in the following order:

Barrington Foresters.
Barrington M. W. A. band.
Visiting Woodmen.
Palatine Foresters.
Officers Barrington camp.
Members Barrington camp.

On reaching the cemetery the procession was greeted by nearly five hundred people. The graves of deceased Neighbors Charles Austin, H. C. Church, Carl Creet, Nans Westphal and Chas. Lines were then strewn with flowers, after which the following program was carried out:

Prayer.....Rev. Blanchard
Music.....Band
Opening Ode.....Quartette
Remarks.....L. H. Bennett
Music.....Band
Closing Ode.....Quartette

After the program the procession marched to the hall to the step of the delightful music rendered by the M. W. A. band.

The committee in charge, L. A. Powers, H. K. Brockway and L. H. Bennett, are deserving of high praise for the manner in which everything was arranged.

The ceremony was very impressive.
