Crasm Mash.

Chop yeal or beel as fine as for bash, fry for a few minutes in salt pork dripings. Take from the flay; in the same frying pan makes rich, well-seasoned cream gray if crasm is possible; if not, use milk, thickening with cornstarch and adding a generous lump of butter. Pour half of the grayy into a pan over the fire, thin it with hot water, dip in alices of well-formed toast, then lay the moistened toast in a flat dish and set in a warm place. Into the thick cream gravy put the minced mest; cook it fire minutes and spread it on the toast. Delictous.

Pumpkin Chips.

Right pounds pumpkin cut in thin and rather small pieces, four isenons alliced very thin. Ave cauts' worth of ginger root five pounds granulated sugar. Put this all together and let stand all night. Next day boil it four hours, then take from store, let stand until cold, put in jelly glasses and cover with paraffine. This is especially good at breakfast, as it makes an inexpensive and very palatable marmaisde.—Home Department, National Magastine.
