Age of Specialist.
There is much of great significance in the report by local experts that side by side with the inability of a great many men and women to procure employment, there is the inability of employers to get workers to fill the places they have open. This statement reveals clearly that under the complicated processes of modern industry a man's willingness to work is far from qualifying him for work waiting to be done. The person wishing to be sure of employment must specialize in one or more of the many classes of work for which there seems always to be a scarcity of labor. As emphasized in the report referred to, the person who relies upon his ability to perform unspecialized tasks will find himself in constant competition with the three or four like himself to quest of the one job open for them. The very best advice that can be given to a young man or woman today is this: Learn to do one thing better than most other persons can do it. Specialize and keep up to date in your specialty. There is no end of work to be done in the world and not nearly enough people who know how to do it.—Phila. Telegraph.

Value of Lumber.
There is no one nowadays who indulges in the luxury of the building, or who attempts an investment in the building line, who does not realize that timber is scarce in this country and that lumber is high in price and not always of best quality. The science of forestry has a great field before it, and it is to be hoped that the present generation will respond enthusiastically and intelligently to its own profit and the profit of those who are to come afterwards. The timber which a member of the Illinois convention exhibited and declared were split for him by Abraham Lincoln would be priceless now, but at the time of the incident they were not in it with the present value of cedar rails from fences in Georgia. The demand for lumber in such that Georgia farmers are selling the cedar rails with which their farms were fenced a comparatively few years ago. The Lexington (Georgia) Progress states that one farmer in Rutherford county recently received $7,000 for the cedar rails on his farm, and there are said to be other farmers having as many to sell.—Manchester Union.

Beautiful London Women.
All the prices at the Folkestone (England) beauty show this summer were won by London residents. This bears out the opinion expressed by Sir Francis Galton, whose passion for eugenics led him to gather materials for a beauty map of the British Isles. He perambulated the streets of many towns, carrying an instrument in his pocket with which he pricked different sized holes in a piece of paper, and thus classed every woman he met as attractive, indifferent or repellent. At the end of his investigation he declared that "London ranks highest for female beauty and Aberdeen lowest."

How Kansas Got Its Name.
The late Colonel James always insisted that Kansas got its name through mistake of a proofreader. The early Kansas Indians were Kaws, a diminutive of Kansas. In revising the words of a missionary the proofreader mistook the "a" for an inverted "n" and changed it to "n." Since then it has been Kansas.

Retort Imperative.
Fenelon had repeatedly based his theories for subscriptions to various charitable schemes and the cardinal always refused to loosen up. One day Fenelon was telling him that he had been looking at his (Richelieu's) new picture. "Did you ask it for a subscription?" inquired the cardinal. "No, I saw there was no chance," replied Fenelon; "it looked so much like you."
