G. V. Williams writes to the London Daily Mail: Every newcomer to Berlin falls beneath the spell of the overwhelming expression of the national will which he encounters on every hand. The city is aquiver with energy. It is like the engine house every hand. The city is aquiver with energy that he encounters on every hand. The city is aquiver with energy that the city is aquiver with energy than the city is aquiver with energy than the city is aquiver with energy than the city of purpose to succeed. There is a distinct parallel between Germany's perpetual striving after "a place in the sun," her insistent demand to be treated as the co-equal of the other powers, and Berlin's incessant offort to gain Weltstath range of the control of the country by placards posted in every village in France by the republican-demorate party. German Princes' Wanderjahr. The prince of Wales might possibly enjoy his German trip still better if be could view the country in the unconventional way followed by the German crown prince and his brothers. Like all the Hohenzollerns, the kalser's sons were taught trades, and their father also allowed them to taste the delights of the "wanderjahr," which till terms artisens. In the case of the young princes the year was split up over several successive summer holidays, which they spent tramping through Germany, thapsack on back, and sleeping at roadside inns. They traveled without severant secompanied only by their military governor. Col. von Falkenhern, and were scarcely ever recognized.

After Long Suffering

Women Are Constantly Being Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"Worth mountains of gold," says one woman. Another says, "I would not give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for all the other medicines for women in the world." Still another writes, "I should like to have the merits of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound thrown on the sky with a searchlight so that all suffering women could read and be convinced that there is a remedy for their ills." We could fill a newspaper ten times the size of this with such quotations taken from the letters we have received from grateful women whose health has been restored and suffering banished by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Why has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound secomplished such a universal success? Why has it lived and thrived and kept on doing its girous work among the side women of the world for more Simply and surefy because of its starting worth. The reason no other medicine has ever approached its success is platiny and simply because there is no other medicine so good for women's ills. Here are two letters that just came to the writer's desk—only two of thousands, but both tell a comforting story to every suffering woman who will read them—and be guided by them.
