Decrees Association of Toads and Love Making

The toad, innocently enough on its own part, poor creature, has always enjoyed a grand role in all the arts and rites of sorcery and superstition. It has ever been in the indispensable ingredient in love philters and other conjurations of the magician, and no witchery or incantation has ever been able, very successfully, to get along without its coöperation. This animal is as a matter of fact one of the least prepossessing and most repellent found on the earth, its very preeminence in grotesqueness has given it a charm and popularity which can only be accounted for in the natural depravity of human impulses. If there were any beast, bird, fish or reptile less endowed with esthetic factors, you may be sure that it would have been preferred to this batrachian.

For our part, however, if we find it impossible to invade the affections of a young lady without recourse to medications associated to a greater or less extent with extracts and essences of toads, frogs and other uncouth, however interesting sarrasins, we will cheerfully surrender all hope of winning the girl of our dreams. We would not care to accept, upon such terms, even Cleopatra, or Helen of Troy!—Le Matin (Paris).

Leap-Year Prerogative

Runs Through History

February, besides being the acceptance month when it comes to adjusting man's record of time, is also blamed at times for leap-year customs. Even the matter of women's prerogative to propose marriage during leap year has been laid at February's door. But the charge scarcely holds water. The true source of the custom seems to be lost in antiquity, but nearly seven years ago an English almanac quoted a law said to have been enacted in Scotland in 1228—perhaps it was in February—which said: "Ordained that during the reign of her most blessed matrice, Margaret, like maiden lade, of both high and low estate, shall have liberte to speik for man the likes. If he refuses to take hir to be his wyf, he shalle be mulet in the sum of an hundred pundes, or less."

But while 1228 was leap year, there was no "blessed matrice, Margaret" at the time, for Alexander II, whose wife was Joanna, daughter of English King John, ruled Scotland from 1249 to 1249. However, France once had such a leap year, when the year of the Fifteenth century. England, so far as known, never had such a statute.

Humble Beginnings of Sunday School System

The Sunday school, as first established, was, as its name indicates, a school for meeting on Sunday and went in London, England, in 1781. Italkes, who regularly on Sunday collected all the children he could find on the streets and took them to his school, where teachers he hired at 25 cents a day taught them. The first school was established in 1780, its curriculum included letters, reading and the church catechism. Italkes' school was followed by another in London in 1784, established by Rowland Hill. These schools were day-long affairs. They usually met at 8 p. m. and continued in session until church services began. At the conclusion of the church service the school work was resumed and continued until 5:30 p. m.

When religious instruction was given to the young on Sundays in the New England States, the first regularly organized Sunday school in this country is generally attributed to Bishop Ashury and is believed to have been located in Hanover, Va.

Governor-Elect Appoints Unemployment Committee

Governor-elect Henry Horner has appointed a committee of 17 business men, manufacturers and economists to seek permanent and immediate remedies for unemployment. Heading the state-wide committee which Governor-elect Horner said would serve without compensation and would not conflict with the state relief commission, was Harry A. Wheeler of Chicago, president of the Railway Laborers' association. Governor-elect Horner charged this commission in a letter to county fair officials to apply all its energy and foresight to restore general employment.

No State Aid Funds for Fair Permitting Gambling

A county fair where gambling has been permitted on the grounds is not entitled to a share of the state funds, Attorney General Oscar E. Carlson has informed Director Peterson of the department of agriculture. The opinion calls attention to the law governing state aid which requires county fair officials to file an sworn statement, setting forth among other things that all gambling and gambling devices have been prohibited and excluded from the grounds.

Danger in Grain Dust

Grain dust alone is perfectly harmless, but when it is mixed with the right proportion of oxygen the mixture becomes highly explosive. Then any kind of external heat reaching the explosive point of the dust-oxygen mixture creates rapid combustion. The heat to create this electricity developed from friction, by defective wiring, by a broken light bulb, or by the light of a match or a cigarette. When a mixture of grain dust and oxygen explodes there is no wall or roof that can stand against the terrific blast. Huge concrete blocks are hurled many yards by the force of the explosion.

Thieves Get Robes and Gasoline From Private Garages

Automobile accessories thieves were busy in Barrington Monday night breaking into two garages to steal gasoline, auto robes and tools.

Dr. E. A. Beerman's garage at 3007 Grove avenue was entered at some time after 11:30 p. m. Three robes were taken from the machine and nearly all of the gasoline was siphoned off from the automobile tank.

The V. D. Hawley garage at 625 S. Cook street was broken into. The thieves stole a robe from the Hawley car, gasoline from the W. H. Sode's car, some tools. The garage had been locked but the door was unlocked by the thieves probably using a skeleton key. Nothing was stolen from the inside of the Sode's car the window of which were shut and covered.

The police department has issued a warning to automobile owners to lock their garages locked and the car doors locked. They have suggested that no robes be left in the cars.

VOLUME 48, NUMBER 2

Building Permits in Town for 1932 Amount to $55,870

Six New Homes, One Business Property Built, Several Minor Constructions

Building activity in Barrington for the year 1932 was the quietest in six years but was nevertheless encouraging when it is taken into consideration that 1932 was the poorest business year to date of the present century, not only locally but all over the world.

Total building work, as shown by permits issued by Building Commissioner E. E. Ernst, amounted to $55,870 and included the construction of six new homes, one business place consisting of six houses, a major improvement for one business building and 11 pieces of minor construction. This total is higher than the corresponding total for the majority of country towns and smaller suburban villages of northeastern Illinois. It is about two-fifths of the total for 1931, measured in dollars and cents, and about half the total for 1931 measured in actual work done due to the fact that a greater amount of construction can be put into place for the same number of dollars.

1929 Highest Year

Total construction figures for the last six years follow:

1927	$3,811,000
1928	125,000
1929	1,202,975
1930	233,500
1931	130,800
1932	55,870

Of the $55,870 spent for residential work, $44,000 was the amount listed for new homes. Fourteen of the six houses built during the last year were built in Jewel Park subdivision. The persons building new homes, the locations and the amounts stated in the building permits which were issued:

Stewart, 238 Russell street, $4000; Fitzer and Williams, Elm avenue, $3000; Fred Fleming, 102 Pine street, $15,000; Howard Brantlinger, 464 Dundee avenue, 7000; Henry Garlich, 216 Linden avenue, $8000.

Jefferson Ice Improvement

The business construction included a $5000 improvement at the Jefferson Ice Co. plant and the construction of a gasoline filling station at 101 1/2 Northview highway at a cost of $2,000. This was undertaken by Mrs. Hilda Kamper. The $2000 was paid for construction of building property was considerably under the total for that type of work in 1931.

31 dwellings were remodelled or improved at a total estimated cost of $3250. The persons adding improvements included: A. Schmitt, 711 S. Northwest highway, addition to house, $1900; Nick Chomata, Exmor avenue and Northwest highway, addition to house, $1000; Charles W. Poir, 323 N. Northwest highway, addition to house, $800; A. E. Kewer, 406 E. Russell street, addition to house, $200; H. L. Flourey, 323 W. Main street, addition to house, $200; Ellen Gleske, 518 Summit street, addition to house, $200.

A total of $1230 was spent for miscellaneous construction work. Persons who had garages built or minor improvements made, the locations etc. are: Floyd Dierz, 141 S. Northwest highway, work shed built, $200; George Medler, 121 Walton street, garage, $15; Sarah Burlington, 123 George street, garage, $100; A. H. Langlo, 437 June terrace, garage, $125; W. R. Cutlow, 199 W. Main street, post house, $200; H. C. Korb, Eastern avenue and Warren, addition to garage, $600; Montgomery Ward and Co., 812 S. Northwest highway, garage, $85; Henry Helm, 316 Franklin street, remodeling, $40; Frances Knudt, 29 W. Northwest highway, garage, $85.
