Lively Debate on Cost of Audit Result of Meet

Township School Board Village Trustees Hold Joint Session

A heated joint meeting of directors of school township 43 and of the village trustees at the village school building last night developed a lively debate on the cost of an audit of school funds deposited in joint account with the First State bank of Chicago.

The joint meeting took place in the evening at the village school building. The school township was represented by Paul Housh and Herman H. Housh, also a village trustee. All of the village trustees were present.

Questions Arise
Mr. Housh objected strenuously to the bill of $200, declaring that if the audit were more accurate in his work than in estimating the school district cost, he would not pay for it.
