Reforest Army Demobilized at Fort Sheridan

Fort Sheridan gave the sense of great activity this week when 4200 men of the Reforestation Army were demobilized and enlistments for the next six months were being signed. According to word from Fort Sheridan many of the men were being called for another six-month period while others returned to their homes to continue the work or left for other towns to take up jobs that were offered for them in their original employment.

Demobilization of the reforest army comes after a period of months of the reforestation program of the national administration when the men were sent into all parts throughout the country. Many men trained and equipped at Fort Sheridan were sent into national forests on the west coast according to Brig. Gen. Frank C. Bolles, commander of Fort Sheridan under whose command the men were trained.

Fort Sheridan was one of the largest conditioning camps of the world for reforestation army recruits. During this winter 12,000 men will be stationed in 60 camps located throughout the state.

Make this simple light test

Can you read your newspaper easily when held 14 inches from your eyes?

Better Light—Better Sight
Poor light strains eyes, increases nervous tension and induces body fatigue. Be sure your family has proper light in every reading place.

PROPER lighting is this simple. You must have enough illumination on your paper or magazine to keep your eyes from straining, from getting tired. The only trouble is that your eyes do not give warning in advance. They get tired before you know it. The best way to know is to have a lighting survey made in your home, by an expert. Then you'll know for sure whether your light is right.

It is especially important that school children have enough light when they read or study. In the formative years, straining and tiring the eyes can permanently affect eyesight. For their protection as well as your own, ask for a lighting check-up of your home.

Lighting advice FREE for the asking
This service is absolutely free. Just write or telephone and we will send an expert who will make a complete survey of your home. He'll bring a little "light-meter" and test the illumination in every reading or sewing location in your home. He may suggest a change in the size of lamp bulb. He may recommend a rearrangement of your lamps. Or your shades. They may be the wrong type or improperly placed.

Better light, better sight
