THE STORY

It was a party young man who had been invited to a party at the home of a woman who was a friend of his mother's. He had been invited to a party at the home of a woman who was a friend of his mother's. He had been invited to a party at the home of a woman who was a friend of his mother's.

He answered with mock tenderness, one eye on Estelle. "Shall I help you, Beautiful? His hand touched the coverlet.

Doris could hardly speak for a minute. Then she raised herself suddenly. The comforter fell from the lace bedcover of her gown. "You're behaving like a boy of six," she flung at her lavender kimono while over the foot of the bed. She got into it, hardly taking her eyes from Rocky's face.

"The maid left the room as she faced him.

"If you're embarrassed," he began, grinning—"I'm not embarrassed." She snuggled him calmly. His eyes became

"You don't crave my company," "Frankly, I don't."

"Well, I'm not so d—n keen about you either. It's to save Mother's feelings that I'm going to take you." His face looked griefed, childishly so. "She thinks that we can't bear to be out of one another's sight."

Doris didn't know what to say. His making fun of love infuriated her. She looked at him in stunned disbelief.

Who was she? What was she doing here? Where was the real Doris? Why wasn't she here instead?

Mrs. Du Val rapped at the door and came in. "Ah my children—like quiet little lovebirds you are!" She glanced at Doris' plate. "But you do not eat?" She shook her finger. "You are too excited. Rocky has talked to you too much."

Doris smiled. "Yes—he hasn't given me time to dress, even 'N' She gave Rocky a shy glance.

He came out of his gloom with a humorous leer. "But you're so beautiful—fresh, or undressed? Why should I?"

Doris drove to the village with

"The Way to Love" With Mr. Chevalier to Be at Catlow

Holiday Programs Announced for All of Next Week

Maerie Chevalier and Ann Doran will be on the screen in "The Way to Love," a picture which shows the interest, the spiritiveness and naughtiness of Parisian life Friday and Saturday nights of this week.

Bruce Cabot, Betty Furness and Arthur Lake in "Midnight Jack," which plays the Catlow Sunday only is a romantic comedy pictured in US Naval Academy setting. A colorful musical comedy, descriptive news reel and cartoon will provide variety for this bill.

The special Christmas show scheduled to play the Catlow both Monday and Tuesday nights of next week will have for its feature attraction, "Golden Harvest," with Richard Arlen, Chester Morris and Genevieve Tobin in leading roles. Thrilling in its broad scope with two rousing love stories and many spectacular scenes of farm-ers' strikes and heroic activity in the Chicago wheat pit, "Golden Harvest," will prove of unusual interest to all ages of movie fans. It brings to the screen the amusing excitement of the pit with the quiet routine life of the wheat farmer. And these scenes offer a splendid background to the gripping stories of two brothers and their love and hates.

Special short subject for the Christmas show will include the cartoon, "The Shanty Where Santa Claus Lives," and a Bing Crosby musical sensation, "Ann Vickers." Irene Dunst, Walter Huston and Edna May Oliver take the leading roles in this picture of the Sinclair Lewis' popular novel.

Raise Money for Park

The Raymond W. Fisher pool, with all the other societies of the Grove cooperating, entertained 500 people at the Grove theatre last Wednesday evening. Each of the following organizations sponsored a stunt: American Legion Auxiliary, Cooks Bazaar, Junior Recreation Club, Procession, Bridge Club, Garden Club and Eastern Star.

Proceeds from the performance will go toward the making of a park on the North Western grounds south of the depot. It will be called Legion Park.

Leaves for Norway

Imer Wings bade his Grove friends goodbye last week as he is returning to his native land, Norway. He sailed from New York Saturday and expects to join his wife and son, Ivar, for the Christmas holidays. Mrs. Wings and Ivar left here last spring. They will make their home in Norway for the near future.
