WHAT'S YOUR SUGGESTION?

WHAT'S YOUR SUGGESTION?
The book overing the Town Warming series of last February became available this past week and at the same time came an announcement of a committee meeting of the group organized for furtherance of this project. Plans are move being discussed concerning the advisability and possibilty of having a similar series.

No one can deep the fact that Barrington received favor-

No one can deny the fact that itarrington received favorable preas notices throughout the country as a result of the last series of meetings. The community and the persons who attended the series were equally benefitted.

With the first Town Warming in back of us, would the community as a whole welcome another one this year? Would there be enough interest to vigorously give it the support there be consigned interest to vigorously give it the support there be consigned interest to vigorously give it the support there be consigned in the community declarate.

The experience and background of a year ago will do The experience and background or a year ago will do much to remove my possible hitches or objectionable features that occurred and should give the committee a better pattern for the selection of fine, unbiased speakers. Possibly it might be well to shorten the series and arrange the meetings at more

Does Barrington whole-heartedly want another Town rming series or shall it be said that it has been a worthwhile project and let the matter drop? We would like to know.

NEW LIBRARY QUARTERS NEEDED

A steadily increasing number of books has created a shortage of shelving space in the Barrington public library room in the village hall and has caused members of the library rd to seek means of obtaining more floor space.

The village board is cooperating with the library board is considering a proposal to turn over the entire second and is considering a proposal to turn over the entire second floor of the municipal building for library purposes. This plan, however, affords only little more additional room and in a short while the problem of expansion will again arise.

It seems logical that a town the size of Barrington and It seems logical that a town the size of Barrington and ntaining a great number of residents who possess an spreciation of books and enjoy the pleasure they afford them, uld be able to have a library building separate from anything else. It also seems logical to institute a movement toward that end. With the Barrington Woman's club, which has always been the main supporter of the library in Barrington Patrington was always been the library would receive added impetus.

A library building will be needed in the future and it is well to consider the matter now.

CONFLAGRATIONS STILL HAPPEN

"The day of conflagrations is not past," says F. D. Lay-president of the National Board of Fire Underwriters. he has plenty of evidence to support his statement. And he has plenty of evidence to support his statement.

Last May a Chicago granary fire and explosion devasted an area one-fourth mile square, took eight lives and destroyed property valued at more than $3,000,000. Earlier year, fire razed a business block in Sandusky. Ohio in the year, mre razed a business block in Sandusky, Ohio, causing a million-dollar loss. Several buildings went up in smoke in Halifax, Nova Scotia—to the tune of $800,000. Aa Mr. Layton also asay. The threat of great fires is present in most cities." Inadequate or outmoded building codes—the existence of anient first-ups and tenements—poorly or the existence of anient first-ups and tenements—poorly or the second of the contract of the contr ganized fire fighting facilities—unstable water supply—th a few of the hazards that may, at any moment, produce all of smoke or fiame which will leave death and destruction in its wake.

Further, the conflagration danger is not confined to the larger cities of the country. A quarter-mile fire such as that which occurred in Chiego is soon foregotten in a metropolis—a fire of similar size in a small town would destry it completely. In many of the small communities a single factory is the main source of the town's jobs and income. If that factory Jurns, a jobe is struck from which the community may never be able to recover.

Here is where the cause of fire prevention comes straight brains to us all. To help prevent fire is a personal job.
