NOTES FROM VARIOUS SOURCES.

Mrs. G. C. Hield is on the sick list.

Police officers last week notified owners of dogs to have them licensed.

Mr. Chas. Versemie died Sunday at 6 P. M. He was Robert Wulff's father-in-law, and was highly respected at Irving Park.

"The Confederate Spy" in five acts, will be played at Irving Hall tonight (Saturday), with appropriate scenery and costumes. The cast represents Norwood Park talent, and will be assisted by a string quartette. Everyone should attend.

The judicial election Monday passed quietly. A small vote was polled; about half of the registration.

Mr. Grunhof of Hose 8 has moved to the corner of Washington and Irving Park street.

Regular Quarterly Conference was held Monday evening at Linwood Hall, the Rev. Dr. Traveller, of Chicago, officiating.

Four new trains were put on Sunday, leaving Chicago at 10 A. M. and 1 P. M., arriving at 10:25 A. M. and 6:30 P. M. Sunday only. These trains supply the long felt need of better railroad accommodation Sunday.

Irving Park observed Decoration Day. The school house, club house and engine house flags were flying during the day. The band played first on the prairie near Dietz, and later on the roof of the engine house. The young men played ball and the small boys were out in force.

MAY PARTY.

The May party given by the "Eight Irvings" at Irving Hall, Thursday, May 28th, was a success in every way. Fifty couples were in attendance, including several from Norwood Park. The music of Tomaso's Mandolin Orchestra was highly enjoyed by all. The personnel of this Club is: W. J. Dobson, C. E. Mee, C. C. Dean, A. C. Osborne, E. W. Heywood, L. D. Ruyion, D. B. M. Tracy and S. W. Hughes.

The sewer extending on Irving Park boulevard from the County Institutions at Dunning to the North Branch, into which it empties, has been broken near Grayland and the sewer runs into the ditch on the south side of the boulevard. A horrible stench arises and the sewer should be repaired before the weather becomes so warm that it will threaten the health of the community.

Buy your Irving Park lots of A. H. Hill & Co., who own the land; can sell cheaper than any agent; will make special low prices to parties wishing to build, and will build any kind of residence on easy payments. City office, 155 Washington street, main floor.

During the storm Monday night lightning struck the residence of Wm. Moisey, on Holcomb avenue, near Montrose. No one was injured. The fire was quickly extinguished by Hose Co. No. 8 of Irving Park. The prompt arrival and efficient service of the hose company undoubtedly saved the building from total destruction.

FOURTH OF JULY.

It is proposed to have a public celebration on the coming fourth of July at the engine house. The engine house is centrally located.

The flag which floated over the engine house Decoration Day, although belonging to the engine house, has never been formally presented. It would be well to have the old fire company select some one to make a presentation speech, thus adding to the impressiveness of the ceremonies.

An exhibition of the skill of the firemen in preparing for a fire will also be a part of the program. Hose No. 8 will do everything in their power to make the celebration a success.

The Bohemian National Cemetery was the scene of impressive services on Decoration Day. Fully 1000 people were present when the services were begun by Capt. E. R. Lewis. A chorus of fifty Bohemian children sang patriotic songs, and a salute was fired by sharpshooters near the graves of the dead patriots. Many flowers were distributed over the graves.

Who is the man or woman to open the Hotel.

A large amount of freight is being received at the station this season.

Mr. Richard Versemie was called to attend a dying brother on Sunday last.

A break in the water pipe caused much inconvenience this week. It was speedily repaired and all are happy again.

Mrs. Nash and family have removed to Avondale where they will reside in the future.

Dr. Fonda, of Jefferson Park, is attending Miss Sallie King who is dangerously ill, the home of her aunt, Mrs. H. H. Miller. She has the sympathy of her friends, who hope for her speedy recovery.

A young colt belonging to Mr. Willard, fell into an old well, on the Burhans farm, last Monday evening. It was drawn out by the assistance of neighbors, with no bones broken, but considerably bruised and frightened by its fall.

Mrs. Colby and son, of Harvey, Ill., visited her sister, Mrs. Miller last week.

Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Norton entertain friends from Chicago on Sunday last.

Mrs. F. A. Cleaveland has been seriously ill but at last report was a little better.

Mrs. John Campbell is very ill. Dr. Fonda is in attendance.

Decoration day and recollections to a number of bereaved families here; as they went with offering of love, to deck the graves of those who were full of life, on the decoration day of last year. Owing to the absence of some of their comrades, the Norwood Park Rifles, did not parade as on the previous year. A few of them however went as representatives to the cemetery, and the graves of our fallen heroes were not forgotten.

Mr. Dankert, who has been quite ill, has recovered sufficiently to resume his business.

To Aunt Frank and Ezra, a slight tribute from Fannie to the memory of dear little "Weewee."

All hushed are the pattering feet,
And folded the dimpled white hands;
Our dearest, darling Weewee
Has left us for other lands.

With the first blush of early morn
She awoke in infancy fair;
Ere the gloom of the morrow's eve
She had climbed the heavenly stair.

God gave us her in our sorrow,
But so lovely in form and face,
He regretted the gift and retook her
To fill a bright angels place.

We mourn the lost as we miss them,
But our mourning and grief would cease
Could be read on their features
The impress of heavenly peace.

If they are pleased with God's bidding,
Why hearts, be content, for the rest
We know we will follow them quickly.
With God, all is done for the best.

Gloria in excelsis Dio;
Let our prayers raise night and day
To God who while giving our darling,
Has seen fit to take her away.

PARIS, Feb. 20, 1877.

PRESIDENT ANDERSON'S ADDRESS TO THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES AT THEIR JUNE MEETING.

NORWOOD PARK, June 1st, 1891.

To Board of Trustees of the Village of Norwood Park.
Gents:—At our last meeting, on May 18, the closing sentence of the Financial Committee report was a recommendation that the Board use due care in expenditure during the year.

This recommendation of the Financial Committee (signed by every member thereof, Trustees Brown, Evans, and Sampson) I desire may be indelibly impressed upon your minds, and the result of the impression be manifest in your votes, whenever the matter of authorizing expenditures is before you.

The Financial condition we are in, (which we have inherited as a legacy from our predecessors of the late Board), calls for, and necessitates the most rigid economy on our part, in carrying on the administration of the affairs of the Village.

Since our assumption of the duties of our respective positions, which occurred April 27th, the Financial Committee have spent a great deal of time, as also has your President, in becoming acquainted with our actual Financial condition, the result of all the labor bestowed in this direction, shows that when the balance of taxes levied in 1890 has been paid in, and all warrants issued by, and all bills authorized, passed, and ordered to be paid by the late Board, is paid, we shall have a balance from the taxes of 1890, of only seven hundred and forty-one dollars and four cents to pay the expenses of the current fiscal year, hence, you will see the wisdom of the recommendation of the Financial Committee to use due care in expenditure during the year.

From a careful examination of the books, so far as I have been able to make up to this date, I find that we are almost without means, except in so far as we may lawfully anticipate a certain fixed and defined portion of the tax levy of 1891.

The constitution of Illinois wisely prohibits CITIES, TOWNS AND VILLAGES from going into debt beyond FIVE per cent of the assessed valuation of the property within its limits, or under its control, and, as our bonded debt covers the five per cent limit, WE CANNOT AS A VILLAGE, CONTRACT ANY MORE DEBT OF ANY KIND WHAT-

SOEVER. There is, however, a provision in the statutes of Illinois, which fortunately enables us to issue warrants against the tax levy of 1891, provided, the total amount of said warrants does not exceed seventy-five per cent of the coming tax levy, but said warrants must show upon their face, that they are payable from said tax levy solely.

Let me give you the facts I have gleaned from the before said careful examination of the Village books, from which you will see at a glance, that it is utterly impossible for us to do more than to husband with the utmost care the small supply of funds we have to use, and order such work only to be done by the Village employees as cannot be dispensed with.

Our ASSETS are—
Cash received from Ex-Treasurer Fox $1060.49
Taxes received by Treasurer Low and yet to receive from Tax Levy of 1890 2200.00 3260.49

Our LIABILITIES are—
Warrants unpaid 179.04
Bills passed and ordered paid by the late Board 1246.70
Interest on Water Bonds 285.00
Sinking Fund 750.00
Less Sewer Warrant 665.00
Special Assessment No. 6 (collected) 723.71 2519.45

Balance 741.04
Assuming that the Tax Levy of 1891 will yield about the same amount as that of 1890, viz: about thirty-two hundred dollars, our probable condition for the current fiscal year will be about as follows, viz:

INCOME—
Balance from tax levy of 1890 $741.04
Seventy-five per cent of tax levy of 1891 (estimated) 2400.00 3141.04

EXPENSES—
Sinking Fund for Bonds 350.00
Interest on Water Bonds 285.00
Salaries (about) 1300.00
Treasurer's and Collector's Fees (about) 150.00 2085.00

This balance of $1,056.04 which is the outside amount we have to expend for the year upon STREETS, SIDEWALKS, FLOWERS, ETC., FOR PARKS, OIL FOR, AND REPAIR OF LAMPS, CARING FOR DRAINAGE AND SEWERS, DEFICIENCY IN EXPENSES OF WATER WORKS OVER INCOME FROM THE SAME, RENT OF HALL, LEGAL FEES OUTSIDE OF ATTORNEY'S SALARY, and all other incidental and contingent expenses of every kind, name and nature whatsoever.

I recommend to the Board, that the Treasurer be in charge to close up the accounts in the Village Book where the records of the different funds are kept, to open new accounts therein, crediting the different funds with the balance to be paid in cash, to cover the Warrants and Bills of May 7th, 1891, which, when paid will balance these entries and show in a clear, straight, business-like way, what disposition we make of the funds that will come into our hands from the Tax Levy of 1891, and the $741.04, being the remnant left for our use for the tax levy of 1890.

If you adopt this recommendation, the amounts to be credited to the several funds at the date the books were turned over by Ex-Treasurer Fox, on May 7th, 1891, will be as follows, viz:

Street Lamp Fund $49.44
Streets and Alleys Fund 68.61
Drainage and Sewerage Fund 120.00
Water Works Fund 66.55
Salaries Fund 80.00
Contingent Fund 995.80
Interest Fund 285.00
Sinking Fund 750.00
Less Sewer Warrant 665.00
Special Assessment, No. 6 Fund 769.05

Total, $2519.45

In view of the foregoing statement of our Financial condition; I recommend that the entire report of the financial committee handed in and accepted by the Board at our last meeting, be expunged from the minutes of that meeting, before the said minutes are approved by the Board.

I also recommend that in charging up the Engineer's Salary, it be subdivided and charged to the different fund accounts, which should bear their proper proportion of the said salary, viz:

Water Works Fund Per Month $35.00
Street Lamp Fund 30.00
Parks Fund 7.50
Salaries (Police Service) Fund 5.00
Sewerage and Drainage Fund 2.50

Total, $80.00

I hand you herewith an Ordinance establishing salaries for the current Fiscal Year, which is in some cases lower than the recommendation of the Financial Committee, but which, under the actual financial condition in which we find ourselves, is the utmost that I feel we ought to adopt, and which I commend to your careful and conscientious consideration.

Respectfully submitted,
B. L. ANDERSON,

DECORATION DAY.

A fairer morn was never seen.
The sky was clear, the foliage green,
And far and near the patriots voiced Seemed both to sorrow and rejoice.

To sorrow for the loyal boy;
To sorrow for the mother's joy;
Yet still rejoice and thankful be,
At thoughts of that loyalty

That could not die.

The exercises here on Decoration Day were of an unusually interesting character. The Des Plaines Band, which arrived by train in the morning, were escorted to the church grounds, where the programme commenced at ten o'clock by the playing of patriotic music, and songs by the school children. Next in order was the presentation of a magnificent flag to the school by Mr. A. C. Orr, in memory of the late Samuel Henry Orr. The presentation speech was as follows:

"To the Board of Education, and to the teachers and children in the Park Ridge public school, and to their successors forever, there to remain henceforth the ornament and guardian of this national institution, this American flag is respectfully presented by his parents in reverent and loving memory of Samuel Henry Orr, who up to the time of his decease in October, 1890, was a pupil in the eighth grade of this school. He loved the school, he loved the flag. Let the school and the flag stand by each other. The one disseminating intelligence and morality, without both of which Republican liberty cannot continue ever in name. The other silently, but effectually, inculcating patriotism, a virtue that has adorned the wisest and best of mankind in all countries, and in all ages, and announcing to all beholders that the atmosphere in which it floats may not be polluted by the breath of a despot or a slave."

The above speech was responded to by Col. Owen Stuart in the following able manner:

"Mr. and Mrs. Orr.—In the name and in behalf of the Board of Education and the pupils of Park Ridge school I return to their sincere thanks for this beautiful and appropriate present in memory of your beloved son. To my personal knowledge there is no youth in this assemblage who gives promise of a brighter future, who possesses a more manly heart, commands truer friendships, or loves his country or its emblem with a truer devotion than did Harry Orr; and certainly none whose untimely demise could be more deeply deplored by those who had the pleasure of his acquaintance."

To you, my young friends, who appear in uniform as an evidence of your intention or willingness to become the future defenders of your country's flag, the grandest which floats under the canopy of heaven, the flag of a government which guarantees civil and religious liberty to its citizens equally before the law, and under whose ample folds the oppressed from every clime who comes with a proper motive, can find a refuge and a home. I have a word to say. God grant that the demon of war may never again desolate our land, and that peace and prosperity may prevail. But let me impress this idea upon you, that if your services should be required, remember it is a flag worth fighting for, and that those who have defended it in the past expect you will rally round it, as they did, and if necessary lay down your lives in its defense."

The date chosen for this presentation is a peculiarly appropriate one. Today throughout the length and breadth of the land the graves of the heroes who died that their country might live, and that the blessings referred to should be handed down to future generations, are being strewn with flowers by a grateful people, who appreciate the priceless service they rendered, furnishing a guarantee that the memory of such men will never be forgotten."

I want you all to love that flag as you flag, as the flag of your country. I want you to remember there is no country so great, good and grand as the United States, and no flag so beautiful or symbolic of freedom as the American flag; and when you grow to be men and women you will love your country and its institutions all the better for so believing. It is the flag for which many of your fathers fought, and in defense of which doubtless some of them laid down their lives. It is the flag of a country which guarantees to you and to the children of the humblest citizen a free education, which is better than riches, and which enables them to fight successfully the battle of life."

Let us all then, my friends, on this occasion renew our allegiance to it, and resolve that while we live we shall honor and protect it alike from internal or external foes."

After the address by Col. Stuart and music by the band, the line of march to the cemetery was taken up. In the procession were a large number of vehicles of every variety. Arriving at the cemetery, the band struck up a funeral march, and after encircling the grave of the deceased Harry Orr, the procession halted and were addressed in an eloquent manner by Rev. J. O. Foster, who related numerous anecdotes of his experience during the civil war when he acted as Chaplain of the regiment of which Col. Stuart was the commander. Dr. Foster prefaced his remarks by saying that while on his way to the cemetery he was accosted by a little girl who asked what the letters G. A. R. meant which were a conspicuous figure on so many flags. After asking the children present if they could answer the question, "Grand Army of the Republic," he proceeded to say that before long there would be no Grand Army of the Republic but the name would be changed to Sons of Veterans."

At the close of Dr. Foster's remarks Col. Stuart thanked those present for their enthusiasm and general observance of the day, and the exercises concluded. The decorations on the grave of Harry Orr were indeed beautiful, the principal feature of which was a magnificent floral design of a flag with a blue background and thirteen stars and stripes, emblematic of deceased's age. The decorations were furnished by Henry Reddings.

DES PLAINES.

Arrangements have been made by the Chicago District Camp-Ground Association to have the annual camp-meeting commence later in the season than heretofore. It will begin on Aug. 6 and continue to Aug. 20. The tabernacle has been enlarged by moving back some of the cottages nearer the river, making what was the circle an oval ring. The camp-meeting this season will be managed by Elder Truesdell, Dr. Bolton and Dr. Caldwell, and the singing conducted by Rev. O. E. Murray. The authorities have given consent to have the street from the river bridge extend through the camp-ground in accordance with an agreement made twenty years ago. It may not be generally known to the outside public that the road leading directly from the village to the camp-ground passes through private property, and it is within the memory of man that once upon a time a shrewd real estate dealer who owned the property put up a toll-gate and compelled those who passed through to play tribute.

A long and interesting letter from Mr. J. Q. Adams has been received, dated at Vienna. He states that the report that he had given up the idea of teaching for the practice of medicine was not true. He says: "I am and have been ever since I came to Europe studying political economy and social science, and have no other idea than to be a teacher."

Rev. A. Mason preached an eloquent and stirring discourse at the Methodist Church last Sunday morning on "Brotherly Love." Among other things he said: "There are members of churches who seem to think that they can put on their different denominational cloaks and hurl mud at each other as much as they choose." This was not "brotherly love."

A letter from E. M. Thomas, formerly a druggist of this place, has been received dated at Fort Bennett, S. D. He is a teacher in a government school for Indian boys. He says that the little "injuns" are all-fired smart, and the specimens of composition writing that he encloses will compare favorably with those written by the pupils of our graded schools.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

The Hughes Lumber company of Chattanooga, Tenn., which failed last December for $300,000, is about to resume operations, having paid 100 cents on the dollar.

George Anthony, a brakeman, was killed at Jackson, Mich., while coupling cars.

Whitecaps at Cheraw, S. C., Saturday night took a white man named Taylor and a negro woman he was living with from their bed and, after giving them an unmerciful thrashing, warned them to leave the town.

John Hines, mate of the schooner Annie Sherwood, was killed at Washburn, Wis., by a spar striking him.

Charles B. Fleming, wanted at New Albany, Ind., on a charge of bigamy, has been arrested in Missouri.

By an explosion of a barrel of spirits in the Wabash Distilling company's warehouse at Terre Haute, Ind., four men were badly hurt.

BARNUM TO BE CREMATED.

Cremation Decided Upon on Account of an Attempt to Rob His Grave.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., June 2.—The Barnum family has decided to cremate the remains of the great showman and thus put an end to the attempts to steal the body. Benjamin Fish, cousin of Mrs. Barnum, said:

"I have just left Mrs. Barnum, and we have decided that the best thing we can do is to have Mr. Barnum's body exhumed and cremated. It was his wish before he died, and such a disposition would have been made of the remains but for the opposition displayed by the rest of the family. We will communicate at once with the rest of the relatives and endeavor in every possible way to secure their consent."

The guard at the cemetery has been doubled and the vault connected with the Bridgeport police station by electric wires. It is the theory of Messrs. Bower and Brothwell that the robbers intended to use some high explosive after digging down to the crypt rather than take the time and trouble necessary to reach the body through the heavy masonry.

SENSATION OF THE WEEK.

Sir William Gordon Cumming's Gambling Suit Begun To-day.

LONDON, June 2.—The famous case, in which Sir William Gordon Cumming, who was accused of cheating in a game in which the Prince of Wales held the bank, is the plaintiff and five other society people are the defendants, will be the sensation of the week. It begins to-day before Lord Chief Justice Coleridge and a special jury. The Prince of Wales has been summoned by both sides. There is a tremendous rush for tickets. Sir William said yesterday that he could not get two tickets of admission for friends.

FIRE IN A ARKANSAS TOWN.

It Causes a Loss of $30,000 with Only $4,300 Insurance.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., June 2.—Argenta, a town a few miles from here, was visited by a disastrous fire this morning, which almost cleaned out the village. It partially destroyed the Little Rock Oil company's hotel, Fancette Bros.' wholesale and retail liquor store, H. L. Smith's grocery, L. C. Davies' meat store, and N. Jones' barber shop. The total loss will be $30,000. The total insurance is only $4,300.

Was Going to Whip the Editor.

DANVILLE, Ill., June 2.—Will A. Connelly, editor of the Press, made some comment in his Saturday's issue on the abbreviated skirts to be worn by the young ladies who pose as roses in the "National Flower" opera to be produced in this city next Thursday night. The opera is an entertainment managed by the ladies of one of the churches. Mr. Boudinot called on Editor Connelly last night and demanded an apology, which was not forthcoming. Boudinot then struck Connelly. The latter drew a revolver and would have made good use of it had it not been taken away from him by Henry Brand. Connelly then proceeded to thrash Boudinot, and had nearly completed his work when the parties were separated by the police.

Wanted to Lynch Him.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 3.—At the close of the elaborate ceremonies attendant upon the laying of the corner stone of St. Engelbert Catholic church, now in course of erection at Marcus and Carter avenues, Joseph Stodgert, a local cattle dealer, shot and fatally wounded Aloise Steiner. Immediately a number of people shouted "Hang him!" In a moment the praying priest, the chorists, and the solemn purpose for which the assemblage had gathered together were forgotten. Stodgert was secured, a rope placed around his neck, and he was being dragged to the nearest lamp-post when two mounted policemen made their appearance and rescued him. He was placed in jail.

SWZALD HANGED HIS WIFE.

A Nebraska Man Confesses to Murder Committed in 1884.

WAYNE, Neb., June 2.—Matilda Swzald, the wife of John Swzald, who has recently confessed to the crime of murder in California, came to her death in this city on the night of Sept. 24, or early on the morning of the 25th, in 1884. At the coroner's inquest the husband of the deceased woman testified that they had been married about three months. She had been married twice before that. Their married life had been an almost continual quarrel, the woman being a person of almost ungovernable temper. She had been more than usually quarrelsome for a few days previous to her death, and on the evening before had driven him out of the house and he was compelled to sleep in a barn across the way.

When he returned in the morning he found the door locked and proceeded to cook his breakfast in a shed. He then called the children who got up and opened the door, when he discovered the body of his wife hanging by a rope within a few feet of the door.

The story of Swzald was received without suspicion. Mrs. Swzald was a very large woman and when the neighbors rushed in the body was hanging near the doorway, with both feet firmly planted on the floor. Still the theory of foul play was not advanced by any one and Swzald was allowed to depart and the affair was soon forgotten. The children were Mrs. Swzald's by a former husband and were quite small.

YOUR CREED AS YOU LIKE IT.

Heber Newton Gives His Ideas on Their Value as Spiritual Guides.

NEW YORK, June 2.—All Souls' Protestant Episcopal church was crowded at Sunday morning's service. Dr. R. Heber Newton's sermon was a vigorous onslaught upon the orthodox theory that creeds must be interpreted according to their literal phraseology. Among other things Dr. Newton said: "A creed is to be read as understanding its true authority. No creed rests upon the authority of Christ himself. Creeds do rest apparently on the authority of the councils which issued them. But this is not all that might be desired. A universal council is not a synonym for the Almighty. Creeds are not transcripts of some heavenly manuscript set up from copy brought down by little angels. The truth of the creed rests not on the authority of the body setting it forth, but on its own intrinsic truthfulness, its interpretation of the Christian consciousness. Its authority will last so long, and only so long, as it continues thus to express the Christian consciousness and to interpret satisfactorily the problems of nature and man in the light of the spirit of Jesus Christ."

REPORT ON KOCH'S LYMPH.

What the Tests Made Under Government Auspices Show.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—The final report of Dr. Geddings, Marine Hospital Service, who has been conducting at Providence Hospital in this city the first official test of Koch's lymph held in this country, has been submitted to the Surgeon-General of the Marine Hospital Service. The result is summarized as follows: Total number of cases treated, 12; apparently cured, 2 (or 8,333 per cent); improved, 1 (or 8,333 per cent); no improvement, 2 (or 16,666 per cent); worse under treatment, 4 (or 33,333 per cent); deaths, 2 (or 16,666 per cent). Dr. Geddings records his conclusions that the remedy is a potent one, not fitted for the general practitioner, and should be used only in institutions where its effects can be closely watched. He found it beneficial in the incipient stages of the disease, but its results in tubercule of the larynx were variable, and liable to produce alarming symptoms. In the hemorrhagic cases he found the use of the remedy prejudicial. In its general effect he thought it disappointing to both physicians and to patients.

Sunday Game at Dayton Stopped.

DAYTON, Ohio, June 2.—The game between Dayton and Terre Haute was stopped in the seventh inning yesterday, both teams being placed under arrest by Constable McPherson of Harrison township for playing on Sunday. There was a manifest displeasure on the part of the spectators over the sudden interference, and for a moment it looked as if a riot would ensue. Cushman seats were hurled about promiscuously, but cooler heads managed to quiet the spectators and all were got off the grounds in a peaceable manner. When the game was stopped the score stood 4 to 3 in favor of the visitors, but Umpire Houghland withheld his decision. The game at present belongs to no one.

TRIED TO BREAK JAIL.

DARING ATTEMPT OF AN INDIANA HORSE THIEF.

Rans Sherman Comes Near Gaining His Liberty at Logansport—A Wife Murderer Confesses.

LOGANSPORT, Ind., June 2.—Rans Sherman, the notorious horse thief, an account of whose recent capture near Fort Wayne appeared in the papers and who escaped from the county jail here in April, 1890, made a daring attempt to repeat the act. The prisoners are called to the first floor at noon to eat, their table being in front of the window. After dinner Sherman went up stairs to his cell, armed with a saw and files. In a few minutes he had sawed off a bar and escaped to the first floor. He then wrenched loose an iron bar which supported the eating table, and with this commenced boring a hole through the eighteen-inch brick wall. In fifteen minutes he had removed enough brick to make an opening about six inches wide, and through this he threw his hat and coat. Sheriff Donaldson was sitting in his residence and happened to walk to the main entrance saw the bricks falling on the outside. Armed with a rifle he prevented Sherman's crawling through the aperture and sent a deputy inside the jail.

Sherman immediately rushed back to his cell and lay down. When confronted by the officers he turned over on his cot, rubbed his eyes as if awakening from a sleep, and when accused of attempting to escape, stoutly asserted that he had been sleeping since dinner. A moment after, however, he contradicted himself by saying that all the prisoners were guilty with him. The knife used was six inches long and one-half inch thick. When Sherman was helping in the weekly house-cleaning yesterday he took pains to turn the hose on the spot where he to-day broke through the wall, in order to soften the mortar. The work was all done since morning, as all the bars were then sounded and found solid. It was a carefully laid plan as a team of horses and a carriage were hitched behind the jail, watched by a stranger, who, as soon as Sherman was detected, jumped into the rig and drove rapidly away. The team was driven up but a few minutes previous and showed evidences of hard driving. Six other prisoners stood ready to follow Sherman had he not been intercepted. Prisoners recently discharged said Sherman would escape within a week, but their statements were considered worthless. Sherman was handcuffed, shackled, and locked in his cell.

Boyd Is Not Hopeful.

ZANESVILLE, O., June 2.—The Hon. James E. Boyd, the unqualified governor-elect of Nebraska, who is here attending his father's funeral, said to old friends that there was very little hope of a decision of the Supreme court relieving him of his disability and putting him in the gubernatorial chair by reversing the decision of the Nebraska Supreme court. He thought, moreover, that the act making the territory of Nebraska a state, with the provision that all residents should become citizens, would have no weight against the statutes of the United States on what constitutes citizenship. He says he never suspected that his father was not a naturalized citizen until after his election, when an indiscreet democratic friend stirred the matter up in the West.

HELD FOR RANSOM.

TURKISH HIGHWAYMEN DERAILED A TRAIN.

From Their Retreat They Send Out a Demand for $40,000—A Daring Piece of Work.

CONSTANTINOPLE, June 3.—A party of brigands near Tehereska yesterday placed obstructions across the railroad track and succeeded in derailling the eastern express. When they had thus brought the train to a standstill they found that there were several German and English tourists among the passengers. One of them was a banker of Berlin. The brigands have demanded $40,000 as ransom for the captives, and Chancellor von Caprivi has telegraphed to Herr von Radowicz, the German ambassador here, authorizing him to advance this amount. The remaining passengers were despoiled of their belongings and were then left alone. The place where the act of brigandage occurred lies between this city and Adrianople. The band which made the attack on the train numbered thirty men, led by the noted robber Anastasius. The brigands first seized the watchman on duty at the railroad station and when they had prevented him from giving an alarm they set to work and tore up the rails for some distance. They set no warning signal for the engine to dash on to possible destruction. When the eastern express reached the spot the engine tumbled over on its side, dragging with it the tender, baggage-car, and all the third-class passenger coaches. The first-class passenger cars luckily did not follow the rest of the train, but remained safely on the road.

When the train was thus disabled the brigands rushed forward, uttering loud yells and brandishing their guns in a most threatening manner, and boarded the cars. Several of the passengers resisted the attack, but the brigands replied with a volley from their guns and dangerously wounded one of the men who sought to repulse them. The outlaws finally overcame the occupants of the cars and proceeded to plunder them, stripping the travelers of all their valuables and looting their baggage. When the brigands ended their work of robbery they seized four of the passengers in the first-class cars and also the engineer of the train, and then started with their captives for their rendezvous in the mountains. The men carried away by the outlaws were: Oscar Greger, Herr Israel, a banker of Berlin; Herr Maquel, a landowner of Sieglersdorf, Bavaria; Oscar Kotysch of Zorbzig, Prussian Saxony, and Freundiger, the engineer of the eastern express.

Upon reaching their retreat the bandits sent Herr Israel to get the ransom of $40,000 which they demanded for the release of the prisoners. Herr von Radowicz says the porte will refund this money.

WASHINGTON, June 3.—James Seldon Cowdon, a $1200 clerk in the pension office who is proud to sign his name thus and add also "of Springfield, Sangamon county, Ill.," has appealed to President Harrison for protection from his creditors. His appeal is printed and was distributed about the streets to-day. Cowdon declares that the officials of the pension bureau are in league with "usury-taking landlords and 10 per cent a month shysters," and that unless the President interposes every clerk in the office will be driven out by the pressure of these "shysters." He cites an order issued by the chief clerk of the pension bureau under date of May 29, which states that "debts contracted for necessities must be paid if the clerk expects to remain in the public service."

Rucker is a member of the national commission, and the Attorney-General says that he can not hold office on the State board, being only an ex-officio or advisory member of the board. A BY-GONE DAY.

This morning in my hands I chance to hold
A well-worn book, and in its pages old There lay three linden leaves with hue of gold.

Three perfect leaves! And, seeing them, I stood
Again beside my lover in a wood
Where shining linden leaves the ground bestrewn,

And, searching there, my true love gathered three;
"For love," he said, "for love—and thee
and me,
To keep this golden day in memory."

"And the linden leaves above me
Till I think some things there be
In this dreary world that love me—
Even me—even me."

And as he sang, and looked for leaves the while
His eyes sought mine with arch and tender smile.
What joy can e'er again my heart beguile—

Since death hath done to me this cruel wrong!
Has hushed the beating of a heart so strong,
And silenced evermore the voice of song!

"And the linden leaves above me
Till I think some things there be
In this dreary world that love me—
Even me—even me!"

EDGAR PERCY'S DEATH.

Dr. Winter was a middle-aged bachelor, well-to-do in the world and having a comfortable practice.
Life had gone on comfortably enough for him, with scarcely a break worth recording. He had no mournful memories of the past, his affections had never been blighted; his youth he had spent in getting rich, and now he was satisfied with his worldly accumulations but in no haste to secure aid to dissipate them.

But the dead levels of life get strangely stirred now and then, and as Dr. Winter unfolded his morning paper his eyes fell upon a paragraph headed: "Sudden Death—Our readers will regret to learn of the sudden demise of the talented young artist, Edgar Percy. He was found dead in his apartment last evening. His disease was probably some organic affection of the heart. We are as yet unable to give further particulars."

"Edgar Percy dead? Why, it was only yesterday afternoon that I met him in perfect health."

He took up his hat and gloves with the intention of visiting Percy's lodgings, and was carelessly putting away unopened the letters which the postman had just brought, when he suddenly exclaimed, "Percy's hand! Sealed with black too! I wonder I did not notice it before. Can it be possible that he writes to tell me of his own death?"

Dr. Winter sat down again, and opened the somber missive. It was dated the evening before, and, sure enough, Edgar Percy's name was signed to it. Dr. Winter read:

"My Dear Friend: It is now time for us to part—for me to die for you to live;
and which of us meets the best fate, God only knows. The world will raise uplifted hands of astonishment and then rush on and forget us ere a single morn has waxed and waned. And yet it is the fear of this same cold, indifferent world that compels me to rush unbidden from its haunts. My lips shall never frame the confession—my pen never write it. My death alone ends
all. With me the secret dies. If it lived, it must become known. Come and look at me after you have read this. Farewell!"

EDGAR PERCY.

Dr. Winter's astonishment was too vast to find an immediate utterance.
He put the letter carefully in his pocket, and went forth to obey the man's summons. "Come and look at me after you have read this." Ay, that he would!

Very pathetic was that dead face.
A mournful beauty veiled the chiseled features, a sad smile wreathed the exquisite mouth. The profile turned slightly aside, gave the head a listening look. Marvellous enough, doubtless, were the sounds now ringing in those ears! What was the mystery upon which those lips had closed forever? What the coming disaster upon which those eyes so feared to look that they must needs put on the veil of death?

No answer—no stirring of those lips
—no lifting of those heavy lids with death for coin weights!

A tear fell upon the marble brow of the dead; the doctor's hand fell carelessly upon the damp locks.

"Poor boy!" he murmured.

But there came a time when the sad beauty of the face was hid away; when the sad smile seemed like a sneer wherewith the dead mock their own decay, and Edgar Percy was forgotten by all save one.

It was at the close of the third year that Dr. Winter made the acquaintance of a young surgeon belonging to one of the principal hospitals. Young William Dunning took a great fancy to the middle-aged, jolly practitioner, a pendant reciprocated by the doctor, and when off duty the two were always together.

One day, Dr. Winter accompanied Dunning to the hospital and went the rounds with him.

Dunning stopped at one of the pallets on which was stretched the slender form of a man yet, in his early youth, whose pale, regular features and dusky eyes sent a thrill of remembrance through Dr. Winter's soul. Where had he seen that face?

"Who is he?" was the question that rose to his lips.

"It is hard to tell who he is," replied Dunning. "He was found wandering in the street, wild with delirium.
He had been robbed, it seemed, and turned out of a sick-bed by some treacherous fiend, doubtless hoping that he would perish in the street.
Poor creature! His hour is near at hand!"

"Is he conscious?"

"He has not been so hitherto, but I think he will recover his reason before he dies. Ah! there is sanity in his eye even now. Speak to him, doctor."

"My dear man," said Winter, "do you see me?"

"Dr. Winter!" uttered the feeble voice.

"You know me!" he cried, with astonishment. "Who are you?"

A feeble smile curved his thin lips.
"If you will sit down beside me, I have a long story to tell you. Yet, no;
it shall not be long."

"The sick man stretched his hand for a cordial. It was given him, and again the dusky eyes were turned upon Winter's face, and the voice began:

"Five years ago I met you first. For two years you were my friend. For three years I was dead to you and all the world."

"You, then, are Edgar Percy?"

"What is left of him."

"You were not dead, then? In what manner were you rescued from the grave?"

"No, I was not dead," he said.

"Dying has been my profession. I have lived upon the proceeds of my deaths at various times, but I am not yet dead."

To say that Dr. Winter was astounded would but feebly express the state of the good man's mind, while Dunning watched the two with distended eyes.

"But what," demanded the doctor,
with difficulty forcing himself to speak,
"was the disgrace to which you alluded in that letter?"

"A blind, my friend; a blind, merely to throw you off the track. You say—to Dunning—that I am going to die?"

"You are certainly beyond all skill."

"Well, well, what matters it? I have been a great rascal, and no one has ever suspected it. 'Twill be a sort of relief to speak the truth for once in my life. Listen, both of you.

"The processes of converting a warm young heart to villainy and dishonesty are various. It matters not how I became the hypocrite I was; I think it was born in me; that it was my nature to deceive, and mismanagement strengthened the natural propensity.

Well, doctor, I am going to make the story short, for already I feel the death clutch at my vitals. Three separate times have I, with the aid of an accomplice, feigned death successfully.
Each time my life was insured to a large amount; each time I bore a different name, was buried, or supposed to have been, by my accomplice, who, of course, was the person in whose favor my insurance was drawn. Within the space of five years I have had in all 5,000 pounds obtained in this way.
The last time I undertook it, my accomplice, after drawing the money, refused to give me my usual share, two-thirds. Knowing that I was in his power, I dared not proceed to extremities with him; so I let him depart with his ill-gotten gains. But the disappointment of my last effort was too much for me, and here I am defeated at last and brought to a bed which is really a couch of death."

"Then," said Dr. Winter, "by keeping secret the letter in which you declared yourself a suicide I helped two scoundrels to prey upon society. Oh, Edgar Percy, I could not have believed it of you!"

"Can't you see," responded the dying man, with a feeble sneer, "that that is the reason why I was so successful? My fate stamped me not only pure but above suspicion. So much for faces."

Dr. Winter turned abruptly away, shocked, disgusted and angry. Dunning sent for a magistrate, who took the confession of the impostor, who, however, refused to give the name of his confederate in crime. He died, repenting at the eleventh hour, as is the custom with such men.

Food for Brain Workers.

The intellectual worker needs plenty of light, digestible food, such as fish, poultry, eggs, game, fruit and the soculet vegetables. The proper diet for all sedentary people is an early and entire supply of digestible food, including plenty of cereals and fruit. A cup of some warm drink should be taken just before rising, or as soon as it can be prepared and positively no work should be done until after breakfast. As the digestive organs are most active early in the day, a second hearty but digestible meal can be eaten at noon, if an hour's rest intervenes before continued labor or exercise.
The afternoon work should be light, and part of the time passed out of doors. A light digestible dinner may follow about nightfall, and the evening be devoted to recreation or social relaxation. When any night work is contemplated, food should be taken about midnight and again at dawn, when the vital forces fall—

"That said, still hour before the dawn,
When old men die and babes are born."

Special care should be taken to insure plenty of pure air, and light;
strong meats and drinks should be avoided, and abundance of milk used,
with eggs, fruit and fresh vegetables and salads.

First American Coins.

The first coins struck by the United States mint were some half-dimes, in 1792; the first dimes were struck in France from old silver family plate furnished by Washington, the coins being known as "Martha Washington Dimes," from the circumstance as noted, and an adaptation of the liberty head to that of Martha Washington.

A Recommendation.

"Well, Rastus, I hear you have left Mr. Smithers."

"Yas-sir."

"Did he give you a good recommendation?"

"Yas-sir. He dun write it, an' said
I wuz de mos' mendacious an' fallible niggah he knowed."—Harper's Weekly.

CARTOONS OF THE WAR.

ARGUMENTS WHICH WERE MADE THROUGH PICTURES.

And Sent Through the Mails on Envelopes—Many Cartoons Which Now Appear Ridiculous—Patriotic Sentiments Now Ludicrous.

The cartoons that expressed political ideas during the last war are only laughable now that the bitter rivalry then existing has been dissipated by the lapse of 30 years.

Of all this pictorial argument, that which was borne on envelopes through the mails is perhaps the most interesting. Many of the people of the North discarded their regular stationery and used, instead, that printed with emblems of their patriotism.

A collection of these war-time envelopes appears very ludicrous in the light of to-day, but still recalls the spirit of union which still lives. How the soldier boys laughed when the home letter bore a humorous cartoon, and how the southern sympathizers raged when their business and social acquaintances used such suggestive stationery for their ordinary communications.

These days are a generation gone by, and to nearly half of the people of to-day these pictorial envelopes would be a surprising novelty, although their historical significance would be appreciated. Some examples of the ingenuity that Yankee printers expended in picturing on envelopes the patriotic sentiments are therefore given.

"The first man that attempts to haul down the American flag, shoot him on the spot," are the words printed under a belching cannon surmounted by a red, white, and blue flag of 34 stars.
The national flag is a very prominent emblem, sometimes printed all over the envelope, and sometimes waving gracefully from one corner, but always printed with the 34 stars significant of the Union.

A knight in armor, with upraised sword and prancing steed, is labeled the "Federal Cavalry."

"The Spirit of the South" is represented by three red-nosed gentlemen, sitting with upraised glasses around a bowl of punch.

The confederacy's appeal to European powers is variously caricatured.
Jeff Davis is represented as on his knees trying to tickle the British lion with cotton. The lion is made to say, with a complacent smile: "Jeff, it's no use.
I can do nothing for you till you bring

I'M GLAD I'M NOT IN DIXIE! HOORAY!
HOORAY!

me a certificate of good character from your old Uncle Sam." On another Jeff Davis is represented exhibiting the
"what-is-it" in Europe, and begging with outstretched hand for aid and comfort. The "what-is-it" in this picture is a hideous camel.

One of the "flowers" of the rebel army is provided with a fool's cap and a pair of seven-league boots strapped on his back, to use when it becomes necessary for him to skedaddle from the Union soldiers.

One of the more elaborate colored cartoons pictures Jefferson Davis sitting in the chair of State, with pirates and Union soldiers in the foreground and a Confederate flag hanging in the background. It is entitled "Blood Money; or How Southern Rebels Encourage Piracy," and is explained by this dialogue:

First pirate to Jeff Davis—We want our $35 for this live northerner.

Second pirate—Yes, and want $20
for this dead one.

One lonely palm rising from a barren waste is labeled, "Charleston, S. C., 1871."

"Old Secesh" is pictured as a lizard with forked tongue, and the sketch of a man riding a mule backward, and holding by the animal's tail, is called "A Secession Movement."

A mammoth hand is named Scott, while under its thumb is a pigmy marked Jeff Davis. "A Warm Reception for Jeff Davis" represents him in the lower world on a gridiron over a bed of blazing coals. A horned fiend stirs him up with a pitchfork.

A figure of secession, with protruding eyes and tongue is hung to a gibbet by the weight of the Union 34-pounder, while a piratical hat surmounted by a confederate flag falls to the ground.

"Where is Beauregard?" is the motto carried by a galloping elephant.

TICKLING THE BRITISH LION WITH COTTON.

A cartoon represents Gov. Letcher bringing in clothes stolen from Union ladies.

The northern traitor is pictured with a sanctimonious face. "Honest Abe" is framed in flags, and the seal of Massachusetts is surmounted by the motto
"Stand by the Flag."

A young soldier is shown upon one of these historic envelopes, standing on the Confederate and pointing with his sword to the American flag. "Remember Ellsworth" are the two words beneath it.

Col. Ellsworth is pictured again as "True to the Union," and his zouaves are shown in another sketch making a gibbet of their bodies from which to hang secession.

Gen. Butler is not forgotten. One of the F. F. V.'s comes, with bloodhound and whip, to Fort Monroe, after his "contraband." Butler stretches forth his sword and says, "Can't see it."

In another picture, the General is seated on his horse before a lot of volunteer sappers and miners from the F. F. V.'s, who say: "Massa Butler, we's just seceded from Harper's Ferry, where we learned de trade of making trenches and fortifications. We's de niggers to call upon in dat line."

"We borrowed des yer tools at de Ferry, and if des isn't contraband we's

A SECESSION MOVEMENT.

gwine to carry 'em back at de close of horsetilities."

Him fader's hope.
Him moder's joy.
Him darlin' little Contraband boy.

These are the lines written under the picture of a man bouncing a black baby.

A fiend of darkness standing behind a gowned clergyman in a pulpit is thus explained below: "An eminent southern clergyman, during an eloquent discourse, is wonderfully assisted in finding scriptural authority for secession and treason, and the divine ordination of slavery."

An infant crying a rain of tears is entitled "Jeff on Harper's Ferry—I should think I might be let alone.
Boo-oo-oh."

"Northern Shiver-lery" is shown by a tree split and rent by the lightning of truth.

"The Way Washington Was Taken" is explained. The two men are standing on an eminence with spyglasses, and the top of the Capitol can just be seen in the distance. The text says:
"Jeff Davis and Beauregard are looking toward Washington, and have been for six months past."

There is still another caricature of the southern President. He is presented in full uniform, flying from an angry bull labeled "The North."
"Come and take a horn," says the North. "You got away and let me alone," says Gen. Davis.

A grim-looking cannon is called the "Peacemaker of '76 and '61," and the confederate eagle says to one lovely soldier, "O, where are all my friends?"

Some of the other designs, more strictly emblematic, are interesting.
There is the liberty bell, "E Pluribus Unum" eagles and eagles in various postures uttering such sentiments as:
"Disunion by armed forces is treason." "Our country thy name is immortal." "Here man was made free," and Sumner's "Liberty and union, now and forever."

VIVIAN SARTORIS GRANT.

A Beautiful Child, Granddaughter of the Immortal General.

At the banquet at Delmonico's given in celebration of the breaking of ground for the Grant monument, was a pretty little girl who had wavy brown hair, great, big gray eyes and a merry, wise face. She was little Vivian Sartoris, daughter of Mrs. Nellie Grant-Sartoris and a granddaughter of the great leader whose memory the guests had gathered to honor. She sat next to Mr. Evarts and near Mr. Choate, and

VIVIAN GRANT SARTORIS.

all around her were statesmen and diplomats and other great men. She was like a little queen among them, and an inspiration to the eloquent orators of the evening. Like a ray of sunshine she illumined the scene.

Advice in Lady Gardeners.

Now plant schemes for summer travel. Rake in your husband's loose change and cut back his superfluous expenses. Cultivate hectic flushes and not sick spells, showing the need of fresh air and of transplanting to the seaside. Prepare for summer dresses and get ready your guide books.

Saratoga should be brought out and overhauled. Water the family doctor with generous fees, and cultivate his ideas that the European travel treatment would best suit your case. Begin to much your husband with kindness and flattery. It may encourage the growth of his liberality.

When he is ripe for picking he should have more fondling and be put into the sunlight of warm affection. This should be kept up until he begins to drop big leaves from his checkbook.
When you have got all you can, turn him out of the pot and throw him into a corner lot to dry off.

A Matter of History.

A little girl who had heard her family talking about hysterics was present when a story was told at which her mother laughed immoderately.
The child seemed much impressed and looking anxiously at her mother, she said very gravely:

"Mamma, ain't you afraid if you laugh so much you will get historical?"

WASHINGTON'S MOTHER.

A MONUMENT TO BE ERECTED
OVER HER GRAVE.

Patriotic Women at Work Will Raise Money for the Purpose by Selling the Portrait of the Hero's Mother.

Mrs. L. J. Beard, a New York business woman and a most patriotic American, has been empowered by Mrs.
John J. Goolrick, President of the Mary Washington Monument association, of Fredericksburg, Va., to take steps towards the raising of a fund to aid in the erection of a new monument to be placed over the grave of Mary Washington, the mother of George Washington, at Fredericksburg. The present monument was erected many years ago, and has not only never been finished, but has fallen into partial decay. The patriotic feelings of the ladies of Virginia became aroused over this fact some time ago, and the present association was formed for the purpose of erecting a new monument.

Mrs. Beard's plan is to have a large number of steel engravings made of Mary Washington, taken from an oil painting now in the possession of descendants of George Washington living

MARY, THE MOTHER OF WASHINGTON.

(From the only portrait in existence.)

at Fredericksburg. This is the only likeness of Mrs. Washington in existence and was painted in England.
While being brought to this country the face of the picture was slightly damaged. Fifty-five years ago an effort was made in Philadelphia to remedy the injury, but with slight success.

The proposed engravings will be made by a New York firm of acknowledged ability and will be quite large in size.
It is estimated that four months will be required to complete the work. The engraving will be placed on sale in all parts of the country at a moderate price. Special arrangements will be made for its sale at the World's Fair.
The receipts will be placed in the hands of an executive committee, among them being several citizens of New York whose high standing will be a guarantee that the money will be properly applied. A caveat to secure the copyright of the engraving has been filed by Mrs. Beard at Washington. She intends to offer a prize for the best poem embodying the virtues of Mrs. Washington and making reference to the erection of the new monument. This poem will be inscribed on a slab of onyx, to be inserted in the base of the monument. The material composing the present monument will be used in the construction of the one to be erected. Any portion of the fund remaining after the new monument has been completed will be devoted to purchasing all relics formerly belonging to the Washington family which

MARY WASHINGTON MONUMENT.

may be for sale. These will be preserved in some public institution hereafter to be named.

PRECIOUS STONES.

Where Some of Them Are Found in the United States.

Sapphires and rubies are found near Helena, Mont., but they are not of the standard blue and red shades so much prized. They have never been mined systematically, though within the last two years companies have been formed to mine for them either separately or incidentally to the search for gold.
Emeralds have been mined to a small extent in Alexander county in North Carolina, and some beryls have been discovered in Colorado, at New Milford in Connecticut, and at Stoneham in Maine. The turquoise is now systematically mined near Los Corri-llos, in New Mexico, but it lacks the softness of color distinguishing the Persian turquoise, though it is fully equal to it in hardness. The finest garnets in the world, rivaling those from the Cape of Good Hope, are collected by the Navajo Indians and by soldiers from the adjacent forts from ant hills and scorpion nests in New Mexico and Arizona. The Indians trade them for stores, and they are sent to the market in parcels weighing sometimes as much as thirty or forty pounds.

This about completes the list of the better known and more important precious stones that are found in the United States. The small amount obtained of each and their respective frequency are suggested by Mr.
Kunz' statistics of the value of the native gem production in 1889: Sapphires, $3,725; emeralds, $450; tur-quoises, $22,675; garnets, $2,308.

Accordingly, all except an insignificant part of the precious stones bought in this country are imported, and the demand is increasing. The value of the imports from 1870 to 1879 was less than $27,000,000, and between 1880 and 1889 it was more than $37,000,000, or more than three times as great. The increase has been steady. The value of the gems reported in 1889 was nearly twice that in 1880, and more than six times the importation of 1870. In no other country of the world is the use of these ornaments so general as here.

Diamond cutting is extensively practiced in the United States. In New York alone are sixteen firms pursuing the business, much of their time being expended in recutting stones previously cut abroad; for our workmanship is superior. From the latter part of 1883 to the end of 1889 the price of rough diamonds advanced from 80 to 100 per cent. The great reduction in weight due to cutting is shown by the fact that diamonds or diamond material which weighed 54,344 carats before cutting weighed only 25,005 carats afterward. Nine-tenths of this work is done in New York, which is the great center of the American trade in the precious stones, while London is the chief market of the world for rough diamonds. Nothing, by the way, is bought and sold on a closer margin than the rough diamond. The amount of cutting done here increased by 91 per cent in the ten years from 1880 to 1889.

The value of the diamonds and other precious stones imported into this country in 1889 alone was $11,705,000.

THE ORIGIN OF THE MAFIA.

Its Very Birth Was Heralded with a Libation of Blood.

The "Mafia" society is over 600 years old, having its origin at the revolt of Palermo which took place during an Easter ceremonial in that city in the year 1282. A beautiful young girl and her betrothed, in accordance with the quaint and primitive customs of that people, approached the Church of the Holy Ghost to be united in marriage at its altar, and while the lover sought the venerable padre in the little room at the rear of the building his bride, paused upon its threshold. As she stood, expectant—graceful as a fawn, fair as a dream, her innocent heart throbbing with its new-born happiness—a drunken sergeant of the French garrison, Druet by name, strode up behind

"August Flower"

Perhaps you do not believe these statements concerning Green's August Flower. Well, we can't make you. We can't force conviction into your head or medicine into your throat. We don't want to. The money is yours, and the misery is yours; and until you are willing to believe, and spend the one for the relief of the other, they will stay so. John H. Foster, 1122 Brown Street, Philadelphia, says: "My wife is a little Scotch woman, thirty years of age and of a naturally delicate disposition. For five or six years past she has been suffering from Dyspepsia. She became so bad at last that she could not sit down to a meal but she had to vomit it as soon as she had eaten it. Two bottles of your August Flower have cured her, after many doctors failed. She can now eat anything, and enjoy it; and as for Dyspepsia, she does not know that she ever had it."

POWER OF WATER.
A Stream Too Powerful for an Ax to Cut It.

At a dinner in Washington, not long ago, at which were many prominent guests—the president among the number—conversation turned upon mining operations in California, and Judge Field, whose knowledge of all matters relating to the Pacific coast is as extensive as his powers of narrative are entertaining astonished the distinguished company by some of his assertions in regard to the force of the jets of water employed by hydraulic mining. He described the wonderful manner in which the streams from the hose cut to pieces and tore down the hills that hold the precious metal. Judge Field cited the Hon. James G. Fair as his authority for the statement that under a vertical pressure of one or two hundred feet the force of the stream is sometimes so great as to hurl away or hold boulders weighing a thousand pounds; and that it would be no more possible to cut through such a stream with a crowbar or an axe, where it issued from the nozzle, than to sever eight inches of solid iron with a pen-knife.

As Judge Field afterward informed Senator Fair, in a letter asking for expert testimony about the power of water applied by hydraulic machinery, those assertions were received by some of General Schofield's guests with smiles of polite incredulity. The eminent jurist felt that his position, for the moment, was somewhat like that of the Englishman who informed the King of Siam that in England water often became so hard that people could walk on it. It is not at all surprising that the facts gravely alleged by Justice Field should stagger, even an imagination like the Chief Justice's, or strain the faith of so profound a believer in dynamics as the Hon. Thomas B. Reed.

In consequence of this incident, and for the vindication of his own reputation for veracity, Judge Field has collected from several of the highest authorities on practical hydraulics evidence and opinions that are of great interest.

Ex-Senator Fair tells Justice Field that at the Spring Valley gold mine in Cherokee, Cal., the water used in the hydraulic mining operations was brought in pipes and ditches from a distance of nearly 100 miles, and that the volume of water used on every working day in that mine amounted to three times the number of gallons consumed daily by the entire city of San Francisco.

Mr. Louis Glass, for sixteen years the superintendent of the Spring Valley Mine, assures Justice Field that he has seen an eight-inch stream under 311 feet of vertical pressure, move in a sluggish way a two-ton boulder at a distance of twenty feet from the nozzle; and that the same stream striking a rock of 500 pounds would throw it as a man would throw a twenty-pound weight. "No man that ever lived," adds Mr. Louis Glass, "could strike a bar through one of these streams within twenty feet of discharge; and a human being struck by such a stream would be killed—pounded into a shapeless mass."

Andrew Johnson's Religion.

It is stated that Andy Johnson was a Presbyterian. The fact is that he was an agnostic, writes Amos Cummings, the New York congressman. I knew him very well, and according to my understanding he was inside a church only three times while he was president of the United States. The first time was at the memorial services over President Lincoln in the senate chamber. The second time was at the funeral services of Colonel Elliott Dahlgren, and the third time when Henry Ward Beecher came to Washington. Beecher had come out in a sermon and had supported 'My policy,' as Johnson's policy was called. Beecher had received considerable criticism for this action, and when he came to Washington a friend of the president called at the white house and asked him to go to the church to hear him preach. President Johnson at first refused. But he was told it would not look well if he did not go, for Beecher had supported him, and it was only fair that he should go and listen to Beecher. He then went.

Trips of Presidents.

Nearly all of the presidents who have traveled have met with misfortune on their tours, and the most unpleasant things of their administrations have happened at such times. Garfield was assassinated when he was starting out to travel to Long Branch. Tyler came near being blown up on the Trenton. James K. Polk had his nose pulled on a trip down the Potomac, and Andrew Johnson's famous "swing around the circle" aided materially in his defeat for renomination. President Arthur got sick during his tour to Florida, and one of the most bitter insults offered to President Cleveland was the newspaper slander uttered concerning his wife and himself by an irresponsible crank named Alden J. Biethen, while he was in Minneapolis.

His Little Scheme.

A prominent scientist relates that one day during the summer he observed a large hornet vainly endeavoring to lift and carry away a locust. The hornet, after several attempts, evidently concluded that the weight was too great to lift, and after resting awhile, put in operation a plan he appeared to have thought out. He dragged the locust some fifty feet away to a tree, up which, little by little, he hauled it until the top was reached, when the hornet flew off in triumph with its prey.

There was recently exhibited in Dublin a new burner for light-house use, possessing twice the illuminating power of the largest burners now employed. It is calculated that this new burner, in connection with a specially devised system of lenses, will transmit a light equal to about eight millions of candles, which far exceeds the most powerful light at present used.

In recent Russian trials to test the adaptability of snow-breastworks against an enemy's fire, it was found that a thickness of six feet was a perfect protection against bullets fired at 300 paces. Packing the snow and pouring water over it to make a crust of ice, was found to keep bullets out when the thickness was only three feet and one-half.

We understand that Frank Siever has a fast trotter, and is open for a brush with any gentleman's road horse around the park. Hank Thornbush sold Mr. Siever the horse. He is a handsome animal, bright bay, about 15 hands high; in fact a very clever horse.

Greenebaum Sons, bankers, investment securities, bonds, etc. for sale. 116 and 118 LaSalle street, Chicago.

George White, of the Sisters of St. Joseph Hospital, was driving the Asylum team along Milwaukee avenue Tuesday, and when near Paulina street the horse took fright and ran away. White was thrown out and dragged a block. He escaped with a bruised shoulder.

Madam MaBell, of 1459 Milwaukee avenue, has made many friends by her accurate reading of the future. Seeps who have visited her out of curiosity have been convinced that she is the possessor of a wonderful gift, and is a natural born medium. Ladies only are given sittings. They should call on this wonderful woman.

Frank Zenieschek has furnished his sample room in connection with his pavilion with one of the finest sets of furniture to be found on the west side. The bar is 24 feet long, made of massive oak, the top of bar being one solid piece of mahogany, the back bar and ice box are also solid oak, massive in design. The center mirror in the back bar is nearly 12 feet long, with two mirrors at the end 3x4½ feet. There is a handsome oak screen with heavy plate glass mirror, a neat bottle case, etc. In fact, Frank has furnished his place in perfect taste and has spared neither trouble nor expense. Tomorrow the summer season will be opened at Zenieschek's Hall, corner North and California avenues, when Major Neven's band will satisfy all lovers of good music. The hall has also been freshly painted and put in first-class condition. It is undoubtedly one of the finest family resorts in Chicago. If you go to Humboldt Park don't fail to call on Frank Zenieschek.

Last Sunday the Norwegian Singing Society gave one of their enjoyable picnics at Kuhn's Park. This society was organized about twenty-five years ago, and now comprises between four and five hundred members, active and passive; in fact, nearly all of the prominent Scandinavians in the northwest side are connected with the society. The picnic was a decided success, and singing, music and dancing filled up the afternoon and evening. Everyone enjoyed themselves to their hearts content.

The pictures of Washington in his old age seem to caricature the lower part of his face. Even that magnificent portrait of Stuart's, which hangs in the East Room of the White House, pictures the mouth and chin as if, when the great General sat for the artist, he had just put in each cheek a fresh supply of that comfort which is contraband to habits of cleanliness and good taste. The truth about this expression in these likenesses of Washington is, that at a late period in life he was obliged to use false teeth, and in those early days the science of dentistry was yet in its infancy and the dentist who accommodated Washington, did as best he could. The result was a complete mal-adaptation of the artificial denture, as well as an abnormal conformation of a once noble face. If, as the saying goes that "the face is the mirror of the soul," why not, kind reader, if you are obliged to wear artificial teeth, do you not request that the preservation of your natural features be retained? When you call at Dr. Cigrand's Dental Office, at corner North and Milwaukee avenues, for artificial teeth, please bring with you a photograph of yourself showing how you appeared before you lost the pearls of your mouth. The doctor makes a specialty of difficult operations, and we kindly ask our readers to give him a call and hear his reasonable terms for first-class dental work.
