"AH THERE"

Least and cleanest appearance of our school is a matter of comment, not by the teachers and scholars, but by those who have had a peep inside. The school has done herself a credit and knowles say there is quite a contrast notable between the Des Plaines school and our own. In the language of "Jooppristality" we would say "neighboring village" get a move on!

A FRIENDLY VISIT.

Monday last the home of Rev. John

Mrs. Foster sat up most of the day and delighted with the visit of Mrs. Glover,

EDITOR:

Was a genuine surprise to the citizens of the Village to learn that at the last meeting of the Village Board an ordinance was passed, authorizing the Trustees to raise bonds to the amount of $2500 to secure a chemical fire engine, and build for the same, and there is a natural question to know in whose fertile brain this scheme originated, and what was the necessity for immediate adoption, or the past ten or twelve years but one has taken place in the village, of any kind. With an exhausted treasury,

Legal Provisions Make Oklahoma Settlers Uncomfortable.

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 7.—A dispatch from Guthrie, O. T., says: A sensation has been caused here by the publication of a heretofore overlooked section of law which makes it a misdemeanor for any person or corporation to hire a man to go into any of the Indian reservations and take up a claim on land and afterward turn it over to those persons or company. As a penalty the land is to be forfeited and the parties fined $1,000 or the imprisoned one year, or both. Many banks, mercantile houses and other companies and hundreds of private persons have engaged parties to do this very thing, and the discovery of this law creates consternation on all sides.

IT WAS A CANARD.

Canada's Governor-General Not Intended to Dismiss His Ministry.

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 7.—The report published last night that the governor-general has been instructed by the imperial authorities to dismiss his ministry in account of frauds in official circles here is a canard, as the imperial authorities never interfere in the domestic concerns of Canada. A bill was introduced in the senate last night making it a misdemeanor for an official to accept for himself or his family any money or gift, or for a contractor to offer it.

MEXICO'S NEW TARIFF.

MOST IMPORTANT CHANGES MADE BY THE NEW LAW.

Coal, Lumber and Iron Retained on the Free List—Rates Decreased on Intoxicating Beverages.

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 10.—A dispatch from the City of Mexico gives the following summary of the new Mexican tariff, which has just made its appearance in the Diario Oficial: One of the most notable features of the new law is its greater definiteness. The number of classes of merchandise have been increased from 630 to 900 with a corresponding gain in convenience. The free list retains coal, coke, wood, pulp, lumber, railway, telegraph, telephone and electric light supplies, barbed wire, iron pipe, sheet iron, Portland cement, explosives for mines, power machinery, boilers and engines, wheels, cables, ores, cordage, agricultural implements, and a number of other articles. The precious stones, formerly free, are taxed from $3 to $5 per carat. Sulphur and muriatic acids, formerly free, will be 3 cents a kilogramme. This is the metric weight and is equivalent to 2.25 pounds. Wall paper was 20 cents. It is divided into three classes and will pay 10 cents, 20 cents and 50 cents, according to description. Paper with printed headings, document blanks, monograms, as well as printed tickets of all kinds will pay $1. Raw cotton is unchanged, as is also cotton cloth. There are some differences in threads and in underwear. There are few changes in linen and some reductions. Silk is practically unchanged. Woolen carpets are lower, and there are reductions in woolen cloth, underwear, clothing, gloves and fringes. Grains are not changed. Preserved fruits are increased from 20 to 75 cents. Virginia leaf tobacco from 18 to 25 cents, crude petroleum from 1 to 2 cents, while refined is unchanged. Fixed oils not specified are reduced from 50 to 20 cents and lubricating oils to 5 cents, common scraps are increased from 18 to 25 cents, common glass bottles are reduced 3 to 1 cent; glass and porcelain otherwise are unchanged. Furniture, finished and ready for use, has been advanced 5 cents and will pay from 20 to 40 cents according to quality. Common wood furniture, unfinished, is reduced from 15 to 8 cents. Jewelry is increased and will pay from $20 to $75, according to class.

Carriages are unchanged and will pay from 35 to 60 cents according to weight. Tools are reduced from 10 cents to 5 cents; steeling tools are reduced from 5 to 4 cents; pig iron is changed from 1 to 4 cents; bar iron from 3 to 10 cents; angle iron will be 3 cents; sheet iron and corrugated iron, galvanized or not, 4 cents. Iron beams will remain at 1 cent.

Manufacturers of iron, not otherwise specified, will be increased from 30 cents to 25 cents. On many cases legal weight is substituted for gross weight, that is, the goods do not have to pay duty on the box or barrel containing them.

WANTED LINCOLN KILLED.
Gen. Harris Asserts That Jefferson Davis Encouraged Assassination.

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., Sept. 9.—Gen. T. M. Harris of Ritchie county, a member of the court-martial which investigated the death of Lincoln and condemned Mrs. Surratt, has just furnished a history of the assassination of President Lincoln.

The history was compiled from the stenographer's notes which are in Gen. Harris' possession. In the book Gen. Harris boldly asserts that Jefferson Davis and certain members of his cabinet were interested in and encouraged the assassination of Lincoln. He fortifies the statement by a large amount of documentary evidence. His book will produce a sensation.

Robbed and Murdered.
MACON, Mo., Sept. 4.—Capt. N. O. Bor, adjutant of the Hannibal & St. Joseph Railroad company, was here today investigating the killing of William E. Elder, whose body was found crashed on that company's track here Monday night. He learned from J. W. Hinks, a hotel man at Eureka, one mile west of Macon, that while he and two or three others were on their way home at 11:30 o'clock Monday night they discovered a man lying on the cattle-guard just west of Macon, who appeared to be dead, but was not in a position on the track to indicate that a train passed over his body. It is evident that the man was robbed and murdered and his body placed on the track.

Death Caused by the Keeley Cure.
MONTICELLO, Ill., Sept. 4.—Charles E. Brown, son of the Hon. Julius A. Brown of this city, died at his father's residence, aged 41. He was one of the ablest young lawyers in central Illinois. He had undergone treatment at Dr. Keeley's institute at Dwight and had been weakened by the process and died shortly after his return.

STRANGE CATTLE DISEASE.

Missouri Farmers Alarmed by a New Malady That Is Afflicting Herds.

SEALY, Mo., Sept. 7.—Charles Wadleigh, residing twelve miles south of town, reports a peculiar disease raging among his stock. A few days ago he noticed that several of his cows refused to eat or drink, and that they were in a bad condition generally. Upon investigation he found that their mouths were raw, very sore, and inflamed, the symptoms resembling a mouth disease which has been raging in Benton county for some time. He has reported the matter to ex-Assistant State Veterinarian T. E. White of this city.

HARRISON TO NAME JUDGES.

Belief That the President Will Appoint Several Western Men.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—It was reported in official circles to-day by one who has frequently conversed with the President upon the subject that when the Chief Executive comes to Washington probably next week, he will carry with him a list of names to fill the judicial appointments, nine of which are to be made in the districts and on the circuits and one for the Court of Claims to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Judge Schofield.

It is surmised that there will be some surprises in these appointments. A number of politicians have been seeking them and have fairly deluged the President with political endorsements. President Harrison, however, has been determined all along to let capacity weigh most strongly in making up this list, and it is expected that the West will receive a good share of the places. It has been said in reliable quarters that solicitor-general Taft may go upon the circuit embracing his own State—Ohio—and that ex-Senator Moody of South Dakota may receive the appointment for the Eighth circuit.

It would cause no surprise if Attorney-General Miller should be named for a place on one of the circuits, although he has been considered so likely to get one of the places upon the Supreme court of the United States that his friends doubt if he desires to be placed on a circuit.

MORE ASYLUM HORRORS.
A West Virginia Institution the Subject of Official Investigation.

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., Sept. 10.—A detailed account of the horrors at the Western insane asylum, in this state, have been made public. Suicide has followed suicide, it is charged, for some time among the inmates, and they have all been attended by the most horrible circumstances. Men have killed themselves by boiling to death and suspension by ropes from the windows. All this has been done in sight of the guards and no investigation has been made. There seems to have been no incentive held on the dead and a general inefficiency is manifested in the management.

Millions Returned to the States.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—About $11,000,000 has been paid under the direct tax bill to different states whose claims have been presented up to date. There yet remain, it is said, at the war and division of the treasury department between $3,000,000 and $4,000,000 for this purpose to be paid as soon as the other states take proper action through their legislature. The states which have not yet received their money are Connecticut, Kentucky, Dakotas, Maryland, District of Columbia, Iowa, Nevada, New Mexico (territory), Utah (territory), Oregon, Washington, Alabama, Florida, Louisiana, Mississippi, South Carolina and Virginia.

An Editor Retired on Full Pay.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Sept. 9.—The most important newspaper change announced in this city for some time occurred this morning in the Public Ledger office. William V. McKean, for more than twenty-six years the managing editor, retired and was succeeded by L. Clarke Davis as managing editor. Mr. McKean will continue on the staff of the Ledger at full pay and will write occasional editorials, but will be relieved from the responsibility of managing the business of the journal and voicing its sentiments. The announcement is made that George W. Childs will himself hereafter be editor-in-chief.

Killed Himself With Dynamite.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Sept. 9.—F. L. Carroll registered at the Prescott house this morning as William F. De Young of Fresno. Shortly after an explosion which shook the buildings in the neighborhood attracted attention to his room, and it was afterward found he had committed suicide by exploding a dynamite bomb. His remains were scattered all over the room and one of his arms were found in the street. Windows and plastering were broken and furniture damaged.

More Than Pensions Called For.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—Gen. Raum said to-day that he had a surprise in store for the next congress. He says that for the first time in many years his office has much more money on hand than it needs to meet pension demands. He will not only come out even at the end of the year but will have an excess of at least $8,000,000. If Gen. Raum is as good as his prophecy the next congress will start out not only even but with a big sum to its credit.

Stung to Death by Bees.

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., Sept. 9.—William Mears, a farmer living near the city, lost a horse, in a very unusual manner. The animal was tethered near several hives of bees. In browsing around the horse overturned the hives and thousands of bees swarmed over him. Before he could be rescued the animal had been literally stung to death.

PRIZE-FIGHT AT PEORIA.

Jack Bayne of Cincinnati, Knocked Out by "Galney" McDermott.

PEORIA, Ill., Sept. 9.—A prize-fight took place in this city early this morning, but it was so quietly arranged that no one outside the principals and a half dozen other people knew about it. The contestants were "Galney" McDermott of St.reator and Jack Bayne of Cincinnati. The men crept over the high fence surrounding the State fair grounds and a ring was pitched in one of the big machinery halls. The fight was savage and for blood. Bayne was knocked completely out in the eighth round.

MORE WAR POSSIBILITIES.

EUROPEAN POWERS WATCHING EACH OTHER CAREFULLY.

England Deeply Interested in the Outcome of the Dardanelles Incident—Barred Out.

LONDON, Sept. 7.—The Post, commenting on the Dardanelles question, protests against the idea of the powers desiring to make a cat's paw of England. "If any change in the situation is necessary," says the Post, "it should be done by concerted action. Certainly England would be bound to protest against the passage of Russian men-of-war through the Dardanelles, but so far no treaty rights have been violated."

A report is current that the Banque de Paris has offered Russia a loan of $12,000,000 at 4 per cent. The Times says that negotiations for a loan of such magnitude could hardly be entered upon if the warlike rumors lately circulated were credited in the regions of finance.

The Vienna correspondent of the News comments on the exclusion of newspaper correspondents as a probable feature of future warfare. In the Austrian maneuvers all arrangements for reporting are placed in the hands of specially selected officers.

PARIS, Sept. 4.—The French military maneuvers include the use of elaborate apparatus by the balloon, telegraphic, postal and telephone services, to which Gen. Saussier has given great attention. If successful every army corps will be provided with a complete outfit, including a portable steam engine to work dynamos. It has been ascertained that one hour will suffice to inflate a balloon and provide it with a telephone.

BERLIN, Sept. 3.—The Borsen Courier thinks that more importance should be attached to the meeting of the Emperors when clouds are appearing on the political horizon.

VIENNA, Sept. 5.—Finance Minister Kallay accompanied Count Kalnoky to the conference with Chancellor von Caprivi yesterday, for the purpose of discussing an increase of the Austrian military credits.

The Emperors left the field earlier than they had intended, owing to an accident to the German Kaiser's physician, who fell from his horse and injured his head.

PUT POISON IN THE LIQUOR.

One Man Killed and Two Others in a Critical Condition.

HARTINGTON, Neb., Sept. 6.—One man dead, another with the sands of life slowly running out, a third recovering from the untold agonies of the deadly poison and a prominent and wealthy citizen behind prison bars are the factors in the most sensational and mysterious poisoning case in the annals of Nebraska crime.

Andrew Olson, a well-known farmer living east of this city, died last evening from the effect of a dose of poison taken in a drink of alcohol. Martin Knutson, a neighbor of the dead man, lies at the point of death. Hans Schager, another friend, is recovering from a milder dose than the others received.

Dennis O'Flaherty, a wealthy ranch owner, who has hitherto borne an excellent reputation, is a prisoner charged with the crime of murder. Last week O'Flaherty, while returning to his ranch east of Hartington after a day's business in the city, met the three neighbors above mentioned. After a brief friendly conversation O'Flaherty drew a flask from his pocket and invited the men to take a drink of alcohol.

From this point the story of the affair varies. O'Flaherty says he had two bottles, one containing alcohol and the other poison. The men who drank say he had but one flask. They say that the liquor was of a milky hue and it was remarked that it was not as clear as alcohol should be.

NEGRO MURDERER HANGED.

It is surmised that he was murdered and his body placed on the track.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—Private voices related here to-day state that Senator Hawley of Connecticut has been offered the war office, to succeed Secretary Proctor, and that Sen. Hawley is at Cape May conferring with President Harrison about the matter.

The Rumor Undoubtedly False.

LONDON, Sept. 7.—No confirmation has been received here to-day from any source of the reported railway accident at Caumont de Chalindrey, France, in which it was alleged that 200 persons had been killed. The origin of the rumor is unknown, and it is undoubtedly false.

Killed His Father and Brother.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Sept. 4.—At 5 o'clock this afternoon Frank Seelie, who resides about seven miles from Cold Spring, shot and killed his father and brother while quarreling.

IT IS A HOT-BED OF VICE.

Scandalous Stories About the Milwaukee Hospital.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Sept. 9.—A deplorable state of affairs in the county hospital here was revealed at the meeting of the Ministers' association to-day. This institution, it appears, has been a place whence keepers of disreputable resorts have secured hundreds of recruits for a life of shame. These keepers have had access to the hospital and have made the best of their opportunities for a period of several years.

David G. Hawley of Wauwatosa, who is interested in mission work at the county institutions, made the discovery and applied to the ministers for aid in establishing a home for unfortunate girls where they will be safe. He has already induced a benevolent Wauwatosa lady to open her home and take in as many as she can accommodate.

"Many respectable, well-intentioned girls, especially among the domestics, fall," said Mr. Hawley, "not because of depravity, but from loving not wisely. Almost invariably the authors of the mischief desert them, their friends refuse to have anything to do with them and they are obliged to go to the hospital. When they leave the institution, in many instances, their own people disown them, they can't get a position, and they have no place to go. It is an easy matter to drift into a life of shame. I have found there girls who belonged to churches of all denominations, girls who are good at heart and have simply been sinned against. With a little effort they could be saved."

He reported a number of instances where unfortunate girls had fallen into the clutches of these women at the hospital. A committee consisting of the Rev. Mr. Pease, the Rev. Mr. Stinson and the Rev. Mr. Holden was appointed to investigate the matter and take action on it.

Prisoners Break Jail.

PORTLAND, Ind., Sept. 9.—John Rhodes and Joseph Brown, under arrest for burglary, made their escape from the county jail at an early hour this morning. The heavy double iron bars in one of the windows were completely sawed off. Rhodes' wife is supposed to have furnished the saw during a visit to the jail. Rhodes has served four terms in prison—three in Michigan (city and one at Columbus, Sheriff Tillman and posse are in pursuit of the escaped prisoners.

The Egyptian Cotton Crop.

CAIRO, Sept. 4.—This season's Egyptian cotton crop is the largest on record and will amount to 3,700,000 cantars.

THE MARKETS.

Chicago.

Chicago, Sept. 8.—Board of trade markets were heavy all day, and lower prices were the rule. Wheat yielded on very heavy receipts and lower cables. December sold 90 1/4 and 18 1/4 cents, and closed 88 3/4 or just 2 cents under the close Saturday. Corn was supported by the bull clique and closed bid 1 1/2 cent lower for October at 38 1/4 cents, after selling 39 5/8 and 58 cents. Rye was 1 to 2 cents lower. Pork broke 75 cents from the top price early, and closed 65 1/2 cents under the Saturday price. October sold 21 1/2 to 21 5/8, closing 21 5/8. Lard and ribs 15 to 25 cents lower. Grain charters were again very large.

CHAPTER IV.—CONTINUED.

Israel Kafka still knelt beside her, motionless and hardly breathing. "I have been mistaken," Unorna continued at last. "Forgive—forget—"

Israel Kafka rose to his feet and drew back a step from her side.

"How easy it is for you!" exclaimed the Moravian. "How easy! How simple! You call me, and I come. You let your eyes rest on me, and I kneel before you. You sigh, and I speak words of love. You lift your hand, and I crouch at your feet. You frown—and I humbly leave you. How easy!"

"You are wrong and you speak foolishly. You are angry and you do not weigh your words."

"Angry! What have I to do with so common a madness as anger? I am more than angry. Do you think that, because I have submitted to the veering gusts of your good and evil whims, I have lost all consciousness of myself? Have you promised me nothing? Have you given me no hope? Have you said and done nothing whereby you are bound?"

"I never gave you either pledge or promise," answered Unorna in a harder tone. "The only hope I have ever extended to you was this, that I would one day answer you plainly. I have done so. You are not satisfied. Is there anything more to be said? I do not bid you to leave my house forever, any more than I mean to drive you from my friendship."

"From your friendship. Ah, I thank you, Unorna. I most humbly thank you. For the mercy you extend in allowing me to linger near you, I am grateful. Your friend, you say? Ay, truly, your friend and servant, your servant and your slave, your slave and your dog. Your friendship—I have no words for thanks."

"Take it, or take it not—as you will," Unorna glanced at his angry face and quickly looked away.

"Take it? Yes, and more too, whether you will give it or not," answered Israel Kafka, moving nearer to her. "Yes. Whether you will, or whether you will not—I will have all, your friendship, your love, your life, your breath, your soul—all or nothing."

"You are wise to suggest the latter alternative as a possibility," said Unorna, coldly, and not heeding his approach.

The young man stood still and folded his arms.

"Do you mean what you say?" he asked, slowly. "Do you mean that I shall have not all, but nothing? Do you still dare to mean that, after all that has passed between you and me?"

Unorna raised her eyes and looked steadily into his.

"Israel Kafka, do not speak to me of daring."

But the young man's glance did not waver. The angry expression of his features did not relax.

"Where is your power now?" he asked suddenly. "Where is your witchery? You are only a woman, after all—you are only a weak woman."

Very slowly he drew nearer to her side, his little figure bending a little as he looked down upon her. Unorna leaned far back, withdrawing her face from his as far as she could, but still trying to impose her will upon him.

"You cannot," he said, between his teeth, answering her thought.

Men who have tamed wild beasts alone know what such a moment is like. A hundred times the brave man has held the tiger spellbound, and crouching under his cold, fearless gaze.

To draw back, to let his glance waver, to show so much as the least sign of fear, is death. The moment is supreme, and he knows it.

Unorna grasped the arms of her chair, as though seeking her physical support in her extremity. Between her and her mistake the image of what should be stood out, bright, vivid and strong. A new conviction had taken the place of the old, a real passion was flaming upon the altar whereon she had, fed with dreams the semelance of a sacred fire.

"You do not really love me," she said softly.

Israel Kafka started, as a man who is struck unawares. The monstrous untruth, which filled the words broke down his guard, sudden veils the penetrating sharpness of his gaze and his hand trembled.

"I do not love you? If Unorna—Unorna!"

The first word broke from him in a cry of horror and stupefaction. But her name, when he spoke it, sounded as the death moan of a young wild animal, wounded beyond all power to turn at bay.

She knew that the struggle was over and that she had gained the mastery, though the price of victory might be a broken heart.

"You thought I was jesting," she said in a low voice. "But there was no jest in what I said—nor any unkindness in what I meant, though it is all my fault. But that is true—you never loved me as I would be loved."

"You never loved me."

"I never loved you."

Again Unorna laughed, and he joined in her laughter, unintelligently, as he had done before. Israel Kafka sat motionless in his chair, staring at her with uninking eyes. Yet the man was alive and in the full strength of his magnificent youth, supple, active, fierce by nature, able to have killed her with his hands in the struggle of a moment. Yet she knew that without a word from her he could neither turn his head nor move in his seat.

"I must ask him," she said, unconsciously.

"You must ask him," repeated Israel Kafka from his seat.

For the third time Unorna laughed aloud, as she heard the echo of her own words.

"Whom shall I ask?" she inquired contemptuously, as she rose to her feet.

The dull, glassy eyes sought hers in painful perplexity, following her face as she moved.

"I do not know," answered the powerless man.

Unorna came close to him and laid her hand upon his head.

"Sleep, until I wake you," she said.

The eyelids drooped and closed at her command, and instantly the man's breathing became heavy and regular. Unorna's full lips curled as she looked down at him.

"And you would be my master!" she exclaimed.

Then she turned and disappeared among the plants, leaving him alone.

[TO BE CONTINUED.]

Germans in the Russian Army.

The amount of German blood in the veins of Russian army officers is surprisingly great. Six of the eighteen chiefs of corps are of German ancestry. Of the corresponding general staff chiefs seven have such thoroughly German names, as Meier, Rauch, Seafhausen, and Rohrbach. Of the forty-eight commanders of guard, grenadier, and army infantry divisions, eleven are Germans, and among the corresponding general staff chiefs are Klaus, Monk, Buchholz, Burger, etc. Thirty-four of the ninety-six brigade commanders and twenty-nine of the commanders of the regiments, 1-100, are Fischers, Schmidts, and the like. The Guard Brigade is under Grippenberg, the Caucasian under Treiter, the trans-Caspian under Von Albach, the East Siberian under Degen. In all the rifle brigades together the proportion of German to Russian commanders is six to five. Of the nine Finnish rifle battalions only three have Russian leaders and the chief of all the troops in Finland is named Willebrand.

Killing of Maj. York.

P. S. Gordon, Company D, 54th Illinois, in National Tribune, says that George Mock, in a recent account of the killing of Maj. York by a man named O'Hara, is mistaken as to the regiment to which the Major belonged. York was a surgeon of the 54th Illinois, and was assassinated by O'Hara, sheriff of the county, in the manner described, by Comrade Mock, and seven other members of the 54th were also killed or wounded before assistance could be obtained. Comrade Mitchell, of the 54th, was present and was fired upon by a Copperhead, the ball striking a gold watch in his pocket, which saved his life. Another Copperhead attempted to shoot him from behind, when a lad of 16 years struck the man with a brick, and again his life was saved. After the fracas seven Union soldiers were found to be either killed or wounded and eleven of the Copperheads either killed or wounded. O'Hara fled to Canada, but returned and was hanged near Charleston, the writer thinks.

Von Moltke Had to Run.

At the laying of the foundation stone of the church in memory of Emperor William I. the spectators had the last opportunity of admiring the continued vigor of the veteran Field Marshal Count von Moltke. An icy wind swept over the scene, and every body felt it severely. But if Count von Moltke felt the cold, his demeanor during the ceremony betrayed nothing of it. He stood like a statue, his hands in the pockets of his overcoat, next to his comrade, Count von Blumenthal, listening intently to the clergyman's words. He did not leave the pavilion with the entourage of the Emperor, but stepped out into the street by the side door. To cross the road he took advantage of a space between the infantry and cavalry who were marching by, but was overtaken by the cuirassiers and had to run in order to reach the opposite side of the street.—London News.

Ruinous "Glebe."

Après of the future increase of the French army and of the demand on the budget committee of the chamber of deputies for further appropriations, Senator Barthélemy St. Hilaire, ex-minister of foreign affairs, said recently:

"It becomes more and more evident that France is on the high road to bankruptcy. We often hear it said that France is one of the richest countries in Europe. This is quite true. So, too, we would call a man rich who had an income of 1,000,000 francs a year. But suppose he spent each year 1,500,000 francs? And suppose he kept on doing so year after year? What would his wealth amount to under such circumstances? And yet this is just what France is doing and has been doing for a very long time.

"The upshot of the whole thing must be that we shall have to repudiate our debt as we did in the first revolution and start afresh."

TOLD AT THE EXPOSITION

DR. TALMAGE TALKS TO THE AGRICULTURISTS.

An Immense Multitude Thrilled by His Words in a Sermon from the Text of Genesis, 29: 8: "Sell the Stone from the Well's Mouth."

ELMIRA, N. Y., Sept. 6, 1891.—Dr. Talmage preached here to-day to the immense multitude who have come to attend the New York and Pennsylvania Exposition, which is being held here Sept. 1, to Sept. 9. It is a combined exposition of cattle, sheep, horses and valuable stock of all kinds from the two States. The sermon was preached on the fair grounds to a great audience of farmers, horsemen, drovers, and stock-raisers from near and far as well as citizens from the adjacent cities. Secretary Stanley of the Young Men's Christian Association of Elmira presided. Dr. Talmage's text was Genesis 29: 8: "And they said, we cannot, until all the flocks be gathered together, and till they roll the stone from the well's mouth; then we water the sheep."

There are some reasons why it is appropriate that I should accept the invitation to preach at this great Interstate Fair, and to these throngs of countrymen and citizens, horsemen just come from their chargers, the king of beasts for I take the crown from the lion, and put it on the brow of the horse which is in every way nobler, and speak to these shepherds just come from their flocks, the Lord himself in one place called a Shepherd, and in another called a Lamb, and all the good are sheep, and preach to you cattlemen come up from the herds, your occupation honored by the fact that God himself thinks it worthy of immortal record that he owns "the cattle on a thousand hills." It is appropriate that I come because I was a farmer's boy, and never saw a city until I was nearly grown, and having been born in the country I never got over it, and would not dwell in cities a day if my work was not appointed there. My love to you now, and when I get through I will give you my hand, for though I have this summer shaken hands with perhaps forty thousand people in twenty-one states of the Union all the way through to Colorado and North and South I will not conclude my summer vacation till I have shaken hands with you. You old farmer out there! How you make me think of my father! You elderly woman out there with cap and spectacles! How you make me think of my mother! And now while the air of these fair grounds is filled with the bleating of sheep, and the neighing of horses, and the lowing of cattle, I cannot find a more appropriate text than the one I read. It is a scene in Mesopotamia, beautifully pastoral. A well of water of great value in that region.

Oh, this is a thirsty world! Hot for the head, and blistering for the feet, and parching for the tongue. The world's great want is a cool, refreshing, satisfying draught.

Now a great flock of sheep to-day gather around this Gospel well. There are a great many thirsty souls. I wonder why the flocks of all nations do not gather—why so many stay thirsty; and while I am wondering about it, my text breaks forth in the explanation, saying: "We cannot, until all the flocks be gathered together, and till they roll the stone from the well's mouth; then we water the sheep."

If a herd of swine come to a well they angrily jostle each other for the precedence; if a drove of cattle come to a well, they hook each other back from the water, but when a flock of sheep come, though a hundred of them shall be disappointed, they only express it by sad bleating, they come together peacefully. We want a great multitude to come around the Gospel well. I know there are those who do not like a crowd—they think a crowd is vulgar. If they are oppressed for room in church it makes them positively impatient and belligerent. Not so did these Oriental shepherds. They waited until all the flocks were gathered, and the more flocks that came, the better they liked it. And so we ought to be anxious that all the people should come. Go out into the highways and the hedges, and compel them to come in. Go to the rich and tell them they are indigent without the Gospel of Jesus. Go to the poor and tell them the abundance of Christ. Go to the blind and tell them of the touch that gives eternal illumination. Go to the lame and tell them of the joy that will make the lame man leap like a hart. Gather all the sheep off of all the mountains. None so born of the dogs, none so sick, none so worried, none so dying, as to be omitted. When the Fall elections come the whole land is scoured for votes, and if a man is too weak or sick to walk to the polls, a carriage is sent for him; but when the question is whether Christ or the devil shall rule this world, how few there are to come out and seek the sick, and the lost, and the suffering, and the jettisoned, and induce their suffrages for the Lord Jesus. Why not gather a great flock? All America in a flock; all the world in a flock. This well of the Gospel is deep enough to put out the burning thirst of the fourteen hundred million of the race. Do not let the church by a spirit of exclusiveness keep the world out.

Let down all the bars, swing open all the gates, scatter all the invitations: "Whoever will, let him come. Come, white and black. Come, red men of the forest. Come, Laplanders, out of the snow. Come, Patagonians, out of the heat. Come in furs. Come panting under palm leaves. Come one. Come all. Come now. As at this well of Mesopotamia, Jacob and Rachel were betrothed, so now, at this well of salvation Christ our Shepherd will meet you coming up with your long flocks of cares and anxieties, and he will stretch out his hand in pledge of his affection, while all heaven will cry out: "Behold, the bridegroom cometh, go ye out to meet him."

Here is another man who is kept back from this water of life by the stone of an obdurate heart, which lies over the mouth of the well. You have no more feeling upon this subject than if God had yet to do you the first kindness, or you had to do God the first wrong. Seated on his lap all these years, his everlasting arms sheltering you, where is your gratitude? Where is your morning and evening prayer? Where are your consecrated lives? I say to you, as Daniel said to Belshazzar: "The God in whose hand thy breath is, and all thy way, thou hast not glorified." If you treated anybody as badly as you have treated God, you would have made five hundred apologies—yes, your whole life would have been an apology. Three times a day you have been seated at God's table. Spring, summer, autumn, and winter, he has appropriately apparelled you. Your health from him, your companion from him, your children from him, your home from him: All the bright surroundings of your life from him. O man, what dost thou with that hard heart? Canst thou not feel one throb of gratitude toward the God who made you, and the Christ who came to redeem you, and the Holy Ghost who has all these years been importuning you? If you could sit down five minutes under the tree of the Saviour's martyrdom, and feel his warm life trickling on your forehead and cheek and hands, methinks you would get some appreciation of what you owe to a crucified Jesus.

Jacob with a good deal of tug and push took the stone from the well's mouth, so that the flocks might be watered. And I would that to-day my word blessed of God, might remove the hindrances to your getting up to the Gospel well. Yea, I take it for granted that the work is done, and now like Oriental shepherds, I proceed to water the sheep.

Come, all ye thirsty! You have an undefined longing in your soul. You tried money-making; that did not satisfy you. You tried office under government; that did not satisfy you. You tried pictures and sculptures, but works of art did not satisfy you. You are as much discontented with this life as the celebrated French author who felt that he could not any longer endure the misfortunes of the world, and who said: "At four o'clock this afternoon, I shall put an end to my own existence. Meanwhile, I must toil on up to that time for the sustenance of my family." And he wrote on his book until the clock struck four, when he folded up his manuscript and, by his own hand, concluded his earthly life. There are men here who are perfectly discontented. Unhappy in the past, unhappy to-day, to be unhappy forever, unless you come to this Gospel well. This satisfies the soul with a high, deep, all-absorbing and eternal satisfaction. It comes and it offers the most unfortunate man so much of this world as is best for him, and throws all heaven into the bargain. The wealth of Croesus, and all of the Rothschilds is only a poor, miserable shilling compared with the eternal fortunes that Christ offers you to-day.

In the far East there was a king, who used once a year to get on a scales, while on the other side the scales were placed gold and silver and gems; indeed, enough were placed there to balance the king; then, at the close of the weighing, all those treasures were thrown among the populace. But Christ to-day steps on one side the scales, and on the other side are all the treasures of the universe, and he says: "All are yours—all height, all depth, all length, all breadth, all eternity; all are yours." We don't appreciate the promises of the gospel. When an aged clergyman was dying—a man very eminent in the church—a young theological student stood by his side, and the aged man looked up and said to him: "Can't you give me some comfort in my dying hour?" "No," said the young man: "I can't talk to you on this subject; you know all about it and have known it so long." "Well," said the dying man, "just recite to me some promises." The young man thought a moment, and he came to this promise: "The blood of Jesus Christ cleanseth from all sin;" and he old man clapped his hands, and in his dying moment said: "That's just the promise I have been waiting for. 'The blood of Jesus Christ cleanseth from all sin.'" Oh, the warmth, the grandeur, the magnificence of the promises!

But some one says, in the audience: "Notwithstanding all you have said this morning, I find no alleviation for my troubles." Well I am not through yet. I have left the most potent consideration for the last. I am going to soothe you with the thought of Heaven. However, talkative we may be, there will come a time when the stoutest and most emphatic interrogation will evoke from us no answer. As soon as we have closed our lips for the final silence, no power on earth can break that taciturnity. But where, O Christian, will be your spirit? In a scene of infinite gladness. The spring morning of heaven waving its blossoms in the bright air. Victors fresh from battle showing their scars. The rain of earthly sorrow struck through with the rainbow of eternal joy. In one group, God and angels and the redeemed—Paul and Silas, Latimer and Ridley, Isaiah and Jeremiah, Payson and John Milton, Gabriel and Michael, the archangel, Long line of choristers reaching across the hills. Seas of joy dashing to the white beach. Conquerors marching from gate to gate. You among them.

Oh, what a great flock of sheep God will gather around the celestial well. No stone on the well's mouth, while the shepherd waters the sheep. There Jacob will recognize Rachel the shepherdess. And standing on one side of the well of eternal rapture, your children; and standing on the other side of the well of eternal rapture, your Christian ancestry, you will be bounded on all sides by a joy so keen and grand that no other world has ever been permitted to experience it. Out of that one deep well of heaven, the Shepherd will dip up for the bereaved, wealth for the poor, health for the sick, rest for the weary. And then all the flocks of the Lord's sheep will lie down in the green pastures, and world without end we will praise the Lord that on this first autumnal Sabbath of 1891 we were permitted to study among the bleating flocks and lowing herds of this fair ground the story of Jacob and Rachel the shepherdess at the well in Mesopotamia. Oh plunge your buckets into this great Gospel well and let them come up dripping with that water of which if a man drink he never again shall thirst.

be expected, electricity plays an im-

SCARED BY A METEOR.

Numerous Texans startled by a noisy visitor from the firmament.

A large meteor passed over Victoria, Texas, recently, causing considerable consternation. It came from the northeast, and was seen or heard all along the line of the railway from Rosenberg to Goliad, a distance of about 120 miles. About the time it reached Victoria it exploded with a tremendous report, like heavy thunder or discharge of large cannon. As the sky was perfectly cloudless people imagined for a brief time that it was a boiler explosion, and then it was attributed to an earthquake. Inquiry of the railway telegraph operator elicited the information that it was a large meteor and had been seen at different places along the line. The brakeman on a freight train near Ira, a small station twelve miles distant, saw the meteor plainly and saw it burst. He says he saw one of the fragments, which appeared to be about as large as his head, strike the earth not more than 100 yards from the railway track. The concussion of the explosion was so great that it momentarily stopped the progress of the train, this fact being noted by all on the train. The conductor thought that the engineer had suddenly applied air-brakes, and ran to the door to see what was the matter. A party will go from Victoria in search of the portion of the meteor that was seen to strike the earth.

FAT FOLKS REDUCED

DAKOTA'S GREAT WELL

It is the Outlet of an Immense Subterranean Reservoir.

The Artesian well on the Valley Stock Farm continues to attract great crowds of people; and well it may, for it is really the wonder of the age, says the South Dakota Huronite. Following the tests made of the pressure Saturday and Sunday the cap was removed, and through a nozzle a two-and-one-half-inch stream of water was shot up into the air a distance of 125 to 140 feet. The direct course of the stream was greatly interfered with by the cross-beams and braces of the derrick. With a clear way and no wind a two-and-one-half-inch stream would be sent 160 feet into the air. So great is the pressure that pine boards six inches wide and one inch thick, used as stays or braces on the derrick fifty feet above the mouth of the well, were broken by the force of the water.

Next the two and a half inch nozzle was changed for a four-inch one. Immediately a stream four inches in diameter shot up nearly seventy feet, deluging everything in its descent. This was accompanied by a deep roaring sound, and frequent sharp reports resembling the discharge of a rifle were heard. This stream as well as the smaller one struck the walking-beam and broke much of its force.

The amount of water that flows from the well is tremendous, being estimated at from 8,000 to 10,000 gallons per minute. Even at the lowest figure enough pours out of the well to furnish every man, woman and child in the State of South Dakota with at least four gallons of water every twenty-four hours.

THE FARM AND HOME.

THE SCIENCE OF PROFITABLE POULTRY RAISING.

Our Enormous Poultry and Egg Production—Unprofitable Poultry—Dehorning Cattle—Farm Notes and Home Hints.

Poultry Facts.

Although this country is considered a great corn-growing one, it is nevertheless true that the combined poultry and egg products exceed the entire corn crop of the country by several millions of dollars. The poultry industry is scattered over the country in such a way as to escape the notice of many, but statistics show that the egg and poultry industry combined fluctuates between five and six hundred millions of dollars annually. Such enormous sums seem large for this business, but official publications show that they are nevertheless true. On most farms the poultry does not receive the care and attention that the other animals do, and thus the average products of the egg industry are kept down by this carelessness. A hen in her wild state will not lay one-half the number of eggs that one will that is properly cared for and fed. Besides this, the hen that is not given proper attention will deteriorate so that the flesh is not good for much for the table.

Poultry raising for profit has now become a science, says a writer in the American Cultivator, and the complaints that raising them does not pay are due to the fact that such people have not yet acquired the science. The industry can only be made profitable where it is studied the same as breeding animals. A great many farmers acknowledge that it does not pay to raise poultry, but just for the sake of fresh eggs and good chicken meat occasionally they will permit a few to run about the farm. To my thinking this is a mistake. It would not cost much more to keep first-class breeds and then see that they were kept from degenerating. A hen to be profitable must lay 200 eggs in a year, and if she does not come up to this mark she should be disposed of, and others put in her place. Every one of the flock should be brought up to this standard of egg laying, and then a flock of fifty hens would be worth something.

As it is many of the flocks have drones and dead weights, which do not come up to more than one-quarter of this standard. Out of a flock of three hundred only about fifty will be fit for breeding purposes. A great many will lay only every other day, and such birds are not fit for breeding purposes. They will produce young ones that lay only every other day, and a hen that does not lay every day should not be kept. She will not prove profitable. It is by the application of such rigid rules of weeding out unprofitable hens that the business can be made profitable. Love for certain hens and sentiment should not be allowed a voice in the matter, for it is a pure business transaction with the farmer.

As to Horns.

Horns on domestic cattle no longer serve any useful purpose, and to one who views beauty only in usefulness they are not even beautiful. Western farmers are now using what is known as the Fugate machine for dehorning mature animals. It is done so quickly and neatly that there is no longer any objection from cruelty in the process of getting rid of horns. The loss from maintaining useless horns is not confined to the injury they do to stock, though that is often serious. There is often great danger to and often loss of life of attendants from vicious animals, and especially from bulls. Stoez Pogis III. was probably the most valuable progenitor of Jersey blood, but becoming vicious he was fattened and sold for beef, before his value was fully known. Had he been dehorned this valuable strain of Jersey blood would not be nearly so scarce and dear as it is, and the improvement to American stock from a few more years of service from Stoez Pogis III. can scarcely be estimated. The dehorning process has now been practiced long enough to show that loss of horns does not injuriously affect animals either for fattening or dairy purposes, nor does it lessen the valuable characteristics transmitted to their progeny by dehorned bulls. It is likely indeed that as horns are bred off, cattle may be bred free from the vicious propensities that the constant use of horns must stamp upon character, and transmit to future descendants.—Rural World.

Thoughts About Sheep.

Some people seem to think that sheep can live anywhere. They will turn them into the road where the grass is covered with dust, forgetting that a sheep is as dainty about its food as its master. Others will keep them in a briar patch, where grass must struggle for existence, let them run here all summer, and in the fall they will come out thin and gaunt, and with their fleeces ruined. Others stock their fields too heavily. Sheep are like other animals—put too many on a field and they will crop it too close, ruining the pasture. They want frequent changes of pasture to do well. They like hill lands the best, and seem to do better on them. They should be salted twice a week. In winter, sheep should be well sheltered in bad, stormy weather, with plenty of good clover hay and pure water. Then they will thrive. If you allow them out in storms, with poor or insufficient food, they will grow thin and the wool becomes dead.

Ewes should not have much grain before lambing, but what they do have should be bran, oats and corn ground together. After a ewe drops her lamb put her in a place by herself. Have a shed for this purpose, where you can bunch them in lots of ten or fifteen. You can oversee them better, and detect anything that goes wrong, and when you go in among them they haven't room to run around, as in a large shed, tramping on their lambs, etc.—Practical Farmer.

Here's a Lesson.

J. M. Smith, the successful 45-acre market gardener, recently conceived the notion that in his garden there was a great waste of refuse growth, cornstalks, cabbage leaves, and the like, and that it could be made valuable if saved. So a silo was built, and into it went during the season all of this litter, usually lost. The result is that he now soils 12 Jersey cows the year round on this material in the form of silage, and he tells us that the average butter product of the dairy was something over 250 lbs. of butter each the last year. Of course there is a vast amount of refuse on such a truck farm, but besides selling thousands of dollars' worth of "garden sass," the acreage per cow is far below that usually devoted by dairymen to their cows on a special dairy farm. This raises the question, "If the refuse from 3½ acres will feed a cow well for 12 months, why does the average dairyman—the writer included—devote 5 acres of pasture and meadow to do the same thing? With the silo hundreds of dairy men afford as much roughage from ten acres of good corn as they obtain from 75 acres of as-it-runs pasture. Will dairymen pay as it may pay, until the basis of home raised grain, and a cow for each two acres at least, is attained?—Practical Farmer.

How to Build an Ice House.

Under this head an exchange advises a correspondent as follows: First, that the house floor should be above the level of the ground or, at least should be sufficiently above some neighboring area to give an outfall for a drain, put in such a way as to keep the floor clear of standing water.

2. The wall should be hollow. A four-inch lining wall, tied to the outer wall with hoop iron, and with a three-inch air space, would answer; but it would be better if the air space is thoroughly drained, to feed it with mineral wool, or some similar substance, to prevent the movement of the air entangled in the fibers, and thus check the transference by convection of heat from the outside to the lining wall.
3. A roof of thick plank will keep out heat far better than one of thin boards with an air space under it.
4. Shingles will be much better for roofing than slate.
5. It is best to ventilate the upper portion of the building. If no ventilation is provided the confined air under the roof becomes intensely heated in the summer, and outlets should be provided at the highest part, with inlets at convenient points, to keep the temperature of the air over the ice at least down to that of the exterior atmosphere.

Farm Notes.

Better have half the pasture and have it good.

Straw shelter for stock is far better than none, and can be economically built.

It is not the breed that thrives with little care, but the one that receives care that pays.

There is no economy in experimenting when you can gain the same knowledge from the experience of others.

One year's test should not always be taken as being conclusive with a new variety of corn. Save out some of the best and give a second crop.

When an animal has matured it gains very slowly and the gain is nearly entirely in fat only. A young, growing animal gains in meat, fat and bone.

For wet lands a good mixture for pasture grasses is red top eight pounds, Alsike six pounds, meadow fox-tail four pounds and rough-stalked meadow grass six pounds.

A cow at Petersburg, Va., while in search of her calf, entered a house and climbed a flight of sixteen stairs. Hearing a calf outside she descended with out trouble.

Home Hints.

Every housewife should insist upon having

Good fuel.

Sharp knives.

A step-ladder.

Kindling wood.

Plenty of tinware.

A good cook stove.

Hammer and nails.

Weights and measures.

Neighbors that do not gossip.

Flowers and time to cultivate them.

Fruits growing in variety and abundance.

A prolific vegetable garden convenient to the kitchen.

And then—why, then she ought to be happy.

Sauces spoil by standing. They should be prepared last and served hot.

At least one good newspaper treating upon subjects appropriate to her sex.

When suffering from overstrained and tired eyes, bathe them in hot water several times a day.

For roll jelly cake: One and one-half cups sugar, one cup milk, two cups flour, one teaspoon soda.

A teaspoonful of salt dissolved in one-half glassful of water is excellent to allay nausea in sick headaches.

In making omelets break the eggs separately and beat until the last moment before putting into the pan.

For sore mouth, cankered throat, etc., use borax and honey as a mouth wash; also drink sage tea or slippery elm tea.

Beef fat is preferred by some of the best cooks to all other frying mediums; it is sufficiently heated when the smoke arises from the centre. It should not boil.

In cooking dry vegetables put them into cold water and bring them slowly to the boiling point. Fresh and green vegetables are plunged into salted boiling water.

How a Girl Made Money.

I give my experience for the benefit of others. I sent $5 to H. K. Delno & Co. Columbus, Ohio, and received a fine machine for plating with gold, silver and nickel. The plating is done so nice every person wants work done. I got all the knives, forks and jewelry I can plate. I made $4 the first day; in one month I had $101 clear profit. My brother makes 45 to 48 per day selling platters. Any one can do as much by writing to the above firm for circulars.

LUCY WILSON.

Certain lectures are the nightly experience of a man in Winsted, Conn. He belongs to twenty-four secret societies, and his lodge meetings keep him out late nearly every night. Just before facing his spouse, he prepares himself for the expected lecture by deadening his sense of hearing with ear-plugs.

CONFIRMED.

The favorable impression produced on the first appearance of the agreeable liquid fruit remedy—Syrup of Figs a few years ago has been more than confirmed by the pleasant experience of all who have used it, and the success of the proprietors and manufacturers, the California Fig Syrup Company.

It is estimated that 100,000 Americans annually visit Europe, and there spend ten millions of dollars, an average of one thousand dollars each.

Sandstone which can be bent like a piece of hickory is found in the quarries of southwestern North Carolina. When cut in a thin piece, say the size and shape of a whetstone, you can bend it into a considerable arc without its breaking, and it will resume its former straightness on the pressure being removed.

In his rambles a lad in Winterport, Maine, found and brought home a bird's nest containing four young birds. The mother bird watched the removal with much interest and anxiety, and every day enters the house through the window, bringing food with which she feeds the young birds. When the window chances to be closed, the visitor taps on the glass until it is opened.

There's danger in a cough—more than ever when your blood is "bad." It makes things easy for Consumption. But there's a cure for it in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. A positive cure—not only for Weak Lungs, Spitting of Blood, Bronchitis, Asthma and all lingering Coughs, but for Consumption itself in all its earlier stages. It's responsible. All these diseases depend on tainted blood. Consumption is simply Lung-scurf. And for every form of scrofula and blood-taint, the "Discovery" is a certain remedy. It's so certain, that its makers guarantee it to benefit or cure, in every case, or the money is refunded. With a medicine that is certain, this can be done.

There's a cure for Catarrh, too, no matter what you've been led to believe. If there isn't, in your case, you'll get $500 cash. It's a bonafide offer that's made by the proprietors of Dr. Sago's Catarrh Remedy. There's risk in it, to be sure, but they are willing to take the risk—you ought to be glad to take the medicine.

They should call on this wonderful woman.

A delightful musicale was given by Mrs. Danielson and daughter at their home, 62 Evergreen avenue, on Friday evening last. Mr. Ole Oleson and Mr. Martin Lagranger delighted the friends with several selections accompanied by the banjo and guitar. Master Robbie Bergher surprised the company by his beautiful violin solos. A happy annual meeting of the stockholders of the Enterprise Building and Loan Association took place at the office of the Secretary, 1574 Milwaukee avenue. The reports of the officers of the Association showed that the success of the Association the past year was beyond all expectation, and we presume that same had a good deal to do with the almost unanimous re-election of Joseph T. Haas, J. B. Heaney and Hermann Krueger as Directors, whose term had expired. To call it a love feast would be putting it mildly, and if this meeting can be considered as a criterion it simply shows that there is more joy and pleasure apparently in "the dollar made" than can be produced by any other agency. It was shown that the Association had during the last year received $18,181.39 and disbursed $17,679.77, leaving a balance on hand of $501.62, making a profit to stockholders in the first series of $2.92, and proportionately for the subsequent series. The 13th series is now open for subscription, and any one interested would do well to call on the Secretary, S. S. Worth, for information at the office, 1574 Milwaukee avenue.

While of course it is impossible to restore at once to their former condition those streets which were necessarily torn up and impeded by the construction of the new sewer, yet it seems reasonable that with a little labor they could be made much more safe and passable.
