There was a show at the Opera House on Wednesday night. It was not largely attended.

Rev. Mr. Leavitt, of Norwood Park, preached in the Opera House last Sunday. Subject: "A Christian Soldier." The audience was large and appreciated the splendid address.

INTER STATE INDUSTRIAL EXPOSITION OF CHICAGO.

The Nineteenth Annual Exhibition of this organization will open September 16th and close October 24th. The great building has been completely and fully decorated, and all available space allotted to intending exhibitors, for what promises to be the most complete and magnificent exhibition in its long history. The Cook County Agricultural and Horticultural Society, with a prize list running into the thousands of dollars, have undertaken a floral display that has never been equaled in this country.

In the building will be also exhibited an exact reproduction in miniature of the buildings and grounds of the World's Columbian Exposition, with magnificent electric effects; covering as it does a space of 5,000 square feet, it is one of the wonders of modern mechanical art, and will be worth a journey to see.

The Lincoln Log Cabin Association will also be exhibitors.

All railroads transport passengers at excursion rates.

NOTICE.

Farmers and gardeners of Jefferson—are all cordially invited to send their best, largest and curiosity grown vegetables to the Grand Show which will be held at Pregar Park Club House and Picnic Grove on Saturday Sept. 27th, 1891.

The Show is divided into six departments: 1st Department, Agricultural; 2nd Department, Garden Produce; 3d Department, Vegetable Produce; 4th Department, Fruits; 5th Department, Flowers; 6th Department, Poultry.

The Fair Show will open Sunday at 10 o'clock a. m.

Exhibitors will please take notice to have their articles delivered the day or two days sooner with the name of the owner attached. N. B. to drive: Take Milwaukee avenue or Elston road to Crawford avenue and drive north. Don't fail to come.

A CARD.

Mr. and Mrs. Colman desire to thank the kind friends who showed their interest in our family in so pleasant a manner on the recent wedding occasion. To those who decorated the church so beautifully, and those who assisted by the loan of their plants for this purpose; to Mrs. Geo. B. Carpenter who presided so gracefully at the organ, to the ladies who assisted in providing refreshments for our guests; to Capt. S. C. Stanton for general supervision, and to Mr. C. B. Moore for the excellent program which he caused to be maintained throughout the evening, our thanks are most heartily given.

For the rocking chair presented to us on our 25th wedding anniversary, and for the numerous, useful and costly gifts brought to the newly married couple by more than forty of our former parishioners, we would take this opportunity to express our gratitude in this general manner.

Special acknowledgments will be sent by the bride and groom as soon as practicable.

REV. GEO. W. COLMAN.
MRS. LOUISE M. COLMAN.
Park Ridge, Sept. 17, 1891.

The piece of which mention was made last week, was found by Mrs. Colman among the flowers near the house on Monday last and returned to its owner in the city.

We learn that Charley Dickinson who entered Amherst Agricultural College this fall is the only one of thirty-five students who passed the examination for entrance without being conditioned. This is quite creditable to his faithfulness in study this summer with Mr. Colman.

To the Editor.—In answer to your inquiry in regard to the present standing of our public school, I will say that teachers and pupils have alike begun school with energy and zeal. The rooms are well filled, the total enrollment being 200. In the 7th and 8th grades, 19; in the 5th and 6th, 44; in the 4th, 12; in the 3rd, 44; 1st grade, 62. We have 34 new scholars. Mr. Frank H. Smith and Miss Mary Copenhagen were united in marriage last Monday evening, Sept. 21, at the residence of Mr. Roberts the Rev. H. Gill officiating.

The barber on the south side is somewhat of an excitable individual and in one of his excitable moments he struck or kicked a little girl, the daughter of Conrad Mueller, or at least that is the charge brought against him by Mr. Mueller. The case was brought before Justice Moldenhann and continued until October 2nd.

Dana Jefferson went fishing last Wednesday night and among other hauls pulled in a pickerel from the Des Plaines river weighing 10½ pounds. This is not fabulous like many other fish yarns and is claimed to be the largest fish ever caught in this river.

To the Editor.

We have found numerous circulars scattered about town announcing a dance to be held at Wick's hall next Saturday evening, under the auspices of the Des Plaines Base Ball Club. Mr. Wick has no authority to use our name and we consider it simply a mean trick to secure the patronage that would fall to us. We want it distinctly understood that we have no connection with it whatever.

DES PLAINES BASE BALL CLUB.

It is not all pleasure to be taken for a tramp and a thief and chased all over town as a citizen was on Friday evening of last week. Conrad Mueller went out somewhat late in the evening to feed his horse and found a man in his barn. He went to the house to get his gun but when he returned the man had disappeared. Mr. Mueller then went down town, raised a posse of men and started out on a hunt. It so happened that Harry Rabson had started after the doctor about that time to get help for a member of his family that was sick, and the crowd supposing him to be the chap they were after, gave him a lively chase through the streets; and Harry who was thoroughly frightened at this demonstration towards him, dodged into Dr. Dorn-busch's cellar to escape his pursuers. It finally dawned upon the party in pursuit that they were on the wrong track, and had been making it decidedly hot and uncomfortable for an innocent neighbor, who was after medicine for his family. A similar affair occurred some years ago, when a man was sat upon by an excited crowd and would have been killed had not one or two cool headed citizens interfered and stopped the fracas.

The wife of James Minnick tried to commit suicide on Sunday evening last by taking a dose of laudanum. Medical aid was procured in time to save the woman's life. The couple have not lived happily together for some time past; in fact he refused to live with her at all, which was the cause of her attempt to take her own life.

Rev. R. C. Harker preached his farewell sermon at the Methodist church last Sunday evening. Mr. Harker intends to devote all his time to study during the coming year, hence will not be appointed to serve as pastor of any church next year. Mr. Harker is a promising young man, and was well liked by all the members of his congregation. His successor is not yet decided upon.

Greenebaum Sons, bankers; investment securities, bonds, etc., for sale. 116-118 LaSalle street, Chicago.

So much has been said and written about the shooting affair last Saturday afternoon that the subject has been exhausted and there is but little use in trying to give any additional facts in the case. Mr. Minnick's wounds are not so serious as they were at first supposed to be, and the probabilities are that he will soon recover. Mr. Cain was not injured to any extent, but it may be considered very fortunate that both men were not killed on the spot. Mr. Thompson is still in jail in Chicago, not being able to find anyone to go on his bail bond. It may be that this affair will help to unravel the mystery that there seems to be behind it. It is well understood that Mr. Thompson has a bitter enmity against Constable Barchard, whom he claims has been shadowing him as a suspect ever since the Brazell murder.

There was another big wreck of freight cars near Mount Prospect last Tuesday morning, which prevented passengers from Arlington Heights and other places beyond from getting to the city only that they were taken in by special cars sent out for the purpose. Mount Prospect has an evil star hanging over it somewhere, for it certainly discounts any place along the line for railroad accidents.

FIRST CLASS HAND LAUNDRY, CHICAGO ILL. Orders left at the Beehive pharmacy Mondays and Wednesdays will receive prompt attention, and the goods will be returned on Saturday, p. m.

There is a new hardware store going up at Orncart Place, and the school teacher, Mr. Wuest is also putting up a house for a residence.

WORK OF A MAD ANARCHIST.

He Tried to Blow Up His House and Commit Wholesale Murder.

LOGANSPORT, Ind., Sept. 23.—Lewis York, an insane anarchist of this city, attempted to commit wholesale murder yesterday. Several young women were visiting at York's and in the afternoon two gentlemen called upon them. York admitted them, bidding them a sullen welcome.

He then went into his cellar and ignited a fuse attached to a jug containing dynamite. A terrible explosion followed, which broke the window glass, tore off the weather boarding and demolished the flooring. The greater portion of the force of the explosion spent itself outward instead of ascending, and as there were large crevices in the foundation the lives of the occupants of the house were saved.

On a later day York wrote and circulated blood-curdling anarchist circulars, and for this the trades assembly condemned him Saturday night. It is thought this action wrought York into a frenzy and caused his mad act.

York's house is the rendezvous where local anarchists hold their meetings and are addressed by foreign orators. A search for bombs will be made and York will probably be placed behind bars or in an asylum. He has for many years loudly proclaimed his doctrines here, but as he is undoubtedly insane he was never interfered with. Ever since the execution of the Chicago anarchists York has publicly asserted that wholesale revenge would be had.

LIFE LOST ITS CHARMS.

A Rejected Lover Felt a Bullet in His Brain.

MARSHALLTOWN, Iowa, Sept. 18.—A sensational suicide occurred here last night in front of the Methodist church. Seth Benedict shooting himself through the head with a revolver. Miss Amelia Redell, with whom Benedict had kept company for a long time, discarded him about a month ago on account of his dissolute habits. This drove him to desperation. He repeatedly sought to re-establish himself in her affections, but to no purpose. He recently made threats against her life and she feared and avoided him. Last night, as she was walking home with a son of Sheriff Hixon, Benedict intercepted her and entreated her to walk with him alone. This she refused to do, whereupon he placed a revolver to his left temple and fired, the bullet passing out on the other side. Benedict was a member of the police force.

Fire in a Newspaper Office.

YONKERS, N. Y., Sept. 19.—The soldiers and sailors monument was unveiled here this afternoon. A large number of Grand Army posts took part in the ceremonies. The oration of the day was delivered by the Hon. Orlando B. Potter. The city is decorated with flags and bunting and a man-of-war sent by the Navy department fired salute when the monument was unveiled. Yachting and boating clubs had a parade on the river front this evening.

WILD RUSH FOR HOMES.

BEDLAM REIGNS ALL ALONG THE OKLAHOMA BORDER.

Thousands of People Preparing to Enter the New Counties When the Clock Strikes 12 Tuesday.

GUTHRIE, O. T., Sept. 22.—The date set for the opening of the new lands is only one day in the future. The Santa Fe's four regular passenger trains—two from the north and two from the south—all came in to-day in four or five sections of ten and twelve cars each, each section carrying hundreds of home-seekers. The latter were hustling around buying outfits and bargaining for conveyance to the border of the new lands. Others were preparing to start and still others were just going away.

There was bedlam in the streets and confusion everywhere. Those who waited until to-day before taking their positions for Tuesday's race have a decided advantage over those who rushed pell-mell for the border when the President's proclamation was first promulgated. They have gained some official publications which were first published here to-day and which give much important information.

The list of those sections of lands reserved for school purposes and those allotted to the Indians, all of which are exempt from pre-emption was published to-day. This will be an important guide to all home-seekers, and assure them against failure to find a home, which might easily result if they should choose exempted lands.

The publication of another important piece of official information was also made to-day. It was contained in the following telegram from Land Commissioner Carter:

In answer to your dispatch I have to say that settlers can enter the lands from the Kickapoo reservation.

The Kickapoo reservation is not included in the lands to be opened to settlement Tuesday, and lies in the very heart of those that are to be opened. North of it is the Iowa reservation. South of it is the Pottawatomie and east of it the Sac and Fox. This permission will be of immense advantage to the home-seekers, for it gives them many more miles of available border where they may mass for the race.

When the contents of the telegram became known hundreds of boomers hurried into the Kickapoo reservation and have taken up positions to wait for Tuesday noon.

Much satisfaction is expressed over Secretary Noble's order to the registers and receivers of the land offices to prevent, so far as may be in their power, fraud in connection with the filing of the declaratory statements of old soldiers. The traffic in these declaratory statements has been suspended, the home-seekers regarding them as an extra-hazardous investment. Nevertheless the line of old soldiers and old soldiers' attorneys which formed Friday at the door of the land office here has lengthened itself out fifty yards since yesterday and every hour adds to its length.

ROASTED BY MR. POLK.

Authors of the Lies About the Alliance Leader Houdly Scored.

DES MOINES, Iowa, Sept. 19.—The Farmers' Alliance picnic held here to-day President Polk of the national organization made the principal address. He opened with the remarks on organization and said that the trouble about the issues and all this political scheming is brought about by men who know that if the boys of the blue and the gray get together it will be the death of political tricksters who are upholding the distinctions of the North and South, making dissensions over issues that are passed.

Speaking of the Kansas so-called "tar-and-feather" scrape, he said that when he denied the charge of inhuman treatment as stated in the papers he did not know that his life was in danger. Mr. Polk said that what he said was that the statement was a malicious, premeditated, and baseless lie, and he dared any man in his audience to stand up and father it; and to-day he had this to say—that the man who was so brutal and cowardly as to do these things would not dare to come up north of Mason and Dixon's line.

The speaker said this thing was of a nature that could not be concealed and he would give $1,000 for any truthful evidence that he ever treated a union or confederate soldier cruelly or was ever connected with a rebel prison. The remainder of his speech was devoted to financial topics. Gen. Weaver also spoke.

MADE KEYS FOR CONVICTS.

Now Two Michigan Prisoners Succeeded in Making Their Escape.

MARQUETTE, Mich., Sept. 19.—Warden Malmborg of the branch State prison has ascertained where Waters and Taylor, the two convicts who recently unlocked the rotunda door and walked out, obtained their key. It was made by the prison blacksmith, a convict named Smith, who is serving six years for burglary. Smith has been suspected and watched. He was suddenly seized and searched and a hollow key-stem with springs to hold a set of wards in each end, was found on him. He afterwards confessed and gave up the removable wards. When the three pieces were put together Smith had a key that would unlock either door of the rotunda, that leading into the yard or into the administering building.

The separable key is an ingenious piece of workmanship and would do credit to the most accomplished locksmith. Warden Malmborg is now at work to discover who furnished Smith the drawings of the prison key.

BALMACEA COMMITS SUICIDE.

The Ex-Tyrant of Chile, Despairing of Making His Escape, Suicided.

VALPARAISO, Chile, Sept. 22.—Ex-President Balmaceda of Chile shot himself through the temple in his room at the Argentine legation at Santiago at 8:30 o'clock. When the story became known here it created the greatest excitement. Every part of the city was brilliantly illuminated and on every hand were heard the sounds of rejoicing.

Balmaceda left Santiago Aug. 29 last in the hope of making his escape from Chile, but seeing that every avenue of retreat was cut off he returned there Sept. 2 and went direct to the Argentine legation. His intention had been to go on board the vessel Condell, which he expected to find lying in San Antonio bay. Upon arriving there, however, he discovered to his chagrin that the torpedo had sailed.

Since his return to the Argentine legation in Santiago Balmaceda had been in an extremely nervous condition. No one with the exception of the minister of the Argentine Republic and one other man, who was devoted to the unfortunate ex-president's cause, was permitted to talk to or even see him. All the different schemes of flight were considered by the hunted ex-president.

Balmaceda and Senor Urriburua went to bed at midnight. Senora Urriburua about 8 o'clock a. m. heard a pistol shot in the bedroom that had been assigned to Balmaceda. She notified her husband. Before he went to Balmaceda's room he ran around to the house of Carlos Walker Martinez and brought that gentleman back to the legation.

Upon breaking in the door of Balmaceda's room he found that he had shot himself. The body was still warm. There was a gaping wound in the temple. The body was undressed and lay on the bed. The revolver was still held in his right hand.

Gradually the news spread all over Santiago. The excitement it created is indescribable. Great crowds of terribly excited people gathered all around the Argentine legation. They cheered and hooted and went into a frenzy over the death of their chief enemy. Above all the discordant shouts were heard cries congratulating the unfortunate Balmaceda that in taking his own life he had escaped a worse fate.

There was at one time a very general impression that he had escaped on one of the foreign warships. Just before the San Francisco sailed last Monday a correspondent was informed by a gentleman in whom he had confidence and who had on other occasions given him important information, that Balmaceda had been smuggled on board the warship and would soon be safely at sea. It was too late to go on board the San Francisco and make personal inquiries. The vessel was just getting ready to weigh anchor.

But the story told of Balmaceda's alleged disguise as a drunken sailor in uniform said to have been furnished by Admiral Brown was so circumstantial and seemed so plausible that it was fully believed.

Unfortunately for the now dead ex-president, he did not escape on board the San Francisco, but despairing of his ability to get away and fearing the vengeance of his enemies, took his own life.

MARRIED TO KEEP OUT OF JAIL.

Gertrude Potter Once Again Takes a Leap into Matrimony.

CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—Pretty Miss Gertrude Potter, the 19-year-old daughter of Millionaire O. V. Potter of the Illinois Steel Works, is working hard to keep out of the penitentiary. The gay young woman has been married three times within eighteen months and it is a prospect of being arrested, tried and imprisoned for bigamy that is worrying the young woman and her millionaire father.

A week ago it was announced that Miss Gertrude had been married June 6, to Mr. Lee Rust, son of a wealthy Eau Claire, Wis., lumberman. Three days after the announcement of the marriage the young people were divorced by Judge Horton, who attempted to keep it away from the newspapers.

Gertrude, the young woman, was married to Judge Clarke Daniels of New York. It now appears that in January 1880 Miss Potter was secretly married to Daniels, both using the first parts of their names. Miss Potter figuring as Miss Gertrude Whiting and Daniels as Julius Clarke. So that when the giddy Gertrude last June became Mrs. Rust, she was already a wife. Daniels, who had gone to New York a year ago, heard of his young wife's marriage and promptly telegraphed that he was about to send her to the penitentiary for bigamy. This threw the young woman into a cold sweat and had the same effect on her millionaire papa. Rust and Miss Gertrude had spent the summer in Europe. Daniels had known nothing of their marriage till last week. The feat of the penitentiary brought things to a crisis. Judge Horton was induced to sit in Star chamber proceeding and annul the Rust-Potter marriage. Then the much-married Miss Gertrude was wedded again to Daniels.

It is rumored that proceedings will be begun to test the validity of Judge Horton's decree. If that is invalid there is no bar to proceedings for bigamy.

MURDERED A CRAZY MAN.

An Indiana Lunatic Shot Through the Head.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, Ind., Sept. 19.—Last night a man suffering from mental aberration and giving his name as J. J. Reinhan, of Danville, Ill., arrived in the village of New Ross, six miles east of Crawfordsville. After wandering aimlessly about the streets for awhile he got into the buggy of William Evans, which was hitched to a post and drove rapidly away. He was followed by Evans and Coroner Bronaugh, who in a couple of hours met him returning. Evans drew his revolver and shot Reinhan through the head, inflicting a fatal wound. Evans has not been arrested. The coroner is staying with the dying man waiting for the breath to leave his body so that he can hold an inquest.

The lady was of extreme nervous temperament and of late her friends say that in a fit of temporary insanity, caused by real or imaginary grief, she has taken her life.

LYNCHED BY THE MOB.

WISCONSIN MURDERER TAKEN FROM JAIL.

Anton Seiboldt, at Darlington, Strung Up to a Tree by the Neighbors of the Man He Murdered.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Sept. 22.—Judge Lynch presided at Darlington at noon, and by his decree Anton O. Seiboldt was hanged by the neck from the limb of a tree until dead. A mob of 300 men, most of them farmers from the country surrounding the village, did the bloody work.

The plans for the lynching were concluded yesterday. Half a dozen men rode from farm to farm during the day and notified their neighbors to be present at the jail in Darlington at noon. Some of the men understood what was to be done, while others were not informed. The men began arriving in Darlington early in the morning by twos and threes. They brought no women with them. As the noon hour drew near a crowd of 200 men surrounded the little village jail. Promptly at noon several ring-leaders formally demanded the keys of the jail. The sheriff laughed and treated the demand as a joke.

"We are in earnest and mean business," announced one of the leaders. "If you don't give us the keys we will beat your jail doors to pieces, and if a man in our party is killed you will be held to account by us."

This was greeted with cheers by the crowd and the sheriff promptly barred the doors of the jail and assisted by his deputies made preparations for a defense of the place. The next instant men armed with axes, sledges and mauls rushed forward. They attacked the heavy oak doors, which were crushed in as if they had been cigar boxes. In less than a minute the mob was in the jail. The men with axes and sledges beat down door after door until the sheriff and a deputy were cornered in front of the cell of the doomed man. Both were overpowered and disarmed. The iron bars of the cell were torn aside and the shrieking murderer dragged through the ragged opening into the corridor. A rope noose was thrown about his neck and pulled tight with a jerk. Half strangled the murderer was dragged out into the sunlight in the court-house square. The rope was thrown over the limb of a tree, there was a final shout of the mob and Seiboldt dangled in mid-air. His arms had been pinioned, but his body writhed and quivered for nearly seven minutes.

Not a sound was heard from the mob. Men began slipping away before the body had been in the air a minute, and before life was extinct nearly every man in the mob had left the scene and teams were leaving the village in every direction.

In the place of the lynchers came hundreds of villagers, many women and children among them, and viewed the body. The sheriff cut the body down and carried it into the jail. Sympathy is with the lynchers, but the officers say they will bring them to justice. The village is in an uproar and men who were among the lynchers are already taking steps to prove an alibi when the time comes.

The murder for which Seiboldt paid such a fearful penalty was a most atrocious one. Last Wednesday he and James Meighan, a farmer living in the town of Willow Springs, six miles from Darlington, were riding home together on a load of lumber. A quarrel arose and Seiboldt knocked Meighan off the wagon, pounding his head to jelly. He then procured a wagon wrench and continued pounding his victim's head until the features were unrecognizable. He then unhitched the horses and riding on and leading the other rode off. He was overtaken at Furnace Springs and brought back by a sheriff. There was great excitement at the time and Seiboldt narrowly escaped then the fate which at last overtook him.

MARRIED MISS STUDEBAKER.

Mr. Charles A. Carlisle of Toledo Wins the South Bend Belle.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Sept. 19.—The most brilliant wedding in the history of South Bend took place last evening at 7 o'clock at the home of the millionaire carriage and wagon manufacturer, Clement Studebaker. The bride was Miss Anne, only daughter of the Hon. and Mrs. Clement Studebaker; the groom was Charles Arthur Carlisle, purchasing agent for the Burke system of railroads, with his residence at Toledo.

Bishop Randolph Foster of Boston performed the ceremony, using the regular Methodist Episcopal service, with the ring. He was assisted by the Rev. John H. Wilson, pastor of Milbourn Memorial chapel, South Bend.

ODD FELLOWS CONVENT.

The Order in National Conclave at St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., September 23.—The first day of the twenty-second conclave of the Sovereign Grand Lodge Independent Order of Odd Fellows opened with a heavy mist enveloping the city. The hot weather of the past week gave place to a somewhat cooler atmosphere to the great delight of the thousands of Odd Fellows who participated in the parade this afternoon. As the hours went by a pleasant breeze sprang up and scattered the mist, revealing a heavy bank of clouds which obscured the rays of the sun, and relieved in a great measure the oppressive heat which has prevailed for several days past, and which would have made the long march both laborious and very unpleasant. The reception committees were at the Union depot early this morning and the large delegations arriving were promptly received and escorted to their assigned quarters in the most expeditious manner. Many of the railroads ran special trains bringing in cantons and lodges from towns within 100 to 200 miles of St. Louis. A delegation from Springfield, Ill., outnumbered all others, the railroads having made a one-dollar fare for the round trip. It is estimated that over 50,000 Odd Fellows and their families are in the city besides many other thousands who have come simply as spectators of the pageant. The streets presented a lively and animated spectacle. Everywhere and in all directions could be seen the golden-braided uniforms and the swaying of purple plumes of the cantons and the regalias of the lodges.

From Clark avenue to Washington avenue, and from Fourteenth street to Fourth street, the sidewalks were packed with the members of the order. Many were renewing old acquaintances, and others were making new ones, while still others were simply sight-seeing and being escorted by the various reception committees to prominent points of interest about the business part of the city.

By 1 o'clock those who were to take part in the parade proceeded to their assigned places, from which they were to drop into line. These points were the streets crossing Lucas place and east of Jefferson avenue. There was but little delay in the formation of the line, and shortly after 2 o'clock the column began to move.

HARVEST FESTIVAL PARADE.

Great Preparations Being Made at Minneapolis for the Event.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Sept. 22.—At 1 o'clock in the afternoon of Wednesday, Sept. 23, the first harvest festival parade in the history of the city of Minneapolis or of the Northwest will move. Preparations have been made night and day for a week and fully 1,000 floats will be in line. Floats will be sent by many Dakota and Minnesota counties. The route of the procession is about six miles long. The Mayor has issued a proclamation requesting all business and labor to cease on that day, and the schools will be closed. Money prizes will be given for the best county, society and State floats and prizes for the best bands outside of the Twin cities.

TIED ON COLLIER.

Asylum Officials Anxious to Get Rid of an Erratic Charge.

CHICAGO, Sept. 23.—The chances are that Frank Collier will not be an inmate of the Dunning asylum many weeks longer. Dr. Benson, the superintendent, is getting tired of the lawyer and is quietly making every effort to have him removed to another institution.

Collier had another "scrap" Sunday. This time he undertook to whip his fellow inmate, John T. McHayne. The two got into trouble over the Irish question and fought fiercely in their cage some minutes before the keepers succeeded in separating them. When they were parted McHayne had a bad-looking eye and Frank several ugly scratches.

CHICAGO AMUSEMENTS

A List of Chicago's Most Popular Theaters.

McVICKER'S THEATER.
Macaroni enters on its second week Sept. 27 at McVicker's theater, and it has been as much of a success as the management expected.

Sarah Bernhardt at McVicker's theater has seven plays in her repertoire, among which are "Cleopatra," "La Tosca," "Camille," "Fedora," "Theodora," etc. She will be seen in Chicago at McVicker's theater opening Oct. 5.

Sarah, the peerless and incomparable, has been warming the very cockles of those hearts that love the art with a discriminating fervor. She has not put the torch to any new fires since her return from Australia, but she has stirred such a blaze from the embers of the old one that those who went to gaze remained to glow, in such self-forgetfulness as rarely comes to self-possessed playgoers.

With "Fedora," "La Tosca," "Frou Frou," "Camille," every one is familiar who haunts the theaters. It would seem that nothing new could be drawn out of the last two at least, and that even Bernhardt could add nothing fresh to the vivid individuality she gave the first two, when she revealed to us, for the first time, all the possibilities that Sardou has crowded into these characters. But she has put new vitality into them all. She swept even the memory of herself in the same roles out of the minds of those who have lately seen her as Fedora and La Tosca. And coming down through the whirlwind of "Theodora" to the comparative quiet of "Frou Frou" and "Camille," she has touched these latter with an exquisite lightness apparently as airy and iridescent as a soap-bubble, but really as substantial as the finest glass, that imitates it. The sentiment that these two blooms of a hot-house civilization feel is so far from the intense and semi-barbaric passion of the Slav and the Italian that the contrast exaggerates their morbidity and comparative feebleness. Only Sarah herself could so cut away comparison by being perfectly and exclusively Gilberte or Margaret Gauthier, when she plays either of these parts, that one forgets for the moment—or rather for the evening—that she has ever been Fedora, or that such a character as Fedora was ever conceived.

CHICAGO OPERA HOUSE.

Beginning Monday evening, September 28, Manager Henderson promises the patrons of the Chicago Opera House, a veritable treat in the way of a series of the most superb performances in grand and lyric opera ever given in this city in English. The company which will appear is a magnificent organization of seventy persons, under the direction of Mr. C. D. Hess, headed by the charming and famous prima donna, Minnie Hauk, who has just returned to America after a most brilliant career of European successes made at the principal opera houses of all the capitals of Europe. Madame Hauk needs no introduction to Chicago theatergoers or to those of America. She is an American artiste, and, while she has been singing a great while abroad, she has made her name a household word in this country before by reason of her unparalleled performances of "Carmen." She is supported by some of the greatest artists of the day, including Tavaré, Galassi, Tremelli, Del Puente, Montaliol, W. H. Clarke and Mlle. Bernice Holmes. The engagement is for two weeks only and the repertoire for the first week, a most comprehensive one, is as follows:

Monday, Carmen; Tuesday, Faust; Wednesday, Cavalleria Rusticana; Thursday, Trovatore; Friday, Cavalleria Rusticana; Saturday matinee, Carmen; Saturday night, Rigoletto.

The advance sale of seats and boxes for the entire engagement is now open.

HAVLIN'S THEATER.

Manager Havlin announces with great pleasure the engagement for one week, beginning with the matinee, Sunday, Sept. 27, of Elmer E. Vance's great realistic comedy drama, "The Limited Mail," which has created such a furore all over the United States. As a railroad piece it is the most realistic and wonderful scene and mechanical production ever staged. Since it was last presented in Chicago "The Limited Mail" has been greatly improved in dialogue and situations. Entirely new scenery has been furnished, and the railroad and telegraph mechanical effects are new, intricate and startling, and have never been equalled nor surpassed in realism. The splendid company engaged by Mr. Vance has just returned from a phenomenally successful tour of the Pacific coast, where "The Limited Mail" created a furore. This will be one of the many big weeks at Havlin's cozy theater.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.

Limited engagement—Wednesday and Saturday matinees. J. C. Duff Comedie Opera company, in the "Queen's Mate." Spectacular comic opera in three acts by Lecocq. A cast of exceptional strength, including Helen Bertram, Bettina Girard, Minnie De Rue, J. J. Raffael, Mark Smith, J. H. Kiley, Richard Carroll, J. E. Stille, Joseph Fay. Chorus of sixty. Augmented orchestra.

WINDSOR THEATER.

Beginning at the matinee next Sunday, there will be seen at the New Windsor theater, Charles Gaylor's powerful melodrama, "Lights and Shadows," with its thrilling escape through glass doors, the overflow of real water, and the great steel-room scene.

THE AUDITORIUM.

The Chicago orchestra under the direction Thomas, first season, 1891-1892. The first season will consist of twenty concerts, each concert preceded by a public rehearsal, to be given in the Auditorium under the direction of Theodore Thomas. The talent engaged to make up the Chicago orchestra is of the very first order. It will include the best resident musicians, and will number for the above named series of performances, eighty-six. The best soloists resident in or visiting this country will be engaged, and every support will be given the musical director to make these concerts rank with the first in the world. Season tickets for the twenty concerts $30, $20, and $10, according to location. Boxes, seating five, $200.

For the twenty public rehearsals, $20, $15, and $10, according to location. Boxes, seating five, $150.

Season tickets and boxes can now be secured at the Auditorium box office.

PEOPLE'S THEATER.

Commencing Sept. 27, and for one week only.

James Reilly, the pleasing and popular German comedian and vocalist, first appearance in Chicago this season.

James Reilly is a comedian who has no prototype on the stage to-day. He is natural and not strained in his efforts, and he possesses a pure dialect and a sweet voice something like Joe Emmett's. There's a charm of simple German folk character in his speech and action in Johann that is as human as Joe Jefferson in Rip Van Winkle. There's no mistaking his talent as a German dialect comedian—the leader of the few now left upon the stage. That there are great possibilities for him in the future, no one who saw him in the Broom-maker will deny, and all he needs is a stronger play—both in the comedy and melo-dramatic lines, and such a play he will have some day. With the newspaper notoriety that Emmett attained, and with will power to withstand the temptations that beset the popular actor, James Reilly must some day become as famous as Fritz. His supporting company was excellent.—Elmira, N. Y., Star, October 18.

INTER-STATE INDUSTRIAL EXPOSITION OF CHICAGO.

The nineteenth annual exhibition of this organization will open Sept. 16, and close Oct. 21. The great building has been completely and fully decorated, and all available space allotted to intending exhibitors, for what promises to be the most complete and magnificent exhibition in its long history. The Cook County Agricultural and Horticultural society, with a prize list running into thousands of dollars, have undertaken a floral display, that has never been equaled in this country.

In the building will be also exhibited an exact reproduction in miniature of the buildings and grounds of the World's Columbian Exposition, with magnificent electric effects; covering as it does a space of 5,000 square feet, it is one of the wonders of modern mechanical art, and will be worth a journey to see.

The Lincoln Log Cabin association will also be exhibitors.

All railroads transport passengers at excursion rates.

CLARK STREET THEATER.

The coming attraction at this cozy and popular theater, commencing with the matinee on Sunday next, September 27, will be that very realistic play, "One of the Bravest."

The drama, "One of the Bravest," treats upon a topic interesting enough to pack the theaters wherever produced. In the character of "Larry Howard," Charles McCarthy, the star, depicts a member of the New York fire department true to life and a hero besides. The role is just fitted to the young man's talent, and he carries the house by storm. The company supporting him is distinguished for one very remarkable fact—there isn't a stick in the entire collection. The comical side is aptly illustrated by Mr. Cronin. The great novelty of the piece is a confagration scene in the second act, where conventionality is thrown aside and the latest improved methods of fire fighting introduced. The life belt, life line, scaling ladder, jumping blanket and other devices are all introduced, and women and children are rescued from second and third story windows amid applause, flames and working fire engine.

LYCEUM THEATER.

Rose Hill's Tolly company, under the management of Rice and Bayton, will begin an engagement at the Lyceum to-morrow night. A burlesque entitled "The Mountebank" will introduce dances, marches, tableaux vivants, and, as the bills declare, "a bewildering exhibition of female loveliness."

THE CASINO.

Eden Musee, "BB." This stands for "Big Bill," the best we ever had. Knoll and McNeil, cornet artists. Hattie Wells and Geneva Gibson, dancers. Zan Zio, magician. Russian orchestra. Lux and George, from Gilmore's band. Wax groups.

MADISON STREET OPERA HOUSE.

"Steen's World of Mystery" company. Matinees Tuesday, Thursday, Saturday and Sunday. Week commencing Monday, Sept. 28.—Pete Peterson's (the Swede) Novelty company.

LIBBY PRISON.

Don't fail to visit Libby prison. The only museum in America. Wabash avenue, between Fourteenth and Sixteenth streets. Open daily and Sunday from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC.

Matinee and night. Tony Pastor and grand double company. Next Sunday matinee, "Lost in New York."

TALMAGE TALKS MUSIC.

THE TABERNACLE RINGS WITH SWEET MELODIES.

Lending Enchantment to Last Sunday's Sermon—The Worth of Music as Viewed by the Great Divine—"The Voice of Many Waters."

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Sept. 30, 1891.—The magnificent organ of the New Brooklyn tabernacle was dedicated to-day. The services were veritable musical festivals. While the regular musical programme at the tabernacle is always attractive, that of to-day was exceptionally beautiful, the congregational singing, offertories, and interludes being rendered with marvellous volume and expression. Dr. Talmage's sermon, which was appropriate to the occasion, was on the text, Genesis 4: 21: "His brother's name was Jubal: he was the father of all such as handle the harp and organ."

There has been much discussion as to where music was born. I think that at the beginning, when the morning stars sang together, and all the sons of God shouted for joy, that the earth heard the echo. The cloud on which the angels stood to celebrate the creation, was the birthplace of song. Inanimate nature is full of God's stringed and wind instruments. Silence itself—perfect silence—is only a musical rest in God's great anthem of worship. Wind among the leaves, insects humming in the summer air, the rush of billow upon the beach, the ocean far out sounding its everlasting psalm, the bobolink on the edge of the forest, the quail whistling up from the grass, are music. On Blackwell's Island I heard, coming from a window of the lunatic asylum, a very sweet song. It was sung by one who had lost her reason, and I have come to believe that even the deranged and disordered elements of nature would make music to our ear, if we only had acuteness enough to listen. I suppose that even the sounds in nature that are discordant and repulsive make harmony in God's ear. You know that you may come so near to an orchestra that the sounds are painful instead of pleasurable; and I think we stand so near devastating storm and frightful whirlwind, that we cannot hear that which makes to God's ear and the ear of the spirits above us, a music as complete as it is tremendous.

The day of judgment, which will be a day of uproar and tumult, I suppose will bring no dissonance to the ears of those who can calmly listen; although it be as when a great performer is executing a boisterous piece of music, he sometimes breaks down the instrument on which he plays, so it may be on that last day that the grand march of God, played by the fingers of thunder, and earthquake, and conflagration, may break down the world upon which the music is executed. Not only is inanimate nature full of music, but God has wonderfully organized the human voice, so that in the plainest throat and lungs there are fourteen direct muscles, which can make over thirteen thousand different sounds, and there are thirty indirect muscles which can make, it has been estimated, more than one hundred and seventy-three millions of sounds! Now, I say, when God has so constructed the human voice, and when he has filled the whole earth with harmony, and when he recognized it in the ancient temple, I have a right to come to the conclusion that God loved music.

I propose, this morning in setting apart this organ for sacred use, to speak about sacred music: first showing you its importance, and then stating some of the obstacles to its advancement.

I draw the first argument for the importance of sacred music from the fact that God commanded it. Through Paul he tells us to admonish one another in psalms, and hymns, and spiritual songs; and through David he cries out: "Sing ye to God, all ye kingdoms of the earth." And there are hundreds of other passages I might name, proving that it is as much a man's duty to sing as it is his duty to pray. Indeed, I think there are more commands in the Bible to sing than there are to pray. God not only asks for the human voice but for instruments of music. He asks for the cymbal, and the harp, and the trumpet as well as the organ. And I suppose that in the last days of the church, the harp, the lute, the trumpet, and all the instruments of music which they have been in the service of righteousness, or sin will be brought by their master and laid down at the feet of Christ, and then sounded in the church's triumph, on her way from suffering into glory. "Praise ye the Lord." Praise him with your voices. Praise him with stringed instruments and with organs.

Many of you are illustrations of what sacred song can do. Through it you were brought into the Kingdom of Jesus Christ. You stood out against the argument and the warning of the pulpit; but when in the sweet words of Isaac Watts, or Charles Wesley, or John Newton, or Toplady, the love of Jesus was sung to your soul, then, you surrendered, as armed captives, that could not be taken by a host, lifts its window to listen to a harp's trill. There was a Scotch soldier dying in New Orleans, and a Scotch minister came in to give him the consolations of the Gospel. The man turned over on his pillow, and said: "Don't talk to me about religion." Then the Scotch minister began to sing a familiar hymn of Scotland, that was composed by David Dickenson, beginning with the words:

Oh, mother, dear Jerusalem, When shall I come to thee?

He sang it to the tune of "Dundee," and everybody in Scotland knows that, and as he began to sing the dying soldier turned over on his pillow, and said to the minister: "Where did you learn that?" "Why," replied the minister, "my mother taught me that."

"So did mine," said the dying Scotch soldier; and the very foundation of his heart was upturned, and then and there he yielded himself to Christ. Oh, it has an irresistible power. Luther's sermons have been forgotten, but his "Judgment Hymn" sings on through the ages, and will keep on singing until the blast of the archangel's trumpet shall bring about that very day which the hymn celebrates. I would to God that those who hear me, to-day, would take these songs of salvation as messages from heaven; for just as certainly as the birds brought food to Elijah, by the brook Cherith, so these winged harmonies, God-sent, are flying to your mouth with the bread of life. Open your mouths and take it, O hungry Elijah!

In addition to the inspiring music of our own day we have a glorious inheritance of church psalmody which has come down fragrant with the devotions of other generations—tunes more worn out than they were when our great-grandfathers climbed up on them from the church pew to glory. When they were cheerful, our grandfathers and grandmothers used to sing "Colchester." When they were very meditative, then the board meeting-house rang with "South street" and "St. Edmund's."

Now, in this church, we have resolved upon the plan of conducting the music by organ and cornet. We do it for two reasons: One is that by throwing the whole responsibility upon the mass of the people, making the great multitude the choir, we might rouse more heartiness. The congregation coming on the Sabbath day feel that they cannot delegate this part of the great service to any one else, and so they themselves assume it. We have had a glorious congregational singing here. People have come many miles to hear it. They are not sure about the preaching, but they can always depend on the singing. We have heard the sound coming up like "the voice of many waters," but it will be done at a better rate after awhile when we shall realize the height, and the depth, and the immensity of this privilege.

I forgot to state the other reason why we adopt this plan. That is, we do not want any choir quarrels. You know very well that in scores of churches, there has been perpetual contention in that direction. The only church fighting that ever occurred under my ministry was over a melodeon, in my first settlement. I have you never been in church on the Sabbath day, and heard the choir sing, and you said "That is splendid music." The next Sabbath, you were at that church, and their was no choir at all. Why? The leader was mad, or his assistants were mad, or they were all mad together. Some of the choirs are made up of our best Christian people. Some of the warmest friends I have ever had have stood up in them, Sabbath after Sabbath, conscientiously and successfully leading the praises of God.

My Christian friends, have we a right to delegate to others the discharge of this duty which God demands of us? Suppose that four wood-thrushes should propose to do all the singing some bright day when the woods are ringing with bird voices. It is decided that four wood-thrushes shall do all the singing of the forest. Let all other voices keep silent. How beautifully the four warble. It is really fine music. But how long will you keep the forest still? Why, Christ would come into that forest and look up as he looked through the olives, and he would wave his hand and say: "Let everything that hath breath praise the Lord," and, keeping time with the stroke of innumerable wings, there would be five thousand bird voices leaping into the harmony. Suppose this delegation of musical performers were true in heaven; suppose that four choice spirits should try to do the singing of the upper temple. Hush now, thrones and dominions and principalities. David be still, though you were "the sweet singer of Israel." Paul! keep quiet, though you have come to that crown of rejoicing. Richard Baxter! keep still, though this is the "Saint's everlasting Rest." Four spirits now do all the singing. But how long would heaven be quiet? How long? "Hallelujah!" would cry some glorified Methodist from under the altar: "Praise the Lord" would shout the martyrs from among the thrones. Thanks be unto God who giveth us the victory! a great multitude of redeemed spirits would cry. Myriads of voices coming into the harmony, and the one hundred and forty and four thousand breaking forth into one acclamation. Stop that loud singing! Stop! Oh no, they cannot hear me. You might as well try to drown the thunder of the sky, or beat back the roar of the sea, for every soul in heaven has resolved to do its own singing. Alas! that we should have tried on earth that which they cannot do in heaven, and instead of joining all our voices in the praise of the Most High God, delegating perhaps to unconsecrated men and women this most solemn and most delightful service.

I want to rouse you to a unanimity in Christian song that has never yet been exhibited. Come, now! clear your throats and get ready for this duty, or you will never hear the end of this. I never shall forget hearing a Frenchman sing the "Marseillaise" on the Champs Elysees, Paris, just before the battle of Sedan, in 1870. I never saw such enthusiasm before or since. As he sang that national air, oh! how the Frenchmen shouted! Have you ever in an English assembly heard a band play "God Save the Queen?" If you have, you know something about the enthusiasm of a National air. Now, I tell you that these songs we sing Sabbath by Sabbath are the national airs of Jesus Christ and of the kingdom of heaven, and if you do not learn to sing them here, how do you ever expect to sing the song of Moses and the Lamb? I should not be surprised at all if some of the best anthems of heaven were made up of some of the best songs of earth. May God increase our reverence for Christian psalmody, and keep us from disgracing it by our indifference and frivolity. When Cromwell's army went into battle, he stood at the head of them one day, and gave out the long metre doxology to the tune of the "Old Hundredth," and that great host, company by company, regiment by regiment, battalion by battalion, joined in the doxology:

Praise God from whom all blessings flow, Praise Him all creatures here below; Praise Him above, ye heav'nly host, Praise Father, Son, and Holy Ghost.

And while they sang, they marched, and while they marched, they fought, and while they fought they got the victory. O men and women of Jesus Christ, let us go into all our conflicts singing the praises of God, and then, instead of falling back, as we often do, from defeat to defeat, we will be marching on from victory to victory. Glory to the Father and to the Son and to the Holy Ghost, as it was in the beginning, is now and ever shall be, world without end. Amen.

THE dates for holding the various livestock shows during the Exposition have been decided upon by the National Commission. The period devoted to the exhibition of animals for awards in the following divisions for live-stock will be as follows: Cattle, Sept. 11 to Sept. 27; horses, jacks and jennets, Aug. 24 to Sept. 27; sheep and swine, Oct. 2 to Oct. 14; kennel show or dogs, June 12 to June 17; poultry, pigeons, pet stock etc., Oct. 19, Oct. 30. Exhibitors of horses and cattle must accompany their application with written evidence as to the pedigree of the animal offered for entry. This written evidence implies a description or pedigree in the standard live-stock record books. Animals unregistered, but which have some peculiar historical value, may be exhibited, but may not compete for any prizes or medals which may be offered.

FRANK THOMSON, First Vice-President of the Pennsylvania railroad company, has just returned from a long trip through the Northwest and says the published accounts of the enormous crops were not at all exaggerated. Through the entire Northwest he passed thousands of acres of wheat in perfect condition, and the crops are greater in acreage and more wheat to the acre and better in quality than ever before. The railways, Mr. Thomson says, will be taxed to the full capacity of their equipment for months to move this tremendous tonnage. Mr. Thomson returned home more impressed with the vastness of the wealth and resources of the country than after his many previous Western visits, and he does not lose sight of the fact that the condition of foreign markets will give American farmers such an opportunity as they have never had before, and that the addition to the wealth of the country this year will probably be greater than any previous year in its history.

CITIZENS ATTENTION.

The attention of voters and citizens of the 27th ward is called to the fact that a Mass Meeting will be held under the auspices of the 27th Ward Republican Club, at Callahan's Hall (Now known as Manhattan House) on Milwaukee Ave. Saturday evening, September 19.

The purpose of the meeting is to explain and instruct citizens in relation to the new system of voting to be introduced at the coming County fall election under the Australian Law, lately passed by the Illinois Legislature.

A capable instructor with ballots and all necessary particulars will be present to furnish information and answer all questions.

Republicans, Independents and citizens generally, are specially invited to attend.

JEFFERSON PARK.

Mr. Tompeon's building is rising rapidly.

The labors of our street sprinkler were much appreciated during the oppressively hot days of last week.

Trains were delayed Tuesday caused by a wreck at Mt. Prospect.

Is your street a street? Several thoroughfares in Jefferson Park are not recorded as streets.

Miss Margaret Larson, of Hermosa, is visiting Miss Beatrice Russell.

Mrs. King, of Wisconsin, is visiting her mother, Mrs. Geo. Wright.

Linn Roberts gave a lawn party. Monday of last week, to his friends of Jefferson, Norwood and Irving Parks.

Died—At the residence of her parents, Irving Park, Mrs. Alfreda Mettler, September 19th. She was the oldest daughter of John and Frances Primrose formerly of this place. The burial took place Monday to Park Ridge Cemetery.

Do not forget the fair to be held at Preger's club house commencing to-morrow. Several exhibitors in this neighborhood will compete and Joseph Spikings will exhibit a mammoth melon undoubtedly the largest one ever grown in this region.

Albert Hanson is attending manual training school.

Miss Bertie Lawrence is teaching at the Montrose school.

The reception given by the Choral Club Friday evening of last week, was a social and financial success. Thirty couples were present and a very enjoyable time was reported.

The Grays defeated the C. C. & C's Sunday in a close game. The score was 12 to 11 and both sides played good ball. Wulf's pitching was a feature of the game and probably won the game. Several fine plays were made.

Joe Kay, of Elston Road, is complaining of the theft of many melons. We understand the police are implicated.

This is the warmest weather for this time of the year known for several years.

Last week, Assistant Superintendent of streets, W. H. Durant went over the 22d road district (27th ward) in company with Ald. D. B. Fonda and Street Foreman Goven. He expressed himself as being well pleased with the seasons work and regretted the fact that on account of shortage of funds of unimproved street. Foreman Goven was compelled to reduce his force until he only has enough to keep the culverts in repair. The fund is so short in fact that no more material in the way of lumber or gravel can be obtained.

Married—James Finnegan and Miss Maggie Leary of this place were married Thursday of last week by the pastor of St. Vitus church, Irving Park.

Murder of a Beautiful Society Girl. A PROMINENT AND WEALTHY YOUNG MAN ARRESTED FOR THE CRIME.—THE POLICE RETICENT.

For the past few days a great deal of comment has been occasioned by the mysterious disappearance of a beautiful young girl, the daughter of one of our wealthiest and most exclusive families. Now comes the rumor that she has been murdered.

Most startling of all is the report that one of our wealthiest young men has been arrested for the crime. By request of powerful and influential friends of the parties concerned, the police absolutely refuse any information at present, but the inner history of this mysterious occurrence is fully narrated in "The Shadow Detective," by Old Sleuth, issued to-day in "The Calumet Series." Ask your newsdealer to let you look at a copy.

Des Plaines Ordinance.

SIDEWALK ORDINANCE

Be it ordained by the President and Board of Trustees of the Village of Des Plaines.

SECTION 1. That sidewalk is hereby condemned and a new sidewalk ordered to be built by the property owner of lot 105 in the Town of Rand, now the Village of Des Plaines.

Sec. 2. That the owner or owners of the afore described lot hereby ordered to lay a new sidewalk in front of their property as aforesaid, within thirty (30) days after the publication of this ordinance.

Such sidewalk shall be four (4) feet in width; the plank thereof shall be two (2) inches in thickness, laid crosswise; the plank shall not be less than six (6) nor more than eight (8) inches in width; such sidewalk shall be built of new, sound and merchantable lumber and laid on two (2) stringers blocked and at least four (4) inches square, well secured and secured thereto; the joints of each stringer shall be fastened by a piece of inch board securedly nailed on the inside thereof.

Sec. 3. That so much of said sidewalk as shall not be built by the property owner or owners within the time specified shall be taxed by a special assessment of the property fronting such sidewalk, according to law in such cases made and provided.

Passed Sept. 7, 1891.
Approved Sept. 7, 1891.
Published Sept. 19, 1891.

MOXIE,

THE ONLY NOURISHMENT USED BY THE NERVES.

Voluntary statements show the benefit derived from the use of Moxie. Recovers nervousness and overwork, acting as a food without reaction. The aged as well as the young should drink Moxie every day.

The following is from one of our best Chicago institutions: ST. MARY'S SEMINARY FOR GIRLS: "We have found your Moxie an excellent restorative to the weak and debilitated, and for the benefit of those who read this, we wish to express this fact."

Cures St. Vitus' Dance.
Emilie Klunger, our daughter, aged 13 years, for nearly 4 years had St. Vitus' dance, could not feed herself or even speak, having lost her voice. Physicians could not help her. By advice of friends we tried Moxie Nerve Food. She is now well. Moxie cured her. We wish to say this for the benefit of those with similar afflictions. Respectfully,
L. KLUNGER, 226 Vine St., Chicago.

I have used Moxie in several cases where nervous exhaustion was the cause of the trouble, and in each instance the result was most remarkable.
Wm. J. HAWES, M. D. Chicago.
Look out for frauds. They are still at work. Buy only the bottled goods. Frauds never try to imitate worthless goods.

CHICAGO, Sept. 16, 1891.
I have been suffering for years with headache, and have tried many medicines through which I found very little relief. Have tried Moxie and found its results wonderful, and advise all who are suffering with nervousness, dyspepsia or headache, to use Moxie.

Moxie Cures Piles.
For two years I have been afflicted with piles and tried the best medical skill without cure. Then I tried Moxie Nerve Food, of which I had heard so much, and to my surprise found myself soon cured by it. For the help of others who may be afflicted as I have been, I make this statement.

WIDE-AWAKE TRADESMEN

Have learned by experience that the only waterproof seat they can sell to a cowboy or hunter is the Fish Brand Slicker with the "Fish Brand" Trade Mark on it. They are the best waterproof saddle cover ever made. They keep the saddle, the horse's back, and the rider thoroughly dry and warm. No saddle sores from the galling of a wet saddle. When used as a walking coat, the cushions front buttons back, and the Slicker is changed at once to an ordinary coat. Just try one, they cost but little and will prevent colds, fevers, rheumatism, and other results to exposure to the weather. Beware of worthless imitations, every garment stamped with "Fish Brand" Trade Mark. Don't accept any inferior coat when you can have the "Fish Brand Slicker" delivered without extra cost. CHAPTER V—CONTINUED.

"I see. He will love you," said the tremulous tones.

"Then it is he."

"It is he."

With a suppressed cry of triumph Unorna lifted her head and stood upright. Then she started violently and grew very pale.

"You have probably killed him and spoiled everything," said a rich bass voice at her elbow—the very sub-bass of all possible voices.

Keyork Arabian was beside her. In her intense excitement she had not heard him enter the room and he had surprised her at once in the breaking of their joint convention and in the revelation of her secret. If Unorna could be said to know the meaning of the word fear in any degree whatsoever, it was in relation to Keyork Arabian, the man who, during the last few years had been her helper and associate in the great experiment. Of all men she had known in her life, he was the only one whom she felt to be beyond the influence of her powers, the only one whom she felt that she could not charm by word, or touch, or look.

"The best thing you can do is to put him to sleep at once," said the little man. "You can be angry afterward, and, I thank heaven, so can I—and shall."

"Forget," said Unorna, once more laying her hand upon the wakened brow. "Let it be as though I had not spoken with you. Drink in your sleep of the fountain of life; take new strength into your body and new blood into your heart. Live, and when I next wake you be younger by as many months as there shall pass hours till then. Sleep."

A low sigh trembled in the hoary beard, and all was still, save for the soft and regular breathing.

"The united patience of the seven arch-angels, coupled with that of Job and Simon Stylites, would not survive your acquaintance for a day," observed Keyork Arabian.

"Is he mine or yours?" Unorna asked, turning to him and pointing to the sleeper.

She was quite ready to face her companion after the first shock of his unexpected appearance. His small blue eyes sparkled angrily.

"I am not versed in the law concerning real estate in humankind in the kingdom of Bohemia," he answered. "You may have property in a couple of hundred-weight, more or less, of old bones rather than the worse for the wear and tear of a century, but I certainly have some ownership in the life. Without me you would have been the possessor of a remarkably fine skeleton by this time—and of nothing more."

"He is mine, Keyork Arabian, alive or dead! If the experiment fails, and he dies, the loss is mine, not yours. Moreover, what I have done is done, and I will neither submit to your reproaches nor listen to your upbraidings. Is that enough?"

"Of its kind, quite. I will build an altar to ingratitude, we will bury our friend beneath the shrine, and you shall serve in the temple. You could defy all the cardinal sins if you would only give your attention to the subject, merely by the monstrously imposing proportions you would know how to give them. You dare to tell me that if he dies you are the only loser. Do 50 years of study count for nothing? Look at me. I am an old man, and unless I find the secret of life here, in this very room, before many years are over, I must die—die, do you understand? Do you know what it means to die? How can you comprehend that word—you girl, you child, you thing of five and twenty summers. You moan, you butterfly, you thread of floating gossamer! How can you understand the incalculable value of Self—of that which is all to me and nothing to you, or which, being yours, is everything to you and to me nothing? You are so young, you still believe in things, and good and evil, and love and hate. What were you doing here when I found you playing with life and death, perhaps with my life, for a girl's trick, in the crazy delusion that this old parcel of humanity can see the shadows of things that are not yet? Why did he hesitate and suffer? Because you asked that to which he knew there was no answer. And you tortured him with your will until his individuality fell into yours and spoke your words."

Unorna's head sunk a little and she covered her eyes. The truth of what he said flashed upon her suddenly and unexpectedly, bringing with it the doubt which had left her at the moment when the sleeper had spoken. She could not hide her discomfiture, and Keyork Arabian saw his advantage.

"And for what?" he asked, beginning to pace the broad room. "To know whether a man will love you or not? Have you found a second Keyork Arabian, over whom your eyes have no power—neither the one nor the other?"

He laughed rather brutally at the thought of her greatest physical peculiarity, but then suddenly stopped short.

"They are certainly very remarkable eyes," he said, more calmly, and with a certain uneasiness which Unorna did not notice. "I wonder whom you have found who is able to look you in the face without losing himself. I suppose it can hardly be my fascinating self whom you wish to enthrall," he added, conscious, after a moment's trial, that he was proof against her influence.

"Hardly," answered Unorna, with a bitter laugh.

"If I were the happy man you would not need that means of bringing me to your feet. It is a pity that you do not want me. We should make a very happy couple. But there is much against me. I am an old man, Unorna, and yet I was young once, and eloquent. I could make love then—I believe that I could still if it would amuse you."

"Try it," said Unorna, who, like most people, could not long be angry with the gnome-like little sage.

CHAPTER VI.

COULD make love—yes, and since you tell me to try, I will."

He came and stood before her, straightening his diminutive figure in a comical fashion as though he were imitating a soldier on parade.

"In the first place," he said, "in order to appreciate my skill, you should realize the immense disadvantages under which I labor. I am a dwarf, my dear Unorna. In the presence of that kindly wreck of a Homeric man—he pointed to the sleeper beside them—"I am a Therapist, if not a pigny. To have much chance of success, I should ask you to close your eyes, and to imagine that my stature matches my voice. That gift at least I flatter myself, would have been appreciated on the plains of Troy. But in other respects I resemble neither the long-haired Greeks nor the trousered Trojans. I am old and hideous, and in outward appearance I am as like Socrates as in inward disposition I am totally different from him. Admit, since I admit it, that I am the ugliest and smallest man of your acquaintance."

"It is not to be denied," said Unorna, with a smile.

"The admission will make the performance so much the more interesting. And now, as the conjurer says when he begins, observe that there is no deception. That is the figure of speech called lying, because there is to be nothing but deception from beginning to end. Did you ever consider the nature of a lie, Unorna? It is a very interesting subject."

"I thought you were going to make love to me."

"True; how easily one forgets these little things! Can there be anything more contemptible, more laughable, more utterly or hopelessly absurd than an old and ugly man declaring his unrequited passion for a woman who might be his granddaughter?"

"Very like," said Unorna with a laugh.

"And yet—my evening star—dear star of my fast sinking evening—golden Unorna—shall I be cut off from love because my years are many? Or rather, shall I not love you the more, because the years that are left are few and scantily blessed? May not your dawn blend with my sunset and make together one short day?"

"That is very pretty," said Unorna, thoughtfully. He had the power of making his speech sound like a deep, soft music.

"For what is love?" he asked. "Is it a garment, a jewel, a fanciful ornament which only boys and girls may wear upon a summer's holiday? Is love beauty? Is love youth? Is love yellow hair, or black? Is love the rose upon the lip or the peach blossom in the cheek that only the young may call it theirs? If that is love, if that is the idol of your shrine, the vision of your dreams, the familiar genius of your earthly paradise, why then, indeed, he who worships by your side, and who would share the habitation of your happiness, must wear Absalom's anointed curls and walk with Agag's delicate step. What matter if he be foolish, faithless, forgetful, inconstant, changeable as the tide of the sea? He is young."

"Good," she said. "You tell me what love is not, but you do not tell me what it is."

"Love is the immortal essence of mortal passion; together they are as soul and body, one being; separate them, and the body without the soul is a monster; the soul without the body is no longer human, nor earthly, nor real to us at all, though still divine. Love stands at the gateway of each human soul, holding in his hands a rose and a drawn sword—the sword is for the many, the rose is for the one."

"Have you ever loved that you should talk like that?" she asked. He turned upon her almost fiercely.

"Loved? Yes, as you can never love; as you, in your woman's heart, can never dream of loving—with every thought, with every fibre, with every pulse, with every breath; with a love that is burning the old oak through and through, root and branch, core and knot, to feathery ashes that you may scatter with a sigh—the only sigh you will ever breathe for me. Unorna, have I loved? Can I love? Do I love to-day as I loved yesterday and shall love to-morrow? Ah, child! That you should ask that, with your angel's face, when I am in hell for you! When I would give my body to death and my soul to darkness for a touch of your hand, for as much kindness and gentleness in a word from your dear lips as you give the beggars in the street! When I would tear out my heart with my hands to feed the very dog that fawns upon you—and who is more to you than I, because he is yours, and all that is yours I love, and worship, and adore!"

"Keyork Arabian, is it possible that you love me?" she cried in her wonder.

"Possible? True? There is neither truth nor possibility in anything else for me, in anything, in any one but you, Unorna. The service of my love fills the days and the nights and the years with you—fills the world with you only; makes heaven to be on earth, since heaven is but the air that is made bright with your breath, as the temple of all temples is but the spot whereon your dear feet stand. When I am gone—with the love of you in my heart, Unorna—when they have buried the ugly old body and out of your sight, you will not even remember that I was once your companion, still less that I knelt before you; that I kissed the ground on which you stood; that I loved you as men loved whose hearts are breaking; that I touched the hem of your garment and was for one moment young—that I besought you to press my hand but once, with one thought of kindness, with one last and only word of human pity—"

He broke off suddenly and there was a tremor in his voice which lent intense expression to the words. He was kneeling upon one knee beside Unorna but between her and the light, so that she saw his face indistinctly. She could not but pity him. She took his outstretched hand in hers.

"You are the greatest of great actors, Keyork Arabian. There is something diabolical about you. I sometimes almost think that you are the devil himself."

"Perhaps I am," suggested the little man, cheerfully.

"Do you know that there is a horror about all this?" Unorna rose to her feet. Her smile had vanished, and she seemed to feel cold.

"As though nothing had happened, Keyork began to make his daily examination of his sleeping patient. He noted some of the results of his observations in a pocketbook. Unorna stood still and watched him.

"There is little room for love in your system," remarked Unorna, "for such love, for instance, as you described to me a few minutes ago."

"There is too much room for it in yours," retorted Keyork. "Your system is constantly traversed in all directions by bodies, sometimes nebulous, and sometimes fiery, which move in unknown orbits at enormous rates of speed. In astronomy they call them comets, and astronomers would be much happier without them."

"I am not an astronomer."

"Fortunately for the peace of the solar system. You have been sending your comets dangerously near our sick planet," he added, pointing to the sleeper. "If you do it again he will break up into asteroids. To use that particularly disagreeable and suggestive word invented by men, he will die."

"I am sorry," she said in a low voice.

Heroism of a Child.

In the Bodleian library at Oxford is a most touching record of heroism and self-sacrifice on the part of a child.

The lower door of St. Leonard's church, Bridgewater, was left open and two young boys, wandering in, were tempted to mount to the upper part, and scramble from beam to beam.

All at once a joist gave way. The beam on which they were standing became displaced. The elder had just time to grasp it when falling, while the younger, slipping over his body, caught hold of his comrade's legs. In this fearful position the poor lads hung, crying vainly for help, for no one was near. At length the boy clinging to the beam became exhausted. He could no longer support the double weight. He called out to the lad below that they were both done for.

"Could you save yourself if I were to loose you?" replied the younger lad.

"I think I could," returned the elder.

"Then good by and God bless you!" said the little fellow, loosing his hold. Another second and he was dashed to pieces on the stone floor below.

His companion clambered to a place of safety.—Republic.

Calico.

The word "calico" has a queer origin. Many centuries ago the first monarch of the Province of Malabar gave to one of his chiefs, as a reward for distinguished services, his sword and all the land within the limits of which a cock crowing at a certain time could be heard. From this circumstance the town which grew up in the center of this territory was called Calico, or the cock of crowing. Afterwards it was called Calicut, and from this place the first cotton goods were imported into England, bearing the name of calico.—Detroit Free Press.

OPEN CHURCH DOORS

A Beautiful Mexican Custom Which We Might Imitate.

One class of Mexican buildings there is whereof, save only at night, the doors never are closed; the churches. From dawn until darkness comes again the doors stand open, and whoever will may enter to seek solace in prayer. Though less than in the period preceding the passage of the laws of reform—which swept away at a single blow the priestly rule that undermined the civil power—the church is an active part of Mexican daily life. Going to church is not an office fixed for a small part of a single day in the week and celebrated only in garments of price; every day and all day long there is a constant flow and ebb of humanity through the friendly open doors to and from the friendly shelter from the sorrows of the world.

In the very early morning working people—cargadores and aguadores, and such like humble folk—surrender a few minutes of their working time that they may begin their day with a prayer; a little later come the house servants on their way home from market, bringing their market baskets with them and usually having in their wake a little dog, whose decorous gravity suggests the possibility that in these early devotions he also has a share; at eight o'clock the mass is celebrated, when the women of the upper classes—the men are conspicuous by their absence—through the churches; and thereafter, being clad in black and wearing lace mantillas, and greatly to the picturesqueness of the streets as they go homeward. Then come the vendors of milk and vegetables and poultry and wood and charcoal and other household supplies—country people who wish to make their sacrifice of prayer before faring forth from the city; and who, if they have had luck in their small dealings, may be disposed also to thanksgiving. Even on Sunday—the only day that he would be sure of finding the doors open—a charcoal-seller would not be encouraged to hitch his donkey to a lamp-post in front of a fashionable church in New York, and thereafter to enter the church and say his prayers. Quite the contrary.

When the country people have gone their way homeward there are comparatively few people in the churches until the late afternoon; and even then, says Harper's Weekly, unless vespers are sung, the number passing back and forth through the doors is not nearly so great as in the morning hours. But never are the churches deserted utterly; always within them, until darkness comes and their doors are closed, are men and women kneeling silently before the altars, or making, with prayers half audible, the round of the Stations of the Cross.

This mingling of the offices of religion with the affairs of every-day life emphasizes the sixteenth-century feeling which in Mexico is so pointedly suggested by the strong houses and the barred doors. It is a feeling that gives to the country a potent and peculiar charm, under the spell of which come gladly those who seek refuge there from the later civilization that is glared upon by electricity, and that is driven by steam. And the charm works most powerfully upon the fortunate few who dwell in this region of rest long enough really to understand the whole of its excellent meaning, and to know how true and how cordial is Mexican hospitality when once the barred doors are opened wide. They do not open easily, these doors; but, having been opened, they never are closed again against a friend.

A FLORIDA WITCH.

The People are Firm Believers in Her Witchcraft.

A unique complaint was recently entered before a justice of the peace of Green Cove Springs, Florida, and the magistrate is still puzzled what steps to take in the matter, the intelligent portion of the community pooh-poohing the affair, while the more ignorant insist on him treating the thing seriously. The charge was one made by a negro woman named Susan Leach against an old man of her race called Pappy Green, who is regarded as a wizard or conjurer, and whom she accuses of having worked a spell on her by which she is persecuted by snakes. Whether Pappy Green is responsible or not, it is certain that the woman's cabin is overrun by the reptiles and she herself attended by several whenever she goes abroad.

Visited in her cabin by a Philadelphia Times correspondent, she was found seated in the center of the floor, literally surrounded by snakes, which, however, made no attempt to touch her, nor to approach her. The rafters, furniture and door-sill swarmed with snakes, for the most part of a harmless variety, but numbering among them several ugly-looking water moccasins and rattlesnakes, which hissed and darted so alarmingly at any one attempting to enter the cabin that few have ventured to do more than look in at the woman.

When her pest first made its appearance she left the hut and sought refuge with friends, but these finding that her presence was the signal for the arrival of hordes of snakes she was made to return home. It is said that she had been only a few minutes in the justices' office before several large rattlesnakes made their appearance.

The negroes of the neighborhood are in a state of the wildest excitement and have besieged Pappy Green to release the woman, who is dying under the plague, which allows neither rest or sleep. The old man does not deny that her trouble is of his creation.

The Hen Laid Silver.

A Portsmouth, N. H., woman recently found a one-cent piece in an egg which one of her hens had laid, and later on the same hen laid an egg with a ten-cent piece in it.

There were crickets in the bushes, and glow worms in the grass. And the crows among the pine trees were holding noisy mass, and the harelubs were a-ringing to greet the little lass.

From the topmost rail a squirrel winked at her with one eye. She laughed to see a peacock with saucy strut go by, and then an ugly hop-toad made her run away and cry.

She toddled home unsteady. With dilapidated look: One shoe was in the brambles. The other in the brook: Her parasol was minus The little wary crook.

Her hair was all a-tangle. There were daisies on her nose. Her face was stained with berries. And rumpled were her clothes. And through her dragged stockings Peeped out her pink white toes.

Poor thing! She is so "dreadful sleepy" The "Sand man" he went past: She wants some "milk an' cookies" To break the hour's fast— And of the "jolly fun" she had We'll never hear the last!

How Armour Fell in Love.

One of the frequent visitors to New York is P. D. Armour, the Chicago millionaire, the "king of dressed beef" and a director in the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road. His story, as he told it during one of his recent visits to New York, says the Press, is most interesting.

Mr. Armour has time when he is in New York to be humorous. Pressed for information which would perhaps benefit the rising generation, he said: "My first transaction was a love scrape. It wasn't successful. And it was the turning point in my life—actually the turning point. It led to my expulsion from school. I won't say anything else. Forty years after my expulsion from school a man walked into my office and called me out. I knew him. He was Prof. Hyde. He said he had heard of my success in life and he had come to tell me that in the matter of that expulsion he was the only member of the faculty who had voted for my retention. I said to him: 'You have been a long while coming in with your explanation.' He went out. I meant what I said. I have had the action of that faculty laid away under my vest here (indicating that section of his waistcoat which is over his heart) ever since."

If it were the proper thing to quote poetry in connection with the greatest packer on the face of the earth one might say, looking at Mr. Armour after he had related the above, referring to the smile:

It faded as it came. It is known that P. D. Armour was born on a farm in New York State. It is known that he did what all farmers' sons did—slaved it from morning until night. It is known that at the age of twenty, after he had loved and lost and had been expelled from school, he shoved the thorn in his heart, joined the procession headed West and became a gold seeker in the gulches of California. It is known that his "dirt" never "panned."

It is known that he was taken sick and lingered in the vicinity of death away out in California. It is known that through friends he left the fields of gold and came back and settled in Milwaukee. John Plankinton was in Milwaukee then buying and killing hogs. It is known that he gave Armour a job as clerk; and that from that time the latter continued to grow in the favor of Plankinton until the firm of Plankinton & Armour was established. It is known that Mr. Armour made himself indispensable to the firm, and that from that time until the present moment fortune knocked at every door and window and keehole of Mr. Armour's place of business.

This same fortune which is so fondly wooed, hunted and begged for by countless thousands without avail refuses to leave Mr. Armour's embrace. "It walketh with him by day," and when he "wraps the drapery of his couch about him and lies down to pleasant dreams" it nestles in the silken folds and greets his waking moment with a golden caress.

A man who knows him well adds this: "It is Armour's will that has made him what he is. He fixes his eye on something ahead, and no matter what rises upon the right or the left he never sees it. He goes straight ahead in pursuit of the object ahead, and overtakes it at last. He never lets up on that for which he starts out."

The Girl Queen.

Wilhelmina, Queen of the Netherlands, was born at the Hague, Aug. 31, 1880, and received the full name of Wilhelmina Helena Pauline Marie. The monarchy of the Netherlands includes not only Holland, but its colonial dependencies in South America and the East and West Indies. These colonies are both rich and extensive, covering an area of 800,000 square miles and containing a population of more than 27,000,000, six times that of Holland itself.

The youthful Dutch Queen is the daughter of William III, who died Nov. 23, 1890, and of Emma Adelaide Wilhelmina, Princess of Waldeck-Pyromont. Her father was the last descendant in the direct line of one of the most famous families of Europe, the house of Orange-Nassau, which has given to history three splendid figures: William the Silent, the first Stadtholder of the Dutch Republic; his son Maurice; and William III, who became also King of England.

From her early childhood Princess Wilhelmina has been trained to prepare for her royal duties. She has been carefully educated under an English governess, having been required to master the English and French languages as well as the Dutch, and great attention has been given to her diet, exercise, and all that could contribute to her health. She has also received the constant supervision of her mother, a woman of amiable character and excellent judgment, who is greatly and deservedly beloved in Holland, and who acts as queen regent during her daughter's minority. As Princess, Wilhelmina is dressed plainly, wearing simple white gowns, and having as her only ornament a turquois or pearl necklace.

A Disgusted Cat.

In some manner a cat found its way into a cyclorama building several days ago. The man in charge attempted to chase the trespassing feline through the door, but the cat evidently thought there was a better way of escaping the rising temper of the irate man. It looked cautiously about, as if to avoid stopping on the prostrate forms of heroes slain in the battle. Finally its eyes caught sight of a tree. A projecting limb hung very low, and here the cat thought to find a place of safety. It gave one leap, and, no doubt was the most disgusted cat in Portland when it learned by sad experience that the tree was on the canvas. It picked itself up and slowly slunk through the door, down the stairs and out of the building.

Butterflies That Bathe.

According to the Victoria Naturalist the butterflies of Australia are in the habit of bathing. An observer says he saw a butterfly alight close to the water, into which it backed until the whole of the body and the lower part of the hind legs were submerged, the two fore legs alone retaining their hold on the dry land. After remaining in this position for something like half a minute, it flew away, apparently refreshed. In one instance no less than four of the creatures were seen doing the same thing within a space of not more than three yards. To make sure that there was no deception several were seized as they rose from the water, and the body and lower edges of the rear wings were found to be wet.

Educational.

It is estimated that the new school book law of Missouri will save the State $50,000 a year.

The school board of Oakland, Cal., passed a resolution not to employ married women as teachers.

The Fort Dodge Collegiate institute, of which the Rev. L. H. Hayes is president, has been removed to Storm Lake, Iowa.

The Chautauque class of '91 numbers between 30,000 and 40,000, nearly 1,000 of which were present at the graduation exercises.

Prof. H. B. Adams of Johns Hopkins university has declined the position of chief of the department of liberal arts in the Columbian exposition.

The Minneapolis Board of Education has decided that married women shall have the same chances for positions as teachers in the public schools of that city as unmarried.

The three colleges of Spokane, Wash., have united to form a university with a present fund in land of about $250,000 and immediate expectations of about $150,000 more.

The bishop of Derry, Dr. William Alexander, an eloquent preacher and the author of a work on "The Psalms," has accepted an invitation from Columbia college to deliver a course of lectures next year on the evidences of Christianity. The number and subject of these addresses have not yet been decided upon.

The University of Pennsylvania will open in October a recently endowed school for the subject of purely American topics. American legislation and its history, State constitutional history, the history of religion in America, the history of education, national and local politics, will engage particularly the attention of the students.

The Prince of Wales.

"It is remarkable news in our cable dispatch," says the N.Y. Sun, "that the British Westman conference had passed a full hour in praying for the conversion of the Prince of Wales. Among all the criticisms that have yet been made upon the Prince, this is the criticism that he 'will be likely to feel the most keenly.' That which above all things else makes this remarkable is the fact that there is nothing but a life, which already exceeds the three score and ten years, between the Prince of Wales and the throne of Great Britain and the headship of two great Protestant churches, namely, the established churches of England and Scotland. But such incongruities are inherent in church and State unions.

Thorns and Thistles.

A great many people who profess to have religion do not show it by the way they treat their horses.

No man has done his whole duty to God who has done less than his whole duty to his next-door neighbor.

There are people who have a great deal to say about growing in grace who slander the Lord every time they profess to belong to him.

Whenever the devil wants to perform a piece of extraordinary meanness he puts on his Sunday clothes and assumes a very solemn look.

Mrs. Vognild, of 1144 Milwaukee Avenue, gave a coffee to her lady friends in honor of Mrs. Anderson of Canton, Ohio. Among those present were Mesdames Anderson, Emilsen, Hulton, Olson, Rund, Kleber, Miss M. Hulton, the Misses Olson.

People generally are reluctant about visiting dental offices because of the severe aches they suffer while there; or because their pecuniary means are such as will not permit high prices. Well, this announcement will cordially invite you to an office where these undesirable barriers are removed, since the first-class dental work done here will not only be reasonable in price, but also painless. The most hopeless roots crowned and restored to their original tooth value. Artificial teeth made without plates. Gold and all other desirable fillings done with caution and skill. Special attention to irregularities of children's teeth. And teeth extracted without pain. Office hours from 8 a. m. to 9 p. m. Sundays not excepted. Consultation free. Dr. B. J. Cigaud, Dentist, corner North and Milwaukee Avenues, over Haller's rugstore.

A meeting will be held September 29 at the Aeolus Club House for the purpose of reorganizing an indoor baseball club. An effort will be made to organize a team which will surpass, if possible, the very fine team of last year.

A good many reports have been received recently of numerous robberies, etc. in the neighborhood of Milwaukee Avenue. See to it that your places of business are amply protected at night. Louis Albrecht, who is well and favorably known, has been conducting a private night watchman's route on Milwaukee Avenue for a year past, and has given the utmost satisfaction. Anyone wishing his services should address him at 214 Homer Street.

FIFTEENTH WARD REPUBLICAN BANQUET.

The 15th Ward Republican club held a banquet at Brewster Hall, North Avenue, Friday evening, Sept. 18th, at which 115 members were present. The meeting was opened according to programme at 9:15, and after being called to order was addressed by James Reddick in a few well chosen and forcible remarks. At the close he presented to Justice Olaf Severson a diamond shirt stud valued at $175.00 a gift from personal friends. Mr. Severson answered in a most happy way thanking all for their token of friendship and saying that that to him their friendship was in itself a more prized jewel than any diamond.

Chairman Michael then called up A. G. Cox, who gave a finely prepared speech, complimenting the party upon its strong and solid union. He then presented Ald. Michaelson with a diamond star valued at $200. a present from the Republicans of the 15th Ward. The Alderman responded in a very neat manner, thanking all for the gift, and expressed himself as gratified at their appreciation of his efforts in the position of trust in which they had placed him.

The banquet followed, each guest being assigned to a place at the tables, which were in the form of a horseshoe, and literally groaning with the weight of edibles on them. Six huge bouquets of beautiful flowers were placed around the table. The menu was composed of oyster stew, roast beef, beef and pork, with a bottle of fine, dry wine for each plate.

When hunger was satisfied, the chairman proposed the health of Governor Hertz, which was enthusiastically received. Mr. Hertz responded in his usual well chosen manner.

The second toast was drunk in honor of organized labor of Chicago, which was responded to by James Skallerup, President of one of the strongest labor unions in the city, in which he thanked the meeting for their hearty support of the toast, and gave a fine eulogy on the present city government in its relations to organized labor.

Numerous speeches, songs, etc., followed, notably being a song by Mr. Chones, who has a magnificent baritone voice. This elicited such a hearty encore that Mr. C. had to respond which he did with a very pretty Italian song.

An information was filed in the Circuit Court Monday in the name of the people in relation of Robert Gerlach, a citizen, to compel John F. Wilcox to show by what warrant he claims to hold the position of Police Magistrate and Justice of the Peace for West Chicago. The petition avers that at one time Wilcox was a Police Magistrate for the Village of Jefferson, elected to fill the unexpired term of Alexis D. Michaud. His time expired May 1, 1889, and since then it is alleged that he has usurped the office. It is further claimed that April 13th, 1889, his successor, C. F. Gooding, was elected and sworn into office as Police Magistrate for the Village of Jefferson, and his term does not expire until 1893. Finally it is claimed that Wilcox never qualified as Police Magistrate or Justice for the Town of West Chicago.

MR. WADHAMS FOR COUNTY SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS.

Considerable interest is being taken by the people in the outlying towns of the county in the nomination of a successor to Mr. Lane as County Superintendent of Schools.

A gentleman from one of the suburbs, prominent in politics, said that he thought it should be left to them to name his successor, for the superintendent has almost exclusive charge of the county schools and nothing whatever to do with the city.

For the past eight or nine years Mr. Lane has had as his assistant Mr. John A. Wadhams, except this last year, when he was appointed principal of the Tilton School. While Mr. Wadhams was Assistant County Superintendent it was his duty to visit all the county schools, examine the Town Treasurer's accounts and the dockets of justice of the peace for fines payable to the Superintendent, which during all those years he never once failed to do. It was his duty to examine the applicants for teacher's certificates. So well has he performed all the routine work of that office that he was continued assistant superintendent under Albert G. Lane for eight years, who highly recommends him as his successor.

Mr. Wadhams is a resident of Irving Park, where, for a year or two prior to his appointment under Mr. Lane, he was principal of the village school. He is a Republican and a thorough American, born in 1843 at Blue Island, in this country, and from a poor farmer boy, he has, by his own exertions, become one of the leading educators in the State. From 1872 up to the time of his going to Irving Park, he was principal of the village school at Washington Heights, where the people in honoring him for County Superintendent, in their own words say: "Nothing too good can be said of Mr. Wadhams; he is the right man for the place."

Mr. Wadhams, while assistant superintendent, made many friends among the German people who largely populate the country districts, and it is reported that they are working hard to secure his nomination.

A Baltimore Belle Captures a Noble Lord

A SENSATION IN FASHIONABLE CIRCLES IN SARATOGA.

Among the arrivals at one of the hotels yesterday in Saratoga were two stylishly dressed and beautiful young girls accompanied by an elderly lady and three servants. They registered from Baltimore, and it was learned that they were reigning belles in that city. The eldest sister had just entered her twentieth year.

Her fiancé arrived upon the brilliant scene driving a pair of perfectly matched cream-colored ponies, handling cream-colored reins with gold buckles, and attached to a cream-colored dog-cart with gold trimmings elaborately mounted. These he presented to the lady of his choice, and at an early hour the following day the chief designer of The New York and Paris Young Ladies' Fashion Bazar received a message from the ladies to procure within the next five days four pale cream India silk dresses of the same tint as that of the gold-tipped dog-cart. The proprietor of The New York and Paris Young Ladies' Fashion Bazar will spare no pains to make these natty driving costumes the most showy and gorgeous of the season. The design which struck their fancy was that shown in Fig. 5 of the September number of The New York and Paris Young Ladies' Fashion Bazar. But where that dress is designed in pink, their dresses are to be finished in pale cream. The frill on the sleeves of Fig. 5 will be jauntily looped up with with real pearls set in gold buckles. The September number, containing this magnificent design, is now at sale at all news-stands. Price 25 cents.

PAINLESS DENTISTRY.

A WONDERFUL EXHIBITION.

One of the greatest places of interest to be seen by visitors to Chicago is the Libby Iron War Museum, which is open daily (Sundays included) from 9 a. m. to 10 p. m.

But few people realize what an enormous project it was to remove that historical old structure from Richmond to Chicago and rebuild it exactly as it stood in Dixie Land. It contains 900,000 bricks, its dimensions outside are 130x110 feet and it is four stories high and notwithstanding its great size it does not deviate an inch as it stands in Chicago today, from its original proportions in Richmond. It contains twelve spacious rooms, all filled to overflowing with wonderful, interesting and valuable relics of the late war. In fact, it is the most extensive museum of the kind in the world, and nearly a half million dollars have been expended in establishing it. It has the honor of showing to the public the first exhibit to arrive in Chicago for the World's Fair—Sir Antonio Moro's original life size oil portrait of Christopher Columbus, painted at the Court of Spain in 1543 for Margaret, Queen of the Netherlands, and conceded to be the only authentic portrait of the great navigator extant. It was purchased in London by C. F. Gunther, the confectioner, for $10,000.

Arrest of a Prominent Banker.

A MYSTERIOUS PRISONER TAKEN TO HEADQUARTERS.

Great excitement was caused yesterday by the report of the arrest of a leading financier. At headquarters it was admitted that there had been an arrest, but the detectives refused to give any further information beyond saying that they had been working on the case for weeks, and were satisfied that the right party had been captured. The amount involved is said to be over four million dollars. They further informed the reporter that the full particulars of this startling affair were given in "Old Sleuth, the Detective" issued to-day as No. 2 of the Calumet Series. Any newsdealer will gladly show you a copy.

Saved Him.

He walked in and put down a dollar, a silver dollar, that clanked like a carriage wheel in the stillness of the sanctum. Said he:

"There, take it and credit my subscription quick."

"What's the matter?" we said.

"Well," said he, "last week I was fishing out on Spring creek, a thunderstorm came up, and it rained and thundered and lightning flashed all around me. I crawled into a hollow log to escape it. The rain made the log swell up until I was fastened in and nearly squeezed to death. I began to think of all my sins and to repent. Suddenly I remembered that my subscription to The Globe was not settled up, and I felt so small about it that I was able to back right out of the log at once!"—Cambridge Globe.

Norwood Park Ordinances.

Be it ordained by the residents and Board of Trustees of the Village of Norwood Park:

Sec. 1. That a sidewalk be constructed and laid in the Village of Norwood Park, upon and along the north side of Norwood Avenue from the intersection of a twenty-five (25) foot lot one (1) block sixty-five (65) to west line of lot twenty-two (22) block sixty-four (64) and on south line of Norwood Avenue in front of block forty-one (41) and along the south side of Chicago Avenue in front of lots eight (8) and nine (9) block four (4), and on west side Vine Street along lots eighteen (18) nineteen (19) and twenty (20), and lots twenty-two (22) to thirty (30) inclusive in block seven (7) and along lots twenty (20), twenty-one (21), and twenty-two (22) in block eleven (11).

Said sidewalk to be of five feet in width, and the boards used in its construction shall be not less than one inch thick and of the same uniform thickness in the same place or strip of sidewalk. Where two pieces or strips of sidewalk meet they shall be so joined and united as to cause no impediment to the feet in walking thereon, and as near as may be in the same plane at the point of contact or union.

Sec. 2. Said sidewalk shall be laid on four stringers not less in their dimensions than two by six inches. The two outer stringers shall be four inches apart in the same plane and shall be divided equally by the two remaining stringers, and all stringers shall be supported in position.

The said stringers shall be so laid as to break joints more than four feet (excepting at the end of a sidewalk), and said joints shall be held together by bolting a piece of board securely to the sides of said stringers.

Sec. 3. Said sidewalk, unless otherwise ordered by the Board of Trustees, shall be laid with the inner line or edge four feet distant from the front of the lot or lots along which it is built or constructed, and parallel therewith.

Sec. 4. The boards, stringers or timber used in the construction of the said sidewalk shall be good, sound, merchantable lumber of the grade known as first common, and said boards shall be more than ten inches in width and shall be laid transversely on said stringers. Eight twenty-penny wire nails shall be used to fasten said boards to the said stringers, two in each stringer.

Sec. 5. The said materials and construction of the foregoing described sidewalk to be under the supervision of and subject to the approval of the Village Inspector of the Village of Norwood Park.

Sec. 6. The owners of the lot, lots or parcels of land touching the line of said sidewalk as proposed, shall construct a sidewalk in front of their respective lots or parcels of land in accordance with the specifications hereinbefore set forth, within thirty days after the date of the adoption of these ordinances in three public places in said Village of Norwood Park, and in default thereof the materials therefor shall be furnished and said sidewalk be constructed by the Village of Norwood Park, the cost of the construction and laying of said sidewalk, as aforesaid, shall be paid for by special tax on the lot, lots or parcels of land touching upon the line of the proposed sidewalk, by levying the whole of the cost thereof upon such lot or lots or parcels of land in proportion to their frontage on said proposed sidewalk.

Sec. 7. A bill of the cost of said sidewalk, showing in separate items the cost of grading, setting and laying of the sidewalk, together with a list of the lot, lots or parcels of land touching upon the line of said sidewalk, the names of the owners thereof, and the frontage thereof, shall be prepared by the Village Clerk and shall be a special tax list against said lots or parcels of land and the owners thereof, ascertained by computation the amount of the special tax to be charged against each of said lots or parcels and the owners thereof, on account of the construction of said sidewalk, in proportion to the frontage of said lot or lots on said sidewalk, which special tax list the Clerk of the Village of Norwood Park shall place on file in his office; and the said Village Clerk shall thereupon issue warrants directed to O. W. Flinders, Collector, or his successor, for the collection of the amount of special tax so ascertained and appearing from said special tax list to be due from the respective owners of the lot, lots or parcels of land touching upon the line of said sidewalk, and shall proceed to collect said warrants in the manner provided for by Section Three (3) of the Act of the General Assembly of the State of Illinois, entitled "An act to provide additional means for the construction of sidewalks in cities, towns and villages," in force July 1, 1875.

Sec. 8. In case of the failure to collect said special tax, as provided in said act, the Village Clerk shall, within thirty days thereafter, make a report of all such special tax, in writing, to the County Collector of Cook County of all the lots or parcels of land upon which such special tax shall be so assessed, with the names of the respective owners thereof, so far as the same are known to him, and the amount due and unpaid upon such tract together with a copy of this ordinance, in the manner prescribed by Section four (4) of the Act of the General Assembly of the State of Illinois, entitled "An act to provide additional means for the construction of sidewalks in cities, towns and villages," in force July 1, 1875.

Approved by the Board of Trustees.

Attest: E. H. Bishop, Village Clerk.
