TAKE NOTICE.

Having this day dismissed Chas. Lear from my employ, I will not be responsible for any debts he may incur in my name. All accounts due at the barber shop must be paid to me. W. H. Bussey, Prop. Irving Park, Oct. 8th, 1891.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

Beginning Nov. 1st, we shall adopt the cash system. The large number of accounts I am carrying and the slow and costly process of collecting, forces this upon me. Margins being small at the best, we believe we can do better for our customers and have decided to make this change. Paper accounts will be made payable monthly in advance. Owing to the advance in price of the wholesale rates. we shall sell dailies for two cents straight, (the train boys and city carriers are charging three cents). The prices of Sunday papers will be the same as before, but must be cash in advance.

I have always contended that a barber shop could be run on a ten cent price for a shave, but have heretofore relied on send agents. 543 Armitage avenue. the judgment of my men and have been charging fifteen cents. A WONDERFUL EXHIBITION.

One of the greatest places of interest to be seen by visitors to Chicago is the Libby Frison War Museum, which is open daily (Sundays included) from 9 a. m. to 10 p. m. But few people realiz: what an enormous project it was to remove that historical old structure from Richmond to Chieag ane rebuild it exactly as it stood in Dixie Land. It contains 900,060 bricks, its dimensions outside are 130x110 ieet and it is four stories high, and notwithstanding its great size it does not deviate an inch as it stands in Chicago today, from its original proportions in Richmond. contains twelve spacious rooms, all filled to overflowing with wonderful, interesting and valuable relics of the late war. In fact, it is the most extensive museum of the kind in the world, and nearly a half million dollars have been expended in establishing it. It has the honor of showing to the public the first exhibit to arrive in Chicago for the World's Fair-Sir Antonio Moro's original life size oil portrait of Christopher Columbus, painted at the Court of Spain in 1543 for Margaret, Queen of the Netherlands, and conceded to be the enter and said, "You can't get anything only authentic portrait of the great navigator extant. > Nearly Half a Million People Turn Out in Chicago-Hoary and Battle Scarred Veterans Without Number.

> CHICAGO, Oct. 7.—This day will pass into the history of Chicago as the greatest she has ever seen. It will pass into the history of the Nation as a day of great event. It will mark an epoch in the history of great men of all times.

At Lincoln Park, Chicago, to-day was unveiled a statue to a military hero who has had no peer in the world's history. The Grant monument will in years hence fade to dust, like all works of men, but the name of the great man inscribed in the cold marble plate will live forever.

Never before did such a crowd throng the streets of Chicago, as lined the thoroughfares of the city to-day and watched the almost endless proprocession of veterans and military societies march to the music of hundreds of bands that played airs appropriate to the occasion. It would be impossible to estimate the extent of the procession. It would hardly be exaggerating it to state that it was the largest ever formed in this country. The veterans came from all sections of the land. Here and there in the procession could be seen a grey uniform, but only grey to demonstrate how the conquered can respect the conqueror. The grey was greeted with thunders of applause from the admiring multitudes along the line of march.

Members of the Civic societies to the extent of 10,000 were in line.

Excursion trains from all directions came in last night and early this morning. Over 250,000 strangers are in the

On the morning of July 23, 1885, Grant's life rassed out. Before noon Chicago was draped in mourning. Gen. Joseph Stockton of the Lincoln park commission within two hours of the receiving of the news had established the movement which has resulted in the uprearing of the Grant Memorial. The first contributor to the fund was Potter Palmer.

A board of trusteer for the Monument association was organized, with the late Gen. William E. Strong as president. The other members were Messrs Potter Falmer. E. S. Dreyer, McGregor Adams, Samuel M. Nickerson, Norman Williams. Joseph Stockton, and Edward S. Taylor, the latter being the secretary. The board has remained unchanged except for the death of Gen Strong.

nearl, $65,000. The design for the base and pedestal submitted by F. M. Whitehouse of Chicago was accepted, and the equestrian statue proposed by Louis T. Rebisso of Cincinnati seemed to the trustees the most meritorious of the drawings of figures submitted in competition. Mr. Rebisso was authorized first to make a study model of his statue to submit to the trustees. This was fully up to the promise of the original drawrected to be made.

Grant's Old Regiment.

About thirty grizzled veterans, most of whom are past the age of 50 and crippled in some way from wounds made by rebel bullets, were assembled in room 77 in the federal building this morning under command of Capt. Ed. Harlan, the ranking officer of the old Twenty-first infantry, Gen. Grant's regiment. These thirty are all that are left of the famous body of which Grant was appointed head in April, 1861, at Springfield. Grant le ft the regiment in September of the same year for higher honors. The regiment was mustered out at the close of the war a shattered little band of heroes. They went through all the heavy battles in Tennessee At Stone river 300 men, almost half the regiment, fell in the space of four hours. At Chicka mauga the Twenty-first gained glory and honor but lost most of the men.

The survivors gathered this morning to march in the place assigned them in the parade. At their head was borne the flag that floated over the regimental headquarters when Grant was chosen its colonel. The flag is tattered and torn but is prized above all other mementoes of the regiment.

Killed by Unknown Robbers. GRAND FORKS, N. D., Oct. 6. - Robert Woods, justice of the peace of East Grand Forks, was found at 2:45 this morning lying in the street crossing Demerse avenue, near the office of the East Grand Forks Courier, with a bullet in his head. It had entered just below the right eye. Woods had left his room to procure a doctor for a sick room-mate at 2:30 a. m.

An officer standing at the corner of Demerse avenue bridge heard a shot, summoned assistance and the dying man was taken to the city hall. Dr. Erwin of this city was summoned. Woods was unconscious, remaining so until death occurred at 9 o'clock this forenoon.

A new revolver belonging to Woods was found lving by his side with every chamber undischarged. He had evidently drawn the revolver in self-defense, but it was dropped before he had time to shoot. His watch was gone and two $20 gold pieces taken from his right pantaloons pocket. A roll of ls, city orders and other valuable papers were found in his vest pocket undisturbed. Tracks of two men on the frosty sidewalk showed the direction the assassins had taken, but nothing else is known of them. Coroner Shephard of Crookston was summoned and will hold an inquest Monday morning at East Grand Forks.

HARRISON'S NEXT MESSAGE. It Will Probably Recommend no

Silver Legislation by Congress NEW YORK, Oct. 6 .- A Commercial Bulletin Washington special says: "The President has practically decided to recommend no silver legislation at the coming session of congress. He will probably indulge in a few generalities regarding the importance of maintaining public credit, but will recommend neither the repeal of the silver act of last summer por further steps in the direction of inflation. Secretary Foster will take a similar course in writing his annual report to Congress. Both of them were strongly impressed a few weeks ago with the plan for coining the American silver product and shutting foreign silver from the mints. The scheme has been so roundly denounced, however, that little more is likely to be heard from it.

T., Oct. 6. - The Free Press of this city issued an extra today announcing the glad news that the work of allotting the Chevenne and erect a building and display its Arapahoe Indian lands west of this resources city will go on. Sept. 30 Secretary Noble issued an order to cease the work of allotments for the reason that the appropriation had been exhausted. This morning a telegram was received from Secretary Noble stating that the allotting agents had been ordered to proceed with the work. The department at Washington is keeping pace with the agents in the field and only a few days will elapse, after the work here is completed, before the lands can be declared open to homestead settlement. The Cheyenne and Arapahoe reservations are four times as large as the territory recently opened in Western Oklahoma and the rush for them, it is expected, will surpass anything yet witnessed.

DR. TALMAGE ON THE MISSION OF CHRIST.

The Text Taken from John 18: 37 To this End was I Born"-A Chapter from the Great Preacher's Everyday Life.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Oct. 4, 1891.-A most impressive scene is that witnessed in the Brooklyn Tabernacle, when at the opening of the morning service 7,000 persons on the main floor, in the two galleries, and the adjoining rooms rise and sing the Doxology. This morning in addition to the congregational singing, Prof. Henry Eyre Browne rendered from the organ, "Theme and Variations in A," Kramer. Dr. Talmage's text was taken from John 18:37, "To this end was I born.'

After Pilate had suicided, tradition says that his body was thrown into the Tiber, and such storms ensued on and about that river that his body was taken out and thrown into the Rhone, and similar disturbances swept that river and its banks. Then the body was taken out and removed to Lausange, and put in a deeper pool, which immediately became the center of similar atmospheric and aqueous disturbances. Though these are fanciful and false traditions, they show the execration with which the world looked upon Pilate. It was before this man when he was in full life and power that Christ was arraigned as in a court of Oyer and Terminer. Pitate said to his prisoner: "Art thou a King, then?" and Jesus answered; "To this end was I born." Sure enough, although all earth and hell arose to keep him down. He is to-day empalaced, enthroned and coroneted king of came for and that was what he accomplished. By the time the child reaches ten years of age the parents begin to discover that child's destiny; but by the time he or she reaches fifteen years of. "What am I to be? What am I going to be? What was I made for?' It is a sensible and righteous question, and the youth ought to keep on asking it until it is so fully answered that the say with as much truth as its author, though on a less expansive scale: "To this end was I born. There is too much divine skill shown in the physical, mental and moral constitution of the ordinary human being to suppose that he was constructed take me out on some vast plain and show me a pillared temple surmounted by a dome like St. Peters, and having a floor of precious stones, and arches that must have taxed the brain of the greatest draughtsman to design, and walls scrolled and niched and paneled and wainscotted and painted, and I should ask you what this building was put up for, and you answered: "For nothing at all," how could I believe you? And it is impossible for me to believe that any ordinary human being who has in his muscular, nervous and cerebral organization more wonders than Christopher Wren lifted in St. Paul's, or Phidias ever chiseled on the Acropolis, and built in such a way that it shall last long after St. Paul's Cathedral is as much a ruin as the Parthenon-that such a being was constructed for no purpose, and to execute no mission, and without any divine intention to-ward some end. The object of this sermon is to help you to find out what you are made for, and help you find your sphere, and assist you into that condition where you can say with certainty and emphasis and enthusiasm and triumph: "To this end was I born." First, I discharge you from all responsibility for most of your environments. You are not responsibe for your parentage, or grand-parentage. You are not responsible for any of the cranks that may have lived in your ancestral line, and who a hundred years before you were born, may have lived a style of life that more or less affects you to-day. You are not responsible for the fact that your temperament is sanguine, or melancholic, or bilious. or lymphatic, or nervous. Neither are you responsible for the place of your nativity, whether among the granite hills of New England, or the cotton plantations of Louisiana, or on the banks of the Clyde, or the Dnieper, or the Shannon, or the Seine. Neither are you responsible for the religion taught in your father's house, or the irreligion. Do not bother yourself about what you cannot help, or about question. The angels do not know. circumstances that you did not decree. Take things as they are and decide the question so that you shall be knows, and you ought to know. A able safely to say: "To this end was I factory running at an expense of $500,born." How will you decide it? By 000 a year, and turning out goods direct application to the only Being in the universe who is competent to tell you—the Lord Almighty. Do you know the reason why He is the only one who can tell? Because He can see everything between your cradle and your grave, though the grave be eighty years off. And besides that, He is the only Being who can see what has been happening for the last five hundred years in your ancestral line, and for thousands of years clear back to Adam, and there is not one person in all that ancestral line of six thousand years but has somehow affected your character, and can cry out in the face of earth and even old Adam himself will sometimes turn up in your disposition. The only Being who can take all things that pertain to you into consideration is God, and he is the one you can ask. Life is so short that we have no time to experiment with occupations and professions. The reason we have so many dead failures is that parents decide for children what they shall do, or children themselves, wrought on by some whim or fancy, decide for themselves without any imploration of divine guidance. So we have now in Testament story. Take all the fac-ulty you have and say: "O Lord! Here is what I have, show me the pulpits men making sermons w hoought to be in blacksmith shops making ploughshares, and we have in the law field and back me up by omnipotent power. Anywhere, anyhow, any time for God." Two men riding on horsethose who instead of ruining the cases of their clients ought to be pounding shoe lasts, and doctors who are the worst hindrances to their patients' convalescence. and artists try-ing to paint landscapes who ought to be whitewashing board ought to be transforming literatures. one to whom they were uttere Ask God about what worldly business and he became the Rev. M vears a definite, decided and tremenuous purpose, saying, "To this end was I

But my subject now mounts into the made for usefulness and heaven. I say to yourself: "Here is something good being done, yet on a small scale;" but if you go into a factory covering many acres, and you find thousands of bands pulling on thousands of wheels and shuttles flying, and the whole scene bewildering with activities, driven by water, or steam or electric power, you conclude that the factory was put up to do great work and on a vast scale. New, I look at you, and if I should find that you had only one faculty of body, on v muscle. only one nerve, if you could see but could not hear, or could hear and not see, if you had the use of only one foot or one hand, and, as to your higher pature, if you had only one mental faculty and you had memory but no judgment, or judgment lut no will, and if you had a soul with only one capacity, I would say not much is expected of you. But stand up, oh man, and let me look you squarely in the face. Eyes capable of s. eing everything. Ears capable of hearing everything. Hands capable of grasping everything. Mind with more. wheels than any factory ever turned, more power than Corliss engine ever moved. A soul that will outlive all the universe except heaven, and would outlive all heaven if the life of other immortals were a moment short of the eternal. Now, what has the world a right to expect of you? What has God a right to demand of you? Go! is the greatest of economists in the universe, and he makes nothing u elessly, and for what purpose a.d he build your body, mind and soul as they are built? There are only two beings in the universe who can answer that dred cannot certainly know. God worth seventy cents a year would not be such an incongruity as you, oh man, with such semi-infinite equipment doing nothing, or next to nothing, in the way of usefulness. "What shall I do?" you ask. My brethren, my sisters, do not ask me. Ask God. There's some path of Christian usefulness open. It may be a rough path or it may be a smooth path, a long path or a short path. It may be on a mount of conspicuity, or in a valley unob-served, but it is a path on which you can start with such faith and such satisfaction and such certainty that you hell and heaven: "To this end was I born." Do not wait for extraordinary qualifications. Philip the Conqueror gained his greatvictories seated on a mule, and if you wait for some caparisoned Bucephalus to ride into the conflict you will never get into the world-wide fight at all. Samson slew the you shall undertake until you are so positive you can in earnestness smite your hand on your p ough-handle, or your carpenter's bench, or your Blackstone's Commentaries, or your medical dictionary, or your Dr. Dick's Didactic Theology, saying: "For this end was I born." There are children who early develop natural affinities for certain styles of work. When the father of the astronomer Forbes was going to London, he asked his children what presents he should bring each one of them. The boy who was to be an astronomer cried out, "Bring me a telescope!" And there are children whom you find all by themselves drawing on their slates, or on paper, ships or houses or birds, and you know they are to be draughtsmen or artists of some kind. And you find others ciphering out difficult problems with rare interest and success, and you know they will be mathematicians. Others making wheels and strange contrivances, and you know they are going to be machinists. And others are found experimenting with hoe and plough and sickle, and you know they will be farmers. And others are always swapping jack-knives or balls or bats, and making something by the bargain, and they are going to be merchants. When Abbe de Rance had so advanced in studying Greek that he could translate Anacreon at twelve of age, there was no doubt left that he was intended for a scholar. But in almost every lad there comes a time when he does not know what he was made for, and his parents do not know, and it is a crisis that God only c n decide. Then there are tho o born for some especial work, and heir fitness does not develop until the late. When Phillip Doddridge, vhose sermons and books have har ested uncounted souls for glory, began to study the ministry, Dr. Calamy, one of the wisest and best men, advised him to turn his thoughts to some other work. Isaac Barrow, the eminent clergyman and earth and king of Heaven. "To this Christian scientist,-his books standard end was I born." That is what he now though he has been dead over two hundred years—was the dishearten-ment of his father who used to say that if it pleased God to take any of his children away he hoped it might be his son Isaac. So some of those who have been characterized for their fied with general directions. Get age, the question is on the child's lips: stupidity in boyhood or girlhood, have specific directions. Do not shoot turned out the mighties benefactors or benefactresses of the human race. These things being so. . . And let all parents, and all schools, and all universities, and all colleges recognize this, and a large number of those who spent their best years in stumbling about among businesses and occupations, now trying this and now trying that, and failing without any divine purpose. If you in all, would be able to go ahead with over a wide range.

In the seventeenth century, all Europe was threatened with a wave of Asiatic barbarism, and Vienna was especially besieged. The King and his court had fled, and nothing could save the city from being overwhelmed unless the King of Poland, John Sobieski, to whom they had sent for help, should with his army come down for the relief, and from every roof and tower the inhabitants of Vienna watched and waited and hored until on the morning of Septem er 11, the rising sun threw an unusual and unparalleled brilliancy. It was the reflection on the swords and shields and helmets of John Sobieski and his army coming down over the hills to the rescue, and that day, not only Vienna, but Europe, was saved. And see you not, Oh ye souls. besieged with sin and sorrow, that light breaks in, the swords and the shields and the helmets of divine rescue bathed in the rising sun of heavenly deliverance? Let everything else go rather than let heaven go. What a strange thing it must be to feel one's self born to an earthly crown, but you have been born for a throne on which you may reign after the last monarch of all the earth shall have gone to dust. I invite you to start now for your own coronation, to come in and take the title deeds to your everlasting inherit-ance. Through an impassion-ed prayer take Heaven and all of its raptures. What a poor farthing is all that this world can offer you compared with pardon here and life immortal beyond the stars, unless this side of them, there be a place large enough and beautiful enough and grand enough for all the ransomed. Wherever it be, in what world, whether near by or far away, in this or some other constellation, hail home of light and love and blessedness! Through the atoning mercy of Christ, may we all get there.

The New Dictionary.

The answer of the publishers of Webster's Unabridged Dictionary to the attempt of pirates to steal their thunder by issuing cheap phototype reproductions of the antiquated edition of 1847, is the publication of a new and completely reedited and enlarged edition of the authentic Unabridged, which as a distinguishing title bears the name of International.

The publishers have expended in the the last ten years over $300,000 in the preparation of this new book before issuing the first copy, and the improvements of the various editions since that of 1847 have cost over threefourths of a million of dollars for editing, illustrating, type-setting and electrotyping alone.

The new dictionary is the best book of its kind in the English language. It unlocks mysteries, resolves doubts, and decides disputes. The possession of it and the habit of consulting it will tend to promote knowledge, literary taste, and social refinement. For every family, the members of which have mastered the art of reading, the purchase of Webster's International Dictionary will prove a profit-County Fair company, was arrested at able investment, and the more they Decatur for abducting Miss Lulu Cava-advance in knowledge and cultivation the more they will appreciate its aid and worth.

Suppressing the Press.

The arrest of two editors for printing an extract from another paper questioning the validity of the antilottery law is certainly carrying things pretty high in this land of free speech and liberal government.

The Post has no objection to the stamping out of the lottery companies, but the line should be drawn, it thinks, at the point where the irresponsible underlings of the government attempt to stamp out the press. On this line the Atlanta Constitution says that "this policy will not wor" If lotteries cannot be destroyed without also destroying the freedom of the press, the people will be in favor of letting the lotteries alone. We cannot afford to yield our right to speak and publish fair criticisms of public measures. If we yield the right in one instance we may expect to be forced to government to demand it. Fortunately it is no easy matter to bulldoze the newspapers of America. The menace of fine and imprisonment will intimidate very few. No matter what Federal officials may hold, the newspaper men of the country will not change their conviction that an honest criticism or discussion of the provisions contained in the anti-lottery law canto be a violation of the law. If the are mistaken in this belief, then the law will have to be repealed or modified. In this republic the government cannot array itself against the press and have the support of the people. It is the policy and practice in some of the monarchies to inhibit criticism by the press of the acts of government, but until the enforcement, or the alleged enforcement, of the anti-lottery law no one dreamed that such a thing would be attempted in the United States. - Houston (Tex.) REGISTRATION day is Tuesday. Oct. 20th, two weeks before election, instead of three weeks, as heretofore.

Remember the date, Tuesday, Oct. 20.

President of the County Board.

THE unveiling ceremonies of the Grant Monument Wednesday was the most extensive and magnificient affair of its kind ever held in Chicago. Fully 250,000 people turned out to witness the parade and other ceremonies.

THE greedy and grasping policy of the Yerkes cable line company was the cause of a death Wednesday. While riding through the La Salle street tunnel on his way to Lincoln Park, Jas. Banks' of 886 West Harrsson street, was crowded from a car and fell beneath the wheels, killing him instantly.

THE great leader of the Irish cause, the uncrowned king of Ireland, Charles Stewart Parnell, died on Tuesday last from rheumatic fever, after a short illness. His death has cast a gloom over the United Kingdom such as that of but few men could have done, and the sympathy extended to his family and the Irish cause is sincere and widespread.

have learned by experience that the only waterproof coat they can sell to a cowboy or hunter is the Pommel Slicker with the "Fish Brand" Trade Mark on it. They are the best waterproof saddle coats ever made. They keep the saddle, the borse's back, and the rider thoroughly dry and warm. No saddle sores from the galling of a wet saddle. When used as a walking coat, the extension front buttons back, and the Slicker is changed at once to an ordinary coat. Just try one, they cost but little and will prevent colds, fevers, rheumansm, and other results to exposure to the weather. Beware of worthless imutations, every garment stamped with "Fish Brand" Trade Mark. Don't accept any inferior coat when you can have the "Fish Brand Slicker" delivered without extra cost. had met. As she spoke Unorna looked up with an expression wholly unlike the one he had seen a few momen's earlier. Her strong will was suddenly veiled by the most in his memory, the result could not be gentle and womanly manner, and a little shiver, real or feigned, passed over her as she drew the folds of her fur more closely around her. The man before her could resist the aggressive manifestation of her power, but he was far too courteous to refuse her request.

.. Which way?" he asked, quietly. "To the river," she answered.

He turned and took her place by her side. For some moments they walked on in silence. It was already almost twilight.

So far as he himself was concerned, he was in no humor for talking. He had seen almost everything in the wor'd, and had read or heard almost everything that mankind had to say. The streets of Prague had no novelty for him, and there was no charm in the chance acquaintance of a beautiful woman to bring words to his lips.

Unorna, for the first time in her life, felt that she had not full control of her faculties. She who was always so calm, so thoroughly mistress of her own powers, whose judgment Keyork Arabian could deceive, but whose self-possession he could not move, except to anger, was at the present moment both weak and unbalanced. Ten minutes earlier, she had fancied that it would be an easy thing to fix her eyes on his and to cast the veil of a half-sleep over his already half-dreaming senses. She had fancied that it would be enough to say "come," and that he would follow. Previous to two years ago the play was seen here often, but a characteristic of this drama is, that its beauty and charm are not worn away by time. "The White Slave" is a remarkable play in many ways. It is a romantic reminder of ante-bellum times, the memory of which is gradually fading into a dim recollection. It illustrates not only the evil of those infludnce of the manorial surroundamiability are brought glowrepulsive contrast are exhibited the lash, the miserable enthrollment, abject subjection to the caprices of the master. GENERAL BOOTH'S ARMY.

The Great Crusade of the Salvation Sol. diers in Sinful London

Never since Peter the Hermit roused went marching to the holy land, and thousands lost their lives in the vain effort to rescue it from the infidelnever since then has there been such an awakening and quickening of christian zeal as these Salvationists have accomplished. When preaching and praying, when singing and marching. when blowing their instruments, beating their drums and waving their flags, their faces glow with a glorified faith; the ecstasy of their souls shines from their countenances; their eyes look forward as if they were marching on straight to paradise and saw the wide-open gates and angels beckoning on. It is wonderful how unanimous is this fervor. Over sixty-two thousand five hundred and fifty Salvationists were assembled in Crystal Palace. These were only delegates from the armies, or squads of armies, over the kingdom. The most perfect order prevailed; no confusion, not a cross word, not an oath, not the faintest odor of tobacco, not a drop of any sort of alcoholic drink and not a policeman was seen. The army is as perfectly drilled and as obedient to orders as Queen Vic's. Moreover, it has stolen the scarlet uniform of Vic's soldiers. Every man soldier of Booth's army wears a scarlet jersey jacket, across the breast of which is printed, in gilt letters, "Salvation Army;" on the blue cap is a band, and on the band "Salvation Army," in gilt letters. When an officer shouts: "Fire a volley!" from every throat, man's and woman's, comes the answering shout: "Hallelujah!" "Hallelujah!" the voltey is fired. These men and women are training themselves for martyrdom. They say they are to go through an awful persecution from the powers that be, but did not explain to me what form they thought the persecution will take. The army is large; its officers are 10,-000 men and women. Col. Lucy Booth and Capt. Eva, the general's daughters, are both handsome young women, with bright, intelligent faces. Booth himself is a notable-looking man, with tall, spare form, fine face and large features of rather Roman cast. When I heard him address that vast audience, certainly the largest I ever saw, it was a grand sight. I could understand how he had acquired such power over so many human hearts. When speaking he throws not only mind and heart, but his very soul into word and action. At 1 p. m. "The Battle of Song" took place, certainly the most wonderful sight and sound imaginable. There were 5,000 instruments, besides the grand organ and 30,000 voices. The grand hall was filled to the dome, the coloring brilliant, white, red. gold, and 10,000 small flags of every hue waved. It may not have been scientific music, but it was immense, tremendous, grand, and the whole scene beautiful beyond description.

Not the least wonderful feature of this Salvation show was a gallery called "Darkest England." Here was a dram-shop, a pawn-shop, a court of justice, a prison, a tread-mill, &c. We saw the men in the dram-shops, in the pawn-shops, the ragged, wretched women and children; saw them tried, condemned, sent to prison, picking oakum, walking the tread-mill, &c. At 5 p. m. $0,000 men and women soldiers, brass bands and all, marched in military order before Gen. Booth. As they passed every soldier shouted and cheered with a will, and the papapers of the day gaze all this the briefest mention, some no mention at all. Yet, to my thinking, it is the rumbling of a storm which will rouse England some day. - A London Letter.

An Oddity in Painting.

The provincial cities of France are just now being entertained by a remarkable artist, one who displays wonderful skill in her own peculiar style of painting. With plates of various colored sand before her, she takes the sand in her right hand and causes it ble. A bunch of grapes is deftly pictured with violet sand, a leaf with green sand and relief and shadows with sand of the colors to suit. When this has been admired by those artistically inclined, it is brushed away and is soon replaced by a bouquet of roses or some other object, all done with great dexterity. Even the finest lines are drawn with streams of sand, all as distinct as though made with an artist's brush - St. Louis Republic.

Another Beautiful Statue.

Milo, the island of the Cyclades in which the famous "Venus of Milo" was discovered, has again been the scene of the unearthing of a splendid example of ancient Hellenic art. The new "find" is the marble statue of a boxer, somewhat above life-size, which is almost as perfect after its burial under the dust of centuries as it was when it came fresh from the hands of the sculptor. This statue has been shipped to Athens, where a commission of Greek archæologists, aided by some members of the German archeological institute in Athens, will report upon the period of its origin and its probable creator.

How gladly for a good, great cause We struggle, shoulder set to shoulder! How restlessly, when One withdraws Our weapons, leaves us no beholder, We bear the inactive pause!

"Lord of the Fight." we cry, "we miss The cheery comrades, tried and trusted We share the coward straggler's hiss;-We may not, swordless, armor rusted, Fartake the battle's bliss!

"Post us," we pray. "where we may lead,-Not wait in sudden silence hidden; Give us to serve some pressing need; Until. the enemy o'erridden, Thou shalt be King indeed!"

Yet no man's place is fixed by chance On open field, in lonely thicket: The issue of deliverance May rest with that unnoticed picket Who sees the foe advance!

Amerisan War Flags.

An admiral's flag is square, with four stars in a diamond on a blue ground, says the New York Commercial Advertiser. A vice admiral's has three stars, forming half a diamond. Rear admirals have three flags according to rank-viz, blue, with two white stars in centre of field, one above the other; red, with two white stars; white with two blue stars. Commodores have also three flags-blue, red, white swallow tail, bearing one star in center of field.

The Secretary of the Navy floats a blue square flag-a foul anchor surrounded by four white stars. This flag came into use in 1866.

When the President comes on board a United States vessel a blue square flag containing the arms of the United States is hoisted at the main, honored with a salute of twenty-one guns, and remains aloft while the President is on board. The Vice-President is received with the American ensign at the fore.

A flag of truce is a white flag displayed to an enemy to indicate a desire for a parley or consultation.

The red flag is a mark of danger. and shows a vessel to be receiving or discharging powder.

The black flag is the symbol of piracy.

The yellow flag belongs to the quarantine service, and when displayed is a sign of contagious disease.

A convoy flag is white, triangular in shape, bordered with red, and is worn by men-of-war when convoying merchant vessels.

A pilot flag is the jack boardered with red, hoisted at the fore.

A compass flag is a square flag divided into four squares or cantonsblue, yellow, white, red, hoisted over the numeral flags of the signal code represent the points of the compass.

A dispatch flag is a white, square flag with five blue crosses, generally known as the five of clubs; hoisted forward denotes important and urgent special service, which must not be interfered with by any officer junior to the one by whom it was dispatched.

A church pennant is a white pennant, without swallow tails, charged with a blue Latin cross, hoisted at the peak during divine service, over the ensign.

The cornet is a square flag, divided into four equal parts of alternate red and white, and when hoisted anywhere, without other flags, is a peremptory order for all absent boats and officers to return on board without delay. It is also a signal for sailing, and has long been used in the navy for that purpose.

To strike the flag is to lower the national colors. A flag at half-mast means that a death has occurred, and hoisted union down is a signal of distress. Dipping the colors is lowering the ensign some distance and hoisting it again to salute a vessel or fort.

An Incident of the War.

"What a wicked war was that which arrayed this country against itself!" Was said one day to General E. H. Murray of Kentucky.

His only reply was the following

"When the war broke out I was a lad at home, where I delighted in an independent military company of which James T. Morehead was captain and I second lieutenant. Though the first secession gun had been fired, nothing was said about fighting, when one morning our company met at the armory preparatory to going into camp for a competitive drill at Hardin's mills. "It was daylight and the boys didn't come in as we expected, whereupon Morehead exclaimed: 'D --- it! I'll get somebody who will go with me further south than Hardin's mills.' "All right, captain,' was my reply, so will I.'

"These hot words disbarded the company. Morehead at once began recruiting for the southern. I for the northern army. He got volunteers faster than I, most of our company being secessionists. "Morehead and I did not meet again until I reached Murfreesboro' with the Union army, where Dr. Pendleton, who had charge of Breckenridge's hospital, told me that my old friend was dying. Hurrying to the dear fellow's bedside. I found him speechless, but he extended his hand, which I clasped Leaning over him I said. Jim, we're in possession, and I've come to tell you to have no fear. You'll be cared for.' The poor boy pressed my hand and whispered:

happen to me. Ah, Eli, if we were only back just where we used to be!" "Those were his last words."

Heaven spare this republic the sin and shame of another such fraticidal

Lincoln Staked Him-

In the latter part of 1862 the One Hundred and Sixty-seventh Pennsylvania volunteers were stationen at Washington, preparatory to moving toward Richmond. For some unknown reason their salaries had been delayed for two months, and the boys found themselves "strapped" pretty closely for money. Among the members of Company D was a wild, harum-scarum sort of fellow, hailing from Lancaster in twelve years. county. For a week he had been without an ounce of tobacco. From everybody he questioned he received the same answer- "Haven't an ounce; money all went a month ago."

The poor fellow endured the agony for a while, but finally, becoming desperate, he got leave of absence from camp one morning and started off up G street in the direction of the white house. Arriving there, he stopped for a while, looking over the fence into the grounds surrounding the executive mansion, and presently caught sight of the president walking along the path in front of the house. Just then a bright idea struck him. Mustering up courage, he stalked into the grounds and presently neared the president.

Good morning, Mr. President, he said touching his cap.

'Good morning, my man," replied 'Old Abe." "What can I do for

The soldier hesitated for a while, but, noticing the President's kindly look, finally said:

'The fact of the matter is, Mr. President, we haven't had any money for two months now and every one of us is dead broke, and I'm almost dead for a chew of tobacco.'

A smile lit up the face of the great formation, and then his hand went down into his pocket. Drawing forth a silver dollar he handed it to the 'broken' volunteer and said:

"It shan't be said that one of my soldiers died from the want of some tobacco. I need his services too much for that. Buy some tobacco with this, and I think by the time it is gone you will have received all the money that is due you."

With a gratified "thank you, Mr. President," the soldier lifted his cap and passed quickly out of the grounds. The back salary was paid shortly after the occurrence.

It was after the battle of Gravelotte, the bloodiest fight of the Franco-German war of 1870. The cavalry officer, badly wounded himself, was greatly annoyed by the cries of some wounded soldiers lying near him.

At last, being unable longer to control himself, he testily called out: "Stop your howling over there! Do you think you're the only ones killed in this fight?"
