THE AVERTED PULLMAN STRIKE.

It is not absolutely certain that the threatened strike at Pullman has been averted, but the result is so nearly assured that it may be set down as morally certain. The demand was for increased wages, and the reply of the company is that it is losing money at the present rate, and if the workmen are not satisfied the shop will be closed. An investigation was invited and will probably be made. No doubt the statement made as to the company's business not paying will be verified, and the reasonableness of the refusal to grant an increase will be recognized.

The works at Pullman began operation in 1881, since that time over $30,000,000 has been paid out in wages. With one exception, and that an unimportant one, there has been no strike there in all these years. That exception occurred in 1885. The present pay roll is $7,000 a day. At the commencement of the depression last year the company was employing 5,816 men and paying in wages $305,000 a month, the present number employed being about 4,300, which is more than twice the number employed the first of last November. The increase in employment during the winter and spring was due to the low terms on which the contract for building cars were taken and the reduced piece-work prices mutually agreed upon. In a word, the policy on both sides at Pullman has been to make concession and sacrifice in order to secure the greatest possible amount of work and minimize to the lowest point the suffering of the people.

The Pullman method of averting a strike is substantially the same as the policy adopted by the Illinois Steel Works in starting up their mill recently. In both cases the men were lenient and confident of the corporation and the situation explained in detail. The Illinois company offered the representatives of labor every opportunity to investigate and understand all the facts in the case, and as a consequence work was resumed at rates far below what would have been thought of as possible before the hard times. The Pullman reduction is much less radical than that to Joliet. The Pullman Company has no outstanding bonds, and could show a greater degree of liberality than most great corporations.

The present is a very poor time for striking anywhere along the line of American industry. If there is any branch of manufactures now making money its singularity has escaped general observation.

A reward of $10 will be paid any person finding a passage of Scripture that teaches the application of water by sprinkling or pouring in baptism. Any person giving chapter and verses before the 1st day of June, 1894, will receive the above reward. D. A. PIERCE, Barrington, Ill.

Coxey is more honored today by Washington politicians than is the sick father of the Wilson bill. Coxey is taken into Senate lobby, but the Wilson bill, torn into fragments, is in the waste basket of the Senate cellar.

AT REST.

Barrington Loses One of its Old Pioneer's.

Mr. G. A. Appelbee Quietly
Passed Away At His Home
In Barrington, Thursday
May 3rd, 1894.

Mr G. A. Appelbee died at his home Thursday morning May 3, between the hours of nine and ten. Mr Appelbee was born in Upper Canada, on the 14th. day of August 1799, being 94 years of age at the time of his death. He was one of Barrington's oldest settlers, coming to Barrington Township in 1838, long before the founding of the village, and settled on a farm three and one-half miles west of the present site of the village; where he remained for many years, moving to the village of Barrington when the C. & N. W. R. R. was built. He has always been an industrious and hard-working man, spending the earlier part of his life in clearing off heavy timber land in York State. The latter part of his life being spent in and near Barrington, and by hard work and shrewd overseeing accumulated quite a handsome little fortune, owning a farm and some valuable property in Barrington.

At the age of 23, he was united in wedlock to Miss Crabtree. Twelve children—nine daughters and three sons—blessed this union, nine of which still are living.

Mr. Appelbee's funeral was held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the house, Rev. Mr. Suhr officiating, after which he was laid to rest in the Evergreen Cemetery.

The Coxey Ites, it seems are not so anxious to work as would be supposed. A Washington man offered to give them work in a body just out side of the Capitol. He had some land that he wished to have cleared of under-brush and timber and made ready for building purposes, and offered the army the privilege of camping there and $500 dollars to do this work and they refused. Does this look like they are the good honest working men that they are preached up to be? no. But it clearly proves that they are nothing but a set of lazy good for nothing bums, tramping over the universe spunging and living as best they can. Not looking for work but some place to lay in the shade. They are trying their luck in Washington now as times are too hard in the West, for their business.

The fire department at Berlin has a fire engine, the carriage of which is constructed entirely out of papier mache. All the different parts, of the body, wheels, poles, etc., are finished in the best possible manner. While the durability and powers of resistance possessed by the material are fully as great as those of wood, the weight is, of course, much less. The lightness of a fire engine is, of course, a great advantage, and it seems not unlikely that wooden carriages will in a short time pass out of use altogether.

There were 179 business failures last week—201 the week before—against 248 the current week of last year. This shows a little improvement.

The first ambition of every Chinaman is to have a splendid coffin. A poor man will starve himself for years to have one. It is always received with great ceremony on his arrival at the house, and is regarded as the most valuable piece of furniture in the establishment. It is kept in the place of honor. No one is ever buried until there is ready money enough in the house to do so without the family running in debt. There are many strange customs connected with the funeral rites. One of these is the burning at the tomb of paper horses, idol, umbrellas and clothes.

Indiana Democrats are wearing crape on their left arms and refuse to be comforted. They had no fear of future Republican rule, and a few months ago passed a law in the legislature, under party whip, extending the terms of city officials to be chosen last Tuesday, from two to four years. The Republicans didn't do a thing but capture nine out of every ten towns in which elections were held. Beautiful chickens they are that have come home to roost.

FURIOUS RIOTERS.

Cleveland, O. Thrown Into Consternation by a Mob of Unemployed Foreigners.

CLEVELAND, O., May 4.—Tuesday 5,000 unemployed foreigners celebrated May day by marching through the streets of the city, closing down each factory as they came to it. The mob, whose appetite for blood and violence had been increased by the May day depredations, ran wild on Wednesday, throwing the citizens into consternation. The city authorities became aroused at last to the dangers confronting life and property, and 800 men in arms were put in readiness to check any indiscretions in which the mob might indulge. The mayor issued a proclamation warning all persons to abstain from all acts of violence and from assembling together for the purpose of riot and disorder. Mayor Hlee also ordered the militia to be in readiness for any emergency which might arise.

The crowd was crazy and was past all control. Poles, Bohemians, Huns, Slavs and a regular Babel of tongues shouted orders and encouraged the rioters on to their work.

Leaders Arrested.

As a result of the day's depredations six rioters have been arrested. One is Tom Moore, a leading anarchist and a dangerous fellow. He was captured by Lieut. English while loudly urging his cohorts to do all kinds of violence.

Cleveland Rioters Subdued.

CLEVELAND, O., May 4.—Barring a few spirited riots in different parts of the city mob violence was brought to a sudden termination here Thursday. The breaking of the spirit of the lawless marauders is traced directly to one source, and that is the fear of the law. Thursday night, as on Wednesday night, 800 men slept in the military armories or were within immediate call of the field officers of the Fifth regiment, who themselves slept in the city hall.

CALLED OFF.

Strike on the Great Northern Settled by Arbitration.

ST. PAUL, Minn., May 3.—After being tied up for eighteen days almost completely from end to end, the Great Northern railway system will now resume work, the great strike being declared off Tuesday night. It is practically a victory for the American Railway union and President Debs, although the committee from the commercial bodies of the two cities was largely responsible for the result. The governor had tried mediation, suggesting arbitration, but his action did not meet with success and two other similar attempts to bring about arbitration failed. The union leaders claimed that their demands were just and did not admit of arbitration, but they finally said they were willing to have the matter submitted to the citizens' committee and would be governed by their decision.

Finding of the Arbitrators.

The following is the decision of the arbitrators:

"Whereas, At a joint meeting held this day between the management or the Great Northern railway, its employees and this committee of arbitration, at least 90 per cent of the difference in wages in controversy were amicably settled between the company and its employees, now, after hearing the statement submitted by the parties in interest, we find as a result of our deliberations that 75 per cent of the reduction in wages made since August, 1893, of all other classes of men whose claims were submitted to us should be restored."

There was great rejoicing at Grand Forks, N. D., when news of the settlement of the strike reached there, and the men at once returned to work.

Labor's May Day in New York.

NEW YORK, May 3.—Labor had its annual May day demonstration Tuesday night. Fifteen thousand workmen, including 500 women, assembled in Union square, where speeches were made and general but orderly enthusiasm prevailed. The stars and stripes were carried by nearly every delegation.

WILL STAND BY IT.

Democratic Senators Decide in Caucus to Support the Tariff Bill.

WASHINGTON, May 3.—By a vote of 37 to 1 the democratic members of the senate adopted a resolution in caucus on Thursday agreeing to support the tariff bill of the finance committee, including the compromise amendments that have been agreed upon in the conference of the last two weeks. These amendments do not materially affect the income tax provision. The vote in the caucus was as follows:

Yeas
Bate,	Gordon,	Pascoe,
Berry,	Gorman,	Pugh,
Blackburn,	Gray,	Ransom,
Bankhead,	Harris,	Roach,
Brice,	Huntton,	Smith,

Camden,	McLaurin,	Vilas,
Cockrell,	McPherson,	Voorhees,
Coke,	Martin,	Walsh,
Daniel,	Mitchell,	White—37.
Faulkner,	Morgan,
George,	Palmer,

Senator Hill (N. Y.) voted alone in the negative. The six absent senators were: Mills, Murphy, Lindsay, Irby, Butler and Gibson.

A Bold Robbery.

INDEPENDENCE, Ia., May 5.—One of the most daring robberies ever attempted in this vicinity was perpetrated Thursday night at Winthrop, 3 miles east of here. Four persons entered the national bank of that place, blew open the vault, shattering a corner of the building. The steel chest was not opened, although a desperate effort was made to do so. Over $100 in small money was taken, $3,000 remaining intact in the chest.

WITH THE MIND'S EYE.

The rasping sound of steel on steel;
A score of footsteps on the stair;
The clink and whirl of rod and wheel,
The voice of labor everywhere—
Along the wharf the waters lift
A sluggish current, dull and brown;
With low black hulls, that slowly drift
Beyond the smoke-encircled town.
But fairer scenes before me rise—
The sunny slope, the brooklet clear;
Or where the water-lily lies
In silver on the silent mere;
Where rounded summits, clothed with green,
Are sweet with summer's passing shower,
And rippling rivers flow between
Wide fields, aglow with bud and flower.
Oh forest glade! oh wind-swept hill!
At morn so fresh, at eve so fair,
Whose lightest recollection still
Has power to lessen daily care.
Though life in narrower groove be cast,
Though days be dark, and skies be gray;
The memory of the happier past,
Nor greed nor power can snatch away.

"MY BEST FARE."

A London Cabman's Story of How He Got His Wife.

I've been a cabman ten years or more, and naturally I've had some good fares in my time. There was a bishop once who gave me a sovereign instead of a shilling, and wouldn't take it back when I told him he'd made a mistake. There was a bookmaker who bet me a pound to nothing I couldn't catch a Doncaster special at King's Cross, and who paid me two because I landed him in time, though I damaged my cab and got my number taken on the road.

But the best fare I ever drove was a servant girl. Of course I didn't class her as any better than indifferent when I picked her up at the Great Central terminus, and if it hadn't been for a block in the street, I should probably have missed her altogether. I'd meant to be in time to meet the 6:30 express, a favorite train of mine—only the other day I got a newly-married couple up for a honeymoon out of it—but the block made me just too late, and when I reached the arrival platform, it looked as desolate as only an arrival platform can when one train's backed out and the next ain't due for half an hour.

All the passengers had gone except the one girl, and there wasn't a cab to be seen. The porters—all but Sam Sleeman—were talking to each other, and Sam was talking to the girl.

"Didn't I tell you there'd be one directly, miss?" said he as I came up. "Here's the very best driver in all London at your service."

She was a nice, fresh, pleasant-looking lass; and if I'd been taking a day off into Epping Forest or down to Hampden Court, I'd have been glad enough to let her share the pony-trap; but pleasure ain't business, and I began to wish I'd stopped outside the station. However, as I was there, I couldn't very well refuse her; so she got into my hansom, looking as if it wouldn't take much to make her cry.

"Seventy-four Blank street, Chelsea," said Sam as he handed me up her bit of a box. "I've told her three shillings is the proper fare. Halves in the extra bob, Bill."

I nodded and drove off, not meaning to charge the poor thing any extra shilling, but knowing better than to quarrel with a porter over sixpence.

"Come up, horse," said I as we cleared the station gates. "Perhaps we'll pick up a swell on our way back; and anyhow, we haven't had a bad day."

I was driving a thoroughbred that day, own brother to a horse who once won a race at Alexandra park; and though he was more than a bit queer on his off foreleg, it didn't stop him when he warmed to his work. He was as sensible as a Christian, too, and a shake of the reins was enough to make him do his best; but he didn't like pottering about searching for little streets nobody ever heard of but those who live in them. Blank street was one of that sort, and by the time we pulled up at seventy-four he'd lost his patience, and so had I.

"Now, miss," said I, speaking through the trap and rather sharp, "as soon as you can, please. My horse is fidgety, and time's money."

She gave a little scream and jumped out as quick as if I'd dropped a fire-cracker down on her. In her hurry, she managed to get her dress caught somehow; and when she tried to undo it, she pinched her fingers in the door. "Oh!" she cried again; and, thinking I'd never see the end of the job if I didn't lend a hand, I swung myself down off my perch.

"You ain't accustomed to hansoms, I think," said I as I fumbled about with her skirt.

"I never was in one before," she replied. "I'm very sorry to give you so much trouble. Oh, dear! I hope your horse won't run away."

"Not he, miss," said I. "He'll stand for an hour if I'm not on the box. But there. All's clear now, I think."

"Thank you," said she, taking out her purse. "Are you sure this is the right number?"

"Why, yes," said I, getting her box down. "Anyway, it's seventy-four. That's what you want, isn't it?"

"Yes," she replied. "But it looks like an empty house."

It did; and it wasn't satisfied with only looking like one. I rang the bell till I broke the wire, and then I took a turn at the knocker; but it was no go. The girl stood on the pavement with her shabby little purse in her hand and her shabby little box at her feet, looking so miserable that I hadn't the heart to leave her to shift for herself. "Cheer up, miss," said I. "I'll try next door."

A waspy-faced little woman answered my knock. "No," says she; "I don't know nothing about seventy-four; and if I did, this ain't a private-inquiry office." And with that she shut the door in my face.

"Don't give way, my dear," said I, seeing the girl was beginning to cry. "Perhaps you've made a mistake in the address."

"Oh no; I'm sure I haven't," she sobbed. "Here's the lady's card." She showed it me, and it had "Mrs. Stapleton-Penrose" in the middle, and "74 Blank street, Chelsea," down in the left-hand corner as correct as any card I ever saw.

"Did they know you were coming by this train?" I asked.

"Yes," she replied. "When Mrs. Penrose engaged me, she told me exactly how to come, and the time and everything. She and her husband have been stopping in the boarding-house at Harmington where I was housemaid, and I was to be parlor-maid here. But oh, what shall I do if she's left?"

"No need to think about that till we're sure," said I, more to comfort her than because I had much doubt. I couldn't see a "To Let" about anywhere; but the windows were very dirty, and altogether the place looked as deserted as a last year's nest. "Perhaps the master's in the city, the missis out shopping, and your fellow-servants taking an airing. Anyhow, if you'll keep an eye on the cab—the horse won't stir of his own accord, I promise you—I'll nip round to that post office and ask."

The post office was only one of those little places where they haven't anything to do with the delivery of letters; and they couldn't, or wouldn't, tell me much, though I cross-questioned the young woman in charge nearly as hard as a lawyer once cross-questioned me when I was a witness in a running-down case.

I walked slowly back, hoping to goodness somebody belonging to the place would have turned up while I was away; and, sure enough, when I got round the corner, I could see some one talking to the girl.

"That's all right, William," says I to myself. But it wasn't. The chap was only a policeman.

"Hullo! 10, 414," says he. Trust a copper to take the number of a cab if he stands within sight of it for five seconds. "What's the meaning of this?"

"That's just what I want to know," says I. "If you're the officer on the beat, perhaps you can tell me where to find somebody belonging to seventy-four."

"Ay," says he, chuckling. "I can tell you fast enough. In Holloway prison on remand—charge of general swindling. Surely you're not another victim?"

"No fear," I replied. "But I'm afraid this young woman is. A Mrs. Something-or-other Penrose has engaged her as parlor maid."

"Oh! she has, has she?" said he. "Tell me, my dear, did she borrow any money from you?"

"Oh yes, sir; she did indeed," cried the poor girl, now fairly breaking down. "Ten pounds the day before she left Harmingham. I was to have extra wages for being so ready to oblige her."

"Ah," said the policeman, "I thought so. My lady has been playing the same game, or a similar one, all over the country for some time; but we've got her at last, my girl, and we shan't let her go in a hurry. If you care to have a dig at her, you can come round to the station along with me and tell your story to the inspector. The more of you who appear against her, the longer she's likely to get, if that's any consolation to you. It would be to me, I know."

"And to me," I chimed in. "I'll drive you and the officer round with pleasure, miss, if you'd like to go."

"Oh! no, no," she moaned. She was sitting on her box by this time and crying as if her heart would break. Even the copper looked sorry for her; and I felt as if hanging would be too good for Mrs. Penrose. "I don't want revenge. But what am I to do? what am I to do?"

"Well, if you'll take my advice," put in the copper, "you'll let cabby here drive you back to the station, and take the first train home to your friends."

"I haven't any friends," said she, "or any money to pay my fare, if I had."

"Don't say that, miss," said I, winking at the copper. "There must be some one down in your part of the country who'd put you up till you've time to turn round; and as for fare, why, they know me so well at the Great Central, that I could arrange it with the booking clerk."

But she stuck out she couldn't think of anywhere to go. She said she'd no parents, no relatives even that she knew of; and as for friends, well, a servant in a boarding house naturally don't make many of the sort that's useful in a crisis.

"What the dickens are we to do?" I whispered to the copper.

"There's the casual ward," he whispered back.

"Oh! sink the casual ward," said I; disgusted.

"With all my heart," says he. "But what else is there?"

"Well, ain't there a refuge or a home or something somewhere handy?" I asked.

"Why, yes," replied he. "There's one in X—square; but I don't know whether they'll take her in; and if they will, it's hardly the sort of place for such as her. It's more for—you know."

"Ay, I know," said I, with a sigh. "I might try it, though."

"Yes," says he; "you might, if the young woman has no objection. Anyhow, she can't stop here all night. Come, clear off, you boys."

It was a very quiet street, was Blank street, but a little crowd had collected by this time. While Robert moved them on, I told the girl about the refuge; and though it was easy to see she didn't like the idea of it, she said she'd go; and thanked us both for the trouble we were taking.

"Don't mention it, miss," said I; and Robert, he slipped a shilling into my hand on the sly.

"Get her a decent lodging for tonight, if they won't have her," he whispered. "I think you're a chap to be trusted."

"The same to you, my boy; and thank you," said I. "You've got my number; and I'm always to be heard of at Roscoe's Yard, Lambeth."

"All right," says he. "You'll do the best you can for the poor thing, I'll warrant. Good night."

As everyone who reads the papers knows, there are charities and charities, and that refuge happened to be one of the wrong sort. I saw a woman just about as waspy as the one in Blank street, who said she was the lady superintendent, and seemed to doubt the truth of every word I spoke. She told me they only admitted cases recommended by a subscriber; and then she actually had the impudence to advise me, mind you, a London cabby—to be careful, because girls were that awful nowadays that there was no believing in appearances.

Well, this set my back up. I always was a hasty sort of chap, and I made up my mind to try no more refuges, though I've no doubt that if I'd only known which to take her to there were plenty where she'd have been made welcome and well looked after. I didn't like the idea of just getting her a lodging and leaving her to take her chance either. If she'd no money and no friends it was such a precious poor one.

"They're full up here, miss," says I, going back to the cab. I'd told her to sit still till I saw what sort of a place it was. "They say they can't possibly take you in; but if you don't mind crossing the water I think I know a decent body that would put you up for a night or two."

"You're very good," says she; "but I must owe you a lot of money already, and I've only a few shillings."

"Never mind that, miss," I interrupted. "My fare can wait; and the party I have in my mind won't overcharge you—in fact, it's my mother."

"Your mother?" she cried.

"Yes, miss," said I. "If you'll be good enough to trust me that far, I think it's the best thing we can do."

"Of course I trust you," says she with a little smile. "You've been so kind to me already. But I'm afraid I'll be imposing on your good nature."

"Not a bit of it," said I; and to avoid more words, I clambered up and drove off down the Chelsea embankment near Vauxhall bridge to Roscoe's, to leave the cab. The yardmen stared when I handed the young woman out and shouldered her box.

"Blessed if Bill Taylor ain't been and got married!" I heard one of them say; and "I'll be back for my second horse about nine," I called out, to prevent the report from spreading among my mates. I thought even a yardman would have sense enough to know a chap wouldn't want a second horse on his wedding day.

We lived close to the yard; and my mother stared harder than the men had done when I came in with the box. "That's a queer thing to be left in a cab, Bill," says she.

"Tain't been left, mother," said I; and then I explained things to her as quickly as I could, for the girl was waiting on the landing—we had two rooms in a block of model dwellings.

"You ain't angry, mother?" I asked, for she didn't speak when I'd finished, only looked at me with a queer light in her eyes.

"Angry! No," says she. "Only proud of my son. Come in, you poor dear—come in. You must excuse Bill for leaving you out there. He never did have a grain of sense."

Then they threw their arms about each other and had a good cry, while I scratched my head and wondered at the contradictoriness of women. When they'd done, mother bustled about, and got tea, making the girl help, just to set her at ease.

She told us her name was Jessie Morris, and that she'd been an orphan, earning her own living ever since she was fourteen—I set her down as two-and-twenty that night, but knocked off a couple of years when I saw her after she'd had a good rest—and a lot more about herself I needn't repeat. I left her as cheerful as a cricket, chatting away to my mother as if she'd known her for years. Mother must have taken pretty quickly to her, too; for, after I brought that second horse back about three in the morning, she put her head out of their room just to whisper to me: "Jessie's fast asleep. I thought you'd like to know. God bless you, my boy, for bringing her to me!"

Well, I don't think there's much more to be said. Jessie staid on with us for a week or so, and fairly earned her keep by helping mother give the rooms a thorough cleaning; and then mother found her a place with a family at Brixton. We didn't lose sight of her. When I'd time I'd look her up; and when she'd her evening out she'd come down to see mother, who wasn't as active as I'd have liked her to be. Of course I fell in love with her. No one seeing her homely ways with the old lady could help it; but I didn't speak for nearly a year, partly because I didn't think she'd have me, and partly because I couldn't see my way to providing a comfortable home for the two of them.

After my Uncle Thomas died, though, we were much better off. He left me a nice little legacy; and I set up a hansom and a couple of horses of my own, that thoroughbred being one of them. Then I'd felt I'd got a decent position and a chance of putting by something for a rainy day; so, one Sunday evening, when I was seeing her home to Brixton, I said: "Jessie, poor mother's getting feeble, don't you think?"

"Yes, Bill, I do," says Jessie, looking down and blushing as if she guessed what I had in mind.

"She'd be better for a daughter's care, wouldn't she?" I asked, hoping the hint might be enough.

"Of course she would. It's a pity you haven't a sister," says she, so sharp that I was sure she didn't care for me, and said no more that night. When I got home I must have looked as glum as I felt, for mother would have it there was something the matter, and after a bit she wormed the whole story out of me.

"Oh, you donkey!" says she. "The young men in my day didn't ask girls to marry them for their mothers' sakes. Tell her straight out you love her, if ever she gives you the chance again, which is more than you deserve."

I took mother's advice, and things came right the next time; but what was said I can't exactly remember, and wouldn't put it down if I could. By the by, that policeman he never made any inquiries about 10, 414; but after we'd been married about a year, I came across him again.

"Hullo, sergeant!" says I, pulling up. "I think I owe you a shilling."

He looked sour at first, thinking I must be chaffing him; but when he recognized me he came up and shook hands quite friendly. "No, no," says he. "That was my share. By the way, what became of that girl?"

"She's married," said I.

"Then I hope you got your fare?" says he.

"Yes," says I. "Leastway, she made me a present, and only the other day, too."

"What was it?" he asked.

"Twins," says I; and it would have done you good to see that bobby laugh. He gave me another for the other twin, and offered to stand godfather if we weren't provided. We weren't; and he not only did his duty at the christening, but at a little spread we had afterwards he found a name to my story by calling on the company to drink long life and happiness to me and "My Best Fare."—Chambers' Journal.

Behind the Flag.

A paragraph in a local newspaper on the importance of displaying the national colors on the school buildings and urging the selection of a color guard of several boys in each school to raise and lower the flag each day, calls to mind an incident which occurred not long since on the occasion of some public school exercises. Mr. Harrison Hume was making an address before the pupils, in which he referred to the national emblem and the reasons why we should all feel a pride in it.

"Now," he asked, pointing to a banner at one end of the schoolroom, "what does it represent; what is behind the flag?"

While the speaker paused temporarily a boy who supposed that an answer was expected spoke up promptly and replied:

"The wall!"—Boston Herald.

Counted the Children.

Charles Stephenson, a colored boy, charged with the larceny of shoes from a store, upon being arraigned before Judge Gordon, in the quarter sessions, recently, stoutly maintained his innocence and said he could prove by his mother that he was in bed at the time the theft was said to have been committed.

"Charlie goes to bed early every night," said old Mrs. Stephenson, when called to the stand. "I am the mother of eighteen children, and I brought them all up in the fear of the Lord."

"Eighteen of them! How can you tell when they are all in bed?"

"Well, I count them—one, two, three, four, five and so on—and when I find them all there I pack them off to bed."

The jury acquitted Charlie.—Philadelphia Times.

PATTON IS PICKED.

Gov. Rich Selects a Grand Rapids Man to Succeed the Late Senator Stockbridge.

LANSING, Mich., May 7.—Gov. Rich on Saturday afternoon appointed John Patton, Jr., of Grand Rapids, United States senator to succeed the late Senator Stockbridge. He was notified of his good fortune but a few minutes before the matter was made public. Mr. Patton is an able and successful lawyer, an orator, and a genial and approachable gentleman who is very popular. He comes from a family of marked ability, his father having represented his district in congress two terms, one in the Thirty-seventh congress and again in the Fiftieth.

Gov. Rich says that aside from Patton's great personal worth he was led to make the appointment because Patton was more generally indorsed than any other candidate and because he came from practically the same section of the state as did Stockbridge. The nomination is generally satisfactory to the party.

[John Patton was born at Curwensville, Pa., October 30, 1853, and consequently is a trifle under 41 years of age. He prepared for college at Andover, Mass., and graduated at Yale college with the class of '75, afterwards taking a course at Columbia law school, New York, from which he graduated in 1877. The following year he went to Grand Rapids, where he has since resided as a practicing lawyer. Some years ago he married a daughter of the late Wilder D. Foster, representative in congress for this district in 1873 and two children have blessed the union. Mr. Patton has always taken a deep interest in political affairs and has always been regarded as an able and safe party counselor. In 1884 he was a member of the state central committee. He is an eloquent and forceful speaker and in all state and national campaigns is in much demand as a campaign orator. For two years he was president of the Michigan State Republican league and in that position displayed an executive ability and power of organization which won the highest esteem of the party managers.]

BUILDING BOATS.

Kelly's Army Preparing to Be Transformed into a Naval Force.

DES MOINES, Ia., May 7.—A veritable shipyard, barring the tall masts, was established yesterday on the Des Moines river below the city and nearly 500 men, mostly from Kelly's army, were put to work building boats in which the industrials expect to float down the river. About fifty boats, 6x14 feet, were completed Sunday. The start down the river will probably be made some time Tuesday.

A committee will go ahead of the army, calling on the farmers and the people of towns near the river to meet the men as they float down and supply them with food. The prospects are that the river will be lined with farmers and townspeople all the way down, as the country is thickly settled and by prosperous citizens. Gen. Kelly expects to reach Ottumwa, about 90 miles down, on the evening of the second day, but he will hardly do so by the end of the fourth day, according to good judges. There are three railroads close to the river—a branch of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy to Albia, via Knoxville; the Wabash, which runs down the bottom; and the Keokuk & Des Moines, a branch of the Rock Island, which traverses the bluffs down to Keokuk.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 7.—Seventy-five of Gen. Frye's army of the commonwealth started to tramp to Washington Sunday. They are under the command of Allan Jennings, a labor leader of this city. They started in the direction of Cincinnati, and made about 8 miles during the day. Gen. Frye announced that the other 275 members of the army under his command start on their march this morning at 7 o'clock, unless it should be raining. Frye has obtained teams with which to haul the army's cooking utensils, bedding, etc. He says that he still believes that he will obtain transportation for the army most of the way to Washington.

We have at last received our press, which we have long waited for, and are now prepared to do all kinds of work in the printing line—from a visiting card to a 1000 page book. We will do good work at reasonable price.

We wish to say to those who have been waiting for us to get a press before they subscribed for the News to call and see us. Come and subscribe for a first-class local newspaper, one that is printed and edited all at home and one that we will do all in our power to improve as we grow older.

If the railroads will give California fruitraisers achance this year they can realize handsome returns from their orchards. The late winter has been hard on the Eastern fruit belt, and the demand for California fruit will be large if prices can be made reasonable. It rests with the railroads to say whether such a trade will be large. With present rates it will not be.

People may call Cincinnati "a sleepy old town" and make a mistake. Cincinnati has a great deal of wealth and is intelligent, active business men as are found in any city. The Board of Trade of Cincinnati is quietly and without any fuss branching out in business. The members have just sent one of their shrewdest men to South America, where he will establish agencies for the sale of Cincinnati goods at sixteen different ports and furnish from headquarters in Rio de Janeiro information as to the kind of good demanded by the Spanish-American trade. That is a kind of enterprise that will tell if persevered in.

Very Special.

On Thursday of this week we purchased the entire stock of a western manufacturer who manufactures only the best goods known in the western trade. Everything is warranted and we bought the line consisting of coats, pants, vests, boys pants, frocks, overalls and working pants, for less than the cost of material and making. We offer pants that costs $1.50 to manufacture at 98 cents; strictly all wool $2 pants at 98 cents. Complete line of pants, all sizes up to 46 and 48 waists, at 59, 69, 79, 98 cents and $1.29. Full line of dress pantworth $3.00, 5.00 and 6.00 at $1.79, 1.98, 2.29, 2.69 and 2.98. Mens frocks always sold at 75 cents 25 cents each; overalls at 25 and 38 cents, just half price. Boys long pants at 50, 69 and 79 cents—the cloth would bring more. In this stock was a fine line of shirts, silk, cheviot and satines. We offer satine shirts at 25 and 29 cents; outing flannels at 19, 29, 38 and 48 cents; silk shirts which cost $4.00 apiece at $1.98. This is an immense stock, being the largest purchase we have ever made in this line and should interest everybody. We offer pants from this lot made of Wm. Wood's casimeres at 75 cents a pair; the vests at 50 cents. We cannot go into all the particulars but want you to see these goods.

GROCERIES.

Best flour 95 cents; 24 pounds granulated sugar for $1.00; choice syrup 25 cents a gallon; candy 6 cents a pound; gum drops 5 cents a pound; fine choice mixed candy 8 cents a pound; choice No. 1 Rio coffee 25 cents; broken coffee 17 cents; choice teas 19, 25 and 35 cents. Complete stock, cut prices, on every item. Remember we sell lard compound, pickles and everything usually found in a first-class grocery.

SUMMING UP THE WHOLE MATTER.

In conclusion we say come and see us. We are offering extra and unusual inducement. We are getting the home trade but we want the far off trade not naturally coming to Dundee, and we are making prices the magnet to draw you here. We are so situated that we can buy goods in larger quantities than any other house, and the larger our facilities for selling the better our ability to buy, as our outlet for merchandise is greater, so you see it is really a mutual matter. Parties coming by rail from within a radius of 20 miles will as usual be allowed to fares if they show a round trip ticket, in case they trade $5.00. Parties coming by team and trading $5.00 will have their team cared for and fed and every attention will be shown them. We know of no case of of dissatisfaction with our merchandise or our methods, and the doubling of our business is substantial evidence that the people are appreciating our efforts in cutting prices and profits for cash business. Do not fail to visit us just once and you will find the half has not been told. Remember the big store and the sign reads C. F. Hall.

Very Truly Yours,

C. F. HALL CO.

Coxey Is Brought Up for Trial in Washington.

The General and His Two Lieutenants Appear Before the Bar of Justice—Frye's Men Sell Books—Progress of Randall's Army.

ARRAIGNED IN COURT.

WASHINGTON, May 6.—Jacob S. Coxey and his lieutenants, Carl Browne and Christopher Columbus Jones, were arraigned for violation of the capitol grounds act on May 2. Coxey and Browne had both attempted to speak from the capitol steps. Browne had been arrested for disorderly conduct. Coxey had been led away and then released. Coxey, later appearing as a witness in court for Browne, was arrested on the charge for which he was tried. Attorneys Hymann and Lipscomb appeared for the defendants in the preliminary proceedings and raised the issue of constitutionality of the law under which their clients were arrested. The point was argued at considerable length by Senator Allen, of Nebraska.

Judge Miller, after the arguments closed, overruled the objections of counsel for the defense to the information, the judge holding that the capitol grounds act was constitutional. He denied Coxey a special trial.

The court reassembled at 1:30 o'clock, and after some delay a jury was selected and sworn. Assistant District Attorney Mallowney then addressed the Galvin's Army Pays Fare.

WHEELING, W. Va., May 5.—Col. Galvin's army has evacuated this town, taking a Baltimore & Ohio train for Pittsburgh at 1:30 p. m. The local trades assembly paid their passage, $150, $83 of which was raised among the merchants, and the rest being supplied out of the assembly's funds. The city furnished the army with food while here.

Another Train Stolen.

TACOMA, Wash., May 5.—Three hundred of the 1,000 industrials encamped at Puyallup, congregated near Oring and in the early evening seized a fast east-bound Northern Pacific freight train. The balance of the army was ordered to march on double quick time under Gen. Cantwell up the track.

THE YAQUI INDIANS.

They Wreck Their Dire Vengeance Upon Mexican Troops.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., May 3.—News is received here that the Yaquis have once more ambushed the Mexican soldiers sent against them. Ex-Gov. Luis E. Torres, general of the northern and western departments of Mexico, had an army of over 500 men, and the plan was to dispose of the Yaquis question at once and forever.

On the afternoon of the fifth day of the march the trail led the pursuers into a long, deep, narrow defile in the Sierra de Bacatel. The walls of the canyon were almost precipitous, rising to a height in some places over 2,000 feet and covered with brush. Half the dangerous locality had been traversed with no sign of

RUINED BY HAIL.

A Veritable Ice Storm Visits Iowa City, Ia.

Frozen Ice Falls in Chunks and with a Force Sufficient to Perforate Roofs and Smash Windows—Damage, $100,000.

A REMARKABLE STORM.

IOWA CITY, Ia., May 7.—A deluge of rain fell for twenty minutes Saturday afternoon with a continuous pelting of hailstones, some 8 inches in circumference and the average 2 inches in circumference. In almost a flash every pane of glass in the city that faced west and many that faced south, including most of the big plate glass windows, were smashed. Every tin roof was perforated with holes through which the flood poured, running down upon the stocks of goods. As nearly every business house in the city has a tin roof the damage runs up to $100,000, if not more.

In the few minutes that the hail fell the excitement in the city was intense. Hundreds of carriages and wagons stood on the street. When the hailstones began to fall the horses broke loose, and scores of vehicles went flying down the streets without drivers, and in nearly every case there was a smash-up. The people, almost panic-stricken, kept indoors, but so suddenly came the hail and flood that almost nothing could be done. Many persons got their teams unhitched from their carriages and wagons and housed them, but the vehicles left in the street were entirely riddled—tops, cushions, seats destroyed and the bottoms of the vehicles broken through by the great chunks of ice.

The buildings most seriously injured were those of the state university, the west sides of which were entirely riddled. Most of these buildings are covered with tin and the hail made sieves of every roof. Three of the largest university buildings are covered with slate and the roofs are nearly ruined. Every church in the city had the west windows shattered and the water poured in and did great damage. The photograph galleries and their stocks were ruined. The extensive greenhouses with their collection of plants are a total wreck.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., May 7.—A cyclone swept across the prairie and through the heavy timber near Royalton, Minn., about 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon. The traditional black, funnel-shaped cloud was distinctly visible from the village, which was visited by a tearing wind, accompanied by a heavy hailstorm. Several buildings were unroofed in the village and few panes of glass left unbroken. People were terribly frightened, but no one was injured.

At Little Falls there was a heavy windstorm, accompanied by rain and hail. Much timber was prostrated a short distance south of the city and several buildings unroofed. No lives were lost.

Arlington was visited by a heavy wind and rainstorm that did some damage. At Gaylord considerable hail fell, and a large barn filled with hay and grain was struck by lightning and completely destroyed.

WICHITA, Kan., May 7.—A terrific storm swept over this section of Kansas Friday night. Rain fell in torrents here from 7 in the evening to early morning. West Wichita had several houses struck by lightning and one man and his wife were knocked senseless by a bolt. Several houses in West Wichita were blown down and hardly an out-building is left standing. Plate glass windows in the Sunflower block were smashed like eggshells. The damage is considerable.

EMPORIA, Kan., May 7.—The hailstorm and waterspout of Friday night was not so severe in this city, but at Reading, 15 miles northeast of this place, considerable damage was done. The hail was so forcible that in one instance some went through a shutter, window pane and heavy curtain. Lots of them went through the roof. Some of the chunks of ice measured 12 inches in length. Some cattle were killed and most of the herds stampeded. All kinds of crops, gardens and fruits are ruined. Marshal Walsh was out in the storm and has not been found yet.

FAIRBURY, Ill., May 7.—A destructive storm swept over this section Saturday night. Great trees, fences and weak structures were leveled to the ground. Signs in the business part of the town were torn loose and hurled through the glass fronts. Several buildings sustained heavy damage.

ABCOLA, Ill., May 7.—The worst hailstorm that has visited this section of the country for years fell Sunday. Much damage was done to growing crops.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., May 7.—A terrible hurricane and thunderstorm passed over this region about 5 o'clock Sunday evening, doing considerable damage. At Central City, 2 miles west of here, the Ohio river railroad shops and several houses were completely demolished, with a loss of $20,000. J. H. Berkhart, the superintendent, was buried beneath the debris, but was extricated. He will probably recover. Other persons received slight injuries.

To Reclaim Thousands of Acres.

LONDON, May 7.—The reclaiming of 500,000 acres of the Zuyder Zee by means of a dike and at a cost of $15,000,000 guilders is recommended by a Dutch royal commission.

The subject of the above portrait is the Rev. Chas. Prosser, a much beloved and most devout minister of the gospel at Mount Carmel, Northumberland Co., Pa. Mr. Prosser's usefulness, was, for a long time, greatly impaired by a distressing, obstinate disease. How his malady was finally conquered we will let him tell in his own language. He says: "I was a great sufferer from dyspepsia, and I had suffered so long that I was a wreck; life was rendered undesirable and it seemed death was near; but I came in contact with Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and his 'Pleasant Pellets.' I took twelve bottles of 'Discovery,' and several bottles of the 'Pellets,' and followed the hygienic advice of Dr. Pierce, and I am happy to say it was indeed a cure, for life is worth living now."

For dyspepsia, or indigestion, "liver complaint," or torpid liver, biliousness, constipation, chronic diarrhea and all derangements of the liver, stomach and bowels, Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery effects perfect cures when all other medicines fail. It has a specific tonic effect upon the lining membranes of the stomach and bowels. As an invigorating, restorative tonic it gives strength to the whole system and builds up solid flesh to the healthy standard, when reduced by "wasting diseases."

Mr. J. F. Hudson, a prominent lawyer of Whitehall, Sebastian Co., Ark., writes: "Having suffered severely, for a long time, from a torpid liver, indigestion, constipation, nervousness and general debility, and finding no relief in my efforts to regain my health, I was induced to try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and 'Pleasant Pellets.' Under this treatment, I improved very much and in a few months was able to attend to my professional duties."

Yours truly,

J. F. Hudson

To purify, enrich and vitalize the blood, and thereby invigorate the liver and digestive organs, brace up the nerves, and put the system in order generally; also to build up both solid flesh and strength after grip, pneumonia, fevers and other prostrating diseases. "Golden Medical Discovery" has no equal. It does not make fat people more corpulent, but builds up solid, wholesome flesh.

Do you feel dull, languid, low-spirited, have fullness or bloating after eating, tongue coated, bitter or bad taste in mouth, irregular appetite, frequent headaches, "floating specks" before eyes, nervous prostration and drowsiness after meals?

If you have any considerable number of these symptoms, you are suffering from torpid liver, associated with dyspepsia, or indigestion. The more complicated your disease the greater the number of symptoms. No matter what stage it has reached, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will subdue it.

Nervousness, sleeplessness, nervous prostration, nervous debility, and kindred disturbances are generally due to impoverished blood. The nervous system suffers for want of pure, rich blood to nourish and sustain it. Purify, enrich and vitalize the blood by taking "Golden Medical Discovery" and all these nervous troubles vanish.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" is far better for this purpose than the much advertised nervines and other compounds, so loudly recommended for nervous prostration, as they "put the nerves to sleep," but do not invigorate, brace up and so strengthen the nervous system as does the "Discovery," thus giving permanent benefit and a radical cure.

Buy of reliable dealers. With any others, something else that pays them better will probably be urged as "just as good." Perhaps it is, for them; but it can't be, for you.

A Book (136 pages) treating of the foregoing diseases and pointing out successful means of home cure, also containing vast numbers of testimonials, (with phototype portraits of writers), references and other valuable information, will be sent on receipt of six cents, to pay postage. Address, World's Dispensary Medical Association, Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, 603 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

Maj. Moore, the chief of police, in his testimony repeated the conversation with Coxey on April 30, when the general asserted his intention of carrying out the programme of speaking from the capitol steps.

KELLY AT DES MOINES.

Haggard and Footsore Men March Into the City Under Heavy Escort.

DES MOINES, Ia., May 1.—This city was greatly excited by the arrival of Kelly's industrial army and there were fears of an outbreak of some sort. The men had marched 27 miles Saturday night without food and were held by the police 5 miles out of the city in a driving rainstorm all day with no provisions or shelter. The action of the authorities aroused much indignation among the laboring people, and when at 5 o'clock the army finally marched up Grand avenue to the camp on the east side of the town, wet, haggard and weary, their pitiable condition aroused sympathy almost as great as that which was theirs in Council Bluffs.

Frye's Men Turn Book Agents.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 3.—Gen. Frye has converted his commonweal forces into an army of book-sellers and started his men over this city selling copies of a new book brought out by a Chicago firm entitled "The Story of the Commonweal." Gen. Frye says his object has always been to make his army self-supporting. The men are tired of walking and will sell enough books to buy freight car transportation to Washington.

Chicago Contingent Leaves.

CHICAGO, May 3.—At 10:05 a. m. Tuesday Gen. Randall and his industrial army of 450 men, with four commissary wagons and plenty of supplies, left their barracks at the corner of Rawson street and North avenue, and started for Washington, headed by twenty policemen in uniform to escort them to the city limits. Six thousand people assembled to see the army start on its journey. In the procession was a barouche, in which sat Mrs. Dr. Greer and her two little girls, dressed in white silk and waving white flags. Gen. Randall, wearing a black mackintosh, rode a big bay horse presented to him by Dr. Greer. The first stop was made at Grand Crossing, just outside the city limits.

Randall's Progress.

HOBART, Ind., May 5.—Gen. Randall's army was met on its approach to Valparaiso by a delegation headed by the mayor of that city, who demanded that the army pass around the place, and announcing that its entrance would be vigorously opposed. Gen. Randall agreed to comply with the request.

life, when suddenly huge masses of rocks and boulders from the cliff nearly 1,500 feet above came bounding down upon the hemmed-in column, crushing horses and riders into shapeless heaps. Higher and higher rose the war cries of the well-armed Yaquis, who now began firing volley after volley directly into the struggling mass below, where all was confusion.

As rapidly as possible the remnant of the column fought its way back to open ground, where its foe did not dare to follow, and, after a brief rest, dragged themselves back along the route over which they had marched so cheerfully the day before.

The number of killed cannot be accurately stated, but out of the column of 500 men it is said that at least 200 are either killed or wounded. An additional force of 200 militia has been organized in Hermosillo, and the campaign against this party of reds will be pushed vigorously. Torres himself and a small party of soldiers retreated to Guaymas.

THEY FAVOR SILVER.

United States Senators Send a Cablegram to the London Bimetallic Conference.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—Following is a copy of a cablegram sent to the lord mayor of London, apropos of the bimetallic conference held in that city, by several United States senators:

"We desire to express our cordial sympathy with the movement to promote the restoration of silver by international agreement, in aid of which we understand a meeting is held under your lordship's presidency. We believe the free coinage of both gold and silver by international agreement at a fixed ratio would secure to mankind the blessing of a sufficient volume of metallic money, and, which is hardly less important, secure to the world of trade immunity from violent exchange fluctuations."

The document was signed by Senators John Sherman, W. B. Allison, D. W. Voorhees, George F. Hoar, Nelson W. Aldrich, David B. Hill, Edward Murphy, A. P. Gorman, O. H. Platt, Calvin Brien, Joseph M. Carey, William Frye, C. K. Davis, S. M. Cullom, Henry Cabot Lodge.

TO PUNISH LYNCHERS.

A Bill on the Subject Introduced in the Ohio Legislature.

COLUMBUS, O., May 2.—In the legislature Mr. Smith, of Cleveland, has introduced a bill providing that the legal heirs of any person killed by a lynching party in Ohio, shall recover the sum of $15,000; in case only personal injury is inflicted the person so injured shall recover the sum of $10,000 and the persons found guilty of participation in the lynching shall be sent to the Ohio penitentiary for a term of not less than three years. The sum awarded the victim of a lynching shall be made a lien on the tax levy of the county where the trouble occurs, to be collected as taxes from the citizens of such county. The attorney general is authorized to assist in all prosecutions under the act.

BLOOD IS SHED.

Coke Strikers Led by Their Wives Charge Upon the Deputies.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., May 7.—Friday was a day of bullets and axes and the wildest lawlessness reigned. In a daylight battle at the Painter plant fifteen Hungarians were shot, several fatally, and at least three dead comrades are thought to have been carried off the battlefield and buried secretly. Superintendent Sanford White, of the Painter plant, and E. B. Roddy, bookkeeper at the same works, were horribly beaten and both are lying at the point of death. Sixty-three Slavs are now in jail charged with rioting.

By contract with the McClure company thirty workmen reported for duty at the Painter mines. The report spread among the strikers and about daybreak they began gathering on the common. There were many women in the crowd.

A charge was made with the women in front, the men during the deputies to open fire on them. They were soon in the yards, regardless of the presence of the deputies, and sweeping everything before them.

In the first conflict fully ten Hungarians fell to the ground and were carried away to their settlement, while a great many were injured by flying missiles. The sight of the wounded and the dying falling at their sides only infuriated the mob, which rushed on the deputies like wild men and women.

Deputy Sheriffs Mat Allen and John Richards took a posse of deputies and started at once for the scene of the riots. They found the men and women all in the houses, and without meeting the least opposition arrested sixty-three of those who composed the mob. They were brought to jail here under the protection of twenty-five Winchester. In the gang of prisoners were twelve women and ten children. At the time of the trouble thirty men were at work, all of whom have since quit. The works are idle.

THE MINERS.

One Hundred and Sixty-Five Thousand of Them Strike for Living Wages.

COLUMBUS, O., May 4.—The great miners' strike is spreading, and reliable information received by President McBride is to the effect that 5,000 more miners are out now than ever before since the strike was inaugurated. There are now 165,000 men in voluntary idleness as a result of the strike for living wages.

PANA, Ill., May 3.—As a result of the arrival here of the body of union miners from Taylorville and Edinburg Tuesday night the miners held a mass meeting Wednesday morning, which was largely attended, and a strike was declared at the four mines of Pana by a two-thirds majority. Mayor Hayward has issued a proclamation warning the strikers not to interfere with anyone desiring to work and that he would use all of his official power to give such men protection.

An Interstate Conference.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., May 3.—Coal mine operators from Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and Pennsylvania met in this city Thursday and decided to take steps to settle the strike. After a conference among themselves they sent for the miners' officials. With the latter they talked the situation over and agreed upon a joint call for an interstate conference to be held in Cleveland May 15. The call is as follows:

To the Operators and Miners of the Bituminous Mines of the United States: A meeting will be held in Cleveland, O., Tuesday, May 15, at 2 o'clock p. m., to take such action as may be deemed wise to bring about an adjustment of the differences that exist between the operators and the miners in the various states. All operators and miners are invited to attend the meeting.

The call is no half-way measure. It was drawn up by President McBride, in accordance with the wishes of the operators, and signed by all present.

Trouble in the Mesaba Range.

DULUTH, Minn., May 5.—Fifteen hundred miners, mostly Finlanders, are out, striking for $1.50 a day. They are now receiving $1 and $1.25. The strike began at the Franklin mine, 300 men going out. They drove the men out at the Oliver, Norman, Iron King and Mountain Iron mines. At one of the mines the magazine was broken open and forty kegs of powder and some dynamite stolen.

Shot a Mesaba Striker.

DULUTH, Minn., May 6.—Marshal Al Free tried to suppress a slight disturbance among the striking miners at Mountain Iron Friday evening when Mat Matson threatened him with a revolver. Free promptly shot him twice in the abdomen and he will probably die. Notice of the affair was sent to the strikers at Virginia and a mob of 1,200 started for Mountain Iron with the avowed intention of lynching Free.

Ten minutes after the mob left for Mountain Iron a train left with the sheriff and militia. The train beat the mob by ten minutes and arrived here at midnight with Free aboard. Adjt. Muehlberg called out company H to go to Mountain Iron and it left at midnight. The strikers out the telegraph wire at midnight and there is no other communication.

Only Six Mines at Work.

ST. LOUIS, May 6.—The reports received from the mining districts of Illinois in the vicinity of this city show that but six mines are now being operated—Stagnoton No. 6, Clyde, Gillespie, Sandoval, Odin and Bunker Hill. The net result of the crusade of strikers Thursday was the stopping of work in No. 7, Breese, Trenton, Troy, Brookside, Hillsboro, Coffee and Carlinville mines.

THE SUPPLY OF COAL.

It Is Growing So Short as to Seriously Affect Many Interests.

CHICAGO, May 7.—The soft coal famine is beginning to be seriously felt in Chicago and some of the surrounding towns as well. Coal that ten days ago was practically a drug in the market at $3.75 a ton is eagerly sought for at $5 a ton, and it is claimed by some dealers that as high as $5.50 has been obtained for small quantities.

It is learned on good authority that the Illinois Central, the Rock Island and the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroads are desperately pushed for want of coal.

With one or two exceptions all the western railroads are more or less seriously affected. It will not be at all surprising if before the end of this week some of the roads will be practically tied up, at least so far as their freight traffic is concerned.

The famine is also making itself felt among the factories and large office buildings of the city. Some of these foresaw the trouble which was to follow the strike and protected themselves by laying in a supply which would last for a few weeks.

From the offices of the various dealers it is learned that towns in the interior of this state, Iowa and Michigan are seriously short of soft coal. Among the towns mentioned are Elgin, Kankakee, Bloomington, Streator, Galesburg and Decatur.

It is openly charged that the strike and the consequent high prices are the result of a conspiracy on the part of the coal operators of Ohio and western Pennsylvania. It is said that these operators have for some time past been running at full capacity and storing the product at convenient points. Wages were then reduced for the purpose of precipitating a strike of the miners, the operators feeling sure that when the miners in their employ went out those in Illinois, West Virginia and all over the state of Pennsylvania would do likewise in order to help out their brethren. With the supply cut off the operators have been able to force the price up to the famine point, and they are now taking advantage of the demand and unload at a handsome profit. In this way the operators are doing business the same as before the strike took place and the general public is the sufferer.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., May 7.—W. J. Guyman, state secretary of the United Mine Workers of Illinois, declared on Sunday that the strike situation was very satisfactory and he had no doubt that the movement of the strikers would be attended with complete success, and that very speedily. He has figures showing that in fifty-one mining towns in Illinois south of the Ohio & Mississippi railroad 7,010 miners are out and organized.

ST. LOUIS, May 7.—A serious condition of affairs confronts the street railway officials as a result of the coal miners' strike. The present supply of coal at the different railway powerhouses will not last more than two weeks, and when it is exhausted the electric cars will have to be abandoned and horse cars substituted. Many factories are preparing to close down on account of inability to get coal, and it is feared thousands of employees will be thrown out of work. The railways in this vicinity are considering the advisability of withdrawing freight trains from their lines, as the supply of coal is running low. A summary of the mines shut down in this region shows nearly 4,000 miners out of work. A prominent coal dealer reports that unless the coal strike ends within two weeks this city will experience a coal famine worse than ever known.

COLUMBUS, O., May 7.—John McBride, president of the United Mine Workers of America, has issued a call to the organization and those affiliated with it to send one delegate to each 500 members to a national convention to be held in Cleveland, O., at 10 o'clock a. m. Monday, May 14, preparatory to meeting in joint session with coal operators from all the states the following day.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., May 7.—The coal operators who are friendly to a conference to secure uniformity of rates expect that a settlement will be reached at the Cleveland conference. They are notifying customers that they will be in a position to supply coal as usual. This is based on the assumption that though all operators do not agree to pay the price the miners will be able to secure such a large proportion of the mine owners who do as to justify their allowing the mines of the friendly operators to start and keep idle other pits until the uniform rate is secured. It is learned that this meets the views of the miners' officials. They have succeeded in totally stopping the output in western Pennsylvania and Ohio. They believe that all miners will be idle by May 15 and will cooperate in any agreement which may be reached. Under such conditions it would be possible to dictate terms for a settlement and thereby enable many miners to return to work. The operators who were not invited to the conference at which the Cleveland meeting was arranged will hold a meeting next Thursday to decide upon a plan of action. They are strongly opposed to being dictated to by other operators and will likely decide to allow their mines to remain idle in the belief that their diggers will return to work.

Love Fied Him.

"Love hath made me rich," he said: "I was poor and lone; Life, to me, seemed hopeless—dead! Bitter was my moan."

"Like a beggar at love's gate, There a crust to win, Love came in the twilight late, Kissed and led me in."

"Now my servants come and go, All the neighbors stare. (This love's father-in-law, you know, Is a millionaire!)"

In the Heart.

If no kindly thought or word We can give, some soul to bless; If our hands, from hour to hour, Do no deeds of gentleness; If to lone and weary ones We no comfort will impart— Tho' 'tis summer in the sky, Yet 'tis winter in the heart!

If we strive to lift the gloom From a dark and burdened life; If we seek to lull the storm Of our fallen brother's strife; If we bid all hate and scorn From the spirit to depart— Tho' 'tis winter in the sky, Yet 'tis summer in the heart!

—George Cooper, in S. S. Times.

Persons who sympathize with the afflicted will rejoice with D. E. Carr of 1235 Harrison street, Kansas City. He is an old sufferer from inflammatory rheumatism, but has not heretofore been troubled in this climate. Last winter he went up into Wisconsin, and in consequence has had another attack. "It came upon me again very acute and severe," he said "My joints swelled and became inflamed; sore to touch or almost to look at. Upon the urgent request of my mother-in-law I tried Chamberlain's Pain Balm to reduce the swelling and ease the pain, and to my agreeable surprise it did both. I have used three 50-cent bottles and believe it to be the finest thing for rheumatism, pains and swellings extant." For sale by A. L. Waller, druggist.
