OUR BOYS LOSE A GAME.

They Work Hard in the First Seven Innings, But Fall Down in the Last Two Innings.

WELL-EARNED VICTORY FOR WAUCONDA BOYS.

A Neck-to-Neck Race for Seven Innings—There Was as Much Enthusiasm as Can be Found at a National League Game.

The ball game at Wauconda last Saturday afternoon between our boys and the Wauconda nine, proved to be one of the best and most interesting games of the season. There were present a large number of ladies who showed as much good-natured enthusiasm as did the small boys. People of all sizes and ages were present, and gave full vent to their feelings after each good play. Although the audience was composed mostly of Wauconda citizens, Barrington sent a good-sized delegation, and what they lacked in numbers their lungs made up in extra yells. Although each side worked hard, good-fellowship prevailed throughout the game.

There were no "kicks" of any kind registered. The umpiring was fair and just. Wauconda batted first, scoring two runs. Our boys failed to bring in any runs in the same inning, while in the second inning it was just the other way, our boys scoring two and Wauconda none. No scores were tallied by either side in the third, and in the fourth Wauconda managed to get one, while Barrington "hoped" for one in the fifth, which did not materialize, but they had the satisfaction of seeing Wauconda also doing the cipher act in the fifth inning. In the sixth Wauconda recorded one while our boys went them one better. The seventh inning resulted in goose eggs for both. Here is where the neck-to-neck race ended, for in the eighth the Wauconda boys showed their mettle and brought in four, while Barrington tried hard, but failed to score one to help bridge over the chasm. In the ninth Wauconda added three more, making a total of eleven scores, while our boys were unable to add to the four they had earned in the first six innings. The score in full:

Wauconda	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Fred Wynkoop	1	0	0	1	0	0	0	1	1

Barrington Review.

M. T. LAMEY, Ed. and Pub.

BARRINGTON, ILLINOIS.

The window glass trust formed in Indiana last week is not a thing to be made light of.

The neighborhood gossips and the bicycle are much alike. They're always running somebody down.

Chicago's postmaster gave a party on the trolley cars. The songs they sang were of the trolley-la-la variety.

What is called the "bicycle face" is really the result of a gradual approximation of the human countenance to the long, solemn horse-visage.

Woman's temper has always been spectacular, but there are possibilities never dreamed of when the new woman discovers that the hired girl has worn her bloomers out.

Miss Stella Dunlap, member of a wealthy Peoria family, and Prof. Henry Albion Molohon, of the deaf and dumb institute at Jacksonville, both deaf mutes, were married the other day. It was a case of mutual affection.

Already the woman's board of the Atlanta Exposition has got a row started. This shows that the Atlanta Exposition is a real exposition, and no make believe. The row on the woman's board is a good test of genuineness.

People who drive horses should be taught by law, if in no other way, that bicycle riders have rights even if the drivers of horses do not like the wheel. The Brooklyn papers tell of a case of two men who deliberately turned out of their course, whipped up their horse, and ran down a woman on her bicycle. Such things are perhaps not common, but when found should be punished.

Wyoming is in the front as the paradise of the fin de siecle girl. The daughter of the governor of the state is his private secretary, and when he is away she is to all practical purposes his representative and fulfills the duties of his office. And she is only 19 years old. It takes a rather bright girl to run a state, even one where woman suffrage has been in force for twenty-five years. Now, when she marries—but that opens up too wide a field for speculation, and, besides, it is his look-out.

When the papas and mammas get back home from spending their gold and enjoying(?) the discomforts of European travel some of their boys and girls who have been studying geography should open quiz classes and see whether papa and mamma know half as much about the beautiful and grand scenery in their own country as they do of Europe. The lakes of Killarney do not surpass in beauty the lakes of Wisconsin and Minnesota. The Swiss mountains are nowhere grander than those seen in Colorado, California, Idaho, or Washington. There are no wonders in all Europe to compare with the Yellowstone Park. Yet not one in fifty of European tourists from America ever saw the great west.

From the nature of the case the English market for wheat, or corn, as they call it on that side of the Atlantic, is a bear market. At the very most the tight little island raises only a small part of the breadstuffs required to feed the people who swarm about its hives of industry. A few days ago a London dispatch set forth that there was a glut of grain coming from different parts of the world. One would suppose from the representation made that our farmers ought to be thankful if they got half price for their wheat. Since then there has fallen under observation the estimate made by the Russian minister of finance of this year's wheat crop. His figures are these:

	Est. 1895, Quarters.	Final 1894, Quarters.
Austria-Hungary	24,000,000	24,100,000
France	38,500,000	42,800,000
Germany	13,000,000	13,000,000
Roumania	7,000,000	5,300,000
Russia	47,000,000	55,000,000
America	55,000,000	64,000,000
Argentina	7,200,000	10,000,000
Australasia	4,100,000	5,100,000
India	29,300,000	31,600,000
United Kingdom	6,000,000	7,500,000

Totals ... 231,100,000 259,200,000
It will be noted that these figures show a deficit as compared with last year of 28,100,000 quarters. Russia is naturally a bull in the wheat market, and some allowance must be made for that fact. That country wants dear breadstuffs as much as England does cheap. Curiously, John Bull is a bear and the Russian bear is a bull. But making all due allowance for this difference in point of view it is evident that wheat growers the world over have a clear right to expect fair prices for this year's crop.

JOHN Y. M'KANE SICK.

Gravesend's Ex-Boss May Not Live to Complete His Sentence.

New York, Sept. 17.—It has been learned from an authoritative source that John Y. McKane, the ex-chief of police of Gravesend, is not likely to live long enough to serve out his sentence.

J. Y. M'KANE

In Sing Sing prison. Indeed, it is declared, although efforts have been made to prevent the knowledge of his condition from being made public, that he is a very sick man and that it would be no surprise to those of his friends who know of his condition to hear at any moment that he was prostrated in the prison hospital.

MINERS STARVED TO DEATH.

Perish Miserably Within Hearing of a Rescuing Party.

Vancouver, B. C., Sept. 17.—Advices received by the Australian steamer Miowera say that the bodies of the victims of the Eldora mine disaster have been recovered after two weeks' labor. They were imprisoned and almost without hearing of the rescuers were starved to death. It took exactly fourteen days to reach the dying men, and in that time all were beyond assistance.

Evidence of the terrible suffering of the poor fellows at the last moments was most heart-rending. Believing that they would be eventually reached by the would-be rescuers, but knowing, too, that it would be too late, the men evidently held an anti-mortem council, for most of them wrote letters to friends and relatives from their living grave, and there were evidences of solemn intercourse before death ended their terrible sufferings.

ATTEMPTED LYNCHING.

Sheriff at Osage City, Kan., Saves His Prisoner.

Osage City, Kan., Sept. 17.—At 1 o'clock yesterday morning this town was in a fever of excitement over an attempted lynching. Lew Thomas, a dissolute character, was in jail charged with a criminal assault upon the weak-minded daughter of O. R. Wackliff.

At midnight the jail was attacked by a mob of masked citizens. They made short work of the barriers and soon had the culprit out of the jail, and were leading him to the outskirts of the town. The sheriff in the meantime had organized a posse and gave chase. He and his men overhauled the mob and rescued the prisoner, who was hurriedly taken back to jail. At 1 o'clock the jail was surrounded by the mob, but was effectively stood off by the sheriff and his men.

Freight Train Wrecked in Kentucky.

Bonnieville, Ky., Sept. 17.—Freight train No. 72 was wrecked one mile below here yesterday morning at 3 o'clock. Two men were killed and three injured. The killed are:

POINTER, W. L., brakeman from Louisville.

UNKNOWN COLORED MAN.

The injured are: Dolan, Joseph, Worcester, Mass. Wertenbaker, George, Parkersburg, W. Va.

Wheeler, James, Columbus, Ohio. The wreck was caused by the breaking of a brakebeam. Ten cars were loaded with sugar and pig iron and were smashed to pieces and badly broken up.

Killed By a Powder Explosion.

Santa Cruz, Cal., Sept. 17.—An explosion in the smokeless department at the powder works yesterday killed one man and fatally burned another. The dead: GRIMM, MAXIE, aged 17.

The injured: Howard, James.

About 650 pounds of powder being made for the Hotchkiss guns on the cruiser Boston went up in smoke. Howard's clothing was entirely burned off, and nearly every portion of his body is a mass of burns. The windows of the mill were broken but no damage was done to the press. The cause of the explosion is not known.

To Develop Wyoming Oil Wells.

Omaha, Neb., Sept. 17.—A contract has been signed by Albert Walton of Omaha, F. H. French and others of Casper, Wyo., with Edward A. Cudahy, the head of the Cudahy Packing company, for the thorough development of a tract of oil land near Douglas, Wyo. Two wells are to be drilled at once. Mr. Walton is now in Pennsylvania purchasing the necessary machinery for the company.

Peoria.—Walter Barker of the American Spirits Manufacturing Company has announced that bids will be entertained for all or part of 20,000 bushels of distillery slop a day, to be fed in Peoria the season of Nov. 1 to July 1. The bids are to be submitted to J. S. Bache of New York before Sept. 25. Arrangements here are being pushed for the opening of the houses, which is expected in a few weeks.

Springfield.—Five damage suits will be commenced in the circuit court within a few days against James Westwater & Co., the contractors who are building machinery hall at the state fair ground, and the state board of agriculture. The suits have been ordered to be brought by Charles Brownell, Fred Beard and Nelson Williamson, who were injured at the recent collapse of the west tower of machinery hall, and Mrs. Harry Hobson, whose husband was killed in the accident.

Peoria.—At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Toledo, Peoria & Western railroad held here last week, there was a representation of 30,920 shares out of a total of 40,769. The following directors were elected: O. F. Price, Galesburg, and E. F. Leonard, Peoria. Mr. Leonard, the resident, submitted his annual report, which showed a steady increase in business during the year. There was an increase in earnings of $38,455, or 4.2 per cent. The gross earnings were $958,333.

Peoria.—A truce has been patched up between the angry parents of the freshmen pupils of the high school and the school officials. Superintendent N. C. Dougherty announces there will be no expulsions at present. Fourteen pupils are continued on probation, but are liable to expulsion at any time. They are nearly all seniors, and come from the first families. One of them is the son of a school inspector. Mr. Dougherty further states that the next case of hazing will be followed by immediate expulsion, no matter who the pupil may be.

Arcola.—What may lead to the solving of the mysterious murder at Lincoln some time ago and bring to justice the guilty parties was discovered in this city by the arrest of Frank Robinson, which was brought about by his own confession to a friend. Robinson was drunk when he told the story, and now denies its truthfulness. State Attorney King came over from Lincoln, and Robinson will be taken to Logan county by City Marshal Shull, where he will await trial on the charge of being implicated in the murder of the unknown man found near that city some time ago.

Five thousand people were present at the old settlers' reunion of Marion county at Salem, Ill. J. W. Fyke, of Iuka, was elected president.

Governor Altgeld has not received an invitation to the semi-centennial celebration at Milwaukee. He is little concerned about the controversy the Wisconsin people are now engaged in. The governor said he had not received an invitation to the celebration and would not attend the ceremony if he did get one.

Canton.—The annual convention of the First District Dental society of Illinois came to a close Saturday. Officers were elected as follows: President, L. W. Skidmore, Moline; vice president, C. A. Curry, Streator; secretary, W. O. Butler, La Harpe; treasurer, J. W. Peck, Canton. The next convention will be held at Streator.

Chief of Police Badenoch of Chicago, has decided that hereafter no member of the department shall be allowed to receive rewards from any source. A check, which had been forwarded as a reward to two detectives for recovering stolen property, was returned. The chief declares such methods would demoralize the force.

Toney Lucas, alias Charles Wilson, colored, is locked up at the Cottage Grove avenue station, Chicago. He is wanted for the alleged robbery of Mrs. Hausman, the proprietor of the South Side hotel, 1807 State street. When arrested Wilson had a gold bracelet belonging to Mrs. Hausman and a pair of sleeve buttons belonging to Mr. Hausman.

The democratic county central committee met at Greenville, and fixed the date for township primaries as September 21 and the date of the county convention to elect delegates to the congressional convention at Litchfield as September 23. Secretary of State Hinrichsen told the committee how to fix a free silver platform for the county convention.

Canton.—F. M. McCord, an agent for the Werner Book Company, has been arrested on the charge of forgery, the complainant being George W. Brewer, secretary of the Orion township school commissioners, who alleges that McCord forged his name to a contract providing for the use of Werner books in the Orion schools. The arrest is the outcome of a bitter fight between the Werner and American book companies in this county.

Rockford.—There are some radical changes in progress in the management of the Rockford Watch company. The board of directors last Saturday requested George E. Knight to resign as secretary, which he did, and since then a committee of directors has been holding daily and nightly sessions investigating the books. It is hinted that some startling developments may be expected, but just what their nature will be is not known, as the directors refuse to talk of the affairs of the company.

Percy.—In the Circuit Court last week was begun the $10,000 damage suit brought against saloon-keepers Emil Berger and Thomas E. Baker, by Mrs. Thomas Browning, for selling her husband, ex-Mayor Browning, liquor the evening before his death. Ex-Mayor Browning was found dead on the Mobile and Ohio track, near Percy, Sept. 2, 1894. One arm was cut off, head and shoulders bruised, and the body otherwise mutilated. Three trains had passed over the body before it was discovered. Several persons who were known to be Browning's enemies disappeared at the time. Among Browning's effects a letter was found giving the names of six men whom he warned to let him alone. The letter was placed in the hands of the grand jury.

Bloomington.—The grand lodge of Good Templars adjourned Wednesday. The petition of district No. 9 for subdivision with Greene, Calhoun and Brown as district No. 15, was granted. A similar position as to district No. 4, of which McLean is a part, was laid over. After a discussion of two hours it was decided not to organize a junior grand lodge for Scandinavians, but to authorize the return of the entire per capita tax paid by Scandinavian lodges to be expended in mission work among their own people. Eight hundred dollars was subscribed toward a Good Templars' home for orphans, and the matter laid over. Galesburg offers $500 for the location there of the home. The following grand officers were elected: Chief templar, Uriah Copp, Jr., Loda; counselor, George F. Ieans, Chicago; vice templar, Jennie Anderson, Galesburg; superintendent juvenile templar, Hannah E. Grimm, Chicago; secretary, R. J. Haslet, Rockford; treasurer, J. H. Rainey, Decatur; marshal, R. ## SOVEREIGN GRAND LODGE AT ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.

Grand Secretary's Report on the State of the Order—Interesting Statistics Given by the Grand Officers of the Order.

Atlantic City, N. J.—Special.—The Sovereign Grand Lodge, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, assembled here Monday. Dr. H. W. Izard, of Camden, acted as master of ceremonies. Mayor Franklin B. Stoy delivered the address of welcome on behalf of the city, and John H. Griffith on behalf of the I. O. O. F. of New Jersey. The address of welcome on behalf of the grand encampment of New Jersey was delivered by Grand Patriarch James McMahon, and Mrs. Sarah Deutscher, president of the Rebekah State Association, a branch of the order, delivered the address on its behalf. Grand Sire C. W. Stebbins responded and then delivered his annual report, after which the lodge went in secret session.

The grand secretary's report shows the following state of the order for the last year: Total number of grand lodges, 56, a gain of 1; total number of grand encampments, 50; total subordinate lodges, 10,592, a gain of 297; subordinate encampments, 2,610, a gain of 55; Rebekah lodges, 3,627, a gain of 335; lodge initiations, 63,845; encampment initiations, 9,407; total lodge members, 790,795; encampment members, 134,330; Rebekah members, 225,189; relief paid by lodges in North America, $2,993,457.69; relief paid by encampments,

THE QUESTION OF BONDS.

New York Syndicate Seems to Have the Matter in Its Hands.

Washington, Sept. 17.—"Will there be another bond issue? You will have to ask the New York syndicate," replied a well-known western representative when asked for his opinion. "There is no one outside the confidence of the Belmont-Morgan-Rothschild syndicate qualified to answer that question. The syndicate, which took the last issue of bonds at 104 when the market value was 119 and enforced a contract under which subsequent bond issues are to be given them, can compel a new issue at pleasure. Now, whether they will be pleased to accept more bonds in a month or whether they will wait two months is purely a business matter with them. It seems to me, however, while looking upon the question in this light, that inasmuch as the syndicate is in business for profit, a new issue may reasonably be expected."

The true amount of the gold reserve at the close of business yesterday was $95,348,642. Since the recent heavy shipments of gold set in the government has received a number of offers of gold in exchange for notes. This is particularly true of banks in the northwest, where small notes are in active demand in moving the grain crops. Other banks, apparently disinterested, have offered gold in exchange for silver certificates. Several of the banks offered gold suspected of being a little underweight, as it was stipulated that it be received at its face value. Some of the other conditions imposed by western banks could not be accepted, but in all cases where the government consistently could do so the offers have been accepted.

The report then gives some interesting statistics of the order from its inauguration in North America in 1830 up to Dec. 31, 1894, including Germany, Denmark, Switzerland and Australia. The initiations in subordinate lodges were 2,012,848; members relieved, 1,902,562; widows and families relieved, 216,178; members deceased in that time, 184,894; total relief paid, $67,828,670.47; total receipts, $176,786,202.60.

The report of Isaac A. Sheppard, grand treasurer, shows receipts of $90,601.85; paid out from certificate No. 6, 263 to No. 6,688, $62,083; balance in treasury, $28,601.02. The report shows that the assets of the Sovereign Grand Lodge at this time consist of cash in treasury, $28,601.02; $15,000 in Lehigh Valley Railroad bonds, and $15,000 in Philadelphia, Wilmington and Baltimore Railroad bonds. The total available assets, as per his report of Aug. 20, 1894, were $63,251.25, showing a loss this year of $4,650.23.

A special session of the Grand Lodge of New Jersey was held in the afternoon and was visited by the members of the Grand Lodge of Connecticut, who witnessed the exemplification of degree work.

Killed at a Grade Crossing.

Lynchburg, Va., Sept. 17.—A vehicle containing a man supposed to be Joseph Callahan, of Rustburg, two women, a girl of about 16 years of age, and two small children, was crossing the tracks of the Southern railway, near here yesterday, when it was struck by the engine of a south-bound passenger train. Five of the occupants of this vehicle were killed outright and the young girl was so severely injured that she died shortly afterward. The railroad officials are at a loss to understand how the accident occurred at the place named, as they say the track is visible for a distance of 200 yards or more, and the occupants should have been able to learn of the approaching train.

Murdered with a Pocket Knife.

Dayton, O., Sept. 17.—News has been received here that Saturday night while at the village of West Alexandria, Preble county, John Golden, a pensioner of this city, in a drunken fury attacked Mrs. Mary E. King, whom he had accompanied from here. He stabbed her twenty-four times with a pocket knife and she is now lying in a precarious condition. Golden was at once arrested. Jealousy is alleged to have been the cause.

SEVEN BURNED TO DEATH.

Fire on the Steamer Iona Has a Fatal Ending.

London, Sept. 17.—Fire broke out on board the steamer Iona, from Edinburgh to London yesterday. Six of the passengers and the stewardess of the Iona were burned to death. The fire was put out, after four hours' struggle. The fire broke out when the Iona was off Clucton, in the fore part of the vessel. The passengers were aroused, and it was supposed that all had escaped from the burning cabin. While the crew were busy fighting the flames soldiers on board assisted in lowering the boats and in supplying the passengers with life belts. Suddenly it was discovered that some women and children were missing. The stewardess entered the burning cabin, it is presumed, to try to rescue those who were missing, and she also perished. It was not until three compartments had burned that it became possible to enter the cabin, where were discovered the charred remains of six women and one child. Then the engines of the steamer were started up again, and the vessel proceeded on its way to London.

BLAST FURNACE STARTS.

Resumes Operations After Three Years of Idleness.

Chicago, Sept. 17.—The Calumet blast furnace at South Chicago, which was considered one of the leading industrial plants of the manufacturing town when it stopped business three years ago, resumed operations yesterday, and the prospects are that no further interruptions will occur. The "blowing in" at the furnace occurred shortly before noon. President Ridgeley, of the company, says that the constantly increasing demand for iron in the United States is the cause for resuming work at the Calumet at this time. The present management will continue for five years, and Mr. Ridgeley is of the opinion that there will be nothing to prevent the furnace from running full force and full time from date. Branch offices of the Calumet company are to be established in Cleveland, St. Louis, Pittsburgh and Philadelphia, while the general western agents will be Rogers, Brown & Co., Cincinnati.

Troops Must Be Withdrawn.

Ishpeming, Mich., Sept. 17.—The striking miners held a meeting at Union park yesterday. Reliable members say that the steam users, including engineers, firemen, brakemen, and shovel men, 150 in all, were given permission to return to work. They say that committees were appointed to call on the local managers and the miners decided that they would return to work as soon as the troops were withdrawn.

attached. Dr. Sutherland, the eminent divine who has been pastor of the First church for forty years, has decided to carry out his long-cherished purpose of retiring from active labor, and he has persuaded his dear friend Talmage to fill the vacancy. As the "administration preacher," Dr. Talmage will be assuming a new role, but it is expected that he will achieve another of his phenomenal successes in Washington. The First Presbyterian is one of the oldest and most famed churches in Washington, though about the time of Cleveland's first election it was in the dumps. The president and his sister, Rose, remembered a sermon they heard Dr. Sunderland deliver in a New York village many years before, and they allied themselves to his church. That brought the crowd and started a new era of prosperity. The doctor and the president became warm friends. Recently the church has displayed signs of going back into the old rut, but now that Talmage, with his money-raising gifts, is to take the pastorate a wonderful revival of interest is anticipated. Dr. Sutherland has been visiting Dr. Talmage somewhere in New York for the last fortnight, and it is understood that the latter's consent to settle in the capital city was obtained before any formal steps were taken. Such being the case, the deal may be considered in an advanced stage, though perhaps not a dozen people know of it at this writing. From a paper just written by Worthington C. Ford, statistician of the treasury department, it is shown that during the three fiscal years ending June, 1895, the government banks of England, France, Austria-Hungary, Germany, the Netherlands, Spain, Italy and Russia increased their total stock of gold $221,700,000, or 19 per cent, while the United States treasury lost $33,000,000. Three years ago the combined government banks of the countries named held gold to the amount of $1,143,700,000, which has since increased to $1,165,400,000.

Boodle Investigation Begun.

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 17.—The taking of testimony regarding the charges of boodling against members of the thirty-ninth general assembly was commenced by the Sangamon county grand jury yesterday. Captain D. H. Harts, a lawyer of Lincoln, and a recent prohibition candidate for governor, appeared before the grand jury and stated that a party whose name he gave had informed him that between $2,000 and $6,000 had been paid out to secure the passage of the mechanics' lien law, introduced by Representative Isidor Plotke, of Chicago, and rushed through the house half an hour before sine die adjournment was had Friday night, June 14. The bill is in the interest of lumber dealers.

DROP OF WATER.

The Waters That May Be Seen There Through a Microscope.

To the ordinary mortal a drop of water is what the primrose was to Peter Bell, a drop of water and nothing more, but to the student of nature, armed with a high power microscope, it immediately becomes a world teeming with living creatures, the most minute representatives of animal life. These thoughts were suggested by reading Professor Grace's description of a battle he once witnessed while examining a collection of rotifers, which were amassed in a single drop of fresh water. Among others, Mr. Grace noticed a fine specimen of infusorian, which was swimming back and forth among the rotifers, as if intent on mischief. On the following day it was noticed that the rotifer colony had lost several of its members, and that the infusorian's form had rounded out until he resembled a miniature St. Louis bartender. Mr. Grace now resolved to watch the infusorian's movements and ascertain if possible the modus operandi whereby the capture of such expert swimmers as the rotifers are known to be effected. A few minutes' wait sufficed. Soon it was noticed that the infusorian was slowly and continuously working his way around the foot of a rotifer, which was resting on the glass slide.

Around and around he went as slyly as a mouse in an oats bin, and when he had finished it was noticed that the rotifer's foot was firmly cemented to the glass. The infusorian, seeming to know his victim was secure, began to goad the tethered creature and torment it in all the ways that devilish ingenuity could suggest. He would jump upon its back and bite it in several places with lightninglike rapidity and then spring off and seize a leg and pull it almost from its socket. Mr. Grace says that he watched this unequal combat for nearly a half hour, when it was noticed that the rotifer was dying from exhaustion. Noting the death of his victim, the infusorian proceeded to devour his prey, as he doubtless had done the others that were missing.

Mr. Grace next examined a small body of water, consisting of four drops, in which there were several infusoria and rotifers. The former proved the enemies of the latter, just as in the single drop previously examined. It was also noticed that the infusorian, having devoured a victim, would almost immediately divide into two or four new animals, each of which would quickly swim away in search of prey, just as its parent had done before.—St. Louis Republic.

Mr. English's History of Indiana.

William H. English of Indiana is 73 years old, as the phrase goes, but it does not follow that he is an old man. He is young enough to be industriously and intelligently at work on a history of Indiana, sparing no expense or research to obtain information and verifications. He is very liberal in the purchase of historical documents, and from the items we have seen in print about the work the book, when it is issued, ought to be the most valuable extant. A very first class and comprehensive history of the great state of Indiana, written as a labor of love, will be a monument to the author greater than marble or bronze or a career in public office. Mr. English has not been conspicuous in politics, though always in line as a Democrat, since he ran for vice president on the ticket with Hancock in 1880.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

WINE OF THE MORNING.

Some would quaff their nectar
From carved cups of gold,
That like an open flower,
With satin lips unrolled,
Exhales a liquid fragrance
Of luxury untold.

Some would quaff their nectar
From Venus' poppy lips,
The crimson fount of folly,
Where pulsing passion slips,
In drowsy dreams of sweetness,
Through which time thrills and slips.

But I would quaff the nectar
Whose fount is ever free—
Pure zephyrs from the mountain,
Salt breezes from the sea,
All fraught with morning's fervor,
And wild wings' poetry.

Take all earth's exultation!
Its rosy sweets divine,
Its perfumes and its purple,
Its rare and fair and fine;
The breeze is heaven's brewing,
God's blessing in his wine.
—Mary Berri Chapinan.

THE EVIL EYE.

And How a Coincidence Helped to Rivet the Chains of Superstition.

Miss Symonds and a party of friends had driven from Athens to the foot of Hymettus in a carriage drawn by two horses. The drive being over, the coachman proceeded to give corn to his horses. One of them, however, would not eat, but hung his head and refused all food. The driver, in a state of wild excitement, thereupon presented himself before his fares and declared, with frenzied words, that one of the ladies had "overlooked" the suffering horse, and that the beast was about to expire. The only way to get it cured from the effects of the evil eye was for the overlooked to spit upon it. The driver appears to have had no doubt which lady was the possessor of the evil power exercised upon his animal. Naturally enough, the lady in question had no great fancy to try this primitive form of veterinary surgery and refused.

The man's entreaties and adjurations, however, became so vehement and so threatening that at last the alleged possessor of the evil eye had to yield. No sooner had she spat upon the horse than a most welcome change set in. The beast, which had appeared to be at its last gasp, promptly grew better, and very soon was eating like its fellow. Of course the change was due to a coincidence. Probably the horse was at first too tired to eat, but during the discussion "to spit or not to spit" he no doubt got rested. By the time, then, the ceremony was performed he was quite fit for breakfast. It was, in fact, post hoc, not propter hoc. The spitting and the recovery following each other so closely was a mere coincidence. But though we may hold this view it was of course not held by the Greek coachman. He, we may be sure, felt at once completely confirmed in his belief in the evil eye.

The coincidence gave him what he thought ample proof of the efficacy of his charm against "overlooking." If nothing had happened, and the English ladies had been able to laugh at him for making one of them do a disagreeable thing without any result, the driver might have begun to think that, after all, his juggling rites were nonsense. Depend upon it, the coincidence riveted the chains of superstition upon him tighter than ever. After the incident we have just noticed he will probably believe as firmly in the evil eye and the way to counteract its influence as he will in the procession of the seasons or the following of day by night.—London Spectator.

CHESS ON THE BRAIN.

A Noted Player Who at Times Fancies Himself a Bishop or Knight.

A chess champion, a German gentleman whose name is well known to all players and most nonplayers of that scientific game, recently told the writer that the intense mental activity which it was necessary to display while engaged in a combat on the board often led him to unconsciously do ridiculous things when the game was over.

"For instance," he said, "it is not an uncommon thing for me, when walking home in the evening after several games of chess at my club, to imagine that I am one of the pieces on the board. Quite unconsciously, and probably while thinking about something else, I will take great care to plant my feet firmly in the center of the flagstones and not step upon the lines that divide them. Again, the idea that I am a knight will seize me, and those who walk behind me are convulsed with laughter to see me take a step forward, and one to one side, which is not, to say the least of it, a dignified method of progress.

"Sometimes I am a bishop and move in a slanting direction, till forcible concussion with a wall brings me to my senses.

"It is very foolish, I know, but I cannot help it. I suppose it is that the game, its chances and possibilities are so continually running in my mind that chess to me is almost becoming a second nature."

The elder Roberts once, years ago, told an interviewer that so completely was his mind subjugated by billiards that he would often lie in bed and wonder if he could make a carom off the mantelpiece on to the washstand or "pot" the gas globe out of the window with the bedpost.—London Answers.

It May Do as Much For You.

Mr. Fred Miller of Irving, Ill., writes that he had a severe kidney trouble for many years, with severe pains in his back and also that his bladder was affected. He tried many so called kidney cures but without any good result. About a year ago he began use of Electric Bitters and found relief at once. Electric Bitters is especially adapted to cure of all kidney and liver troubles and often gives almost instant relief. One trial will prove our statement. Price only 50 cents for large bottle. At A. L. Waller's drug store.

Prevented by Rain.

The secretary of the big irrigation convention called to meet at Goodland, Kan., last week, was prevented from being present because of his inability to reach the town on account of high water, caused by phenomenal rains.

Its Value Recognized by Physicians.

As a rule I am opposed to proprietary medicines. Still I value a good one, especially when such is the source of relief from pain. As a topical (external) application I have found Chamberlain's Pain Balm the best remedy I have ever used for neuralgia of any kind. I have conscientiously recommended it to many persons. William Horne, M. D., Janesville, Wis. Sold by A. L. Waller.

The experience of failure is one that comes in a greater or less degree to every one at times, trying the metal and probing the character as no prosperity can do.—Victor Hugo.

Several years ago I was taken with a severe attack of flux. I was sick in bed about ten days and could get nothing to relieve me until I used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, which cured me and has been a household remedy with us ever since. J. C. Marlow, Decaturville, Mo. For sale by A. L. Waller, druggist.

It is only after one man tries to get something that the crowd who wouldn't have it as a gift strive for it.—Los Angeles Express.

In a recent letter to the manufacturers Mr. W. F. Benjamin, editor of the Spectator, Rushford, N. Y., says: "It may be a pleasure to you to know the high esteem in which Chamberlain's medicines are held by the people of your own state, where they must be best known. An aunt of mine, who resides at Dexter, Iowa, was about to visit me a few years since, and before leaving home wrote, asking if they were sold here, stating if they were not she would bring a quantity with her, as she did not like to be without them." The medicines referred to are Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, famous for its cures of colds and croup; Chamberlain's Pain Balm for rheumatism, lame back, pains in the side and chest, and Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for bowel complaints. These medicines have been in constant use in Iowa for almost a quarter of a century. The people have learned that they are articles of great worth and merit, and unequalled by any other. They are for sale here by A. L. Waller, druggist.

Life Is Short.

Citizens—I wonder how it is that so few women stutter when they talk. Witticisms—They haven't time.—Tammam Times.

From all accounts Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a God-send to the afflicted. There is no advertisement about this; we feel just like saying it.—The Democrat, Carrollton, Ky. For sale by A. L. Waller, druggist.

What an admirable recipe for happiness to know how to do without things.—Victor Jacquemont

A Prominent Lawyer

Of Greenville, Ill., Mr. C. E. Cook, writes: "I have been troubled with biliousness, sick headache, sour Stomach, constipation, etc., for several years. I sought long and tried many remedies, but was disappointed until I tried your Syrup Pepsin.... I can cheerfully recommend it to any suffering from above complaints." For sale by A. L. Waller, druggist.

The Silver Craze

Silver has greatly depreciated in commercial values, and may be found impracticable for money purposes, but thousands suffering from dyspepsia, indigestion and constipation have found that 50c or $1 in silver invested in Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is worth its weight in gold. ## From LaGrippe.

How Dr. Miles' Nervine Restored One of Kentucky's Business Men to Health.

No DISEASE has ever presented so many peculiarities as LaGrippe. No disease leaves its victims so debilitated, useless, sleepless, nervous, as LaGrippe.

Mr. D. W. Horton, state agent of the Mutual Life Insurance Co., of Kentucky, says: "In 1889 and '90 I had two severe attacks of LaGrippe, the last one attacking my nervous system with such severity that my life was despaired of. I had not slept for more than two months except by the use of narcotics that stupefied me, but gave me no rest. I was only conscious of intense mental weakness, agonizing bodily pain and the fact that I was hourly growing weaker.

When in this condition, I commenced using Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine. In two days I began to improve and in one month's time I was cured, much to the surprise of all who knew of my condition. I have been in excellent health since and have recommended your remedies to many of my friends." Louisville, Jan. 22, 1895. D. W. HORTON.

The wearing of bloomers and knickerbockers is evidently likely to produce some new social distinctions. According to a Liverpool paper, a young man was arrested recently in that city, charged with kissing a woman against her will, in the public highway. The prisoner pleaded that she was in bloomers, and that he mistook her for a long lost brother. The magistrate discharged him. The editor cruelly adds that the demand for bloomers in that city has shown a remarkable increase.

TALMAGE'S SERMON.

"FIVE PICTURES," THE SUBJECT OF A THRILLING DISCOURSE.

"Behold I See the Heavens Opened!"—Acts vii: 55-56—Delivered at Academy of Music, New York, Sunday, Sept. 15, 1895.

STEPHEN HAD been preaching a rousing sermon, and the people could not stand it. They resolved to do as men sometimes would like to do in this day, if they dared, with some plain preacher of righteousness—kill him. The only way to silence this man was to knock the breath out of him. So they rushed Stephen out of the gates of the city, and with curse and whoop, and bellow, they brought him to the cliff, as was the custom when they wanted to take away life by stoning. Having brought him to the edge of the cliff, they pushed him off. After he had fallen they came and looked down, and seeing that he was not yet dead, they began to drop stones upon him, stone after stone. Amid this horrible rain of missiles, Stephen clammers up on his knees and folds his hands, while the blood drips from his temples; and then, looking up, he makes two prayers—one for himself and one for his murderers, "Lord Jesus, receive my spirit;" that was for himself. "Lord, lay not this sin to their charge;" that was for his murderers. Then, from pain and loss of blood, he swooned away and fell asleep.

I want to show you to-day five pictures.

Stephen gazing into heaven. Stephen looking at Christ. Stephen stoned. Stephen in his dying prayer. Stephen asleep.

First, look at Stephen gazing into heaven. Before you take a leap you want to know where you are going to land. Before you climb a ladder you want to know to what point the ladder reaches. And it was right that Stephen, within a few moments of heaven, should be gazing into it. We would all do well to be found in the same posture. There is enough in heaven to keep us gazing. A man of large wealth may have statuary in the hall, and paintings in the sitting-room, and works of art in all parts of the house; but he has the chief pictures in the art gallery, and there hour after hour you walk with catalogue and glass and ever-increasing admiration. Well, heaven is the gallery where God has gathered the chief treasures of his realm. The whole universe is his palace. In this lower room where we stop there are many adornments; tessellated floor of amethyst, and on the winding cloud-stairs are stretched out canvas on which commingle azure, and purple, and saffron, and gold. But heaven is the gallery in which the chief glories are gathered. There are the brightest robes. There are the richest crowns. There are the highest exaltations. St. John says of it: "The kings of the earth shall bring their honor and glory into it." And I see the procession forming, and in the line come all empires, and the stars spring up into an arch for the hosts to march under. They keep step to the sound of earthquake and the pitch of the avalanche from the mountains, and the flag they bear is the flame of a consuming world, and all heaven turns out with harps and trumpets and myriad-voiced acclamation of angelic dominions to welcome them in, and so the kings of the earth bring their honor and glory into it. Do you wonder that good people often stand, like Stephen, looking into heaven? We have many friends there.

There is not a man here so isolated in life but there is some one in heaven with whom he once shook hands. As a man gets older, the number of his celestial acquaintances very rapidly multiplies. We have not had one glimpse of them since the night we kissed them good-bye, and they went away; but still we stand gazing at heaven. As when some of our friends go across the sea, we stand on the dock, or on the steam-tug, and watch them, and after awhile the bulk of the vessel disappears, and then there is only a patch of sail on the sky, and soon that is gone, and they are all out of sight, and yet we stand looking in the same direction; so when our friends go away from us into the future world we keep looking down through the Narrows, and gazing and gazing as though we expected that they would come out and stand on some cloud, and give us one glimpse of their blissful and transfigured faces.

While you long to join their companionship, and the years and the days go with such tedium that they break your heart, and the vipers of pain, and sorrow, and bereavement keep gnawing at your vitals, you will stand, like Stephen, gazing into heaven. You wonder if they have changed since you saw them last. You wonder if they would recognize your face now, so changed has it been with trouble. You wonder if, amid the myriad delights they have, they care as much for you as they used to when they gave you a helping hand and put their shoulder under your burdens. You wonder if they look any older; and sometimes in the evening-tide, when the house is all quiet, you wonder if you should call them by their first name if they would not answer; and perhaps sometimes you do make the experiment, and then no one but God and yourself are there you distinctly call their names, and listen, and sit gazing into heaven.

Pass on now, and see Stephen looking upon Christ. My text says he saw the Son of Man at the right hand of God. Just how Christ looked in this world, just how he looks in heaven, we cannot say. The painters of the different ages have tried to imagine the features of Christ, and put them upon canvases; but we will have to wait until with our own eyes we see him and with our own ears we can hear him. And yet there is a way of seeing him and hearing him now. I have to tell you that unless you see and hear Christ on earth, you will never see and hear him in heaven.

Look! There he is! Behold the Lamb of God! Can you not see him? Then pray to God to take the scales off your eyes. Look that way—try to look that way. His voice comes down to you this day—comes down to the blindest, to the deafest soul, saying, "Look unto me, all ye ends of the earth, and be ye saved, for I am God, and there is none else." Proclamation of universal emancipation for all slaves. Tell me, ye who know most of the world's history, what other king ever asked the abandoned, and the forlorn, and the wretched, and the outcast to come and sit beside him? Oh, wonderful invitation! You can take it to-day, and stand at the head of the darkest alley in all this city, and say, "Come! Clothes for your rags, salve for your sores, a throne for your eternal reigning." A Christ that talks like that and acts like that, and pardons like that—do you wonder that Stephen stood looking at him? I hope to spend eternity doing the same thing. I must see him; I must look upon that face once clouded with my sin, but now radiant with my pardon. I want to touch that hand that knocked off my shackles. I want to hear the voice that pronounced my deliverance. Behold him, little children; for if you live to three-score years and ten, you will see none so fair. Behold him, ye aged ones; for he only can shine through the dimness of your failing eyesight. Behold him, earth. Behold him, heaven. What a moment when all the nations of the saved shall gather around Christ! All thrones that way, gazing on Jesus.

His worth if all the nations knew
Sure the whole earth would love him, too.

I pass on now, and look at Stephen stoned. The world has always wanted to get rid of good men. Their very life is an assault upon wickedness. Out with Stephen through the gates of the city. Down with him over the precipices. Let every man come up and drop a stone upon his head. But these men did not so much kill Stephen as they killed themselves. Every stone rebounded upon them. While these murderers were transfixed by the scorn of all good men, Stephen lives in the admiration of all Christendom. Stephen stoned, but Stephen alive. So all good men must be pelted. "All who will live godly in Christ Jesus must suffer persecution." It is no eulogy of a man to say that everybody likes him. Show me any one who is doing all his duty to state or church, and I will show you scores of men who utterly abhor him.

If all men speak well of you, it is because you are either a laggard or a dolt. If a steamer makes rapid progress through the waves, the water will boil and foam all around it. Brave soldiers of Jesus Christ will hear the carbines click. When I see a man with voice, and money, and influence all on the right side, and some caricature him, and some sneer at him, and some denounce him, and men who pretend to be actuated by right motives conspire to cripple him, to cast him out, to destroy him, I say "Stephen stoned."

When I see a man in some great moral or religious reform battling against grog shops, exposing wickedness in high places, by active means trying to purify the church and better the world's estate, and I find that the newspapers anathematize him, and men, even good men, oppose him and denounce him, because, though he does good, he does not do it in their way, I say, "Stephen stoned." But you notice, my friends, that while they assaulted Stephen they did not succeed really in killing him. You may assault a good man but you can not kill him. On the day of his death, Stephen spoke before a few people in the Sanhedrim; this Sabbath morning he addresses all Christendom. Paul the Apostle stood on Mars' hill addressing a handful of philosophers who knew not so much about science as a modern schoolgirl. To-day he talks to all the millions of Christendom about the wonders of justification and the glories of resurrection. John Wesley was howled down by the mob to whom he preached, and they threw bricks at him, and they denounced him, and they jostled him; and they spat upon him, and yet to-day, in all lands, he is admitted to be the great father of Methodism. Booth's bullet vacated the presidential chair; but from that spot of coagulated blood on the floor in the box of Ford's theater there sprang up the new life of a nation. Stephen stoned, but Stephen alive.

Pass on now, and see Stephen in his dying prayer. His first thought was not how the stones hurt his head, nor what would become of his body. His first thought was about his spirit. "Lord Jesus, receive my spirit." The murderer standing on the trap-door, the black cap being drawn over his head before execution, may grimace about the future; but you and I have no shame in confessing some anxiety about where we are going to come out. You are not all body. There is within you a soul. I see it gleam from your eyes to-day, and I see it irradiating your countenance. Sometimes I am abashed before an audience, not because I come under your physical eye-sight, but because I realize the truth that I stand before so many immortal spirits. The probability is that your body will at least find a sepulchre in some of the cemeteries that surround this city. There is no doubt but that your obsequies will be decent and respectful, and you will be able to pillow your head under the maple, or the Norway spruce, or the cypress, or the blossoming fir; but this spirit about which Stephen prayed, what direction will that take? What guide will escort it? What gate will open to receive it? What cloud will be cleft for its pathway? After it has got beyond the light of our sun, will there be torches lighted for it the rest of the way?

Will the soul have to travel through long deserts before it reaches the good land? If we should lose our pathway, will there be a castle at whose gate we may ask the way to the city? Oh, this mysterious spirit within us! It has two wings, but it is in a cage now. It is locked fast to keep it; but let the door of this cage open the least, and that soul is off. Eagle's wing could not catch it. The lightnings are not swift enough to come up with it. When the soul leaves the body it takes fifty worlds at a bound. And have I no anxiety about it? Have you no anxiety about it?

I do not care what you do with my body when my soul is gone, or whether you believe in cremation or inhumation. I shall sleep just as well in a wrapping of sackcloth as in satin lined with eagle's down. But my soul—before I close this discourse I will find out where it will land. Thank God for the intimation of my text, that when we die Jesus takes us. That answers all questions for me. What though they were massive bars between here and the city of light, Jesus could remove them. What though there were great Saharas of darkness, Jesus could illumine them. What though I get weary on the way, Christ could lift me on his omnipotent shoulder. What though there were chasms to cross, his hand could transport me. Then let Stephen's prayer be my dying litany: "Lord Jesus, receive my spirit." It may be in that hour we will be too feeble to say a long prayer. It may be in that hour we will not be able to say the "Lord's Prayer," for it has seven petitions. Perhaps we may be too feeble even to say the infant prayer our mothers taught us, which John Quincy Adams, 70 years of age, said every night when he put his head upon his pillow:

Now I lay me down to sleep,
I pray the Lord my soul to keep.

We may be too feeble to employ either of these familiar forms; but this prayer of Stephen is so short, is so concise, is so earnest, is so comprehensive, we surely will be able to say that: "Lord Jesus, receive my spirit." Oh, if that prayer is answered, how sweet it will be to die! This world is clever enough to us. Perhaps it has treated us a great deal better than we deserve to be treated; but if on the dying pillow there shall break the light of that better world, we shall have not more regret than about leaving a small, dark, damp house for one large, beautiful, and capacious. That dying minister in Philadelphia, some years ago, beautifully depicted it when, in the last moment, he threw up his hands and cried out: "I move into the light!"

Pass on now, and I will show you one more picture, and that is Stephen asleep. With a pathos and simplicity peculiar to the Scriptures, the text says of Stephen: "He fell asleep." "Oh," you say, "what a place that was to sleep! A hard rock under him, stones falling down upon him, the blood streaming, the mob howling. What a place it was to sleep!" And yet my text takes that symbol of slumber to describe his departure, so sweet was it, so contented was it, so peaceful was it. Stephen had lived a very laborious life. His chief work had been to care for the poor. How many loaves of bread he had distributed, how many bare feet he had sandalled, how many coats of sickness and distress he had blessed with ministries of kindness and love, I do not know; yet from the way he lived, and the way he preached, and the way he died, I know he was a laborious Christian. But that is all over now. He has pressed the cup to the last fainting lip. He has taken the last insult from his enemies. The last stone to whose crushing weight he is susceptible has been hurled. Stephen is dead! The disciples come! They take him up! They wash away the blood from the wounds. They straighten out the bruised limbs. They brush back the tangled hair from the brow, and then they pass around to look upon the calm countenance of him who had lived for the poor and died for the truth. Stephen asleep!

I have seen the sea driven with the hurricane until the tangled foam caught in the rigging, and wave rising above wave seemed as if about to storm the heavens, and then I have seen the tempest drop, and the waves crouch, and everything become smooth and burnished as though a camping place for the glories of heaven. So I have seen a man, whose life has been tossed and driven, coming down at last to an infinite calm, in which there was a hush of heaven's lullaby. Stephen asleep!

I saw such an one. He fought all his days against poverty and against abuse. They traduced his name. They rattled at the door-knob while he was dying with duns for debts he could not pay; yet the peace of God brooded over his pillow, and while the world faded, heaven dawned, and the deepening twilight of earth's night was only the opening twilight of heaven's morn. Not a sigh. Not a tear. Not a struggle. Hush! Stephen asleep.

I have not the faculty as many have to tell the weather. I can never tell by the setting sun whether there will be a drought or not. I cannot tell by the blowing of the wind whether it will be fair weather or foul on the morrow. But I can prophesy, and I will prophesy what weather it will be when you, the Christian, come to die. You may have it very rough now. It may be this week one annoyance, the next another annoyance. It may be this year one bereavement, the next another bereavement. But at the last Christ will come in and darkness will go out. And though there may be no hand to close your eyes, and no breast on which to rest your dying head, and no candle to lift the night, the odors of God's hanging garden will regale your soul, and at your bedside will halt the chariots of the King. No more rents to pay, no more agony because flour has gone up, no more struggle with "the world, the flesh, and the devil;" but peace—long, deep, everlasting peace. Stephen asleep!

Asleep in Jesus, blessed sleep,
From which none ever wake to weep:
A calm and undisturbed repose,
Uninjured by the last of foes.

Asleep in Jesus, far from thee
Thy kindred and thy graves may be;
But there is still a blessed sleep,
From which none ever wake to weep.

You have seen enough for one day. No one can successfully examine more than five pictures in a day. Therefore, we stop, having seen this cluster of Divine Raphaels—Stephen gazing into heaven; Stephen looking at Christ; Stephen stoned; Stephen in his dying prayer; Stephen asleep.

The Sufficiency of Christ.

"No soul can ever be really satisfied until it has given up all hope of adding anything to Christ, and has come to the place where He alone is enough. He, himself, just as He is, without the addition of feelings, or emotions, or doctrines, or experiences, or revelations, or of any other thing, either inward or outward. All other things change or fall, and the soul finds in them no permanent rest; but Christ is the same yesterday, today and forever, and the soul that rests on him alone can never be moved."—Hannah W. Smith.

To Cure Sin.

The only way to cure sin and bring in the reign of righteousness is to stress the doctrine of justification by faith. This means to stress internal purity. We are losing sight of this supreme doctrine in Christianity, the purification of the heart by faith. The words of one of the greatest of English philosophers are worth noting: "Those who preached faith," he says, "or in other words a pure mind, have always produced more popular virtue than those who preached good works or the mere regulation of outward acts."

Gems from William Secker.

Above every evil we should consider sin the greatest evil.

When man had no evil within him, he had no evil upon him.

It is better to be preserved in brine than to rot in honey.

What need those fear a cross upon their back, who feel Christ in their heart?

Life is only to be desired by those to whom death would be no gain.

A man may suffer without sinning, but he cannot sin without suffering.

Everlasting.

"God never works only for today. His plan runs on and on. The web He weaves is from everlasting to everlasting, and if I can fill a part of that web, be it ever so insignificant, it will abide forever. And this is one of the most comforting thoughts to us. While on earth we may do something for eternity."—Bishop Simpson.

Did It for Pay Only.

A witty and popular New York clergyman, whom everybody knows by reputation, had a laughable experience recently. One Sunday not long ago he was going up the steps of his Fifth avenue church, when he was asked by an old lady (who, of course, did not know him) to help her up the steps. With his usual courtly grace he complied with her request. On reaching the top steps she halted, breathlessly, and asked him who was going to preach that day. "Rev. Mr. Blank," he replied, giving his own name. "Oh, Lord!" exclaimed the old lady; "help me down again. I'd rather listen to a man sharpening a saw. Please help me down again. I reckon I won't go in." The clergyman smiled and gently assisted her down the stairs again, remarking as he reached the sidewalk: "I wouldn't go in either, if I wasn't paid for it."

Stewed Whiting.

Two cold whittings or any kind of fish that has been left from the preceding day may be used, one half-pint brown sauce, pepper and salt, mashed potato, one ounce of butter, two tablespoonfuls milk. Remove all skin and bone from the fish, and cut it in nice square pieces, put in a stewpan with the sauce, highly-seasoned, and let it stand by the fire till hot; mash the potatoes with the butter and milk; make a wall of them round a hot dish, and put the fish in the center.

Cause and Effect.

"Oh, my!" cried the woman who was reading the paper. "Here's the ship Golden Eagle arrives at New York from Africa, and they find several large snakes in her hold. How strange." "I'd like to know what you'd expect," retorted the president of the temperance society. "Isn't that the ship that sailed for Africa last season with a cargo of rum?"—New York Recorder.

A Paralytic Cured.

His Grandfather, a Revolutionary Soldier, and His Father, Both Died of Paralysis, Yet the Third Generation Is Cured—The Method.

(From the Herald, Boston, Mass.)

Like a thunderbolt from a clear sky, a stroke of paralysis came to Mr. Frank T. Ware, the well known Boston auctioneer and appraiser, at 235 Washington-street. He went to bed one night about six years ago seemingly in robust health. When he awoke his left side was stiffened by the deadening of the nerves. The interviewer sought out Mr. Ware to get the facts. He gave the interesting particulars in his own way:

"The first shock came very suddenly while I was asleep, but it was not lasting in its effects, and in a few weeks I was able to be about. A few months after, when exhausted by work and drenched with rain I went home in a very nervous state. The result was a second and more severe shock, after which my left arm and leg were practically helpless.

"My grandfather, who was a soldier in the Revolutionary War, and lost an arm in the struggle for American independence, died finally of paralysis. My father also died of paralysis, although it was complicated with other troubles, and so I had some knowledge of the fatal character of the disease which is hereditary in our family. After the second shock I took warning, for, in all probability, a third would carry me off.

"Almost everything under the sun was recommended to me and I tried all the remedies that seemed likely to do any good, electricity, massage and specialists, but to no effect.

"The only thing I found that helped me was Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I verily believe that if it hadn't been for those pills I would have been dead years ago.

"Yes, I still have a slight reminder of the last attack six years ago. My left arm is not as strong as the other and my left foot drags a little, as the paralysis had the effect of deadening the nerves. But I can still walk a good distance, talk as easily as ever, and my general health is splendid. I am really over seventy years old, although I am generally taken to be twenty years younger.

"The Pink Pills keep my blood in good condition, and I believe that is why I am so well.

Mr. Ware has every appearance of a perfectly healthy man, and arrives at his office promptly at eight o'clock every morning, although he has reached an age when many men retire from active life. He says that in his opinion both his father and grandfather could have been saved if Pink Pills had been obtainable at that time.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People contain all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They may be had of all druggists or direct by mail from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., at 50 cents per box, or six boxes for $2.50.

Foiled Assassins.

A Brahmin traveling recently between Chittur and Memara, in the country back of Madras, was belated and sought shelter for the night at a house where he was received by two Nair women. To the elder he gave 1,000 rupees for safe keeping. This aroused their avarice, and she proposed to her sister to murder their guest and keep his money. She refused, but when the elder woman's husband arrived he fell in with her plan. The guest, sleeping on the veranda, was warned in time by the younger sister, and hidden by her in an outhouse. About midnight a brother of the two women returned from a journey and, seeing the house shut, lay down to sleep on the mat which the Brahmin had left. Soon after the murderers stole upon the sleeper and killed him with one blow with a rice pounder, buried the body without finding out their mistake, and removed all traces of the crime. In the morning the Brahmin was let out by his rescuer, and walked into the house to ask for his money. The assassins were terrified out of their wits and gave it back to him, whereupon he went to the police and informed them of the intention to murder him. By this time the brother had been missed, but after a search the body was found and the guilty couple arrested. The Brahmin was so impressed by the danger he had escaped that he gave the 1,000 rupees to the girl who had saved him.—New York Sun.

MATTERS OF INTEREST TO AGRICULTURISTS.

Some Up-to-Date Hints About Cultivation of the Soil and Yields Thereof—Horticulture, Viticulture and Floriculture.

HE comparison of new and standard varieties of wheat begun by the Pennsylvania State College Agricultural Experiment Station in 1890 has been continued through the present season. They were grown under as nearly similar conditions of soil, exposure, fertilizers, drainage, culture, etc., as possible, and the yields reported below are from careful weights of the products of the different plots made at the time of threshing.

The plots were one-twentieth acre in size. The land was plowed early in August to a depth of six or seven inches, thoroughly pulverized and firmed. All varieties sown Sept. 1, at the rate of seven pecks per acre.

Twenty-six of the varieties have been grown side by side for the past six years. Seven of these have been under trial for three consecutive years and the trial with eleven sorts covers two years.

In 1895, the Mealy, a smooth red wheat, produced 36.36 bushels per acre, the largest yield of any variety tested. Following this variety in the order of their production are: Reliable 34.2, Royal Australian 33.5, Miami Valley 32.7, American Bronze 32.45 and Jones' Square Head 32.44.

A far safer measure of the value of the varieties tested will be found in the column showing the average yield for the past six years. This column shows that seven varieties have given an average yield of over thirty bushels per acre, viz., Reliable 33.6 bushels, Fulcaster 30.9, Valley 30.7, Ontario Wonder 30.2, Wyandotte Red 30.1, Deitz Longberry Red 30.1, Currel's Prolific 30.1. It will be observed that Mealy, the variety giving the largest yield this year is not included in the seven most productive sorts, which forcibly illustrates the danger of forming a judgment of the value of a variety from the results of a single season.

Cotton in Spain.

In Spain more men are employed in the cotton industry than in any other, except agriculture. This fact is brought out in a report on the Spanish cotton industry recently made to the state department by Consul Bowen of Barcelona. It appears that in thread alone there are 3,009,000 spindles, $40,000,000 capital invested, 34,866 workmen. In white woven cotton goods there are large exports from Barcelona. Ten thousand workmen are employed in cotton thread lace manufactures near Barcelona, and 38,000 are at work in other parts of Spain. In dyed and stamped cotton factories there are 10,634 looms and 32,000 workmen employed, producing 48,800,000 meters of cloth. Cuba and Puerto Rico received the most of this. The total number of spindles in Spain employed in cotton works is 2,614,500, and the number of looms is 68,300, with a total capital of $60,000,000. Cotton thread workmen are paid by the piece, as are also the weavers. The average wages paid per week are as follows: Directors and superintendents, from $12 to $25; major-domos, $8 to $10; machinists, $4 to $16; firemen, $3 to $6; thread workers and weavers, $4.75 to $6; carpenters, $4.75 to $6; ordinary workmen, $3 to $4. The average workman's wages in Barcelona and vicinity are less than 70 cents a day. The most of the cotton that comes to Spain is from the United States, and amounts to about $15,000,000 each year. Considerable cotton, however, also comes from Egypt. While Spain is poor, the consul says, the province of Barcelona is rich.

Curious Trees.

The largest orange tree in the south is a gigantic specimen which grows out of the rich soil in Terre Bonne parish, Louisiana. It is fifty feet high and fifteen feet in circumference at the base. Its yield has often been ten thousand oranges per season.

The "tallow tree" of China has a pith from one inch to two feet in diameter, according to the size of the tree, which is composed of a greasy wax which is so highly volatile that it often catches fire spontaneously, consuming the tree to the very ends of its roots.

The largest oak tree now left standing in England is "Cowthorpe's oak," which is seventy-eight feet in circumference at the ground. The oldest tree in Britain is "Parliamentary oak," in Clipstone park, London, which is known to be fifteen hundred years old.

The largest apple tree in New York state is said to be one standing near the town of Wilson. It was planted in the year of 1815, and it is on record that it once yielded thirty-three barrels of apples in a single season.

There are four hundred and thirteen species of trees found growing within the limits of the United States. The curiosity of the whole lot is the black ironwood of Florida, which is thirty per cent heavier than water. Well dried black ironwood will sink in water almost as quickly as will a bar of lead.

The "life tree" of Jamaica is harder to kill than any other species of wood growth known to arboriculturists. It continues to grow and thrive for months after being uprooted and exposed to the sun.

Picking and Packing of Peaches.

There is almost as much importance in the picking and packing of peaches as in growing them. They must be handled with the greatest of care in order to avoid heavy losses. If they are to be shipped, they must be picked as soon as colored and before they become soft. Handle the fruit as little as possible. It should be placed, when picked, in the receptacle that is to contain it until ready to ship. If peaches are roughly tumbled from one basket to another, they will become bruised and decay rapidly. When packed for shipment the fruit should be carefully graded, according to size, degree of ripeness, etc. Blemished fruit it does not pay to ship, as one or two speckled or knotty specimens will lower the value of an entire basket. The splint baskets holding one peck are the best size. Fruit should be packed carefully and the basket filled up well, as it will settle a little from jolting. Then the cover should be firmly put on. If of splint, tack it firmly, and leave a little space so that the fruit may be seen. Mark the grade of fruit on the top of the basket. If netting is used, put it on tight, and mark the grade on the side of the basket.

Evaporating Poor Apples.—It is said that in Wayne County, N. Y., which is not a very large county, something like a million of bushels of apples were evaporated last year, yielding a product worth $500,000. As most of this was from fruit that could not very well have been marketed in any other form, and some of it probably was just good enough and large enough to have tempted the growers to try to work it into the barrels if they could not have utilized it as they did, and thereby lessened the market value of the better apples among which it would have been put, we say blessings on the man who invented the evaporator, and hope to see them in more common use in New England soon. They save fruit that would go to waste or to worse than waste, the cider barrel, and improve the quality of the apples sent to market. If those who use them will stop the artificial bleaching of their evaporated apples, the product will soon be more popular. While farmers color their butter and bleach their apples they should not make much outcry about the shoddy goods sent out by manufacturers.—American Cultivator.

England has annually, for years, encouraged the production of heavy draft horses, and the education of British owners and teamsters by a cart horse parade. In this work the Royal Agricultural society and the Society for Prevention of Cruelty co-operate. In the bestowal of premiums or awards, the care of the animals and their driving are considered along with their individual excellence.—Humane Journal.

BETROTHAL SHOPPING.

An Expedition That the Whole Family Enter Into and Enjoy.

One of the interesting functions of the up-to-date betrothal is, however, the shopping expedition, where the two mothers and fathers-in-law to be, with their respective son and daughter, go out on an appointed morning and bring home a broom, a carving knife and fork, a salt cellar, a Bible, a brass door-knocker, a candle-stick and a pair of bellows. This is a revival of an old German custom of presenting the young pair with what were considered the seven emblems of those virtues that go to make up a perfect household. The shopping party is concluded by a luncheon to the united families, and nowadays, instead of spreading forth the wedding gifts for inspection the day of the ceremony, the bride's mother, two days beforehand, issues cards for an informal evening reception, where the presents are exhibited in the drawing room. As every one of these are received, thanks should be immediately rendered in the bride's hand-writing and at once, and recently has been issued the edict that good form commands the bride to address all her own wedding invitations and personally superintend their posting, sealing the envelope flaps with white wax, showing the impress of her initials alone, wreathed with tiny orange blossoms. This seal is a little souvenir that falls to the share of her mother, just as her white silk wedding stockings are given to her youngest sister and from her private purse she is expected to send a fee to the cook who bakes her wedding cake.

Atlanta and the South.

The Chicago and Eastern Illinois R. R. will during the time of the Exposition at Atlanta, Sept. 18, to Dec. 31, 1895, offer exceptionally fine service between Chicago and the South. A low rate ticket will be sold, and through cars run to all southern points. This is 55 miles the shortest route to Atlanta, Chattanooga and the South.

For guide to Atlanta and the Exposition address C. W. Humphrey, Northwestern Passenger Agent, St. Paul, Minn., or City Ticket Office, No. 230 Clark St., Chicago. Charles L. Stone, General Passenger Agent, Chicago.

Huckleberry Pie.

One cup of flour, half cup of cotton-lene, half teaspoonful of salt and a very little ice water (about a tablespoonful to wet the flour). Divide the mass in half, roll out the top crust and spread with butter and sprinkle a very little flour on the butter. Filling: One quart of berries, three-quarters cup sugar, about a dozen green grapes, a pinch of salt and a little butter. Dredge a little flour on the berries to thicken the juice.

Eating and Sleeping.

Eat the best of food, skillfully prepared, at moderate prices, on the elegant dining-cars run by the Chicago Great Western railway ("The Maple Leaf Route").

Sleep in the luxurious bedrooms of the new Pullman compartment sleeping cars run on the same line. Be happy, as a natural consequence. These advantages may be enjoyed in the superlative degree to which modern science has brought them en route between Chicago, Dubuque, Waterloo, Marshalltown, Des Moines, St. Joseph, Kansas City, St. Paul, and Minneapolis, via the Chicago Great Western Railway ("The Maple Leaf Route").

Potts—No, I don't ride one very well yet, but I began taking lessons yesterday—

WOMEN'S FACES

—like flowers, fade and wither with time; the bloom of the rose is only known to the healthy woman's cheeks. The nervous strain caused by the ailments and pains peculiar to the sex, and the labor and worry of rearing a family, can often be traced by the lines in the woman's face. Dull eyes, the sorrow or wrinkled face and those "feelings of weakness" have their rise in the derangements and irregularities peculiar to women. The functional derangements, painful disorders, and chronic weaknesses of women, can be cured with Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. For the young girl just entering womanhood, for the mother and those about to become mothers, and later in "the change of life," the "Prescription" is just what they need; it aids nature in preparing the system for these events. It's a medicine prescribed for thirty years, by Dr. R. V. Pierce, chief consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, at Buffalo, N. Y.

Great Care Should be Taken.

There may be something of sensational exaggeration in the reports coming to hand of the prevalence of cholera in Honolulu. These reports come from irregular sources, and are evidently inspired to some extent, at least either by unreasoning alarm or by the desire to tell a startling story; but, all the same, they affirm from two or three distinct sources the actual existence of cholera in the city of Honolulu, pronounced by competent physicians to be of the veritable Asiatic type. Under such circumstances it is required at the hands of our health authorities on the Pacific Coast that the most stringent quarantine regulations should be instantly put in force. This country has not been open to an attack of cholera on the Pacific Coast, invasions of the disease having heretofore come from the opposite direction, across the Atlantic. It is therefore all the more important that immediate steps should be taken for the protection of the Western ports by experienced quarantine officials thoroughly acquainted with the character of the disease and with the precautionary measures to be used in establishing defenses against it.

OBITUARY.

Mabel Cannon.

Mabel, the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ezra Cannon, was born in this village October 2, 1880, and died at the home of her parents on September 15, 1895.

Her early education was acquired in the public schools of this place, where she won the affection of all who knew her; and where she continued her studies until sickness compelled her to drop school life and leave her little playmates.

Mabel was a faithful Sunday-school scholar for many years, and her beautiful character was not less marked in the presence of her teacher and Sunday-school classmates than in her home life. She was anxious to learn about her Saviour—to learn about heaven—and learn the way of a Christian life, and in all this she was truly successful.

In her sickness and during the long weary days of her suffering Mabel was very patient, and even cheerful. She had a loving smile for all. She was thankful for all that loving hands had done for her, and was often anxious for others, fearing they would be too much troubled because of her. She suffered much, but no complaint did she utter.

Loving hands in an affectionate home did all that could be done for her comfort and welfare, but her little form was too frail for the unfriendly climate of this world, and her spirit has found a home above.

Mabel was a lover of flowers, but on the everlasting hills of God's paradise flowers bloom and never fade. Here on earth there is one little lip less, but yonder in heaven, one more. Her voice is hushed in her earthly home, but free from sickness and pain she can sing in heaven. Early was her life ended and short her earthly pilgrimage, yet her sweet life will shed its helpful influence. Is the home darker? then heaven is brighter, and from above she will ever call her loved ones towards her. She cannot come to us, but we can go to her.

In her own home Mabel has left a father, a mother, three brothers and one sister, who sorely mourn the loss of their darling one; but not only in her home will she be missed, but her school and Sunday-school classmates, teachers and neighbors all feel that they have lost a loving, cheerful little friend. Our loss, but heaven's gain; we weep, but the angels rejoice; the earthly form of her we loved will sleep under the grass and lilies and roses, but the better part—the soul—will live with God.

The Rev. T. E. Ream, of the M. E. church, officiated at the funeral, and selected for a text of scripture the very appropriate words from St. Matthew's gospel: "And Jesus called a little child unto him."

Six of her schoolmates acted as pall bearers: The Misses Leila Lines, Effel Robertson, Carrie Meyer, Grace Otis, Edna Hutchinson and Rose Ernst.

Misses Luella Plagge, Mina Robertson, Lottie Palmer and Iva Runyan carried four beautiful floral pieces—three pillows and "Gates Ajar."

The flowers, both at the church and the cemetery, were most beautiful and appropriate, showing the consideration of many friends.

The casket was a white brocated rush.

The remains were accompanied to their last resting place by a large number of her schoolmates and many friends.

THE REVIEW extends its sympathy to the bereaved family.
