E. church at this place for several years.

Pretty oil cloth patterns in all sizes; also floor oil cloth, 20 cents sq. yard and upwards at A. W. Meyer & Co.

The dance at Foreman's pavilion last Saturday evening was a success. The music was first-class, and everybody present enjoyed a pleasant evening. The success of the pavilion is assured, and next season it will, no doubt, be to Barrington what Coney Island is to New York. No prettier place can be found to spend a pleasant summer day.

The price of coal is steadily advancing, and the end is not yet in sight. Thanks to the enterprise of Plagge & Co., it will make no difference to the people of this section if the price goes sky high, for they have their yards and sheds full, and have a large supply in Chicago purchased when prices were way down. They informed a REVIEW reporter that they intended to give the people of this section the benefit of this deal.

Mr. August Arps, section foreman of the North-Western road, at Cary, met with a painful accident last Thursday morning while making the trip from that place to Barrington on a hand car. While attempting to rescue his dinner pail, which the wind had blown from the car, he got one of his hands caught in the cog wheels of the car and had one of his fingers badly lacerated.

BARRINGTON, - - - ILLINOIS.

Enterprising convicts in the Kentucky penitentiary have been caught making bogus quarters and moonshine whisky.

An Indian has applied for a divorce from his four wives, and yet there are people who think the Indian can't be civilized.

An "Uncle Tom" company has fallen into the hands of the sheriff at Topeka, and there are many other evidences of better times in Kansas.

If the late exportation of gold caused excitement on Wall street, what will be the result when Miss Vanderbilt draws her check in payment of her coronet?

They are also hunting for M. G. Clay, late county treasurer at Ironton, Ohio, whose books are out of whack $28,000. He went for a "little trip" and failed to return.

That Baltimore tunnel electric locomotive went sixty miles an hour. Having beaten everything on earth American workmanship is now starting beneath it.

A. B. C. Love, formerly assistant postmaster at Calvert, Texas, is charged with embezzlement. His name looks as if he had tampered with letters somewhat.

A Michigan man pursued an illusive light through a swamp for over an hour. It is evident that he is no presidential aspirant or he would not have wearied so soon.

Holmes has to October 28 to prepare for his trial for murdering Pletzel in Philadelphia. It is gratifying to know that the district attorney thinks he has a dead sure case.

Spain will show respect to the Red Cross society. It would show respect to society in general by rendering the services of the Red Cross society unnecessary in Cuba.

Lady Gunning, of England, has been sent to prison for a term of one year for forgery. This seems to be gunning under difficulties. The game laws of England are severe.

"Butch" Lyons, the convicted Chicago murderer, says he is willing to live for the sake of his family. It is unfortunate that he didn't think of this before the law secured a prior lien on him.

There is something incongruous about Evanston putting on the skates but if she will promise to be in when curfew rings at night her failing will be generously overlooked by her neighbors.

Here is the condensed history of the recent cup races:
A win.
A foul.
A fluke.
A howl.

The Duke of Marlborough is exciting attention at Saratoga by the wearing of pink shirts. His great ancestor excited attention by the killing of lots of Frenchmen. There has been a great deal of progress in the last two centuries.

When Senator Hill hears that Mr. Cleveland will renominate William B. Hornblower for the supreme bench, he must feel like the good-natured tiger that ate one canary and refused to gobble up another on the ground that he didn't wish to extinguish the species.

Spanish barbarity in Cuba is to be expected. Senor Sagasta must have been joking recently when he urged America to adopt the Spanish type of civilization. Thanks. In spite of our lynchings we have not reached the level of Castile and Leon yet. We are not moving that way.

The Venezuelan Minister to the United States is indignant because one of his attaches was arrested in New York for insulting a woman on the streets and fined $8 and costs. All good Americans indorse the Monroe doctrine, but that doctrine, broad as it is, cannot shield denizens of the Western hemisphere from merited punishment for ungentlemanly capers.

It was only a few days ago that a young woman who was walking along a railroad, saw that obstructions had lodged on the tracks from a burning freight house adjoining. She knew that a passenger train was almost due, and so she went a little way ahead, took off her skirt, and flagged the train. Now what could she have done if she had been a new woman in bloomers?—Philadelphia Inquirer. What could she have done, eh? Go to! go to! and get thee a prescription for the simples. She could merely have shown herself to that train and it would have stopped as still as grandfather's paralyzed clock.

EIGHT MEN KILLED.

Fatal Explosion of Gas in a Wilkesbarre Coal Mine.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Oct. 8.—A terrible explosion of gas occurred at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon in the Dorrner mine, operated by the Lehigh Valley Coal company, and situated northwest of this city. Eight men are dead as a result of the disaster, and two are fatally burned. Following is a list of the dead:

WILLIAM L. JONES, mining engineer, aged 21, Wilkesbarre.

WILLIAM CAHILL, mining engineer, aged 20, Wilkesbarre.

LLEWELLYN OWENS, mining engineer, aged 24, Pittston.

DANIEL DAVIS, fire boss, aged 3. Three unknown men, probably Hungarian laborers.

MICHAEL MOSS, one of the miners, died at the hospital.

The injured men are:

Robert Blanchard, aged 19.

William Miller, aged 21.

George Laffy.

Joseph Murphy.

Miller and Blanchard are so badly burned that they cannot live. Blanchard thinks one of the engineers, or perhaps the fire boss, set fire to a body of gas in the old workings. When Blanchard was found he was being slowly roasted to death. The gas had slowly set fire to his clothes, and they had almost been burned off his body when the rescuers came upon him. Miller, with his broken arms, could render him no assistance, and Blanchard was so pinned down by the debris that he could make no use of his hands.

DURRANT WILL TESTIFY.

Final Effort of the Defense in This Famous Case.

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 8.—On the opening of the eleventh week of the Durrant trial to-day the defense will make a final struggle to break down the testimony of the prosecution. A few more students will be called to the stand, several additional citizens will testify to Durrant's excellent reputation, and the defendant himself will be called to the witness stand. It is understood the defendant's testimony will be guardedly given for the purpose of shutting off cross-examination by the district attorney. Under the law as laid down by the Supreme court of the state a witness cannot be cross-examined except upon actual matters brought out upon direct examination.

Thursday Attorney Deprey will close the case for the defense; Friday and Monday will be occupied by District Attorney Barnes in rebuttal; Tuesday will be passed in further rebuttal; Wednesday the opening argument of the prosecution will be made; and Thursday, Friday and Monday the closing efforts of the defense will be made.

WORKING FOR HINSHAW.

His Attorneys Secure Affidavits as to Conduct of Jurymen.

Danville, Ind., Oct. 8.—An Indianapolis merchant has written Hinshaw's attorneys here that he was kept informed of the trial and the actions and opinion of the jury by one of the jurymen. A barber of West Indianapolis says that a few weeks before the trial one of the jurors told him in his shop that he was convinced Hinshaw was guilty, and nothing could change his opinion. Hogate and Parker, Hinshaw's attorneys, have canvassed the county and secured over seventy affidavits regarding the juror's conduct both before and after the trial, which they say are strong evidence. One juror is said to have stated that if Hinshaw had not been convicted he would have been mobbed that night, and acknowledged that this influenced him.

CHEAP EXCURSION SOUTH.

The Farm, Field and Fireside, Chicago, is doing a most excellent work in helping those who want to better their condition to secure homes in a more congenial climate, or where the opportunities for getting a start in life are better. Its colony plan is very popular, and enables home-seekers to secure a chunk of excellent land at almost half the usual price. For its Oct. 15 excursion to Green Cove Springs, Florida, the lowest rates ever given to that state have been secured. A splendid train will be run from Chicago with special cars from Omaha, Kansas City, St. Paul and Cleveland, and a steamer from New York. The train will be composed mainly of sleeping cars, which will be used for beds throughout the trip. Fifty-six thousand acres of the best land in the state has been secured, the greater part of which will be sold at $5.00 an acre. Any of our readers who want to join this excursion should write the Farm, Field and Fireside at once. They will also run a special excursion to California on the 14th of Nov.

One Indictment Returned.

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 8.—The grand jury made its final report to Judge Shirley yesterday and was discharged for the term. The only indictment returned in connection with alleged legislative boodling was against Representative Milroy H. Gibson, of 3227 South Park avenue, Chicago. He was indicted on the testimony of Thomas J. Bunn, of Bloomington, secretary of the Interstate Building and Loan Association, who testified that he paid him a sum of money to be used as attorney's fees in connection with a matter pending before the legislature.

NEWS OF ILLINOIS.

HISTORY OF SEVEN DAYS IN THE PRAIRIE STATE.

Important Occurrences, Social, Religious, Political, Criminal, Matrimonial and Other That Have Taken Place Since Our Last Issue—State Brevities.

Arms and ammunition for the Cuban patriots are being collected in Chicago. State Senator E. T. Noonan is authority for this statement.

The Illinois grand lodge of Masons went to DeKalb, Ill., where the officers assisted in the laying of the corner stone of the Northern Illinois State Normal school.

The Hon. Adlai E. Stevenson, of Bloomington, Illinois, was in Springfield visiting the State Fair on Friday. The vice president is not looking as well as he did during the campaign of 1892. There seems to be a little more stoop in his figure. The hairs of his head are a little greyer, and the lines about his eyes are somewhat deeper. There is reason for all this, as all the people of the nation know. Mr. Stevenson has had more cause for sorrow on account of sickness in his family than falls to the lot of men great in the Nation. The loss of a daughter and the serious illness of a son, and another daughter, besides the illness of his wife together, form a combination of unfortunate circumstances almost disastrous.

Decatur.—Charles N. Smith, who killed his child Louise and sister-in-law, Edna Buchert, was arraigned in court today charged with murder. He pleaded guilty to the charge as to the child, but not guilty as to the sister-in-law. Judge Vall said: "This is a serious matter. The court must sentence you to prison for life or not less than fourteen years. Knowing this, do you still desire to plead?" "I understand," said Smith calmly, "and I plead guilty to killing baby." The judge said: "I wish to hear evidence in the case, and inform myself as to the history of this man." It was then arranged that evidence would be heard next Monday. Belief is that the judge will pass sentence of death Monday, only nine days after the murder.

The secretary of the Fruit Growers' Association of Southern Illinois, from reports on the apple crop of southeastern Illinois, estimates that the crop will not exceed 71 per cent of the crop of 1890, but says that the acreage of bearing orchards has increased 18 per cent since then. All the reports show that the recent cold weather has injured a great deal of fruit on the trees, and that the high winds have caused more windfalls than ever before known. The growers are not disposed to accept the low prices offered by buyers, and many are preparing to store their apples and market them later on. The quality of the apples now on the trees is much superior to that of the apples grown in this section heretofore, being large, smooth and highly colored. The freedom from worms is attributed to the general practice of spraying now adapted by the best growers.

Eureka.—At the session of the supreme court which begins at Ottawa next Tuesday the attorneys for Woodford county will attempt to have the county seat case advanced to an immediate hearing. This is the last step in a fight for the removal of the county seat from Metamora to this city, which has been continued more than thirty years. Many times the attempt has been made to secure its removal, but all were unsuccessful until November, 1894, when Eureka won the election by an overwhelming majority. The election was contested, but the case of Metamora was thrown out of court. An appeal to the supreme court was granted, and it is hoped to finally settle the question at the next term. The case is of unusual importance, as there are no decisions on the particular question before the court. The board of supervisors expects to erect new buildings as soon as a decision is reached in the case.

Champaign.—The recent competition in designs for the new library building on the grounds of the University of Illinois, for which the legislature appropriated $150,000, seems to have given rise to an uncomfortable feeling. The trustees set apart $1,800, divided into prizes of $500, $200 and $100, and invited architects to compete. Twenty-eight designs were submitted, and the first prize went to E. G. Bolles of Springfield. Other competitors began to look into this and they allege that Bolles is merely a draftsman in the office of S. A. Bullard, who is an architect at Springfield, and one of the trustees of the university. In consequence of this discovery it is recalled as a fact that two years ago when the competition was opened for designs for the new engineering hall at the university to cost $160,000, a design submitted by an architect residing in Tacoma, Wash., a brother of Trustee Bullard, was successful. Trustee Bullard being then chairman of the committee of the board. It is understood that the protest of the architects may result in a new competition.

People of Peoria have decided to make a bid for the asylum for incurable insane. Mayor Allen has been directed to appoint a committee of ten with power to act.

The Eighteenth district Republicans have nominated Judge Cyrus G. Cook on the following platform:

The American people favor bimetallism and the Republican party demands a sound and stable currency, a currency not liable to fluctuation, for the safe and successful conduct of business and the employment of labor and the buying and selling of the products of labor. The Republican party is in favor of good money and of a sufficient volume to facilitate the employment of labor and the unlimited transaction of business. The Republican party has always believed in and has maintained the use of three kinds of money, gold, silver and paper, the only conditions being that all shall be of equal value and equal purchasing and debt paying power.

Springfield.—The grand jury is again at work on legislative boodling. Witnesses were examined as to the use of money, or the attempted use of money, on the butterine bill, the fish bill and the grocers' bill. The witnesses examined were Representatives Sharrock of Taylorville and White of Bloomington, Banker Frank W. Tracy and Grocer George F. Connelly of Springfield, and A. Hollingsworth of Brownsville, Schuyler county, the latter representing persons engaged in the fish business. Mr. Tracy was examined as to whether any checks had passed through his bank between bribe givers and bribe takers. It is said that none of the witnesses had personal knowledge of boodling, but that names of certain persons supposed to have such knowledge were given to the jury.

Shelbyville.—We, the representatives of the democratic party of the Eighteenth Congressional District of Illinois, in convention assembled, hereby renew our pledges of fealty to the time-honored principles of the democratic party and recognizing the fact that the money question is at this time one of the most important before the American people, do hereby declare ourselves on this question as follows: "We demand the free and unlimited coinage of silver and gold at a ratio of 16 to 1, without waiting for the consent or action of any foreign government." Such is the democratic platform adopted in convention here. Fayette presented the name of J. M. Albert as a candidate for the nomination. Montgomery presented the name of Edward Lane; Madison presented Major Prickett and Shelby offered John Yantis. On the 324th ballot Edward Lane was nominated and the nomination made unanimous.

Springfield.—In response to a call issued by a number of colored men of the state 125 delegates from fifty-three counties met here last week and organized the Colored Citizens' Protective League. It is non-political and is called a "new departure." Speeches were made by J. J. Bird, Springfield; S. B. Turner, Chicago; John G. Jones, Chicago; A. G. Plummer, Rockford, and Rev. J. S. Wood, Peoria. Resolutions were adopted expressing sympathy for Mr. Waller, who is in prison in France, denouncing the separate school system; urging the colored people to teach their children useful trades; to invest in building and loan associations, and to secure homes for themselves. The following were elected officers: J. S. Wood, Peoria, president; Charles Larkin, Rockford, vice president; Jacob Amos, Cairo, secretary; J. W. Evans, Lovejoy, treasurer; J. G. Jones, Chicago, attorney; J. Walter Oglesby, Springfield, corresponding secretary. The delegates were entertained at a banquet. The next meeting will be held at Rockford in June, 1896.

The trustees of the Eastern State Normal school, about the location of which there has been so much contention, have retained Congressman Connolly of Springfield, and mean to fight the quo warranto proceedings recently brought against them in the Sangamon County Circuit court, in which their legal existence is attacked. They met recently and had a thorough discussion of the situation. They decided that in spite of the fight being made against them, they have the legal right to locate that Eastern Normal School anywhere within the provisions of the bill for its creation, and mean to go ahead with the work. Superintendent Inglis, against whom the fight is principally made, states that it is pure cussedness and jealousy of parties instituting the suit, and also that it will not avail them. The law is very plain, he says, and gives the superintendent of public instruction the power to act with the board and he will continue to do so. Governor Altgeld appointed the members of the board and the nominations were confirmed by the senate of the Thirty-ninth General Assembly. That is the case in a nutshell, he claims. The superintendent spoke quite feelingly of the reception given the board while passing through Mattoon, and says it was one of the most disgraceful scenes he ever witnessed. In the meantime the major portion of the state has become thoroughly disgusted with the actions of several of the disappointed bidders for the school's location.

ROB A STREET CAR.

DARING WORK OF THIEVES AT CHICAGO.

Trolley Car Stopped and the Passengers Robbed and Beaten—Hundreds of Dollars' Worth of Property Secured—The Bandits Escape.

Near Chicago four masked desperadoes held up an electric car on the Chicago and North Shore Suburban line at 8:25 o'clock Monday night, and at the point of revolvers compelled the passengers to part with their valuables. Following were some of the passengers:

Johnson, N. O. G., real estate dealer of Galesburg, Ill.; struck under the eye and badly cut with a cane; robbed of a watch valued at $125 and $8 in money.

Johnson, Mrs. N. O. G., Galesburg, Ill.; concealed diamond rings in her bosom and escaped with them.

Laubenhelm, Miss, residence North Clark street, near Vanian boundary line; badly frightened and suffering from nervous shock.

Lunbach, Charles, 1310 Greenleaf avenue, Evanston; robbed of $3.

Merriman, J. O., motorman, living in Edgewater; deafened by shot fired close to his ear.

Nisbett, T. P., 1043 Hinman avenue, Evanston; shot through the thigh and badly injured; robbed of a gold watch and small sum of money.

Osborne, William, conductor, living in Edgewater; robbed of small sum of money.

Voightmann, Franz, 2717 Charlton avenue, Edgewater; robbed of $45 and a gold watch and chain.

Westman, A. E., 2245 Southport avenue, real estate dealer, 73 Dearborn street; cut by blow of a cane and robbed of $8.

Resistance was offered by some of the passengers, and T. P. Nisbett, of 1043 Hinman avenue, Evanston, was shot through the leg. Other passengers were clubbed into submission, and the desperadoes took everything of value in sight. Watches, jewelry and money were handed over, and when the transfer was not made quickly enough it was enforced with the butt end of revolvers or canes. Blood flowed freely, and the car floor was spattered with crimson stains. Most of the passengers submitted quietly to being robbed. The assault lasted about four minutes, after which the robbers took to their heels, carrying their booty. They were doubly protected from detection by masks and blackened faces. Two of them got on the front platform and three on the rear. Conductor and motorman were overpowered, the trolley was pulled down as far as possible and the rope cut, letting it fly up in the air beyond the wire. To make assurance doubly sure the motor crank was wrenched off and thrown away, and the car was effectually stalled. Three patrol wagons loaded with police officers were at once started in hot pursuit, but the robbers had a good start.

Fail to Hold Up a Train.

Kalamazoo, Mich., Oct. 8.—Would-be train robbers filled the engine of a north-bound passenger train on the Grand Rapids and Indiana railroad full of bullets at 7:30 o'clock last night in a dense woods three miles north of this city. Four men were seen on the track by the engineer, and a volley of bullets was fired immediately after. One shot smashed the headlight and the other shots made splinters of the woodwork of the cab. Instead of obeying the order to stop, the engineer pulled the throttle wide open and the train went ahead. No more shots were fired. The passengers knew nothing of the affair till an hour afterward.

Farmers Organize for Protection.

Cleveland, Ohio, Oct. 8.—A unique organization, the American Protective association, has been incorporated, with headquarters in this city, by N. S. Amstutz, a well-known electrical inventor, and half a dozen farmers. Its object is the protection of farmers from the railroad companies. Farmers complain that if they are not well-to-do and influential they are unable to obtain redress when fences, barns and haystacks are burned and cattle killed by the railroads. The association proposes to embrace farmers, establish a fund by means of annual dues, and keep in its employ attorneys to present all such cases in court.

Banks to Reduce Capital Stock.

New York, Oct. 8.—A movement which promises to become more or less general among large financial institutions will be inaugurated at the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Bank of America. It is proposed to reduce the capital stock from $3,000,000 to $1,500,000 by surrendering half of the stock at par. This action is recommended, inasmuch as the remaining capital, together with the existing surplus, will be ample for the conduct of the business, while the scaling of the capital stock will effect a saving of $300,000 a year in taxes. Three other large banks will follow the same course during the present year.

DISCUSS CONSTITUTION.

Episcopal Convention Begins Its Second Week.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 8.—The first day of the second week of the Episcopal triennial convention was given up by the house of deputies to a discussion of the revised constitution. The chair announced that the business in order was the resolution of George R. Fairbanks, of Florida, which provided for the division of dioceses under certain conditions and the erection of missionary jurisdiction out of the ceded territory. This has been done, but it is claimed, not constitutionally. The measure is of course favored by the dioceses having weak territory and opposed by the richer and older dioceses, whose contributions form the large part of the income of the board of missions. The matter was finally referred to the committee on amendments to the constitution, with instructions to report at the earliest possible moment. Dr. Hoffman called for the order of the whole. After a warm discussion on the Harrison amendment, making it incumbent upon both houses to give the reason for rejecting legislation, it was defeated, and the original Biddle amendment was also defeated. One amendment after another was voted down and a sentiment is growing in favor of recommitting the whole constitution to a new committee.

Applications for the holding of the next convention in Louisville, in Atlanta, and in Boston were presented by the bishops, respectively, of these sees and referred to a committee consisting of the bishops of Kentucky, Chicago, New York, Georgia, and Massachusetts.

The central committee of the Woman's auxiliary met at St. Mark's guild room. The general secretary reported contributions coming in constantly for the united offering and that it would be kept open during the convention. The present gathering is the largest in the history of the auxiliary, 168 delegates being present last Thursday in St. Paul and 103 yesterday.

The deputies spent the entire afternoon in debate and the only action on record is that they decided hereafter to call an assistant bishop, bishop coadjutor. This is in accordance with the desires of the revision commission coadjutor. Another debate ensued over the question of selecting a term by which the head of the house of bishops should be known. At present he is called presiding bishop and holds office through seniority. The revised version calls him a primus and has him elected.

MORE RIOTING FEARED.

Fresh Outbreaks Looked for at Constantinople.

Constantinople, Oct. 6, via Sofia, Oct. 8.—The representatives of the six powers have sent a collective note to the Turkish government calling attention to the inadequate measures taken by the police authorities to maintain public tranquility in Constantinople and its suburbs, and demanding the prompt institution of a rigorous inquiry into the recent rioting, bloodshed and wholesale imprisonment of Armenians here. In addition the powers demand the release of all prisoners who are innocent of wrong-doing and the cessation of arrests. There have been no further excesses, however, although a feeling of great disquiet still prevails, and fresh demonstrations upon the part of the Armenians are feared. The Armenians, who are still inside the Patriarchate Church here, in which they sought refuge after the rioting of Monday last, fired some shots at noon yesterday, and it was feared that another outbreak was imminent. The police watching the building promptly notified the military authorities, and a strong force of troops was sent to the spot. The soldiers immediately blocked all the adjacent streets.

EIGHTEEN WERE KILLED.

Belgian Railroad Accident Worse Than at First Reported.

Brussels, Oct. 8.—Dispatches received here from Wavre, fifteen miles from this city, where the collision between a crowded passenger train and an engine occurred Sunday evening, show that eighteen instead of ten persons were killed and that 100 persons, and not forty, were injured. Several of the wounded people are so seriously injured that their lives are despaired of. There are no Americans among the dead or injured. Relief gangs and medical assistance were promptly sent to the scene of the accident from all neighboring points and everything possible was done to succor the wounded, at least thirty of whom were in need of prompt assistance. Among the passengers aboard the train were M. Beernaert, president of the chamber of deputies, and his family. None of them sustained serious injuries and the president was unhurt. Mme. Mourlou, wife of the well-known engineer, was among the killed.

Urges Secret Organization.

Terre Haute, Ind., Oct. 8.—President Debs of the American Railway union has issued a circular to the local unions urging secret organization, which has been found necessary in many localities because of the disfavor in which the union is held by railway officials.

VAST FIELD OF FLAME

GREAT CONFLAGRATION AT GREEN BAY, WIS.

Blaze Started by Sparks from Racing Tugs Causes a Loss of $125,000—Immense Plant of the Murphy Lumber Company Destroyed.

Green Bay, Wis., Special: Two tug captains, alleged to have raced near the mouth of the river Monday morning are believed to have been the cause of a fire at the immense plant of the Murphy Lumber company, causing a loss of $125,000, distributed as follows: Six million feet of lumber, $96,000; slabs, covering an area of twenty acres, $9,000; dry kiln, $2,000; barn, $3,000; office building, $2,000; 1,000 feet of wharf, built far out into the river, $8,000; tramways, etc., $2,000. Another estimate places the loss on wharf at $15,000, making the total loss $130,000.

The fire started at 11 o'clock a. m. and at 7 o'clock p. m. the whole east side of Green Bay seemed doomed to destruction. At 9 p. m. the fire had gone down somewhat and the terrible anxiety of thousands of people was somewhat allayed. The conflagration was started in the lumber piles on the docks by sparks from passing boats, which lodged among dry boards. At that time a stiff breeze was blowing from due west and soon fanned the blaze. A few minutes later the smoke was noticed and the danger was realized.

When the fire department reached the mill plant, a mile north from the city, in what is known as "Muskrat City," the extent of the blaze was seen. The velocity of the wind increased at a fearful rate, and soon a gale was blowing. Long sheets of flames leaped from the wharves over the bare space where formerly the mill and machine shops had stood, which burned a few weeks ago and caused a property loss of nearly $90,000.

The Murphy plant covers an area of seventy-two acres, formerly swamp lands, but now filled up with slabs and decayed wood, shavings and sawdust. Thus, the very ground was a bed of fire, spreading onward to the east, 300 feet from the former mill site, where endless rows of piles of slabs began. It was the work of an instant for the flames to lodge in them.

The Murphy Lumber Company had a splendid private water equipment, not being connected with the city service, and streams began to play from all sides. But they looked like silk threads in volume compared to that of the flames. All efforts to check the progress of the leaping sheets of fire proved ineffective. Ten minutes after the slabs began to burn nearly 3,000 cords of them were blazing, sending huge billows of sparks into the vast stretch of prairie grass further to the east. The Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul and Kewaunee railroads sent locomotives for the purpose of helping to pull down the lumber, but the terrific heat and smoke stopped all this work. Westward of the lumber stood the office building and huge barns. One steamer was dispatched toward the river shore and once more the uneven fight with the fiery element was taken up.

By 4 p. m. the wind had become a stiff norther and all the lumber was blazing fiercely. Burning pieces of slabs and boards were carried half a mile and more. The crews of the Green Bay planing mill, Dobry's planing mill, the Welset Table Factory, Britton's extensive cooperage works, and other establishments were called out and began to throw water all over the buildings and property. Nevertheless, several incipient blazes started in the city.

Green Bay's streets filled with smoke and cinders, thus adding to the general anxiety. When the wind shifted to the north, the flames cut off the retreat of sixty people who watched the progress of the fire from an office building, as well as a part of the fire department working there. Their perilous position being recognized, tugs were sent down to get them.

Real estate in Muskrat City will be greatly affected. Lots worth $50 a week ago can be bought for $5. The calamity for Green Bay, by reason of the fire, is great. The insurance will aggregate $95,000. Of this $12,000 is on wharves and tramways, as follows: Palatine, Manchester, $1,500; Liverpool and London and Globe, $500; Manchester, England, $2,000; Hanover, New York, $500; Germania, Freeport, $1,500; North British and Mercantile, $500; Caldonian, $500; London and Lancashire, $2,500; National of Hartford, $500; Springfield Fire and Marine, $2,500.

England Refuses to Arbitrate.

London, Oct. 8.—The Venezuelan Consul at Cardiff has written a letter to the press giving the history of the boundary dispute between Venezuela and Great Britain. He says Venezuela has repeatedly proposed to settle the matter by reference, but the Marquis of Salisbury, Earl of Granville, and Lord Rosebery have persistently declined to do so. Since then, he adds, Venezuela has made repeated efforts toward arbitration, but, he claims, the British encroachments have steadily continued until they now extend far beyond the Schomburg line into the territory of Turburi.

A FEUD SETTLED.

The feuds of Kentucky have been celebrated in song and story, and many a stirring refrain or bloody tale has been founded on the family wars of "the dark and bloody ground," but no feud, ancient or modern, was ever settled in a more satisfactory manner or resulted in a more lasting peace between the factions than was brought about by the settlement of the feud between the Brown and Jones families in a county bordering on the Ohio river which shall be nameless.

How the enmity between the families arose in the first place belongs not to a story of modern times, for the beginning was far back in the early history of the state. At first it was bloody enough to suit the most sanguinary partisan, but as the county became more settled and peaceful the Brown-Jones feud took the shape of a political rivalry no less bitter than the old warfare, but not quite so destructive of the population of the county. Business rivalry also sprang up, and the family of Brown was arrayed against the family of Jones on every possible occasion, and their respective retainers always stood by their chiefs.

This led to some deplorable affairs on such occasions as conventions, election days and other gatherings, where both parties came in contact, but the leaders of the factions, advising law abiding conduct on every occasion, managed to keep the ill feeling from breaking into open warfare as a general thing. No one accused either of the parties to the feud of cowardice, and when at the breaking out of the war Brown cast his lot with the Federals it followed of course that Jones took up arms for the Confederacy, as he was in duty bound to do even if his sympathies had not been with that cause.

Each began as a captain of a company, and during the whole progress of the strife each fought valiantly, and on more than one occasion their commands met in the midst of the horrid storm of war and helped to make a few pages of history sodden with the blood of heroes, for in those days, when men in gray met men in blue, deeds of daring were performed that made the actors immortals and wrote their names high in the temple of fame.

The people at home watched anxiously the course of their respective leaders, and when Brown was promoted his partisans held a grand mass meeting which was still the talk of the town when word came that Jones had been promoted also, and his retainers met to rejoice.

So the fight went on, and Brown and Jones were in the thick of it, and their bravery was rewarded, until when the days of peace came at last, it was General Brown and General Jones who came back to the little town, and neither of them had performed a deed of valor that had not been equaled by the other.

General Brown had a son, John, and General Jones had a daughter, Jeanette, but they passed each other by in scorn when school children together, and as they grew older they were never known to speak to each other. In fact, they rarely met at any social function, because there was no middle ground in that county. He who was not for Brown was against him, and the same might be said concerning Jones.

Society was divided into the Browns and the Joneses, and the members of one party did not associate with the other more than was absolutely necessary. When a Brown partisan died, the Brown faction buried him from the Methodist church north, and when a Jones died he was carried to the cemetery from the Methodist church south, and the only place where the two parties rested together in peace and quiet was the little cemetery on the hills beyond the town.

John Brown and Jeanette Jones were 12 and 10 respectively when the war ended, and they grew up hating each the name of the other, as had their ancestors since the memory of man went not back to the time, and the Brown-Jones feud was as bitter as it ever was as the years went on.

Then came a sad blow to each. On the very same day General Brown was thrown from his horse and killed and Mrs. Jones died sitting in her chair from some sudden stroke, and the coroner of the county rendered his verdicts accordingly, and from the church north and the church south solemn processions moved, composed of the friends of each party, and there was one day when the two factions met and passed no jeering word or insulting remark between them and when each went his way decorously as becomes Christians in a civilized land.

Then the years went on again. Mrs. Brown, fair to look upon, and as stately as a queen, became the leader of the Brown faction, while General Jones, the courtly and polished gentleman in all things, pursued the even tenor of his way, having regard for the sex of his opponent, and gradually peace began to settle over the community.

The Browns and the Joneses were as bitter toward each other as ever, but their partisans noticed that there was an unwonted quiet between the immediate members of the families, and those who were not of the blood of either began to see that one might belong to the faction they were opposed to and still be a decent sort of a person, and gradually a better feeling began to find a footing in the community. To be sure, no one deserted this party. It was not that party fealty had grown weaker, but the charity that covereth a multitude of sins spread its white mantle over the whole people and made them understand that others might be good men and women and not believe in all things as they did.

Now a strange thing happened. John Brown and Jeanette Jones were sent north to finish their education, and it happened that they were sent to the same college, and it being a coeducational institution both entered the same class. Then the old feud took a new shape, for these two heirs apparent to the leadership of the ancient feud began a struggle for educational supremacy that lasted from the day they entered the college until the day they graduated, and on that day Jeanette Jones was the victor, with John Brown next to her.

It was no triumph for Jeanette though, for she was very well satisfied in her own mind that John Brown had made his examination to fit the occasion, and had given her first place deliberately and intentionally, and this made her feel that there are times when victory is worse than defeat.

They had been on speaking terms for some time, because it was necessary on occasions for them to speak, but there was nothing like intimacy or even friendship existing between them.

The more Jeanette thought about the matter the more fully was she convinced that she was the victim of John Brown's courtesy, and she felt that she must let him know that she understood this to be the fact, or the laurels she had won would forever burn her brow. She could not make any excuse for approaching him until she was ready to go home.

The coaches were filled, and it so happened that she got a lower berth in the Wagner that was to carry them home. John saw the situation at a glance, and betook himself to the smoking compartment and staid there until midnight in order not to annoy his fair neighbor and enemy, but she had made up her mind to speak to him, and when he sauntered down the aisle to retire he saw Miss Jeanette sitting in her seat and was about to turn back when she called to him:

"One minute, please, Mr. Brown," she said.

John doffed his cap and bowed without speaking.

"I want to say to you," began Jeanette in some confusion, "that I am perfectly aware of the fact that you placed the honors of our class on my head by not doing your best. I owe you thanks, from the ordinary point of view, but under the circumstances I can but wish that you had pursued a different course."

This speech was a rather prim one, and was not well delivered, in spite of the fact that Jeanette had been conning for hours and had it word perfect.

The young man was no whit less confused than was the young lady, and for a moment he stood unable to reply. He could not lie by saying that she was mistaken, and he did not want to acknowledge that she was correct.

"You have no reason for your belief, Miss Jones," he said, resolving on a middle course, "and if your surmises could by any possible chance be correct the honors go to Kentucky and to our home, and that is honor enough."

This was a question that required considerable discussion, and before either of them was aware of it the light of the new day broke through the windows and the porter smiled grimly to himself as he slipped the dollar John gave him into the proper receptacle and said something in an undertone to the conductor of the car about some folks being "awfully sweet on each other."

The dispute between the young people was not definitely settled that night, and after their arrival at home every time they met casually when going about the country it was renewed. It was surprising, too, how often their rides on horseback were over the same roads and at the same time, and if there had been any one in their secrets that one would have concluded that the old dispute between the families was going to break out in a new form, though it must be said that the arguments of the young people were very decorously conducted and frequently strayed away from the original matter of the school honors.

One day as John went up the hill he met Jeanette coming down. This was not a very unusual occurrence, and neither of them made any pretense of being surprised. In fact, John said plainly that he came that way because he hoped to meet Jeanette.

There was that in John's eyes that day that made Jeanette's brown orbs droop when she looked at him. With a woman's prescience she knew that he was going to talk to her of things that had not been spoken of before and tell her a story that would sound infinitely sweet to her coming from his lips.

John turned his horse, and together they went slowly down the hill along the winding road beneath the green trees. All the glory of summer was about them, and the sapphire skies seemed to bend just above the hills to the south, while across the river to the north the blue Ohio heights lay basking in beauty, dim, blue and far away.

"Jeanette, darling, I love you. Will you be my wife?"

John spoke without preface and without warning, and the girl gasped at the suddenness of it all.

"Don't say no," pleaded the big and handsome John, as the girl bent her eyes to her horse's mane and paled and flushed from the sweet emotion that surged through her heart. "Don't throw me over, for I love you better than life, better than ever any other one can, and will love you always. You say you owe your college honors to me and want me to have them. You do not owe me anything that your love will not repay a million times over and leave me hopelessly indebted to you. I know you belong to two factions who have been at war always, but cannot we go down the way in peace with each other? Cannot we forget that our families are enemies, and by joining hands make the old hateful feud a thing of the past to be forgotten forever? Won't you say yes, dearest?"

The young man grew eloquent in his earnestness, and yet the girl said no word nor gave him even a glance. Surely this was the day of triumph for her when she saw the hereditary enemy begging a favor at her hands, and triumph was in her heart, but not of the sort that the warrior feels when his enemy lies vanquished before him. It was the triumph that caused the maiden in far Judaea, long years ago, to sing, "My lover is mine and I am his," and she simply put out her hand in a bland sort of a way toward John, who seized it and kissed it as if he were saluting an ambassador.

What further was said belongs not to this story, for there are some things that sound well when time and circumstance may be fully considered, but which seem to be quite silly when put in cold words in black and white. Suffice it to say that the question of what the people would say came up, and these two brave young people concluded that they had not quite the courage to make open announcement of the treaty of everlasting peace which had been fully ratified and sealed after the manner known to lovers since the world began, and they then planned and conspired to escape to Ohio and at the town of Aberdeen, known and famed as the "Gretna Green of Ohio," be married unknown to friends and relatives, who, after it was too late, might discuss the question of what they would do about it.

The night when the elopement was to take place was set and the young people went their respective ways happy as young people are on such occasions.

The night when John Brown was to steal his lady fair and carry her away across the river came as dark as the most timid lovers could wish, and John could hardly wait till the day was done. He consulted his watch every two minutes and wandered about like unto one possessed of the spirit of unrest. And finally the night fell.

The thick clouds hid the moon and cast a dense gloom over the whole face of the earth, and the young man rejoiced and told himself that Fate had favored him in all things. Saddling two horses, he proceeded to a wood near the home of his innamorata, and hardly had he got there when a female form, clad in black and deeply veiled, stepped from the darkness under the trees and stood dimly revealed.

"Are you ready, darling?" whispered John.

"Yes," was the whispered response, "but I thought you said you would come in a carriage."

"You must have misunderstood me, sweetheart," replied John, "for I don't remember saying how I would come. Let me assist you to mount."

"I don't know whether I can ride or not, I feel so queer and foolish."

"That is natural under the circumstances. You are nervous, dear, and will soon be all right. We must hurry, for I have hired the ferryman to wait for me."

In a minute later the two were flying down the road. Soon the sound of carriage wheels came to their ears. For a few minutes John said nothing, but it was not long before he was convinced that some one was following him.

"Don't be frightened, dear," he said in a loud whisper, "but let us ride faster."

"Why?"

"I think we are pursued, and if not I do not care to have the carriage behind us overtake us."

The lady caught her breath, and in a moment they were going at top speed along the level river road to the landing place of the ferry.

The carriage still kept within hearing distance, but did not seem to gain on them. Presently they came to the ferry, and hastily tying the horses John lifted the lady down and stole a kiss from under her veil as he did so. The ferryman was waiting, but it seemed to the flying lovers that he would never be ready to cast off.

"Make haste," said John to him under his breath. "We are followed, and our pursuers are drawing near."

The stupid boatman made a desperate effort to hurry, and in so doing unshipped one of his oars and it flew from his hand and was lost in the dark waters of the river.

Just then the furiously driven carriage drove up and a gentleman jumped out, without seeming to observe the three at the boat side.

"Hello!" cried the newcomer in a stentorian voice. "Where in blazes are you, you lazy lubber?"

"Here I be, sir, if you are meanin' me," answered the boatman.

As the newcomer's voice rang out there were two exclamations in unison from the ladies, and each tore her veil from her face, just as the moon broke through a rift in the clouds, and there was such a tableau as is rarely seen anywhere. At the side of the boat stood John Brown and Mrs. Jones, while near the carriage stood General Brown and Jeanette.

For a space the length of which none of the parties present have ever tried to compute these four stood as if transfixed, while the boatman looked with wondering eyes from one to the other.

The general was the first to recover himself.

"John—madam," he said, "will you please explain yourselves?"

To this very reasonable request neither replied.

"It seems," resumed the general, after a solemn pause, "that some mistake has occurred."

"Mamma, were you going to elope, too?" inquired Jeanette, whose mind had gone from cause to effect and back again, and aided by woman's intuition began to divine in a dim way what had happened.

"Then explanations followed, and it was discovered that there had been two elopements planned for the night instead of the one we know of."

"We're discovered," said the general, gravely, after the matter had been fully explained. "Shall we go on like fools or go back like sensible people and get married each to the woman of his choice, like men and women and Christians ought to?"

That is all. They went back and were married, and the writer hereof sets it down as his own conviction that they have lived happily ever since. And so the feud ended.—Memphis Commercial-Appeal.

The Poitou Jack.

From the day he is born to the day of his death no brush or comb is ever allowed to be used on him, and as, from the unnatural condition in which he is kept, he is prevented in a great measure from shedding his coat the functions of the skin become suspended, and the animal gradually assumes year after year an accumulation of coats, all matted together with stable filth, till at length they almost trail on the ground. When he has assumed this extraordinary and bearlike appearance, he is pointed to with no little pride by his owner and is termed bouchailoux, or sometimes guenilloux. Such is ignorance and prejudice.—From "Horses, Asses, Zebras, Mules," by W. R. Tegetmeier.

HEART DISEASE, like many other ailments when they have taken hold of the system, never gets better of its own accord, but constantly grows worse. There are thousands who know they have a defective heart, but will not admit the fact. They don't want their friends to worry, and Don't know what to take for it, as they have been told time and again that heart disease was incurable. Such was the case of Mr. Silas Farley of Dyesville, Ohio who writes June 19, 1894, as follows:

"I had heart disease for 23 years, my heart hurting me almost continually. The first 15 years I doctored all the time, trying several physicians and remedies, until my last doctor told me it was only a question of time as I could not be cured."

I gradually grew worse, very weak, and completely discouraged, until I lived, propped half up in bed, because I couldn't lie down nor sit up. Thinking my time had come I told my family what I wanted done when I was gone. But on the first day of March on the recommendation of Mrs. Fannie Jones, of Anderson, Ind., I commenced taking Dr. Miles' New Cure for the Heart and wonderful to tell, in ten days I was working at light work and on March 19 commenced framing a barn, which is heavy work, and I haven't lost a day since. I am 53 years old, 6 ft. 4½ inches and weigh 250 lbs. I believe I am fully cured, and I am now only anxious that everyone shall know of your wonderful remedies."

Mrs. Alice Murray, one of the pioneer settlers of our county, passed away Thursday evening, October 3rd, at the advanced age of 86 years. She was born in Stexford, Ireland, in 1807, and in 1823 emigrated with her parents to America, locating in New York City. In 1832 she was united in marriage to John Murray, and in 1837, accompanied by their three children, started Westward, settling in Freemont township, this county, where Mr. Murray took up a claim of 360 acres of land before land in this section was on the market. The family had to bear the usual privations and hardships that marked the life of pioneers. After Mr. Murray's death on August 14, 1882, Mrs. Murray removed to Wauconda, residing here until her death. The funeral services were held in the Catholic church last Saturday, Rev. Father O'Neil officiating. The remains were interred in the Catholic cemetery. Mrs. Murray leaves many friends and relatives, to whom we extend our sympathy in this their hour of sorrow.

THROW DOWN THE GAUNTLET

The Village Trustees Decide for Action.

SIDEWALKS MUST BE BUILT ON GRADE LEVEL.

Steps Are to be Done Away With in the Barrington Sidewalks—The Foundation Laid for a Successful Crusade Against Negligent Property Owners.

The Village Trustees met in adjourned session last Tuesday evening, in the city hall.

A cheerful fire was blazing in the stove, and precisely 7:30 o'clock President Hawley took the chair and called the meeting to order—by the way, the chair being a new addition, having been presented to the Board by Mr. E. R. Clark since its last meeting, and for which a hearty "thank you" was voted Mr. Clark later in the evening.

Trustees Collen, Hatje, Peters and Wilmarth answered "present" to the roll call by the clerk, Trustee Robertson reporting a few minutes later. Trustee Grunau was absent on account of sickness.

The meeting was graced by the presence of Village Attorney A. J. Redmond.

The following bills were read by the clerk and allowed by the Board:

Plagge & Co., lumber and tile, $30.13. Barrington Review, publishing ordinances, $6.08.

Chas. Wolf, hauling dirt, $7.40. Aug. Groman, ditching, $5.95. L. F. Schroeder, hardware, $1.12. H. T. Abbott, paint, $7.85. J. D. Lamey & Co., tile, 57 cents. A. S. Henderson, painting street lamps, $6.75.

H. A. Sandman, marshal, $35.00. A. S. Henderson, night watch, $40.00.

The question of paying Mr. Spinner's attorney his fees caused considerable discussion. The attorney claims $50 for services rendered in the litigation over the extension of Liberty St. As no actual work was rendered by the attorney as near as can be ascertained, the fees are looked upon as exorbitant. It was quite evident that while the Board wanted to do everything that was fair and reasonable they did not propose to be bamboozled. It was therefore voted that Attorney Redmond be empowered to try and settle the case for $35, and in case the offer is refused to fight the claim to the bitter end.

Two ordinances, putting Ela and Russell streets on grade level, were passed.

The sidewalk question came up and was freely discussed. It was finally decided to have the village attorney draw up ordinance for sidewalks along Ela, Russell and Main streets as far as the grade ordinances reach. The Board did not wish to work a hardship on anyone, but the opinion prevailed that a start had to be made sometime, and that it might as well be made now.

A motion was made and carried that Mr. Henry Gieske be furnished enough tile to finish tiling the street from in front of his house to the big tile.

No further business claiming the attention of the Board, a motion for adjournment was made and carried.

AN ORDINANCE.

An Ordinance to establish the grade of Ela street. Be it ordained by the President and Board of Trustees of the Village of Barrington.

Section 1. That the grade of the centre line of Ela street, between Main and Liberty streets, shall have an elevation at the north line of Main street aforesaid of two hundred and forty-nine and five tenths (249.5) feet above the common base of level heretofore established, and from this point it shall descend at the rate of one and seventy-five hundredths (1.75) feet in one hundred (100) feet for a distance of two hundred (200) feet to the north, or to an elevation of two hundred and forty-six (246) feet above the said common base of level, and from the last point aforesaid it shall be level for a distance of sixty (60) feet to the north, and from the last point aforesaid it shall ascend at the rate of one (1) foot in one hundred (100) feet for a distance of two hundred (200) feet to the north, or to an elevation of two hundred and forty-eight (248) feet above the said common base of level, and from the last point aforesaid it shall be level for a distance of sixty (60) feet to the north, and from the last point aforesaid it shall descend at the rate of four (4) feet in one hundred (100) feet for a distance of two hundred (200) feet to the north, or to an elevation of two hundred and forty (240) feet above the said common base of level, and from the last point aforesaid it shall be level for a distance of sixty (60) feet to the north, and from the last point aforesaid it shall descend at the rate of twenty-five hundredths (.25) feet in one hundred (100) feet for a distance of two hundred (200) feet to the north, or to an elevation of two hundred and thirty-nine and five tenths (239.5) feet above the said common base of level; the last point aforesaid being at the south line of Liberty street aforesaid.

Section 2. That any ordinance or parts of ordinances which may have been passed heretofore, and are in conflict with this ordinance are hereby repealed.

Section 3. That this ordinance shall be in force from and after its passage. Passed this 8th day of October, A. D. 1895.

Approved this 8th day of October A. D. 1895. Published this 12th day of October A. D. 1895.

A POINT-BLANK QUESTION TO NON-BELIEVERS.

All Who Have Not Yet Accepted the Faith of Jesus Christ Asked the Reason Why—"Is Thine Heart Right?"—II Kings x:15.

With mettled horses at full speed, for he was celebrated for fast driving. Jehu, the warrior and king, returns from battle. But seeing Jehonadab, an acquaintance, by the wayside, he shouts, "Whoa! whoa!" to the lathered span. Then leaning over to Jehonadab, Jehu salutes him in the words of the text—words not more appropriate for that hour and that place, than for this hour and place: "Is thine heart right?"

I should like to hear of your physical health. Well, myself, I like to have everybody else well; and so might ask, is your eyesight right, your hearing right, your nerves right, your lungs right, your entire body right? But I am busy to-day taking diagnosis of the more important spiritual conditions. I should like to hear of your financial welfare. I want everybody to have plenty of money, ample apparel, large storehouse, and comfortable residence; and I might ask, is your business right, your income right, your worldly surroundings right? But what are these financial questions compared with the inquiry as to whether you have been able to pay your debts to God; as to whether you are insured for eternity; as to whether you are ruining yourself by the long-credit system of the soul? I have known men to have no more than one loaf of bread at a time, and, yet to own a government bond of heaven worth more than the whole material universe.

The question I ask you to-day is not in regard to your habits. I make no inquiry about your integrity, or your chastity, or your sobriety. I do not mean to stand on the outside of the gate and ring the bell; but coming up the steps, I open the door and come to the private apartment of the soul; and with the earnestness of a man that must give an account for this day's work, I cry out, O man, O woman, immortal, is thine heart right?

I will not insult you by an argument to prove that we are by nature all wrong. If there be a factory explosion and the smokestack be upset, and the wheels be broken in two, and the engine unjointed, and the ponderous bars be twisted, and a man should look in and say that nothing was the matter, you would pronounce him a fool. Well, it needs no acumen to discover that our nature is all atwist and askew and unjointed. The thing doesn't work right. The biggest trouble we have in the world is with our souls. Men sometimes say that, though their lives may not be just right, their heart is all right. Impossible. A farmer never puts the poorest apples on top of his barrel; nor does the merchant place the meanest goods in his show window. The best part of us is our outward life. I do not stop to discuss whether we all fell in Adam, for we have been our own Adam, and have all eaten of the forbidden fruit, and have been turned out of the paradise of holiness and peace; and though the flaming sword that stood at the gate to keep us out has changed position and comes behind to drive us in, we will not go.

The Bible account of us is not exaggerated when it says that we are poor and wretched and miserable and blind and naked. Poor: the wretch that stands shivering on our doorstep on a cold day is not so much in need of bread as we are of spiritual help. Blind: why, the man whose eyes perished in the powder blast, and who for these ten years has gone feeling his way from street to street, is not in such utter darkness as we. Naked: why, there is not one rag of holiness left to hide the shame of our sin. Sick: why, the leprosy has eaten into the head and the heart and the hands and the feet; and the marmosus of an everlasting wasting away has already seized on some of us.

But the meanest thing for a man to do is to discourse about an evil without pointing a way to have it remedied. I speak of the thirst of your hot tongue, only that I may show you the living stream that drops crystalline and sparkling from the Rock of Ages, and pours a river of gladness at your feet. If I show you the rents in your coat, it is only because the door of God's wardrobe now swings open, and here is a robe, white with the fleece of the Lamb of God, and of a cut and make that an angel would not be ashamed to wear. If I snatch from you the black, mouldy bread that you are munching, it is only to give you the bread made out of the finest wheat that grows on the celestial hills, and baked in the fires of the Cross; and one crumb of which would be enough to make all heaven a banquet. Hear it, one and all, and tell it to your friends when you go home, that the Lord Jesus Christ can make the heart right.

First we need a repenting heart. If for the last ten, twenty, or forty years of life, we have been going on in the wrong way, it is time that we turned around and started in the opposite direction. If we offend our friends we are glad to apologize. God is our best friend, and yet how many of us have never apologized for the wrongs we have done him!

There is nothing that we so much need to get rid of as sin. It is a horrible black monster. It polluted Eden. It killed Christ. It has blasted the world. Men keep dogs in kennels, and rabbits in a warren, and cattle in a pen. What a man that would be who would shut them up in his parlor? But this foul dog of sin, and these herds of transgression, we have entertained for many a long year in our heart, which should be the cleanest, brightest room in all our nature. Out with the vile herd! Begone, ye befoulers of an immortal nature!

Turn out the beasts and let Christ come in! A heathen came to an early Christian, who had the reputation of curing diseases. The Christian said, "You must have all your idols destroyed." The heathen gave to the Christian the key to his house, that he might go in and destroy the idols. He battered to pieces all he saw, but still the man did not get well. The Christian said to him, "There must be some idol in your house not yet destroyed." The heathen confessed that there was one idol of beaten gold that he could not bear to give up. After awhile, when that was destroyed, in answer to the prayer of the Christian, the sick man got well.

Many a man has awakened in his dying hour to find his sins all about him. They clambered up on the right side of the bed, and on the left side, and over the head-board, and over the foot-board, and horribly devoured the soul.

Repent! the voice celestial cries, Nor longer dare delay; The wretch that scorns the mandate dies.

And meets a fiery day.

Again, we need a believing heart. A good many years ago a weary one went up one of the hills of Asia Minor, and with two logs on his back cried out to all the world, offering to carry their sins and sorrows. They pursued him. They slapped him in the face. They mocked him. When he groaned they groaned. They shook their fists at him. They spat on him. They hounded him as though he were a wild beast. His healing of the sick, his sight-giving to the blind, his mercy to the outcast, silenced not the revenge of the world. His prayers and benedictions were lost in that whirlwind of execration: "Away with him! Away with him!"

Ah! it was not merely the two pieces of wood that he carried; it was the transgressions of the race, the anguish of the ages, the wrath of God, the sorrows of hell, the stupendous interests of an unending eternity. No wonder his back bent. No wonder the blood started from every pore. No wonder that he crouched under a torture that made the sun faint, and the everlasting hills tremble, and the dead rush up in their winding-sheets as he cried: "If it be possible, let this cup pass from me." But the cup did not pass. None to comfort.

There he hangs! What has that hand done that it should be thus crushed in the palm? It has been healing the lame and wiping away tears. What has that foot been doing that it should be so lacerated? It has been going about doing good. Of what has the victim been guilty? Guilty of saving a world. Tell me, ye heavens and earth, was there ever such another criminal? Was there ever such a crime? On that hill of carnage, that sunless day, amid those howling rioters, may not your sins and mine have perished? I believe it. Oh, the ransom has been paid. Those arms of Jesus were stretched out so wide, that when he brought them together again they might embrace the world. Oh, that I might, out of the blossoms of the spring, or the flaming foliage of the autumn, make one wreath for my Lord! Oh, that all the triumphal arches of the world could be swung in one gateway, where the King of Glory might come in! Oh, that all the harps and trumpets and organs of earthly music might, in one anthem, speak his praise!

But what were earthly flowers to him who walketh amid the snow of the white lilies of heaven? What were arches of early masonry to him who hath about his throne a rainbow spun out of everlasting sunshine? What were all earthly music to him when the hundred and forty and four thousand on one side, and cherubim and seraphim and archangels stand on the other side, and all the space between is filled with the doxologies of eternal jubilee—the hosanna of a redeemed earth, the hallelujah of unfallen angels, song after song rising about the throne of God and of the Lamb? In that pure, high place, let him hear us. Stop! harps of heaven, that our poor cry may be heard. Oh, my Lord Jesus! it will not hurt thee for one hour to step out from the shining throng. They will make it all up when thou goest back again. Come hither, O blessed One, that we may kiss thy feet. Our hearts, too long withheld, we now surrender into thy keeping. When thou goest back tell it to all the immortals that the lost are found, and let the Father's house ring with the music and the dance.

They have some old wine in heaven, not used except in rare festivities. In this world, those who are accustomed to use wine on great occasions bring out the beverage and say, "This wine is thirty years old," or "forty years old." But the wine of heaven is more than eighteen centuries old. It was prepared at the time when Christ trod the wine press alone. When such grievous sinners as we come back, methinks the chamberlain of heaven cries out to the servants, "This is unusual joy! Bring up from the vaults of heaven that old wine. Fill all the tankards. Let all the white-robed guests drink to the immortal health of those new-born sons and daughters of the Lord Almighty." "There is joy in heaven among the angels of God over one sinner that repenteth;" and God grant that that one may be you!

Again, to have a right heart it must be a forgiving heart. An old writer says, "To return good for evil is God-like; good for good is man-like; evil for good devil-like." Which of these natures have we? Christ will have nothing to do with us as long as we keep any old grudge. We have all been cheated and lied about. There are people who dislike us so much that if we should come down to poverty and disgrace, they would say, "Good for him! Didn't I tell you so?" They do not understand us. Unsantified human nature says, "Wait till you get a good crack at him, and when at last you find him in a tight place, give it to him. Play him alive. No quarter. Leave not a rag of reputation. Jump on him with both feet. Pay him in his own coin—sarcasm for sarcasm, scorn for scorn, abuse for abuse." But, my friends, that is not the right kind of heart. No man ever did so mean a thing toward us we have done toward God. And if we cannot forgive others, how can we expect God to forgive us? Thousands of men have been kept out of heaven by an unforgiving heart.

Here is some one who says, "I will forgive that man the wrong he did me about that house and lot; I will forgive that man who overreached me in a bargain; I will forgive that man who sold me a shoddy overcoat; I forgive them—all but one. That man I cannot forgive. The villain—I can hardly keep my hands off him. If my going to heaven depends on my forgiving him, then I will stay out." Wrong feeling. If a man lie to me once, I am not called to trust him again. If a man betray me once, I am not called to put confidence in him again. But I would have no rest if I could not offer a sincere prayer for the temporal and everlasting welfare of all men, whatever meanness and outrage they have inflicted upon me. If you want to get your heart right, strike a match and burn up all your old grudges, and blow the ashes away. "If you forgive not men their trespasses, neither will your heavenly Father forgive you your trespasses."

An old Christian black woman was going along the streets of New York with a basket of apples that she had for sale. A rough sailor ran against her and upset the basket, and stood back expecting to hear her scold frightfully, but she stooped down and picked up the apples, and said, "God forgive you, my son, as I do." The sailor saw the meanness of what he had done, and felt in his pocket for his money, and insisted that she should take it all. Though she was black, he called her mother, and said, "Forgive me, mother, I will never do anything so mean again." Ah! there is a power in a forgiving spirit to overcome all hardness. There is no way of conquering men like that of bestowing upon them your pardon, whether they will accept it or not.

Again, a right heart is an expectant heart. It is a poor business to be building castles in the air. Enjoy what you have now. Don't spoil your comfort in the small house because you expect a larger one. Don't fret about your income when it is three or four dollars per day because you expect to have, after awhile, ten dollars per day; or ten thousand a year because you expect it to be twenty thousand a year. But about heavenly things, the more we think the better. Those castles are not in the air, but on the hills, and we have a deed of them in our possession. I like to see a man all full of heaven. He talks heaven. He sings heaven. He prays heaven. He dreams heaven. Some of us in our sleep have had the good place open to us. We saw the pinnacles in the sky. We heard the click of the hoofs of the white horses on which victors rode, and the clapping of the cymbals of eternal triumph. And while in our sleep we were glad that all our sorrows were over, and burdens done with, the throne of God grew whiter and whiter, till we opened our eyes and saw that it was only the sun of earthly morning shining on our pillow. To have a right heart, you need to be filled with this expectancy. It would make your privations and annoyances more bearable.

Is thy heart right? What question can compare with this in importance? It is a business question. Do you not realize that you will soon have to go out of that store, that you will soon have to resign that partnership, that soon among all the millions of dollars worth of goods that are sold, you will not have the handling of a yard of cloth, or a pound of sugar, or a penny worth of anything; that soon, if a conflagration should start at Central Park and sweep everything to the Battery, it would not disturb you; that soon, if every cashier should abscond, and every insurance company should fail, it would not affect you? What are the questions that stop this side the grave, compared with the questions that reach beyond it? Are you making losses that are to be everlasting? Are you making purchases for eternity? Are you jobbing for time when you might be wholesaling for eternity? What question of the store is so broad at the base, and so altitudinous, and so overwhelming as the question, "Is thy heart right?"

Or is it a domestic question? Is it something about father, or mother, or companion, or son, or daughter, that you think is comparable with this question in importance? Do you not realize that by universal and inexorable law all these relations will be broken up? Your father will be gone, your mother will be gone, your companion will be gone, your child will be gone, you will be gone, and then this supernal question will begin to harvest its chief gains, or deplore its worst losses, roll up into its mightiest magnitude, or sweep its vast circles. What difference now does it make to Napoleon III, whether he triumphed or surrendered at Sedan? whether he lived at the Tuilleries or at Chislehurst, whether he was emperor or exile? They laid him out in his coffin in the dress of a field marshal. Did that give him any better chance for the next world than if he had been laid out in a plain shroud? And soon to us what will be the difference, whether in this world we rode or walked, were bowed to or maltreated, were applauded or hissed at, were welcomed in or kicked out, while laying hold of every moment of the great future, and burning in all the splendor or grief, and overarching and undergoing all time and all eternity, is the plain, simple, practical, thrilling, agonizing, overwhelming question, "Is thy heart right?" Have you within you a repentant heart, an expectant heart? If not, I must write upon your soul what George Whitefield wrote upon the window pane with his diamond ring. He tarried in an elegant house over night, but found that there was no God recognized in that house. Before he left his room in the morning, with his ring he wrote upon the window pane, "One thing thou lackest." After the guest was gone, the housewife came and looked at the window, and saw the inscription, and called her husband and her children; and God, through that ministry of the window-glass, brought them all to Jesus. Though you may to-day be surrounded by comforts and luxuries, and feel that you have need of nothing, if you are not the children of God, with the signet ring of Christ's love, let me inscribe upon your souls, "One thing thou lackest!"

What Not to Do at Home. Those who in their home life are well supplied with the following negative virtues mentioned by Good Housekeeping, are far on the road toward a happy home:

- Don't fret. Fretting irritates and annoys listeners, without bringing comfort or cheer to the fretter. Don't fret.
- Don't talebear. Talebearing is not apt to bear good fruit, the product too often being unhealthy, specky and rotten. Don't talebear.
- Don't grumble. Whatever else you do, don't grumble, unless you have something really worth grumbling about, and even then don't spin your grumblings out interminably. Don't grumble.
- Don't talk unduly. There is a time to talk and a time not to talk, as decidedly as there is a "time to laugh" and a "time to cry." Don't talk unless you have something to say worth talking about. Don't talk unduly.
- Don't pout. Pouting should always be done in the back yard, never "before folks." Don't pout.—Domestic Journal.

A Sturdy Reality. "Any unpurged mind will conceive of the Scriptural idea of prayer as that of one of the most downright, sturdy realities in the universe. Right in the heart of God's plan of government it is lodged as a power. Amidst the conflicts which are going on in the evolution of that plan it stands as a power. Into all the intricacies of divine working and the mysteries of divine decree, it reaches out silently as a power. In the mind of God, we may be assured, the conception of prayer is no fiction, whatever man may think of it. More things are wrought by prayer than this world dreams of."—Austin Phelps.

Justice. To those who love justice it can make no difference whether she triumph or fail; but to those who believe in a divine order of affairs, there comes the comforting assurance that in the end justice will prevail. On this rock good men and great build their faith. Be they few or many, as long as they believe their cause is just they do not waver. Whether correct in their belief or not, sooner or later mankind comes to recognize that theirs was the true course and sets a proper value upon their career.

Tilden's Umbrella. Abram S. Hewitt, who was a great friend of Samuel J. Tilden, one day, brought into his office an old cotton umbrella, with a broken rib or two and a few holes. It could not have cost over fifty cents. He placed it in the accustomed corner, beside a fine $10 silk umbrella belonging to J. L. Haigh, his partner. When starting home in the afternoon, he walked off with Haigh's umbrella, leaving his own, which Haigh had to use as it was raining hard. On opening the old cotton affair Haigh noticed a piece of white tape sewed on the inside near the top, and on going to the light read: "Samuel J. Tilden, Gramercy Park, New York." The next day he returned it to the same corner and said to Mr. Hewitt: "This is Mr. Tilden's umbrella you forgot last night." "Oh, yes," said Hewitt, rising and going after it, "I am very glad to get it back. Mr. Tilden is extremely careful about his umbrella." "But where is my silk one that you took away last night?" Haigh asked. "Oh, I don't know anything about that," was the reply, and that was all the satisfaction that Haigh ever got.

Costly Education. Mrs. Nurich—You can't think, Caleb, what an expense it's been to us, learning Amelia to play the pianer. Brother Caleb (dolefully)—It can't compare with what I had to pay out when George was learning to play the races. And he didn't learn much, either.

A FILTER INSIDE YOU

HOW YOUR BLOOD IS KEPT PURE

Health Comes From Pure Blood.
Pure Blood Depends on Your Filter Inside You.

Your Kidneys Keep Your Blood Pure
If They Are Well. A Few Facts
About Them, and How to Make Them Well When They Are Sick.

Your blood is what nourishes your body.

New blood is made every minute. It goes to the lungs, gets fresh air, and then passes through the body. In passing, it deposits new flesh, fat, bones, etc., and takes up worn out matter.

This worn out matter goes to the kidneys. The kidneys filter it out of the blood and throw it out of the body.

That is, when they are well, they do.

When your kidneys are well, they act, as perfect filters, to keep your blood pure. When they are sick, they act imperfectly. They leave the bad matter in. Sometimes they take out the good.

There is nothing more poisonous than bad blood.

A proof of this is rheumatism. It is simply a blood-poisoning caused by the bad matter left in the blood by sick kidneys.

Bright's disease is the kidneys working the other way—taking the good food out of the blood.

Both kinds of kidney sickness are dangerous.

Both can be cured by Dr. Hobb's Sparagus Kidney Pills.

One of the most wonderful facts of our body is this natural filter inside us. Our kidneys are very important organs. We don't take enough care of them. We are sick oftener than there is any need for. It is simply because we take no heed to our kidneys.

Sick kidneys show their effects in many different diseases.

Rheumatism and Bright's disease are very common. Anaemia, Neuralgia, Pain in the Back, Dizziness, Bladder Troubles, Gravel, Diabetes, Sleeplessness, Nervousness.

These are only a few symptoms, or so-called "diseases." Back of them all are the sick kidneys.

Once the filters can be made to work, all these symptoms will disappear.

Dr. Hobb's Sparagus Kidney Pills are made principally from the roots of the asparagus plant, which has a special curative action on the kidneys. It gives them new life and strength. It helps them to do their work as it ought to be done. It cures their sickness. It cleans and renews the filter.

When the kidneys are well you will feel a great difference at once. Your complexion will clear, and your whole body will get renewed life and freshness.

This is the effect of Dr. Hobb's Sparagus Kidney Pills on the sick kidneys, of the re-vitalized kidneys on the impure blood.

With a course of Dr. Hobb's Sparagus Kidney Pills you will get new life. They will cure you when other medicines, which do not reach the real seat of disease, cannot help you.

Dr. Hobb's Sparagus Kidney Pills are for sale by all druggists, price 50c. per box, or will be sent prepaid to any address on receipt of price.

An interesting booklet, explaining about the kidneys and their power for good and evil, sent free on request. Address Hobb's Medicine Co., Chicago, or San Francisco.

MAKE GEOGRAPHY INTERESTING

Take Children on Imaginary Trips and the Study Will Become a Pleasure.

In teaching your little girl geography try to make it something more than a dry list of names to be learned by rote. Take her imaginary voyages and journeys from one country to another. Tell her something of the manners and customs of the people and anything you can learn yourself about the lives of the children. Describe to her how the Swiss boys herd their cattle under the shadows of the Alps and the Esquimaux are made daring by being thrown into the icy water in their strange fur garments. Tell her of the stunted lives of the pit boys in the coal mines and of the German girls who learn to use their five knitting needles almost as soon as they can hold them. Books of travel will furnish you with many interesting incidents which you can turn to account. Geography will not be a wearisome task to her. Her mother's wisdom can make the first steps attractive.

FARM AND GARDEN.

MATTERS OF INTEREST TO AGRICULTURISTS.

Some Up-to-Date Hints About Cultivation of the Soil and Yields Thereof—Horticulture, Viticulture and Floriculture.

THE September report of the statistician of the department of agriculture shows a decline in the condition of corn to 96.4 from 102.5 in the month of August, being a falling off of 6.1 points.

The prospects of the corn crop have suffered from drouth during the month of August in the surplus-producing states of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Iowa, and in a portion of Nebraska. Reports from Indiana, Iowa and Ohio indicate that though there have been rains during the latter part of the month, they have been generally too late to be of any great benefit. Drought has also injured the crop in the eastern states, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Maryland.

Much more encouraging reports come from the south, which indicate that in that section the crop will be larger than ever before produced. Too much rain is noted in certain sections of South Carolina, Alabama and Missis-

DAUCUS CAROTA (WILD CARROT)

On this page we illustrate the wild carrot. This biennial vegetable is so well known in its cultivated state in gardens as to hardly need any special description. It belongs to the order Umbelliferae, which is distinguished by having its small flowers in clusters, called umbels, so named because the flower stalks all start from one point at the extremity of a branch and spread out like the ribs of an umbrella. These stalks, or rays, as they are called, are in most species again divided into smaller umbels called umbellets. In the carrot these rays are very numerous and form together a close, flat-topped cluster, becoming concave in fruit. The leaves are divided and subdivided into numerous fine segments. The wild carrot is abundant in several of the central and eastern states, and is spreading into new localities. It is not troublesome on cultivated land, being confined chiefly to meadows and the roadsides. It is usually introduced in grass and clover seed. The umbels curl up when ripe and hold the seeds into winter, when they are gradually scattered; sometimes the umbels break off and are scattered over the snow, carrying the seeds to neighboring fields. Fifty thousand seeds have been counted on a plant of average size. Carefully cutting the plant for two years will eradicate most of them.—Farmers' Review.

ventures to say that there is no business pursued by man for a livelihood that requires, in order to be successful, more thought, study and a more scientific education than that of farming in its various departments.

Fire from Friction.—A rather unusual occurrence took place on the farm of A. A. Hartshorn, in Woolstock township, on Tuesday afternoon. A crew of hands were stacking hay by means of a patent stacker when the friction caused by the rapid passage of a rope over a small pulley set the hay on fire and in less than half a minute it spread over the entire stack. Some forty tons of tame hay, a granary standing near by, the hay stacker and about 100 bushels of oats were destroyed in a very few minutes. There was little or no insurance.—Clarion (Iowa) Monitor.

Condition of oats when harvested was 86; rye, 83.7; barley, 87.6; buckwheat, 87.5; potatoes, 90.8.

Success in Farming.

I am of the opinion that one of the greatest factors in the improved condition of farming and stock-raising is the taking and reading of our agricultural and live stock journals which are printed by the thousand and spread broadcast over the face of our whole country, and at such reasonable prices that almost every farmer can afford to take one or more. The day is certainly not far distant when our farmers will all take and read the papers and periodicals pertaining to their calling with as much interest as the professional man, merchant or manufacturer looks after his individual profession or business. I do not mean newspaper farming, but by these means we are enabled to get in a nutshell the interchange of ideas, experiments and practical operations in five years that we could not get otherwise in a lifetime. Take the seven to ten millions of farmers of this country who do not make on an average 3 per cent on their investment and ask yourself why this is the case and what is the cause. Is it not a want of more reading, thought, intelligent exchange of ideas and manipulations of brain power, combined with steam and horse power, intelligence in breeding and feeding stock, in plowing, mixing and combining the proper fertilizers with the varied kinds of soil of our farms? This is a subject that demands the attention of the most profound and deep thinkers of our agricultural schools; it is a subject that should be more generally studied, and taught and understood, not only by our chemists and scientific men, but by every farmer in our country. These things would assist in making farming a desirable and paying business. I will

A FAMOUS MAN'S MOTHER.

Thomas Wentworth Higginson's Beautiful Tribute to His Mother.

I trace to my mother's direct influence three leading motives of her youngest son's life—the love of personal liberty, of religious freedom and of the equality of the sexes, writes Thomas Wentworth Higginson. As to the more subtle and intimate influences they ordinarily came by contact, not by preaching. She always maintained that the younger children of a family had a much better chance for development than the elder, because they had more freedom to develop themselves. With her elder children, she always said, over-conscientiousness almost bore her to the earth; she felt personally responsible for every childish fault. She had been reared in the school of Locke, which regarded the human soul as blank paper, on which parents and teachers did all the writing. But her children were of strong and varied individuality, and she learned in time to study the temperament of each and be patient with its unfolding. Her whole formula of training consisted in these three things: To retain the entire confidence of her child, to do whatever seemed wisest, and to be patient. Her trust in Providence was absolute and controlling, as was her sense of the personality of the Deity. * * * Most valuable of all her traits to her children, next to her quality of sunshine, was probably her absolute rectitude, the elevation of her whole tone, the complete unworldliness, so that no child of hers ever heard her refer to any standard but the highest. With all this was combined the conscientious accuracy in affairs, the exquisite nicety in all household details, which belong to the best of the traditions of New England.

$100 Reward, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by druggists; 75c. Hall's Family Pills, 25c.

Training a Cavalry Ox.

A curious story comes from Berlin. A lieutenant of a Uhlan regiment made a bet about six months ago that he would train a young ox within six months so that it would obey the word of command like a cavalry horse. The trial took place a few days ago on the drill ground of the Uhlan barracks in the Invalidenstrasse. It seemed at first as though the officer would win the bet. The ox trotted, galloped right, galloped left, and did everything perfectly, till it came to the vaulting. In this the animal failed, and the officer lost the bet. He was congratulated, however, on his perseverance and success in training so unpromising an animal.

Atlanta and the South.

The Chicago and Eastern Illinois R. R. will during the time of the Exposition at Atlanta, Sept. 18, to Dec. 31, 1895, offer exceptionally fine service between Chicago and the South. A low rate ticket will be sold, and through cars run to all southern points. This is 55 miles the shortest route to Atlanta, Chattanooga and the South.

For guide to Atlanta and the Exposition address C. W. Humphrey, Northwestern Passenger Agent, St. Paul, Minn., or City Ticket Office, No. 230 Clark St., Chicago. Charles L. Stone, General Passenger Agent, Chicago.

Kate Field in Denver.

Denver, Sept. 10.—My journey from Chicago was over the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad, one of the best managed systems in the country. I should say, judging by the civility of the employees, the comfort I experienced, the excellence of its roadbed, and the punctuality of arrival, I actually reached Denver ahead of time. The Burlington Route is also the best to St. Paul, Minneapolis, Omaha and Kansas City.

The Oil of Love.

A story is told of a cross old man who, his servants having left him, went to a neighbor's to tell his trouble. "I think it would be well to oil yourself a little," said his friend. "When a door in my house creaks I oil the hinges. Go home, engage a servant, and when he does right, praise him. If he does anything amiss, oil your voice and words with love."

No harsh words were ever heard from the old gentleman after that. How much of the groaning and despair and misery of the world would be cured if the words of every Christian were kept saturated with this wonderful oil!

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 50c and $1 bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

It May Do as Much for You.

Mr. Fred Miller of Irving, Ill., writes that he had a severe kidney trouble for many years, with severe pains in his back and also that his bladder was affected. He tried many so called kidney cures, but without any good result. About a year ago he began use of Electric Bitters and found relief at once. Electric Bitters is especially adapted to cure of all kidney and liver troubles and often gives almost instant relief. One trial will prove our statement. Price only 50 cents for large bottle. At A. L. Waller's drug store.

Another Matter.

Clara—I hear your father has forbidden Mr. Higgins calling on you. Cora—No; you are mistaken. "Did he not tell him last night never to darken his parlor again?" "He did, but that referred to his turning down the lamp."—Yonkers Statesman.

Hello there J. Frost! Come to stay?

Its Value Recognized by Physicians.

As a rule I am opposed to proprietary medicines. Still I value a good one, especially when such is the source of relief from pain. As a topical (external) application I have found Chamberlain's Pain Balm the best remedy I have ever used for neuralgia of any kind. I have conscientiously recommended it to many persons. William Horne, M. D., Janesville, Wis. Sold by A. L. Waller.

You will find Washington with its magnificent distances gesture size, Mr. Talmage.

Several years ago I was taken with a severe attack of flux. I was sick in bed about ten days and could get nothing to relieve me until I used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, which cured me and has been a household remedy with us ever since. J. C. Marlow, Decaturville, Mo. For sale by A. L. Waller, druggist.

The system of free coinage in the Indiana state prison south has been declared a dead failure.

In a recent letter to the manufacturers. Mr. W. F. Benjamin, editor of the Spectator, Rushford, N. Y., says: "It may be a pleasure to you to know the high esteem in which Chamberlain's medicines are held by the people of your own state, where they must be best known. An aunt of mine, who resides at Dexter, Iowa, was about to visit me a few years since, and before leaving home wrote, asking if they were sold here, stating if they were not she would bring a quantity with her, as she did not like to be without them." The medicines referred to are Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, famous for its cures of colds and croup; Chamberlain's Pain Balm for rheumatism, lame back, pains in the side and chest; and Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for bowel complaints. These medicines have been in constant use in Iowa for almost a quarter of a century. The people have learned that they are articles of great worth and merit, and unequaled by any other. They are for sale here by A. L. Waller, druggist.

The Durrant trial teaches us the desirability of keeping a full assortment of alibis constantly in stock.

From all accounts Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a Godsend to the afflicted. There is no advertisement about this; we feel just like saying it.—The Democrat, Carrollton, Ky. For sale by A. L. Waller, druggist.
