CARBOLINEUM AVENARIUS—THE WORLD-FAMED WOOD-PRESERVING OIL STAIN AND PREVENTIVE OF DAMPENESS IN WALLS.

It is a well known fact that all kinds of wood will rot sooner or later and it is evident, that great advantages must be derived from a process insuring durability in wood. Fifteen Years of careful experiments have fully demonstrated to the world that the patent oil compound, "Carbolineum Avenarius" meets all requirements so long sought for. It is acknowledged to surpass all preparations in efficiency, cheapness and simplicity of application. It is anti-septic oil for impregnating wood, and protects by its preserving and disinfecting properties, all kinds of wood from decay, fungus and rot for any length of time. It will never wear out nor wash off, and is neither inflammable nor poisonous. It imparts to woodwork a neat and lasting nut-brown color and its large covering capacity makes it the cheapest paint for all farm buildings, barns, graineries, silos, fence posts, wind-mill towers, etc. Sidewalks, floors, fence posts and vineyard posts will never rot nor break down; shingles will never shrink, curl or rot; shingle roofs will never leak, troughs, tanks, cisterns and cellars will always be clean and sweet where this paint is used. It will keep away flies, gnats, mice, rats, etc. In cases of diseases of cattle, horses, sheep and swine, it will prevent contagion. Chicken Coops will always be free from lice if painted with this preparation.

With the city of New York about to spend $1,040,000 for asphalt pavement for the benefit of bicyclers, there can be no further doubt of the power of the wheel.

There is a kind of Eastern spirit that we need in the West. It is that of Stephen Salisbury, who has given $200,000 to build a museum of fine arts in Worcester, Mass.

Eight years ago Miss Nene Hay and Elisha Wair of Laporte, Ind., were married, and they have just let the cat out of the bag. Who said a woman couldn't keep a secret?

Another factor has entered into the regulation of the prices of the wools for 1896. Reports from Australia say that millions of sheep have died from drouth. The figures are placed at 9,500,000. The statement hardly seems credible, but if it be true it can but affect the price of wool all over the world. From this loss alone it is estimated the wool clip for this year will be 180,000 bales short in Australia alone.

The Winnebago county, Wis., board has decided to adopt the workshop plan as followed in Brown county for the discouragement of tramps. A four-acre tract of quarry land on the south side will be purchased and a workhouse erected thereon at a total cost of $3,500. It is expected to be in running order by July 1. It appears from the bills presented by justices and constables that over 4,300 tramps have been cared for by the county since November 1, 1895.

Strikes, lock-outs and other trade disputes in England last year numbered 778. About 250,000 people were affected. In the preceding year there were 1,061 such disputes, and the number in the year 1893 was 782. In 1894 about 325,000 persons were directly affected, and in 1893 the number affected was about 650,000. The large number affected that year doubtless arose in part from the exceedingly precarious condition in which many lines of business found themselves.

One-half the crop exports of the country not many years ago passed through the port of New York. Now that port enjoys one-seventh of this export movement and its share is still shrinking. The drift of corn shipments is southward. Baltimore is gaining, but Newport News and Norfolk are gaining faster and New Orleans is an important port of shipment. With the completion of the new line from Kansas City direct to Sabine Pass another important port of exit for grain will have been opened.

Some writer has said that war is a game that were people wise kings would not play at. It looks as if the time had come when no king dare play with war to a very great extent without the consent of the people. There was a time when a ruler waged war and a defeat did not shake his throne unless the enemy were able to march into his own country and conquer it. Now if a king be defeated in an expedition that he has sent out, the people call him to account in no uncertain language. The example of Italy and Abyssinia is to the point. During the war between Russia and Turkey there was a time when it looked as if the Russians would be defeated, and it is said that during that time the czar aged perceptibly, fearing the effects of disaster. A Russian defeat would have meant insurrection in his own empire. This accounts in a very large measure for the extreme reluctance the nations of Europe have of making war on each other, even when there seems to be an abundant cause. This state of things is propitious for the future.

At last the question as to how the stars should be arranged in our flag has been settled. We presume that our readers know that every time a new state is added to the nation a new star is added to the flag, and every time a new star is added to the flag a new arrangement of all the stars is necessary to give the banner a symmetrical appearance. With the admission of Utah, therefore, there had to be such an arrangement that forty-five stars would be accommodated. A great many suggestions have been made by writers, but none of them adopted. Finally the secretary of navy and the secretary of war agreed to a plan and this plan has been approved by the president. The arrangement is very simple. The forty-five is divided into two sets of numbers, twenty-four and twenty-one. The twenty-four is divided into three sets of eight stars each, and the twenty-one into three sets of seven stars each. They are then placed together alternately. Thus at the top of the field appears a row of eight stars, below that a row of seven stars, and below that a row of eight stars and so on Charges have been preferred with Gov. Holcomb of Nebraska against Dr. J. H. Mackay, superintendent of the Norfolk Hospital for the Insane. They have been on file several days but the governor declines to give them in full to the press until Dr. Mackay has filed his answer. Dr. Mackay was at the capitol, but Gov. Holcomb was in Broken Bow, and no official action was taken in the matter. The doctor had written a letter explanatory of some of the charges. An official investigation may be ordered.

A BRUTAL MURDER.

AN AGED COUPLE ASSASSINATED IN OHIO.

A Farmer and His Wife Killed, While Two Daughters and the Hired Man Are Seriously Injured—An Ex-convict Charged with the Crime.

At an early hour Sunday morning a double murder was committed on a farm seven miles east of Akron, O. Alvin N. Stone, aged 68, and his wife, Serena, aged 63, are the victims, and Ira Stillson, the hired man, is fatally injured. Two daughters are seriously injured, while a third daughter is the only one of the household who escaped the assassin's blows.

The crime was committed about 1 o'clock by an unknown man wearing a mask. He effected an entrance through a second-story window, and went to the room of Mr. and Mrs. Stone on the first floor. With some instrument, evidently a hatchet, he killed the aged couple, striking them repeatedly on the head. Going upstairs he attacked Stillson, knocking him unconscious. Returning to the room of the aged couple, he mutilated the body of the old man. He cut a deep gash in the throat, severed both ears, mutilated the face, slashed the body and limbs and wound up with stabbing the man to the heart. He also cut a gash on Mrs. Stone's face.

Going again upstairs the assassin entered the room of Emma Stone. She awoke and screamed, thus arousing her sisters. Hattie started to her sister's room, but was knocked down with a blow on the head, but fortunately was not rendered unconscious. Regaining her feet she ran to her own room and locked the door. Throwing a bed quilt about her she leaped from the window and ran through the rain and mud to the nearest neighbors. After he had struck Hattie down the murderer returned to Emma's room and struck her on the head, leaving her unconscious. Then he tried the door of the room in which Hattie had left her younger sister, Flora, when she jumped from the window. Finding the door locked, he battered it down. Finding only Flora in the room he asked where the other girl was. When told that she had gone for help he hastily left the house and made his escape.

Hattie, with the blood streaming from the wound in her head, managed to reach the neighbor's house, told her story and then fainted. After she had been put to bed the neighbor, calling for help, went to the Stone house. There the evidences of the butchery were discovered. The only person in the house who was able to speak was Flora Stone, aged 16, and she was so badly frightened that she could tell nothing about the murder except that the man who committed it wore a mask over his face.

Later Dispatch.

Anson Strong has been arrested at Ravenna, Ohio, charged with the murder of Alvin Stone and wife last Sunday morning. A crowd surrounded the Erie depot as he reached Akron in charge of Detective Ed Dunn. He was hurried to the city prison, and the crowd followed. There were threats of lynching, and battery F. Ohio national guard, was called out to be in readiness for trouble. The battery remained all night in the armory, which is next to the city prison.

The clew on which Strong was arrested was a threat he is said to have made several years ago when Stone's testimony against him sent him to the Ohio penitentiary. Strong was charged with horse stealing, and was sentenced in 1888 to ten years in the penitentiary. Being released at the end of a few years he returned to this neighborhood, and was again arrested for horse stealing. Stone again testified against him, and he was convicted. He said at that time that he would get even with Stone at whatever cost. Strong is 33 years old, and was to have married a respectable Ravenna girl next week. Strong makes a firm denial, and says he did not know of the murder until the morning. He says he attended church twice Sunday.

Ira Stillson, the nephew of Alvin Stone, who was badly hurt by the murderer, is dying. Physicians say that he will live but a few hours. He has been conscious but a moment since the attack. The two daughters who were badly hurt will recover. They do not know that their parents are dead.

Illinois State Convention.

Democratic managers in Chicago have about decided to hold their state convention at Peoria. A change has been made in the plans of the party leaders and instead of postponing the call two months or more, it is probable the state committee will meet in Chicago in April and issue the official call, fixing the time and place of the convention. At a recent meeting of the state committee fifteen of the twenty-three members favored Peoria.

Expect Mr. Bayard to Resign.

Wilmington, Del. Special: There is a strong belief among his friends that Ambassador Thomas F. Bayard is contemplating resigning his post as representative of the United States in England, and that he will return to this country before spring is over.

A violent disease among horses is prevalent in the section northeast of Pana and Tower Hill, and many farmers have lost a number of valuable animals. The veterinary surgeons claim that the disease emanated from poisonous vegetable fungus developed by drought and the prevalence of chinch bugs.

Frank L. Rider, of Rockford, made the public announcement last week that he was a candidate for the collectorship in 1890, but was defeated by a Mr. Paxton. This isn't all he said, however. He added that he was fully capable of holding the office as well as being a cripple for life. It is evident that Mr. Rider is not afraid to flaunt his virtues in the face of an opposing candidate.

The Decatur Bulletin is grieving because the ossified man, who had been on exhibition in Central block for a week, closed up his show Saturday night and departed, taking with him, his loud-voiced manager and his terrible hand organ, and if it were not for the auction bell life on Merchant street would be worth living again. Decatur should cease to grieve and be consoled with the thought of Chicago's great suffering when the Midway left.

In reply to inquiries Assistant Attorney General Newell has rendered the following opinions: A United States marshal has no authority to take acknowledgments of deeds in this state. Notary publics, while residing in the county in which they have been appointed, can legally take acknowledgments in any other county of this state. No legal authority exists for placing the words "license" or "no license" on tickets to be voted for at elections. That matter is merely advisory and not legally binding upon the citizens.

John A. Steinbach, mayor of Quincy, A. F. Roth, sheriff of Adams county, and Chester A. Babcock, assistant prosecuting attorney, are under arrest up at Lima, Adams county. The three officers left Quincy last Thursday on a duck hunting expedition. They went to the Lima lake district, which is a great duck country and pitched their tent. Trespassing is not allowed on these grounds, and the Lima Club officials immediately caused the arrest of the trio. As none of the officials have yet returned to Quincy it is believed that they are still in the custody of the Lima constable awaiting trial.—Ex.

The prompt and heroic work of a ragged tramp saved the night express on the Cairo Short Line from a disastrous wreck near Freeburg the other night. It also saved the life of Farmer Frank Harsey, of St. Clair county. Harsey had been to Belleville with a load of produce, and was returning home somewhat intoxicated. When he reached the railroad crossing he was fast asleep and the train turned straight down the railroad track, pulling along the wagon over the ties behind them. The jolting of the drunken man only served to start him singing in a maudlin way, all unconscious of his peril. Finally the team ran into a trestle and one horse was killed and the other badly injured. In that condition the tramp found the outfit. He removed the drunken farmer from the wagon and hastily secured a lantern to warn the night express. The signal was displayed barely in time to save the train, the engine being stopped within a few yards of the farmer's wrecked outfit. The tramp was presented with a purse, and when the track was cleared the train started again he was comfortably quartered in the berth of a Pullman sleeper. The railroad officials have investigated the prompt work which undoubtedly saved a disastrous railroad accident. He will be given a permanent position with the company.

Joseph Eysra, of Oregon, has been appointed fish warden for Ogle county. F. H. Burt and G. B. Smith, of Chicago, will conduct a young men's Sunday in Paxton March 22.

J. H. Westerfield, a Chicago grocer, has purchased the farm of A. W. Waldo, 518 acres, near Libertyville, paying $40,000.

The body of an unknown man, which had been in the water for several weeks, was taken from the drainage channel at Lockport.

Thomas Mann, wanted at Mattoon for horse stealing, was captured at Frankfort, Ind., by a farmers' detective association operative.

Governor Altgeld has offered a reward for the arrest of William Cain, murderer of Chesley Finley at Virden, and who escaped from the Carlinville jail.

The special committee appointed by the republican state central committee to secure a hall for the republican state convention at Springfield has selected the farm and orchard products building on the state fair grounds. This building is the horticultural building of the World's Fair. It is 230 feet square, contains all the necessary committee rooms, and has a seating capacity of 15,000 on the ground floor. It will meet every requirement.

The Decatur branch of the Liquor Dealers' association passed a resolution Saturday declaring that it would, so far as it was able, boycott the Wabash railroad company. The company enforces the rule that employees of that road cannot frequent saloons, and no employee is allowed to board where there is a saloon in connection with the boarding house. There are 800 men living in Decatur who are employees of the road, and some of the saloons are feeling the effect of the order more than they have cared to admit.

The state auditor has received from Ben Ames of Mount Vernon, Ohio, a lot of Illinois scrip, with an inquiry as to its value. His letter states that he got the scrip from the estate of his grandfather, Columbus Delano, who was secretary of the interior in Grant's first cabinet, and who was a member of the New York banking house of Delano, Dunlevy & Co., which flourished from 1850 to 1855. The scrip in denominations of $1, $2, $3, $5 and $10, was issued by the International Improvement association at Springfield in 1840, and countersigned by William Prentiss, secretary of the board of public works. Auditor Gore believes the scrip is worthless, but will make an investigation.

A short time ago John D. Rainey of Mount Vernon, Ill., sent a friend to the county clerk's office to obtain a marriage license for Rainey and Ethel Whitman. The messenger by mistake gave in the woman's name as Ethel Jones, her former name. The clerk issued the license to Rainey and Ethel Jones and they were married. A few days since they discovered the error and asked for legal advice concerning the marriage. The lawyer told them that they had never been legally married, and advised them to procure a second license, containing the correct name of the woman, and remarry. This they did, the Rev. J. D. Bruce performing the ceremony. They were both residents of Mount Vernon. The groom is 44 years old, and has been married four times before, while the bride is but 19, and has been married once before.

The Illinois National Guard will hold its annual camp of instruction this year by brigades instead of by regiments, as has been the custom for some years. This change is made in order to give the troops larger range for more extensive field duties, maneuvers and practice. General order No. 6, calling for the encampment is as follows: 1. The Illinois National Guard will report for the annual tour of instruction at Camp Lincoln, near Springfield, Ill., as follows: First brigade, from July 11 to July 18; Second brigade, from July 18 to July 25; Third brigade from July 25 to August 1. 2. Troops will be routed by the brigade commanders. 3. Cooks will be allowed to brigade and regimental headquarters and line officers' messes only. 4. After May 1 no enlistments will be made in the Illinois National Guard until further orders. 5. Rifle practice will, as far as possible, be this year at home stations. 6. It is the earnest desire of the governor that the encampment be noteworthy for hard work, strict discipline and thorough and advanced instruction in practical work. Adjutant General Hilton has issued an order confirming the election of Fred E. Koehler to be second lieutenant of Company M, Second Infantry, Illinois National Guard. Upon the recommendation of the commanding general of the Third brigade, the following appointments have been announced: Milton J. Foreman, to be commander of subsistence of the Third brigade, to rank as captain, and Carl C. Bullock to be aide-de-camp, to rank as first lieutenant of infantry.

THE TRADE REVIEW.

BUSINESS SHOWS CONFLICTING TENDENCIES.

Certain Lines of Commerce Have Improved, but the General Situation Is Not Very Encouraging—Hints of a Gold Outflow.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says:

"No important change has occurred in the general condition of business during the week, and, if trades in some respects looks worse, in other respects they look better. Some failures of magnitude have occurred, which have caused much apprehension and unwillingness to lend among bankers, and there have been somewhat less favorable features in the dry goods market, but in iron and steel conditions are slightly improved, and in boots and shoes considerably more hopeful. The labor controversies, mainly in the clothing trade, still cause much interruption of that business. Foreign trade is a little more satisfactory, exports from New York for three weeks showing an increase over last year of 6 per cent, while imports have shown nearly the same rate of decrease, and there are not wanting signs that the domestic markets have been somewhat overstocked by many kinds of foreign crop year and stocks in sight, with the quantities known to be held by European and American mills, make up an ample supply for the rest of the crop year.

"In the dry goods market the latest indications do not warrant expectations that the mills will continue full production throughout the season. The demand for woolen dress goods is the best feature of the woolen market, and there is about as much difficulty as at any time in men's wear departments, the operations of clothiers being hindered not only by the prevalent strikes but by slackness of immediate demand. The sales of wool have fallen to less than half a week's full consumption. A striking feature this week has been a sale of 350,000 pounds of American wool for shipment to England.

"The iron and steel markets have disclosed a similar feature, for a little Alabama pig has been sold for export by the Sloss company, though few imagine that much business of that sort is possible. The combination of lake ore producers has at last announced its prices for the coming season, $4 for first-class Bessemer, $3.40 to $3.70 for Mesaba and $3 for non-Bessemer ores, and it is calculated that with coke at $2 per ton Bessemer pig can be produced at about $12.25 at Pittsburg, which is now the current price there. But the slow marketing of finished products is still the main trouble. There has been a little more activity this week and the Carnegie works have

A WORD TO MOTHERS.

An Opportunity for Reflection After Reading Implied Advice.

"How many girls we meet to-day between the ages of 13 and 17 who are going out in company without either father or mother accompanying them," begins a conversation reported in the Philadelphia Press. "Either they go out alone or with a young girl or young man as easily influenced as themselves. These young people have an idea that their parents are growing old and are of a different generation from themselves, therefore they neither understand nor sympathize with them, so they seek suggestions from those who they think will coincide with their views and with the times generally. How differently the daughter feels toward the wise mother who has made of her a friend and companion from childhood. Bound up in the love and influence and confidence of such a mother, there will be no question concerning the useful womanhood of such a daughter."

"But sometimes," I interrupted, "one sees daughters that are far superior in moral character to their mothers."

"There are instances, of course, where the daughter would be better off had the mother no influence whatever over her," was her answer.

"It is shameful that such a state of affairs should exist, and yet it is true. The mother seems as greatly pleased over the daughter's success in 'catching new beaux' as other mothers feel when their daughters receive prizes for efficient work in school. They proudly exhibit the packet of love letters the daughter has received in one week, and we have only to look out upon the street of any town, from twilight until 9 to 10 o'clock in the evening, to see the result of such training. Young girls dressed in their best are noticed walking up and down the streets, endeavoring to attract attention, or chatting with some youth upon a street corner. These are somebody's daughters. Are they yours? Perhaps some mothers will ask: 'What harm, so long as there are other girls with her? But who are the other girls and what is their influence over your daughter? Do you suppose these girls are the confidential companions of their mothers, or that they repeat to them one-half the conversation which passes between them and their street friends?'

"If you have not previously secured your daughter's confidence, however, be sure it will not be given you then, for their timidity and bashfulness will be far greater at that time than ever before. If she does not go to you she gathers a little information from one young friend, a little more from another, and very likely none of it correct and much of it harmful.

"The complaint of the paragraph, I think, is just. Women should make every effort to be their daughters' confidantes—yes, and their sons', too."

Honor Well Placed.

Miss Emma C. Sickles, who achieved considerable reputation for the part she played in connection with the uprising of the Indians at Pine Ridge agency in 1890, has just received a notification that she has been awarded a gold medal by a society in Paris, France, whose motto is: "To Save or to Perish." Miss Sickles was in 1886 a teacher in the Indian school at Pine Ridge agency and was well acquainted with all the Indians. When the uprising at the agency occurred, in 1890 she volunteered her services to the war department. Secretary Proctor and Gen. Schofield sanctioned her enterprise. She managed at great personal risk to get into the camp of the hostile Indians, and although the massacre of Wounded Knee took place she has always maintained that by giving Gen. Miles timely information of the intentions subsequent to that she averted a wholesale slaughter at the agency.—Detroit Free Press.

Hit Him All Right.

A young woman from out of town went to tea among the literary set last week. She was introduced to a whole roomful of people, and afterward she went about trying to call everybody by his right and proper name—she rather prides herself on that sort of thing, you know. She remembered an amazing number of names, but when she came to one distinguished looking man she paused in despair. "I know everybody else's name," she said, "but when I try to remember yours I am completely at sea." "Then you're not far wrong," said the distinguished looking man. "My name is Atwater."—Washington Post.

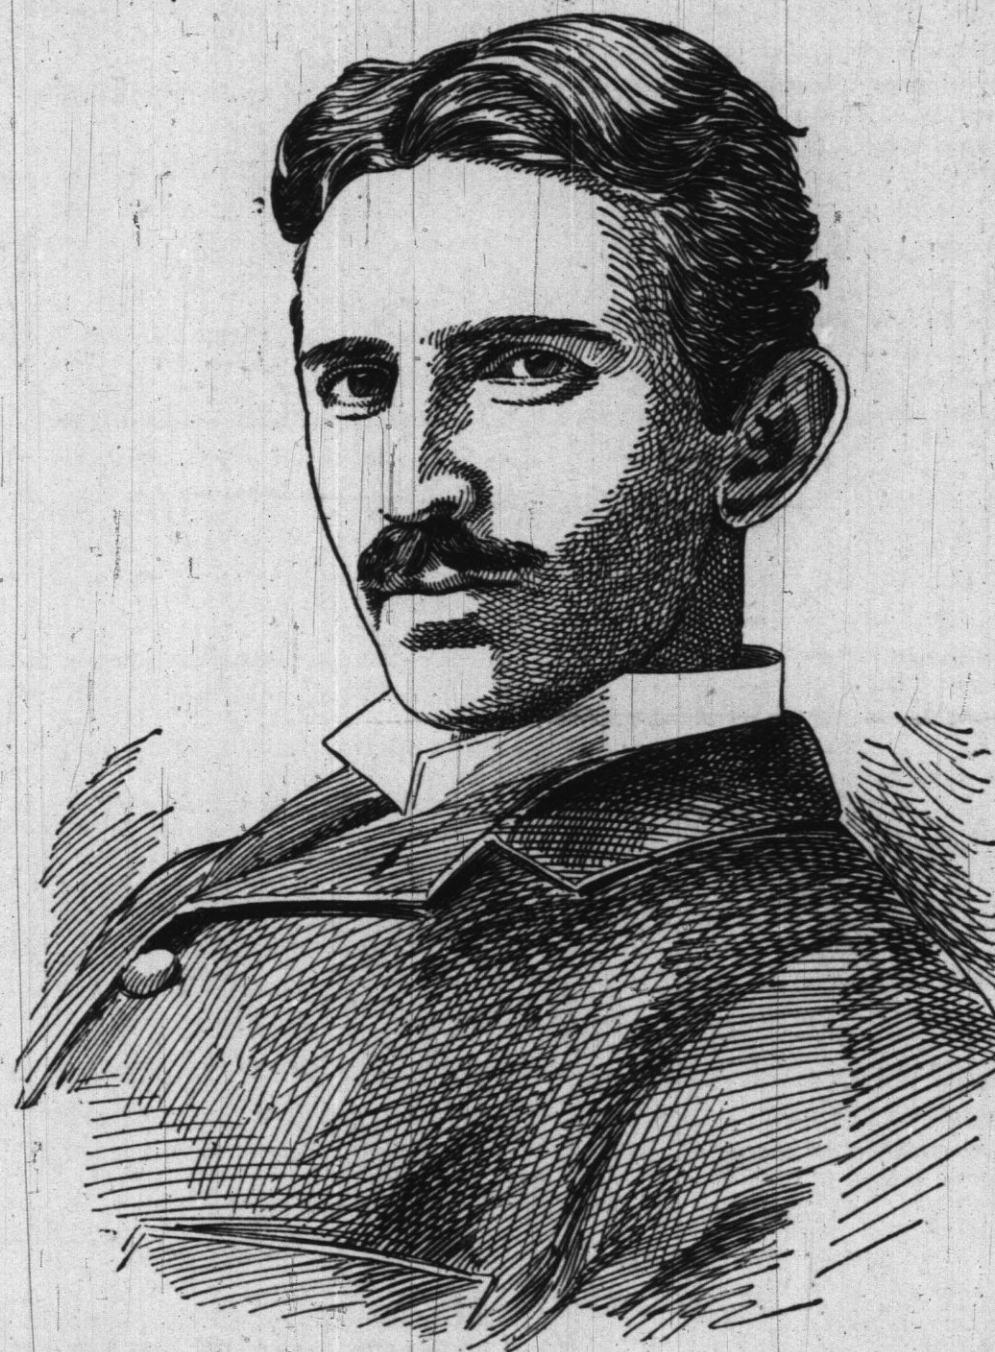

Times Have Changed.

A Maine paper notes as evidence of the change that has come over methods and men that whereas in old times the paymaster on the Kennebec ice fields never used anything but cash and brotherly love in making payments, he now keeps a loaded revolver on his pay table as a precaution against the possibility of bold thieves trying to snatch his pile of greenbacks.

Boston is not sorry that it has built the finest public library in the United States. The attendance in a single day sometimes reaches 5,000 persons.

WE MAY SOON TALK TO MARS AND OTHER PLANETARY NEIGHBORS.

Nikola Tesla has added another to his wonderful discoveries in the possibilities of the electric current, says a New York dispatch. His latest announcement is likely to attract more attention among scientists and laymen than Roentgen's X rays, the electric light, or even the telephone, for it means, possibly, that at last a method has been found by which the inhabitants of this earth may ultimately communicate with those on Mars or any other planet. Mr. Tesla believes that such a thing is now possible and in a short time we may be on speaking terms with other planets, made by means of electric waves. But even if the people of Mars are not of sufficient intelligence to understand the signals or communications from Mr. Tesla, the discovery will be useful as a means of transporting messages to all parts of the earth simultaneously. Such a means of communication without wires would be of the greatest importance in the transmission of news in times of war or epidemic. Mr. Tesla is now perfecting a machine with that idea in view.

The idea of communicating with planets by the same means is an after consideration. Mr. Tesla's idea for communicating with Mars, or other near planets, is not based on pyrotechnics or a system of lights placed in triangles and squares, such as the German scientists thought might be effective. His scheme is to utilize electric waves. He thinks that such waves would communicate to other planets just as disturbances of the sun are transmitted to the earth and produce similar disturbances here in the form of thunder showers. Mr. Tesla believes that the transmission of disturbances shows beyond doubt that waves of electricity are propagated through all space. The objection, he says, may be put forward that sufficient electrical disturbances cannot be made on the earth's surface, and that we would be wholly dependent upon thunderstorms and other phenomena of nature.

goods. In general, the course of domestic prices tends to favor the marketing of staples abroad.

"Wheat has gained about a point, but corn and cotton remain unchanged. Receipts of wheat at western points continue surprisingly large for a most unfavorable season, and make it hard to believe that the crop of 1895 was as small as estimates represent it, for such receipts amounted during the last week to 2,901,724 bushels, against 1,849,432 bushels last year, and for four weeks of March have been 11,884,205 bushels, against 7,474,361 bushels last year. There has been a slight increase in Atlantic exports this week, but in four weeks exports (flour included as wheat) were 5,488,118 bushels, against 6,488,109 bushels last year.

"Cotton had a lively rise with the covering of short sellers, but began to decline again a week ago and has been lagging ever since. The receipts from plantations continue quite as large as in the same weeks of the last short sold 10,000 steel rails to Japan, thus scoring a noteworthy success, but in the main the market is as inactive and insufficient as it has been.

"A heavy failure in Texas will also swell the aggregate of returns for the past week, which include 259 in the United States, against 234 last year, and thirty-nine in Canada, against forty-two last year."

Cruel Treatment of Insane.

Lincoln, Neb. Special: Charges have been preferred with Gov. Holcomb against Dr. J. H. Mackay, superintendent of the Norfolk hospital for the insane. The forty specifications recite that the doctor has been guilty of "official misconduct and willful neglect of duty" and of being "guilty of immoral conduct and speech, of inflicting on the patients under his control unusual, cruel and barbarous punishment." He is accused of beating female patients horribly, and the trial is expected to create a great sensation.

FROM CALIFORNIA.

On February 21st I paid a pleasant visit to Mr. Jones, who resides in the pretty little village of Palo Alto, with its 1,000 inhabitants. After dinner we visited Mayfield, where the Leland Stanford university is located. We inspected all the buildings, and think they will be marvels of convenience and beauty. The buildings now completed cover an area of 3 1/2 acres, and there are yet $15,000,000 left from the Stanford estate to insure the completion of the balance of the buildings. The buildings are located in a park covering 7,000 acres. The university is open to all desiring an education.

After leaving here I walked over to the largest stock farm in the world—the Palo Alto. Before Mr. Stanford died he had 1,500 trotting horses, but now the number has been reduced to about 600. Forty-three men are kept busy taking care of them. It was on this farm that the famous horse Palo Alto—record 2:08 1/2—was bred and died.

One of the managers showed me through all of the barns, and I saw some very fine horses. The first one was Adbell, the fastest 1-year-old colt in the world, having a record of 2:23, and for whom $50,000 was refused. We next looked at Altive, a brother of Palo Alto, and after looking at a score more we arrived at the stall of Advertiser, Adbell's sire, for whom a cool $150,000 was refused a few years ago. He is the prettiest horse I ever gazed upon. On our return we witnessed a game of basket-ball between university and high-school girls. Next we visited the Stanford museum, after which we viewed the monument erected to the memory of Mr. Stanford and his son. The tomb is guarded night and day. The Stanford estate consists of 56,000 acres.

The next afternoon at 1 o'clock, I in company with three others, boarded one of the Kentucky stable's vehicles for Mt. Hamilton. It was an elegant, clear day. The trip was uphill all the way after leaving San Jose. At 2:35 we reached Grand View House, a distance of twelve miles, and an increase of 1,600 feet elevation above starting point. After traveling two miles more we reached Smith's hotel, where we ate supper. At 4 o'clock we commenced on the home stretch of seven miles. At 6:30 we arrived on the summit, and got a grand view of the surrounding country, giving one an elegant sight of the Sierra Nevada mountains in the distance. These scenes are only eclipsed by the setting of the sun.

At 7:30 o'clock the observatory was thrown open to visitors. After looking through the small telescope, and gazing on the moon and Jupiter, we had the pleasure of looking through the largest telescope in the world. It is 56 feet long and 3 feet in diameter. We looked at Jupiter through this instrument, and discovered that the star is a planet with four moons, which are not visible to the naked eye.

The observatory is a nice building with two domes which are revolved by hydraulic power. The smaller dome weighs about 8 tons and the larger one weighs 100 tons. A professor is in attendance, who explains the mysteries of astronomy, and answers all questions. He told us how they measure distance and photograph stars and the moon. Saturday nights are the only times at which visitors are admitted to the observatory.

At 8:30 we started on the return trip, a distance of twenty-seven miles, and after turning 735 corners we reached home at 12:45 the next morning. The road leading to Lick observatory is good, costing the county $80,000, and Mr. Lick donated $800,000 towards the observatory. He died before the observatory was finished, and was buried beneath the large telescope.

HISTORY OF MR. LICK.
The gentleman was a German, and was born August 25, 1796. By trade he was a piano maker. In 1820 he left the United States for South America, and returned to this country in 1832, arriving in Philadelphia with $40,000, where he expected to engage in business, but changed his mind and returned to South America for an eleven year's stay.

He returned to California in 1847, and located at San Francisco. San Francisco had at that time a population of 1,000, but was growing very fast. He purchased a piece of land for the sum of one ounce of gold, and it is to-day the most valuable property in the city, the Lick hotel being located on it.

In 1855 he built a large flour mill near San Jose, on the spot where now are located the paper mills. Mr. Lick's mill was finished in mahogany, and was equipped with the finest machinery obtainable, at a cost of $200,000. When he built this mill he had for an object that powerful enemy—revenge.

While in South America Mr. Lick fell in love with the daughter of a rich miller, and when he asked him for the hand of his daughter was greeted with the following reply:

"You beggar, how dare you cast your eyes upon my daughter to inherit my riches? Have you a mill like this, or a single penny in your purse?"

Mr. Lick replied that he had nothing as yet, but some day would own a mill beside which the miller's mill would be considered a pig sty, and he kept his word. When Mr. Lick had his mill completed he had both the inside and outside of it photographed and sent the photographs to the South American miller.

Mr. Lick never married. He would furnish employment to all who asked it of him. If he had nothing better for his employes to do he would put them to work hauling dirt from one part of the farm to the other. Mr. Lick died immensely wealthy October 1, 1876, at the ripe old age of 80 years.

Unsystematically

Some persons could fall off some housetop and land feet down, while others fall from a chair and land head down. So it is in business. Some business men get up in the morning, open their business houses, sweep out, wipe off the dust from their wares, and sit down and wait. They put prices on their wares of which they seem to be ashamed, for they are afraid to let the people know what they keep. These men call their method of conducting business "Systematically." This is the kind of person that could fall off a chair and get hurt.

HERE is a man that gets up in the morning, reads his mail, gets out his wares, and hustles until night. He has opened the way towards making a good day's sales by judicious advertising, in which he told the people what he had and what prices he could make. Everybody in the county knows him. His wares do not become rusty, for the reason that he don't keep them long enough. He sells cheaper than any other dealer, and can afford to, because he makes quick sales. This man calls his business method "Unsystematically," and this is the kind of person who could fall from a housetop and never get a scratch. Such a man is

NOT TO BE TRIFLED WITH.

From Cincinnati Gazette: Will people never learn that a "cold" is an accident to be dreaded, and that when it occurs treatment should be promptly applied? There is no knowing where the trouble will end; and while complete recovery is the rule, the exceptions are terribly frequent, and thousands upon thousands of fatal illnesses occur every year ushered in by a little injudicious exposure and seemingly trifling symptoms. Beyond this, there are to-day countless invalids who can trace their complaints to "colds," which at the time of occurrence gave no concern, and was therefore neglected. —When troubled with a cold use Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. FROM WASHINGTON

THE PROCEEDINGS OF THE LIVTH CONGRESS.

A Brief Report of the Doings in Upper and Lower Houses of the National Legislature — The Work of a Week Condensed.

Eighty-second Session

The house took up the naval appropriation bill and, despite several diverting incidents, made such rapid progress with it that when the adjournment was reached all the paragraphs had been passed save those relating to the increase of the navy. The bill carries $31,611,034—$2,468,438 more than the current law—and authorizes four new battleships and fifteen torpedo boats, the cost of which complete will be almost $35,000,000. Not a single amendment was adopted, although there was an effort to provide for a new dry dock at the League island yard.

There was a dash of excitement in the opening proceedings. Mr. Bartlett (dem., N. Y.) and Mr. Boutelle (rep., Me.) demanded changes made in the Congressional Record, claiming to have been misquoted. The changes were made.

Mr. Cannon (rep., Ill.) antagonized the provision in the naval appropriation bill for the erection of residences on the grounds of the naval observatory. Those buildings, he said, were occupied by favorite naval officers, who were nominally in charge of astronomical observations but who practically knew no more about astronomy than the average member of congress.

Mr. Boutelle protested indignantly against Mr. Cannon's interference with the work of the naval committee. He paid a high tribute to the attainments of naval officers. In the American navy, he said, there had been some of the brightest minds in the scientific world.

Mr. Robinson (Pa.), who was educated at Annapolis and who served eleven years as an officer of the navy, defended the attainments of these naval officers.

Eighty-third Session

The naval appropriation bill was passed by the house without substantial amendment. An effort was made by the advocates of a larger increase of the navy than was authorized by the bill to increase the number of battleships from four to six. This increase was supported on the floor by Messrs. Hanley (rep., Ind.), Cummings (dem., N. Y.) and Johnson (rep., Cal.), and opposed by Messrs. Boutelle, chairman of the committee, Hulick (rep., O.), and Robinson (rep., Pa.). The house, by a large majority, stood by the recommendation of the committee, the proposition for six battleships mustering but 32 votes against 134. Various other amendments were offered, but all failed. The bill as passed carries $31,611,034 and authorizes the construction of four battleships and fifteen torpedo-boats, the total cost of which will be in the neighborhood of $35,000,000.

The senate spent most of the day on the legislative appropriation bill, but did not complete it owing to Mr. Sherman's motion to strike out the proposition for the change from fees to salaries for United States district attorneys and marshals. The subject was debated at length.

Mr. Sherman spoke against encumbering appropriation bills with general legislation. He also opposed the high salaries proposed by the bill.

A joint resolution was adopted allowing ex-President Harrison to accept decorations from Brazil and Spain.

Eighty-fourth Session

In the senate Senator Morrill presented a favorable report on the bill proposing the purchase of a square opposite the east front of the capitol, adjacent to the new congressional library, for a supreme court building. The legislative appropriation bill was then taken up. The pending question was the motion of Senator Sherman to strike out all provisions relating to the change of compensation from fees to salaries for United States district attorneys and marshals.

An acrimonious political debate developed and brought on two sharp personal exchanges between Mr. Hill and Mr. Elkins, and between Mr. Brice and Mr. Elkins. The controversy arose over Mr. Hill's motion to strike from the pending appropriation bill the proposed change of the date of assembling the New Mexico legislature from December to May. Mr. Hill bitterly denounced the change as a "political trick," which had been "sneaked into" this appropriation bill in order, as he claimed, to postpone the meeting of the democratic legislature in the hope that a republican president would be elected and the political control of the territory changed.

Mr. Elkins protested against the use of the words "sneaked in." The exchange between the senators was very animated, but Mr. Hill persisted in the use of his adjectives. He went on to assert that appropriation bills should not be made "sewers" to receive all the "scraps" every one might seek to put into them.

Mr. Brice sought to question Mr. Elkins, when the latter brought up the offensive personal dispatch which had been sent to Mr. Brice from New Mexico. The debate took a wide range, Senators Gorman, Faulkner, Cockrell and other democrats attacking the provision as political, while Senators Elkins, Carter, Cullom and other republican senators defended it. Mr. Cullom sought to table Mr. Hill's motion, but a motion to this effect failed—21 to 29—whereupon Mr. Cullom yielded to the Hill motion and the New Mexico provision was struck out.

At the close of the day the senate passed the legislative appropriation bill, carrying $21,500,000. Aside from providing the usual appropriations the bill is important in effecting a reform of the system of compensation for United States district attorneys and marshals, salaries being substituted for fees.

The appropriations committee attempted to take up the sundry civil appropriation bill but the members who were interested in bills on the private calendar defeated them by a vote of 142 to 77. It developed during the day that a lively fight would be precipitated Monday when the sundry civil bill is called up on account of the fact that the bill carries appropriations for continuing contracts on river and harbor work and public buildings for only eight months of the next fiscal year. That would carry the appropriations up to March 1, 1897.

Eighty-fifth Session

The senate is to have a revival of financial and bond discussion as a result of an animated debate shortly before the session closed. Mr. Peffer's resolution for the appointment of a special committee of five senators to investigate recent bond issues had been relegated to the calendar, owing to the opposition of Mr. Hill, but it was reached in the regular order Monday. Again Mr. Hill sought to have the resolution go over, but he was met by energetic protests, not only from Mr. Peffer, but also from Mr. Wolcott and Mr. Teller.

The bill was passed directing the secretary of war to prepare a roll of telegraph operators who served not less than ninety days in the military telegraphic service during the war of the rebellion and to issue to each a certificate of honorable service. The bill has a proviso that it is not to be construed toward carrying a pension, bounty or like emolument.

An unexpected controversy arose over the next measure on the calendar, which was the resolution providing for a committee of five senators to investigate and report all the material facts and circumstances connected with the sale of the United States bonds by the secretary of the treasury in the years 1894, 1895 and 1896.

Mr. Hill suggested that this and the two following calendar measures (the Dupont case and the Lodge immigration bill) go over, as the senate was proceeding under the five minute rule.

Mr. Peffer, the author of the resolution, insisted on going on, and was re-enforced in this demand by Senators Wolcott and Teller. Mr. Wolcott said it was time something was done with this resolution. If not acted on now let senators agree when they would act on it. Since the resolution was introduced it had been rolled around and never brought to a vote.

Mr. Teller also insisted that there should be no further delay. He was willing to wait until Wednesday, at 2:30 p. m., for taking up the resolution, but Mr. Platt cut off an agreement by an objection.

"Then I serve notice on the senator from Connecticut (Platt)," said Mr. Teller, warmly, "that we will take up this resolution and take it up very soon."

Mr. Wolcott at once added: "Yes, and we will take it up now unless the senate is too thin for a quorum." It looked as though a vote would be taken, but Cockrell temporized. He said there was no hurry; plenty of votes would be available to take up the resolution at the proper time.

Mr. Wolcott went on to declare that the objections made were not casual. The senator from New York had persistently "shoved over" this resolution from day to day. There was evidently no purpose to endeavor to inquire into the bond sales.

The house took up the consideration of the sundry civil appropriation bill and disposed of 15 of the 100 pages before adjournment. During the general debate Mr. Cannon, the present head of the appropriations committee, and his predecessor, Mr. Sayers (Tex.), interchanges opinions as to present and past appropriations. Mr. Cannon, in the course of his remarks, said he did not think the appropriations for this session, not taking into consideration authorizations for naval and river and harbor work, would fall below $506,000,000. The public service, in his opinion, could not be provided for for two years for less than $1,000,000,000. Now, however, the government was borrowing money to pay current expenses. In view of this fact he appealed to the house to keep down appropriations.

FOR THOMAS B. REED.

Massachusetts Republicans Indorse Him for the Presidency.

The state convention for the election of delegates to the republican national convention at St. Louis was held at Boston, Mass., on Friday. The delegates had only one name in their minds as their choice for the presidential nomination. It was that of Thomas B. Reed of Maine, and any reference to the name or his sentiments was the signal for cheers and applause. Mr. George H. Lyman called the convention to order at 10:15 o'clock, and the call for the convention was read by Secretary Talbot. Rt. Rev. William Lawrence, Episcopal bishop of Massachusetts, offered prayer, and in it eloquently referred to the justice and purity of the life of the late Gov. Groenhalge.

The committee on credentials reported that the convention was entitled to 2,002 delegates and that 1,851 delegates were present.

Congressman Samuel W. McCall of Winchester was chosen permanent chairman. His introduction was the signal for a great ovation. He made the usual speech, concluding with a eulogy of Thomas B. Reed as a candidate for the presidential nomination.

The resolutions, after pledging the state's electoral vote to the nominees of the St. Louis convention, declare for a protective tariff and the reciprocity policy of James G. Blaine; demand the restriction of immigration, at least to the exclusion of the totally ignorant and illiterate; declare against the appropriation of public money for sectarian schools; demand the enforcement of the Monroe doctrine; extends sympathy to Cuba, and concludes:

"We present to the national convention for nomination as president and urge all our delegates to give their earnest, united and active support to a fearless leader, tried in many hard conflicts, a man of national reputation, of unblemished character, unswerving Republicanism and great abilities, Thomas B. Reed of Maine."

Delegates-at-large to the national convention are: Senator Henry Cabot Lodge of Nahant, W. T. Murray Crane of Dalton, Eben S. Draper of Hopedale and Curtis Guild, Jr., of Boston. They were chosen by acclamation.

The financial plank is as follows: "We are entirely opposed to the free and unlimited coinage of silver, and to any change in the existing gold standard, except by international agreement. Each dollar must be kept as good as every other dollar. The credit of the United States must be maintained at the highest point, so that it cannot be questioned anywhere, either at home or abroad. Every promise must be rigidly kept and every obligation redeemable in coin must be paid in gold."

EASTER PRESENTS.

PRETTY THINGS SEEN IN THE BIG STORES.

"When Thoughts Are True Gifts Which Are Daintiest Are Chosen to Express Them"—Appropriate Gifts for Dear Friends.

AS SWEET AS THE first wreath of spring and as dainty as the earliest April flowers are the ideal Easter remembrances. They should be in harmony with the influences of the day, which turn the minds of all to the mystery of awakening of life, and at the same time be what charming woman loves to receive, says a New York religious weekly.

Among such things are found exquisitely bound books, small etchings or water colors in ivory frames—all especially appropriate gifts for this season.

Collections of poems, whose covers are in delicate shades, with designs which hint at more than they express, are offered at very reasonable prices. One book of verses was clothed in white enamel and silver, with a design in the form of a Greek lamp, whose flame was contorted by the wind of destiny.

For the woman who is fond of dreaming the rare small volumes of essays in quiet grays and undecided greens, with an ideal head in the form of a cameo on one side.

She who loves to sit at nature's feet and learn would be delighted with a book which treats of orchids, lichens, or simple wild flowers. One of the books on orchids, designed for an Easter gift has a cover of white linen, embroidered with silks in the natural colors of orchids. There are also delightful stories of birds and woods which come in artistic bindings.

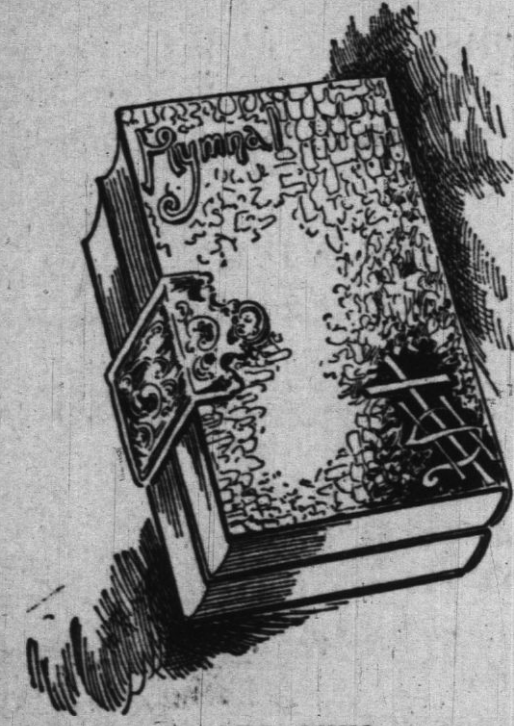

The latter come in nearly all shades to match or contrast with the Easter gowns. Some of the most popular this year are in bright red.

Much less expensive, and entirely pleasing are the diaries. One is in white and gold cover, with a white pencil, and bearing the inscription, "For Happy Thoughts." Small white silk banners, with suitable quotations, are trifles intended to be hung near the bedside, so that proper food for reflection may be furnished for the mind to go to sleep over.

If one has artistic talent she may draw her own designs and make a booklet of flowers, putting her favorite lines of poetry under each one. One ingenious woman has made studies in brown sepia of the child characters in Dickens.

Endless opportunities for suitable selections are offered in china. A tiny candlestick to light the path to sweet dreams may be bought for 75 cents or $1. A beautiful cup from which to sip tea and tell fortunes costs but $2. A Royal Copenhagen in green and white can be had for $2.50. Such a gift tied with a violet ribbon, with some violets scattered in the box in which it is sent, is always charming. The china frames for portraits are more expensive; one six inches high, with very delicate Dresden pattern, was marked $6. Other articles in china are tiny clocks, trays for pens and pins, and ring stands. Some of the letter seals have Dresden handles. Seals finished in white pearl, with a box of wax in "the color she uses" are pleasing. Stationery may be added without causing offence.

Greek lamps in silver are among the novelties. Such a lamp exhibited in one of the prominent stores is said to be an exact reproduction of the lamps used in Ephesus, one hundred years before Christ. It has the seal of Ephesus upon the top, in the shape of a bee, and in the handle there is a real Roman coin dating back to the time of Gallienus, 260 A. D. The price of this lamp is $6. Plainer lamps can be

LIZARD SKIN. had for $5. Silver candlesticks cost $3 and $4. A bell to call my lady's maid, a silver box for the sponge on her writing table, a bottle for mucilage, a silver mounted ink eraser, are useful as well as pleasing.

Cut glass vinaigrettes, silver mounted, are very pretty and cost but $2 or $3. A vinaigrette in cut glass with glass top may be bought for seventy-five cents. If one wishes to make a very expensive gift she may have an amethyst, topaz, or opal for the top.

Paper weights of glass, with the picture of a Madonna in them or a portrait of one of the poets, would suit the fancy of the modern Hypatias. These paper weights cost but twenty-five cents, and are arranged so that any picture may be put in. Change purses, stamp cases and card cases, in the delicate shades of leather, will please the rosebud. Her older sisters will appreciate those of real lizard skin or carved leather.

If one cares to give comfort at Easter time let her send her best schoolgirl friend a "shoe and stocking chair," a novelty just put upon the market at $6.50. For a friend who sails away, a lap tablet for writing is a genuine happy thought. An elderly person will find pleasure in using one of the porcelain egg sets, consisting of an odd shaped tray, a tall, graceful cup for coffee, and two little cups for eggs, with a bit of a tray for salt and pepper. These may be had for $2. A stand for four or six eggs, of any color, with a gilt handle is $3.50.

To an invalid friend send an enameled medicine chest, painted with trailing arbutus, wild roses and apple blossoms, with a door closed by a band of pink ribbon tied in a jerky bow. The bachelor maid who has her own apartments will call you blessed if on Easter morn she finds your card and a pot of narcissus, primroses, hyacinths, daffodils, crocuses or hepticas. They will be placed on her window sill and receive her dearest confidences. A little box of chocolates, with a pansy and the motto, "Pensez a moi," or a basket of buttercups will often give more pleasure than a costly gift. A single rose in a crystal vase combines the graces of fragrance, beauty and utility. The tender thought that prompts the sending of a bunch of violets, sweet peas, lilies of the valley or mignonette, will sometimes more forcibly remind one that there is joy and glad new life on earth than does the reception of brilliant gems. The latter are beautiful, but not necessarily convincing.

For Easter. RISE! This day shall shine for evermore, To thee a star divine on Time's dark shore! Till now thy soul has been all glad and gay; Bid it awake and look at Grief to-day!

But now the stream has reached a dark, deep sea; And sorrow, dim and crowned, is waiting thee.

Each of God's soldiers bears a sword divine; Stretch out thy trembling hands to-day for thine!

Then with slow, reverent step and beating heart, From out thy joyous day thou must depart—

And, leaving all behind, come forth alone, To join the chosen band around the throne.

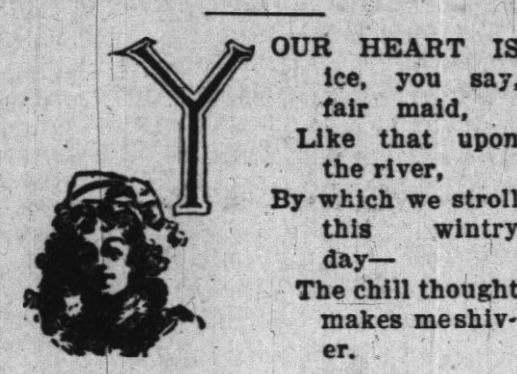

Raise up thine eyes! Be strong! Nor cast away The crown that God has given thy soul to-day!

An Imprudent but Gushing Woman. Young women who take books at the circulating library are imprudent to use their pages as blotters. They are doing wrong also, for it is against the rules. A copy of "Lord Ormond and His Aminta" which has been in use in a Philadelphia library, held in front of a mirror revealed the inscription, "I send you my heart with a kiss." All women finish their letters with that phrase, which cannot therefore betray anybody, but, in this case, the signature was there.

The Ice Maiden—A Serious Expression—How His Voice Got Ruined—A Simple Diagnosis—Why He Was Astonished—A Valued Member.

"Like ice both hard and cold," you add, And yet your profile gentle And tender, liquid eyes of gray Induce a process mental.

The ice is cold yet it reflects The ardent blue above you, My heart's the sky—your heart's the ice And my heart says "I love you."

When next upon your wintry words I all forlornly brood, I'll think beside "tho' ice is hard It has a melting mood."

Too Far to Go. "You no longer love me," she exclaimed, her eyes filling with tears. "Why, dearest," he began, but she interrupted him.

"We have been married only four months, and your love has grown cold." "Why, dearest, I—" "It's useless to protest. Your actions show it too plainly," she persisted. "But what have I done?" he asked in despair.

"You used to come home for luncheon," she replied.

"Yes, but 'then—"

"And now you do not," she continued.

"It takes too much time now, dearest," he explained.

"You never used to think so," she said, reproachfully.

"Of course not," he replied, "but then I didn't have far to go."

"Do you mean to say it takes more time now?"

"Of course it does. Since I have moved my office."

"Your office is in the same building that it has always been, isn't it?" she asked, with some asperity.

"Oh, yes," he answered, "but you must remember that it is one of the sky scrapers and I have moved from the ground floor to the top."

A moment's thought convinced her that his excuse was a valid one.—Chicago Post.

Of Daily Occurrence. An accident or death is almost of daily occurrence in the mining districts of South Wales, and a very witty saying will occasionally slip out in connection with these affairs. The following will serve as an example:

A young fellow being out of work, journeyed to a certain mine in search of employment.

"Have you a job you can give me?" he asked of the manager.

"Not at present; but if you will step into the office for a few minutes, I may hear of some person killed or wounded!" was the reply.

"No beans."

"Of course I do."

"Do what?"

"Know beans, you idiot."—Indianapolis Journal.

First English Watches.

The first English watches had weights and were used as pocket clocks. They had only one hand and required to be wound up twice a day. The dials were of silver and brass and the cases were unglazed, but opened at the back and front and were four or five inches in diameter—about the size of a common dessert plate.—Kansas City Star.

A canvass among the druggists of this place reveals the fact Chamberlain's are the most popular proprietary medicines sold. Paris Exposition.

In the summer of 1900, the French nation will hold at Paris a great international exposition, which bids fair to rival, if not surpass, the late World's Columbian Exposition at Chicago.

Already people all over the civilized world are making preparations for visiting Paris—the city of boulevards and palaces—studying the people and their language, but it remained for Chicago enterprise to introduce the first plan whereby people of moderate means will be enabled to visit Paris and the exposition at a comparatively trifling cost.

On March 10, there was incorporated under the laws of the state of Illinois, The Paris Exposition Association of the Metropolitan Business College of Chicago, one of whose main objects will be to provide a fund of savings to enable its members and their friends to attend the so-called Paris Exposition in Paris, France, in 1900.

It is estimated that by combining means and forces, the members of the association will be enabled to visit the exposition at a cost of not more than $125 for each person, payable in equal monthly installments.

This amount is expected to take a member from Chicago to Paris and return, and to pay the member's hotel bill in Paris for thirty days.

In case of death or withdrawal of a member, money paid in on installments will be returned with savings bank interest added.

Special inducements offered persons joining the association before May 1.
