SCENES ALONG THE HUDSON

Sights and Scenes from the Bridal Trip of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Robertson.

After spending about two weeks in this section we left for Albany over the N. Y. C. & H. R. railroad, passing through Rome, Utica and Schenectady—the latter being noted for its locomotives, and famous in history also for Indian massacres, etc. This road follows along the Erie canal, where we are reminded of our "martyr" President, Garfield, as we see the canal boats drawn along by horses driven in the tow-path.

This great waterway connects Lake Erie with the Hudson river, and is 363 miles long. It was begun in 1817 and finished in 1825. It furnishes employment for about 28,000 men and boys and about 16,000 horses. During the summer these boats carry about 3,000,000 tons of freight while all of the railroads between these points, running the whole year round, only carry about 7,000,000 tons. There are about 150 boats daily each way. One boat will carry an average train load of freight, and 150 boat loads are equal to a loaded train of cars twenty miles long. There is a move now being made to do away with the tow path, and run the boats by electricity, after the plan of the trolley electric railways.

At Albany we went through the state capitol, a magnificent structure built of white stone. It has already cost $23,000,000, and is not yet completed. The grand staircase is a wonder in itself. Massive pillars, broad polished stairs, and in every niche and corner a marble bust of some of our noted men, historians, poets, or statesmen.

We left Albany on the steamer "Albany" at 8:30 o'clock in the morning for a trip down the Hudson to New York City. Both banks of the river are a continual picture from Albany to New York, a distance of 150 miles, and it keeps one well employed viewing both banks. The Catskill mountains border the west bank of the river. One is easily deceived in heights and distances here. We thought the mountains to be about 1,000 feet high, while in reality some of them are over 3,000 feet high. The three highest being Catskill high peak, 3,800 feet; Overlook mountain, 3,300 feet and Platskill, 3,200 feet high. Two hotels on the mountains were in sight for a distance of over forty miles; while traveling on the river. Several of the peaks together form what is called "the man in the mountain," the knee, breast and head being distinguishable.

Some of the noted men who have built homes on the banks of the river are William Astor, Levi P. Morton, Hamilton Fish, Jay Gould and Samuel J. Tilden. The military academy at West Point is also on the west bank of the river. Some of the cadets, in white duck suits, were visible near the buildings. Two boats each way are run daily on the Hudson line—the "New York" and "Albany." About 1 o'clock, while at dinner, we passed under the Poughkeepsie bridge, a wonderful piece of mechanism. We also met the day boat from New York, which meant that we had completed just half the trip. Of course, cheers were exchanged, bells were rung, whistles blown, etc.

Poughkeepsie is a pretty city, and covers a great deal of territory. The Hudson river varies in width from one-half of a mile to four miles. Here and there we found an island. Several sail boats were seen during the day, also numerous tugs, towing canal boats. In one instance we counted forty canal boats all lashed together, drawn by one small tug. Families live on the canal boats. We noticed several washings hung out, and various other signs of home life. It will be remembered that it was up this river that Hendrick Hudson sailed in 1609 in the "Half Moon."

Washington's Headquarters, Cornwall Landing and Washington Heights, on the banks of the river, are names that are familiar to us. The Palisades are first noticed about twenty miles up the river from New York City. They are perpendicular walls of rock. They look as though they had been split with a chisel. It might be well to say that at this place, on the flat, broad rock surface, as also at Thousand Islands, compounders of Hood's Sarsaparilla and Carter's Little Liver Pills have found a convenient and lasting place to place an advertisement.

Sing Sing, on the east side, is the location of a prison. Sleepy Hollow church and burial grounds also border on the river. This will, perhaps, recall "The Legend of Sleepy Hollow." Just beyond this is a monument erected to the captors of Andre. About opposite Nyack, about eight miles from the city, is Riverside Park, memorable from the fact that Grant's tomb is there. The place is marked from the river by the Stars and Stripes floating over it. Besides sight-seeing we were highly entertained during the afternoon by the Brooklyn orchestra, which boarded our boat at Poughkeepsie from the "New York," having played for them in the morning up the river.

We reached New York City at 6 o'clock p. m., and stopped at the St. Denis' hotel, on Broadway and Eleventh streets, while in the city. The hotel is just opposite Grace church, and the next morning, being Sunday, we heard the bells at an early hour calling the people to worship. The bells of Grace church, instead of ringing or tolling as they often do in cities, chime out some old familiar hymn. The church building is of brown stone, covered with running ivy. We attended Trinity church. It is the richest church in America, also the oldest Protestant Episcopal church in America. After service we walked through the churchyard. Alexander Hamilton and wife are buried there. The following inscription was copied from the monument which marks Hamilton's grave: "The Corporation of Trinity Church has erected this in testimony of their respect for the patriot of incorruptible integrity, the soldier of approved valor, the statesman of consummate wisdom whose talents and virtues will be admired long after this marble shall have moldered into dust."

Robert Fulton, the inventor of the steamboat in 1807, is buried in these grounds. A large iron slab laid flat on the ground, simply marked "Livingston," marks his burial place. He was a member of the Livingston family.

The tombs here are all built underground either of bricks or stone. Philip Kearney and John Slidell are also buried here. The two oldest stones in the grounds are dated 1681 and 1691—Annie Churcher and brother. Most of the stones show age and decay. Such as the following inscriptions are frequent: "This marble designed with unambitious purpose and chiefly to preserve in the remembrance of his friends his excellent disposition and amiable qualities is sacred to the memory of James Seidler, who departed this life July the 20th, 1803, aged 52 years;" "Sidney Breese, June 9, 1767, made by himself. Ha! Sidney, Sidney, I've lost you here? I here, I've, till time is flown to its extremity."

JOHN COLLEN ROBBED

His Residence Burglarized Early Saturday Morning and $52. in Cash Taken.

About 2:15 o'clock Saturday morning, the residence of Alderman John Collen was entered by a burglar, and the sum of $52 taken, besides a coat and vest.

The burglar entered the residence through a kitchen window on the west side of the building, and after passing into the sitting room extracted $52 from the pocketbook in the vest, leaving about $1,200 in notes. From here the burglar entered the bedroom of Mr. and Mrs. Collen and took Mr. Collen's pants which was lying near the bed. As he passed out of the room he was seen by Mrs. Collen, who awoke her husband, but who was too late to get a view of the intruder. After arousing the hired girl, Mr. Collen called Lyman Powers, who lives next door, and Nightwatch A. S. Henderson, was notified, but owing to the start and the extreme darkness of the night, the burglar made his escape with the booty.

On Tuesday, Charles Homuth found the coat and pants near the E. J. & E. railroad crossing at Henry Lageschulte's farm, about two miles southwest of Barrington.

Frye - Stiefenhofer.

Shortly after 5:30 p. m., Thursday, November 19th, Miss Laura Frye was married to George Stiefenhofer at the home of the bride.

Rev. Theo. Suhr of the Salem Evangelical church performed the ceremony, which was witnessed by the following persons:

Messrs. and Mesdames A. W. Landwer, J. H. Landwer, H. Bauman, J. C. Plagge and F. H. Frye; Mrs. Rev. Theo. Suhr; Misses Annie Dawson, Mary Krueger, Rose Sadt, Mary C. Frye, Mabel, and Alma Stiefenhofer; Messrs. Thos. Freeman, Geo. Hansen, and Chas. Peterson. The bride was attired in tan silk trimmed with cream silk and pearl trimming, white gloves, and carried a bouquet of white chrysanthemums. The ceremony took place in the parlor under a large horseshoe composed of ferns and white chrysanthemums—an emblem of good luck, and likewise symbolical of the occupation of the groom.

The wedding march was played by Miss Frye, sister of the bride.

The house was decorated throughout with large bouquets of cut flowers—white roses and chrysanthemums.

At the conclusion of the ceremony the newly wed couple were showered with congratulations, rice and many useful presents. Following these preliminaries the guests were invited to enjoy the feast which had been prepared for the occasion. The balance of the evening was spent most agreeably in a social manner. The happy couple will reside in the large and elegant residence of the groom, directly opposite the home of the bride's parents.

The newly married people are most estimable people, both being prominent members in our local social and business world. The groom is the junior member of the firm of Hatje & Stiefenhofer, while the bride's smiling face has been sadly missed from behind the counters of J. C. Plagge's establishment.

THE REVIEW joins with the community in congratulating the happy couple.

There will be a union Thanksgiving service at the M. E. church Thursday morning at 9:30 o'clock; Zion's Evangelical church, the Baptist church, and the M. E. church uniting. Short addresses will be made by Rev. T. E. Ream, Rev. E. R. Troyer and Rev. S. Hagaman. Let all the people come and join in these services.

Peters & Collen, Barrington's cattle dealers, offer the bargain of the season on next Tuesday when they will place on sale at auction 45 cows, choice milchers and springers. Liberal terms are made. Anyone needing a good milch cow should not fail to attend this sale at 9:30 o'clock Tuesday morning, November 24th.

DELUGE IN THE WEST

HEAVY FLOODS IN WASHINGTON AND OREGON.

Mountain Streams Turned Into Raging Torrents—Family of Five Drowned—Loss to Farmers and Ranchers Will Be Heavy.

Tacoma, Wash., special: Never before has western Washington had such a visitation of floods. There is water everywhere. The Great Northern, Northern Pacific and Canadian Pacific railroads are blockaded, and it will be several days before traffic can be resumed. The total damage to date is estimated at $2,000,000. Business has not suffered alone, for scores of houses are floating about in the devastated fields. Many families have barely escaped with their lives by means of boats. Steamers have been sent out in Snohomish, Columbia and Cowlitz valleys to rescue persons who would otherwise have drowned. The steamer Florence Henry went down Snohomish river Sunday and rescued twenty-five families living on marsh and low lands. Monday she started again on a similar mission. In Snohomish county the damage is estimated at $400,000.

A Snohomish special says the river there is now twenty-one feet above regular water mark at high tide. Henry Johns, a rancher, was crossing the river near Monroe with his wife and three children Sunday afternoon when the canoe upset and all were drowned. Peter Jackson, a logger fell from the boom at Cherry Valley and drowned.

The floods have been caused by the four days' almost continuous rain, together with the chinook winds, which have melted the heavy snowfalls in the foothills.

Voorhees' Health Improves.

Dr. Jenkins, who has been attending Senator Voorhees since the latter was brought here from Mackinac some weeks ago, says there is no basis for the report sent from Indianapolis that he is a victim of paresis. The senator's general health has been steadily improving, and during the last ten days he has been out riding frequently. He is becoming more cheerful, and has been talking of his plans for the trip to Washington the first of the month to be present at the opening of congress.

NAPOLEON SARONY IS DEAD.

Napoleon Sarony, the noted photographer who died suddenly the other day, was more than a photographer. He drew black and white pictures that made impressions in American and foreign galleries, and his knowledge of art was out of the common. During the three-quarters of a century of his life he made and lost several fortunes. He was a native of Canada, and when a youth went to New York with his parents. There he learned the trade of lithographer and embarked in that business for himself at 21. He and his brother made a fortune in a few years and went abroad to study art. While they were away their business went to pieces. The two Saronys had learned much about photography while in Europe. The younger opened a gallery at Scarborough, England, and Napoleon one in New York. Both prospered.

BISHOPS AT THE MEETING.

Twenty Attend the Opening Session of Methodist Missionaries.

A score of bishops and thirty lay committeemen were present Wednesday at the opening session of the general missionary committee at Detroit. The treasurer's report showed receipts for the year of $1,221,253, an increase of $46,706 over the preceding year. Expenditures amounted to $1,170,117. The balance of $51,141 was applied to the committee's indebtedness of $239,055, leaving it at present $187,914. Special gifts have been received amounting to $43,410.

At Friday's session $48,576 was appropriated for missions in Japan. Philadelphia was selected as the next place of meeting.

Details for appropriations for domestic missions occupied the general missionary committee of the M. E. church Monday, and $35,700 was assigned for German and Swedish mission work in the Idaho, Columbia River, Puget Sound, Oregon and northern Pacific districts, and for Norwegian work in the northwest. The New Mexican Spanish work was allowed $11,000.

KNIGHTS OF LABOR.

Members of the Order Gather in Force at Rochester.

Free silver was the keynote of Wednesday's doings in the Knights of Labor general assembly. Both the report of General Master Workman Sovereign and of the general executive board take strong ground in favor of making the advocacy of free silver one of the cardinal principles of the order, a position it has never before been given. Leaders of the assembly declare this will be done, and practically without opposition.

A resolution approving the income tax law was passed Thursday. The nominal membership of the order is stated to be 300,000, but owing to failure to keep up the dues and other causes, there are now but 120,000 in good standing, an increase of about 16,000 over last year.

The executive board was instructed to urge the passage of a law establishing postal savings banks. It is also recommended that ordinary savings banks and trust companies give bonds for twice the amount of their deposits. After a lively discussion over the selection of a place of meeting of the next general assembly, Louisville won on the fourth ballot.

NAPOLEON SARONY IS DEAD.

The brother in England is rich, while Napoleon was rather poor at his death. As a photographer he was great. His lights and poses were beautiful. His studio was seldom without some famous sitter. His collection of noted actors numbers 40,000; his miscellaneous collection 170,000. His noted friends were numerous. Wilkie Collins so liked him that the great novelist and the great photographer were correspondents until the death of the former. The Duke of Bedford, Baldini, Escosura, the elder Spothorn and John Bright were among his most intimate friends. In his studio Sarony was always supreme. The sitter had no suggestion to make and any levity was reprimanded. He was one of the Kilt Kat Club's founders and was also a member of the Salmagundi and T. E. clubs. It was apoplexy that carried him off.

FARM AND GARDEN.

MATTERS OF INTEREST TO AGRICULTURISTS.

Some Up-to-date Hints About Cultivation of the Soil and Yields Thereof—Horticulture, Viticulture and Floriculture.

IN A STUDY of the effect of deep and shallow cultivation and of root-pruning on the growth of the corn plant, a knowledge of the number, length and position of corn roots is essential. To this end a few hills, at the Illinois experiment station, were examined just as they were found growing in the field, by digging a trench beside the hill and washing the vertical side with water. The particular object of the inquiry was to ascertain the number of the roots and their depths at the points where they are likely to be disturbed by cultivation; what proportion of all the roots was sufficiently near the surface to be so injured; and whether by root pruning, three inches deep, enough roots would be cut, so that any considerable effect should be expected therefrom. Only a portion of the roots, necessarily, could be traced by the method used. Such delicate fibers as young corn roots are easily broken in washing the dirt from them. Four hills were examined. They grew on a black prairie loam, which is one and one-half to two feet deep, and is underlaid with permeable yellow clay. The land had been fall-plowed about six inches deep, and well prepared before planting with disc and common tooth harrow.

Summary.—Nine plants, which averaged 12 inches high to tip of leaves, had altogether 94 roots, or an average of over 10 apiece. The longest root traced was 35 inches long, the plant being 22 inches high. A plant 4½ inches high had a root 13 inches long. Twenty-four roots were examined (time did not belong to the plants mentioned, but to others in the same hill) at 6 inches from their base. One was 4½ inches deep; five, 4 inches deep; twelve, 3½ inches deep; one, 2½ inches deep; four, 2 inches deep; and one ¾ of an inch deep at this distance from base of root. Three-fourths of the roots, therefore, would not have been broken by root-pruning or cultivating three inches deep; but all but one would have been at four inches deep.

Wheat Raising in England.

At the recent convention of the National Association of British and Irish Millers, held at Southampton, the following resolution was adopted:

"That the association is of opinion that it is the duty of the Imperial government to foster and encourage the production of wheat within the limits of the United Kingdom, believing that it will tend to the welfare of the nation; its protection, as providing food supply in the event of war; and its prosperity, as affording employment to the working population.

"Among the many advantages to be derived from the resuscitation of wheat cultivation may be mentioned the following:—(1) The provision of grain at convenient centers for the working of the country mills, thereby increasing the amount of offal available for British stock; (2) The provision of sweet and pure wheat for the bread of the people now largely dependent on foreign corn; (3) The retention within the country of a store of wheat which would be in readiness in the event of an outbreak of war, and thus rendering unnecessary the proposal for costly construction and maintenance of national store houses; (4) The increased growth of wheat would provide employment for farm laborers, millers, and stock farmers; and thus tend to stop the migration of the country population into the already overcrowded cities; and restore the land now wholly or partially out of cultivation to the use designed by Providence—viz., to bring forth food for the people."

Harlequin Cabbage Bug.

A Missouri experiment station bulletin says: Mr. G. W. Goodlett, of Windsor, sends a specimen of bugs that are eating his cabbage, melon vines and vegetables and asks what will kill them and that the reply be published. This black and orange spotted insect is attracting considerable attention in Missouri this fall. It is a well known southern pest measuring nearly one-half inch in length when full grown, and is very attractive in color. It feeds upon and destroys many common garden vegetables, principally cabbage and its allies, melons and their allies, many kinds of beans, and turnip, radish and mustard. The insect pierces by means of its long, slender mouthparts or beak the leaves and stems of its host plant and sucks their juices, thus causing them to wither and die. It begins its work just as soon as it hatches, and continues to eat and do injury even in the adult stage. There are several broods each year, and the adults hibernate over winter in sheltered places and under rubbish of all kinds. Clean farming and the burning up of all leaves, weeds, etc., will tend to lessen the number of these insects. If the first broods each year be killed, the few that always escape destruction will cause no trouble. Usually, however, the insect does not occur in sufficient numbers to attract serious attention until the middle of August. The harlequin cabbage (Murgantia histrionica) bug can be killed by the use of hot water, pyrethrin, or kerosene emulsion. Hot water sprinkled on the plants will kill the insect when not hot enough to injure the plant, and is an excellent remedy for this pest when on cabbage that is headed or nearly headed. Kerosene emulsion will taint the leaves of the head and should, therefore, not be used after the plant is well headed. It can, however, be used on most garden plants to destroy this insect and is the best remedy when there is no danger of tainting the parts to be eaten. Pyrethrin can be successfully employed either as a dry powder or as a spray. When used dry it should be mixed with from five to eight times its weight of flour. As a spray it should be well stirred in water in the proportion of one pound of pyrethrin to fifteen to twenty gallons of water. The pyrethrin should be fresh and pure to be of any service.

Protecting Vegetables.

Severe frosts are sometimes experienced about the middle of September, and if several kinds of vegetables are not greatly damaged then they frequently remain in a productive or serviceable state for several weeks afterwards, says Farmer and Stockbreeder of London. Runner beans are among the first to suffer, and at least one long row, or a few short ones, ought to be roughly protected as often as need be either with branches of evergreens, mats, blinds, or strips of scrim canvas. The stopped rows, grown market growers' fashion, lend themselves the most readily to protective measures, as it is a comparatively simple matter to fix a single running wire on series of stakes on them, mats thrown lengthways over effectually protecting the beans. Late rows or breadths of dwarf or kidney beans should be similarly treated, and will most probably pay well for the trouble taken with them. Tall peas will stand a moderately severe frost, or more than those close to the ground, and good results sometimes attend the practice of covering the latter whenever severe frosts are anticipated. Vegetable-marrows, in many instances, are only just becoming really productive. A few plants might, with advantage, be protected with frames and lights or with benders and mats. Since the soaking rains have fallen globe artichokes have recommenced active growth, and numerous flower heads are just showing. Protect these either with a framework of stakes and mats, or stakes fixed over them and matted round gipsy-tent fashion, and in all probability several good dishes of this high-class vegetable will be the outcome. It is yet full early to move lettuce and endive to frames, and only fully grown plants of the latter need protection as yet. Cauliflowers will also be tolerably safe for a few weeks longer, but the precaution should be taken to keep the advanced and advancing hearts protected with old leaves tucked over them, these serving to protect and to blanch.

Tape-Worm in Sheep.

The tape worm is a veritable pest of the flock, and thousands of sheep pine and die because of it, without the shepherd knowing anything of the cause, says Sheep Breeder. And that species, which has its home for a part of its life in the sheep's brain, would not exist a single year were it not for the dog, which, feeding on the sheep that die from the disease caused by this worm, takes these immature worms into his stomach, where they mature into long, flat, unpleasant things, made of sections, in each of which are more than a thousand eggs, one only of which escaping will be the parent of thousands more and may infect a hundred sheep in a flock. The remedy is a very simple one, although a curious one; it is to see that the dog is so treated as to kill whatever worms he may have about himself by giving him, occasionally, a dose of thirty or forty grains of powdered areca nut in some lard, which will be easily swallowed, and followed by a tablespoonful of castor oil twice a day for two or three days. It is desirable to keep the dog confined to see that the worms are discharged. This is a more important matter to the shepherd than might seem, for there are several kinds of these worms infecting the sheep, some occupying the bowels, some the liver and others other organs, besides those of the brain.

Celery Blight.—Celery blight is encouraged by leaving refuse celery on the ground to harbor the germs of the disease. The blight appears in the form of small, yellowish-green spots, that grow larger and darker, withering the leaves and causing the plants to die. It is not easy to kill the disease, but it may be prevented from spreading by the application of a weak Bordeaux mixture, the application of which must be discontinued fifteen or twenty days before blanching.

Proper Brush and How to Use It.

"Thorough cleansing is the only thing that will save the teeth of the present generation," said a prominent dentist not long ago.

He then went on to explain the proper brush to be used and the direction in which the teeth should be brushed. The brush he produced sloped almost to a point at the end. This is intended to reach back to the molars. The bristles were stiff, without being hard, and were unevenly cut into a slightly concave surface.

"Now," he said, holding the brush in his hand, "the most astonishing thing is most people brush their teeth across, whereas they should brush them up and down, the length of the teeth. The up-stroke," he went on, "should be light, and the down-stroke heavy to bring the particles of food out from between the teeth."

Subsequently he explained that a silk thread waxed should be used between the teeth which have spaces between them.

In the matter of dentifrice and powders, there are many kinds, good and harmless. The greatest care should be taken to rinse the mouth thoroughly after using any powder or lotion.

Soda, one dentist said, used once or twice a week, is an excellent thing for removing the tartar from the teeth.

Passing the tongue rapidly over the teeth as a sort of polisher after they have been cleansed was advised by one dentist.

Adulterated Seeds.

The year-book of the department of agriculture for 1894 has this to say of the adulteration of farm and garden seeds:

As illustrating the possibility of the introduction of foreign weeds through seed, it might be stated that of the common garden and forage plants, such as alfalfa, beet, borage, broccoli, Brussels sprouts, cauliflower, chicory, cress, endive, kohlrabi, radish, salsify, spinach, and turnip, the seeds are grown abroad, as are also the seeds of many of our grasses, such as crested dog's tail, sheep's fescue, meadow foxtail, perennial rye grass and sweet vernal grass. Of the following vegetables about one-half of the seeds are imported: Carrot, eggplant, leek, onion, parsley, parsnip and pepper. In the following cases a large portion, though perhaps not one-half, of the seeds are foreign grown: Cabbage, celery, chervil, kale and lettuce.

Of course, the same cause operates within the limits of this country, foreign plants, when once introduced, being disseminated in impure seed. Thus the prickly lettuce is spread in clover seed, and the Russian thistle to some extent in oats, flax and alfalfa. Our native weeds are distributed to a greater or less extent in the same manner.

Young Trees Are Best.

The question is often asked: "Will not the continued planting of peach trees ruin the business?" Experts say no. There are, says Central States Fruit Grower, natural limitations on the industry that will prevent this. They are the extreme winters, frosts, yellows, lack of cultivation, failure to thin fruit, by which the tree overproduces, poor fruit, and last, a fact not sufficiently known, viz: that the profitable crops are the first seven. It is better after a tree has borne seven annual crops to remove it, as a business investment, putting a new tree in its place rather than allow it to occupy the ground or plant a tree in some other place and use this ground for other things. A good many growers will agree with this statement, but the best fruit is from young trees, and the best gets the money. It is not disputed that the trees will continue to bear after the first seven years, and many times with profit, but if you are in business for gain year in and year out, the above holds good.

American Clydesdale Association.

Janesville, Wis., Oct. 30, 1896.

To the Stockholders of the American Clydesdale Association:

The eighteenth annual meeting of the American Clydesdale Association will be held at the Sherman house, Chicago, Wednesday, November 13, 1896, at 8 p. m. Business: Secretary and treasurer's annual reports; bi-annual election of officers, and such other business as may properly come before the association. It is important that the utmost interest be manifested at the present time by all engaged in the breeding of Clydesdales, and a full attendance of members at this meeting is most earnestly requested. The executive committee trust you may find it convenient to be present, but should you find it impossible to attend, kindly sign and forward the enclosed proxy blank, either to the secretary or some other officer or member, who will be present, giving full instructions as to your wishes in voting. Alex. Galbraith, Secretary.

Clean out the hen house often. The health of the poultry requires it. Money put into a comfortable poultry house is well invested.

Fix the nests so the hens cannot roost on them at night.

Give the family the best the poultry yard produces.

Do not let the birds suffer from cold.

NEWS OF ILLINOIS.

RECORD OF MINOR DOINGS OF THE WEEK.

Seven Days' Happenings Condensed—Social, Religious, Political, Criminal, Obituary and Miscellaneous Events from Every Section of the State.

Over nine hundred pupils in the Joliet schools are without text books. They will be supplied by the school board.

Professor Holden of Champaign university, is experimenting with a machine which picks up and weighs an entire shock of corn.

Carlyle telegram: Mrs. Sarah McLaren, a pioneer of Clinton county died last week at her home in Keyesport. She was 84 years old.

Samuel Erickson, a well-known Chicago politician, will be married on Wednesday, Nov. 25, to Miss Mary Noling, daughter of L. M. Noling, the member of the assembly from Rockford.

Grace church in Pontiac now has a boy choir of eight voices, and they make excellent music. The choir is under the direction of Mr. George R. Parker, and is a fine addition to the regular services.

Rev. Solomon F. Denning, one of the oldest Methodist preachers in this state, is dead. His wife was buried Sunday, and he said he would not long survive. Mr. Denning joined the Rock River conference in 1842, two years after it was organized, and for 54 years has been present at every annual session. He was recording secretary of the conference from 1847 to 1892.

The Lincoln (Ill.) Courier says: "Lester A. Rose and son Henry arrived in Lincoln Thursday from Peoria. He made the trip overland, driving his trotting horse 'Kid.' Mr. Rose's household goods preceded him and were moved into the Elliott homestead. Mrs. Elliott and Mrs. Rose may be here soon and make Lincoln their future home. Mr. Rose may become connected with one of Lincoln's newspapers."

Recently when Miss Hattie Havermale of Canton was visiting near Corinth, Miss. she visited the old Shiloh battlefield, and while there secured a bottle of water from the historic Shiloh spring, which many a soldier remembers with fond recollection. Bringing it home she presented it to Joe Hooker post. The same was accepted with thanks by the post at its last meeting and placed in the cabinet of relics.

Congressman R. R. Hitt, chairman of the house committee on foreign affairs, in an interview said that the business of greatest importance that would likely come up at the approaching session of congress would be a revenue law. There will be an earnest effort made to pass the Dingley law, he added, which is more essentially a revenue than a protection measure, and would increase the government's income by over $40,000,000 almost immediately.

When McKinley's election became a certainty quite a number of the prominent ladies of Dongola, Union county, dressed in rags and paraded the streets, bearing a banner which read: "This is what we are coming to." The unusual sight caused a great sensation in the village. Union county is known as a hotbed of democracy. The feeling during the late campaign became very bitter, even the women and children entering into the same spirit that animated their husbands and fathers.

Hon. A. J. Lovejoy of Roscoe, president of the Winnebago County Farmers' institute, is considering plans to recommend to the directors for the coming meeting. He believes that it will be to the advantage of Rockford to supplement the slender institute fund by a fund for prizes to make an exhibit, a winter fair, as it were; and that the opportunity is one which might be turned to even greater account than in past years, although Winnebago county, as it is, is having one of the best institutes in the state. He calls the attention of the citizens of Rockford to the matter, and also of all who are interested in the work of the institute. The consideration of topics for discussion at that meeting is already entered on.

Twice spared within the space of a minute, W. E. Hall, 66 years old, a resident of the suburb of Ridgeland, was killed the other morning at 7:30 o'clock at the Lombard avenue station by an eastbound Northern Pacific train. Mr. Hall's residence was at 213 Harvey avenue, which is half a block from the station. Mr. Hall attempted to board the train, which was in motion, and missed his footing. He was hurled back and turned completely around, striking his shoulder against the side of the coach. A second time he was hurled out of harm's way, but he lost his equilibrium and was unable to prevent himself from again falling in the direction of the moving train. This time he fell between the cars and the station platform and received the injuries which resulted in his death. Mr. Hall was for years in the cotton business, but retired several years ago. He leaves a widow and seven children. The funeral arrangements have not been completed.

James Webster, formerly of Monticello, has been given charge of the business of the American Express company at Dallas, Tex.

Carlyle telegram: A democratic Bryan bimetallic club was organized in this city last week with 123 members for the campaign in 1900.

Moline telegram: Henry D. Kelsey, a resident of Moline since 1853, died, aged 74. He was at one time a prominent business man, but died in poverty and neglect, his wife having deserted him.

D. S. Myers of Livingston county, reports that his corn crop in Lee county is very fine this year. He and those interested with him have 3,500 acres, part of which will yield 80 bushels to the acre.

The enrollment at the Freeport industrial school is 145. They are trained first on overhand sewing and proceed until they can finish a garment. Many bright pupils are found in the classes, who soon advance to fancy and difficult sewing and secure positions at dressmaking. The children also learn darning stockings and making rugs. They are taught simple melodies so that music enters into their exercises.

In reply to the rumor that he would be a candidate for mayor of Chicago, or United States senator, Gov. Altgeld replied: "There is absolutely nothing in it. The mere idea of being candidate for United States senator is idiotic from the fact that the next legislature will be overwhelmingly republican on joint ballot. As for the mayoralty of Chicago, the same idea is equally ridiculous. I want no office within the gift of man."

In the wire mill at Sterling a schedule of prices has gone into effect under which the wages of experienced men have increased over 100 per cent. Heretofore each wire drawer got $1.50 per day, without regard to the labor performed. By the new scale the amounts earned by three experienced men on Friday, Saturday, and Monday has been respectively $10.63, $10.92 and $10.45. Three men who have had no previous experience earned $7.12, $9.09 and $6.18.

A week ago there arrived at Quincy from Toronto Junction, Ont., Miss Clara Johnson. She came to meet Harry P. Warwick who had advertised in a Chicago paper for a wife. He told her a story about being robbed of $600 in St. Joseph, Mo. He induced her to give what money she had to him. They were married at Palmyra, Mo., where the husband deserted her. Miss Johnson had to leave her jewelry as security for an unpaid hotel bill. The postmaster says that Warwick received letters under seven distinct aliases. It is believed he is one of a gang in the matrimonial business.

N. J. Killen, aged 31, of Polo and Mrs. Bertha Yoder Fitzer, aged 19, were united in marriage at the residence of the bride's father, Charles W. Yoder, Saturday evening. Judge John M. Turnbull officiated. About three years ago Miss Bertha Yoder was married to Fitzer, against the wish of her parents. He deserted her, and the young wife, thinking the husband dead, finally married her present husband, Mr. Killen. Some two years ago, when the widow-bride had only been married a short time the first husband re-appeared in Monmouth. The second husband left the city and a suit for divorce was entered against husband No. 1. The divorce was granted last week and husband and wife were reunited at once.

Some of the oldest settlers around Monmouth still remember an oath that was registered forty years ago by Mr. Hewitt, at that time a citizen of Henderson county. During the campaign between Fremont and Buchanan in 1856, when the republican party was in its infancy, Hewitt swore he would not touch scissors to his hair till Fremont, the republican nominee, was elected. As everyone knows, Buchanan was elected, and ever since, for almost half a century, Hewitt says he has kept his oath. This can well be believed from his appearance. His hair is white and he presents a unique appearance. His hair and beard are over a foot long, hanging down over his breast and shoulders. Mr. Hewitt now makes his home in Colorado, but he is now visiting in Monmouth.

Governor Altgeld issued the following Thanksgiving proclamation: "It is the custom that the governor set aside one day in each year to be devoted to Thanksgiving for the blessings of the past twelve months, and to meditation. The year just closing has been free from famine and pestilence, the fields have yielded with unusual abundance to the husbandman's toil, and it is fit that we should give thanks to Divine Providence for his bounty. Now, therefore, I do hereby proclaim Thursday, the 26th day of November, A. D. 1896, as a day of Thanksgiving, and I call upon all our good people to lay aside their usual avocations and devote the day to giving thanks for the manifold blessings bestowed upon them during the year. In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused to be affixed the great seal of state, this 9th day of November, A. D. 1896."

"JOHN P. ALTGELD, Governor."

SATURDAY, NOV. 21, 1896.

 The day following will remain a memorable one to the residents of Lake Zurich, and, by some at least, not to the credit of the village. As related to The Herald by an eye witness pandemonium reigned supreme. The fire attracted a great crowd, and the remaining saloon ran with open doors throughout Sunday, and nearly 500 drunken, brawling men paraded the streets, and fights were frequent, creating with a scene such as is seldom witnessed in a country village. —Waukegan Herald.

The "eye witness" of the Herald must have seen through several dozen eyes to have counted the "500 drunken, brawling men" that "paraded the streets." He undoubtedly was still suffering from the effects of too much "apple jack" and doughnuts. THE REVIEW, in order to ascertain the true facts in the case, interviewed the leading business men of Lake Zurich on the subject. Each and every one, after being shown the Herald's article, pronounced the story to be a most malicious and slanderous fabrication, which could only have originated in the brains (?) of some individual eager to be interviewed. There were not over 100 people all told on the streets at one time on "the day following." There are employed on the E. J. & E. railroad at Meyer's slough filling in a sinkhole, a force of laborers (mostly floating population) who, on the Saturday evening preceding the fire had bought a supply of liquor in bottles. During the fire some liquor was stolen from the stock saved from the burning saloon. There were a few cases of plain, common drunks among some of the men employed on the E. J. & E. road, and there were also one or two small altercations among these same men, but no blood was spilled. There was no "parading," and that an up-to-date paper as the Herald is should give credence to such a wild and imaginary fairy story is beyond our comprehension. The village of Lake Zurich has been done a great injustice, and the Herald should take advantage of the first opportunity to make the necessary correction.

Townships in Cities.

Mr. Birkhoff says that the Chicago real-estate brokers "will take up the matter of the abolition of township organization as soon as a general plan of action can be agreed to." Apparently, he means agreed to by the Chicago real-estate brokers, who seem to be, in the Birkhoff mind, the legislative power in Illinois.

But in one particular it seems that Mr. Birkhoff has modified somewhat his grand notions on this subject. He now believes, according to a newspaper statement, that "it will be better to try and secure a consolidation of the several townships within the boundaries of Chicago" and let the country townships alone.

In this modification of his abolition program Mr. Birkhoff betrays an acquisition of common sense since the failure of the fraudulent Kohlstaat-Birkhoff scheme to abolish the township system in Cook county and remit all the agricultural districts to the tender governing mercies of a city cabal.

As the Legal Adviser has repeatedly shown, township organization in cities is an official superfluity. It is more. It is an opportune invitation to the election of a lot of superfluous official rascals whose only function is the aggrandizement of themselves at the cost of taxpayers. It is a useless and mischievous incentive to "boodlism" that can not be too quickly expelled not only from Chicago but from every other city. But between the removal of superficial officialism from cities and the abolition of township government in the country districts there is an enormous difference. —Legal Adviser.

The board of supervisors of Lake county pay the night watchman at the county jail $1.22 a night for 12 hours' work. The committee on claims recommended the payment of only $1 a night. A motion to allow $1.50 a night was voted down.

How Others See Us.

The village dads at Barrington are having trouble in getting citizens to repair their sidewalks and keep the streets clean.—Nunda Herald.

That's a rather hard shot, but it is not so very far from the bull's eye of truth.

The McHenry Plaindealer says: "It is possible Fox lake will be cleared of the marsh grass and water weed that hurt it. Property owners have organized for a campaign and hired a man to cut the vegetation for three years, by which time it is hoped the growth will be killed."

A certain minister while preaching said that every blade of grass was a sermon. The next day he was amusing himself by mowing the lawn when a parishioner said: "That's right, doctor; cut your sermons short."

Libertyville is trying again for electric lights, this time with fair prospect of success. At the meeting of the village board an ordinance was passed granting a franchise to the Libertyville Electric Light and Power company, composed of Chas. F. Loring and Chas. A. Robinson, of Chicago, and Cassius Doolittle, of Rollins. Fifty thirty-two candle power incandescent lamps will be put up for street lighting, and it is expected that the majority of the business places in the village will have the lights put in.

The Lake county grand jury have finished their work for the November term of court and handed in their report, which is as follows: "We the grand jurors of the November term of court would respectfully report that we have visited the county jail and conversed with the prisoners, who say that they are well treated by the officers; and we found everything neat and clean; and we would emphatically repeat what the last grand jury recommended: that the windows of the jail are not properly protected so as to keep prisoners from receiving aid through them, as we find that saws have been found among the prisoners which undoubtedly were passed to them through the windows. We would therefore suggest that whoever are the proper persons to attend to it should be instructed to have them properly protected at once."

French and Spanish editors insist that "the pride and honor of Spain" will never permit her to let the Cuban rebels go. But the pride and honor of Spain have permitted her to give up one by one all the republics of Central and South America and Mexico. She did it because she could not help herself. If she was able to grin and bear the blotting out of her claims to nearly all North and South America, the loss of a mere island like Cuba ought not to keep her awake nights.

New York will have to haul down her flag as the largest city of the western hemisphere, if reports of recent discoveries are to be relied on. A city larger than New York is said to have been found. It is under ground, among the mountains of the state of Guerrero, Mexico.

Accepting British gold does not bear the odium in this country that it did in Revolutionary times. During the past two months no less than $50,000,000 of it have been shipped to the United States, and nobody blames anybody in the least for taking it.

Specimen of journalistic English from a recent news dispatch: "Henry Ramm attacked his wife and a party of ladies who were going to a church with a revolver." It must be a very bad city indeed where a lady has to go to church with a revolver.

"We lived the worst kind of a life, worse than married life," wrote a Philadelphia man and then killed himself in a graveyard. This we consider a very serious reflection on matrimony.

Wednesday afternoon witnessed the payment of two freak election bets in our village. The losers were Seth Turner and Gus Morton, at one time firm believers in Bryan's election. So confident were they of the success of the "16 to 1" champion that they bet a wheelbarrow ride with Harry Fuller and Gil Fitch, staunch adherents of "sound money, protection and prosperity." Shortly after 2 o'clock Turner and Morton arrived at the barber shop and were dressed in garments suitable for the occasion. Mr. Turner was fitted out with a clown suit and looked every inch the hero of the circus ring, while Mr. Morton was transformed into a gentleman closely resembling Uncle Sam. He was the exact double of Uncle Sam with the exception that Morton's mustache should have been a goatee. The martial band was called upon to head the parade and then the signal was given to commence the march. Morton, wheeling Fitch, was immediately behind the band, while Turner and Fuller brought up the rear. The ride was from the Lakeside hotel to the liberty pole and return, and was made amid the tooting and yelling of our interested citizens. Fitch, not being accustomed to riding in a wheelbarrow, at first had hard work in keeping his seat. The event caused much merriment.

CARD OF THANKS.—I extend many thanks to those who have given me a helping hand to save my home from the fire Sunday morning.

J. C. MEYER.

THE FIRE.

At about 2:30 o'clock Sunday morning our quiet village was visited by a most disastrous blaze, one that at one time threatened to raze every building on Main street.

When first discovered the fire was confined to a building in the rear of Henry Branding's saloon, and in a few minutes the bucket brigade was doing excellent battle, but owing to the fact that the buildings were old frame structures and closely built together little headway was made, and the efforts of the volunteer firemen were directed towards saving the contents of the buildings and protecting the Meyer home and Henry Seip's general store, and in this their labors were crowned with success.

The origin of the fire is unknown, but is believed to have been incendiary.

The loss will amount to $5,650, with only $1,300 insurance. The loss is as follows:

Mrs. J. Meyer, wagon shop and barn, $800; contents, $250.00. No insurance.

Wm. Hillman estate, saloon building, $800.00. Insurance, $300.00.

Henry Hillman, residence and meat market, $1,000. Insurance, $500.00.

Henry Seip, barn, $800.00; contents, $100.00. Insurance, $500.00.

Henry Seip, implement building, $200.00; contents composed of a lot of self-binders owned by the McCormick Harvesting Machine Co., value $600.00. No insurance.

Henry Branding, saloon stock and fixtures, $800.00. No insurance.

J. C. Hans, meats, etc., $100.00. No insurance.

H. Hapke, household furniture, $100.00. No insurance.

Mrs. Meyer, damage to household furniture $100.00. No insurance.

The Hillman's will rebuild a large frame building at once. Mrs. Meyer will probably only erect a temporary structure at present, but next spring will in all probability put up a brick structure.

Too much credit cannot be given to our local bucket brigade, and we rival all other towns if it comes to the point of putting out a fire without the use of an engine. Why? Because we work. Zurich is a town that is bound to prosper, and we envy none at all.

The Bible Society Meeting.

"Our Mission in India."

One of the best treats offered by any church society this season was the lecture entitled "Our Mission in India," delivered in the St. Paul's church by Rev. Julius Kircher of Chicago Wednesday evening.

Rev. Kircher first showed views of the Saviour, Jesus Christ, and then illustrated some historical bible facts. Next he took his audience by a scene of an ocean palace across the deep waters to India, the subject of the lecture.

His views of India scenes comprised a beautiful valley, a monument of a princess, Indian temple, village, a housewife cleaning house, lady paying a visit, a family of the middle classes, native belles, rice grinding, brickyard, native washerman, rice fields, market wagon, the holy river, man carrying water, priests, idol and priests, revenging "Goddess," native circus people, religious fanatics, leprosy, church mission station, photographs of Missionary Lohr, wife and their son and family, mission hospital, a village street, Rev. Lohr's assistants and their wives, a group of young printers, ladies in holiday attire, school boys and class of girls, sewing school, cemetery, funeral procession, mission road-wagon, chapel, Niagara Falls, Canal, the different appearance of New Zealand cannibals after they are converted, "Christ

Before the Door," "The Peace Angel," "Rock of Ages," etc.

The gentleman is a fluent and interesting talker, and his views were excellent.

Otto Solt is home on a vacation.

There will be an early "sunrise prayer meeting" held at the M. E. church Thursday morning at 6:30. All are invited.

DISSOLUTION NOTICE.—Notice is hereby given that the partnership heretofore existing between Julius Carmel and Charles Lipofsky under the firm name of Carmel & Lipofsky has this day been dissolved by mutual agreement, and all accounts due the firm are hereby transferred to Charles Lipofsky.
