No Tax Levy for 1897—Road Investigation Committee Report.

The best thing that our city dads have accomplished in a long time was that of not making a tax levy for 1897, consequently no village tax will be collected. This act of our Village Board, although not a good move in a business way, will be heartily appreciated by the heavy tax payers.

The following bills were read and allowed:

Lageschulte & Co., tile, $25.20.
A. S. Henderson, salary, 45.00.
H. A. Sandman, salary and labor, 36.00.
M. C. McIntosh, treasurer of the junketing trip, $15.21.
August Haack, labor, $7.50.
Charles Horn, labor, $48.60.
Christ Hartz, labor, $10.20.
Charles Fletcher, labor, $4.20.
Steve Palmer, labor, $24.90.
J. Palmer, labor, $10.20.
Charles Witt, labor, $10.20.
Jas. Sizer, labor, $2.25.
Fred Wiseman, gravel $3.28.

A bill from L. Krahn for $20 for painting street signs was also presented, but was laid over until next month for the reason that several aldermen made complaint that on one or two signs the name of the street was not spelled properly.

The report of the junketing committee was read and accepted and the committee discharged. The report is an exhaustive document and was as follows:

To the Honorable President and Board of Trustees, of the Village of Barrington:—

Your Committee on Street Improvement have to report that on Friday, May 7th, 1897, they visited the Gates Iron Works by appointment with the President, P. W. Gates, and inspected several varieties of stone crushers, and after seeing it in operation, recommend the 20th Century Portable Crusher, which can be furnished the Village complete with trucks for moving F. O. B. Chicago for $485.00. This crusher has a capacity of 50 to 60 cubic yards per ten hours, and is run by traction engine of 10- to 15- horse power. The same machine can be operated with a less expenditure of horse power by feeding the rock more slowly. They also report as necessary adjuncts, a sieve or screen for separating the different grades of stone and a roller for compressing and compacting the road bed. A 7-foot revolving screen punched to separate the three grades of material at one handling will cost $153; and a roller of five tons or more can be purchased for $75 per ton, or $375 for a 5-ton roller with load platform on which can be stowed one or two tons of rock to give it additional weight.

Your committee inspected the roads at Berwyn, La Vergne and Riverside, as instructed. At Berwyn we found good roads built on the Telford system, and which we find will be necessary wherever there will be heavy travel on the roads. This road was built by excavating the street between curb lines for a depth of one foot, leaving a crown of five inches in the center of a 35-foot roadway. On the earth thus prepared is placed a course of limestone rubble, no stone to be larger than 15 inches in length by 4 inches in width and 9 inches in height. The broadest edge of this stone is laid down next the earth. Between the points which would then stick up is filled in a chinking of smaller rubble. The whole is then rolled, and whatever points protrude more than one inch above the regular surface are broken off with a napping hammer and used for further chinking, the road being rolled thoroughly. On this eight or nine inches of coarse stone rubble is put two inches of finer stone, which would screen through two and one-half inch openings in a revolving screen. This course is thoroughly wet down and rolled. On top of this is put about one inch of still finer stone which would screen through one inch openings in a revolving screen. This is also wet down and rolled. Then over the crown of the road is put an inch of fine top dressing about the size of a hazelnut. This is also wet down and rolled. The wetting of this course spreads it over the entire roadway, but leaves it thickest in the crown of the road. Where stone coping is used for curbing the side of the road only a slight reverse curve is made for a gutter. Where a wood curbing or no curbing at all is used, a cobble stone paved gutter is laid, or a concrete and cement gutter may be built. For all ordinary purposes the cobble stone gutter is sufficient. These roads were built in a flat, marshy prairie, without raising above the grade of the surrounding prairie in the least, and at Berwyn have stood severe use for four years without a sign of rut and no more wear than a slight addition to the top dressing would make good as new.

At La Vergne and the township roads outside of Riverside your committee found ordinary macadam road. That is, a road bed twenty-two feet wide has been cut down about seven inches below the surrounding earth with a crown in the middle of five inches, the same as the wider roads. On this is placed six inches of coarse broken stone such as would be rejected by the screen that your committee recommends, i. e. would pass over all the holes in the screen. This is thoroughly rolled. On top of this is placed one inch of the next grade finer, of crushed stone, which is also rolled down. Along the center for a width of about seven feet is placed a 1-inch layer of the finest broken stone, which is thoroughly rolled down, and rolled repeatedly after heavy rains. These roads are graded with broken stone about eighteen feet in width, with a cobble stone gutter on each side, very slightly below the surface of the broken stone road.

In the oldest portion of Riverside your committee found roads built on what was termed the Cornish road system thirty years ago, and which is nearly the same as the Telford road described, which are in perfect condition today, with the exception of a necessary top dressing of fine crushed stone which they have not had since they were built. The only attention these roads have received in thirty years being the annual hoeing out of the cobble stone gutters. Your committee found these roads to be in a rolling country, and that there were no grades, cuts nor fills, but had followed the natural surface of the country. At all of these places the space between the lot line and the curb or gutter was graded off and sodded, adding thereby greatly to the beauty of the town and the value of the property abutting.

At no place did we find the sidewalks following the grade of the street where it would have otherwise been necessary to cut down that portion of the street in an unsightly manner. The roadways were all filled from lot line to lot line in such hollows or low places as required filling, and the abutting lots were sloped off from the road level, thereby avoiding damage thereto.

Your committee have to report expenditures and expenses chargeable to the Village, including the per diem of two members, amounting to $15.21, for which amount they respectfully ask an order may be drawn on the Village Treasurer payable to the order of M. C. McIntosh.

Respectfully submitted.

JOHN ROBERTSON,
J. H. HATJE,
JOHN COLLEN,
M. C. MCINTOSH.

A representative of the Lake Shore Sand Company of Cary was present, and gave the Board figures on good roads. Collen and Hatje informed their brethren that they had been at Cary the day before and inspected the gravel and in their opinion it would make excellent roads.

President Boehmer said he would like to see the Board get two blocks in the main part of town put in good condition. Hatje and Collen had made up their mind to try this new kind of road-making on Limits street between Hawley and Cemetery. This was objected to by Alderman Grunau, who wanted the streets in the center of town fixed up first before they tackled the outskirts. This riled Hatje up, and he said that they had already one suit on hand, and he did not care to harm the property of more citizens, giving them a chance to bring suits against the village. He said he was there to protect the rights of citizens, and not for the purpose of injuring their property.

John Collen finally made a motion to gravel S. Limits street from Hawley to Cemetery; but his motion not receiving a second it was lost. The cost was placed at about $1500 for the 80 rods of road.

Collen made another motion but this was also lost. The Lake Shore Sand Company agreed to send up their engineer to give the Board an estimate on the exact cost, but the proposition was not acted on.

Justice Castle asked permission to use the village hall for court business, as did also Police Magistrate McIntosh and John C. Plagge as supervisor for the Town of Barrington and also as an officer of the Barrington Detective and Protective association. The requests of these gentlemen were granted.

John C. Plagge informed the Board that the original plat of the village showed the number of two of his lots reversed. He said he would like the Board to change their map to conform with the original plat. This was agreed to.

J. E. Heise asked permission to lay drain tile down to the village limits from their creamery. This riled up John Collen, who was not in favor of giving the creamery men their permission to get rid of their waste. Trustee Collen even went so far as to declare himself in favor of declaring the creamery a nuisance within the village limits. One word brought on another, and finally Grunau made a motion, which was seconded by Willmarth, that Heise be given permission to lay tile to the village limits, which was carried. Next, sidewalks received attention, and were given a thorough overhauling. Fred Brandt and Chas. Hennings were said to need new walks. Hatje said he was sick of the sidewalk question. He was in favor of making an example of some of them. It was decided to instruct the street commission to notify the clerk of every property owner who needed new walks, and the clerk was to serve written notices. If the property owners do not comply with these notices, the street commission is to build the walks and the cost thereof is to be assessed to the property.

The electric light question was also brought up but was laid on the table for another month.

The board of Village Treasurer, A. L. Robertson for $5000, with John Robertson and John Plagge as sureties, was approved.

The clerk requested that the Board buy a safe wherein to store the papers and books of the village. He was appointed a committee to look up prices and report at next meeting.

The road question was finally decided by empowering the street committee to purchase gravel from the Lake Shore Sand Company of Cary, and gravel the S. Limits street from Hough to Cemetery Street.

Altogether the meeting was the longest on record for years, and if you take it all in all, but little was accomplished. In fact, so long did they stay that it took considerable persuasion to wake up several members a number of times. The proceedings were highly enjoyed by a large and select audience of citizens.

DOING GOOD WORK.

RAPID PROGRESS ON THE TARIFF BILL.

Various Schedules Taken Up and Acted Upon by the Senate—Proposed Tariff on Lumber Calls Forth Opposition from Democrats.

Thursday June

Thursday, June 3.—The senate again made good progress on the tariff bill, covering about ten pages of the metal schedule, and almost completing it. The formal contest against the measure was maintained, but all amendments tending to change the bill as reported were voted down and the finance committee sustained. Mr. Tillman (dem., S. C.) made a motion to take the investigation of the sugar scandal out of the hands of the committee and put it to a direct vote. So much opposition developed that Mr. Tillman withdrew the motion. Mr. Jones (dem., Ark.) and Mr. Turpie (dem., Ind.) made speeches denouncing the proposed high tariff.

DR. GEORGE M. STERNBERG, NEW PRESIDENT MEDICAL ASSOCIATION.

Dr. George M. Sternberg, just elected president of the American Medical Association, is one of the most widely known physicians in the country. He is now approaching his sixty-first year, and it is not too much to say that every seasoned physician in the United States has either met him or heard of him. Dr. Sternberg has no lack of experience as a physician. He was graduated as an M. D. as long ago as 1860 from that ancient and honorable body, the College of Physicians and Surgeons of New York, and before he had time to see the world he found himself a surgeon in the United States army. His first experience was with the Army of the Potomac, but he was captured by the confederates at Bull Run. He escaped and went to Washington. Thence the authorities sent

UNITED BRETHREN CHURCH.

Quadrennial Conference Transacts Business at Dublin, Ind.

The general conference of the United Brethren church elected officers Friday. The Rev. H. A. Kiracof, who retires as editor of the Conservator, will be president of the new college at Huntington, Ind.

At Saturday's session of the United Brethren general conference, Rev. Mr. Barclay of Oregon was appointed pastoral delegate to the meeting of the National Christian Association at Chicago in May.

Must Pay for Bonds.

The Kansas State Supreme Court has rendered a decision that affects holders of millions of dollars' worth of western Kansas bonds. Several years ago Garfield county issued a block of bonds and afterward repudiated them because the county was illegally organized. Since that time the county has become legally organized, and the Supreme Court orders the township to pay the debt. Millions of dollars' worth of western Kansas bonds thought to be worthless are rendered collectable by this decision.

him to Florida, and the doctor made his first and most intimate acquaintance with yellow fever. Since that time he has been an authority on that disease. In 1879 he was sent to Havana by the United States as a member of the commission on yellow fever, and in 1885 he attended the international convention on sanitation, held at Rome, as the representative of the United States. Dr. Sternberg has rendered vast aid to science with the results of his researches in the matter of microscopic investigation, and his additions to the literature of bacteriology have been most welcome to his conferees in Europe and America. The doctor's present rank is that of surgeon general of the United States army.

Friday, June 4.

The senate had a period of speech-making, and as a result little progress was made on the tariff bill. The advance covered about two pages, or seven paragraphs, and brought the senate up to the wood schedule, the first item of which was considered, but not completed. Mr. Mantle (Mont.) spoke for two hours on the wood schedule, urging increased rates for the wool-grower, and Mr. Butler (N. C.) made a plea in behalf of the income tax.

The president signed the sundry civil bill, which suspends the proclamation of President Cleveland dated February 22 last, under which 21,000,000 acres were set aside from the public domain as forestry reservations until the first of next March.

Saturday, June 5.

The sugar schedule was taken up in the senate, but no decision was reached. The proposed tariff on lumber caused the most heated debate that has yet taken place, Democratic senators making a strong protest and Republicans defending the schedules. Little progress was made on the bill.

Monday, June 7.

The senate disposed of the lumber paragraph of the tariff bill by defeating the motion of Senator Vest to place white pine on the free list—yeas, 20; nays, 38. Following this a vote to substitute the Wilson lumber schedule was defeated—17 to 37—and the schedule was agreed to as reported. After some unimportant business the house adjourned till Thursday.

ILLINOIS LEGISLATURE

REPORTED BY A SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.

The senate passed its tax levy bill and sent the house tax levy bill to third reading. The latter provides for raising $300,000 more in 1897 than does the senate measure, and the matter may go into conference. The following house bills were passed: Fixing the salary of the warden of the Joliet penitentiary at $4,000 per annum. Appropriating $37,000 for the ordinary expenses of the industrial home for the blind at Chicago. Fixing the term of circuit courts under the new judicial apportionment.

The following senate apportionment bills were passed by the house: Normal University, Normal, $44,506; Illinois Dairymen's Association, $2,000; Illinois Horticultural Society, $3,000; chemical survey of Illinois' waters, $10,000; members next general assembly and salaries state officials, $892,000; Soldiers' Widows' home, $46,000; northern state normal school, $75,000; eastern state normal school, $75,000; ordinary expenses state charitable institutions, $2,633,000; deficiency office bureau of labor statistics, $3,350; repairs and improvements state charitable institutions, $133,500; equipment of laboratory, museum and gymnasium building at Carbondale university, $10,450; state laboratory natural history, $22,000.

Messrs. Needles, Cochran, Guffin, Funk, Morris, Shanshan and Stoskopf were appointed house members of the joint conference committee on all appropriations. The senate bill to establish a state board of library commissioners to promote the efficiency of libraries was killed by having the enacting clause stricken out. The following important senate bills were advanced to third reading: Mr. Crawford's jury commission bill; made a special order for tomorrow. Mr. Munroe's in relation to the sentence and parole of prisoners. Mr. Lunding providing that the insurance superintendent may publish the annual statement of companies in weekly instead of daily papers, if he sees fit.

By a vote of 54 to 50 the house passed the libel law repeal bill. In its amended form it simply repeals the libel law of 1895. It was passed without debate. It now goes back to the senate for concurrence in the house amendment.

June 3.
In the senate today the committee amendment to the house bill cutting down the appropriation of $75,000 to $10,000 for building an armory at Chicago for the Illinois National Guard was strongly objected to by Mr. Humphrey. He asserted that the armory was a necessity, as the people had to be protected by the militia, and the militia might need the armory before the next two years, and $10,000 was not a sufficient sum for its erection. Mr. Templeton, however, moved to concur in the amendment, and it was adopted by a vote of 30 to 15.

The following house bills were passed: Mr. Avery's, known as the scientific temperance bill, was passed. Revising the military and naval code of Illinois. Providing that the warehouses in East St. Louis shall be placed under the control of the railroad and warehouse commission. Providing that the election commissioners of Cook county shall deputize five clerks to administer the oath to judges of election. Providing that an inexperienced miner cannot work alone in a mine until after he has worked with an experienced miner two years. Providing that a wife may testify against her husband in case of a prosecution for abandonment. Providing that coal mines employing five or less employes shall not be inspected under the laws of the state. To fix the standard of analysis of pure milk.

In the house the senate bill for the establishment in the public schools of classes for the education of the deaf was advanced to third reading. Senate appropriation bills carrying $47,000 for the Southern Normal University at Carbondale, $200,000 for the ordinary expenses of the state government, $96,500 for a new cell-house at the Pontiac reformatory, and $444,750 for the two years for the reformatory's expenses, were passed. Resolutions were adopted memorializing congress to establish a deep waterway from Lockport to the Mississippi river and allowing the Illinois and Michigan canal commissioners to make desired changes in the course of the canal through Joliet in order to accommodate the works of the Chicago sanitary district. Senator Munroe's bill providing that the boards of pardons may parole prisoners was passed, as was his bill to amend the state banking act. The latter provides that where a bank loans to exceed 10 per cent of its capital stock to one person, such borrower cannot set up this fact as a defense in an action to recover the loan. The bill will be submitted to the vote of the people. The senate bill providing that the judges of election shall return the ballots in canvas, instead of paper bags, was also passed. Mr. Sullivan tried to get up the anti-department store bill on third reading, which was a special order for today, but he was unsuccessful, and the bill will come up on its passage tomorrow. The jury commission bill was sent to the governor for his signature, as was the bill reducing the width of public highways from sixty to forty feet upon consent of the property owners and the board of highway commissioners. Several senate bills were advanced to third reading, the most important being the bills to license plumbers and increasing the salaries of the election commissioners in Cook county to $2,500 per annum and the chief clerk to $4,000 per annum.

The senate voted its consent to the following house bills:

Mr. Buckner's, appropriating $10,000 for payment of the expenses of forming a parade ground and erecting an armory for the Illinois National Guard stationed in Chicago. Mr. Anderson's, to regulate the number of extra policemen and janitors to be employed by the secretary of state during the sessions of the general assembly. Mr. King's, to license shanty boats and other water craft. Mr. Novak's, to compel the using of blowers upon metal polishing machinery. By Mr. Murray of Stark, to exempt from garnishment the proceeds from the sale of exempt property. Mr. Shanahan's, to prohibit long-continued and brutal bicycle racing. By Mr. Murray of Stark, providing that trustees may release a mortgage on the margin of the record. Mr. Buckner's, amending the civil rights law so as to include passenger elevators, bathrooms, concert halls, street cars, etc. Mr. Avery's, authorizing towns of 5,000 inhabitants or over to establish and maintain free public libraries and reading-rooms.

Mr. Cochran's bill, providing that appeals in chancery may be taken up on writ of error without a copy of the entire record, failed to pass by a vote of 19 yeas to 22 nays. The senate adopted the report of the conference committee on the following senate appropriation bills:

The omnibus appropriation of $1,200,000. Appropriating $54,000 for the ordinary expenses of the Soldiers and Widows' Home at Wilmington. Appropriating $1,000,000 for the payment of the officers, members and employes of the next general assembly and the officers of the state government. Appropriating $23,000 to furnish the new library, museum and laboratory at the Southern Illinois Normal University at Carbondale. Appropriating $40,000 for the ordinary expenses of the Industrial Home for the Blind at Chicago.

Senator McKinley (democrat) offered a resolution, which was adopted, thanking Lieutenant Governor Northcott for the excellent manner in which he had presided over the senate and reciting the fact that not one of his decisions had been appealed from.

Additional house bills were passed as follows:

Mr. Nichols', to prohibit the sale of cocaine except on physician's prescription. Mr. Wiedmaier's, to prohibit false and sensational advertising in newspapers and otherwise. Mr. Ely's, to punish persons for removing waste, lubricating, packing or other material from the journal boxes of engines, tenders or cars without authority. Mr. Lathrop's, to authorize the adoption and use of voting machines. By Mr. Murray of Sangamon, changing the publication notice in chancery cases from forty to thirty days.

Conference committee reports were adopted on the following bills:

Appropriating $307,000 for the ordinary expenses of the incurable insane at Peoria. Appropriating $200 for each county farmers' institute. Appropriating $71,500 for the erection of buildings and the improvement of the state fair grounds at Springfield.

The senate receded from its action in nonconcurring in the house amendment to the bill revising the military code, which divested the governor of the power to retire commissioned officers. Senator Templeton then offered a conference report on the appropriation for the University of Illinois, and stated that it was the last conference report on appropriation bills for the fortieth general assembly. The report was adopted. The bill carries an appropriation of $400,000. Resolutions of thanks to Clerk Paddock and his assistants, to President Pro Tempore Fisher, to Chaplain Goodspeed, and to the sergeant-at-arms and his assistants were adopted. When the senate reconvened at 2:30 Senator Munroe reported that the governor had nothing further to report. He then called up the joint resolution offered by the governor providing for an amendment to the constitution to be submitted to the vote of the people, authorizing the legislature to enact laws to settle differences arising between labor and capital. The resolution was lost by a vote of 24 yeas to 17 nays. The senate refused to concur in the house amendment to Senator Case's garnishment law, excepting $8 per week from garnishment. Senator Granger, however, moved to reconsider the vote, and the motion prevailed. After considerable discussion the amendment was then concurred in by a vote of 28 yeas to 8 nays.

During the closing session of the house the following senate bills were passed:

Prohibiting the employment of child labor. Regulating and licensing the practice of osteopathy and declaring it not to be the practice of medicine within the meaning of the act to regulate the practice of medicine. Enabling the construction by incorporated companies of levees and tunnels for agricultural and mining and sanitary purposes. Empowering the fire inspector of Chicago to examine witnesses to ascertain the cause of fires. Declaring it a misdemeanor for persons not members of the order to wear the buttons or other insignia of the Loyal Legion. Amending the act enabling cities and villages to build, acquire and maintain bridges and ferries outside of their corporate limits and to control the same. For the better preservation of official documents and records of historical interest.

The senate amendment to the house bill providing for the teaching in the public schools of the effects of alcoholic stimulants on the human system were concurred in. At the evening session the following senate bills were passed:

Mr. Warder's, providing for the election of boards of education in school districts organized under special acts of the legislature. Mr. Munroe's, authorizing mining or manufacturing companies to own and hold shares of the capital stock and to own and hold securities of railroad companies whose roads shall connect the different plants of such mining or manufacturing companies with each other or with other railroads and harbors. Mr. Baxter's, providing that where a widow dies before she has received her dowry in a deceased husband's estate it shall be granted to her estate.

Mr. Hunt's bill amending the law in regard to changing the boundary lines of townships was defeated by a vote of 68 yeas to 61 nays. Other senate bills passed were:

Amending the act to punish abandonment of wife and children by husband. Revising the law in regard to the detention and commitment of lunatics. Revising the entire building and loan law.

The bill to regulate the profession of public accounts failed to pass, receiving but sixty-nine votes. The grocers' garnishment bill was passed, as was also the bill to provide for the licensing of plumbers. The senate joint resolution asking the Illinois members in congress to use their best efforts to secure favorable action providing for the construction and improvement of the levee system in the Mississippi Valley was concurred in. Mr. Stoskopf spoke in opposition to the measure and Mr. Selby spoke for it. Senator Sawyer's bill amending the act concerning voluntary assignments was passed, as was also the bill authorizing cities to establish houses of correction outside of their corporate limits, and to authorize the confinement of convicted prisoners therein. Other senate bills were passed as follows:

Mr. Edwards', to encourage the propagation of fish. Mr. Littler, authorizing the payment of the cost of securityship on official bonds; also his bill enabling corporations created for that purpose to transact a surety business. Mr. Mounts, amending the law in regard to the assessment and collection of municipal taxes. To insure the better education and practice of horseshoeing and to regulate the practice of horseshoeing in the state by providing for a state board of commissioners to be appointed by the governor. To establish and maintain classes in the public schools for the education of the deaf and to provide for payment of expenses of the same out of the common school fund.

Bills were also passed ceding to the United States jurisdiction over land at Danville set aside for a home for disabled volunteer soldiers and fixing the salary of supreme court judges at $7,000 per annum. The last bill passed by a vote of 93 yeas to 40 nays.

There Was.
From the Washington Post: Senator Mark Hanna is pretty thoroughly known throughout the United States, but he is only another exemplification of the fact that no man is so well known in this world but there is some who never heard of him. A new boy of the Western Union Telegraph Company strolled languidly into the headquarters of the national committee yesterday and inquired: "Is there a man around here by the name of Hanna?"

SHOT INTO THE CROWD

MILITIA'S DEADLY WORK AT URBANA, OHIO.

Three Men Dead, Two Dying, and Many Seriously Hurt—The Prisoner Finally Taken from the Jail and Hanged—Militia Hide from the Mob.

Three men dead, two fatally hurt and ten others more or less seriously injured, is the terrible result of the riot at Urbana, Ohio, early Friday morning. All but one was killed by bullets from the guns of the Ohio National Guard, the local company of which had come to defend the brute, Charles Mitchell (colored). The other is Mitchell himself, whose body was hanged from a tree four hours after the militia had done such deadly work, in the jail yard. Then the militia, terrified at what they had done, disguised themselves in citizens' clothes and one by one stole unnoticed out of the side door and sought places of safety.

The militia fired upon the mob of 1,500 people at 2:30 o'clock in the morning. At 7:30 Mitchell was taken from his cell, kicked and cuffed down the stairs and out of doors to the nearest tree, and, more dead than alive, was strung up over the heads of the enraged people. The anger of the citizens, having satisfied itself in regard to Mitchell, was turned toward the militia, and many threats were made.

All the victims were innocent citizens who were spectators on the scene of excitement. The list is as follows:

The dead: Harvey Bell, Urbana; Upton Baker, farmer north of Urbana.

Fatally wounded: Wesley Bowen, Cable, shot in the hip; Zach Wank, Urbana, shot in the groin and leg.

THE MODERN WOODMEN.

National Convention of the Order Held at Dubuque, Iowa.

The Modern Woodmen decided to pay suicide claims if death does not occur earlier than three years after the date of the certificate. It was ordered that no action to be taken toward the removal of the headquarters earlier than June 20; also that special meeting may be called at any time at the request of the executive council. The next head camp will meet the first Tuesday in June, 1899, at Kansas City. The second Wednesday in February in odd numbered years was fixed as the date for state camps.

Head camp of the Modern Woodmen adjourned Saturday. Besides concluding the revision of the laws of the order and the installation of officers the convention voted $75,000 for the erection of a headquarters building at Rock Island and the board of directors was instructed to begin construction immediately. It was decided that the states having less than twenty camps should not be entitled to representation in the head camp; in states having less than 250 camps, each camp shall be entitled to representation at the state camp in states having 250 or more camps the representation at the state camp shall be by counties.

Fatal Collision in Wisconsin.

Six men were killed, one fatally injured and two others badly hurt in a collision between a freight and a work train on the Omaha road near North Wisconsin Junction Monday. The accident was caused by neglect of orders by the engineer and conductor of the work train, who were given right of way on the west-bound track. The damage is estimated at $50,000.

To Help Home Missions.

At Thursday's session of the Congregational Home Missionary Society there was an extended general discussion relative to the financial condition of the society, which has been considerably affected by the business depression during the last year.

Canovas to Be Retained.

The queen regent of Spain has confirmed Senor Canovas, the premier, in his ministerial powers, and the cabinet will remain in office with personnel and policy unchanged. It is thought Gen. Weyler will be immediately recalled from Cuba.

Graves Robbed Near Indianapolis.

The discovery has been made that body snatchers were systematically plundering the graves in what is known as the Old Lick Creek Baptist Church cemetery, five miles southwest of Indianapolis, Ind.

E. H. ROBERTS, NEW TREASURER OF THE UNITED STATES.

Ellis H. Roberts, of New York, who has just been appointed treasurer of the United States by President McKinley, is now the president of the Franklin National Bank of New York. He has long been prominent in national affairs. He was a delegate to the Republican national convention in 1864, 1868 and 1876. In 1866 he was a member of the New York legislature and in 1880 he was elected a member of congress from the Onelda district and was re-elected in 1872. Mr. Blaine, then speaker of the house, made Mr. Roberts, a new member, a member of the ways and means committee, an unusual honor. In 1889 President Harrison appointed Mr. Roberts assistant United States treasurer at New York City. When Mr. Roberts retired, after the Democrats came into power, Secretary Carlisle wrote him a letter complimenting him upon the excellent manner in which he had fulfilled the duties of the office. In 1893 Mr. Roberts was offered the presidency of the Franklin National Bank, and accepted the place. Mr. Roberts is a widely traveled man and has written several books, not only on finance, but on other subjects; among them may be mentioned "Greece and Beyond," "Planting and Growth of the Empire State" and "Government Revenue, Especially the American System." He is just 70 years old.

SATURDAY, JUNE 12, 1897.

Actually we have yet to hear the first heavy croak about the peach crop of 1897. It does not appear about to be a failure either because there is too much or too little of it. Last year the crop was the heaviest as well as the best ever known. The poorest of the dwellers in cities and towns were able to get their share of this delicious and wholesome fruit. This year the same story will be to tell if present indications are realized. There seem to be no grumbles either because of yellows, of flies, of frosts, of droughts, of crops so heavy that the price will be nothing to producers. Not even is heard the cry that the railroads will charge freight rates so heavy as to eat up all the profits. 'Tis well. Let us have a great peach crop, and may every city family be able to buy their share! As to apples, there will probably not be a repetition of the great crop of 1896. Still there will be fine apples enough for home consumption, with some hundreds of thousands of barrels to ship over seas to Europe. There will likewise be enough to make all the cider farmers need for their winter drink.

The west does not like to have its wealthy citizens send their sons and daughters to eastern colleges to be educated, contending that there are as good colleges west as east. So there are. We might mention two or three even in the far west as thorough and extended in their courses of study as any anywhere, but we remember that comparisons are odious. This is a large country, however. The most thoroughly educated citizen is he who has some knowledge of all parts of it. We suggest, therefore, that eastern parents send their children to western schools to be cultured, and that western parents forward their offspring to eastern institutions to be polished off. It would enlarge the mental vision of a New England or New York young man immeasurably to see how great and splendid the western spirit is. It would give at the same time the western youth that contact with the older civilization of the land to which all ardent and ambitious young people in the far west must naturally turn their eyes longingly.

A curious decision has been made by a Canadian judge in a tobacco lawsuit. The Tobacco trust of Canada demanded that any dealer handling their cigarettes should abstain from having on sale those of any other maker. A dealer who kept other goods than theirs in his stock brought suit against them on this issue. Judge Dugas of Montreal decided that the Tobacco trust had a perfect right to insist that a dealer who kept their cigarettes on sale should not sell those of any other manufacturer. It seems that the manufacturer owns the retail dealer, body and bones, in Canada.

Some American cattle raisers complain because Mexican beeves are allowed to come into the country duty free. But, on the other hand, thousands of hogs and the dressed meat of thousands more go into Mexico duty free every year. This being the case, it is no more than fair, is it, that we should return the courtesy? If a heavy duty is placed on Mexican cattle arriving in the United States, Mexico can instantly put on the screws and fix a prohibitory tariff rate on our hogs and pork. Who can blame her if she does so?

Mr. Hoar of Massachusetts lately arranged a picnic of United States senators and their families to Monticello, the home of Jefferson and the Mecca of good Democrats, although Republicans sometimes go along with them for company. Senator Hoar averaged the expenses of the journey and then presented to each senator a paper for his signature, so that the honorable gentlemen paid for themselves and their families. Now, this is something like.

Certain writers seem to be rending their garments in the effort to prove Edgar Allan Poe a plagiarist. They lay stress on the fact that somebody before Poe wrote a poem or two in the measures adopted by Poe and with similarity of expression. Well, what of it? Everybody knows "Lenore" and "The Raven." Nobody except the would-be critics knows the verses they have raked up to prove Poe a plagiarist. What does that prove?

Greater New York has 501,000 voters, a majority of them Democrats, it is claimed.

A Menace to Steam.
The railways of the country are confronted by a new and powerful foe. It is electricity applied to suburban and interurban passenger traffic. And he who believes that the application of electric motive power to transportation purposes will never go beyond this class of traffic has a very narrow vision of the field of progress. It seems certain that the development will continue until the steam locomotive is forced out and the electric motor covers the entire field of transportation.

The science of electrical engineering is still in its infancy. Electricity itself is a subtle something or other which cannot be accurately defined. It is neither solid nor a liquid, nor yet a gas. The most we can say of it is that it appears to be a manifestation of that vital principle which we conceive as penetrating all matter and pervading all space. Little as is known of the thing itself, however, enough is known of the properties of the thing to enable us to recognize it as an ideal motive force. Electricity weighs nothing; it is incompressible; it is as swift as light and stronger than steel; it can be subdivided almost indefinitely without proportionate loss of power; it can turn corners without loss; it can transmit energy in large and easily controlled quantities along conductors of moderate size and strength; it never freezes; it is clean, noiseless and is susceptible of application to motive power uses with almost absolute safety.

Having brought this wonderful agent, which presents so many desirable features from an economical mechanical point of view, so far under his control as is represented by his present uses of it, man is not going to stop. The world's scientists and mechanics are bound to go on experimenting, inventing, improving and perfecting until the process is at last discovered whereby the wonderful properties of this mysterious agent shall receive their fullest economical application. And such application will cover the entire field of present motive power uses, besides an extension into fields as yet but dimly dreamed of.

Primarily the supersession of steam by electricity on railroads will take place because the perfection of economy in steam motive power has probably already been reached.

In spite of its perfection the modern locomotive is far from being an economical machine when judged by the standard of the theoretical, and the very fact of its perfection is the sign of its doom.

So long as there was any possibility of improvement in the steam locomotive in the direction of higher economy the inventive faculty concentrated itself there, and by every possible means endeavored to attain the theoretical by means of the agent steam. But the perfect application of this agent still falls far short of the goal striven for. The inventive faculty, therefore, must turn to this new force which has properties that promise a greater economy in its application and strive to invent and perfect a machine which will control and apply it to the present uses of steam. And it will be done. It is just as certain that the perfect electric motor will be evolved from the present conditions as it is that the perfect steam motor has been evolved from the conditions which were present 50 years ago.

Next to the hordes of idle negroes resulting from it, one of the most terrible annoyances caused by the Mississippi flood is the swarms of buffalo gnats. In rainy seasons these pests follow all kinds of live stock in clouds. They bite and torture the helpless animals; they lodge in their ears and nostrils and torment them often till they die.

Commencement Exercises.

The sixth commencement of the Waukegan high school took place in the Oakland hall Wednesday evening, June 9th, and was attended by a large and select audience. The hall was tastily decorated with flags and flowers, and everything looked neat. There had been some misarrangement in regard to the instrumental music, which had to be dispensed with.

The exercises were opened with a chorus by the choir, after which Rev. H. J. Schutts delivered the invocation.

Miss Daisy Grosvenor's essay entitled "Holidays and Holiday Customs" was rendered in an especially delightful manner. Miss Grosvenor was self-possessed, and before delivering her address thanked all who had kindly befriended the graduates.

Chester Sowles' essay, "One View of Arbitration," was first-class. He showed how advantageous it would be if all great difficulties could be settled in this way.

Harrie Houghton's "Our Territorial Development," was handled in an excellent manner and concluded with the valedictory, in which he thanked all who had so kindly given their assistance to the cause of the graduates.

The choir rendered most excellent music which was highly enjoyed by all and much praise should be given the singers, who cheerfully gave so much time to the preparation of the difficult pieces of music that they might be rendered most enjoyable.

The flag drill by the primary pupils, under the direction of Miss Selina Spencer, was excellent, to say the least. The children were drilled to perfection and performed their parts in an excellent manner.

The address to the graduates by Rev. H. J. Schutts was full of sound reason and was well appreciated.

Diplomas were presented to the class by the president of the school board.

The exercises were concluded by the benediction by Rev. H. J. Schutts.

The exercises over, the graduates, together with the invited guests, repaired to the dining-room where an elegant banquet was given by the Alumni. A short program had also been prepared for the occasion, but owing to the late hour was not carried out.

I can place $4500. in amounts of $500 each at 6 1/2 per cent, payable in gold, secured by real estate in Barrington. M. C. McINTOSH.

We have used it with all three of our children and it has never failed to cure—not simply stop pain, but cure absolutely. It is all right, and anyone who tries it will find it so." For sale by A. L. WILL WIPE THEM OUT OF EXISTENCE?

We hold the agency for this celebrated Wood Preserver for this community, and, although it has been introduced in this vicinity but a short time, its wonderful qualities in the destruction of chicken lice is fast becoming widely known and wherever used the fruits of its effectiveness is being pointed out by the fact that in every case where used its fine qualities are spoken of in the highest of terms and more is asked for. Unlike lime, which merely forms a scale on the surface of the walls, Carbolineum not only destroys the chicken lice but is very penetrative and enters into the pores of the walls in which the eggs of the chicken lice are deposited, destroying them before they are hatched. In buying this preparation, please remember to bring some kind of a vessel to put it in, as we buy it in barrels only.

THE MISADVENTURES OF JOHN NICHOLSON

BY ROBERT LOUIS STEVENSON.

INTERNATIONAL PRESS ASSOCIATION.

CHAPTER VIII.

In front of Donaldson's Hospital, John counted it good fortune to perceive a cab a great way off, and by much shouting and waving of his arm to catch the notice of the driver. He counted it good fortune, for the time was long to him till he should have done forever with the Lodge; and the further he must go to find a cab, the greater the chance that the inevitable discovery had taken place, and that he should return to find the garden full of angry neighbors. Yet when the vehicle drew up he was sensibly chagrined to recognize the port-wine cabman of the night before. "Here," he could not but reflect, "here is another link in the Judicial Error."

The driver, on the other hand, was pleased to drop again upon so liberal a fare; and as he was a man—the reader must already have perceived—of easy, not to say familiar, manners, he dropped at once into a vein of friendly talk, commenting on the weather, on the sacred season, which struck him chiefly in the light of a day of liberal gratuities, on the chance which had reunited him to a pleasing customer, and on the fact that John had been (as he was pleased to call it visibly "on the randan") the night before.

"And ye look dreifful bad to-day, sir, I must say that," he continued. "There's nothing like a dram for ye—if ye'll take my advice of it; and bein' as it's Christmas, I'm no saying," he added, with a fatherly smile, "but what I would join ye myself."

John had listened with a sick heart. "I'll give you a dram when we've got through," said he, affecting a sprightliness which sat on him most unhand-somely, "and not a drop till then. Business first, and pleasure afterward."

With this promise the jarvey was prevailed upon to clamber to his place and drive, with hideous deliberation, to the door of the Lodge. There was no sign as yet of any public emotion; only, two men stood not far off in talk, and their presence, seen from afar, set John's pulses buzzing. He might have spared himself his fright, for the pair were lost in some dispute of a theological complexion, and with lengthened upper lip and enumerating fingers, pursued the matter of their difference, and paid no heed to John.

But the cabman proved a thorn in the flesh. Nothing would keep him on his perch; he must clamber down, comment upon the pebble in the door (which he regarded as an ingenious but unsafe device), help John with the portmanteau, and enliven matters with a flow of speech, and especially of questions, which I thus condense:

"He'll no be here himself, will he? No? Well, he's an eccentric man—a fair oddity—if ye ken the expression. Great trouble with his tenants, they tell me. I've driven the family for years. I drove a cab at his father's waddin'. What'll your name be?—I should ken your face, Baigrey, ye say? There were Baigreys about Gilmerton; ye'll be one of that lot? Then this'll be a friend's portmantie, like? Why? Because the name upon it's Nucholson! Oh, if ye're in a hurry, that's another job. Waverley Brig? Are ye for away?"

So the friendly toper prated and questioned and kept John's heart in a flutter. But to this also, as to other evils under the sun, there came a period; and the victim of circumstances began at last to rumble toward the railway terminus at Waverley Bridge. During the transit, he sat with raised glasses in the frosty chill and moldy fetor of his chariot, and glanced out sidelong on the holiday face of things, the shuttered shop, and the crowds along the pavement, much as the rider in the Tyburn cart may have observed the concourse gathering to his execution.

At the station his spirits rose again; another stage of his escape was fortunately ended—he began to spy blue water. He called a railway porter, and bade him carry the portmanteau to the cloak-room; not that he had any notion of delay; flight, instant flight, was his design, no matter whether; but he had determined to dismiss the cabman ere he named, or even chose, his destination, thus possibly balking the Judicial Error of another link. This was his cunning aim and now with one foot on the roadway, and one still on the coach-step, he made haste to put the thing in practice, and plunged his hand into his trousers pocket.

There was nothing there!

Oh, yes; this time he was to blame.

He should have remembered, and when he deserted his blood-stained pantaloons, he should not have deserted along with them his purse. Make the most of his error, and then compare it with the punishment! Conceive his new position, for I lack words to picture it; conceive him condemned to return to that house, from the very thought of which his soul revolted, and once more to expose himself to capture on the very scene of his misdeed; conceive him linked to the moldy cab and a familiar cabman. John cursed the cabman silently, and then it occurred to him that he must stop the incarceration of his portmanteau; that, at least, he must keep close at hand, and he turned to recall the porter. But his reflections, brief as they had appeared, must have occupied him longer than he supposed, and there was the man already returning with the receipt.

Well, that was settled; he had lost his portmanteau also; for the sixpence with which he had paid the Murrayfield Toll was one that had strayed alone into his waistcoat pocket, and unless he once more successfully achieved the adventure of the house of crime, his portmanteau lay in the cloak-room in eternal pawn, for lack of a penny fee. And then he remembered the porter, who stood suggestively attentive, words of gratitude hanging on his lips.

John hunted right and left; he found a coin—prayed God that it was a sovereign—drew it out, he held a half-penny, and offered it to the porter.

The man's jaw dropped.

"It's only a half-penny!" he said, startled out of railway decency.

"I know that," said John piteously.

And here the porter recovered the dignity of a man.

"Thank you, sir," said he, and would have returned the base gratuity. But John, too, would none of it; and as they struggled, who must join in but the cabman?

"Hoots, Mr. Baigrey," said he, "you surely forget what day it is!"

"I tell you I have no change," cried John.

"Well," said the driver, "and what then? I would rather give a man a shillin' on a day like this than put him off with a derision like a bawbee. I'm surprised at the like of you, Mr. Baigrey!"

"My name is not Baigrey!" broke out John, in mere childish temper and distress.

"Ye told me it was yoursel'," said the cabman.

"I know I did; and what the devil right had you to ask?" cried the unhappy one.

"Oh, very well," said the driver. "I know my place, if you know yours—if you know yours!" he repeated, as one who should imply grave doubt; and muttered inarticulate thunders, in which the grand old name of gentleman was taken seemingly in vain.

Oh, to have been able to discharge this monster, whom John now perceived with tardy clear-sightedness, to have begun betimes the festivities of Christmas! But far from any such ray of consolation visiting the lost, he stood bare of help and helpers, his portmanteau sequestered in one place, his money deserted in another and guarded by a corpse; himself, so sedulous of privacy, the cynosure of all men's eyes about the station; and, as if these were not enough mischances, he was now fallen in ill-blood with the beast to whom his poverty had linked him! In ill-blood, as he reflected dimly, with the witness who perhaps might hang or save him! There was no time to be lost; he durst not linger any longer in that public spot; and whether he had recourse to dignity or to conciliation, the remedy must be applied at once. Some happily surviving element of manhood moved him to the former.

"Let us have no more of this," said he, his foot once more upon the step. "Go back to where we came from."

He had avoided the name of any destination, for there was now quite a little band of railway folk about the cab, and he still kept an eye upon the court of justice, and labored to avoid concentric evidence; but here again the fatal jarvey outmanoeuvred him.

"Back to the Lodge?" cried he, in shrill tones of protest.

"Drive on at once!" roared John, and slammed the door behind him, so that the crazy chariot rocked and jingled.

Forth trundled the cab into the Christmas streets, the fare within plunged in the blackness of a despair that neighbored on unconsciousness, the driver on the box digesting his rebuke and his customer's duplicity. I would not be thought to put the pair in competition; John's case was out of all parallel. But the cabman, too, is worth the sympathy of the judicious; for he was a fellow of genuine kindness and a high sense of personal dignity incensed by drink, and his advances had been cruelly and publicly rebuffed. As he drove, therefore, he counted his wrongs, and thirsted for sympathy and drink. Now, it chanced he had a friend, a publican, in Queensferry street, from whom, in view of the sacredness of the occasion, he thought he might extract a dram. Queensferry street lies something off the direct road to Murrayfield. But then there is the hilly cross-road that passes by the valley of the Leith and the Dean Cemetery; and Queensferry street is on the way to that. What was to hinder the cabman, since his horse was dumb, from choosing the cross-road, and calling on his friend in passing? So, it was decided; and the charioteer, already somewhat mollified, turned aside his horse to the right.

CHAPTER IX.

JOHN, meanwhile, sat collapsed, his chin sunk upon his chest, his mind in abeyance. The smell of the cab was still faintly present to his senses, and a certain leaden chill about his feet; all else had disappeared in one vast oppression of calamity and physical faintness. It was drawing on to noon—two-and-twenty hours since he had broken bread; in the interval, he had suffered tortures of sorrow and alarm, and been partly tipsy; and though it was impossible to say he slept, yet when the cab stopped, and the cabman thrust his head into the window, his attention had to be recalled from depths of vacancy.

"If you'll no' stand me a dram," said the driver, with a well-merited severity of tone and manner, "I dare say ye'll have no objection to my taking one myself!"

"Yes—no—do what you like," returned John; and then, as he watched his tormentor mount the stairs and enter the whisky shop, there floated into his mind a sense as of something long ago familiar. At that he started fully awake, and stared at the shop-front. Yes, he knew them, but when? and how? Long since, he thought; and then, casting his eye through the front glass, which had been recently occluded by the figure of the jarvey, he beheld the tree-tops of the rookery in Randolph Crescent. He was close to home—home, where he had thought, at that hour, to be sitting in the well-remembered drawing-room in friendly converse; and, instead!

It was his first impulse to drop into the bottom of the cab; his next, to cover his face with his hands. So he sat, while the cabman toasted the publican, and both reviewed the affairs of the nation; so he sat, when his master condescended to return, and drive off at last down hill, along the curve of Lynedoch Place; but even so sitting, as he passed the end of his father's street, he took one glance from between shielding fingers, and beheld a doctor's carriage at the door.

"Well, just so," thought he; "I'll have killed my father! And this is Christmas-day!"

If Mr. Nicholson died, it was down this same road he must journey to the grave; and down this road, on the same errand, his wife had preceded him years before; and many other leading citizens, with the proper trappings and attendance of the end. And, now, in that frosty, ill-smelling, straw-carpeted, and ragged-cushioned cab, with his breath congealing on the glasses, where else was John himself advancing to?

The thought stirred his imagination, which began to manufacture many thousand pictures, bright and fleeting, like the shapes in a kaleidoscope; and now he saw himself, ruddy and comforted, sliding in the gutter; and, again, a little, woe-begone, bored urchin tricked forth in crape and weepers, descending this same hill at the foot's-pace of mourning coaches, his mother's body just preceding him; and yet again, his fancy, running far in front, showed him his destination—now standing solitary in the low sunshine, with the sparrows hopping on the threshold and the dead man within staring at the roof—and now, with a sudden change, thronged about with white-faced, hand- uplifting neighbors, and doctor bursting through their midst and fixing his stethoscope as he went, the policeman shaking a sagacious head beside the body. It was to this he feared that he was driving; in the midst of this he saw himself arrive heard himself stammer faint explanations, and felt the hand of the constable upon his shoulder. Heavens! how he wished he had played the manlier part; how he despised himself that he had fled that fatal neighborhood when all was quiet, and should now be tamely traveling back when it was thronging with avengers!

RECORD OF MINOR DOINGS OF THE WEEK.

seven Days' Happenings Condensed—Social, Religious, Political, Criminal, Obituary and Miscellaneous Events from Every Section of the State.

The Rev. William Harrison, 60 years old, pastor of the Second Baptist Church, Joliet, died Monday.

A monument to the unknown dead was dedicated at Worthington. Addresses were delivered by the Rev. W. M. Kinney and the Hon. J. B. Wilson.

Two fires were started by incendiaries at North Manchester, and the Lonaevitz restaurant and the Woods Sisters' millinery establishment were badly damaged.

James Spradler of Pike county, a prisoner in the reformatory at Jeffersonville, died of consumption. Last April he entered upon a twenty-one-year term for accidentally killing a child.

One hundred and fifty homing pigeons, belonging to the Badger Flying Club, of Milwaukee, were released at Delavan at 6:29 o'clock the other morning, in a flight against time, the distance being 200 miles.

The Freeport Presbytery closed an important business session at Rockford yesterday. At the meeting four new ministers were ordained, they being Thomas McGregor of Rockford, W. E. Ruston of Freeport, James D. Bailey of Belvidere, and Henry D. Funk of Freeport. Cavalry Congregational church of this city was accepted in the Presbytery and Rev. Mr. McClement of Auburn Theological Seminary becomes its pastor.

As the accommodation train on the Bedford division of the Monon railway was leaving the tunnel at Owensburg several bents of the structure gave way, and an enormous mass of earth and stone fell on the rails, completely blocking the track. It is thought that the passing of the train jarred the supports loose. The property damage is extensive, as it will require much labor to repair the break. Trains are now transferring baggage and passengers at that point.

Homer Miller, of Mackinaw, Ill., and Charles Flynn, of Morristown, have brought suit against 25 or 30 leading men of Morristown, claiming $10,000 damages for breach of contract. Mr. Flynn secured a bonus of $1,000 and a guaranteed loan of $2,000 on condition that a flouring mill was built at Morristown. The mill was built, and the managers accepted the bonus and remainder of unpaid subscription, but did not take the loan. The mill is now in the hands of an assignee.

William F. Pitstick, one of Mendota's prominent business men, committed suicide in his store by shooting himself through the heart. He had been considered an upright man, but it was found at the coroner's inquest that he had been a forger and a gambler for ten years. In a letter which he left he said he had lately forged a note for $1,100 which he would soon have to face, and he chose rather to die than go to the penitentiary. He had been in business in that city twenty-five years.

Further details of the shooting affray at Harmony show that William Develin of Brazil undertook to collect a bill from William Modesitt, who is seventy-eight years old, and abused him. Modesitt's young wife resented the assault and struck Develin in the face. The latter attempted to retaliate and she knocked him out. After he left the house he began bombarding it with cinders, and then she used her revolver, shooting him through the leg. She has been released on her own recognizance, subject to future trial.

The first regiment to be mustered into the service of the United States under President Lincoln's call for troops in the late war was the Thirtieth Illinois Volunteers, and the survivors of that regiment held their annual reunion at Dixon last week. The honor of being the first regiment in the service has been for many years disputed by members of the Fifteenth Illinois Volunteers, but recent papers in the matter give the honor to the Thirtieth. They were mustered in at 9 o'clock of the morning of May 14, 1861.

The Tuermann Opera House at Virginia was crowded to its utmost to witness the twenty-first annual commencement exercises of the Virginia High school. The graduating class numbered seventeen, being the largest number of graduates at one time in the history of the school, and the Board of Education in preparing for the event very wisely disregarded the time-honored custom of having each graduate "speak a piece," and instead secured Prof. J. J. Radford of Eureka college, Eureka, Ill., who delivered an able and highly instructive address on "Culture and Growth." Miss Mary J. Finn was salutatorian. Her subject was "The Power of an Ideal," and Arthur E. Crum was valedictorian. His subject was "Westward Bound, the Course of Empire Trends its Way."

The Sentimental Southern Girl.

The typical woman is sentimental. She invests many prosaic things, animate and inanimate, with sentiment. She is sure to have, put away somewhere, keepsakes and tangible evidences of hours and moments of unalloyed happiness. As a school girl she treasures these in her writing desk or in some extra bureau drawer. When she has grown older and practicalities smother sentiment, she banishes them to a seldom opened trunk in a remote corner. But she treasures them still—the broken fan that was restored to her by one whose very fallings she guards jealously, for the sake of what she once thought he was. The fan was too delicate to admit of mending. He tried to have it mended, she remembers. There are other things locked away in the trunk—the verses sent to her by a girl friend who was her bridesmaid, the little faded velvet prayer book, with its ornate clasp as guarding something precious. There is the hand-wrought front breadth of a ball gown, too—a gown worn on a night when somebody whispered that she was the prettiest girl in the room.—Leslie's Weekly.

A GOOD THING

For Women to Remember.

That in addressing Mrs. Pinkham they are communicating with a woman—a woman whose experience in treating woman's ills is greater than that of any living physician—male or female.

A woman can talk freely to a woman when it is revolting to relate her private troubles to a man—besides, a man does not understand—simply because he is a man. Many women suffer in silence and drift along from bad to worse, knowing full well that they should have immediate assistance, but a natural modesty impels them to shrink from exposing themselves to the questions and probably examinations of even their family physician. It is unnecessary. Without money or price they can consult a woman, whose knowledge from actual experience is greater than any local physician living.

The following invitation is freely offered; accept it in the same spirit.

Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to freely communicate with Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass. All letters are received, opened, read and answered by women only, thus has been established the eternal confidence between Mrs. Pinkham and the women of America which has never been broken and has induced more than 100,000 sufferers to write her for advice during the last four months. Out of the vast volume of experience which she has to draw from, it is more than possible that she has gained the very knowledge that will help your case. She asks nothing in return except your good-will, and her advice has relieved thousands. Surely any woman, rich or poor, is very foolish if she does not take advantage of this generous offer of assistance.—Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

Not Worth the Effort.

From the San Francisco Argonaut: The late Senator Voorhees was not dissipated—but a story is told of him that he was once walking to the capitol building at Washington with a friend. As they were passing about the last saloon before reaching the building the friend said, "Senator, let's go in here and take one drink." Voorhees turned on him with a look half jocular and half of disgust, and said, "No, sir; what is one drink to me?"

Corn-Growing in the South.

By some the increase in corn culture in the Southern states since 1890 is ascribed to a competition begun eight years ago in one of the agricultural papers, which offered a cash prize to the American farmer who raised the largest crop to the acre of any cereal, says Fort Worth Live Stock Reporter. The prize for wheat went to Utah, for oats to New York, for barley to Ohio, and for corn, strange to relate, to South Carolina. One farmer in Marlborough county, in that state, established his claim to have raised a crop from one acre of 239 bushels, and the awarding of the prize was a revelation to many Southern farmers who had uniformly regarded cotton as the staple agricultural product of the South and had seen neither reason nor profit in the cultivation of corn. Since then, whatever the reason of the development of the corn crop in the South may have been, it is a fact that it has been enormously increased, and that the western states no longer hold their relative prominence as corn growers. By the official census of 1890 there were produced in the United States in that year 1,750,000,000 bushels of corn, and by figures of the department of agriculture in 1895, fifteen years later, the corn crop of the United States was 2,150,000,000 bushels. The increase, however, was not uniform; it was greatest in the southern states. Alabama increased from 25,000,000 to 45,000,000 bushels. Arkansas increased from 24,000,000 to 50,000,000 bushels, more than double. Louisiana increased from ten to twenty-two million bushels. Georgia from twenty-three to forty-two million. Florida from three to six million, and Texas, most remarkable of all, from twenty-nine to one hundred and seven million. Mississippi increased from twenty-one to thirty-five million bushels, and South Carolina from eleven to twenty million. While the southern states have been increasing their corn product, the former corn states have either made no gain or have been falling off. From 1890 to 1895, Iowa increased only from 275 to 298 million bushels, Indiana from 115 to 121, and Michigan from 32 to 33 million bushels. Wisconsin fell off from 34 to 33 million bushels, Ohio from 111 to 92 million, and Illinois, once the chief corn-producing state in the corn belt, from 325 to 255 million bushels. In the same period New York declined from 25 to 18 million bushels. The corn product of Pennsylvania fell off from 45 to 43 million bushels, and in other states of the east or middle west the proportionate decline was practically the same. The south is the region in which there has been a material increase in corn product.

Berry Bushes in Summer.

All berry bushes should be protected from summer heat and drouth. This may be done in two ways. First, by frequent cultivation and hoeing thus forming an earth mulch, which prevents the rapid escape of moisture from the soil. Second, by covering the ground around the hill with coarse manure, straw and other material, which prevents evaporation and retains the moisture about the roots. One of the best and cheapest mulches for the farmer is green clover, cut in blossom and applied same as manure. It is easily applied, retains moisture, enriches the soil, keeps the berries clean and contains no germ of noxious weeds. A good mulch well applied is one of the great necessities in successful fruit growing. When new canes of the blackberry and blackraspberry are eighteen inches high, nip the top off about two inches; this will cause several new laterals to grow which should be trimmed severely in the spring. The pinching back of new growth is important. It largely increases the bearing surface, keeps the bush low, strong, well formed and less liable to injury from severe storms.—M. A. Thayer.

Wind Power.—Not nearly enough use is made of wind power. Most of the wind mills we see are used wholly to pump water from wells. Though this as a steady job probably saves as much labor as any one thing the wind power could be set to doing, there are many other back-aching jobs that are on many farms done by hand power, which might quite as well be given over to wind power. Turning grindstones and churning are among these. When you put up a light windmill which turned a lathe in a shop. Here they spent many hours making all kinds of wooden articles. All of these boys kept up their love of farm life because their windmill was set to do tasks that on other farms the boys had to perform by what sailors call "main" strength and stupidity. In Holland there can be no use of water power, for the land is too level. Nowhere in the world is wind power used to so much advantage or for so great a variety of purposes.—Ex.

Orchard and Inducement.—Why is it that "a good orchard" is one of the first and most important improvements mentioned by the man who offers his farm for sale? Why does such an inducement reach so far into the affections and pocketbook of the prospective purchaser?—The Epitome.

Clausius and Gruber have opened a branch office at Dundee, Dr. Gruber being in charge on Thursdays, Saturdays and Sundays from 12 m. to 6 p. m.

A large number of our representative business men accompanied our village board of trustees to St. Charles Thursday evening to inspect the electric light plant of that place. They were in charge of Mr. Jenks of the Chicago Engineering Company, and at Elgin they were joined by Messrs. A. E. Philbrick, president of the same company, and H. E. Shedd. They were taken to St. Charles in a special. The electric light plant at St. Charles is complete, although the circuit of the main street was out of repair, but judging from the lighting of one of the side streets, we inspected, St. Charles has a plant that she can well feel proud of. The Barrington citizens express their thanks for the many courtesies shown them.

Successful Excursion.

One of the most pleasant and successful evening entertainments of the season was that given by Mrs. Luella Austin to her Sunday-school class Saturday evening. Tickets over the S. S. C. R. R. were issued to all present, and they allowed the guests to stop ten minutes at all ten of the leading stations. Prizes were awarded to the ones passing the best examinations, and resulted as follows: First boy's prize, Lloyd Robertson; second prize, George Otis; and third prize, Charles Hutchinson. The first lady's prize was won by Miss Grace Peck; second prize by Miss Ethyl Robertson; and third prize by Miss Nellie Lines. Music and refreshments made the hours fly away only two swiftly. The excursion must be classed as one of the most successful affairs ever given in Barrington.

Basket Social.

The sociable given at the White school last Thursday was well attended. Baskets sold well, the proceeds being $13.20. The following program preceded the basket social: Song—"Rock of Ages," School. Recitation—"The Inventor's Wife," Luella Hager. Dialogue—"Some Very Famous People." Recitation—"I Don't Believe It, Do You?" Fred Sommerfeldt. Dialogue—"Hamlet and The Ghost" Recitation—"The Soldier's Cradle Hymn," May Burkitt. Dialogue—"The Competing Railroads." Recitation—"Kittens and Babies," Mary Gottschalk. Dialogue—"The Rival Orators." Dialogue—"Only Just Too Late," Gertrude Hager. Dialogue—"Visit of Patrons to The Big Holler School." Dialogue—"Comparison." Recitation—"Little Tommie's First Smoke." Dialogue—"Hiring a Cook." Recitation—"Sandy's Romance," Henry Gottschalk. Recitation—"Shabob's Lament," Harry Kirschner. Song—"Aura Lea," School. Albert Kampert acted as auctioneer, and this probably accounts for the good prices the baskets were sold for. Altogether the entertainment must be summed up as one of the most enjoyable affairs of the season.

Der Mann, der viele Frucht gebaut

—ist sich bewußt, daß die Erntezeit nahe bevorsteht. Idealtischer Ackerbau umfaßt nicht bloß den Bau des längsten Getreides — die weissen Sonnen Heu auf den Acker — den besten Feldbau — den gewinnbringendsten Feldbau — er erfordert noch etwas mehr als dies, denn es giebt eine Erntezeit, und gerade in dem Verhältnis wie die Frucht sicher, erfolgreich, reich und sparsam eingeheimt wird, gerade in dem Verhältnis kann der Gewinn oder Verlust eines Jahres berechnet werden.

Erntemaschinen sind die Sorte, welche gewinnbringend; die Sorte, welche die Ausgaben verringert, es giebt andere Sorten, welche dies nicht thun, und in Wirklichkeit fortwährend Ausgaben verursachen, weil sie immer außer Ordnung sind. Lasset uns zugeben, daß wir Alle versuchen, Geld zu machen; auch lasset uns zugeben — denn Erfahrung hat es bestätigt — daß nichts Billiger ist als das Beste. In Erntemaschinen hier ist es:
Der McCormick Binder, mit offenem Elevator, rechts schneidend.
Die McCormick Neue 4 Räderne Gras-Mähmaschine.
Die McCormick aufklappbare Daisy Getreide-Mähmaschine.
Der McCormick vertikale Mais-Binder.
Kommt und lasset uns Euch diese Maschine zeigen; es sind die einzigen Sorten, die wir halten; es sind die einzigen Sorten, die man haben sollte.
