VOL. 12. No. 39.

BARRINGTON, ILL., SATURDAY, DECEMBER 4, 1897.

$1.25 A YEAR.

PALATINE LOCALS.

A. G. SMITH, LOCAL EDITOR

Christmas comes next.

Will Mosser expects to start for Arizona today.

Many are enjoying the ice, which is affording good skating.

Pure cider vinegar 15 cents per gallon. L. PECK.

Mrs. Dr. Pierman's mother has been visiting with her the past few days.

Ed Lincoln and wife visited the latter's parents at Langenhelm over Sunday.

Emil Dahms of Chicago was visiting friends and relatives here the first of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Brockway visited the former's parents in Wisconsin over Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Williamson of Ashton visited with Dr. and Mrs. E. W. Wood the first of the week.

THE REVIEW will give you all the news of western Lake and Cook counties. Only $1.25 a year.

Henry Senne, jr., has started a meat market in the rear of Dahms Bros.' grocery store in Chicago.

J. C. Coulman returned Monday from an extended visit with friends in and adjoining states.

Miss Millie Hicks returned from West McHenry Monday, after a short visit with her sister, Mrs. W. C. Evanson, who returned with her.

The work on the water works plant has been retarded somewhat by the recent cold snap. The work is being pushed as rapidly as possible, however.

FOR SALE—A lot, with good 8-room house and good barn on Plum Grove avenue, opposite the M. E. church. For particulars call on A. G. Smith.

Henry Bayer of West Chicago has purchased the barber shop formerly owned by Clarence Page, and has moved with his family to this place.

Some of the Athletic club members have invented a new way of calling on their friends. They also assist one another in taking their best girls home.

The Palatine Republican club met in Hartlett's hall Tuesday evening, and elected officers as follows: President, F. J. Filbert; Vice-President, H. J. Stroker; Secretary, A. G. Sutherland; Treasurer, Henry Senne.

FOR SALE, A BARGAIN.—Two-story, eight-room house, almost new, with barn, good well, and a large lot at corner of Wilson and Rose streets. This is an opportunity in a life time to get a nice home cheap, if taken at once. Terms easy. Apply to Married, at St. Mary's church, Huntley. Tuesday, Nov. 23, by Rev. Father Gormley, Frank Weidner, of Palatine, to Miss Mary Kruetzer, of Grafton. The bridal party repaired to the home of the bride's parents, three miles east of this village, where feasting, dancing and merriment were indulged in until the next morning.—Huntley Dairyman.

The fair held by the Ladies' Aid society in the Methodist church parlors Thursday and Friday was a decided success financially as well as socially. The various booths were richly decorated, and the articles sold at good prices, many things being sold before being placed in position. The candy booth was a great attraction for the "small change," and the refreshments were exceptionally good, and well patronized. The India exhibit by Mrs. J. C. Butcher was especially attractive, and well worth the 5-cent admission charged. The cook book gotten up by the ladies sold well, and was considered a great stroke of enterprise.

The Concert.

The closing concert given by the Choral class at the Barrington M. E. church Monday evening, under the direction of Prof. M. R. Harris of Chicago, was a musical and literary treat of unusual worth.

A large audience was present, and

Prof. Harris' pupils exerted themselves to make the evening an enjoyable one for their patrons. The Choral class was relieved between selections by Mr. Higgins, the Chicago humorist. Mr. Higgins' rendition of "The Owl," "Yankee in Love," "The Debating Society," "A Darkey's Sermon," and a sermon on "Apples" was exceedingly ludicrous, keeping the audience in a convulsion of merriment from beginning to end; while Mr. George Davis' solos "Out On the Deep," "Love's Sorrows," etc., were rendered in a manner which won the hearts of his hearers completely. Mr. Davis is a baritone soloist with an exceptionally fine voice. He is one of Prof. Harris' pupils.

Other numbers which deserve special mention on account of the pleasing manner in which they were executed are "Song of the Whipporwill," by little Misses Esther Kampert, Alta Powers, Katie Loughran, Nora Plagge, Rosa Lageschulte, Hulda Subr, Ella Naehner, Frieda Naehner and Clara Lageschulte; a duet by Miss Alvina Myers and Mrs. John Kampert; Ascher's duet, "Life's Dream Is O'er," by Miss Carrie Kingsley and Prof. M. R. Harris, and especially a selection by a trio composed by Misses Carrie Kingsley and Mary Frye and Mrs. John Kampert.

WAUCONDA.

Skating is all the rage.

How did you spend Thanksgiving? J. E. Pratt was a Chicago visitor Friday last.

M. W. Hughes transacted business in the city Friday.

E. L. Harrison was a Diamond Lake visitor Tuesday.

H. Golding transacted business in the city Wednesday.

Louis Schultz spent the first of the week in the city.

Miss Nettie Murray came out from the city Wednesday to spend Thanksgiving with her parents.

Prof. Hubbard and E. L. Harrison spent Thursday and Friday in the city.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Hapke and family visited with relatives at McHenry Sunday.

Miss Edith Turnbull returned home Monday after spending a few days at Volo with Mr. and Mrs. Chris Dillon.

Mrs. Aug. Hapke and son John came over from Waukegan Wednesday to spend a few days with relatives.

Mrs. Gieseler returned home Sunday after spending a few days at McHenry.

J. Hironimus went to Chicago Saturday with E. Green's pacer, Echo, which he sold to a Chicago party for $300.

For some reason Mr. Drewes could not keep his appointment here Wednesday evening, and consequently the dancing school has been postponed indefinitely.

Miss Lucy Spencer and sister, Mrs. Kirwan, came out from Chicago to spend Thanksgiving with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Spencer.

Will Ehninger took a cool bath Thursday of last week. While testing the ice he went out a little too far and broke through. Only for timely help the plunge might have resulted seriously.

The lecture given by Rev. W. H. Eaton Tuesday evening was not as well attended as it should have been. After the lecture the audience repaired to the home of Miss Glynn, where a pleasant reception was given.

The Thanksgiving dance given by the W. B. B. C. was well attended, considering the unfavorable weather. Good music was furnished, and all present enjoyed a jolly, good time. Landlord Mullen furnished an elegant supper for the occasion.

Another victim was claimed by the corn husker and shredder Wednesday morning, when Richard Baseley, who was feeding one of these machines at H. L. Brooks', had his left hand caught and before it could be freed it was shredded to slivers. He was immediately taken to Dr. Dawson's office, who dressed the wound and called Dr. Teggers of McHenry into consultation. After a careful examination it was found that the hand could not be saved, and amputation was necessary.

The Wauconda Literary and Debating society held their second meeting Friday evening of last week. President A. L. Mullen called the meeting to order, but as he could not remain, having urgent business at home, Dr. Wells was called to the chair to conduct the meeting. The election of officers was first on the program, and resulted as follows:

President—Prof. Hubbard.
Vice-President—H. E. Maiman.
Secretary—Miss Lillah Golding.
Treasurer—J. Spencer.

Sergeant-at-Arms—G. Fitch and A. Roney.
After the election the evening's program was next in order. The program was very short, nearly all who were to take part being absent. The last number on the program was a debate, as follows:

Resolved, That It Is Not Business Prudence for Farmers to Give Right-of-Way to Any Railroad Corporation to Build a Road Through This Vicinity

The speakers were J. F. Grosvenor and Rev. Schutts for the affirmative and J. Spencer and H. E. Maiman for the negative. The question was well discussed by both sides, and good points were advanced. The decision of the judges was unanimous in favor of the negative.

OUR REQUEST IS DENIED.

Canadians Refuse to Stop Pelagic Sealing.

NEGOTIATIONS HAVE FAILED.

It Is Said, However, That the Dominion Government Has Proposed an Alternative Proposition That May Settle the Question in Dispute.

A reply has been prepared by the Dominion government and forwarded to Washington in respect to the negotiations which are now going on between both countries. It is understood that it is a refusal to stop pelagic sealing for a year, as the United States requested. The whole question depended upon this, and therefore it would appear that the negotiations are to fall in their object. However, there is a report that the Canadian government has proposed an alternative proposition for the consideration of the United States, which could be laid before congress at its next sitting and passed in time to deal with pelagic sealing and the questions of dispute next season.

Michael Easily Defeats Starbuck.

In the twenty-five mile match race between Jimmy Michael and Frank Starbuck for a purse of $2,000, Michael finished three and one-third miles ahead of Starbuck and clipped five and one-fifth seconds off his Chicago record. His average time was 2:01 1-16 per mile. He covered the distance in 50:29 1-5.

Appeal to the Iron Brigade.

An appeal has been issued to members of the Iron brigade to contribute enough money to pay for the completion of the monument to Gen. John Gibbon. The cost delivered in Washington will be $1,200. One payment of $300 has been made and another one will be due in two months.

Gunpowder Seized at London.

Eight barges loaded with cases of gunpowder, falsely labeled "arms," have been seized by the customs officers at London. They emanated from Russia and it is suggested that the ammunition was destined for the rebel tribesmen in India.

Depositors Will Not Suffer.

Assignee Arnold has gone through the books of the defunct bank at English, Marengo and Leavenworth, Ind., and finds everything in excellent condition—sufficient to pay claims in full and leave a surplus of $25,000.

Wisconsin Is the Champion.

Wisconsin is the undisputed western football champion for 1897. The badger team finished its season Nov. 25 with an unbroken string of victories to its credit. It defeated Northwestern University by a score of 22 to 0.

For Annexation of Hawaii.

Cushman K. Davis, chairman of the senate foreign affairs committee, immediately upon the convening of congress will move the adoption of the Hawaiian annexation bill. He is confident it will be adopted.

Prohibitionists Select Peoria.

Peoria has been selected as the place for holding the next Illinois state prohibitionist convention, some time in May or June. State officers will be nominated, and from 1,200 to 1,500 delegates are expected.

Approved by Marshal Campos.

Marshal Martinez Campos warmly approves the decrees granting autonomy to Cuba and is willing to go to the island if necessary. General Azacuraga reserves his opinion until he sees the effect of them upon the rebellion.

Advance Price of Coal.

The mine operators along the Toledo, Peoria and Western decided to advance the price of coal 25 cents a ton, to $1.25. Meeting of operators on other roads will be called to take similar action.

All American Prisoners Freed.

Secretary of State Sherman says there are now no Americans in confinement in Cuba. Since President McKinley was inaugurated thirty American citizens arrested have been set free.

Oklahoma Seeks Statehood.

Congress will be asked to make Oklahoma a state at the coming session. The advocates of statehood argue that nearly one-half of the states were admitted with less population and less wealth.

Secretary Long Wants Docks.

Secretary of the Navy John D. Long urges congress to order only one new battleship. On the other hand, he asks for at least seven big docks, five on the Atlantic and two on the Pacific coast.

To Unite Against Germany.

The St. Petersburg Novosti contends that the growth of German influence in the near and far east will necessitate a union of Great Britain, Russia and France for the protection of their interests.

WILL RESIST GERMANY.

China Regards the Demands of Baron Von Heyking as Unreasonable.

Pekin, Dec. 1.—Inquiries made in Chinese official circles confirm the statements contained in dispatches from Shanghai giving the substance of the demands made by Baron von Heyking, the German minister to China, as a result of the murder recently of German missionaries and the destruction of German mission property. China will refuse the demands of Germany, but will express willingness to make ample reparation for the murder of the missionaries and for the damage done to the mission property. Russia, it is understood, is not yet helping China, but the latter country has decided not to provoke hostilities and to trust to diplomacy for a settlement of the difficulties which have arisen in connection with the mission outrages.

TWO DIE IN ESCANABA FIRE.

Many Persons Injured in a Destructive Midnight Blaze.

Escanaba, Mich., Dec. 1.—Fire which started in the steamer Nahant, loading ore at No. 4 dock, got such a firm headway that it communicated to the dock. At midnight two docks were on fire, and tremendous efforts were being made to save the other two which comprise the group.

The steamer is a total loss. Two of its crew, the names of whom cannot be learned, are known to have been burned to death. Several other members of the crew are badly burned, but will recover. It is impossible to estimate the loss. It will be not less than $300,000 and perhaps much larger.

DEATH IN A TYPHOON.

Philippine Islands Swept—Thousands of Natives Drowned.

A typhoon which swept over the Philippine Islands Oct. 6 was the cause of one of the worst disasters that has been reported from the southern coast in many years, if not in the history of that part of the world. Several towns were swept and blown away. Fully 400 Europeans were drowned, and it is estimated that 6,000 natives perished.

Illinois Postmaster Missing.

Alton, Ill., Dec. 1.—Willard Gillham, postmaster at Upper Alton, Ill., has been missing from his home for over two weeks. His accounts as postmaster are said to be all right. Domestic infelicity is said to be the reason for his prolonged absence. One relative expressed the fear that he is not living.

Phalen Deserts Luetgert.

Attorney Albert Phalen has withdrawn from the Luetgert case. The reasons for his withdrawal are not stated. Lawrence Harmon is now Luetgert's chief counsel. He is about 40 years old, and has practiced law in Chicago for two or three years. He was formerly a judge in Peoria, Ill.

France Charged with Duplicity.

Information has reached the authorities at Washington that France, while ostensibly engaged in negotiations with our government looking to the conclusion of a reciprocity treaty, is taking steps to place a prohibitory tariff upon a number of articles of American production.

Indiana Villages Damaged.

Chesterfield, Daleville and the Indiana spiritualists' camp in Indiana were wrecked Nov. 25 by the explosion of sixty quarts of nitroglycerin. Several persons were more or less injured by shattered glass. The concussion was felt twenty miles away. It is believed no one was seriously hurt.

May Nominate a Senator.

The sentiment in favor of the next Indiana Republican state convention nominating a candidate for United States senator has become so pronounced that the county meetings next month for the reorganization of the party will pass upon the question.

Shortage May Reach $30,000.

Expert accountants who have been going through the books of County Treasurer W. H. Holderman of Elkhart county, Ind., are not prepared to make a complete report, but they say that the official's shortage will be $20,000 and may reach $30,000.

Will Support Republican Nominee.

The republican members of the Ohio legislature elected on fusion tickets have decided to vote for the republican caucus nominee, which will make the legislature stand eighty republicans to sixty-five democrats on joint ballot for senator.

Methodist Divine Dead.

The Rev. Miner Raymond, D. D., one of the most distinguished preachers and teachers of the Methodist church, and for more than thirty years the mainstay of Garrett Biblical institute, died at Evanston, Ill., Nov. 25th.

Champions of Northwest Indiana.

The game of football for the championship of northwest Indiana between Valparaiso and Rensselaer resulted in favor of Rensselaer by a score of 16 to 6.

FARM AND GARDEN.

MATTERS OF INTEREST TO AGRICULTURISTS.

Some Up-to-Date Hints About Cultivation of the Soil and Fields Thereof—Horticulture, Viticulture and Floriculture.

Selection of Seed Wheat.

EAR BOOK of Department of Agriculture, 1896; Many experiments made in recent years show the advantage of using large and vigorous seed in growing various field and garden crops, but it is only lately that attention is being given to the use of such seed in wheat growing. At present experiments are being made at several different places to test this point with reference to wheat, three grades of seed—small, medium and large—being used. Too much attention cannot be given to this subject. Many choice varieties have been developed by selecting from a field certain unusually good heads, planting the grains of these separately, and thereafter selecting the best each year. It has been satisfactorily proved that the old idea that rust-shrivelled grains give as good returns as large, healthy ones is erroneous. About the year 1876 a semi-hard, red variety, known as Grass wheat (probably an Odessa sort), became quite popular in Northern Kansas, and was widely used for ten or twelve years thereafter. However, as the variety was adapted for either fall or spring sowing, and the spring-sown crop was always inferior to the fall-sown, the consequence was that two grades were produced from the one variety. As the fall-sown crop brought the better price, it became the practice to sell all the winter wheat and use the worst of the spring crop for fall seeding. It was claimed that this practice made no difference in the quality or quantity of the winter wheat, but about 1888 Grass wheat began losing favor among wheat growers, having lost much of its original good quality, and finally gave place to Turkey, Fultz and other varieties. Now, there is no doubt that the deterioration of this variety was due, in great part at least, to the constant use of the very inferior shrivelled spring grain for fall seeding. Many other instances of the so-called "running out" of varieties is probably due mostly to similar cases. However, even under the best treatment it is a pretty well-established fact that certain varieties, when introduced into new localities, will in time change quite materially in quality of grain. This is especially likely to be the case with hard northern sorts when transferred to warmer and moister southern latitudes. Probably the only remedy in such cases is to make an occasional fresh importation of seed. The matter of seed selection is of such vital importance that probably nothing would be of more benefit to the wheat grower than the establishment of special small seed plots of, say, one to five acres, from which to select seed each year. The following plan is recommended: At harvest time cut from a good field a strip of the best portion, first eliminating all rye and other foreign heads and large weed seeds. After threshing the wheat from this strip, grade it by means of a fanning mill with special sieves made for the purpose, so as to obtain only the largest and most vigorous grains. Use the best grade of wheat both for sowing the small plot and for the general crop the next season. The next year use none of the field crop for seed, but after grading the wheat from the small plot, as before, use the very best of it for sowing the small plot and all the remainder for sowing the large field, and so on year after year. In this way seed is never taken from the general crop, which cannot be given the same care as the small plot, and there is a constant selection of seed, which is more and more rigid every year. Moreover, there is no extra labor involved, except the small amount required for grading the seed each year.

Native Trees Best.

Professor L. C. Corbett, South Dakota Experiment Station: Ever since the first true home builder staked out his claim on the great plains of the Northwest the problems of tree growth, both for fruit and protection, have been continual subjects of experimentation. Each person brought either seeds or plants from the South or East, depending upon the section whence he came. These plants were in a majority of cases failures or disappointments. History is said to repeat itself, and if we were to judge all history by the records of tree planting, both by the early pioneers of this country and by their descendants as they ventured into the interior, we should find that the later generation pursued the same plan as that tried by their forefathers. The colonial settlers brought seeds and plants from the mother country. The pioneers of the Northwest carried them from the mother state. In both cases, however, the results were practically the same—both failures. The younger generation thought, perhaps, that because they were not going outside the limits of their own country, the experience which came to the Puritans would not come to them. It has taken years for this lesson to become firmly impressed upon the people, but the great majority have come to appreciate its importance. The unsuccessful attempts to import from the East forced those that were determined, to look about them and to see what nature had here provided. In the search for plants for groves and shelter belts, the native woodlands that border the rivers and lakes and have survived in the ravines, furnished the desired material, but the source from which to draw a fruit supply was not so easily found. The pioneer in an unknown climate may accept it as an axiom that success will be attained much more quickly from the adoption of native plants than from the introduction of foreign ones. It would be a very extraordinary portion of this earth's surface which would, by nature, be supplied with all the plants needed to provide for the several wants of man. If we but reflect a moment and consider the origin of the several cereal grains and fruits now considered as necessities and grown by the people of any one section of the United States, we cannot but be impressed with the great importance of the power of acclimatization and the extent to which it has acted upon plants. But while we fully appreciate the value of introduced species, yet for the more primitive necessities, such as shelter and fuel, we should look to native rather than to introduced plants.

Protection of Perennial Plants.

William Toole, writing in the Wisconsin Horticulturist, says: The vigor and floriferousness which our hardy perennials may show next season can be strengthened by the care given to them just before winter. Even the hardiest of them will show more vigor if given winter protection. All herbaceous perennials which retain some foliage through the winter should have a little brush placed around them before being covered with straw or leaves. This to prevent heavy packing, which causes them to rot near the surface. Those which die down to the ground may be covered with coarse manure, which can be raked away in the spring. Tulips and other bulbs and all plants which sometimes come out of the ground before it seems safe to remove protection should be covered with well-rotted manure, which need not be removed in the spring, the plants being permitted to come up through it. Roses can best be protected by covering with earth, being careful when laying them down to throw a little earth next the base of the stems so that they will not break near the base. If carelessly done there is danger of a bend at top becoming uncovered during the winter. A little coarse litter on top of all will prevent the soil washing down. Climbing roses and such as are difficult to cover with earth may be held down with boards covered with straw and brush. Earliness of many kinds of annuals can be promoted by sowing just before winter, such kinds as pansies, poppies, larkspurs, asters, pinks and many others. Poppies and larkspurs should be sown where they are to grow. The rest may be planned for transplanting. These will come up before it is possible to have them with spring sowing and be more robust than plants started in-doors.

Chicory Culture.

A Nebraska experiment station bulletin makes some suggestions concerning the culture of chicory. As is well known, the parched and ground roots of chicory are used to adulterate coffee, and some even use them as a substitute for coffee. Land too dry for wheat will produce a good crop of chicory. A sandy loam is best. The soil must be loose and deep enough to permit the good root development. It should be plowed in the fall to catch and store up the winter moisture. Unless the land is rich, make it so. Plow again early in the spring, and just before planting run it over with a disc harrow to kill the sprouting weeds and pack the soil firm. Then drill in the seed immediately. Don't plant till the soil is warm. Use one and a half to three-fourths of an inch deep with a garden drill in rows eighteen inches apart. Cultivate with some tool drawn by horse power that will keep the crust broken. As soon as plants are large enough to pull thin to one plant every four to six inches in drill. As soon as milk disappears from the roots (in October or November) harvest by loosening them with a beet loosener and pulling by hand; then cut off the tops. The tops are fair cattle feed. The yield averages about eight tons of roots per acre, costing about $30 to produce.

Laying Period.—The best laying period of a good, healthy hen is said to be about twenty-six to thirty months, and during her third year she should be fattened and killed. It does not pay to sell or kill the younger hens, as during the winter, when eggs bring the highest price, they are the best layers. For an all round fowl, either the Plymouth Rock, Wyandotte or Black Java is satisfactory; but if eggs are of the most importance the Leghorns or Minorcas ought to be selected.—Ex.

ILLINOIS BRIEFLITS.

MINOR HAPPENINGS THROUGHOUT THE STATE.

Diggers Quit at Fenton—Strike Takes Place in a Co-operative Coal Mine—Anti-Trust Law Kills Itself—A Prisoner's Queer Story.

Diggers Quit at Fenton.

Breeze.—All the miners employed in the South mine at Fenton have gone out on a strike and there is no immediate prospect of settling the difficulty with the operators. The shaft is the property of the Trenton Coal, Light and Power Company, composed of local capitalists, and is operated on the co-operative plan. The trouble originated over the discharge of two miners. The regular engineer has been off on a vacation, and his successor, it is charged, is incompetent. The miners last Monday refused to work while this man was at the throttle in the engine-house. The regular engineer assumed charge Tuesday morning, but a new difficulty arose. Two miners, Banker Boyer and Richard Andrews, were discharged because, it is alleged, they were guilty of inciting the men to strike. Boyer was reinstated, but the operators refused to employ Andrews. Yesterday morning seventy-five men laid down their tools and walked out of the mine. They alleged that Andrews is being persecuted, and positively refused to commence digging coal until the discharged man is re-employed. President Reiman of the coal company stated to-night that Andrews would not be again placed on the pay rolls under any circumstances, and all the miners who fail to report for work Friday morning are requested to clean up their rooms, remove their tools, draw their money, and consider themselves discharged. Both sides have taken a determined stand.

Suicide of Peter Trove.

Discouraged by three months of vain search for work, Peter Trove, a Chicago baker, put a bullet into his brain in his room at 105 Wells street. Trove did not leave his room and the employees of the Garden City Hotel were refused admission during the afternoon. At 8 o'clock Herman Ludwig tried the door, but found it locked on the inside, and summoned Albert Geizel, the porter, who climbed in through the transom. By the dim light from a gas jet in the hall Geizel saw Trove seated in a chair with his head thrown back and blood flowing from his right temple. On the floor near by was a revolver with one chamber empty. The man was still breathing, but before a physician arrived he was dead. Trove, after a resident of ten years in this country, visited his relatives in Germany, returning about three months ago. Although a member of the Bakers' Union, he had been unable to secure employment, and gradually exhausted his savings. He was unmarried and had no relatives in this country.

Carroll Is Taken to Indiana.

J. T. Carroll, who was arrested by Chicago detectives Wednesday as a fugitive from justice, was turned over to Marshal John Pollard of Martinville, Ind. Carroll is at present at the head of a western milling concern. He formerly conducted an ice-manufacturing business at Martinville and failed. It is claimed at the time of settling up his business he committed perjury.

Crushed in a Fall from a Train.

Patrick Murphy, a laborer 28 years old, was run over by a train at Summit and both his legs were badly crushed. Murphy's home is at 3232 La Salle street, Chicago. He attempted to board a freight train going toward the city, when he fell beneath the wheels. He was taken to the county hospital by the Desplaines street police. He will recover.

Springfield.—Senator O. F. Berry of Carthage, in pursuance of power delegated to him at last night's Republican conference, named the eight "machine" members of the committee which is to draft a reapportionment measure. They are: Senators Dwyer and Crawford of Cook and Aspinwall of Freeport, and Representatives Selby of Sangamon, Allen of Vermillion, Booth of Clark, Kilcourse of Cook, and Sherman of McDonough.

Kankakee.—Fred Schmaldeke, who is charged with arson, was arrested here Wednesday night. Two years ago the bottling works of Schmaldeke in Gilman, Iroquois county, burned, and he was paid $2,500 by the Traders' Insurance company of Chicago. Evidence was afterward found that pointed to Schmaldeke as author of the fire, and last March he was indicted. The insurance company offered a reward of $500 for his arrest.

Quincy.—A grocery store at Palmyra caught fire and James Ritchie attempted to carry out a keg of gunpowder. It exploded in his arms, blowing him across the street. He cannot live.

Proper Care of Sheep.

The most important factor in the care and management of sheep is an abundance of the right kind of feed during our winters and a warm dry shed, writes W. G. Mead in Dakota Field and Farm. The prevalent idea among many sheepmen that you can turn your sheep on the stubble fields through the winter and have them come out fat in the spring is all a delusion, unless they have all the good millet hay they will eat or a liberal grain allowance at night. Sheep respond to good care and management in the way of a stronger and heavier fibre of wool, and more of it, increase in weight of carcass, greater and richer flow of milk and larger and stronger lambs, just as cows respond to good feed and management in the greater and richer flow of milk. I have become so accustomed in handling wool that I can tell by handling it in the dark what kind of care the sheep had during the winter. Whenever sheep begin to run down a corresponding weakness of the fibre of wool will occur next to their skin. When this kind of wool goes on the looms it breaks up. There are three reasons why Australian wool is worth more than American wool: First, the fibre has an even tension, as they have an even climate and no winters to contend with; second, their wool is skirled, that is, the legs and belly are taken off; third, the unscrupulous manufacturer can conceal more shoddy under it. We can grow as good wool as Australia or any other country when we keep our sheep in prime order the year round. What we need most is shepherds instead of sheep men. Then we would bring our flocks to their perfection. Then the East, West, North and South would look to us for their sires. We would make for ourselves a name that would enrich our coffers—and we ought to do it. The best feed we can raise for our sheep in the way of coarse feed is millet hay and corn stalks. Millet should be cut as soon as the first heads begin to turn brown and then raked up and put in large bunches and left for two or three weeks so it will be thoroughly cured before stacking in order to prevent its moulding. Some claim that millet hay is injurious to sheep, but my experience coincides with that of Colonel Geddis—that the only time millet hurts sheep is when you fail to give them all they want. My practice in cutting and curing corn fodder is to cut it and lay it down in large piles, say two feet high, keeping the butts even. In this way it will shed water and keep for weeks and retain its color and richness. It will not dry up and become worthless as when in standing shocks. If you like sheep, get a small bunch and take good care of them and they will make you more gold dollars than anything on your farm. But if you don't like them, let them alone.

A Cure for Rinderpest.

It is reported that Dr. Alexander Edington, bacteriologist to the government of Cape Colony, South Africa, has discovered an effective preventive of rinderpest. He found that the blood of animals affected with the disease, when treated with citric acid and kept long enough to insure the death of contagium, conferred immunity upon animals injected with it. Bile treated in the same way, with half its quantity of glycerine mixed with it, acted equally well. Animals injected with twenty cubic centimeters of either preparation proved immune from infection in a great majority of cases when virulent blood from animals suffering from rinderpest was afterwards injected. Dr. Edington, after experimenting on a small scale with perfect success, practiced his preventive method upon a number of large herds, and the highest mortality in any herd has been a little over 3 per cent. His protective preparation is now being used in the colony instead of that of Dr. Koch, as being more certain and cheaper.

Ewes at Breeding Time.

Professor J. A. Craig, in a sheep bulletin published by the department of agriculture, says: "It is a general impression among shepherds that the condition of the ewes at the time of breeding has a marked influence on the succeeding crop of lambs. If the ewes are in vigorous condition and improving in flesh the prospects are thought to be favorable for the production of a large percentage of lambs. It is equally accepted that the condition of the ewes in the fall prior to going into winter quarters, has an effect on the susceptibility of the flock to such diseases as are more or less prevalent during the winter season. It is certain that the ewes may be gotten into vigorous condition much more cheaply and easily than at any time later, and it is equally true that a vigorous condition is the best preventive of disease.

Low Prices Enjoined.—The courts have enjoined the South Dakota railroad commissioners from enforcing their order to reduce freight rates in the state, because "the roads cannot afford to do business on such terms." Now, why do not the courts enjoin buyers of farm products from paying small prices, "because farmers cannot afford to do business on such terms?"—Ex.

The tools are worth taking care of, even if they have yet to be paid for. Care of tools is one sign of the efficient farmer.

WOMEN PHYSICIANS.

In Some Countries the Fair Sex Is Debarred from Medical Colleges.

A curious feature of pagan or semi-civilized life that some evangelists have declared to be a special dispensation of Providence is the strict observance of customs which in the course of years necessitate the introduction of methods of the most civilized nations, says the New York Mail and Express. An extraordinary illustration of this fact is being made manifest in southeastern Europe. In the Mohammedan countries, such as the Balkan states and Turkey, women are not allowed to see any men excepting husbands, fathers, brothers or sons, and even when sick cannot be seen by physicians. In case of illness the husband or a slave tells the symptoms to the medical practitioner, who gives the remedies and directions to the go-between. In the next country, Austria-Hungary, where a Christian civilization is supposed to obtain, the ideas of the last century are still largely in evidence. In Austria proper a woman cannot attend a college, study medicine nor obtain a degree as physician. In Hungary, which is far more liberal and progressive, a different order prevails and the women attend college, become doctors and practice, the same as in the United States. The new Balkan states, which no longer stagger beneath the weight of Turkish misrule, are advancing rapidly, and now demand the services of Christian physicians. The old Mohammedan prejudice remains, however, resulting in a large demand for women physicians to attend the Mohammedan women of those states. Already several medical missionaries have taken advantage of this condition of affairs and have built up an extensive practice in the Balkan cities. In Bosnia, under the Austrian rule, the Austrian government has been forced by public opinion to appoint a woman physician, Dr. Theodora Krayewska, to practice in one of the most populous districts. As the law stands, she has to be appointed by an army surgeon, with the rank, uniform and pay of a captain. So by one stroke of the pen Austria has recognized the higher education of woman, her rights to follow a profession and her capability to be a member of the army, an officer and to wear male attire.

Dolls Ancient and Modern.

The mummies of little Egyptian princesses, dead now 3,000 or 4,000 years, have been unwound, and in their spicy folds little dolls have been discovered. After more than twenty centuries the ruins of Babylon and Nineveh have been unearthed and most frequent among the treasures brought to light have been small terra cotta figures and many beautiful carvings in ivory, which most likely were the fascinating dollies of little Assyrian ladies. The puppets with which Greek and Roman children amused themselves in ordinary had their being in clay. Their arms and legs were jointed and attached by threads and were to dangle about on the doll being shaken up and down on a thong or string being pulled from below. Dolls of ivory and wax were not unknown, but these, no doubt, were the playthings of the richer classes.

Plea for Beer on Sundays.

An extraordinary argument for Sunday opening was quoted by one of the speakers recently at a temperance convention. He related that at a public meeting once held in Coventry, England, an orator urged that public-houses should be opened at noon on Sunday, in order that workmen should have an opportunity of discussing together the sermons they had heard in the morning.

How Congress Begins Work.

At an ordinary session the speaker of the house of representatives, who has been waiting in the speaker's room for the right moment, raps the house to order at 12 o'clock noon on the opening day of congress. At the first session of the Fifty-fifth congress last March a speaker was elected and lots were drawn for seats, so that now the members have only to take their places where they belong. The speaker says: "The house will come to order. The chaplain will offer prayer." This being done, the roll of members is called. Then the speaker announces that a quorum being present the house is ready for business. The first business is the swearing in of new members, if there are any.

Then by a resolution the house authorizes the speaker to appoint a committee which, jointly with a similar committee from the senate, shall wait on the president of the United States and inform him that congress is ready to transact business and to receive any message from him conveying his recommendations as to measures which it shall consider at the coming session.

Meantime in the senate, at the north wing of the capitol, a similar scene has been passing. The vice president of the United States, who by virtue of his office is president of the senate, calls that body to order. Prayer is offered, new members are sworn, in if there are any, and a committee is appointed to wait on the president conjointly with the house committee and inform him that both bodies are ready for his message. The message is ready, waiting for this particular announcement. At exactly the same moment one of the president's clerks appears at the door of each house, bearing a copy of the message, which is formally received. Congress is open.

The scene at the opening of a session is always a most picturesque and interesting one. The desks of popular senators and representatives are loaded with flowers sent there by their families and admirers. Many spectators are always present in the galleries at such a time.

Pious Ball Players.

It will be news to most people that several of the most noted players in the college baseball and football teams are regular Young Men's Christian association young men, and that they not only are church goers and members, but that they actually speak and speak well from platform and pulpit.

A noted right guard of Harvard's football team is Norton Shaw, an athlete who not only is always up in his lessons, but finds time besides to preach eloquent discourses in the pulpit from time to time at Y. M. C. A. meetings and elsewhere. Other college athletes who give religious talks and deliver sermons are W. H. Lewis of Harvard, Spear of Princeton and Stagg of Yale.

There is, however, today one member of the Boston Baseball club, the professional team that beat all the others in the country this season, who can preach as well as he can pitch a ball, and that is saying much. He is Edward M. Lewis. We do not look for religious example and precept among professional ball players. Yet why not? On a Sunday afternoon lately Mr. Lewis preached in the Y. M. C. A. hall at Boston from the text, "Whatsoever he saith unto you, do it." This baseball champion contended that Christ himself was an athlete. He said:

He was a manly Christ. His muscles were firm. His back was unbent. He suffered on the cross without shedding a tear. He was all courage.

It is by no means certain that the legislature of Georgia was so very far out of the way in prohibiting match games of football. Look at the picture of a football champion. That seems enough to justify the Georgia law. He wears earmuffs, leg protectors, a face mask, extra boxing to prevent his nose from being broken and heavy padding all over him to keep himself from being killed or maimed for life in the savage game. No Indian torture test of physical endurance was ever more brutal or merciless than an exhibition match game of football today. If it cannot be made less dangerous and savage, it ought to be abandoned.

The fashionable invalid drawing constantly on the sympathies of his or her friends is as out of date as the sentimental ballad of Villikins and Dinah. The fashionable person today is chiefly proud of robust and perfect health.

HERE AND THERE.

Now, get ready for Christmas.

A dancing class has been organized at Nunda.

P. Winnie, of Huntley, paid $125 for two cows.

The village of Richmond is agitating the question of electric lights.

The Lake County Circuit Court convenes next Monday, December 6th.

Several Mormon missionaries from Salt Lake City, Utah, have been at Hartland.

Prof. R. M. Monroe of Waukegan has organized a dancing school at Warren.

The Libertyville volunteer fire department has been equipped with new uniforms.

Selz, Schwab & Co. expect to increase their working force in their shoe factory at Elgin fifty per cent.

Guy C. Lemmers, a Woodstock printer, has been installed as assistant editor on the Huntley Dairyman.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver W. Owen of McHenry on November 26th celebrated their fifty-first wedding anniversary.

Capt. A. Z. Blodgett, for over thirty years ticket agent at Waukegan, has been placed on the retired list at a salary of $60 per month.

H. C. Paddock of Libertyville escorted his first party of land-seekers from Arlington Heights to Wood county, Wis., last week.

Mr. and Mrs. George Huber, of Antioch had a narrow escape from asphyxiation caused by a defect in a hard-coal stove.

It now requires three years of study before a candidate is eligible for admission to the bar. Formerly two years of study was sufficient.

The Algonquin condensing factory receives 62,000 pounds of milk daily, and is shipping two cars of their product to the markets each day.

Perhaps the largest shipment ever made from Harvard was Saturday evening when Rollins & Dobyne started 500 bicycles for Copenhagen, Denmark.

The state fish commissioner arrested two men near Nippersink Point, for seining and fined them $50 and costs each and destroyed their seines.

W. J. Cook, a carpenter of Englewood, has struck the combination by which milk can be manufactured from chemicals. The manufactured milk can be produced with less cost and is of a superior quality than that furnished by cows.

An ex-captain of the Spanish Army has written to a Des Plaines gentleman claiming that he buried 650,000 francs near Des Plaines. It is probably the biggest fish story published this year.

Waukegan post, Grand Army of the Republic, has received from the government two pieces of condemned ordinance to decorate its lots in Oakwood and St. Mary's cemeteries. They came from the Rock Island arsenal.

The regular annual meeting of the Lake County Agricultural society will be held in Libertyville on Wednesday, December 8th. Officers for the ensuing year will be elected at this meeting.

Libertyville citizens own sixty paid-up shares (over $3,500 worth) in the loan and investment association of Chicago which went into the hands of a receiver recently. The prospects are that they will receive about 35 per cent of their investments.

C. T. Heydecker has been appointed Grand Lecturer to the Modern Woodmen of America, which will compel him to travel quite a bit, but it is the pleasantest kind of work. In a week or so he will start for Ohio to begin his new work.

The Wisconsin Milk Co. will hereafter only pay their patrons for the cream, the skimmed milk being returned to the farmers. This will result in a big financial gain for the company.

The Needle Work Guild of Harvard collected 198 garments, thirty garments being donated to the Orphan's Home at Woodstock and the balance were distributed among Harvard's poor. Anyone can become a member of the Guild by contributing two garments a year.

A few days ago the state veterinarian discovered a number of well-developed cases of tuberculosis among the cattle in Hebron township and twenty-four head on the farm of Lagrange Phillips were seized and killed by virtue of the state law. The loss is a severe one for Mr. Phillips, but thus are men often called upon to suffer for the benefit and protection of their neighbors.—Antioch News.

James D. Leonard of Crystal Lake met with a painful accident recently. In attempting to open a bottle of hygeia water the bottle was broken, cutting a piece one inch in length and one-half an inch in width out of his thumb on the right hand, and a piece out of one of his fingers.

Miss Jennie Balch closed her room in the Algonquin public school and came to her home in Elgin to remain a week or more. The room is closed as a precaution to prevent the spread of diphtheria. Myrtle Bartells, who died of that disease, having been a pupil in Miss Balch's room.—Elgin Courier.

The report of the State Board of Equalization is out, and many may be interested in knowing what it has to report for Lake County. In the comparative statement showing the aggregate assessments made by local assessors in the several counties for the years 1893 to 1897 together with the increase or decrease of each county for the year 1897, Lake County shows up well. The aggregate assessment for Lake County last year was $7,016,886, while this year the amount is $6,983,993, or a decrease of $32,893. In 1873 Lake County's assessment was $6,910,142 in '77, $5,781,966. The lowest of all was in 1879, it being $5,187,109. From this time it gradually increased, the highest year of all being '96. According to the report there are 7,552 horses in this county valued at $79,210. The county supports 21,334 valued at $140,378. There are 34 mules valued at $379; 9,164 sheep valued at $7,514. Since this report was made the sheep population has grown considerably. There are 7,244 hogs rated to be worth $9,345. There are 105 steam engines in the county rated as worth $12,389. These values of course are all at the state average. The assessed value of Lake County personal property is $736,789. Its value at the state average is $810,468. The report in general is a voluminous and authentic one containing many interesting facts.

How to Prevent Pneumonia.

At this time of the year a cold is very easily contracted, and if left to run its course without the aid of some reliable cough medicine is liable to result in that dread disease, pneumonia. We know of no better remedy to cure a cough or cold than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. We have used it quite extensively and it has always given entire satisfaction.—Olagah, Ind. Ter. Chief.

This is the only remedy that is known to be a certain preventive of pneumonia. Among the many thousands who have used it for colds and lagrippe, we have never yet learned of a single case having resulted in pneumonia. Persons who have weak lungs or have reasons to fear an attack of pneumonia, should keep the remedy at hand. The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by A. L. Waller, Barrington, and A. S. Olms, Palatine.

Miss Pansy Jackson is the happy possessor of a new piano and Miss Eva Grantham is the happy possessor of a new organ.

Miss Eva Grantham was pleasantly surprised Friday evening by a number of her friends and schoolmates, the occasion being her 14th birthday. After participating in various social games the guests were bidden to partake of a delicate and bountiful repast which was highly enjoyed. The evening was a very pleasant one for those present.

An Ideal Holiday Gift.

The holidays are near at hand. You are thinking about what you will give. Could anything be as appropriate or as welcome as a piano? Encouraged by the overwhelming success of our October Clearing Sale, in preparation for the holiday trade we have placed on our floors a very large number of the Bradbury Pianos in the latest styles of cases and in all woods. Remember the Bradbury since 1854—over forty years—has stood in the first rank; that thousands are in use in every large eastern city and in Chicago; the world's greatest artists endorse them; our enormous capital—over one million dollars—and our large output reduces the cost to the lowest point consistent with standard workmanship; and that you buy direct from the maker and save all dealers' profits. We guarantee these pianos superior to any piano on the market. We also show several makes at lower prices. For those whose needs can be met with a second hand piano we offer very excellent instruments in good repair from $25 up. Selections now may be delivered later if desired. Cash or time payments to suit your convenience. F. G. SMITH, Mfr. Bradbury Pianos. J. M. HAWKHURST, Western Manager, 255-257 Wabash Ave., Chicago. Telephone Harrison 771. Factories—Brooklyn, N. Y., and Leominster, Mass.

ABOUT "BARB."

BY O. P.

HE'S A REGULAR little barbarian!" we said, sometimes despairingly. "And it's a positive comfort to call him 'Barb' for short!" For his real name—will it be believed of this poor, helpless mite of ebon humanity?—

was Barbarossa Napoleon Bonaparte Smith!

How his mother ever came to hear of such a name always perplexed us. Of course, having heard of it, we did not wonder at the selection; her race has always shown a love for high-sounding cognomens. Barb's first appearance among us was in this wise: One gray November afternoon, Lois and I were left alone in the house, mamma having gone out on one of the Good Samaritan errands, the sleet and snow drove sharply against the windows, and the wind whistled defiance to the fire that glowed and crackled. Suddenly the door-bell rang a loud, resonant peal, and I went and opened the door.

There, on the upper step, stood the forlornest little figure artist ever painted! A small apparition, as black as blackness can be compared with anything but itself! With a jacket and pants that suggested the "rags and jags" of the nursery rhyme—"With shoes like the mouth of a fish;" with a straw hat innocent of brim; with snow powdering his woolly hair; fleet on his curly lashes; snow sifting down his back, and drifting over him and whirling around him. I surveyed him a minute in astonished silence, and he returned my stare with round, shining, unwinking eyes. Then he inquired, composedly, "Is Mrs. Smith at home?" I began to say that he must have mistaken the house, for no such person lived here, when Lois, whom curiosity had attracted to the open doorway, remarked that perhaps he might mean our Nancy, whose last name was Smith, though we had scarcely had occasion to recall that fact in the sixteen years she had been in our service. On this suggestion I informed the apparition that Mrs. Smith wasn't at home, and wouldn't be till late in the evening; but I would deliver any message. He displayed a row of astonishingly white teeth in a cheerful grin, stepped in, and first carefully wiping his apologies for shoes, and closing the door, said, decisively: "Oh, if Mrs. Smith lives here, I'm a-goin' to live here, too. She's my gran'mother; I'm Barbarossa Napoleon Bonaparte Smith. I've come to stay, and I'm not goin' away again any more at all."

Lois and I looked at him and then at each other, and then asked him in.

A BLACK APPARITION.

We were soon in possession of the "short and simple annals" of his 11 years. He satisfied us, past a doubt, that he was the child of our Nancy's son, whom she had left behind her in Georgia, when, sixteen years ago, she came North and entered mamma's service. He had enjoyed life fairly well, until, six months ago, his mother died. Seven weeks later his father took another helpmeet, who seems to have proved anything but a tender parent to Barb. "She jest made de house too debbie hot to hold me," he said, with expressive emphasis. "Wasn't she a master hand at pinchin' and pangin'—look-a-ere!" and, with a sudden gesture, he rolled his large, loose sleeve up to the shoulder, showing on the thin little arm marks and scars that made tender-hearted Lois cover her face, with a little pitying cry. He had made up his mind, Barb said, not to bear it any longer; and one starlit night, without a penny in the world, and with half a corn-cake in his pocket, he had started off to find the unknown grandmother, "up Norf." How he reached here he himself could hardly tell—by stolen rides on freight cars; by odd jobs on canal boats; by begging a "bit" whenever he found a team bound northward—telling his simple story whenever he could find a listener, he had found his way hither at last, and now sat, a living illustration of what perseverance can accomplish, before our sitting-room fire.

Why should I try to tell you how Barb became a regular and settled inmate of our household, when I myself do not know how it came about? Was it because of his own calm assurance that it was so foreordained? Was it because he had the most mischievous eyes and the drollest laugh in the world? We never knew.

But let me have no claim to writing Barbarossa's history for the two years he was with us; for should I attempt such a thing, Gibbon's "Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire" would be a mere sketch.

But what mischief wasn't that boy guilty of? After overhearing us, one day, regretting that our little Scotch terrier's ears should be so prominent, didn't he stick that unfortunate animal's ears close to his head with shoe-maker's wax, and then proudly exhibit him to us, as an instance of the triumph of art over nature? And didn't he bring desolation into Lois' dainty room, in the vain effort to discover a secret panel there? Some street comrade of his, an ardent reader of dime novels, had related to him a thrilling story, in which secret panels figured largely; and thereafter Barb's sole object in life was to discover such a panel in our old-fashioned house. One day he found that, beside the chimney in Lois' room, the paper, upon being tapped, gave forth a hollow sound. Coincidence. So did the paper in the yellow-covered novel. It was the work of a moment for Barb, in his eager certainty of hidden treasure, to run his knife around the paper, lift it up, and—oh, me! oh, me! The soot-box that hadn't been opened for twenty years! The soot that in a thick, black cloud settled on the fair, white curtains, clung to the counterpane, made the whole dainty room dingy and soiled and uninhabitable! Barb fled. Before me, on the screen, I see him as he looked that night when we had discovered the disaster, searched for, but failed to find him, and were beginning to fear he had run away, and he emerged from the ash-barrel, where he had lain concealed all the afternoon and stood among us, surely the most wretched figure that was ever seen.

It was after this, but not long, that we began to be troubled about Barb. Often he was gone all day, returning at night, unable to give a satisfactory account of himself; often we heard of him in company of boys it were better he should not know. Nancy's threats, Lois' gentleness, mamma's patience, seemed to avail nothing. We had almost made up our minds that Barb must leave us, when, one November afternoon, about two years from the day he had appeared among us, we heard of Barb for the last time. Oh, poor Barb! poor Barb! Down in the crowded streets, he had joined a crowd which a sudden alarm of fire had called together; in his excitement he had not heard the cries which warned him of an engine's being close upon him. There was no time to rein in the galloping horses; no one had been to blame. Oh, poor Barb!

"He's at Station B, ma'am," the officer said. "The doctor says it can't be long, for his lungs are hurt bad. He kept moaning for Miss Lois! Miss Lois! and as soon as we could make out where he came from the chief sent me to tell you."

We hurried on cloaks and hats and followed the officer into the chilly November dusk.

It was a little whitewashed cell. Barb was lying on a low pallet, covered with a rough, gray blanket. His eyes were closed, and they did not open as we came in. When Nancy saw him lying so, the wan, gray shadow on his set, still face, she rushed forward and threw herself on her knees beside him, with a passionate cry: "Oh, Barb! Barb! Ye're done goin' to die, and ye haven't got religion, and ye'll go into the fiery furnace forever and forever!"

Lois gently drew Nancy away, and knelt in her place, taking both the little, bruised, black hands in hers. "Don't listen to her, Barb," she said. "She doesn't know what she says. Dear, try to hear and understand what I say. Do you remember the Good Man I used to tell you about, Sunday nights? The one, you know, who healed the sick, and took little children in His arms? You are going to Him, Barb; and He will love you, and help you, and teach you how to live." The gray lips moved faintly. "Will He be good to me, like you are, Miss Lois? Will He let me get my bref, without its hurtin' me so awful?"

"Dear," she said, "He will be better to you than you can ask or think. Barb, I want you to try and say to Him the little prayer I taught you. Try, dear, try!"

Into the silence the weak voice faltered, while Barb held fast the kind hands that seemed an anchorage for him, who was drifting so fast away.

"Now I lay me down to sleep,

I pray—de—Lord—"

No need, oh, Barb! No need to finish that prayer! The soul you would have commended to His holy keeping had gone to Him.

A CINCINNATI BOSS.

GEORGE B. COX HAS RETIRED FROM POLITICS.

His Methods Did Not Aid His Party in the Recent Election—One of the Most Clever Politicians of the Buckeye State.

GEORGE B. COX, for over a dozen years the Republican boss of Hamilton county, has abdicated. Read between the lines his announcement of his retirement from active participation in politics, made public while the majority against him and his methods was still being piled up, is a confession that he knew his day had come. He did not retire because his love for power has died out, but because he saw the handwriting on the wall. It was not abdication in a sense, but revolution—the result of the popular cry of machine rule and its perpetuation by corrupt methods. Cox, like Richard Croker, his New York prototype, rose from obscurity to omnipotent local power by the force of unscrupulous daring. He began life as a bootblack in the streets of the city which he has so long ruled with an iron hand. He was born in 1853 in what is now the fifteenth ward. He graduated from the streets into the butcher business, and thence invaded the domain of politics and quickly became a power. When just above his majority he was elected to the city council. He left that place to be a member of the board of equalization.

GEORGE B. COX.

These are the only two elective offices he has ever held. In 1885 he was a candidate for county clerk, but was defeated. He was defeated a second time four years ago. Governor Foraker made him oil inspector of Ohio notwithstanding a popular outcry, and that gave the seal to his party bossism, which has existed unchecked until this year. He was a delegate to the last two national Republican conventions. It is believed that the like of his reign in Cincinnati politics will not soon appear. The days of bossism in the queen city are ended. The people have spoken, and their will is law.

NO MORE THORNS.

What One Horticulturist Is Striving to Attain.

The limit of improvement is not found in producing fruits of great size, beauty and sweetness, says Lippincott's. There are other desirable qualities that the horticulturist is anxious to obtain, and toward this end he is devoting his energies. One of the most noticeable trends of the science of fruit culture is toward the elimination of undesirable organs. The thorns of some of the citrus fruit trees, and the prickles of such small berry bushes as the gooseberry, blackberry and raspberry, are protuberances that have outlived their usefulness and are highly unpleasant. They not only puncture the ripening fruits, but they often make harvesting exceedingly inconvenient. Gardeners have long wished to do away with these thorns and prickles, and it is only comparatively recently that systematic efforts have been made to eliminate them. The thorns are conspicuous organs of our cultivated plants that have ceased to be of any value, for their original purpose of protecting the plants from animals has no force today in the gardens and fields. They should have been exterminated long ago. Through the careful selection of plants that happen to be thornless stocks are obtained for a new race of thornless plants. Others are noted for the few thorns that grow on them, and by judicious selection of seeds and grafts from these the same work is continued. Already gardeners have cultivated raspberry and blackberry canes that are entirely thornless, and by grafting improved varieties on these the desired end will soon be reached. The wild orange trees have many more thorns on them than the budded stock, and the wild Florida lemons are thickly studded with thorns, while the grafted La France have none.

George Eliot's Surrey Home for Sale.

A London paper announces that "The Heights," Witley, Surrey, which was for some years the home of George Eliot, is in the market. There is a beautiful engraving of the house, from a sketch by Mrs. Allingham, in Cross' Life of the Novelist. It was soon after the publication of "Daniel Deronda" that George Eliot bought "The Heights" (December, 1876), and she soon became passionately fond of the neighborhood. At that time the pretty village of Witley had many interesting residents. There were Sir Henry Holland (now Viscount Knutsford) and Lady Holland, niece of Lord Macaulay, and sister of Sir George Trevelyan; the Tennysons, not far away, at Haslemore, the Du Mauriers, the Al-

Wherein They Differ.

Broadly speaking, the essential difference between merchant ships and warships is that the former are designed to carry their loads, or principal portions thereof, low down in the hold, whereas warships have to carry their heavy burdens of armour and armament high up on their sides.

Beauty is Blood Deep.

Clean blood means a clean skin. No beauty without it. Cascarets, Candy Cathartic cleans your blood and keeps it clean, by stirring up the lazy liver and driving all impurities from the body. ### A HUMANE INVENTION.

The latest thing to be invented in the bicycle line is an ambulance. It is not yet in use, but has been perfected by a bicycle genius. The body looks like a grocer's wagon and rests upon the frame of the wheel and two stays running from the frame at the junction of the rear wheel. The frame of the bicycle, which is otherwise like an ordinary wheel, is elongated to provide a place for the ambulance and the rider. With pneumatic tires there should be little jarring of the sufferer, and the noise ought to be less than that which racks the nerves of the occupant of the present ambulance.

SHIPS DRIVEN ON SHORE.

Frightful Hurricane Ravishes the Coast of Great Britain.

LOSS OF LIFE VERY HEAVY.

Scarcely a Town on the Coast Escapes Without Injury—Hundreds of Small Boats Wrecked and Their Crews Drowned—Property Loss Is Enormous.

The latest reports from various points along the coast show that the gale which swept English waters Nov. 28 was one of the worst storms of recent years. The long list of disasters includes a large loss of life, the wrecking of many large vessels and the loss of scores, if not hundreds, of smaller craft, with serious damage to property ashore at many important towns. Scarcely a town on the coast has escaped without more or less injury.

GERMANY IS WARNED.

Secretary Sherman Will Not Tolerate Undue Harshness Toward Haiti.

Secretary Sherman has notified Germany that if any schemes of annexation exist or if there is an intention to make an excessive demonstration with a view of unduly punishing Haiti the United States will not tolerate any such proceeding, though in principle having no objection to Germany obtaining satisfaction.

Want Gas Supply Controlled.

Nine Indiana mayors, representing cities in and out of the natural gas belt of the state, decided to call mass meetings in their respective cities for Dec. 1 for the purpose of appointing three delegates from each city in the belt to consult with the governor at a future date as to the wisdom, in his judgment, of calling a special session of the legislature to devise new laws for controlling the natural gas supply.

Miners Reject Conference Report.

The conference report providing for a settlement of the coal miners' strike in Illinois was defeated by an overwhelming vote of the miners at large. The negatives recorded outnumbered the affirmatives four to one, and it is claimed this sentiment prevails throughout the ranks. Based on these conditions, it may be safely stated there will be no general resumption of work in the mines of northern Illinois.

Must Close Indiana Gas Wells.

Judge McClure has handed down the most important natural gas decision yet rendered in Indiana. The suit was to collect a fine of $20 a day per well for gas waste. Judge McClure holds the fines collectable. This means the closing of every well in which gas comes up with the oil, as none will produce sufficient to square the heavy fine.

Wisconsin Loses Its Case.

The case of the state against S. S. Landt, superintendent of the state home for dependent children at Sparta, Wis., was dismissed on the ground that the complaint was indefinite and uncertain, and that the state was barred by the statute of limitation. Embezzlement of funds was the charge.

University of Nebraska Wins.

The University of Nebraska won the championship of the Western Intercollegiate Football association by defeating the University of Iowa. The score was 6 to 0.

Heavy Loss for Wisconsin.

A Perfect Talking Machine.

The talking machine in its perfected form is becoming a familiar object in homes. It is no longer merely a scientific toy. This results from great improvements. The records are flawless and the reproduction of sound absolutely faithful to the original. Moreover, the talking machine has been so reduced in cost as to make it easy for every one to buy. One can learn all about the Talking Machine in a few minutes, and then is master of an instrument capable of affording him endless pleasure. Fascinating in itself because of the mysteries of natural science which it suggests, it will afford more delight to lovers of music than any one or any dozen musical instruments. No skilled performer is required to awaken the spirit of melody that dwells within it.

Favorite songs as sung by famous singers, popular selections played by renowned bands, or instrumental soloists, recitations by skilled elocutionists, stories or imitations by clever comedians, are always available to afford delight. It also affords other delights than that of reproducing records. You can collect through the Talking Machine sentences spoken by your friends, songs sung by your companions, the little sayings of your children, echoes of dear voices that have a melody to your ears all their own, and preserve them indefinitely, to be listened to over and over again in years to come, when they will be to you priceless souvenirs. Write for catalogue W. to Spear & Co., Indianapolis, Ind.

Not a Temperance Country.

A story was told relating to Scotch hospitality, as explaining Scotland's reputation as a drinking nation. Some years ago a Scotchman residing in the interior, who had accumulated a fortune in America, paid a visit to his old home. Before leaving a fellow countryman asked him to take in his pocket a notebook, and to make a note of every visit he made with an observation as to whether or not he was offered liquor. During a two months' absence he paid ninety-two visits in Scotland and was asked to take liquor at eight-seven of the houses he visited.

Reindeer in Alaska.

Dr. Sheldon Jackson, for 20 years a traveler in Alaska, says the government's experiment of importing reindeer from Siberia is a success, and that the problem of winter traveling in the interior is practically solved. Three hundred miles per day can be made over the snow with relays at reasonable intervals and best of all, the reindeer will rustle for his own food.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

TRYING ORDEALS FOR WOMEN.

Mrs. Pinkham Tells How Women May Avoid Painful Examinations.

To a modest, sensitive, high-strung young woman, especially an unmarried woman, there is no more trying or painful ordeal than the "examinations," which are now so common in hospitals and private practice.

An examination by speculum, or otherwise, is sometimes a positive necessity in certain stages of many diseases peculiar to women, so at least it is declared by the profession. This would not be the case if patients heeded their symptoms in time.

If a young girl's blood is watery, her skin pale and waxy looking, her lips colorless, bowels torpid, digestion poor, her ears and temples throb and she is subject to headache, begin at once to build up her system with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Do not allow her to undergo a physical examination.

Here is a letter from a young lady who requests that her name should not be used, but gives her initials and street number so that any inquiry addressed to her will be received. She says:

"Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—It affords me great pleasure to be able to say a few words in regard to the merits of your Vegetable Compound. I was tempted to try it after seeing the effects of it upon my mother, and now I feel like a new person. I am a stenographer and was troubled with falling of the womb and female weakness in general. I continued to work until I was so weak I could no longer walk, and the last day I was forced to stop and rest.

"I was then so ill that I was compelled to stay in bed, and so nervous that I could not hold anything in my hands. The least noise or surprise would cause my heart to beat so loudly, and I would become so weak that I could hardly stand. I suffered for almost a year. It is different now. I can go about my work with pleasure, while before, work was a drudge.

"Trusting that my words of praise may help some other afflicted person, and be of benefit to womankind in general, I remain, Yours in gratitude, L. H., 444 S. East St., Indianapolis, Ind."

Rev. T. E. Ream has secured a subscription of about $80 from the people of Barrington Center and Elgin for the purpose of painting and repairing the Barrington Center M. E. church. The work will be commenced at once.

The Long Grove creamery resumed business on Tuesday, November 16th. About 12,000 pounds of milk is being received now from forty-six patrons. The equipment in the new building is complete, and is second to none in the county. George Quentin still does the churning, etc. He expects to have back the old list of 85 dairies.

A very pleasant gathering took place at the home of Mrs. Dodge on Thanksgiving Day, the occasion being the reunion of the family after a separation for thirty years. Those present from out of town were: Albert Dodge of Edgerton, Minn.; W. C. Dodge, wife and son; C. C. Dodge and two sons of Chicago; C. J. Dodge and E. C. Dodge of Wisconsin; and J. C. Dodge of Bolton, Ill.

Remember the great cloak sale at Reese Lemke Co's, the big Dundee department store. They have a complete stock of fashionable garments in Ladies' Misses', and children's CLOAKS, CAPES AND JACKETS bought early in the season direct from the manufacturer at bed rock cash prices, hence they can save you at least 20 per cent. Come and c.

The barn and contents belonging to Mrs. Josephine Gleason, at Half Day, was totally destroyed by fire on the evening of Nov. 20th. The barn was insured for $100. The barn belonging to John Foote, near-by, was repeatedly ignited by the flying embers, but through the heroic efforts of a bucket brigade it was saved.

Supervisor James Anderson, who resides in Lake Forest, owns a large farm in Texas that ships out every year about $60,000 worth of stock. Last week the big barns, which were very expensive and well put up, were burned down. Mr. Anderson has departed for the scene of the conflagration.

Bishop Wm. Horn of the Evangelical association, occupied the pulpit at the Zion's Evangelical church Wednesday afternoon and evening. His sermons were masterpieces of good, practical instruction. The revered gentleman is an entertaining talker, a deep thinker, and withal is a minister with liberal views. Bishop Horn resides at Cleveland, Ohio.

Tomorrow evening at the Salem Evangelical church the annual union meeting of the Bible society will be held. Short addresses will be given by different pastors, and the Rev. A. J. Mack of Chicago, agent for Cook county, will give the principal address. Several choirs will unite in the singing. Inspiring solos, duets, and quartets will be rendered. Let everybody attend the Bible meeting.

Henry P. Barnum is getting data ready, and is about to order markers for soldiers' graves in Lake county that are not at present supplied. It will help him in the work if the friends of old soldiers buried of late in the county will leave name, age, date of death, the regiment and company to which they belonged, with Commander George P. Shattswell. In this way no grave need remain unmarked.—Lake County Patriot.

Constable Plumleigh went to Barrington, Wednesday to arrest William Duss and Herman Wendell, on a warrant sworn out before Justice Schramm by Emil Bahn of Dundee. The latter drove a bus load of people to a dance at a butter factory near Barrington, and as there were not many ladies present, several kegs of beer were secured to enliven matters. Bahn was thought to be getting more than his share of the attention of the ladies and of the beer, and Duss and Wendell engaged him in a fight. The result was that Bahn was badly pounded, and he came here to consult F. W. Schultz, who advised the swearing out of warrants. The prisoners gave Bahn $50. paid the costs, and the case was dismissed.—Elgin Courier.

The immigration authorities have been exercised in their minds as to the proper definition of a polygamist, such a person being forbidden by our laws to settle in this country. The question is this: Is a polygamist one who has actually a plurality of wives or one who merely believes in a plurality of wives? It is an interesting point. Is a thief one who really steals or one who believes in stealing? Is a drunkard one who becomes intoxicated? Or one who merely believes in getting drunk, or is it both the one and the other in all these above cases?
