Mrs. Ray Wilson has been quite ill for some time.

Ray Fox visited relatives in this place Sunday.

Amos Wortman of Sheridan, Ill., visited at R. H. Lytle's Monday.

Chas. Foskett of Chicago was out from the city Wednesday.

C. D. Taylor's mother of Chicago, who has been quite ill, is much better.

The Star Pleasure club is to hold an Easter ball in Hartlett's hall on April 11.

Subscribe for THE REVIEW, and get all the news of western Cook and Lake counties.

Will Ahlgrim entertained a friend, who works in the office with him in Chicago, Sunday.

A little girl arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Jacobs Sunday night.

Mrs. Catlow visited at H. J. Schirding's from Friday to Monday. Mr. Catlow was out over Sunday.

Mrs. Keyes of Chicago has been visiting with her son, Frank, who is slowly improving.

Chas. Yates returned from Missouri Sunday, where he has been enjoying himself with hunting, etc.

I. A. Kueble, who went to Arizona several weeks ago, has become charmed with the country.

Church services commence at 7:30 on Easter Sunday instead of 7 o'clock. The League meets at 6:45 o'clock.

The Ladies' Aid society will give a quadruplet social in the church parlors on the evening of April 1.

A. S. Olms is moving his drugs in his new store. He is also having sheds built in the rear of the building for horses.

August Holste, who has been attending the Chicago University, is threatened with an attack of typhoid fever.

Henry Rea is spending a few days at home on a vacation from his studies at Northwestern University.

Rob Mosser has received his sample wheels from the factory at Arlington Heights. He is expecting quite a large sale of wheels this season.

Henry Mundhenke is confined to the bed as a result of hemorrhage of the lungs, which took place the latter part of last week.

Work on putting in the mains for the water works will be commenced as soon as the water is out of the ground. The work will be pushed as rapidly as the other work has been.

The engines and pump at the power house were tested Thursday to see that everything was in perfect condition before the finishing touches are put on the plant.

The couple, who was married Wednesday, received a charivari (?) the night before the wedding, tried to escape through the back door, but it didn't work, so the boys received enough to satisfy their wants and departed. The scheme worked so well that it was tried the next night at Mr. Lytle's residence but as there was no one at home, excepting the ladies of the household, the boys had to go home disappointed. The new custom may be all right—if the other fellow has to stand it.

Republican Ticket Formed.

The rain last Friday kept many away from the republican caucus, but 65 voters turned out to see the fun. F. J. Filbert was chosen chairman of the meeting and they commenced business immediately. All nominations were made by acclamation except the collectorship, which resulted 50 to 15 in favor of Allard.

The following ticket was put up: Supervisor—M. Reynolds. Clerk—Ira W. Frye. Assessor—H. J. Schirding. Collector—J. H. Allard. Highway Commissioner—J. W. Freeman. School Trustee—Chas. Wehrenberg.

UNITED FOR LIFE.

COOPER-TIFFANY.

Miss Belle Cooper and Mr. Charles B. Tiffany were married at the home of the bride's mother in this place Wednesday at one o'clock. Rev. J. C. Butcher, pastor of the M. E. church, performed the ceremony.

Miss Cooper is one of Palatine's beautiful daughters and a young lady of social attainments. She is a graduate of the High school of this place and has made a success of teaching since her graduation. She has been the constant companion of her widowed mother, since the death of her father ten years ago, and she will be greatly missed from the home. Mr. Tiffany is a prosperous business man of Elwood City, Pennsylvania, he being a partner in the firm of Wilson & Tiffany, dealers in dry goods. The young couple first met at the home of the groom's parents at Geneva, Pa., last summer, where the young lady had accompanied her mother on a visit to relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Tiffany left on the 5:12 train for Geneva, Pa., where a grand reception will be tendered them at the home of the groom's parents this evening, from whence they go to their future home at Elwood City.

Among those present were: S. N. Cooper of Aurora, brother of the bride; Miss Deborah Cooper, and the following sisters, accompanied by their husbands: Mrs. Drew of Rockford, Mrs. Cary of Geneva, and Mrs. Clay of Palatine.

The many friends of the young couple at this place extend heartiest congratulations, and wish them a long and happy life.

CHAPTER XXI.

HE earl entered Sir Raoul's room early in the morning.

"Raoul," he said, "I have just come to say that everything must go on as usual. Do as you like, get up when you like; go out when you like; order dinner, luncheon, breakfast, at any time you will. You must not make any difference between this visit and those you used to pay. I am not much at home myself."

Sir Raoul laid his hand on the young man's arm.

"How is that?" he asked, earnestly. "Ulric, is not home pleasant to you?"

"To tell you the truth, it is not—not very pleasant. I may be fanciful but to me there seems always a look of reproach on my wife's face. That is not the only reason; I scorn to make false excuses. I find more attraction away from home than in it. Now you will be happy, Raoul."

"Yes," he replied; and long after his cousin had left him Sir Raoul lay thinking what he could do to make matters pleasant between husband and wife.

He little knew with what pride, indifference, contempt, and dislike he would have to do battle. He knew, too, that, as a rule, all interference between husband and wife was worse than useless—that, if they quarreled themselves, they would allow no one else to interfere in the quarrel. But this was not a mere quarrel—it was far worse.

"I would give something," he thought, "to restore harmony; but of course all depends on what she is like."

What was she like? After being at the opera she would not rise until late. He felt sure. He himself went downstairs early—Sir Raoul liked the fresh morning air.

The first sound that fell upon his ear was the singing of a bird, and the next the falling spray of a fountain. He looked around. He saw then what improvements had been made in Halby House. A conservatory had been built out from the breakfast room, long and wide—a conservatory that was almost an aviary, so full was it of bright plumaged birds; a fountain stood in the midst, masses of brilliant bloom glowed upon the walls.

"This was a welcome for the bride," thought Sir Raoul. "Perhaps, however, she has not much taste for flowers."

No one seemed to be about; the breakfast table was prepared, but there was no one to preside. Sir Raoul looked round; he thought he would go through the conservatory, and perhaps by that time there would be some news of breakfast. He opened the glass door and walked through a fairyland of sweet blossoms; the spray of the fountain fell with melodious music into the clear basin below.

"How beautiful!" thought the simple soldier.

He waited on until he saw a vision that suddenly struck him dumb. At the end of the conservatory was a large, vine-wreathed door, the green leaves formed a perfect screen, and against them stood a figure such as Sir Raoul had never seen before and never afterward forgot—a tall, gracefully girlish figure—a figure that was all symmetry, with a slender, graceful neck, white as snow, lovely shoulders, round, white arms, draped in elegant morning dress.

The lady was standing with her face averted so that he could not at first see it. He beheld a queenly head, covered with masses of black, shining hair. He stood for some minutes lost in admiration; and then with a deep sigh she turned slowly round.

If he had thought the figure beautiful, he was even more enchanted with the face. He saw dark star-like eyes fringed with long lashes, and an imperial brow; he saw a mouth that was like a pomegranate bud, fresh, red, and indescribably lovely; he saw a splendid face, oval in contour, and with the exquisite coloring that Titian gives in his pictures, dainty and brilliant. Yet over the beauty of the face sadness hung like a veil. He saw the glow of a scarlet geranium in the bodice of her dress, and one in the dusky depths of her jet-black hair.

That it was the money lender's daughter never for a moment entered his mind—that he saw before him his cousin's wife never occurred to him. This beautiful girl was, of course, a visitor like himself—one of Lady Car-ven's friends, he thought to himself, half sadly. It was not to be wondered at, with this glorious young beauty near to distract him, that the earl did not care for his wife.

He went forward to speak to her, and then for the first time she was conscious of his presence. She raised her dark eyes and looked at him. There are moments in life not to be forgotten—this was one. The dark eyes appeared to look right into his heart, and he seemed to recognize the soul that shone through them. She walked up to him, still looking at him, as though drawn by magic to him, his eyes half smiling into the depths of hers. He bowed at her approach.

She looked for one half minute into the worn, scarred, noble face.

"I can not be mistaken," she said, holding out both her hands in welcome. "You must be Sir Raoul Laureston?"

"I am," he replied, taking the delicate hands in his with chivalrous empressment. "And you?"

"And I?" she said, with a charming smile and a look of pretty astonishment. "I am Lady Caraven."

In the shock of his surprise he dropped her hands. This Lady Caraven, the unforgotten school girl and the unloved wife, "tall and dark," one whom he would not like—this splendid woman! What had the earl meant by it? Sir Raoul was so startled that the shock kept him silent; and she, noticing this, thought that he was disappointed in her.

"Lady Caraven," he said, at last—"my kinswoman! Do you know that I can hardly believe it?"

"Why not?" she asked, simply.

"Because I expected to see some one quite different."

"And you are disappointed?" she said slowly, half sadly.

His face lighted up eagerly.

"Nay, how can you say so? I am charmed, delighted. I cannot believe in my own good fortune in having so fair a cousin."

"Are you quite sure?" she asked.

"For I fear that I have disappointed most people."

"I am indeed sure," he replied. And, looking into his face, she could not doubt it.

"You are Sir Raoul?" she continued.

LADY CARAVEN.

"I have been longing to see you ever since I heard that you were coming. Will you let me bid you a thousand welcomes home?"

He repossessed himself of her hands and clasped them warmly.

"You are a brave soldier," she said—"a hero. Again let me bid you welcome home!"

"That is the sweetest welcome I have ever had," declared Sir Raoul. "I shall not forget it."

The fair face was smiling at him, the lovely eyes were full of welcome, the ruby lips smiling kindly. It seemed to him that her whole heart was in the greeting she gave him. And Lord Caraven had said that he did not like this most charming and lovely girl.

"You are looking very ill, Sir Raoul," she said; "you will want nursing and taking care of. You must be well tended, and then you will grow strong."

He touched his breast lightly with his hand—that noble breast, the home of a noble soul.

"I shall never be very strong, I fear. Lady Caraven, I would give all my fortune for health; but heaven knows best."

The dark eyes were full of womanly sympathy and compassion; they rested kindly on him.

"You are going to remain here," she said—"to make your home with us?"

"I hope so," he responded, heartily. "I have no other home. This would indeed be one."

CHAPTER XXII.

HE had drawn nearer to him—so near that the delicate lace on her dress touched him.

"I am so glad," she said, in her soft, caressing tones; "and you will really let me take care of you, just as though you were my own brother come home from the wars?"

"Have you a brother?" he asked.

"No," she replied. "I am an only child."

"And I have no sister. I have always wished for one. When I was a strong man who did not know what aches and pains meant, I used to wish that I had a woman's gentle mind and heart to guide me; when health and strength left me, when I became almost helpless, I longed for the gentle hands of a woman near me; but my longing was never gratified."

She looked at him with a smile.

"You should have looked for a wife, Sir Raoul."

"She repented of her words when she saw the terrible change that came over his face.

"A wife? No, I shall never have a wife. I wanted a sister."

"You must let me take a sister's place," she said, gently. "You do not know what your coming means to me. It will give me what I need so sorely—an occupation. You will let me nurse you when you are ill, wait upon you, read to you—tend you in all ways."

"I am afraid that you will spoil me, Lady Caraven."

"No; but I will try to make you well and strong again. Do you really promise me that I may do this?"

His pale face flushed.

"Do you know," he said, "that you really embarrass me? I feel as though some fair young princess were offering to take charge of me. How can I thank you? It seems to me that the desire of my heart is satisfied. I have a kinswoman to love at last."

She laid her hand on his arm and walked with him into the breakfast room.

"You ought not to have risen so early," she said; "and now you must atone for that by taking some of my tea. I pride myself on being a good tea-maker."

Looking at her, he thought that, if she prided herself on her exquisite grace and girlish loveliness, it would be only natural. He was perfectly charmed with her; she was modest and unaffected; there was a certain grace in her frank, kindly manner which made it impossible not to feel at home with her.

He was entirely so; and he smiled to himself. They were seated at the table as though they had known each other for years.

"But surely," he said, "we are remiss. We are not waiting for Ulric?"

Her expression changed slightly, as it always did at the mention of her husband's name.

"Lord Caraven never takes breakfast here," she said, slowly. "Our hours are not the same."

"Then he is a bad judge," remarked Sir Raoul. "I would far rather take breakfast here than anywhere else in the world."

To this Lady Caraven made no reply.

Before that day was half ended Sir Raoul was lost in wonder. How was it that the earl did not love this beautiful girl? He himself was charmed with her. He thought her delightful.

He had reason to know that she was as tender of heart as she was fair of face, for that same morning the old pain in his chest, the enemy that had laid him low, returned with redoubled violence. He was ghastly white and trembled with pain. Then he learned what the gentle hands of a woman were like.

The first dinner bell had rung when the earl returned, and Sir Raoul did not see him until dinner time. Lady Caraven was the first to enter the drawing room, where Sir Raoul awaited her. She looked very lovely in her evening dress. It was of white—white that shone and gleamed—with picturesque patches of scarlet. She wore scarlet and white flowers, with a suite of opals. He had thought her beautiful before, but now, with her white neck and shoulders and rounded arms all shown, she looked, he thought, magnificent.

Her face brightened when she saw him. How strange it seemed that a kindly smile should greet her in those cold rooms!

"It seems so novel and so strange, Sir Raoul," she said, "to find a kind face here."

"It ought not to seem so," responded Sir Raoul, warmly.

Then the earl came in. He passed his wife with a silent bow, never once looking at her, and she drew aside the skirts of her robe to let him go by. Sir Raoul could not help noticing that she seemed to dread lest they should even touch him. There was not much hope of love or reconciliation there.

FATAL FIRE AT BUTTE, MONT.

Fears That Twenty-Three Miners Have Perished.

LODGING HOUSE IN FLAMES.

Fire Breaks Out at 3 O'Clock in the Morning—Many Persons Injured and Missing—The Loss Will Amount to Fully $100,000.

The Hale house, at Butte, Mont., a large three-story brick building in East Broadway used as a lodging and boarding house by miners in the employ of the Anaconda company, was destroyed by fire March 21. Two men are dead from injuries received in jumping from the windows, another is dying and twenty are missing, while a search of the ruins may show that many transient lodgers lost their lives.

There were 250 men and women in the building when the fire broke out. Of these it is believed about 200 escaped without injury.

The Hale house belonged to the Anaconda company. It was built in 1895 at a cost of $70,000, and without the furniture and belongings of the lodgers the loss will reach fully $100,000.

IOWA LEGISLATURE.

House and Senate Transact Important Legislation.

The Titus joint resolution providing for biennial elections passed the house March 18. It has already passed the senate. If it is adopted by the next legislature in 1900 the amendment will be submitted to the people that year, and if adopted the legislature will meet in extra session in 1901 to make the necessary preparations, and thereafter elections will be held only in even-numbered years.

The senate passed the bills to reduce the interest on state warrants from 6 to 5 per cent and to allow the executive council to sell warrants in anticipation of revenues, but not to exceed them.

The house took up the board of control bill March 21. The committee which reported it reported an amendment placing the educational institutions of the state under the management of the board.

In the senate a number of bills were passed.

Board of Control Bill Wins.

After fifteen days of discussion the Iowa senate passed the board of control bill March 17. The bill was passed by a vote of 31 to 16.

Senator Emmert introduced a resolution for final adjournment of the legislature March 31. The house has passed a resolution for adjournment March 24, but the session is likely to last until April 7.

To Prolong the Term.

The senate committee on privileges and elections authorized a favorable report on the amendment to the constitution of the United States, changing the time of year for the expiration of the term of the president, vice president, senators and representatives in congress from March 4 until the last Wednesday in April.

Destructive Fire at Aledo, Ill.

Aledo, Ill., the county seat of Mercer county, was swept by a most destructive fire March 17. A block in the business part of the city was destroyed. The loss is heavy. Little insurance was carried.

City Auditors Leave a Shortage.

John S. Fear, city auditor of Burlington, Iowa, has decamped and left a shortage which he acknowledges to be at least $2,900. His bondsmen are good and the city will lose nothing.

W. J. Bryan Invited to Speak.

The Modern Woodmen of America will lay the corner stone of the order's head office building at Rockford, Ill., April 21. William J. Bryan has been invited to make an address.

Strength of United States Militia.

The total organized strength of the militia of the United States is 114,362 men, while the number of men available for military duty is 10,201,339.

For a Monument to Lincoln.

A memorial from the Illinois legislature asking for the erection of a monument to Abraham Lincoln, has been introduced in congress.

Prominent Indiana Attorney Dead.

Judge Solomon Claypool died at Indianapolis, aged sixty-nine. He was one of the most prominent attorneys in Indiana.

Destroyed by an Earthquake.

Amboyana, a town on an island of that name, one of the Melucca group, has been destroyed by an earthquake. Sixty persons were killed.

Coal Miners' Strike Ordered.

A strike in the Kanawha, Va., coal district has been ordered, to take effect in April. The miners want a 10 per cent advance.

Watson Will Not Accept.

Thomas E. Watson will not accept the populist nomination for governor of Georgia.

Ireland's Ancient Horses.

Remains of the skulls of two wild horses have recently been discovered in Ireland. They indicate that the animals were much smaller than the horses of today. The remains were found in the gravel underlying a bog. Similar discoveries have heretofore been made in Ireland, some of them in Shandon Cave. Geologists believe that a race of wild horses inhabited the island at the same time that the gigantic elks, whose skeletons are found in the bogs, flourished there. But while the elks were of enormous stature, the horses were dwarfs.

from Thursday Until Monday.

Thursday, March 17.
The session of the house was devoted strictly to the postoffice appropriation bill, which was taken up for amendment under the five-minute rule. The house increased the allowance for rural free delivery from $150,000 to $300,000 and defeated the proposition for increased clerk hire.

Among the bills passed in the senate was one to authorize the construction of a gunboat on the great lakes to take the place of the United States ship Michigan, and to cost, exclusive of armament, not to exceed $230,000. Adjourned till Monday.

Friday, March 18.
The house spent another day on the postoffice appropriation bill, but disposed of only two pages of the bill. An amendment was adopted making it a misdemeanor for any person to "pad" the mails during the period when the mails are being weighed to determine the compensation to be paid to the railroads for their transportation. The senate was not in session.

Saturday, March 19.
The house passed the postoffice appropriation bill. All effort to reduce the appropriation for railroad transportation signally failed, and the vote on southern mail subsidy was 77 to 93 against striking out.

Monday, March 21.
The Maine relief bill was passed unanimously by the house. The evening session was devoted to the consideration of private pension bills.

In the senate Mr. Bacon introduced an amendment which he announced he would offer to the resolution providing for the annexation of the Hawaiian islands to the United States. The amendment provides that the resolution shall not be effective until the question of annexation shall have been submitted to the qualified electors of Hawaii and passed upon affirmatively by them. A number of bills of minor importance were passed.

Important Libel Suit Decision.
Judge Spencer of division 7 of the St. Louis circuit court handed down a decision upholding the rights of newspapers to plead in justification in libel suits that the articles sued on were true.

Swept by Prairie Fire.
A strip fifty miles long by thirty wide in the southern part of Holt and Rock counties, Nebraska, was swept by a prairie fire and thousands of dollars' worth of damage done.

Fire at Chicago.
Fire totally destroyed the seven-story Shoeneman building, 303-305 Dearborn street, and 46-48 Plymouth place, Chicago, March 21. The loss will reach $160,000.

Wisconsin to Celebrate June 7.
Gov. Scofield has issued a proclamation designating June 7 as a legal holiday for the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of Wisconsin's existence as a state.

Rehearing for Bartley.
The Nebraska supreme court has granted a rehearing to ex-State Treasurer Bartley, sentenced to twenty years in the penitentiary for embezzlement.

Chicago Wants Methodist Conference.
An effort is being made by the Methodist laymen of Chicago to secure the next general conference of the Methodist church, to be held in 1900.

Equal Representation for Laity.
The Philadelphia Methodist Episcopal conference voted that the laity shall have equal representation with the clergy in the general conference.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of Testimonials.

OVER-WROUGHT NERVES OF WOMEN.

Extracts From Letters Received by Mrs. Pinkham.

"I am so nervous and wretched." "I feel as if I should fly." How familiar these expressions are. Little things annoy you and make you irritable. You can't sleep, you are unable to lift ordinary burdens, and are subject to dizziness. That bearing-down sensation helps to make you feel miserable. You have backache and pains low down in the side, pain in top of head, later on at base of the brain. Such a condition points unerringly to serious uterine trouble. If you had written to Mrs. Pinkham when you first experienced impaired vitality, you would have been spared these hours of awful suffering. Happiness will be gone out of your life forever, my sister, unless you act promptly. Procure Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once, and begin its use, then write to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., if there is anything about your case you do not understand. You need not be afraid to tell her the things you could not explain to the doctor, your letter is seen only by women and is absolutely confidential. Mrs. Pinkham's vast experience with such troubles enables her to tell you just what is best for you, and she will charge you nothing for her advice. Mrs. JENNIE BIERLY, Youngdale, Pa., writes: "DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Will you kindly allow me the pleasure of expressing my gratitude for the wonderful relief I have experienced by taking your Vegetable Compound. I suffered for a long time with nervous prostration, backache, headache, loss of appetite, a heavy bearing-down feeling, also burning pains in the groins. I could not sleep, was tired all the time, had no ambition. Life was a burden to me. The pains I suffered at times of menstruation were something dreadful. I thought there was no cure for it. I saw your advertisement in the paper, and my husband advised me to try your medicine. I took five bottles, and now I am well and happy. Your medicine saved my life." HOMES IN NEBRASKA

If you think of changing your location remember this; Nebraska's soil is rich and easily tilled. No rocks and stumps. All grains and fruits that succeed in other states in same latitude flourish there. The climate is well-nigh perfect, the air being dry and free from malaria. An abundance of pure water is found. It is a great state for stock raising and feeding. There is no state in the Union where a hard-working farmer can do so well. Thousands of poor men have become rich in Nebraska. Farms can now be bought on easy terms. Prices are low. A handsome illustrated pamphlet describing Nebraska will be sent free on application to P. S. EUSTIS, General Passenger Agent, Chicago.

European Attitude Toward Us.

The powers of Europe, except perhaps England, profess to see dreadful things in the prospect of a war between the United States and Spain. They see such horrors that the Russian Novoe Vremya declares all Europe will send to President McKinley a united protest against such war if he should be the one to declare it. They will meanwhile bring such pressure to bear on Spain that she will not dare declare it unless forced to do so by danger of a revolution at home.

Why are the powers of Europe so anxious to prevent a war between Spain and the United States? The emperor of Austria wants to prevent it because the queen regent of Spain is his niece and the Hapsburgs and the Spanish reigning family have been bound together by ties of kinship for many generations. It would be well, however, for the emperor of Austria just now to keep the peace among his own mobbish subjects and attend to his own affairs.

The reasons that the other European powers are so set against the war is that they see in it the ruin of Spain. Undoubtedly we should whip the dons. Then the Carlist rebels would spring up, and there would be revolution and anarchy. Spain owes hundreds of millions of dollars already to capitalists in France, England and Germany; less to England than to France and Germany. To save the money their citizens have invested in the rotten old Spanish monarchy the governments of Europe are endeavoring to prevent war. It is not spite against us so much as desire to keep German capitalists from loss that prompts William of Germany to protest against a Spanish-American war.

Our New Naval Purchases.

The two vessels which the Brazilian government has kindly sold to the United States are of the type known as protected cruisers. They are made of steel, this being covered first with wood and then with copper. The wood and copper covering is called sheathing and is an effective protection against rust and barnacles. The cruisers are called protected because they are covered on deck with a steel armor plate from 1.2 to 3.5 inches thick. This armor plate also extends down below the water line over the machinery and boilers.

In general the new cruisers are of the type of our own Cincinnati and Raleigh, but they are superior in respect to fuel carrying capacity. They will hold each 850 tons of coal, which would enable them to cross the Atlantic and back without stopping anywhere for fuel. Besides that they are armed fore and aft with six inch guns, three at each end, which can be fired simultaneously in both directions. They are likewise faster than our cruisers. The price paid for them the naval department will not tell, but it is about $1,500,000 for each.

One of the two Brazilian cruisers, the Amazonas, now on her way to the United States in charge of part of the San Francisco's crew, passed into possession of this country at Gravesend, where she was about to depart for South America. The other, the Admiral Bruu, at Newcastle-on-Tyne, will not be completed for two months, but she has already had the American flag hoisted over her in the shipyard and an American crew assigned to her. This was to prevent international complications. In case war should be declared between the United States and Spain it would be against the law of nations for England to permit a vessel to be fitted out in one of her ports to make war on a country with which she was at peace—namely, Spain. But our buying the vessel before war is declared avoids that difficulty.

With the loss of the Maine and the 255 brave men destroyed with her, also with the knowledge of the terror, disease and starvation reigning in Cuba, the American people can talk or think of little else than the Spanish-American situation.

"The flag of Spain will wave forever in Cuba," says Blanco. That has a ring of the dying in the last ditch talk which always comes before utter collapse of a cause.

One hundred additional torpedo boats and torpedo boat destroyers will about bring our navy up to the average modern requirement in this respect.

"The Spanish flag represents liberty and civilization," says Blanco. This is the most monstrous lie ever uttered even by a Spaniard.

A New Social Order.

It is indicated by many signs in every department of civilization. The least of these signs is the renewed activity in that co operative colony building which began with Fourier a century ago and which has been making abortive attempts at success ever since. The various new colonies in Europe and elsewhere show this activity.

A Tolstoi colony is at present forming for action on the island of Alderney in the English channel. The members will all be workers and will divide equally the profits of their undertaking. They will labor as fishermen, gardeners and fruit growers. Numbers of persons with money are said to be joining this colony. They are weary of the scramble and sharp practice of city life.

But in other ways and among people who would repudiate indignantly the idea that they are in any way whatever countenancing socialism the community idea is steadily increasing. The disappearance of the single city house is a striking illustration. Families of small means have discovered that they can have nearly all the advantages and privacy of a single home for a small price by accepting the terms imposed on dwellers in a well-kept city flat. Many apartment houses are arranged with a restaurant where the families occupying suits of rooms can obtain food without cooking it for themselves. This way of living has been found to be eminently comfortable and convenient. What is it but unconscious communism again?

The most striking instance of a community of financial interests drawing large bodies of men together is found in those very trusts now so abused. The industrial undertakings of our time are too vast for any one man or any one man's capital to cope with. Business men of means, therefore, put their money together, whether it be for buying oil wells, building ships or railroads or operating mines and with a common end in view work in harmony. There is injustice done, there are tyranny, corruption and cruelty, when these concerns are in the hands of unscrupulous men, but that will not destroy the modern tendency of mankind to unite for great enterprises, the greatest the earth has known.

The wind sets that way. Let us be patient. The problem will be worked out right in time.

war with Spain can only come in one case. That will be if our own court of inquiry finds the Maine was blown up by Spaniards, and the Spanish government declines to accept this view and refuses to give us apology and indemnity. The United States does not want war. Its best interests are served by peace with all nations. The United States would, therefore, have no object in reporting that the Maine was blown up by treachery if such were not actually the fact. The American people are in no state of mind for any foolishness, however, and in case Spain should refuse us satisfaction war would be declared inside of 24 hours.

Clara Barton and Senator Redfield Proctor have no object in telling anything but the truth in regard to Cuba. When Clara Barton herself calls on Blanco in Havana and protests indignantly because supplies sent by Americans to starving reconcentrados are used to feed Spanish soldiers, when Senator Proctor recites from a written document in the United States senate the statement that Spain in Cuba has possession of only so much ground as her army sits on and that outside of the one city of Havana desolation and misery reign, the American people know the exact situation in a few words.

Is any American republic inclined to be unfriendly to the United States? Yes, there is one—Chile. When the Balmaina revolution was on in Chile, during the administration of Benjamin Harrison, a Chilean mob in the port of Valparaiso made an attack on sailors of the United States cruiser Baltimore, killing some of them. For this the United States made Chile apologize and pay an indemnity of $75,000, and Chile has not loved us much from that day to this. Still, she seems not to hate us enough to make her willing to sell her big armoredad, the O'Higgins, to Spain for any price.

In one respect Spain has the advantage over us in naval equipment—she is much better supplied with torpedo boats, which are considered as a first requisite to modern sea fighting. It will be necessary for our naval department to construct such a fleet as quickly as possible.

The one remaining link that would weld together finally and firmly the north and south in this country would be a war with a foreign nation—Spain, for instance.

The settlement of the controversy between the United States and Great Britain in regard to the Alaskan boundary is a credit to Great Britain and exceedingly satisfactory to us. Our contention has been that the three marine leagues inland from the shore which marked the line between the long narrow strip of southern Alaska and British America should begin at the mainland of Alaska and follow the inlets of the ocean. The British contention has been that the three marine leagues should begin at the islands along the Alaskan shore and not the mainland and that the line should cross the middle inlets instead of following inland their windings. Plainly we were right and they were wrong, and they have had the grace to give up their unreasonable claim and listen to common sense. The boundary follows the summit of the mountains in the southern part, and that will give the British the eastern slope of Chilkoot and White passes. The miner will therefore at one step on the top of these passes cross from American to British territory.

A silly theater manager in New York city who wished to advertise his house put a Spanish flag across the threshold, so that the audience would have to step upon it as they passed in. It had the desired effect and drew a great, roaring crowd around the door, a crowd that could only be dispersed by the police. The manager degraded himself and his country when he did such a senseless thing. No good end could possibly be served by it, only bitter animosities aroused. A deed of that kind is almost sufficient cause for Spain to demand of this nation a disavowal and an apology. The cowards who would insult another nation's flag are as a rule the last ones to fight for their own if it is in danger.

That truly original genius Governor Pingree has no mercy on the impetuous state legislator. The governor called the legislature together to devise means of increasing taxes on railroads in the state and thus getting more revenue out of them. Then he was harsh enough to turn around and issue a proclamation to the representatives and senators that they must under no consideration accept free passes to the state capital from the roads they were expected to levy increased taxes on. Cret Governor Pingree!

The delay in the annexation of Hawaii is owing to the opposition of the Sugar trust of America. If it should fail altogether and the United States should eventually have an enemy instead of a possession of its own in the south seas, let not the American people forget that it is still owing to the influence of sugar at Washington.

Those fools who are insulting the flag of Spain in the United States should be gagged and bound if they cannot be induced to cease their idiotic manifestations in any other way. Such a show of imbecile spite is suited to a lunatic or a child about 2 years old or perhaps a dog, but not to men.

Another result of the Spanish war scare is that hereafter we shall have a drydock large enough to accommodate our largest ships, and we shall not have to send them to a British port when repairs are necessary. The new drydock will be at Newport News and will be 900 feet long.

The reason gold has been flowing into this country from abroad on both of our coasts is that it can be invested here more profitably than it can in the countries from which it comes.

The new Spanish minister, Senor Luis Polo y Bernabe, is not so handsome as De Lome, but he probably has more sense.

The Waukegan Democrat, in last Saturday's issue, contained quite a write-up of our townsman, Henry Seip, who is a candidate for sheriff. Our prediction is, if Mr. Seip is nominated, he will be elected.
There has been considerable sickness in our midst of late, it being largely lagrippé and influenza, and the medical fraternity have had their hands full in consequence. There are few families who have been wholly free from sickness of some kind.
The following nominations were made at the village caucus held on Wednesday evening:
For President of Village Board—H. L. Prehm.
For Village Clerk—Emil A. Ficke.
For Trustees—Henry Stell, Henry Hiltman and John H. Forbes.

The annual town caucus was held at the town hall Saturday. Notwithstanding the almost impassable condition of the country roads, a fair-sized audience was present. After the meeting was called to order the following was the result:
Supervisor—Denison Huntington.
Town Clerk—E. A. Ficke.
Assessor—D. F. Krueger.
Collector—H. S. C. Meyer.
Highway Commissioner—George Graber.
Constable—Henry Schaefer.
School Trustee—J. C. Whitney.
Thistle Commissioner—Henry Thies.
The People's ticket was put in nomination after the Union caucus was held, and is as follows:
Supervisor—Denison Huntington.
Town Clerk—E. A. Ficke.
Assessor—D. F. Krueger.
Collector—H. L. Berghorn.
Highway Commissioner—P. A. Nimskey.
Constable—Wm. Spinner.
School Trustee—J. C. Whitney.
Thistle Commissioner—Ed Gahner.
Now, the town election will be on the first Tuesday in April. Let every voter see that only such men are elected as are known to favor good roads and other improvements. No man ought to aspire to office who is not fully awake to the best interests of the town. Some improvements must be made to better the condition of the Elia roads.

Miss Schoomaker of Valparaiso, Ind., visited with her sister, Mrs. H. C. Mead, this week.
Mr. and Mrs. Frank Green and Mrs. Ruggles were Chicago visitors Thursday.
James Murray moved on his farm the first of the week, which he will conduct himself this year.
F. Denlein, who accompanied T. V. Slocum on his trip to Arkansas last week, returned home Saturday. He is loud in his praise of the climate and soil of the South.
All are cordially invited to attend a Dime social at the home of George Glynn this (Saturday) evening. The social is given for the benefit of the M. E. church.
The St. Patrick's ball given at Oakland hall last Thursday evening was not largely attended on account of the bad roads. Those attending, however, had a very pleasant time.
A people's caucus will be held on Saturday, April 2, at 2 o'clock, for the purpose of placing in nomination four village trustees, a village president and a village clerk. Every voter ought to attend the caucus and help place in nomination good men for the offices.
While hunting on the farm of Henry Worden, about two and a half miles from town, H. Grabbe found the body of a man on Friday afternoon of last week. The McHenry county coroner was notified and held an inquest over the remains Saturday morning. There was no means of identifying the remains and they were shipped to Nunda with the hope that some one at that place might be able to identify the body.
Mort Hill, Jr., of Chicago, who has been residing here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. Hill, for the past few months, received a stroke of paralysis Sunday morning about 10 o'clock. Dr. Wells was called and after a careful examination pronounced his case hopeless. A specialist was summoned from Chicago, but found nothing more could be done for him. Tuesday night at about 10:30 o'clock he died, having never regained consciousness.

Last Saturday our village presented a more lively appearance than it has for some time. The politicians from the northern part of the town were well represented as well as our local men. As a result exceptionally strong candidates have been placed in nomination for town officers as follows:
Supervisor—A. Cooke.
Clerk—E. A. Golding.
Assessor—E. W. Brooks.
Collector—J. M. Cusker.
Road Commissioner—B. F. Martin.
Justice of the Peace—G. M. Fitch.

A GOOD LETTER

From the Clerk of the Circuit Court.
FERNANDINA, Fla., Feb. 28, 1896.
MR. J. GEORGE SUHRER, Druggist, City.
Dear George:—Please send a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I would not feel easy if I knew there was none of this valuable Remedy in the house. I have given it a fair test and consider it one of the very best remedies for croup that I have ever found. One dose has always been sufficient, although I use it freely. Any cold my children contract yields very readily to this medicine. I can conscientiously recommend it for croup and colds in children.
Yours respectfully, GEO. E. WOLFE.

OUR COAST DEFENSES.

REVIEW OF THE PREPARATIONS FOR WAR.

Protection of Harbors—Mines and Guns Make New York Fairly Safe—Much of the Coast Exposed—Value of the National Guard in an Emergency.

The system of coast defense which has been mapped out for the United States is surely formidable enough, but unfortunately it is not quite as near a state of perfection as could be desired in case of actual hostilities with a powerful enemy. There is enough done, however, to make a respectable showing in case of a war with Spain. During the last ten years about $40,000,000 has been spent on seacoast fortifications, armament, torpedoes, and their equipment, and still much remains to be done, as our Atlantic coast line is enormous in extent and requires a vast amount of attention to fully prepare it for a foreign foe.

High Power Guns.

Emplacements for high power guns are either finished or nearly so at the following points: Portland Head and Great Diamond Island, Portland, Me.; Fort Constitution, Portsmouth, N. H.; Grover's Cliff, Paddock's Island, Long Island Head, Boston harbor; Dutch Island, Narragansett Bay, Great Gull, and Plum Islands, eastern entrance Long Island Sound; Fort Hancock, New York harbor; Finn's Point, approach to Philadelphia; North and Hawkins' Points, approach to Baltimore; Fort Washington and Sheridan Point, approach to Washington, D. C.; Fort Caswell, Wilmington, N. C.; Fort Moultrie, S. C.; Tybee Island, Savannah; Fort Morgan, Mobile, Ala.; Fort St. Philip, New Orleans; Fort Point, Galveston, Tex.; Ballast Point, San Diego, Cal.; Fort Baker, San Francisco harbor; Marrowstone Head, Puget Sound. Guns are in position at Fort Hancock, New York harbor; Portland Head, Me.; Grover's Cliff, Boston; the approaches to Philadelphia and Washington; Fort Caswell, Charleston, Mobile and Galveston harbors. At Fort Hancock, Sandy Hook, there are mounted two fifteen-inch and one eight-inch pneumatic dynamite guns, our defense first, and then we may become aggressive. Well fortified and well defended coast defenses, with the co-operation of the infantry, can surely keep out hostile ships and prevent landing by the enemy. Large battleships and cruisers can not and do not run by forts, well armed and served. Let us pay close attention to this fact.

Not Easy for Spain to Coal.

Spain would have difficulty in coaling if she were at war with the United States. Puerto Rico would soon be untenable as a base of supplies. A battleship without coal is useless, and Spain has been obtaining most of her coal from the United States. An instance in point is the Vizcaya, which received a supply of coal in New York after its trip from Spain. The only formidable sea coast fortifications Spain possesses in Cuba are in Havana. These are the defensive works at Playa del Chiso, which mount two twelve-inch rifles; the Santa Clara battery, mounting four eight-inch and three ten-inch modern guns.

Militia Under President.

In replying to a criticism that the President can not send the militia out of the United States, as they are strictly a home guard, the Army and Navy Journal will say: "We have made no mistake. The control of the President over the militia is absolute and unlimited in time of necessity, and as he is the sole judge of that necessity there is practically no limit upon his discretion. In speaking of the militia and not to the national guard. Most of the members of the national guard are militiamen, and as such are subject individually to the orders of the President, issued in accordance with law, but the organizations of the guard are not recognized by the government as organizations.

Gun Cotton Didn't Explode.

Among the latest discoveries in the Maine is a startling one made by Gunner Morgan. He found a lot of gun cotton in the crystal tubes in which it was kept. The tubes were intact, and the gun cotton absolutely dry. It was the highest explosive on board the battleship, and it is intact.

Petitions of Coast Cities.

Now that the government has entered upon a definite policy of con-

A VIEW OF BARCELONA, SPAIN. COULD BE EASILY BOMBARDED.

two twelve-inch and four ten-inch rifles, and a mortar battery of sixteen twelve-inch mortars of sixteen twelve-inch mortars.

Guarding the Narrows.

Forts Hamilton and Wadsworth, guarding the Narrows, are amply provided with eight and ten-inch rifles and mortars, as also are Fort Schuyler, Wilet's Point, and Fort Slocum, guarding the approaches to the eastern entrance of the harbor. Submarine mines are to be relied upon in a great measure to keep hostile ships out of New York harbor, or at least greatly retard their advance, and give the artillery men a chance to effectively serve their guns. In this connection, it is well to show the weakness of the Long Island southern coast, which is in the main unprotected, and would serve as an excellent landing place for a foreign enemy, who might gain decisive advantages if steps were not taken to oppose him. In view of the extent of this Long Island coast line, a large number of men would be required for this patrol duty, and it is here that the National Guard of New York might be utilized. These, numbering about 13,000, might be mobilized in two days in and around New York City, and soon be in readiness for active work.

Use for Infantry.

Infantry would be of great use in case of hostilities by serving in and about sea-coast defenses, doing sentinel and police duty and allowing the trained artillerymen to give their entire attention to serving the high power guns. In this manner the maximum efficiency would be obtained from the artillery. In offensive operations in Cuba the infantry would be the active force, and would bear the brunt of the fighting. The present force available is inadequate, and must be expanded before campaigning begins. This shows the urgent need of the immediate passage by Congress of the regular infantry reorganization bill and the national militia bill. Immediately after a declaration of hostilities all available troops would be ordered by the President to concentrate on the Atlantic coast, and probably a portion would be transported to Cuba to aid the insurgents, who would redouble their activity.

Be that as it may, we must attend to structing and equipping sea coast defenses to meet the exigency of war, scores of persons representing various cities and towns on the Atlantic and gulf coasts have applied to the war department for a generous share of the expenditures to be made for such purposes. As a rule the administration refuses to be impressed by the petitions for defense at particular points. The definite policy has already been adopted of following the judgment of the army engineering corps, modified by the advice of army officers, whose opinions in strategic matters are expert. Above all, the department aims to make expenditures at this time with particular reference to the danger of war with Spain at an early day.

The President has authorized allotment of $2,975,000 for the use of the engineering branch of the army in constructing sea coast defenses, mounting guns, and for other work in connection with that department. The war department has answered all inquiries in reference to new coast defenses with the statement that no additional projects will be considered. The funds which the President will authorize the department to use are to be applied for the completion of works already under way.

EXPENSES CLIMBING UP.

Vast Increase in Pay Rolls.

Some idea of the activity in naval circles is given by the statement that the pay roll of the construction department, only one of several departments, in the Mare Island navy yard for March was $80,000. This great expenditure per month, it is said, was not equaled during the late war. It is said to be the purpose of the President and his advisers to keep a separate and distinct account of all funds expended from the $50,000,000 emergency appropriation made by congress for the national defense. In accordance with this intention a separate form of requisition has been prepared and all amounts allotted from the fund are made upon the direct order signed by the President himself. "The President wants to report to congress just how every cent of this money is spent," said a member of the cabinet today, "and for this reason is adopting the course above outlined." The amount paid for the Mayflower was about $400,000.

Recruiting for Navy.

Recruiting is going on apace at all stations for the army and navy. The Michigan at Erie, Pa., has enlisted 55 men so far, and good reports come from all quarters. The Columbia and the Minneapolis are still 210 men short of their proper force. This is accounted for by the fact that firemen, machinists and coal passers are wanted. An officer at the department said that 5,000 landsmen could be secured in a day if they were desired.

The New Projectile Throwers.

The ordnance bureau of the war department has just awarded contracts for a large number of steel armor piercing and deck piercing projectiles for the coast fortification guns. There were several bidders, but instead of giving the contract to one concern, the bureau divided the contract so that supplies will be coming from several quarters at the same time. The award is as follows: Carpenter steel company—150 eight-inch armor-piercing shot, 300 ten-inch armor-piercing shot, 150 ten-inch armor-piercing shell, 250 twelve-inch deck piercing shell of 800 pounds each, 238 twelve-inch deck-piercing shell of 1,000 pounds each. Sterling steel company—100 eight-inch armor-piercing shot, 150 ten-inch armor-piercing shot, 250 ten-inch armor-piercing shell, 250 twelve-inch deck-piercing shell of 800 pounds each, 205 twelve-inch deck-piercing shell of 1,000 pounds each. Midvale steel company—630 twelve-inch deck-piercing shell of 800 pounds each, 344 twelve-inch deck-piercing shell of 1,000 pounds each.

TWO VOICES.

A SOUTHERN VOLUNTEER.

Yes, sir, I fought with Stonewall,
And faced the fight with Lee;
But if this here Union goes to war,
Make one more gun for me!
I didn't shrink from Sherman,
As he galloped to the sea;
But if this here Union goes to war,
Make one more gun for me!

I was with 'em at Manassas—
The bully Boys in Gray;
I heard the thunderers roarin'
Round Stonewall Jackson's way,
And many a time this sword of mine
Has blazed the route for Lee;
But if this old Nation goes to war,
Make one more sword for me!

I'm not so full o' fightin',
Nor half so full o' fun,
As I was back in the sixties
When I shouldered my old gun;
It may be that my hair is white—
Such things, you know, must be,
But if this old Union's in for war,
Make one more gun for me!

I hain't forgot my raisin'—
Nor how, in sixty-two,
Or thereabouts, with battle shouts
I charged the Boys in Blue;
And I say: I fought with Stonewall,
And blazed the way for Lee;
But if this old Union's in for war,
Make one more gun for me!

HIS NORTHERN BROTHER.

Just make it two, old fellow,
I want to stand once more
Beneath the old flag with you,
As in the days of yore
Our fathers stood together
And fought on land and sea
The battles fierce that made us
A nation of the free.

I whipped you down at Vicksburg.
You licked me at Bull Run;
On many a field we struggled,
When neither victory won.
You wore the gray of Southland,
I wore the Northern blue;
Like men we did our duty
When screaming bullets flew.

Four years we fought like devils,
But when the war was done
Your hand met mine in friendly clasp,
Our two hearts beat as one.
And now when danger threatens,
No North, no South, we know,
Once more we stand together
To fight the common foe.

My head, like yours, is frosty—
Old age is creeping on;
Life's sun is lower sinking,
My day will soon be gone.
But if our country's honor
Needs once again her son,
I'm ready, too, old fellow—
So get another gun.

WOMAN'S FATE.

From the Record, Bushnell, Ill.

No woman is better able to speak to others regarding "woman's fate" than Mrs. Jacob Weaver, of Bushnell, Ill., wife of ex-city marshal Weaver. She had entirely recovered from the illness which kept her bedfast much of the time for five or six years past, and says her recovery is due to that well known remedy, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Mrs. Weaver is fifty-six years old, and has lived in Bushnell nearly thirty years. She is of unquestioned veracity and unblemished reputation. The story of her recovery is interesting. She says: "I suffered for five or six years with the trouble that comes to women at this time of my life. I was much weakened, was unable much of the time to do my own work, and suffered beyond my power to describe. I was downhearted and melancholy.

"I took many different medicines, in fact I took medicine all the time, but nothing seemed to do me any good. I read about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, and some of my friends recommended them highly. I made up my mind to try them.

"I bought the first box in March, 1897, and was benefitted from the start. A box and a half cured me completely, and I am now rugged and strong. I have not been bothered with my troubles since I began taking the pills.

"I have recommended the pills to many women who are suffering as I suffered. They are the only thing that helped me in the trial that comes to so many women at my age."

Mrs. J. H. Weaver. Subscribed and sworn to before me this 23d day of October, A. D., 1897.

O. C. Hicks, Notary Public. When woman is passing beyond the age of motherhood, it is a crisis in her life. Then, if ever, proper attention to hygiene should be exercised. The attendant sufferings will disappear and buoyant health will follow if Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are used. These pills exert a powerful influence in restoring the system to its proper condition. They contain in a condensed form all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood.

NEWS OF ILLINOIS.

IMPORTANT HAPPENINGS OF THE LAST SEVEN DAYS.

Clew to Joliet Murder Mystery—Victim's Handkerchief Was Found Where Assault Was Committed—Lynchers Looking After a Shooter.

Ex-Town Clerk New Is Released.

The case of former Town Clerk Matthew J. New of Lamont, accused of withholding the records and documents of his office from his successor, Emil Carlson, was taken from the jury by Judge Baker and the prisoner released. The court held that it had not been shown that a legal demand had been made for the books by Carlson. After Carlson was elected in 1897, he testified, he made a demand upon New on July 1, 1897, for the records of the office. New refused and failed to turn over many of the documents, he said. Among the missing papers were three bonds of the town of Lamont. For refusal to surrender these bonds New was indicted. It was alleged that the bonds withheld by New disappeared to cover up irregularities which occurred when George Welmer was supervisor of Lamont. It was said in court yesterday that when Welmer was called upon to explain, if he could, the whereabouts of some $15,000 of the township funds, he was unable to do so. The clerk of the township was asked to produce Welmer's bonds and also other bonds. Clerk Carlson applied to New for these, but the latter refused to surrender them, saying he did not have them and knew nothing about them.

Problem Confronts Auditor.

Peoria, Ill.: A question has arisen in the office of state auditor as to the legality of appointing a stockholder committee to assume charge of the assets of the state bank at Elmwood. By virtue of the Illinois statutes the auditor is compelled to appoint a receiver within thirty days after the closing of a state institution, unless other arrangements are made. The doors of the state bank were locked Feb. 18, and the allotted time expires tomorrow. The auditor has submitted the problem to Attorney General Aiken and an answer will be made tomorrow. The plan to reorganize the bank on a $25,000 basis has been abandoned, it seems. According to the report of the state auditor the bank is short, $5,600 in cash, has suffered $8,000 overdrafts, loaned $21,000, $8,000 and $5,000 respectively to the Elmwood Coal company, the Douglas estate and one Bartholomew, all in violation of the state laws. In addition the bank officers continued to take deposits when they knew the bank was insolvent.

Clew to the Walsh Murder.

Joliet, Ill.: The first clew as to the place where Thomas Walsh met his death was discovered Thursday. A handkerchief, identified positively as having belonged to the dead man, was found in a shed in the rear of P. Adleman's store, near the Couch barber-shop and Wachendorfer's saloon. It is now supposed that Mr. Walsh went in the alley back of his brother's grocery store Saturday night to see that the back doors were well secured. The man who struck the fatal blow must have seen him go into the alley and followed his victim. In searching the clothing the handkerchief dropped out and was left unnoticed when the victim was taken away. Chief of Police Bradley made a trip to Chicago to induce Superintendent Murray of the Pinkerton agency to look after the case personally.

Lynchers After a Shooter.

Quincy, Ill.: There was a shooting affray at a Baptist religious meeting in a schoolhouse near Nebo last week. David Walspon, deputy sheriff of Pike county, went to the meeting to arrest John Althelsen, charged with having assaulted Fred Larry, a boy. Althelsen, when confronted with the warrant, drew a pistol and fired three times at the officer. One bullet took effect in the stomach and the other in the lungs, while the third struck a Mrs. Jennings. The officer, as he lay upon the floor, fired twice at Althelsen, who backed out of the door, mounted his horse and escaped. An effort will probably be made to lynch Althelsen.

Illinois Items.

The upper portions of the limbs of a mutilated human body were discovered in the lake at the foot of Eighty-seventh street, Chicago. George Meggett of 8138 Escanaba avenue made the discovery. He notified the South Chicago police and the remains were taken to Greiself's undertaking establishment, 9126 Commercial avenue. The police believe the body has been in the water several months.

McKendree college at Lebanon, Ill., by a decision just handed down in the Fourth District Appellate court, comes into possession of a bequest of $14,000. McKendree college is one of the oldest educational institutions in the Mississippi valley. Dr. Chamberlain, its present efficient president, is doing wonders in these recent years for the school over which he presides.

Treatment of Pigs.

All the pigs may be treated alike until they are five or six months old, because no matter for what purpose they are intended, the first work in the preparation for that purpose is to build up the frame, to develop the bone and muscle, says Texas Stock and Farm Journal. Whenever the weather permits the sows and pigs should have free and wide range over all the farm not devoted to cultivation, and pasturage should be looked upon as essential to their development. If the pasturage is good the amount of rooting they will do will not be a damage to the range or the farm, for they will destroy many insect pests and the exercise will be a benefit to the animals. A patch of peas should be grown on every farm for the young pigs as well as for other purposes, and the pigs should run in them an hour or so every day. The peas have much the same nutritive qualities as milk and are cheaper. When the pigs have them in sufficient quantity their frames have a rapid development and they can be brought on to the corn feeding later with less risk of injury than if they had passed through the summer on grass or alfalfa alone. But wherever in Texas the alfalfa can be grown, and in many portions of the state it will thrive well, it ought to form a most important part in building up the frames of the young animals. After they have become five or six months old those that are to be kept as breeders should be separated from the animals that are to be fed for the market. The methods of handling the former should not be materially changed, and such changes as are made in feeding the fattening animals should be made gradually and cautiously, watching them until they have been brought to full feed. At no time is it well to confine them solely to corn. Some green stuff should be given them, and some variety of food, with plenty of charcoal and salt, abundance of pure water, and they should have clean, well sheltered quarters. Corn, of course, will be the principal food in finishing, but it should never be given so freely and exclusively as to cause the hogs to become in the least tired of it. And at eight or nine months of age they should be ready for the market.

Market Steers Early.—Mr. W. H. Thompson, Jr., president of the National Live Stock Exchange, in an address to that body, says: "Prepare and market your beef steer either as a yearling or two-year-old; in no case keep them beyond three years. It is during these years that the sap is in the beef, and if fat the animal is in the best condition for the market he will ever be or you can ever make him. There is no surplus of bone or fat that matures after the third year that adds to his marketable value, and then again after that time a greater quantity and heavier feed is required. The heavy cuts of beef that were once in demand are fast losing their prestige, as now the general inquiry and demand of the consumer is for prime young light-weights of beef. Evidences of this may frequently be seen in the market quotations of cattle sales, wherein prime yearlings are sold at the same price per pound as prime four-year-old matured and finished cattle which have cost the producer a goodly sum per animal more to make."

Cheap Feeds for Hogs.—Writers in the agricultural papers are suggesting several feeds for hogs that are said to be better and cheaper than corn. A practical hogman of Kansas writes that he can raise 500 to 800 bushels of artichokes per acre and that he has turned his large herd of hogs on them in November, and from that time cut his corn ration to one-third, and that his hogs did well. Another says he can grow thirty loads of pie-melons per acre, and thinks they are cheaper and better for stock hogs than corn. Still another has kept nineteen head of hogs on one and three-quarter acres of sorghum and cut a good crop of fodder from the same ground in the fall. But wherever alfalfa can be grown it will, perhaps, be found the most satisfactory. It furnishes all the elements for developing the growing animals and puts them in splendidly prepared condition for being brought to fattening feed.—Ex.

The Lazy Sow.—The over lazy sow should be avoided, for she is likely to lie down upon her little ones, while they are yet too young to get out of the way, and crush them. This fault is not likely to be developed in young sows as in those that have grown older and have farrowed several litters of pigs. Some sows are always careful of their pigs, no matter how old they grow or how many litters they have farrowed. Every breeder has noticed that when certain sows desire to suckle their young, they will lie carefully down on the belly then slowly turn over on the side. This sow never kills any of her pigs by "overlying" them.—Ex.

It is doubtful if a milking machine can be found that will give better satisfaction than the human hand.

Civilization is only now beginning to make itself felt in the dairy. Its first order is, "Clean up."

A DOCTOR'S DIRECTIONS.

They save a daughter from blindness.

When a father writes that yours "is the best medicine in the world," you can allow something for seeming extravagance in the statement if you know that the medicine so praised, cured a loved daughter of disease and restored to her the eyesight nearly lost. The best medicine in the world for you is the medicine that cures you. There can't be anything better. No medicine can do more than cure. That is why John S. Goode, of Orrick, Mo., writes in these strong terms:

"Dr. Ayer's Sarsaparilla is the best medicine in the world. My daughter had a relapse after the measles, due to taking cold. She was nearly blind, and was obliged to remain in a dark room all the time. The doctors could give her no relief; one of them directed me to give her Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Two bottles cured her completely."

The thousands of testimonials to the value of Dr. Ayer's Sarsaparilla repeat over and over again, in one form or another the expression: "The doctors gave her no relief; one of them directed me to give her Dr. Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Two bottles completely cured her."

It is a common experience to try Dr. Ayer's Sarsaparilla as a last resort. It is a common experience to have Dr. Ayer's Sarsaparilla prescribed by a physician. It is a common experience to see a "complete cure" follow the use of a few bottles of this great blood purifying medicine. Because, it is a specific for all forms of blood disease. If a disease has its origin in bad or impure blood, Dr. Ayer's Sarsaparilla, acting directly on the blood, removing its impurities and giving to it vitalizing energy, will promptly eradicate the disease.

The great feature of Dr. Ayer's Sarsaparilla is the radical cures that result from its use. Many medicines only suppress disease—they push the pimples down under the skin, they paint the complexion with subtle arsenical compounds, but the disease rages in the veins like a pent-up fire, and some day breaks out in a volcanic eruption that eats up the body. Ayer's Sarsaparilla goes to the root; it makes the fountain clean and the waters are clean. It makes the root good and the fruit is good. It gives Nature the elements she needs to build up the broken down constitution—not to brace it up with stimulants or patch it up on the surface. Send for Dr. Ayer's Carebook, and learn more about the cures effected by this remedy. It's sent free, on request, by the J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

She came to America in 1883 and resided at Dundee nearly the balance of her life. She leaves seven children—three boys and four girls. The funeral took place at Dundee Thursday, Rev. Stege officiating. Her remains were laid to rest in the new cemetery at Dundee. Henry Ahlgrim, formerly of this place, is a son of Mrs. Ahlgrim.

A surprise party was tendered Miss Beatrice Bennett of Chicago at the home of A. S. Henderson, Wednesday afternoon, the occasion being her sixth birthday anniversary. Refreshments were served and a most enjoyable time was had by the little folks. Among those present were Hazel and Virginia Purcell, Fern Hutchinson, Hazel Wooding, Grace and Hattie Palmer, Jennie and Viola Lines, Gladys Lines, Berenice Hawley, Jeanette Thorp, Madge Bennett, Ruth Myers, Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Bennett and son, Derland.

Obituary.

The deceased, Mr. Clarence M. Hill, son of Mr. and Mrs. Morris S. Hill, was born at Wauconda, Ill., Oct. 15, 1852, and died at the home of his parents in Wauconda, March 22, 1898 being 45 years 5 months and 7 days of age at the time of his death.

His death was immediately caused by a stroke of paralysis Sunday morning, after which, he was unconscious even until the end of his life. The deceased was well known at Wauconda, having lived there the greater part of his life. His dear children, whom he leaves behind, and to whom he was especially devoted, are three in number—one son and two daughters. Besides these children, he leaves his mourning and bereaved widow, an aged father and mother, and many relatives and dear friends—all who deeply feel their loss in his departure to the other world.

The funeral was held at 2 o'clock Thursday at the Baptist church, Wauconda, Rev. T. E. Ream of Barrington officiating. Interment took place at the Wauconda cemetery.

Resolutions of Respect.

WHEREAS, God in his wise providence has seen fit to call from our midst, through death, on the 14th day of March, 1898, Idella H. Wiseman, who was an active and faithful member of our Zion's Y. P. A.,

Resolved, That while we deeply feel the loss of dear Idella from our midst, we nevertheless bow in humble submission to the hand of providence, realizing that our loss is her eternal gain.

Resolved, We, as a Y. P. A., also extend our heartfelt sympathies to the bereaved family, who have lost in Idella a loving and dutiful daughter and sister. May God be their comforter.

Resolved, That these resolutions be copied in the Secretary's Book of the Zion's Y. P. A., also to have them published in THE BARRINGTON REVIEW, and that a copy be sent to the bereaved family. COMMITTEE.
