PALATINE LOCALS.

A. G. SMITH, LOCAL EDITOR.

June is here.
 Class day exercises June 14.
 Firemen's picnic to-morrow.
 Literary society picnic Saturday.
 Commencement exercises June 16.
 Will Ost was a Long Grove visitor Saturday.
 Mrs. Ida Downing visited friends here this week.
 Emil Dahms visited his folks here Memorial Day.
 High school alumni reunion and banquet June 23.
 C. E. Julian was on the sick list the first of the week.
 H. H. Rice of Chicago was in town on business Tuesday.
 Meeting and election of Memorial Day officers Monday night.
 Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Ost visited relatives at Diamond Lake Sunday.
 Miss Leta Barnes was a guest of Mrs. William Wilson and family this week.
 Mrs. Degmer of Auburn Park visited her brother, C. W. Ost, last Monday.
 Mrs. Frank Wilson of Ravenswood visited many friends here Memorial Day.
 A fruit store has been opened in the old Wilson house by two Italians from Chicago.
 Miss Selma Torgler has been confined to the house all week with measles.
 A number of our bicyclists saw the big road race pass near Wheeling last Tuesday.
 Mr. and Mrs. Jonathan Wilson visited relatives in Chicago the first of the week.
 Mrs. Wittle went to Chicago Monday to visit with her daughter, Mrs. Will Dahms.
 Frye & Putnam have purchased a covered bus and contemplate purchasing another.
 Mr. Battermann will move the barn on the Helber place to the lot back of John Fink's place.
 Joe Converse fell from a swing and broke his leg last week, Thursday. He is getting along nicely.
 F. J. Filbert, E. F. Baker and A. G. Smith have recently purchased forty acres each of Alabama land.
 Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Dean of Chicago are visiting their son and calling on Palatine friends this week.
 The Woman's Foreign Missionary society will meet with Mrs. R. H. Lytle on Thursday, June 8th.
 Mayor Olms is endeavoring to stop the noise on our streets made by those who get too full of enthusiasm.
 Mrs. Cooper returned from Pennsylvania Thursday where she has spent several weeks with her daughter, Belle.
 Mr. Lynch of Wisconsin, who has an interest in the Register, has been a guest of Editor Paddock and family this week.
 Albert Beutler visited his folks here Memorial Day. He left for New York yesterday and will sail for England next Wednesday.
 Mrs. Mix and children of Chicago visited with her parents here the first of the week, and Mr. Mix came out to spend Memorial Day.
 The Woman's Foreign Missionary society of the Rockford district of the M. E. church will convene at Marengo June 6, 7 and 8, being its annual session.
 The bad weather kept many from attending the Memorial exercises Sunday morning in the Methodist church, but those who did attend heard an excellent address by the pastor, Rev. F. B. Hardin. Each soldier and soldiers' widow were presented with button-hole bouquets and memento cards.

The work on Mr. Kimmett's new house is progressing rapidly, and from the books and plans, etc., it is going to be a beautiful residence when finished.
 Our police have received instructions to enforce the ordinances prohibiting bicyclists riding on the sidewalks and stopping persons pasturing their horses on the streets.
 Mr. Sheppard, commander of the Nunda Post G. A. R., died suddenly on Memorial Day while the procession was going from the cemetery to the church to hear the address by Rev. W. H. Smith.
 Mayor Olms has decided to build a house. He is negotiating for the purchase of a lot on the southwest corner of James Wilson's nursery where he will erect a building which will be an admirable addition to our modern dwelling houses.
 Charles Seip came near meeting with a serious accident on the race track Tuesday. He was speeding his horse when it fell, throwing the sulky into the air and Charley with it. A slight bruise to the horse was the only result.
 The St. Paul fast train ran into an engine at Des Plaines Wednesday night, smashing both engines. A colored man who was stealing a ride on the platform of the first car was killed. One of the porters was injured and both firemen had their legs broken.
 Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Green of Fort Wayne, Ind., are the guests of their cousin, Miss Delia Bennett. Mr. Green was editor of the Enterprise at this place for a few months about ten years ago. He made this office a very pleasant call and says Palatine has improved rapidly since he was here.
 The following are the members of the eighth grade graduating class of the public school: Arthur Knigge, Herbert Filbert, Charles Schering, Henry Schroeder, Charles Paddock, Walter Flury, Charles Williams, Earl Hoffmeister, Tom Putnam, Mary Hoffmeister, Rose Converse, Delia Knigge, Mary Wienecke, Libby Hutchinson, Bertha Wildhagen, Elnora Arps.
 The Palatine firemen have made extensive arrangements for their picnic at Plum Grove to-morrow. All kinds of amusements have been provided and a big crowd is expected. Dancing will be in order in the evening. Prof. Horn's orchestra will furnish music. The celebrated Palatine Military band will render up-to-date music and the Palatine mancehor will assist with a number of songs. The proceeds go toward purchasing suits for the boys so that they can present a good appearance in the contests at Naperville this year.
Palatine Observed Memorial Day in a Fitting Manner.
 Last Tuesday proved one of the finest days for Memorial Day and a large crowd turned out to observe the same. The school children marched to the Methodist church at 1:30 p. m., headed by the Palatine Military band, where seats had been reserved for them. The church was crowded long before the time set for the program to commence. The band rendered a selection after which a quartette, composed of Misses Matilda Schultz, Martha Bohlman, Anna Salzer, and P. Knowe, sang a beautiful song. Prayer was offered by Rev. F. B. Hardin, after which the school sang another song. Rev. T. A. Hardin of Englewood then delivered the oration of the day. It was an eloquent address, delivered in his usual earnest style. Mr. Hardin was colonel of the 57th Indiana Volunteer Infantry and was well able to sympathize with the keeping of the day. The names of the deceased soldiers buried in Palatine cemetery was then read by Comrade F. J. Filbert. The procession then formed and marched to the cemetery where the pupils assisted the veterans in decorating the soldiers' graves. An eloquent address was delivered by Mr. Filbert, after which the young ladies of the quartette sang a trio. After the usual services in honor of the unknown dead the procession was again formed and marched to the German cemetery where the soldiers' graves at that place were strewn with flowers. After a song a march was taken up, passing through town and disbanding at the church.

NOTES.
 The Palatine band shows decided improvement on each appearance. Its playing on Tuesday was extra fine.
 Persons wishing to know how the money is spent for Memorial Day can do so by attending the meeting in the church Monday night.
 A stranger was taken with a fit during Col. Hardin's address and a young lady became so frightened that she fainted away and when her mother went to her, after being taken from the church, she also fainted away. In the meantime the pupils got an idea that a mad dog was in the church and a panic seemed certain, when Dr. E. W. Wood arose and commanded everyone to sit down as there was nothing the matter. In a few seconds everything was as quiet as before.
 It would be much better to hold the exercises in the open air hereafter if the weather permits.
Semper Fidelis Society
 The literary society gave a novel and interesting entertainment to a large audience in the church parlors last Friday evening. "Madame Jarley's wax works" was presented and the parts were rendered in a humorous manner. Fred Smith characterized a Yankee and Miss Anna Salzer, Madame Jarley, who was buying wax works to take to England. Among the characters represented were:
 Uncle Sam..... James Harris
 Liberty..... Mrs. Clark
 The Student..... Miss Lulu Abbott
 Mrs. Winslow..... Mrs. G. H. Arps
 Simple Simon..... Ralph Beutler
 Dewey..... G. H. Arps
 Hobson..... Raymond Beutler
 Sleeping Beauty.....
 Heavenly Twins..... Mrs. T. A. Smith and Pim Arps
 Miss Blanch Scheitring and Phillip Matthei
 Office Boy..... Hutchinson Hart
 The society will hold a picnic at Lake Zurich next Saturday afternoon and expect to have a grand time, as they are the ones who know how to enjoy such an outing.
Memorial Exercises at the White School House.
 The following program was carried out at the White school house in observance of Decoration Day, and was greatly enjoyed by all:
 Exercises by the school.
 Welcome song.
 Johnny McCree.
 When Dewey comes sailing home.
 Temperance song.
 Excelsior.
 Flag of Washington.
 Recitation..... May Burkitt
 Months..... Twelve children
 Days of the week..... Seven pupils
 Farce—"The Irish Student"—Irving Hollister, Charles Gottschalk and Forrest Williams.
 Recitation—"Where do You Live"—F. Adams
 Dialogue—"It's no Disgrace to Work"—Luella Hager and May Burkitt.
 Flower exercises..... Nine pupils
 Exercises by the school.
 Recitation—"Climbing up the Hill"—Fred Sommerfeldt.
 Dialogue—"How the Fun Resulted"—Lester and Fred Adams, Willie and Charles Gottschalk.
 Recitation—"Somebody's Mother"—Gertrude Hager.
 Dialogue—"Playing Grown Up"—Mary Gottschalk and Gertrude Hager.
 Song—"Grandpa's Spectacles"—Charles and Mary Gottschalk.
 Dialogue—"Contrasted Homes"—Luella and Gertrude Hager, May Burkitt, Forrest Williams, Verne Hollister and Willie Gottschalk.
 Song—"Good Bye"..... School
W. R. C. Entertainment.
 The entertainment given at the Methodist church Tuesday evening under the auspices of the Woman's Relief Corps was a grand success. The church was well filled and the proceeds amounted to $25.70.
 Prof. Raymond G. Hancock, who is a dramatic reader and impersonator of rare talent, entertained his audience in an able manner.
 Our local talent did much to make the evening's entertainment one of pleasure. Dr. C. H. Kendall and Miss Carrie Kingsley favored those present with solos and responded to an encore. Misses Almeda and Myrtle Plagge deserve special mention for the way in which they entertained the audience. They also responded to an encore.

PHANTOM SHIP

—OR—
The Flying Dutchman.

—BY CAPTAIN MARRYAT.

CHAPTER XX.—(Continued.)

That the admiral had exceeded his powers in taking the life of the officer was undeniable, as although his instructions gave him the power of life and death, still it was only to be decided by the sentence of the court-martial held by the captains commanding the vessels of the fleet; he therefore felt himself justified in resistance. But Philip was troubled with the idea that such resistance might lead to much bloodshed; and he was still debating how to act, when they reported to him that there was a boat coming from the admiral's ship. Philip went upon the deck to receive the officer, who stated that it was the admiral's order that he should immediately come on board, and that he must consider himself now under arrest, and deliver up his sword.

"No, no!" exclaimed the ship's company of the Dort. "He shall not go on board. We will stand by our captain to the last."

"Silence, men! silence!" cried Philip. "You must be aware, sir," said he to the officer, "that in the cruel punishment of that innocent young man, the admiral has exceeded his powers; and, much as I regret to see any symptoms of mutiny and insubordination, it must be remembered that if those in command disobey the orders they have received, by exceeding them, they not only set the example, but give an excuse for those who otherwise would be bound to obey them, to do the same. Tell the admiral that his murder of that innocent man has determined me no longer to consider myself under his authority, and that I will hold myself as well as him answerable to the company whom we serve for our conduct. I do not intend to go on board and put myself in his power, that he might gratify his resentment by my ignominious death. It is a duty that I owe these men under my command to preserve my life, that I may, if possible, preserve theirs in this strait; and you may also add that a little reflection must point out to him that this is no time for us to war with, but to assist each other with all our energies. We are here, shipwrecked on a barren coast, with provisions insufficient for any lengthened stay, no prospect of succor, and little of escape. As the commodore truly prophesied, many more are likely to perish as well as him—and even the admiral himself may be of the number. I shall wait his answer; if he choose to lay aside all animosity, and refer our conduct to a higher tribunal, I am willing to join with him in rendering that assistance to each other which our situation requires—if not, you must perceive, and of course will tell him, that I have those with me who will defend me against any attempt at force. You have my answer, sir, and may return on board."

CHAPTER XXI.

The officer went to the gangway, but found that none of his crew, except the bowman, were in the boat; they had gone up to gain from the men of the Dort the true history of what they but imperfectly heard; and before they were summoned to return had received full intelligence. They coincided with the seamen of the Dort that the appearance of the Phantom Ship, which had occasioned their present disaster, was a judgment upon the admiral for his conduct in having so cruelly deserted the poor commodore.

Upon the return of the officer with Philip's answer, the rage of the admiral was beyond all bounds. He ordered the guns aft, which would bear upon the Dort, to be double-shotted, and fired into her; but Krantz pointed out to him that they could not bring more guns to bear upon the Dort in their present situation, than the Dort could bring to bear upon them; that their superior force was thus neutralized, and that no advantage could result from taking such a step. The admiral immediately put Krantz under arrest, and proceeded to put into execution his insane intentions. In this he was, however, prevented by the seamen of the Lion, who neither wished to fire upon their consort nor to be fired at in return. The report of the boat's crew had been circulated through the ship, and the men felt too much ill-will against the admiral, and perceived at the same time the extreme difficulty of their situation, to wish to make it worse. They did not proceed to open mutiny, but they went down below, and when the officers ordered them up they refused to go upon deck; and the officers, who were equally disgusted with the admiral's conduct, merely informed him of the state of the ship's company, without naming individuals so as to excite his resentment against anyone in particular. Such was the state of affairs when the sun went down. Nothing had been done on board the admiral's ship, for Krantz was under arrest, and the admiral had retired in a state of fury to his cabin.

In the meantime Philip and the ship's company had not been idle; they had laid an anchor out astern, and hove taut; they had started all the water, and were pumping it out, when a boat pulled alongside, and Krantz made his appearance on deck.

"Captain Vanderdecken, I have come to put myself under your orders, if you will receive me—if not, render me your protection, for as sure as fate I should have been hanged tomorrow morning if I had remained in my own ship. The men in the boat have come with the same intention—that of joining you if you will permit them."

Although Philip would have wished it had been otherwise, he could not well refuse to receive Krantz under the circumstances of the case. He was very partial to him, and to save his life, which certainly was in danger, he would have done much more. He desired that the boat's crew should return; but when Krantz had stated to him what had occurred on board the Lion, and the crew earnestly begged him not to send them back to almost certain death, which their having effected the escape of Krantz would have assured, Philip reluctantly allowed them to remain.

The night was tempestuous, but the wind being now off shore, the water was not rough. The crew of the Dort, under the direction of Philip and Krantz, succeeded in lightening the vessel so much during the night, that the next morning they were able to haul her off, and found that her bottom had received no serious injury. It was fortunate for them that they had not discontinued their exertions, for the wind shifted a few hours before sunrise, and by the time that they had shipped their rudder, it came on to blow fresh down the Straits, the wind being accompanied with a heavy swell.

The admiral's ship lay aground, and apparently no exertions were used to get her off. Philip was much puzzled how to act; leave the crew of the Lion he could not; nor indeed could he refuse, nor did he wish to refuse the admiral, if he proposed coming on board; but he now made that it should only be as a passenger, and that he would himself retain the command. At present he contented himself with dropping his anchor outside, clear of the reef, where he was sheltered by a bluff cape, under which the water was smooth, about a mile distant from where the admiral's ship lay on shore; and he employed his crew in replenishing his water-casks from a rivulet close to where the ship was anchored. He waited to see if the other vessel got off, being convinced if she did not, some communication must soon take place. As soon as the water was complete, he sent one of his boats to the place where the commodore had been landed, having resolved to take him on board if they could find him; but the boat returned without having seen anything of him, although the men had clambered over the hills to a considerable distance.

On the second morning after Philip had hauled his vessel off, they observed that the boats of the admiral's ship were passing and repassing from the shore, landing her stores and provisions; and the next day from the tents pitched on shore, it was evident that she was abandoned, although the boats were still engaged in taking articles out of her. That night it blew fresh, and the sea was heavy; the next morning the masts were gone, and she turned on her broadside; she was evidently a wreck, and Philip now consulted with Krantz how to act. To leave the crew of the Lion on shore was impossible; they must all perish when the winter set in upon such a desolate coast. On the whole, it was considered advisable that the first communication should come from the other party, and Philip resolved to remain quietly at anchor.

It was very plain that there was no longer any subordination among the crew of the Lion, who were to be seen, in the day-time climbing over the rocks in every direction, and at night, when their large fires were lighted, carousing and drinking. This waste of provisions was a subject of much vexation to Philip. He had not more than sufficient for his own crew, and he took it for granted that, as soon as what they had taken on shore should be expended, the crew of the Lion would ask to be received on board of the Dort.

For more than a week did affairs continue in this state, when one morning a boat was seen pulling toward the ship and in the stern-sheets Philip recognized the officer who had been sent on board to put him under arrest. When the officer came on deck he took off his hat to Philip.

"You do, then, acknowledge me as in command?" observed Philip.

"Yes, sir, most certainly; you were second in command, but now you are first—for the admiral is dead."

"Dead!" exclaimed Philip; "and how?"

"He was found dead on the beach under a high cliff, and the body of the commodore was in his arms; indeed, they were both grappled together. It is supposed that in his walk up to the top of the hill, which he used to take every day, to see if any vessels might be in the Straits, he fell in with the commodore—that they had come to contention, and had both fallen over the precipice together. No one saw the meeting, but they must have fallen over the rocks, as the bodies are dreadfully mangled."

On inquiry, Philip ascertained that all chance of saving the Lion had been lost after the second night, when she had beat in her larboard streak, and six feet of water in the hold; that the crew had been very insubordinate, and had consumed almost all the spirits; and that not only all the sick had already perished, but also many others who had either fallen over the rocks, when they were intoxicated, or had been found dead in the morning from their exposure during the night.

"Then the poor commodore's prophecy has been fulfilled!" observed Philip to Krantz. "Many others, and even the admiral himself, have perished with him—peace be with them! And now let us get away from this horrible place as soon as possible."

Philip then gave orders to the officer to collect his men, and the provisions that remained, for immediate embarkation. Krantz followed soon after with all the boat, and before night everything was on board. The bodies of the admiral and commodore were buried where they lay, and the next morning the Dort was under way, and with a slanting wind was laying a fair course through the Straits, toward Batavia, and anchored in the roads three weeks after the combat had taken place. He found the remainder of the fleet, which had been dispatched before them and had arrived there recently, had taken in their cargoes and were ready to sail for Holland. Philip wrote his dispatches, in which he communicated to the directors the events of the voyage; and then went on shore to reside at the house of the merchant who had formerly received him, until the Dort could be freighted for her voyage home.

CHAPTER XXII.

The cargo of the Dort was soon ready, and Philip sailed and arrived at Amsterdam without any further adventure. That he reached his cottage, and was received with delight by Amine, need hardly be said. She had been expecting him; for the two ships of the squadron, which had sailed on his arrival at Batavia, and which had charge of his dispatches, had, of course, carried letters from him during his voyages. Six weeks after the letters, Philip himself made his appearance, and Amine was happy. The directors were, of course, highly satisfied with Philip's conduct, and he was appointed to the command of a large armed ship, which was to proceed to India in the spring, and one-third of which, according to agreement, was purchased by Philip out of the funds which he had in the hands of the company. He had now five months of quiet and repose to pass away previous to his once more trusting to the elements; and this time, as it was agreed, he had to make arrangements on board for the reception of Amine.

The winter passed rapidly away, for it was passed by Philip in quiet and happiness; the spring came on, the vessel was to be fitted out, and Philip and Amine repaired to Amsterdam.

The Utrecht was the name of the vessel to which he had been appointed, a ship of four hundred tons, newly launched and pierced for twenty-four guns. Two more months passed away, during which Philip superintended the fitting, and loading of the vessel, assisted by his favorite Krantz, who served in her as first mate. Every convenience and comfort that Philip could think of was prepared for Amine; and in the month of May he started, with orders to stop at Gambröon and Ceylon, run down the Straits of Sumatra, and from thence to force his way into the China seas, the company having every reason to expect from the Portuguese the most determined opposition to the attempt. His ship's company was numerous, and he had a small detachment of soldiers on board to assist the supercargo, who carried out many thousand dollars to make purchases at ports in China, where their goods might not be appreciated. Every care had been taken in the equipment of the vessel, which was perhaps the finest, the best manned and freighted with the most valuable cargo, which had ever been sent out by the India Company.

DISTILLED WATER.

German Scientist Asserts That It Is Dangerous.

A noted German scientist has written a pamphlet inveighing against the use of still water. His studies show that it withdraws the salts from the animal tissues and causes the latter to swell or inflate; isolated living organic elements, cells and all unicellular organisms are destroyed in such water; dying, since they become engorged therein; that is, they lose the faculty, upon which life depends, of retaining their salts and other soluble cell constituents, and consequently these are allowed to diffuse throughout the water. Similarly, the same poisonous effects must occur whenever distilled water is used as a drink, the sense of taste being the first to protest against the article, with an immediate movement to rid the mouth of what has been taken; the local poisonous effect of using the water making itself known by symptoms of catarrh of the stomach on a slight scale. The ordinary distilled water, even when freshly distilled, is not in fact absolutely pure, while that used in laboratories and clinics is, of course, generally stale—has been kept standing in open vessels, mostly in rooms where chemicals of every sort abound, and whose gases and effluvia are taken up by the water.

Sugar as Food.

In a paper recently published on the value of sugar as a food compared with fat, M. Auguste Chauveau maintains that its nutritive value is considerably higher than that deducted from its heat of combustion, and that the calculation that 0.756 pound of the former is equal to one pound of the latter is in many cases exceeded. The increase in relative nutritive value is due largely to the fact that sugar promotes assimilation of the proteins and reduces dissimilation, and the value of food must necessarily depend not only upon the energy it is capable of supplying, but also on the indirect influence that it is capable of exerting in the renewal and formation of animal tissue. From whatever point of view the matter is regarded, the superiority of sugar over fat as a food, whether for men at rest or at work, is very distinct.

The Maid and the Miracle

Miss Lucy Tucker, the daughter of a prominent farmer of Versailles, Ind., was the victim of nervous prostration. Most of the time she was confined to bed, and was on the verge of St. Vitus' dance. It was a pitiful case which medical science failed to conquer. Finally a doctor prescribed Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. Her father said:

"We began giving the pills at once, and the next day we could see a change for the better in her. We gave her one pill after each meal until she was entirely well. She has not been sick a day since. We think the cure almost miraculous."

Ball Bearings on the Farm.
It is probably a safe prediction that all manufacturers of harvesting machinery will eventually adopt ball bearings wherever it is possible to use them. In 1891 the Deering Harvester Company of Chicago equipped all their machines with ball and roller bearings, and the great popularity of the idea led other manufacturers to experiment with several styles of roller bearings, hoping to apply them to their machines without appearing to imitate the originators too closely. The application of ball bearings is more costly, but popular demand will yet force all competitors to follow the lead of the Deering Company.

It took three men twelve hours to fell a tree in one of the new lumber camps opened up near Madison, W. Va. The tree was eight feet through.

MORE FIGHTING REPORTED.

Americans and Filipinos Clash on the Island of Mindanao.

ZAMBOANGA IS BOMBARDED.

Principal City Said to Have Been Laid in Ruins—Trouble in Sulu—Body of Capt. Tilley Found by His Comrades—Buried with Honors.

The New York Journal correspondent cables that severe fighting is reported between Americans and Filipinos on the island of Mindanao. The principal city on the island—Zamboanga—has been bombarded and burned, and is in ruins. The same dispatch reports trouble in Sulu. The Americans have blockaded the port.

Capt. Tilley's Body Recovered.

Dispatches received at the war department give the first details of Capt. Tilley's death on the island of Negros. His party was ambushed by natives, and he and another man killed. The bodies were recovered and buried with military honors.

PANA MINERS WILL STAY OUT.

Decide That They Cannot Work with the Nonunion Men.

The union miners of Pana, Ill., held a mass-meeting to consider the decision of the state board of arbitration. The miners decided to abide by the board's findings regarding the scale, but adopted a set of resolutions declaring that they would not return to work so long as non-union men were employed in the mines.

YELLOW FEVER IS REPORTED.

Dread Disease Has Made Its Appearance at New Orleans.

A case of yellow fever has made its appearance at New Orleans. The patient is dead, and the autopsy positively established the disease to be yellow fever. A strict quarantine has been established, but the weather is very favorable for the spread of the plague.

Urge Expulsion of Roberts.

Urging the expulsion from congress of Representative-elect Roberts of Utah, directing the New York syndicate to dispose of the grievance of Warsawick, the baptized Jew, postponing the Peoria overture concerning committees another year, and listening to reports filled up the day and evening sessions of the general assembly of the Presbyterian church May 26.

The reports of the various boards showed that the boards were all out of debt, and that the church has a clear financial field.

Child Charged with Murder.

Lena Bouts, aged 14, and a younger brother, children of Frank Bouts, a Burlington tie contractor of Pennington county, S. D., are under arrest, the girl being charged with murdering her father. The children claim that the man was cruel to his family, who lived half starved most of the time.

Six Men Terribly Burned.

The striking of a match by a spectator near an oil well three miles east of Marion, Ind., caused the oil surrounding the well to ignite. Six men, who were on the tank into which the oil was pouring, were terribly burned before they could escape.

Heavy Failure in Scotland.

The firm of Neilson Bros., of Glasgow, the largest Scotch house engaged in the iron and steel trade, has failed. It is calculated that the concern lost $1,250,000 during the year. The total of the liabilities is unknown.

Reports of Friction Denied.

The reported quarrels between the peace commissioners and Gen. Otis, and the threatened return of Gen. Otis to this country because of President Schurman's interference with his plans, are untrue.

More Troops Not Needed.

The president has decided not to call for the 35,000 volunteers or any portion of them at present. It can be stated on authority that Gen. Otis wants only 30,000 men in the Philippines.

To Control Automobile Transit.

It is reported that a combination, with a capital of $200,000,000 is forming to control the automobile transit of greater New York.

Hopkins Will Not Withdraw.

Congressman Hopkins of Illinois will not withdraw from the speakership race. He still considers he has a chance of success.

Flaw in Anti-Trust Law.

The Texas anti-trust law, which was so carefully drawn to avoid flaws, is now said to be in violation of the federal patent law.

Rumor of Aguinaldo's Death.

The Spanish newspapers at Manila publish a report, which is impossible of confirmation, to the effect that Aguinaldo is dead.

NEW YORK CENTRAL.

Its Passenger Earnings, Including Controlled Lines, Exceed the Pennsylvania—A Stupendous Showing.

The passenger department of the New York Central system, including lines leased, operated and controlled, east from St. Louis and Chicago, is the largest paying institution of its kind in the world. It beats the Pennsylvania system with its leased and operated lines in the territory named by $1,535,758, and is so far ahead of any other system that comparison, to say the least, is odious. Poor's Manual, which is an authority on railway statistics, in its last yearly edition showed the passenger earnings of thirty-six of the leading railways, as follows:

Pennsylvania	$21,200,000
New York, New Haven & Hartford (Including New England Railway)	15,300,000
New York Central & Hudson River (Leased and operated lines)	15,214,000
Southern Pacific System	11,500,000
Pennsylvania Lines west of Pittsburgh	8,900,000
Boston & Maine System	5,600,000
Chicago & Northwestern	5,500,000
Chicago, Burlington & Quincy	5,500,000
Canadian Pacific	5,300,000
Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul	5,200,000
Erle	5,200,000
Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe	5,000,000
Grand Trunk	5,000,000
Baltimore & Ohio	5,000,000
Southern Ry System	4,800,000
Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific	4,300,000
Louisville & Nashville	4,200,000
Lake Shore & Michigan Southern	4,200,000
Misouri Pacific System	4,000,000
Boston & Albany	4,000,000
Big Four	3,900,000
Delaware, Lackawanna & Western	3,800,000
Michigan Central	3,300,000
Northern Pacific	2,500,000
Wabash	2,300,000
Lehigh Valley	2,200,000
Central Railroad of New Jersey	2,200,000
Union Pacific	2,200,000
Great Northern	2,074,000
Chicago & Alton	1,961,397
Chesapeake & Ohio	1,531,300
Piant System	1,275,174
Denver & Rio Grande	1,248,000
New York, Chicago & St. Louis	876,977
New York, Ontario & Western	638,000
Pittsburg & Lake Erie	544,781
Two of the great systems show earnings from passenger traffic as follows:
New York Central Lines:
New York Central	$15,214,000
Michigan Central	3,300,000
Lake Shore & Michigan Southern	4,200,000
Big Four	3,900,000
Boston & Albany	3,800,000
Pittsburg & Lake Erie	544,781
New York, Chicago & St. Louis	876,977
Pennsylvania Lines:
Pennsylvania Railroad	$21,200,000
Penn. lines west of Pittsburg	8,900,000
Total for these two great systems	$61,835,758

The railroad expert believes that the number of revenue tons hauled per mile is the best indication of a railroad's ability to handle traffic at the lowest cost of transportation. As is well known, the receivers of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad have been spending millions on improvements and have not completed the work, the lines west of the Ohio river being in need of a general rehabilitation, which they are to get this year. But the revenue haul per mile in 1897-98 was increased to 314 tons and a special report for the six months ending December 31, 1898, shows an average of 331.9 tons, quite an appreciable advance. It is confidently expected that still further improvement will be shown before long.

Don't Stand in Your Own Light.

Perhaps you intend to buy a binder or a mower this summer, and it may be that you have concluded that a cheap machine will answer your purpose. This means that you are standing in your own light.

It's better to investigate. There are some things that you should think about before putting your dollars into so expensive a machine as a binder or a mower.

Here are Some Pertinent Facts. Think About Them.

Last season the sales of Deering harvesting machines were 50,000 greater than in any previous year.

The area of ground covered by the Deering works is 62 acres—twice as large as that of any other reaper plant.

6500 employes are engaged in turning out the Deering product for 1899—more than three times the number at work in any other reaper plant.

During the busy part of last season Deering machines were built at the rate of one every 27 seconds.

Don't stand in your own light. Think about these things; they mean something. They mean that Deering machines are the lightest in draft, the easiest to operate and the most reliable and durable grain and grass harvesters manufactured.

Momentary Insanity.

What was at one time called emotional insanity has now developed a new and most alarming phase. It is momentary insanity. The trouble with this new disorder, which generally attacks women oftener than men, is that it doesn't stay long enough either to be treated or to be avoided, but manages to get in its work all the same and then disappear. This is very annoying to doctors and magistrates, for they cannot adapt either medicine or law to persons who go insane at 8 minutes past 3 and recover their full sanity at 2:10. A Miss Walters, who recently jumped from a ferryboat in a tailor-made gown of navy blue cloth, bell cut and trimmed with broad black braid and wearing a hat decorated with orchids and humming birds' wings, is a case in point. Up to the time of jumping she was sane, serene, rational and modest. But nobody noticed her tailor made suit or her hat. Then it struck her suddenly, and over she went. Two stalwart men jumped after her and fought her madly for the possession of her life, which they finally succeeded in securing and dumping on the deck in a very sloppy condition. But by this time she was sane, and when she came to be arraigned for attempting suicide she calmly explained that she just felt like it at that moment—that was all. As she snubbed both the men who rescued her, there is a theory among the deckhands that it was for that privilege that she jumped overboard.

The magazines are doing their best to make our war with Spain ridiculous by overdoing it. They have rushed to the chronicling of heroic small beer without the slightest sense of proportion, and have so exaggerated and over-pictured and over-sung the skirmishes of a mighty nation with a decrepit nation that a great many people are calling a halt to this kind of effusive literature. Thousands upon thousands of Americans who have not forgotten the majestic proportions of our civil war wonder if these magazines ever heard of that stupendous contest, some of whose battles killed more men than were engaged in the whole of the Spanish war. It is well to preserve in literature the bravery and the patriotism of our soldiers in whatever feat of arms these qualities may be shown. But why lose all sense of proportion? Back of the San Juan hill and the destruction of Cervera's ships still looms up the incomparable crisis of Gettysburg and Antietam and Pittsburg landing, at which the heart of mankind stood still and all the world wondered. The courage and daring of our country are undiminished, but the demands and the opportunities are not always the same. We have a great many more artists at work now than then, but the canvas is not so large.

Queen Victoria, not unlike some of our veteran actresses, recently announced her last public appearance. It was at one of those functions so common in Great Britain, the laying of a cornerstone. Whether she will be induced to reconsider this decision, and, like the aforesaid veteran actresses, make several other final appearances, will depend probably altogether upon the condition of the weather and her rheumatism. But the British public appears to have settled down to the conclusion that it has seen the last of her in public. As she is in fairly good health, considering her age, there is really no good reason why she should make her retirement absolute. She still owes a duty to her people, and that duty is not so hard to accomplish when it consists in simply showing herself to her subjects.

Genuinely fraternal and national was the observance of Memorial day at Chattanooga, Tenn. The blue and the gray wiped out all bitter memories with a generous forgetfulness. The G. A. R. men decorated the graves of the Confederate soldiers. The daughters of the south rode side by side with the women of the Union Relief corps, and the orations were splendidly patriotic and eloquent. The very grass on the graves of former enemies is now intertwined, and the flowers on one mound stretch over and shed their perfume on the other.

Is Princeton Pessimistic?

Professor Wilson of Princeton has brought upon himself a good deal of criticism for telling the students that there is no party leadership except the machine, and by warning them against entering political life if they have not an independent living, because the temptation to become corrupt is too great for most men who are dependent. Such extraordinary advice proceeding from an American seat of learning has called forth from Noah Davis and others a storm of protest. If security from corruption in public life can only be found in wealth, then, says Noah Davis, "God save our country," and that sentiment will find an echo in every honest American, whether he be rich or poor, who has read the history of his country. Much as the rich man has done for America—and he is undoubtedly doing a great deal at present—the greatest glory of our statesmanship has been, not only that its most illustrious men were poor when they went into public life, but were poorer when they came out. It certainly does not appear to be the duty of those professors who have charge of the coming men of America to instill into their minds both a contempt for and a fear of public life because it offers temptations. If our colleges cannot make our young men braver, more self sacrificing and willing to give up something for the sake of their country, then they are not doing the work for which so many of them are endowed. What we especially need at this time is a class of young men who will bring clean natures and strong, honest intentions into public life, who cannot be bought or frightened or cajoled, and it ought to be one of the chief duties of our colleges to form just such kind of character for the country. Professor Wilson's remarks betray a flabbiness that does him no credit. He appears to have advised the young men solely with a view to their personal comfort. They were to keep out of the way of temptation. They might indeed learn to swim, but in doing so it was altogether advisable not to go near the water.

A cat and dog cemetery has really been opened by a stock company at Cox-sackie for the burial of pet animals. The place is to be laid out in plots, and the graves are to be ornamented with headstones. It is very difficult to treat this subject seriously, for it is difficult to understand how far mere sentiment can be carried in this direction. To mourn over the loss of pet animals is natural enough, but to attempt to commemorate their virtues in tablets is quite another matter. It is just possible that there is a growing feeling among men that animals share with them the prospects of an immortal existence. The question of instinct as opposed to reason has of late years been seriously questioned by the sentimentalists, and any attempt to endow animals with the same reason that man possesses, differing only in degree, no doubt leads to new attempts to honor the pets with the same memorials that we erect over men. But there will always remain in the minds of robust persons a feeling of contempt for effusive sorrow over an animal, which sorrow is often made ridiculous by the honors which are paid to the carcass of the animal.

For some reason most of the western volunteers desire to return from Manila by way of the Suez canal. This is not an unnatural desire. Almost any one would prefer to come by the way of the storied east, passing through the ancient waterways of history, than to cross the Pacific. But the government has very wisely decided that this cannot be. The trip by the way of the Suez canal costs double that by the way of the Pacific, and the risk to the men's health is doubled. In addition to this, the navy department does not wish to bring its Pacific fleet to the Atlantic coast merely for the purpose of affording our men a pleasanter jaunt. Our boys will therefore have to make the direct voyage home and not see Mount Sinai and the Mediterranean.

From present indications the American exhibit at the Paris exposition will astonish Europe in the matter of machinery, whatever it may do in agriculture and other industrial matters. The showing of American skill in heavy mechanical ironworking will, it is said, be the most complete that America has ever made either at home or abroad. There will be at least 17 American locomotives on exhibition, and the examples of other structural work, such as bridges, etc., will be equally extensive. The commissioners think that the mechanical department will in its way be quite as great a surprise to Europe as was the Spanish war.

WHAT TO READ.

Some Prominent Chicagoans Express Opinions.

In these enlightened times every person who pretends to keep in touch with the progress of the world must read a first-class daily metropolitan newspaper. They who would select the best should be guided by the opinions of prominent newspaper-men who know. Read the following:

"There is no question as to the position occupied by The Chicago Tribune. Its enterprise has been too often demonstrated. As a local and American news-gathering institution it has no superior and few equals. In the matter of foreign cables, no other paper west of New York can be compared to it. These are the things, of course, that go to make a complete and great newspaper. CARTER H. HARRISON, New Mayor of Chicago, formerly publisher Chicago Times.

"The Chicago Tribune is the best newspaper in the world. I consider its make up and facilities for gathering news unequalled, although I do not agree with it politically. The late Postmaster, Chicago, and publisher Staats Zeitung.

"The Chicago Tribune is beyond question the greatest newspaper in the West, if not in the country.

"MARTIN J. RUSSELL," Editor-in-Chief Chicago Chronicle. Your Postmaster or newsdealer will take your subscription for a trial period.

PALATINE, ILLINOIS,

WAUCONDA.

W. H. Strayer of Chicago transacted business here Wednesday.

G. W. Pratt was called to Waukegan on business Wednesday.

M. W. Hughes was a Chicago visitor Tuesday and Wednesday.

L. M. Hill of Chicago spent the first of the week with his parents.

Henry Golding and son Elmer purchased goods in the city Friday.

A. R. Johnson of Chicago is spending a few days with friends in our village.

F. D. Wynkoop of Woodstock visited with his parents Sunday and Monday.

Fred Green came out from the city Monday evening to spend Decoration Day at home.

Will Dillon of Chicago visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Turnbull Tuesday.

Miss Lulu Hill of Chicago is spending a few days with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. M. S. Hill.

Ambrose Hill of Chicago is spending a few days in our village with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Hill.

Master Thomas England returned to the city Wednesday, after spending a few days with his grandmother.

Mrs. Pail has been looking after the household duties at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Hill for the past few days.

Miss Charlesworth returned to the city Wednesday after spending a few days here with Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Hughes.

Oscar Whitcomb of Chicago spent Decoration Day in our village. He says the boys can always depend on him on Memorial Day, for he will be here dead or alive.

W. M. Tidmarsh has rented his house to Oscar Whitcomb of Chicago for the summer and we understand that Mr. Tidmarsh will move to Waukegan in the near future.

The members of the Wauconda G. A. R. and W. R. C. wish to thank the choir, the teachers and pupils of the public school and all others who so kindly assisted them in the observance of Memorial Day.

Free entertainment at Slocum's Lake school this (Saturday) evening. After the entertainment ice cream and cake will be served for 10 cents. A cordial invitation is extended to all and an enjoyable time assured.

We wish to announce that the Mystic Workers meet on the 2d and 4th Wednesday of each month, consequently a meeting will not be held next Wednesday, but the meeting will fall on the 14th of June. The same form follows with the M. W. A. and R. N. A. camps.

David Potter returned to our village Thursday of last week, having received his honorable discharge from the 2d South Carolina, which was mustered out a short time ago. Dave is not looking as strong and robust as when he left our burg about two years ago, but with the change of climate we hope to soon see him recuperate.

Memorial Day was observed in our village last Tuesday by the largest crowd ever seen here since this day was set apart in remembrance of our dead heroes. The parade formed in front of the G. A. R. hall, headed by our two martial bands, followed by the school children and teachers, the old soldiers, the M. W. A. camp and the Woman's Relief Corps. To the tune of national airs the procession marched to the cemetery, where the graves were covered with flowers. After the usual services they returned to the M. E. church, where a fine program was rendered, closing by a very appropriate address by Rev. Dutton. The church was filled to overflowing and the services very greatly enjoyed. The band turned out in the evening and rendered a few choice selections, under the leadership of Mr. Tidmarsh.

LAKE ZURICH.

Vacation.

June weather.

Tramps are plentiful.

Heavy rain storms of late.

Mary Schafer is visiting in Chicago.

D. F. Krueger was in town Monday.

A good job is finished at the outlet. Miss Rose Sholz rides a United States wheel.

Many of our people decorated elsewhere Tuesday.

The Zurich school is soon to undergo many repairs.

Numerous fires are reported in the northern part of the county.

Joe Heim is now clerking in Seip's store, H. Gieske having resigned.

Miss Lena Eichman is expected home from Jacksonville next week.

John Hodge has left for Newton to spend his vacation with his parents.

H. Heise is now conducting the Libertyville creamery for Charles Patten.

Many flags were floating to the breeze last Tuesday in honor of the brave dead.

Are we to celebrate the glorious Fourth this year? Why not talk the matter over?

Banker Patten was in town part of this week looking over his interests at the creamery.

A. G. Rollenbach's black stallion shows great speed and Gus knows how to handle him, too.

Let me know your wants in the bicycle line and I can save you money on your purchases. AL. R. FICKE.

Considerable speeding of fast horses is being indulged in on our streets. Why not have a "brush," ye horsemen?

H. Branding's saloon cellar was again filled nearly full of water during the late rains. Hustle up the sewer drainage.

Will Hockemier of Diamond Lake, Frank Meier of Barrington and John Zimmer and lady of Long Grove were observed here Tuesday.

A great light on the subject. 100 candle power light for 2 1/2 cents, 18 hours, pays for itself in six months. Call at C. W. Kohl's and see it on exhibition.

The section men did not unload the train load of cinders on the ice house track, as was stated in a recent issue of this paper. Thought some mistake the error was made.

The school house was crowded last Saturday evening to hear the Memorial exercises given by the pupils of the school, assisted by Rev. Dutton and friends. A fine program was carried out.

Would Not Suffer So Again for Fifty Times Its Cost.

I awoke last night with severe pains in my stomach. I never felt so badly in all my life. When I came down to work this morning I felt so weak I could hardly work. I went to Miller & McCurdy's drug store and they recommended Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. It worked like magic and one dose fixed me all right. It certainly is the finest thing I ever used for stomach trouble. I shall not be without it in my house hereafter, for I should not care to endure the sufferings of last night again for fifty times its price.—G. H. WILSON, Liveryman, Burgettstown, Washington Co., Pa. This remedy is for sale by A. L. Waller, Barrington, and A. S. Olms, Palatine.

Plano Jones Mower
Longest Lived and Lightest Draft Mower in the world. It has no vibration.

no Noise, no Lost Power.
No Cog Wheels to wear out.
Free from Side Draft and free from Neck Weight.
No backing up to start in the grass.

THE PLANO is the simplest and best.

The following are a few of the points why the Plano machines are the best over other makes:

- 1. In the Plano Jones Lever Binder the knotter contains only 16 pieces, while the Deering has 44, McCormick 28 and the Champion 33.
- 2. It is the only binder put up with lever power, carrying spring, friction clutch reel and jointless main frame.
- 3. The main drive wheel is two inches wider than any other made, consequently the machine will not mire or settle down in soft or loose ground.

Farmers should examine this machine before placing their order.

DEATHS IN SOUTH DAKOTA

Seven Killed and Three Seriously Injured by a Cyclone.

ENTIRE FAMILY DESTROYED.

Towns in Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Michigan, Kansas, Nebraska and Missouri Swept by Severe Storms—Numerous Washouts Are Reported.

A death-dealing cyclone passed over the country in the vicinity of Bijou Hills, twenty-five miles south of Chamberlain, S. D., May 27. Reports tell of the killing of Charles Peterson and his six children, four boys and two girls, ranging from 3 to 15 years old. His wife and two remaining children were so badly injured they may also die.

Dispatches received show that Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Michigan, Kansas, Nebraska and Missouri were swept by severe wind, hail and rain storms. Near Keswick, Iowa, five persons were injured, one fatally, by a cyclone. Wind also did severe damage at Mingo, in that state, while a hailstorm of great severity visited Fonda. Hundreds of window panes in Beatrice and Hastings, Neb., were broken by hail, while vegetation was ruined and thousands of birds were killed. In Hamilton county, Nebraska, $75,000 damage was done by wind, but no lives were lost. Michigan was visited by severe electrical storms, many houses in St. Joseph and Benton Harbor and vicinity being struck by lightning. Numerous washouts, due to torrents of rain, are reported in Illinois and Michigan. Thirty persons attending a "barn warming" near Sandusky, Ohio, were prostrated by one bolt of lightning, but only one, Louis E. Bert, of Oxford township, was killed.

MINING SCALE FOR ILLINOIS.

State Board of Arbitration Fixes Rates for the Year. The Illinois state board of arbitration has rendered its decision in the matter of the joint application of the Pana, Springside and Penwell coal companies of Pana and their former employees. The board fixes the price of mining at 30 1/2 cents per ton, which is 3 1/4 cents more than the amount that was being paid prior to the suspension April 1, 1898, and is 9 1/2 cents less than the scale rate fixed by the state convention.

LATEST ILLINOIS NEWS.

Says the Bishop Will Yield.

East St. Louis, Ill.—The rebellion at St. Patrick's has received another day's reprieve, the bishop having instructed Father Downey to report to him at Belleville to-morrow instead of to-day. The St. Louis representative of the Chronicle claims the bishop this evening agreed to surrender. If so, the fact is not known here. John Pfeiffer of Columbia and other German officers of the Catholic Knights of Illinois have been working on the bishop to-day in the interest of the Irish of St. Patrick's. The bishop is reluctant to establish what he deems a dangerous precedent. However, he is now firmly convinced the people of St. Patrick's will not receive a German priest. At a lecture given here Sunday night by Father Sheehy of Limerick, Ireland, the picture of the deceased Father O'Halloran was shown on the stereopticon canvas and the audience cheered wildly. It is stated that Father O'Halloran did not want a German to succeed him, and prayed the bishop on his death-bed to appoint Father Downey.

Provides a Home for the Aged.

Vandalia, Ill.—The Chicago synod resumed its business sessions this morning. The Rev. M. L. Wagner announced that the elegant residence of Mrs. Elizabeth L. Dieckmann was tendered to the synod for an old folks' home. The synod gracefully accepted the offer and appointed a board of trustees, who will take the necessary legal steps to receive the property, formulate regulations for its government and open the home for the reception of inmates. The synod made appropriations for the education of three young men for the ministry. At the close of the day's session the delegation to the general council of the Evangelical Lutheran church, which meets in October in Chicago, was elected, as follows: The Rev. G. H. Gerberding, D. D.; the Rev. S. Wagenhals, D. D.; the Rev. M. L. Wagner and Henry A. Stone of Vandalia; M. L. Deck and N. D. Myers, M. D., of Decatur, Ill.

Reaffirm Chicago Platform.

Winchester, Ill.—At the democratic county convention held in this city Elmer F. Walker was nominated for county superintendent of schools to fill the unexpired term of the late Harvey E. Leib, deceased. The convention also nominated John W. Taylor for county commissioner and passed resolutions reaffirming allegiance to the Chicago platform of 1896 and demanding the free and unlimited coinage of both silver and gold at 16 to 1, demanding that the standard silver dollar shall be a full legal tender, equal with gold, for all debts public and private. The convention also passed resolutions of commendation in behalf of State Representative Thomas Meehan.

Tram King Nears Chicago.

Galena, Ill.—Edward Lee, "king of tramps," who is walking 5,000 miles on a wager, reached Galena Monday en route to Chicago via Freeport and Rockford. He started from Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 10, 1898. The provisions of the peculiar wager are that he is to walk 5,000 miles in a year, secure a wife and earn $500 in the meantime. He met a romantic young woman at Cedar Rapids, Iowa, and they were married at Fairplay, Wis., Dec. 17, 1898. Later Mrs. Lee's parents took their daughter home, and she is now in South Dakota, where she is suing for a divorce, and which she will receive June 10. Lee has already walked 3,890 miles and has earned $400.

Veterans Have a Reunion.

Benton, Ill.—About 20,000 people were in Benton Monday to attend the annual reunion of the fighting Eighteenth Illinois and to extend a welcome home to the Ninth Illinois. Gov. John R. Tanner, Col. James R. Campbell and Capt. Bruce of Carbondale were the principal orators. The city was covered with flags and bunting, and the crowd was the largest ever known here. One of the features was a dress parade by the Ninth. Of the 2,300 men who composed the Eighteenth only 129 are living. Nearly all of them were present and were entertained at the Stein house. The dinner for the Ninth and the other guests was served at the fair grounds.

Million for Automobiles.

South Bend, Ind.—Studebaker Bros. Manufacturing company of this city recently closed contracts for the construction of automobiles aggregating nearly $1,000,000. New York and Boston capitalists are the parties interested in the deal. In order to supply this new demand immense additions to the already mammoth wagon institution will be immediately erected. The cost of the new departments will be $400,000.

FOR WOMEN AND HOME

ITEMS OF INTEREST FOR MAIDS AND MATRONS.

Some Current Notes of the Modes—The Spun Silk Chemise—A Waist in Pearl Blue—Summer Golfing Costume—The American Girl as a Cook.

Phantoms.

Whence do they come? What may their import be—
The fitting, flashing phantoms of the mind—
That half awake and half in dream we see;
That never can be captured or defined?
They hint at something lost, something desired,
Something whose ownership would make us glad—
Perhaps at thoughts with subtle meaning fired,
Or truths unrecognized because unclad.
They may be glints of half-forgotten dreams,
They may be memories long buried deep,
That from their ashes give out fitful gleams
Before they sink to their long final sleep.
Perhaps electric lines from the brain,
Are tapped and flashed by crossing with our own,
Perhaps some floating shreds or bits remain
Of former life that we somewhere have known.
Perhaps they are the signals loved ones send,
Who wait our coming on the other shore
Too spirit-full with earthly sense to blend,
Too finely soft to fully pierce life's roar.
Perhaps! Perhaps! Conjectures cannot teach!
We clutch at shadows and we grasp the air!
The mystery is aye beyond our reach—
An ignis fatuus no art can snare.
—Laura G. Carr, in Boston Transcript.

The Spun Silk Chemise.

Many cruel blows have been struck at the influence of the chemise, but after diverse false substitutes have been put forth and had their day, this chosen undergarment of our foremothers retains its hold on feminine affections, and a woven silk chemise bids fair to put the silk undervest out of sight and mind.

The new silk chemise is as pretty, cool and as graceful a little article of underwear as manufacturing genius can turn out, and the stout woman can adopt it without a qualm. Its weave is as fine and flexible as the most delicate silk stocking, and down to the waist it fits the body like a glove. Below this point it is sloped out, without any superfluous fulness, and falls to the knees. The prettiest of them are edged about the shoulders and armholes with a line of silken lace, and over the bust open work silk forms flights of butterflies and knots of flowers. Chemises of mashed linen, that is almost as flexible as the silk, are made on these same lines, and are durable and comfortable beyond words.

Tollet Jackets.

There is a very charming air of great simplicity about the new summer dressing gowns, combing jackets, morning wrappers, etc., due to the fact that the majority are made of dotted swiss and filmy cross-barred muslin. It is true that many of them are loaded with lace and threaded with ribbons, but for all that, with dotted muslin and the pretty, inexpensive point de Paris lace, the sweetest sort of a breakfast negligee for a hot morning can be dished up at no price at all. The point to keep in mind, when making up these summer peignoirs, is to get a cape-like effect over the shoulders with floating sash ends falling from the bust to the feet. The model for this graceful pattern is the Curzon jacket that a Parisian lingere evolved for the vicine to wear in torrid India. Women who are in mourning have their Curzon jackets made of white dotted swiss, with inset edgings of black lace, and the frills that fall from the shoulders leave the arms coolly bare.

Fads in Embroidery.

Hand decorations will play a dainty part in the wardrobe this year. A pretty fad in handkerchiefs is to buy them with colored borders, then trace the name in pencil, and etch it in linen or silk to match the edge. A more striking whim of fashion, though, is the embroidering of monograms on gloves. The best way is to have the gloves made to order, with the back stitching left off; the monogram is then placed in the center at the back of the hand.

The American as Cook.

"Should an American girl learn to cook?" This is the subject that continues to disturb everybody but the American girl. Writing on it, Walter Besant lately quotes Chauncey Depew as saying "Greek not Gravy." Sir Walter adds, however, that considering that so many American girls have to cook, he would alter the cry to "Gravy, not Greek."

It is doubtful if this question will be settled on the wholesale plan. Why

A SUMMER GOLFING SUIT.

not classify the American girls and then say: "Those that will in any way be mixed up with cooking, either as cooks or mistresses of cooks, ought to study the subject as hard as they would study Greek."

A Symphony in Blue.

The prettiest new colors this season are brick red, pearl blue and olive white. They come in cashmere, henrietta and velvet, but are seldom seen in other materials. Brick red looks precisely like what it is intended to represent—brick. It is a steady, modest red and the nearest idea that your correspondent can suggest, beside a brick, is the color of cayenne pepper. Pearl blue is also a pretty shade, rather changeable in velvet. It is a little darker than electric light blue, but lighter than turquoise.

Olive white is a dull, greenish white, resembling closely the sediments which gather in sulphur water.

At an afternoon reception a few days ago there was worn a tollet of pearl blue henrietta made very tastefully.

The skirt, made with the usual close fitting hips and flare around the foot, was quite out of the ordinary in trimming. At the side-front seam there was a band of black satin headed by an applique trimming also of black.

The waist fitted faultlessly and buttoned at the side. White embroidered silk was used for the yoke, which was made over a Shirred vest of cashmere. An outline of black satin and the applique design finished the yoke and extended down the front. The sleeves were small and the collar a high one. A jabot of blue silk concealed the opening of the bodice.—Helen Grey-Page.

A Prettly Neck Dress.

One of the most difficult problems that many women have to deal with, is that of keeping themselves looking well in the morning. The trouble with many house gowns and dressing jackets of the non-pretentious kind is that they are not becoming around the neck. To remedy this a new and pretty idea is to cut a piece of muslin about the size of a bandana handkerchief, and finish it at the edge with a narrow ruffle. Fold it diagonally, tie around the neck, leaving a little V-shaped open front, and then tie again. This will leave a knot, and the ends sticking out, which makes a simple but dainty finish.

Indulged by English Women.

Just now, long walks are a fad in England, and the Princess of Wales is one of its devotees, which, of course, insures its popularity. It is an excellent idea, for no one exercise is considered so beneficial to the entire body as walking. Of course, the head should be held erect, the shoulders thrown back, and the breathing unrestrained.

The "rest cure" is another craze with London society women. This consists in going away for a fortnight to some quiet place where there is plenty of fresh air and sunshine, and then simply vegetating.

Canada's mineral production has increased 270 per cent in the last thirteen years.

Importance of Good Sires.

Prof. E. Davenport, in an address to horsemen, said:

I would emphasize the importance of good sires. These mares will not be purely bred animals; they would be too expensive. They will be simply good, vigorous specimens, capable of giving plenty of milk. The quality must come from the sire, where quality means most, because one animal can impart it to so many. Such associations as these can render the horse interests a valuable service by using every influence to hasten the day of stallion inspection and license here in America. This farmer we are considering is not a horseman; that is, is not able to detect the slighter faults of animals. The hock may be slightly too narrow, or the leg a little crooked, or the bone not quite flat enough, or the loin a little light, and he will not be able to detect it. I know a farmer who considers himself something of a horseman who yet did not notice a hind leg of a colt so poor at the hock that it was certain to go to pieces. I know a part-bred Percheron stallion that is considered a great horse with the farmers because he takes fat like a hog and has a heavy, arching neck, but his sickle hock gives him a leg so bent as to entirely disqualify him in the eye of even a fair judge. So do other parts escape the notice of a class of good men who are not at all ignorant, but whose information and expert knowledge lie along other lines. The inspector and the law should help them out. As it is now, the owner of a strictly first-class, well-bred and registered stallion has no chance out over the country as compared with the owner of a part-bred horse that will fatten readily, and that, costing but a fraction of the other, can be stodd for perhaps only two or three dollars less and get all the custom. This compels the owner of the good stallion to cut prices to a point where in order to secure decent returns so much service is taken as to render next to worthless a large share of the colts gotten. We shall produce plenty of scallawag horses until the part-bred stallion is driven out of business, and that will be done only by a system of inspection. It costs as much to raise a poor horse as it does a good one. The deficient hock or loin is not a thing that takes less feed. It is no element of cheapness until it comes before the old horseman in the great markets, and the general horse raiser must be insured against his own foolishness in this matter by a thorough system of inspection. Until that time comes the great breeders and improvers of horses will be subject to a ruinous competition from part-bred stallions.

The system that has been in vogue has produced some good horses, but it has produced a good many more poor ones. The horse is a highly developed animal, and all his parts are developed far beyond their natural state. If, in a given individual, one part is not fully developed it cannot stand the strain put upon it by the other and better developed parts, and it is with a horse as with a chain, or a tile drain, the whole is no better than the poorest spot. What a mixed and heterogeneous mass of horseflesh we have been guilty of producing! And yet the stallioner and the law are more in the blame than the farmer. The horse raiser should fix his mind definitely upon the class of horses that he proposes to produce, choose his stallion accordingly and depend upon him for that quality that always distinguishes the excellent from the ordinary. He should never, sleeping or waking, forget his own limitations, but remember that while the professional horseman must produce the breeder, the racer, and the phenomenal individuals out of the best material of the world, yet that the production of the great mass of commercial horses out of common mares and by approved sires is his own peculiar field, in which good profits can always be realized, if the farmer keeps his head and does not produce worthless stuff. Cheap horses are recruited with sufficient rapidity from the ranks above, both by age and accident, and we cannot afford to grow them as a business.

Keep Records.—Keep strict records. Note all important events. Keep an account of your expenses, and give the fowls the credit for all receipts. That's a business way of handling the subject. Next year you will readily see the mistakes you made this year, and will be able to improve upon them. Be progressive; push ahead; keep up with the times. Don't let your business push you; you push the business. A wise man is always on the alert; he is looking for improvement. In this era of push it will not pay a man to idle away his time. Don't get discouraged. "A faint heart never won fair lady." The doubting Thomases are always poor. Build up your business gradually. Go step by step, and make your foundation firm and sure. Build up a reputation. Let it be a reputation for good goods and honest dealings. Think over all these things.—Iowa Homestead.

Neatsfoot oil is said to be better than kerosene for many of the ills of fowls because it is less irritating.

Save all the small potatoes to use with the mixed feed later on.

RAILROAD WRECKS IN IOWA!

Washouts Responsible for Two Fatal Accidents.

NINE KILLED, FORTY INJURED.

First Disaster Occurs Four Miles South-west of Waterloo—Chicago Limited Thrown from the Track at Oelwein—Engineer Killed in Texas.

The worst railroad wreck in the history of that section of Iowa occurred four miles south of Waterloo, on the Burlington, Cedar Rapids and Northern railroad, May 28. Eight persons were killed and forty more were injured, some of them so seriously that it is likely the fatality list will be increased. The train, consisting of seven coaches, including mail and baggage, was completely demolished or telescoped. The cause of the disaster was the washing out of a portion of the road by a waterspout or cloudburst, part of the damage done by the great storm that swept over the section the day before.

Passenger train No. 2, the Chicago limited, on the Chicago Great Western railway, was wrecked the morning of May 28 four miles north of Oelwein, Iowa. The wreck was the result of a washout caused by a heavy rain. Richard Manning, colored, porter, was killed. The train crew consisted of Edward Bishop, engineer; Fred Fuller, fireman; Charles Greiniger, conductor, all of Minneapolis. They were badly bruised.

Near Denison, Texas, a freight train jumped the track and the engineer was killed.

BAPTISTS GIVE STATISTICS.

Obituary.

Mrs. Elizabeth F. Rogers (nee Skinner) died in Rensselaersville, N. Y., Thursday, May 25, age 71 years, 9 months and 5 days at the time of her demise.

Deceased was born at Rensselaersville, N. Y., August 19th, 1827. In 1854 she was united in marriage to William Rogers and soon after came to Barrington, where she has always been reckoned among the early settlers. For about 17 years she, with her husband, lived at Detroit, Mich., after which period they again returned to Barrington to make their home.

Her husband preceded her to the other world, dying in the year 1891.

Besides her only daughter, Mrs. Nina Rogers Ward, wife of Rev. E. W. Ward of Wilton Center, Ill., and the members of her immediate family, who, on account of her sudden departure, deeply mourn to-day, Mrs. Rogers leaves four brothers and two sisters, all of whom deeply grieve as they realize that a sister has left them in this world forever. In addition to these near relatives there are scores of sorrowing hearts to-day among her friends and neighbors of this place.

Mrs. Rogers was converted in early girlhood and her whole life was that of a hopeful, cheerful, helpful, sympathetic Christian. She was associated with the Methodist Episcopal church for many years and was a member of our church here in Barrington at the time of her death. For the past five or six years she has been much with her relatives and therefore has not taken her church letter.

But best of all, her end, though one of suffering, was one of great peace. Her "death-bed" scene was a happy one. When questioned concerning her faith she said: "I have placed all in my Saviour's hands and am ready to go." She revealed to those about her that "dying grace," which God can give to all of his trusting children.

The funeral services were held at the M. E. church on Wednesday, May 31, at 10:30 a. m. The remains were interred in the Evergreen cemetery. Rev. T. E. Ream, pastor of the M. E. church, officiated.

Unclaimed Letters.

Michael Grogan, M. A. Krause & Co., Carl Schauer, William Thompson, Miss Wells, John Bergness, E. Withman, J. A. Harding.
H. K. Brockway, P. M.

MEMORIAL DAY.

Deep Interest Taken by our People and all Honor the Departed Heroes.

Memorial Day was observed by the people of Barrington in a manner becoming the occasion and all our people turned out to do honor to the dead heroes. The post-office, bank and business houses of our village closed up and the employees all took a half-holiday to take part in the demonstration.

The weather was fine and quite a number of farmers and residents of neighboring towns took advantage of this and helped to swell the crowd.

At 10:30 the parade formed in front of the G. A. R. hall, and marched to the school house, headed by the Barrington Military band, where the school children and teachers formed in ranks. The parade then marched through the principal thoroughfares of the village and wended its way to Evergreen cemetery to the delightful national airs of the band. Arriving at the cemetery the parade broke ranks to decorate the graves of the soldiers. The procession again formed and marched to the Lutheran burying ground to decorate the graves of old soldiers there.

At 1:30 p. m. all repaired to the grove where an elegant program was carried out as follows:

Music.....Barrington Military band
Reading of Orders.
Prayer.....Rev. S. S. Hageman
Song.....Quartet
Song.....Pupils of Barrington schools
Music.....Barrington Military band
Address.....Mr. Roy Peck
Solo.....Dr. C. H. Kendall
Address.....Hon. E. C. Fitch
Song.....Quartet
Music.....Barrington Military band

Much credit is due the G. A. R. and W. R. C., under whose auspices the day's program was arranged, for the way in which everything was handled and all express themselves as spending a very pleasant and most enjoyable day.

NOW HEAR THE CONCLUSION OF THE WHOLE MATTER.

We are after the cash trade of this section and the far off trade not naturally tributary to Dundee. All merchants have goods to sell, but who gives you the most for your money? We want you to come once, get acquainted and if we have made any misrepresentations, state where, when and how and we will make good any loss or damage to you. This ad will be published in all the newspapers in the vicinity of Dundee and is a personal invitation to come and get the benefits of the cash system of the C. F. Hall Co. of Dundee. If we have not in the past, we think we can now establish our reputation with you as the leaders of low prices and as such we sign ourselves the Dundee Cash Store of C. F. Hall Co.

Yours truly,
C. F. HALL CO.

HOT OR COLD! RAIN OR SHINE!

You will always find a complete assortment of Dry Goods, Groceries, Gents' Furnishing Goods Boots and Shoes appropriate to the season.

Perhaps this statement would never fit our stock better than right now. Certain it is that every thing in HOT WEATHER GOODS is now shown here in great variety, and at most satisfactory prices. You will find shopping a pleasure at our store, for we are not always "just out" of what you want. Neither do we charge higher prices than you expect to pay—it is usually the other way.

J. C. Plagge, Barrington,
