The grand stereopticon entertainment for the public, given under the auspices of the public school, will be held in Battermann's hall on Monday evening. This entertainment is free to the public and will show what is being done in the public schools of this county.

The trial of B. W. Wilson, J. Harris, Chas. Seip and Geo. Gieseke for resisting an officer was concluded before Justice Hamburger in Chicago on Wednesday afternoon. After hearing the defense the justice released Seip and the case against Gieseke was dismissed, as he had not been summoned for trial. The case against Wilson and Harris was held for decision until December 23. The defense put up a strong case against their accusers.

Dr. and Mrs. E. W. Wood will leave for California next week. Ben Wilson and family will occupy their house during their absence.

That train wrecking story was a good one. Perhaps it originated from some one who wanted to beat Barrington's mob lawlessness story of two weeks ago. We certainly have Barrington boat if such is the case.

An entertainment consisting of stereopticon views, music and talks on school matters will be given at Battermann's hall Monday evening. Music will be furnished by a male quartette and pupils of the High school. County Superintendent O. T. Bright will be in attendance.

Since the announcement of his candidacy for the nomination of county commissioner Mr. Reynolds has received words of encouragement from various sources. Many men of influence throughout the district have promised him their support in his effort for the nomination and unless something unforeseen happens Mr. Reynolds will be the Republican candidate. The people can rest assured that they will have an efficient officer in Mr. Reynolds.

A. E. Church Notes.

The regular monthly meeting of the Ladies' Aid society will be held next Wednesday afternoon at the Methodist church parlors, after which they will be able to say more definitely what were the net proceeds of the late successful bazaar. The annual election of officers will then be held. All members are requested to be present.

Quite a few useful and fancy articles left over from the bazaar are on sale at the parsonage. Mrs. Hardin will take pleasure in showing the articles, which are reduced in price.

A box of clothing is to be sent to the Lake Bluff orphanage in the near future. Good garments for children or garments worth making over is solicited. All parcels may be left at the parsonage during the next week. Anything nice in the line of edibles will be carefully packed with the box for the dear children.

Remember the Xmas box that the Queen Esther circle is to send to Mercy Home. Articles are to be left at Miss Lambert's and nice things for seventy-five children are solicited.

The ladies made about $200 on their bazaar. They expect to clear the indebtedness on the church at once.

Palatine Market Day.

Palatine is to inaugurate a market day some time in January if the present plans are carried out. The plan is still young and much is yet to be done to make the affair a certainty. Such an affair every month or oftener would be a grand thing for our merchants and hotels. The sales in other towns have attracted good crowds and have been large.

The object is to get together those who have articles for sale, such as cows, horses, household goods or anything of value which one wishes to sell, to bring them to town on a certain day and dispose of the property. The merchants should all fall in line and assist this Palatine advertising scheme. It will bring a large number of farmers from the surrounding country who are in the habit of trading elsewhere.

Woodmen Election.

The Woodmen elected officers for the ensuing year as follows: Venerable consul, G. H. Arps. Worthy adviser, C. E. Julian. Excellent banker, G. D. Stroker. Clerk, P. H. Matthei. Watchman, Al Hans. Sentry, H. Law. Escort, A. G. Smith. Physician, Dr. G. W. Alverson. Trustee, C. D. Taylor.

Cows for Sale.

New milch and springers always on hand. For sale by head or in car-load lots. Staples & Nichols, Palatine. f1.

TOPICS OF THE WEEK

ROBERTS TO THE PEOPLE.

Congressman-elect Roberts, who has been denied a seat in the national body because he supports three wives, has issued an appeal to the people, in which he says: "I deny the existence of the lawful power of the house to prevent me from being sworn in on the presentation of the same evidence of primafacie right upon which others are admitted to membership. I deny the right of the house of representatives to resolve itself into the justice of the peace court, to try me for a misdemeanor, alleged to have been committed, in order to find grounds of expulsion or exclusion from the high office to which I was elected. I deny its right to confer any such power upon its committee." He takes up the question of his culpability and asks how congress can bar him out when he is exempt from arrest. "American citizens," he continues, "it is a 'Mormon' who is the object of the popular clamor today. May it not be the Catholic or the Methodist or the free-thinker tomorrow? If the rights of the representative of Utah and of this state cannot be safeguarded by the provisions of the constitution and the laws from the frenzy of popular fury, set on fire by falsehood and distortion, what guaranty have we that any one's rights are secure? And is it true that this mob law by indirection is to reach within what should be the sacred precinct of the house of representatives itself?"

Roberts denies that the Mormon church is supporting him in his fight for a seat in congress, and declares that he "is without a dollar at his command, except the salary attached to his office."

SHIPPING BILL INTRODUCED AGAIN.

Alike in the presidential message and in the report of the secretary of the treasury we find much stress laid upon the necessity of action to promote American shipping. The United States is enjoying a colossal foreign trade. Secretary Gage directs special attention to the notable characteristics which have marked the commerce of the year—a continuation of the phenomenal exports, a moderate increase in imports and a total of exports and imports never before reached in the history of our international trade. But these facts tend to bring into the strongest possible relief the backward condition of our merchant marine.

GOLD BRICKS FROM SUNBEAMS.

Evidently there are as many fools in the west as in the east. At the time of the exposure of the Franklin syndicate in New York there seemed to be reason to doubt this, but since then a concern in Minneapolis has been discovered that secured more money than it could use on a promise of fabulous profits, and now it is learned that there is a company or association in Chicago that has discovered a system of playing the races by which it clears 66 2-3 per cent a week on all the money it invests. Think of it! Why, the inventor of this system can make a clear profit of over 600 per cent a month, if he lets the money accumulate!

RAILROADS AND COUPLERS.

With a promptness to which the public through long custom has become familiarized the representatives of the railroad companies appeared upon the scene at Washington last week to ask the interstate-commerce commission for a further extension of time in which to comply with the law of March 2, 1893, requiring them to equip their lines with automatic couplers. Notwithstanding the fact that the law is now nearly six years old and that two years ago the commission granted an extension until Jan. 1, 1900, the representatives of nearly 100 roads appeared at Washington on Wednesday to ask for another year.

ONE-CENT STREET CAR RATES.

Workmen of Dover, England, will hereafter be able to ride on the electric cars of that city during certain hours of the day at a half-penny (1 cent) fare. At the previous rate of 2 cents the company cleared $10,000 a year on this traffic alone, and it is now, apparently, willing to clear only half as much. In reality, however, it will clear more than half of the $10,000, as the reduced rate will still further increase the travel of the class of passengers to which it applies. The fact that a company can make money by lowering its rates is one that street-car men in the United States are slow to learn.

THE CONGRESSIONAL RECORD

More Time Allowed for Debate on Currency Bill.

NIGHT SESSIONS ARE HELD.

Financial Measure Criticized by Democrats and Silver Republicans—Senator Pettigrew Wants Information on Dealings in the Philippines.

Friday, Dec. 8.

The house adopted a special order for the consideration of the currency bill, beginning Monday, Dec. 11, general debate to be allowed until the following Friday, amendments to be offered Saturday and vote to be taken Monday, Dec. 18. Mr. Dalzell presented an amendment to the rules, creating a committee on insular affairs, to consist of seventeen members, to have jurisdiction over all matters, excepting revenues and appropriations, of the islands which come to the United States through the treaty with Spain in 1899, and to Cuba. Mr. Robertson announced the death of Representative S. G. Baird of Louisiana, and after adopting the customary resolutions, at 1:30 o'clock, as a mark of further respect, the house adjourned until Monday, Dec. 11.

The senate was not in session.

Monday, Dec. 11.

Debate on the currency bill began in the house, the opening speech being delivered by Mr. Overstreet (rep., ind.). Other speakers were Mr. Dolliver (rep., Iowa), Mr. Maddox (dem., Ga.), and Mr. McGlellan (dem., N. Y.). Mr. Mason of Illinois delivered an address in the senate in support of his resolution expressing sympathy for the Boers, which was referred to foreign relations committee. No business of importance transacted and early adjournment was taken.

Tuesday, Dec. 12.

The senate received from Mr. Pettigrew a resolution asking the secretary of the navy whether Admiral Dewey formally or informally ever recognized the self-styled Philippine republic. The committee on elections was authorized to investigate the Clark and Scott contests. The nomination of Gen. Leonard Wood to be major-general of volunteers was confirmed.

In the house, Congressman Prince (Ill.), Driggs (N. Y.), Grosvenor (Ohio), Parker (N. J.), William Alden Smith (Mich.), Lawrence (Mass.), and Powers (Vt.) spoke in favor of the currency bill, while Messrs. Newlands (Nev.), Cochran (Mo.), Shafroth (Colo.), and Sims (Tenn.) opposed it. It was decided to hold night sessions Wednesday, Thursday and Friday because of the many members who desire to be heard on the financial question.

Wants Admiral Schley Thanked.

Representative Berry of Kentucky says he will use every effort to secure early consideration for his joint resolution giving the thanks of congress to Rear Admiral Schley.

Queen Regent Saved Spain.

Ex-Premier Sagasta told the Spanish cortes European respect for the queen regent was responsible for keeping Spain intact during the war.

JAMES R. KEENE, STOCK MARKET RAIDER.

James R. Keene is one of the important factors in the stock market panic that broke out in Chicago Monday. He has been carrying on a systematic raid on the so-called "indus trials" for several months and no matter how many financial wrecks the panic will leave his fortune will not be molested. It is said that he has cleared a million on the panic.

TAYLOR WINS KENTUCKY FIGHT

All State Offices Given to Republicans by a Split Election Board.

The Kentucky state board of election commissioners made one decision by Commissioners Pryor and Ellis, giving the certificates of election to Taylor and the entire republican ticket, and another by Commissioner Poyntz dissenting from the opinion of the majority of the board.

Goebel and the candidates on the democratic ticket refuse to say whether they will contest the decision.

SAYS REBELLION IS ENDED.

American Troops Have Only to Deal with Robber Bands.

Gen. Otis cables the war department: "There is no concentrated insurgent force of importance in Luzon north of Manila. Southern Luzon will not offer any serious resistance. Organized rebellion no longer exists and our troops are actively pursuing robber bands."

Revolt in Negros Unimportant.

Gen. Otis cables as follows regarding the revolt in Negros: "Information received from Negros revolt of minor importance; Byrnes in rapid pursuit of disaffected party; Hughes in mountain Panay, en route Capiz."

Will Confirm Gen. Wood.

Notwithstanding the opposition from the line of the army to the appointment of Gen. Wood as major-general of volunteers, the confirmation by the senate of his nomination may be accepted as a foregone conclusion.

Germany's Policy of Peace.

Von Bulow's speech in the reichstag defined Germany's policy as one of expansion. A strong navy is necessary to prevent attack, although policy of peace precluded offensive operations on Germany's part.

Significant Question in Reichstag.

In the German reichstag, Bebel referring to Von Bulow's statement that the Transvaal and Spanish wars showed need of navy, asked if Germany would have acted differently if strong at sea.

French Statesmen Are Uneasy.

Republican and anti-Semite members of the French chamber attacked the government for its weak attitude toward Great Britain. They demand an increased army and more cables.

Estimates for the Year.

The total governmental estimates for the year exceed the total estimated revenue for 1901 by $71,081,994, but, counting the sinking fund, this excess is reduced to $18,081,994.

Raise for Window-Glass Workers.

The window-glass workers of the country will go to work Dec. 30. The cutters will receive 5 per cent advance and flatteners 6 per cent. Ten thousand men are involved.

Anglo-French Difficulties Growing.

Russian advisers declare that Anglo-French difficulties are growing more acute and that unquestionably a conflict between the two powers is brewing.

Crew of Sixteen Drowned.

The sailing ship Niagara foundered near Buffalo. Crew of sixteen men lost.

Question Finally Admitted.

A story is told of the late Chief Justice Cockburn. He was once counsel for the plaintiff in a certain case, and a Mr. B. was for the defendant. Cockburn called a witness, and proceeded to examine him. "I understand," he said, "that you called on the plaintiff, Mr. Jones. Is that so?" "Yes," replied the man. "What did he say?" demanded Cockburn. Mr. B. promptly rose and objected. The conversation could not be admitted as evidence. But Cockburn persisted, and Mr. B. appealed to the judges, who thereupon retired to consider the point. They were absent for nearly half an hour. When they returned they announced that Mr. Cockburn might put his question. "Well, what did he say?" asked counsel. "Please, sir, he wasn't at home," replied the witness, without moving a muscle.—Irish Independent.

Had Her Doubts.

"I don't believe professors know so very much," said Mamie. "Why! How can you talk so?" rejoined Maud. "Well, I don't see why Mr. Fulpate should have seemed so surprised and puzzled when I asked him how to say 'rubberneck' in Greek."

Here's the Whole Winter Problem.

"There is one sound piece of advice that should be repeated from Maine to Oregon every year when winter approaches, and that is—if you want to go through the winter without catching cold, wear rubbers."—Churchman.

Tells How He Escaped the Terrors of Many Winters by Using Peruna.

Mr. Isaac Brock, the Oldest Man in the United States.

Mr. Isaac Brock, of McLennan county, Tex., has attained the great age of 111 years, having been born in 1798. He is an ardent friend to Peruna and speaks of it in the following terms:

"During my long life I have known a great many remedies for coughs, colds, catarrh and diarrhoea. I had always supposed these affections to be different diseases, but I have learned from Dr. Hartman's books that these affections are the same and are properly called catarrh. "As for Dr. Hartman's remedy, Peruna, I have found it to be the best, if not the only reliable remedy for these affections.

"Peruna has been my stand-by for many years, and I attribute my good health and my extreme age to this remedy. It exactly meets all my requirements.

"I have come to rely upon it almost entirely for the many little things for which I need medicine. I believe it to be especially valuable to old people."

TALMAGE'S SERMON.

"THE WORLD AS IT WILL BE"
SUNDAY'S SUBJECT.

Text: II. Peter 3: 13.—A New Earth,
Wherein Dwelleth Righteousness—
Story of the New Earth as it Will Be in Centuries to Come.

Down in the struggle to make the world better and happier we sometimes get depressed with the obstacles to be overcome and the work to be accomplished. Will it not be a tonic and an inspiration to look at the world as it will be when it has been brought back to paradisaical condition? So let us for a few moments transport ourselves into the future and put ourselves forward in the centuries, and see the world in its rescued and perfected state, as we will see it in those times we are permitted to revisit this planet, as I am sure we will. We all want to see the world after it has been thoroughly gospelized and all wrongs have been righted. We will want to come back, and we will come back, to look upon the refulgent consummation toward which we have been on larger or smaller scale toiling. Having heard the opening of the orchestra, on whose strings some discords traveled, we will want to hear the last triumphant bar of the perfected oratorio. Having seen the picture as the painter drew the first outlines on the canvas, we will want to see it when it is as complete as Reuben's "Descent from the Cross," or Michael Angelo's "Last Judgment." Having seen the world under the gleam of the star of Bethlehem, we will want to see it when, under the full shining of the Sun of Righteousness, the towers shall strike twelve at noon.

I imagine that we are descending at that period of the world's complete gospelization. There will be no peril in such a descent. Great heights and depths have no alarm for glorified spirits. We can come down through chasms between worlds without growing dizzy, and across the spaces of half a universe without losing our way. Down and farther down we come. As we approach this world we breathe the perfume of illimitable gardens. Floralization that in the centuries past was here and there walled in, lest reckless and dishonest pluck or despoil it, surges its billows of color across the fields and up the hillsides, and that which was desert blossoms as the rose. All the foreheads of crag crowned with flowers; the feet of the mountains slipped with flowers. Oh! this perfume of the continents, this aroma of the hemispheres! As we approach nearer we hear songs and laughter and hosannas, but not one groan of distress, not one sob of bereavement, not one clank of chain.

Alighted on the redeemed earth, we are first accosted by the spirit of the twenty-first century, who proposes to guide and show us all that we desire to see. Without his guidance we would lose our way, for the world is so much changed from the time when we lived in it. First of all, he points out to us a group of abandoned buildings. We ask this spirit of the twenty-first century, "What are those structures whose walls are falling down, and whose gates are rusted on the hinges?" Our escort tells us: "Those were once penitentiaries filled with offenders, but the crime of the world has died out. Theft and arson and violence have quitted the earth. People have all they want, and why should they appropriate the property of others, even if they had the desire? The marauders, the assassins, the buccaneers, the Herods, the Nana Sahibs, the ruffians, the bandits are dead, or transfigured by the power of the Christian religion, and are now upright and beneficent and useful. Prisons are of no more use in this world, except as places to be visited by curiosity seekers, as farther back in the annals of time tourists visited the fortress where the prisoner of Chillon was incarcerated, or Devil's island, where Dreyfus endured four years of cruelty."

After passing on amid columns and statues erected in memory of those who have been mighty for goodness in the world's history, the highest and the most exquisitely sculptured are those in honor of such as have been most effectual in saving life or improving life, rather than those renowned for destroying life. We come upon another group of buildings that must have been transformed from their original shape and adapted to other uses. "What is all this?" we ask our escort. He answers: "Those were almshouses and hospitals, but accuracy in making and prudence in running, machinery of all sorts have almost abolished the list of casualties, and sobriety and industry have nearly abolished pauperism, so that those buildings, which once were hospitals and almshouses, have been turned into beautiful homes for the less prospered; and if you will look in you will see the poorest table has abundance, and the smallest wardrobe luxury, and the harp, waiting to have its strings thrummed, leaning against the piano, waiting for its keys to be fingered. Yes, we have on the shelves of our free libraries the full story of dispensaries, and crutches, and clinics, and surgery, and what a time of suffering there must have been on those battlefields of Sedan and Gettysburg and south Africa, one or two hundred years ago. We can hardly believe now that the science of wholesale murder and multi-form assassination was so popular that in the United States in four years 500,000 men on one side went forth to put to death 500,000 men on the other side.

"Hospitals and almshouses must have been a necessity once, but they would be useless now. And you see all the swamps have been drained. The sewerage of the great towns has been perfected. And the world's climate is so improved that there are no pneumonias to come out of the cold, or rheumatism out of the dampness, or fevers out of the heat. Consumptions banished. Pneumonias banished. Diphtheria banished. Ophthalmia banished. Neuralgias banished. As near as I can tell from what I have read, our atmosphere of this century is a mingling of the two months of May and October of the nineteenth century."

And we believe what our escort says, for as we pass on we find health glowing on every cheek and beaming in every eye, and springing in every step, and articulating in every utterance, and you and I whisper to each other as our escort has his attention drawn to some new sunrise upon the morning sky, and we say to each other, "Who would believe that this is the world that we lived in over a hundred years ago? Look at those men and women as we pass on the road! How improved the human race! Such beauty! Such strength! Such gracefulness! Such geniality! Faces without the mark of one sorrow! Cheeks that seem never to have been wet by one tear! A race sublimated! A new world born!"

But I say to our escort: "Did all this merely happen so? Are all the good here spontaneously good? How did you get the old shipwrecked world afloat again, out of the breakers into the smooth seas?" "No, no," responds our twenty-first century escort. "Do you see those towers? Those are the towers of churches, towers of reformatory institutions, towers of Christian schools. Walk with me, and let us enter some of these temples." We enter, and I find that the music is in the major key, and none of it in the minor. Gloria in Excelsis rising above Gloria in Excelsis. Tremolo stop in the organ not so much used as the trumpet stop. More of Ariel than of Naomi. More chants than dirges. Not a thin song, the words of which no one understands on the lip of the soloist, but mighty harmonies that roll from outside the door to chancel, and from floor to groined rafter, as though Handel had come out of the eighteenth century into the twenty-first, and had his foot on the organ pedal, and Thomas Hastings had come out of the early part of the nineteenth century into the twenty-first and were leading the voices. Music that moves the earth and makes heaven listen.

But I say to the twenty-first century escort: "I cannot understand this. Have these worshippers no sorrows, or have they forgotten their sorrows?" Our escort responds: "Sorrows! Why, they had sorrows more than you could count, but by a divine illumination that the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries never enjoyed, they understand the uses of sorrow, and are comforted with a supernatural condole, such as previous centuries never experienced."

I ask again of the interpreter: "Has death been banished from the world?" The answer is: "No, but people die now only when the physical machinery is worn out, and they realize it is time to go, and they are certainly and without doubt going into a world where they will be infinitely better off and are to live in a mansion that awaits their immediate occupancy." "But how is all this effected?" I ask our escort. Answer: "By floods of gospel power. You who lived in the nineteenth century never saw a revival of religion to be compared with what occurred in the latter part of the twentieth and the early part of the twenty-first century. The prophecy has been fulfilled that 'a nation shall be born in a day'; that is, ten or twenty or forty million people converted in twenty-four hours. In our church history we read of the great awakening in 1857, when 500,000 souls were saved; but that was only a drop of the coming showers that since then took into the kingdom of God everything between the Atlantic and Pacific, between the Pyrenees and the Himalayas. The evils that good people were in the nineteenth century trying to destroy have been overcome by celestial forces. What human weaponry failed to accomplish, has been done by omnipotent thunderbolts."

The good work was helped on by the fact that it became a general habit among millionaires and multi-millionaires to provide churches and schools and institutions of mercy, not to be built after the testators were dead, but so that they might be present at the laying of the corner-stone, and at the dedication, and leave less inducement for the heirs at law to prove in orphans' court that when the testators made their last will and testament they were crazy. The telegraphic wires in the air, and the cables under the sea, thrill with Christian invitation. Phonographs charged with gospel sermons stand in every neighborhood. The 5,000,000,000 of the world's inhabitants in that century are 5,000,000,000 disciples.

"But," I say to our escort, the spirit of the twenty-first century, "you have shown us much; but what about international conditions? When we lived on earth it was a century that bled with Marengo, and Chancellors, and Lodi-Brigade, and Lucknow, and Solferino, and Leipzig, and Waterloo, and San Juan." Our escort replies: "Come with me to this building of white marble and glittering dome." As we pass up and on we are taken into a room where the mightiest and best representatives of all nations are assembled to settle international controversies. As we enter I hear the presiding officer opening the council of arbitration, reading the second chapter of Isaiah: "They shall beat their swords into plowshares, and their spears into pruning hooks; nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more." Questions which in our long-past nineteenth century caused quarrel and bloodshed, as when Germany and France were deciding about Alsace and Lorraine, as when the United States and Spain were deciding about Cuba—such questions in this twenty-first century settled in five minutes, one drop of ink doing more than once could have been accomplished by a river of blood."

And now you and I have left our escort as we ascend, for the law of gravitation has no power to detain ascending spirits. Up through immensities, and by stellar and lunar and solar splendors, which cannot be described by mortal tongue, we rise higher and higher, till we reach the shining gate as it opens for our return, and the questions greet us from all sides: "What is the news? What did you find in that earthly tower? What have you to report in this city of the sun?" Prophetic, apostolic, saintly inquiry. And standing on the steps of the house with many mansions, we cry aloud the news: "Hear it, all ye glorified Christian workers of all the past centuries! We found your work on earth was successful, whether on earth you toiled with knitting needle, or rung a trowel on a rising wall, or smote a shoe last, or endowed a university, or swayed a scepter; whether on earth you gave a cup of cold water in the name of a disciple, or at some pentecost preached 3,000 souls into the kingdom. In that world we have just visited the deserts are all abloom, and the wildernesses are bright with fountains. Sin is extirpated. Crime is reformed. Disease is cured. The race is emancipated. 'The earth is full of the knowledge of God, as the waters cover the sea.' 'The redeemed of the Lord have come to Zion with songs and everlasting joy upon their heads.' 'The Lord God Omnipotent reigneth, and the kingdoms of the world have become the kingdoms of our Lord Jesus Christ.' Let the harpers of heaven strike the glad tidings from the strings of their harps, and the trumpeters put them in the mouth of their trumpets, and the orchestras roll them into the grand march of the eternities, and all the cathedral towers of the great capital of the universe chime them all over heaven."

And now I look up and see the casting down of the bejeweled and radiant crowns at the sacred feet of the enthroned Jesus. Missionary Carey is casting down before those feet the crown of India saved. Missionary Judson is casting down the crown of Burmah saved. Missionary Abel casting down the crown of China saved. David Livingstone casting down at those feet the crown of Africa saved. Missionary Brainerd casting down the crown of this country's aborigines saved. Souls that went up from all the denominations in America in holy rivalry, seeking which could soonest cast down the crown of this continent at the Savior's feet, and America saved.

But often you and I who were companions in that expedition from heaven to earth, seated on the green bank of the river that rolls through the paradise of God, will talk over the scenes we witnessed in that parenthesis of heavenly bliss, in that vacation from the skies, in our terrestrial visitation—we who were early residents in the nineteenth century, escorted by the spirit of the twenty-first century, when we saw what my text describes as "a new earth, wherein dwelleth righteousness." "Glory to the Father, and to the Son and to the Holy Ghost, as it was in the beginning, is now, and ever shall be, world without end. Amen."

The sin of pride is the sin of sins; in which all subsequent sins are included, as in their germ; they are but the unfolding of this one.—Archbishop Trench.

WILLIAM F. HARRITY, OF PENNSYLVANIA.

A Philadelphia paper says that the former chairman of the democratic national committee is putting himself at the head of the gold democrats of his state preparatory to taking a con testing delegation to the coming national convention. It will be remembered that Mr. Harrity was expelled from the national committee because of his failure to support the last national platform of the party. James M. Guffey, the Pittsburgh millionaire, succeeded him as a member of the committee. The two leaders have since been waging political warfare in the Keystone state, but as the latter controls the regular state organization it is presumed that he has much the best of it. In next year's convention Pennsylvania will have a candidate for second place in the person of ex-Congress man Joe Sibley, a close personal friend of Guffey.

THIRTY-TWO DIE IN A MINE.

Story of Death as a Result of an Explosion at Carbonado, Wash.

Thirty-two are dead as the result of a mine horror that came upon Carbonado, Wash., Dec. 9. Between seventy and eighty men were at work in the mine at the time of the accident. The theory of Superintendent Davies is that a small pocket of gas was opened and became ignited. The concussion of gas explosion caused the terrific explosion of dust, which caused all the damage and loss of life.

Prohibition Killed in Georgia.

By a vote of 26 to 14 the Willingham bill, which provided for the annihilation of the whisky traffic in Georgia, was defeated.

The Amenities of Trade.

The dominant note in the commercial world just now is the "markets of the world." Never before has there been put forth a more vigorous effort to place the products in this country in foreign markets. Particularly is this effect diverted toward South and Central America. These countries are naturally and properly regarded as our most legitimate field, but for some reason or other we seem not to have been so successful in occupying it as we ought to have been. An article in a recent issue of the Mexican Herald of the City of Mexico may possibly explain one of the reasons for this. The Herald says that "Americans of North America are inclined to be too patronizing in their treatment of the Latin-Americans. One good observer, just returned from South America, says that Americans going there on business do not realize how plainly they show their disdain for the people and their customs, the little tolerance exhibited by the Anglo-Saxon for the habits of the Latin-American. On the contrary, the Germans and French going there try to get into the ways of the people, always endeavor to please, accept the customs of whatever country they are in, and thus rapidly ingratiate themselves with the native populations." There is no little truth in this indictment.

Continuing, The Herald says: "We have occasionally here examples of that same spirit of lofty impatience with the ways of the Mexican people, and there is no little gratuitous lecturing done on how business should be conducted. Now, Mexicans are very ready to adopt better ways. They have taken most kindly to telephones, to bicycles, to writing machines and to improved American devices of all sorts. Impatience and gruffness will never conquer hearts or win sympathy, and an unwillingness to give study to the language of the country repels all intimacy, and it is through intimacy that commercial advantages often come."

It is too true that the Anglo-Saxon does not always try to cultivate the amenities of life in southern lands and too often repels by thoughtless and unintended incivilities the people whom he would attract. There are at least some suggestions in The Mexican Herald's article which our merchants and manufacturers seeking trade in the Latin-American states could profitably consider.

"Suicides by poison are becoming altogether too frequent," says the head of the New York health board, "and I intend to do everything in my power to reduce the number by controlling the sale of poisons, especially carbolic acid. A young wife has a little tiff with her husband, thinks that there is nothing more to live for and then rushes off to the nearest drug store, where without the least difficulty she can get the means of making away with herself. In nine out of ten of such cases the women would get rid of their absurd notions about suicide if it was impossible for them to get the poison without an order from a reputable physician." There is a law on the statute books of New York covering this matter, but it seems to be almost entirely inoperative, and the sale of poisons to irresponsible persons is carried on with scarcely any restriction. This state of things is by no means confined to New York, but is altogether too general throughout the country.

Neither Secretary Long, Colonel Roosevelt, Senator Proctor, nor the board of strategy, who severally claim to have had more or less to do with giving George Dewey an opportunity to make himself famous, has thus far filed any claim for having brought about his matrimonial alliance.

It seems incredible that the Spaniards are still barbarous enough to prefer bullfighting to the ennobling diversion of prizefighting. With all we have done for poor, benighted Spain we seem not to have been able to lift her to our high standard in the matter of entertainment.

A sinecure is a position in which one man puts you for the purpose of drawing the salary while another man does the work.—Chicago News.

A convention has just been held in Memphis which had for its object the discussion of western waterways and the best method of improving them. Ten years ago, when there was a scare abroad concerning river navigation, we were told that railroads were bound to drive steamboats out of business, the argument being that speed was more of an essential than low rates. But events have proved the idea to have been a mistaken one. Therefore inland navigation presses for a hearing. Wonderful things have been accomplished in Europe by the construction of ship and other canals connecting one river with another and connecting many rivers with the sea. There is no reason why as much may not be accomplished in this country.

The statement of Count Cassini, the Russian ambassador to the United States, recently printed in the news dispatches, would seem to set at rest the rumors of European intervention in the Transvaal. The count, who is undoubtedly good authority, says that there is no suggestion or thought of such a thing among the governments on the continent or of "any move of any kind from outside quarters." It does not follow, however, that some of the European powers may not find it convenient to antagonize British interests in other quarters of the globe while the latter are busy with the Boers.

What's the matter with the sultan of Turkey? He doesn't seem lately to be contributing his share to the "gayety of nations." Unless the imperial censor has been unusually successful in suppressing the news his sultanic majesty has not massacred any Armenians or thrown any harem ladies into the Bosphorus in a long time.

The Prince of Wales is now 56 years old, but it is hinted that he continues to be "one of the boys."

Reports are received of a French duel, which has actually resulted in the death of one of the participants. It was a mistake, of course, but accidents will sometimes happen in the best regulated French duels.

General White seems to have made a great blunder when he went after Nicholson's Nek instead of jabbing him in the slats or reaching for the solar plexus.

The man slaying deer hunters are making their presence felt on Long Island and in the Adirondacks.

Take Care of Your Ears.
Men and women have much to do to keep straight. A hundred nerves and muscles are at work all through the waking hours, giving warning or receiving orders that the body, with its many joints and natural instability, shall preserve its equilibrium, shall not stagger or double up in a hopeless heap. These nerves and muscles are a highly organized signal service, the chief offices of which are in the semicircular canals buried in the "stony" bonework that protects the inner ear. Were it not for these canals a human being would find it difficult, often impossible, to maintain a proper balance either while walking or standing still.

So long as these canals are in healthy working order their reports are trustworthy, but when any undue force has shocked them or any agency, such as sickness, has interfered with their workings their messages are incoherent, and the brain, like the engineer of a battleship in action, when the men above are blinded and bewildered, has nothing to do but let things go.—Berlin (Md.) Herald.

Railroad Slang as Translated.
Extract from report made by head brakeman:

"The con was flipping the tissues in the doghouse. The hind shack was freezing a hot hub near the hind end. Tallow Pot was cracking diamonds in the tank. Eagle Eye was down greasing the pig and I was bending the rails when they hit us."

It was translated by an old timer in the office as follows:

"The conductor was examining the train orders in the cupola. The rear brakeman was cooling a journal. The fireman was breaking coal. The engineer was oiling the engine, and the head brakeman was throwing a switch when the trains came together."—Maine Central.

Making Ducks Lay Black Eggs.
According to a writer in a French scientific paper, ducks fed on acorns, which they will eat ravenously, not unfrequently lay black eggs. The reason is that their eggshell is naturally rich in iron, and this combines with the tannin in the acorn to produce a good, fast black. The same paper states that if fowls are fed on boiled lobster shells they will lay bright red eggs.

HERE AND THERE.

Burglars broke into an Aurora store last week and reduced the stock of silks and satins to the extent of $365 worth. They managed to escape.

A Waukegan young lady clerk recently took in payment for 25 cents worth of cigars a $10 counterfeit and in return handed back to the customer $9.75 in Uncle Sam's good, hard cash. The discovery that the bill was a counterfeit was not made until after the man made his escape.

Mrs. Dr. Knight, accompanied by her son Thomas, of Waukegan has gone to Los Angeles, Cal., on account of ill health.

The Poplar Grove bank was recently robbed of $3,500. No clue has been found of the robbers.

While digging a well at Carpentersville James Wilbern found a small vein of bituminous coal at a depth of twenty feet.

Mrs. Mary Meehan of Elgin, probably the only centenarian in Kane county, died at Maple Park recently. She came to this country from Ireland sixty years ago.

The Elgin watch factory proposes to put into effect on January 1, 1900, a readjustment of rates for day work and prices for piece work throughout the several departments of the factory restoring the general average to the figures that each obtained for the fiscal year 1892. This move will give the employees $120,000 more annually.

Dixon has four hundred cases of smallpox, which were pronounced by local physicians to be Cuban itch. The cases are now quarantined.

A meeting was held yesterday at Gurnee for the purpose of organizing a local milk shippers' union.

Squirrels have been killed at all seasons of the year, but this cannot be done under the new game law. The season for killing gray, red, fox or black squirrels is set from September 1st to December 15. Bear this fact in mind and don't get into trouble.

The editor of the McHenry County Democrat on account of ill health will take a month's vacation and go to the South for rest and recreation.

The Waukegan Gun club intends to stock Lake county with Mongolian pheasants under the protection of a law passed by the last legislature prohibiting the killing of birds for five years. They cost about $4.50 a pair.

The summer resort hotel of Joseph Savage on Channel Lake was burned to the ground last week. The house was insured for $1,400, about one-half its actual worth. C. O. Foltz, who occupied the building, lost all of his household goods, on which only $1,000 insurance was carried.

Ed Cook of Grayslake lost a finger last week while operating a corn shredder.

Lewis G. Merrill, 60 years old, hanged himself in his barn at Kingston last week.

Grayslake has had some difficulty in finding a hand fire engine that will stand the test of its muscular citizens. The first one received by the village gave out at the first trial under the heavy strain to which it was taxed. The firm has been granted another trial by the village for a new engine.

John M. Smith, father of Supervisor Smith, is said to be the oldest man in Dundee. He is in his 90th year.

The Grayslake village board has been considering the advisability of granting a company a franchise for electric lighting.

A Sycamore farmer gathered 55 loads of corn from 22 acres of land this year. How is that for a yield?

There were 27,547,364 gallons of water pumped by the Waukegan waterworks last month. Figures show that 166 and a fraction gallons were pumped to the pound of coal.

One hundred persons have perished on the great lakes this year.

SOME READING THAT WILL PROVE INTERESTING TO YOUNG MOTHERS. HOW TO GUARD AGAINST THE DISEASE.

Croup is a terror to young mothers and to post them concerning the cause, first symptoms and treatment is the object of this item. The origin of croup is a common cold. ## Surprised the Congregation.

Two little folks went to church alone. It was only around the corner from their home, and their mamma knew they would be safe. During the long sermon they got tired, and the older one, supposing that the school rules held good in church, led his sister up in front of the pulpit and said, "Please may we go home?" Much surprised, the clergymen gazed at them over his spectacles. Then he understood, and said, "Certainly, my children." And the two toddled out while the congregation smiled.—Weekly Bouquet.

"Well," said his friend the sharper, "did you expect to beat a full house with a single card?"—New York Commercial Advertiser.

FREE TO EVERYBODY.

The microscope and chemical analysis have proved beyond the question of a doubt the presence of disease germs in the blood, differing in shape and appearance, according to the nature of the disease. Anything relating to their presence, or, better still, their removal is consequently of interest to our readers and we therefore call attention to a very interesting little book, recently published by M. R. Zaegel & Company, in which the author clearly demonstrates the cause of these little enemies of mankind, and gives a practical home treatment, by which, without impairing the health of the smallest child, they can be removed from the system. As this booklet will be mailed free to any reader of this paper, together with a free sample of enough roots and herbs for two weeks' home treatment, we advise all to make application at once by writing to M. R. Zaegel & Co., P. O. Box 831, Sheboygan, Wis., enclosing in their letter one two-cent stamp to pay the postage on the free sample. Following the rules of health laid down in this book, and using the roots and herbs as directed, means the eradication of disease germs from the blood, the presence of which cause rheumatism, headache, stomach, liver, kidney and bowel complaints.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh That Contain Mercury.

As mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is tenfold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally, and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free. Sold by Druggists, price 75c per bottle. # You're Gambling!

It's too risky, this gambling with your cough. You take the chance of its wearing off. Don't!

The first thing you know it will be down deep in your lungs and the game's lost. Take some of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral and stop the gambling and the cough.

"I was given up to die with quick consumption. I ran down from 135 to 95 pounds. I raised blood, and never expected to get off my bed alive. I then read of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral and began its use. I commenced to improve at once. I am now back to my old weight and in the best of health."—CHAR. E. HARTMAN, Gibbstown, N. Y., March 3, 1899.

You can now get Ayer's Cherry Pectoral in a 25 cent size, just right for an ordinary cold. The 50 cent size is better for bronchitis, croup, whooping-cough, asthma, and the grip. The dollar size is best to keep on hand, and is most economical for long-standing cases.

"Is anything the matter?" she asked, glancing anxiously in the direction of her aunt.

"Nothing whatever," was the brusque reply; "it is merely a shawl which Lady Howard wished for. But you did not hear her call, I suppose; you were too much taken up with that fellow Brown."

Evelyn raised her eyebrows and gave him a swift utterly disdainful look.

"It is strange what you see in that man," he went on, folding his arms; "and, whilst you persistently avoid my society, you seem everlastingly ready to enter into conversation with him. It is not fancy, Miss Luttrell—it is perfectly true. Three times to-day have I attempted to speak to you; three times have you made some trifling excuse and turned to leave me."

"And why have I?" exclaimed Evelyn, her eyes flashing fire—"why? Simply because you persist in discussing the most ridiculous of subjects!"

"I have certainly made half a dozen attempts during the last few days to tell you that I love you, to ask you to be my wife; but perhaps that is a topic of conversation which you care to discuss only with your friend Brown, since you appear to find him so very interesting."

"Or rather perhaps it is that, whilst you talk such utter nonsense, he talks sense!" was the cutting reply.

"You call a declaration of love, a proposal of marriage, nonsense, then?"

"Yes; I call anything nonsense that is so contrary to all reason," returned Evelyn, her voice trembling. "And, since you know how much I hate it, I wonder you pester me as you do."

"Oh, very well! If that is the case, I will not attempt to renew the subject again—in that way, at any rate; my attentions shall annoy you no longer; and—"

"Thank you," interrupted Evelyn in one of them even knows Evelyn's Christian name, much less her signature."

"I beg your pardon, Lady Howard—you forgot the visitors' book," suggested Falkland promptly.

"The visitors' book? Ah, yes—her name is there, certainly! But who could be sure it was her writing? Who would dare to forge a check with such doubtful assistance? And, now that I think of it"—Lady Howard tapped her gold-rimmed fan against her forehead—"I fancy I myself was the one to write our names. Can you remember, Evelyn?"

"Yes, I remember quite well. You did write them, I know," answered Evelyn, with a vindictive little nod towards Gilbert Falkland.

"Oh, indeed! But, even if that is so, there are twenty other ways in which a clever forger could get hold of your signature. You have not written to anybody staying in the hotel, I suppose, Miss Luttrell?"

"Written to anybody? No—certainly not."

"Nor lent any books in which your name is inscribed?"

"No," returned Evelyn, with the same decision, "I have not lent anything."

"Then, as far as your recollection goes, you can give us no clue to the mystery? You have no remembrance, for instance, of writing a letter and tearing it up, or of signing your name in any chance way which could possibly be turned against you?"

Again Evelyn answered "No," but this time there was less assurance in her tones. Standing with her arms folded on the back of her aunt's chair, she had started slightly at Falkland's question, and now, as she raised her head, a strangely perplexed look came suddenly into her eyes.

"I—I cannot remember anything," she added hurriedly.

"Not anything at all?" persisted as to allow such a thing?" gasped Falkland, starting forward, his face livid, an expression of absolute incredulity in his eyes.

A faint nod—a very different one from that with which she had favored him a moment before—was Evelyn's only reply.

"Oh, Miss Luttrell, this is worse than madness!" Falkland passed his hand across his forehead with a gesture of despair, of dazed indescribable bewilderment. "Did not instinct, your own common sense, tell you the truth? If nothing else, the very fact of his anxiety to secure that check should have aroused your suspicions. You might have guessed whose handiwork it is!"

"Guessed?" repeated Lady Howard. "Good gracious, Mr. Falkland, you do not mean to say that you have found a clue to this affair already?"

"Yes, Lady Howard; I believe"—he gave a triumphant glance towards Evelyn—"our suspicions"—with a very decided emphasis on the plural pronoun—"are correct. That fellow Brown is the forger!"

"That fellow Brown is the forger!" Falkland's voice sounded miles and miles away yet how the words reverberated in Evelyn's ears—with what clear distinctness they seemed to ring through the silent air, to echo round the dusky lawn! A moment before a horrible fear had possessed her, a fear which had sent all the blood coursing wildly through her veins; and then—Oh, impossible! Major Brown a forger! It was impossible! Mr. Falkland always had disliked him. From the very first he had been prejudiced about him, and had done his utmost to make both Lady Howard and herself share in his suspicions.

It was too terrible! In that one moment it seemed as though she lived through all the past fortnight again. One after another the various events of the well remembered days passed in rapid succession through her mind, whilst above all, as a climax, a crowning point to the whole, a certain afternoon, scarcely thirty-six hours before, stood out clear and defined from the confusion of the various occurrences. Every syllable which had been spoken, every subject which had been broached, came back to her as vividly as though once more she was sitting in the forsaken library, pen in hand, with Major Brown standing attentively by her side.

Oh, why had she been so dense, so blind as to see neither through his evident manoeuvres nor the strange yet palpable eagerness of his manner? If nothing else had roused her suspicions, she ought at least to have realized that Major Brown was not at all the kind of man to waste his energies upon a simple birthday book. A birthday book! How could she have allowed herself to be so easily taken in? She had certainly expressed some astonishment upon the occasion—she was undoubtedly somewhat dubious at first—but how quickly he had overruled her! Without appearing the least perturbed, he had explained away everything—yes, everything! He had even been able to find an excuse for the blankness of the pages, and she had actually believed him, had believed the whole of his fabrications, though in reality that horrible book had been purchased simply as a means for securing her signature!

"You hear what Mr. Falkland is saying, Eve?"

How far her thoughts had carried her, or how long she had been standing with her hands clasped tightly together, gazing out straight before her at the shadows growing deeper and deeper, Evelyn had no idea.

Did she hear what Mr. Falkland was saying? No, she had not heard a word, and, what was more, she was utterly indifferent as to what it might be; yet it was with a gesture suggestive rather of acquiescence that she sat down on the low bamboo chair and waited resignedly for anything further that had to come.

"You see, Miss Luttrell"—it was Falkland himself who claimed her attention this time—"we can do nothing without the check; we have no proofs whatever as to the forgery. Brown is safe as if he had never put pen to paper at all."

"Is he?" observed Evelyn calmly. His words seemed to imbue her with a sense of strange undefinable relief. "Ah, yes—I suppose that would have been the only evidence against him! But of course it does not matter. It is really not of much importance," she added in a voice particularly free from any suspicion of regret.

"It does not matter! Why, Miss Luttrell, I have just been pointing out to you the greatest importance of this affair, and have been saying how easily the whole thing can be managed! But no time must be lost. You ought to ask the Major for the check this evening without fail."

LATEST ILLINOIS NEWS.

Say Logan Was Murdered.

Chicago telegram: A special dispatch from San Francisco, Cal., says:

"If stories told by those who returned on the transport Sheridan, which carried the Thirty-third infantry to the Philippines, are true, Major John A. Logan, Jr., may not have met his death at the hands of the Filipino sharpshooters, as cable stories have reported. According to the statement of George H. Kappitz, the purser of the Sheridan, supported by others of the crew of the transport, Logan was shot by some of his own men, whom he had offended by his overbearing manners."

"The fact is pointed out by the men who returned on the Sheridan that the cable accounts of just how Major Logan received the wound in battle at San Fabian are rather vague and they think this is significant."

Chicago Politician in Hard Luck.

"Big Sandy" Walters, sometimes known as Charles Walters, is again confined in a cell in the Cook county jail, his bondsmen, William Fitzgerald and William Skakel, having surrendered him. Judge Burke, before whom Walters pleaded guilty of perjury last spring, then ordered him sent to jail until such time as sentence shall be pronounced. Walters' health is much better than at the time of his conviction, at which time sentence was suspended until he had regained his health. Unless Judge Burke sees some reason why clemency should be granted the prisoner a penitentiary sentence awaits the politician of the levee. The conviction is for certifying to false returns in the primaries.

Implement Dealers Meet.

Blanche Burke Is Missing.

Blanche Burke, a stenographer employed by Cutter & Crossette, at 237 Franklin street, Chicago, has been missing since Monday morning. She lived at 727 West Sixty-first street. She left home Monday morning, not feeling well, to attend her work, but she did not report for duty.

AGAIN EVELYN ANSWERED "NO!"

low angry tones—"that is all I care about;" and, without another word or look, she turned to the open window and disappeared, leaving Falkland with ruffled brows and lips set in angry determination gazing drearily into vacancy.

CHAPTER X.

It was certainly true. Miss Luttrell had not been mistaken in declaring that the forged check was not one of those which she had lost some months before; and a careful investigation quickly revealed the fact that the check in question had been dexterously extracted from the book in such a manner as to leave no blank counterfoil to raise the suspicions of its owner.

"It is clear that the forgery has been effected quite recently, and, no doubt, during our stay here," declared Lady Howard, looking towards Evelyn and Mr. Falkland for confirmation of her words, the latter having, despite her niece's protestations, been called in for consultation upon the weighty matter. "But the thing is, who can have done it? There are half a dozen men in the hotel who may be really professional forgers for all we know; but I do not suppose that Falkland suspiciously, quick to notice her evident hesitation.

"No"—abruptly—"nothing."

"Well, the only thing is to take care of that check," observed Falkland, watching her narrowly. "You see, it is really all that we have to go upon. If you would give it to me, though, I might be able to do something for you in the matter."

"Thank you, but I shall have no need to trouble you. I"—the words were spoken in the same hesitating, almost faltering tones—"have given it to Major Brown."

"You have given it to Major Brown?"

Had a thunderbolt fallen at Falkland's feet, greater dismay could not have been depicted on his countenance.

"Yes; he suggested it ought to be put in the hands of an expert at once; and so he is taking it up to London in the morning," she added, giving the necessary explanation as tersely as possible, and then turning away quickly, as though she could not trust herself to utter another syllable.

"He is taking it! Great heavens, Miss Luttrell, you cannot mean it! Surely you have never been so foolish

Awful Thought.

Stone Breaking.

At Heckingham there is a yard where tramps, in payment of their lodging, are set to break granite to be used in road repairs. Today I had a try at this granite breaking, and a poor hand I made of it. I hit hard and I hit softly. I hit with the grain and across it. I tried the large and the small hammer. As a result flakes of sharp stone flew up and struck me smartly in the face, but very little granite did I succeed in breaking. My companion tried also, and after him the master, who said that he understood the game, but neither of them did any better. I have come to the conclusion that even in breaking stones there must be a hidden art.—Rider Haggard in Longman's.

Why He Got the Run.

Mr. Gotrox—That villain of a butler of mine found out that my wife's maid had saved up $600, and immediately asked her to marry him.

Mr. Bullion—I hope you discharged the fellow.

Mr. Gotrox—At once. Why, I had all but induced her to invest the money in one of my new Klondike mines.—Puck.

PROMINENT PHYSICIAN

Has to say who has had 35 YEARS of active Practice of Medicine:

I have never before in my 35 years of practice of medicine given my testimonial of recommendation to any patent medicine, but there is a remedy, the result of which has come under my own observation; for there is no Disease which has so baffled the medical skill of all ages as Rheumatism and to find a Reliable remedy for the same. At last we have found it in "5 Drops," manufactured by the Swanson Rheumatic Cure Company, Chicago, Ill. The "5 Drops," has proven itself wonderful for its curative power in Rheumatism, not as a Temporary Reliever only, but to give a Permanent Cure even in chronic cases. Sometime ago, I had among others several Rheumatic cases under my treatment and prescribed for these patients the very best Remedies which I skillfully selected, but without desirable results. I then heard of "5 Drops" and of its Wonderful Cures, and prescribed it to a few patients who found relief from its use within a few days. After that I prescribed it to a great number and to my surprise, I will say that in the course of Two or Three Weeks after they had used "5 Drops" and "5 Drop" Plasters they were Cured. Among these were a few who had, for a number of years, been suffering with Chronic Rheumatism, who had piloted themselves around on Crutches. They came to my office without Crutches and told me they were perfectly Well. They give all the credit to "5 Drops" and to "5 Drop" Plasters and this is their testimony to the Swanson Rheumatic Cure Company for their kindness and for the conscientious way in which they are placing these Wonderful Remedies under suffering humanity, which they told me to write to the Company as an acknowledgement. As I have seen the Curative Power of "5 Drops" and "5 Drop" Plasters, in a great many instances, I can Truly recommend them and also that the firm is perfectly honest and reliable to deal with.

Headache

Sick headaches! Always trace them to a lazy liver or a sick stomach. Poisonous matter, instead of being thrown out, is reabsorbed into the blood. When this poison reaches the delicate brain tissue it causes congestion and that dull, awful, throbbing, sickening pain. CASCARETS remove the cause by stimulating the liver, making the poison move on and out, and purifying the blood. The effect is almost instantaneous. Ladies, whose sensitive organisms are especially prone to sick headaches, do not suffer, but find relief in CASCARETS Candy Cathartic.

Met him.
Met him again—in love with him.
Met him again—no longer in love with him, but he in love with me, because I am so beautiful.
Met him again—he is still more in love with me, not only because I am beautiful, but because I am also good. Sorry for him.
Again I met him—he is colder than he was. Think he has forgotten my beauty and my goodness. I, however, am inclined to think that I am in love with him after all. How lucky he is, and how angry mamma will be!
Mamma proved to be strangely pleased. Makes me angry, for I know she is not a good judge of a young girl's heart.
Flirted with him outrageously to make mamma mad—didn't succeed.
Engaged to him—glad.
Married to him—sorry.—London Answers.

Up to Date Bobby.

Robert has positively declined to learn to spell. Womanly intuition admonishes Robert's mamma that Robert will doubtless say something very bright if pressed, and she accordingly argues with the boy.
"All great men learned to spell when they were little boys," she says.
"Well, that was before you could hire a stenographer for $3 a week," replies Robert.
Of course Robert's mamma loses no time in telephoning for the newspapers a brief outline of what has happened and bidding them send their best reporters right up.—Detroit Journal.
