The Krueger trial is attracting much attention here. About 50 Waukegan papers are distributed daily by A. G. Smith.
Mr. and Mrs. George Peters and Mr. and Mrs. H. Lorenzen of Arlington Heights were guests of Mrs. Imhoff Sunday.
August Holste of Chicago University came out to attend the funeral services of his little niece last Sunday afternoon.
Attorney C. S. Cutting was in town this week to notify Dr. Muffat to appear as a witness in the Krueger trial at Waukegan.

Mr. and Mrs. Turner of Chicago visited Mrs. D. Stroker and family Sunday and may decide to locate in Palatine for the summer.

Bessie and Eddie Pinney were called to the bedside of their mother in Chicago the first of the week. She is much better at present writing.

Charles Yates returned from Missouri Sunday. He reports more snow in that country than in Illinois. He had a nice visit and a good time.

W. S. Bennett of Cuba and Miss E. Elvidge of Barrington spent Friday of last week at the home of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Bennett.

Ben Wilson is confined to the house with a severe case of grip and he has been dangerously ill. He is resting quietly at present and his recovery is looked for.

Miss Clara Taylor was the recipient of a surprise by her schoolmates last Wednesday evening. About twenty-five were present and a very good time enjoyed.

Mr. Prellberg returned the collector's books last Tuesday. He collected $15,840, leaving $3,405 delinquent. All the personal tax was collected except about $80.

The youngest child of Charles Plute fell into a boiler of hot water one day last week and was badly scalded on the left side. Dr. Muffat was called in attendance and the little one is doing nicely.

Mr. Filbert had a very bad relapse Thursday and it was not expected that he would survive through the day. He has convulsions all day, but towards evening he became calm. He is now resting much easier.

Rev. F. B. Hardin will speak tomorrow morning on "The Causes and Cure of the Decline of Spirituality in the Church." The subject of the evening's discourse will be "The Three Most Notorious Bad Bargains in History."

This afternoon the Queen Esther society will meet at the home of Miss Blanche Schirding. Refreshments will be served after a literary and musical program has been rendered. Everybody who is interested in home missions is invited.

We lately had the pleasure of hearing something new, "The Office Boy," a pretty little dance for the piano. After the long, tiresome siege of ragtime, it is a relief to hear as jolly, piquant a little thing as this one. Trade supplied by Lyon & Healy, Chicago.

Market day proved a big success Friday of last week. A big crowd was present from all directions and about twenty horses were sold, there being more of them for sale than heretofore. The roads were bad, but this did not prevent the crowd from attending and the day was much more successful than the committee had hoped for.

We don't know how it happened, but Prof. Smyser has secured Prof. Cumnock, the celebrated reader from Northwestern University, to come to Palatine to give one of his readings in the latter part of April. Prof. Cumnock stands at the head of all readers and his coming to Palatine is a treat. He has been receiving fabulous prices for his entertainments in large cities. The church will be crowded to the doors when he comes.

Miss A. Sinnott Married.

The following item taken from the San Francisco (Cal.) Examiner will be of interest, in particular to the old residents of Barrington, as the Mrs. Murphy spoken of is a daughter of one of Barrington's most popular and prosperous business men in the early days of the village:

Miss Antoinette Sinnott, one of San Jose, Cal., most prominent society ladies and an artist of more than local reputation, was united in marriage to Daniel Murphy, capitalist, of Los Angeles. The wedding was a quiet affair and a surprise to most of the friends of Miss Sinnott. It occurred at St. Joseph's church, San Jose, the Rev. Father Walsh officiating. Only the bride's parents and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Moore of San Francisco were present.

The Sinnotts are an old family in San Jose, the late John Sinnott having been prominent for years in commercial affairs. Mrs. Murphy was a social belle and enjoyed a large circle of warm friends among the younger set.

Daniel Murphy's interest in railroad, oil and mines has made him known throughout the state. He has been a frequent visitor to San Jose and has many friends there.

Pilgrim, Chapter 4.

Barrington may well be loyal to its stores and business men, for its places of mart and purchase are supplied with all the fruits of nature and the hand work of art. All that is substantial and desirable can here be had at an economy that competes with the big city. When transportation is added to the city prices our home market is far ahead. By the by, it is not a very loyal citizen who patronizes foreign stores. Barrington, as a unit, must stand or fall.

There are gentlemanly proprietors in all its stores and offices, and who is honestly willing to pay up will find home inducements liberal and friendly. There is something very beautiful and neighborly in a trading reciprocity with one's neighbors. No man has sympathy with that man who, reading the highly-colored, false advertisements, aglow with superlative adjectives in metropolitan papers, goes to the city to get bitten on shoddy, green goods.

And here, if true, will wealth accrue. A millionaire might prosper there.

How to Save Doctor Bills.

We have saved many doctor bills since we began using Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in our home. We keep a bottle open all the time and whenever any of my family or myself begin to catch cold, we begin to use the Cough Remedy, and as a result we never have to send away for a doctor and incur a large doctor bill, for Chamberlain's Cough Remedy never fails to cure. It is certainly a medicine of great merit and worth.—D. S. MEARLE, General Merchant and Farmer, Mattie, Bedford county, Pa. For sale by A. L. Waller, Barrington and A. S. Olms, Palatine.

CURRENT TOPICS

WILL START NATIONAL BANKS.

Advices received by New York banking interests from small towns and villages throughout the United States indicate that state banks in all sections of the country are preparing to take out charters under the national system as soon as the currency bill becomes a law. It was estimated today that any one with $3,000 capital could start a national bank under the new system. All that is required is $25,000 in 2 per cent government bonds, which could be secured at ruling rates for about $27,750. These, representing the capital of the bank, could be sent to Washington, and circulation for the full amount of the capital immediately taken out. The organizer of the bank then has $2,750 tied up in the enterprise, but could take deposits in the regular way. Whether the system can be properly safeguarded under such requirements is not known.

THE SIBERIAN RAILWAY.

The last rails have been laid on the trans-Baikal section of Russia's great Siberian railway. This establishes complete steam communication between St. Petersburg and the extreme eastern limits of the Russian empire on the Pacific coast. The section just finished is about 700 miles long, and it runs from the eastern shores of Lake Baikal to Stretensk on the River Shilka, which is a tributary of the Amur. Trains are carried across Lake Baikal by an ice-breaking ferryboat. From Stretensk the river route must be used to reach Khabarovsk, and thence the Usuri section of the railway runs to Vladivostok. It is reported that considerable portions of the sections first built must be relaid with heavier rails.

RECALLS TROOPS FROM MANILA.

By direction of Acting Secretary Meiklejohn instructions have been sent to Major-General Otis to return to the United States some time in May one battalion of the Fourteenth, Eighteenth and Twenty-third infantries. The withdrawal of these troops was recommended by Major-General Miles, who pointed out that the three regiments designated would have been two years in the Philippines in June next. There is no doubt that the decision to withdraw three battalions, which number more than 1,200 men, is influenced to some extent by the disorganization of the rebel army, and the prospect that the American troops will no longer meet with resistance from an organized force.

INDIA'S GREAT FAMINE.

The famine in India now affects a population of 60,000,000, of whom about 3,750,000 are already in receipt of relief. The viceroy, at a recent meeting of the Indian council in Calcutta, expressed fears of cattle, water and food scarcity of a terrible character. He promised that the government would spend its last rupee, if necessary, to save life, but intimated that India would have to struggle with her difficulties alone, as the attention of all Englishmen was concentrated on South Africa. Three years ago, when similar distress prevailed, large contributions were made by Englishmen. A relief fund has been opened in London, but it grows slowly.

THE GOVERNMENT OF HAWAII.

The bill for the government of Hawaii, reported to the house of representatives by the committee on territories, proposes a territorial organization closely modeled upon that of existing territories. The plan includes the appointment of a governor and secretary by the president, and of other executive officers by the governor, the election of a legislature by the people, and representation in congress by a delegate. All classes of the population, except the Chinese and Japanese, are to be given rights of citizenship. The bill makes the islands a customs and revenue district, and places them under the tariff laws of the United States.

THE GOLD STANDARD.

The senate passed the gold standard bill by a vote of 46 yeas to 29 nays. The vote was a strictly party one, except that one elected republican, Mr. Chandler of New Hampshire, voted against the bill, and two elected democrats, Mr. Caffery of Louisiana and Mr. Lindsay of Kentucky, voted for it. A free silver substitute was rejected by a vote of 23 yeas to 47 nays. The populists and all the democrats except Messrs. Caffery and Lindsay voted for, and all the republicans against it.

SUFFERING IN MAFEKING.

Defenders of the Town Are Despondent but Determined.

A dispatch from Mafeking, dated Feb. 18, which in some way reached Lourenco Marques on March 5, and was forwarded from there, says: "The defenders are despondent, but determined. Typhoid malaria has broken out in the women's laager, which the enemy is deliberately shelling. Dysentery is rife, and the garrison is reduced to horse flesh. The hospitals are full to overflowing, and the children's cemetery grows week by week. The natives have been reduced to a handful of meal a day. The enemy is raking the streets, and it is impossible to dodge the bullets. Like the saints we cry out, 'How long, O Lord; how long?' Our losses up to date have been 292."

Growsome Tale Disproved.

What promised to be a big sensation, turned out to be a "fake" when the coroner and police exhumed the remains of Mrs. Suzanne Hanyrzewski, who was thought to have been buried alive at South Bend, Ind. From apparently reliable sources the story was heard that she had been buried while in a trance, and that when such discovery had been made the remains were in a terrible condition. The story was that after the body was placed in the grave, thirty-six hours after death, the hole was only partly filled; that next day, when the sexton went to finish his work, he discovered the box half turned and the coffin broken, while the remains were distorted, the hair pulled from the head, and the fingers bitten off. When the remains were disinterred this afternoon they were found to be in good condition and the story was proven to be untrue.

Kills Woman and Himself.

John Hammond of Buffalo, N. Y., arrived at Stone's Landing, fifteen miles north of Tacoma, Wash., Friday, and went to the home of Mrs. Guy Gale, wife of a prosperous rancher. He was Mrs. Gale's rejected lover. Two years ago she turned a deaf ear to his protestations of love, back in New York state. Having followed her 3,000 miles across the continent, Hammond demanded that she leave her home and fly with him. Mrs. Gale indignantly refused. She declared she did not love him and rebuked him for daring to meddle in her affairs. Hammond shot her dead and fired several times after she had fallen. He then shot himself dead.

Finds Fortune in Zinc Mining.

Marx Carl has just returned to Anderson, Ind., from Joplin, Mo., where he went a few months ago and invested $10,000 in lead and zinc mining leases. Before leaving Joplin he was offered $40,000 for one of his leases, which is now yielding him a royalty of $250 per week. Mr. Carl has sunk a shaft through rock ninety feet, striking very rich paying zinc and lead ore.

Kills Brother and Self.

Suffering mentally from the effects of a recent surgical operation and despondent from long illness, Alexander Carter, a resident of Berkeley, Cal., 22 years of age, shot and killed his younger brother, Charles C. Carter, president of the freshman class at the state university, at the home of their parents Friday morning. The murderous madman then sent a bullet into his own brain.

Buel Davis a Suicide.

The body of Buel Davis, son of the former superintendent of schools of Oshkosh, Winona and Topeka, was fished out of the Fox river at Oshkosh Tuesday. The young man left home Sunday night, and Monday noon his parents received a letter telling them that he feared his mind was breaking down under study and that he chose suicide in preference to death. Deceased was 17 years old.

May Cut Telephone Rates.

The Supreme court of Nebraska has decided that the act of the legislature giving the state board of transportation the right to regulate telephone rates is constitutional. A plank in the populist state platform declares for the lowering of telephone tolls, and it is commonly predicted that a sweeping reduction of rates will be ordered.

Tries Hard to Kill Himself.

Charles D. Mims of New York attempted to end his life at the Sherman house in Chicago Tuesday afternoon by cutting his throat with a razor, and stabbing himself three times in the region of the heart with a penknife. The wounds are not deep enough to inflict serious injury, and physicians at the county hospital say Mims will be out of the hospital in a week.

Plague Is on Board.

It is now established beyond question that the steamship Nanyo Maru, which has been quarantined at Port Townsend, Wash., for a month, has had bubonic plague aboard her all that time, instead of beriberi, as reported by the health officers. The latter have endeavored to suppress the facts, in order to prevent a scare on the Pacific coast.

Stories of Intervention and Mediation Are Being Circulated in Europe—Krugger Said to Have Asked for an Armistice—British Heavily Losers.

Thursday, March 8.

Gen. Lord Roberts has approached fifteen miles nearer Bloemfontein. Boers now concentrating at Abraham's Kraal, thirty miles from the Free State's capital. German-Americans in pro-Boer mass-meeting at Auditorium adopted resolutions asking United States to stop the war. Secretary Reitz said Cronje's surrender will not discourage the burghers. Clements seized Norval's pont. Garrison at Mafeking in sore straits.

itor, censored by Boer government, said if England is waging war of conquest Transvaal and Orange Free State will fight to a finish, but otherwise peace terms guaranteeing independence would be considered; English press ridiculed demand. British will invade Free State with 70,000 men; White will lead one party; Boer forces believed to be 35,000. London Times declared demonstration in honor of queen proved popularity of war.

Saturday and Sunday, March 10-11.

A censored dispatch from Pretoria states that Kruger has asked Salisbury for peace, conditional upon independence of Transvaal and Free State and amnesty of colonial rebels. Kruger asked consuls of powers at Pretoria to urge their governments to intervene. Roberts nearly at Bloemfontein. Five regiments encountered Boers in strong position in Dreifontein kopjes; after stubborn resistance burghers fled, leaving 102 dead and twenty prisoners. Roberts officially informed Kruger and Steyn he had seen Boers disregard white flag and had found explosive bullets after each battle. One report that Mafeking was about to surrender; another that siege had been raised. Subscription books of Boer relief fund opened in New York; aims to raise $1,000,000.

Monday, March 12.

President Kruger has appealed to President McKinley to mediate between the Boer republics and Great Britain. Lord Roberts is within fifteen miles of Bloemfontein; an army of 12,000 Boers is on the direct road. The parliamentary war secretary says money is to be expended on the basis of six months' active war. It is reported in London that Salisbury has rejected peace overtures; Mr. Balfour promises to make the facts public soon.

Tuesday, March 13.

Lord Salisbury rejects peace overtures from Kruger and Steyn, and war will continue until the republics are crushed. British forces under Lord Roberts control the railways from Bloemfontein and expect soon to occupy the capital. Papers of Paris predict blowing up of mines, and other disasters when British troops carry the war into the Transvaal. The United States has made no attempt to mediate in behalf of the Boers. It only asks the terms of peace.

DIES AT HIS POST.

Engineer on Illinois Central Dies in His Cab.

Joseph E. Hoffman, engineer of a passenger locomotive on the Iowa division of the Illinois Central, died at his post of duty Friday night with his hand on the throttle. Hoffman's train was due in Chicago at 12:30 Saturday morning. When it arrived at Hawthorne the speed was not lessened, as is the custom, and the fireman glanced across the cab at Hoffman in surprise. For at Hawthorne there are a number of switches. It chanced that the track was clear. The fireman noticed that something was wrong with the engineer, and crossed the cab. Hoffman sat upon the seat, his hand was on the throttle, and his face was turned toward the track ahead. The fireman was horrified to find that he was dead.

American Bars at Paris.

The American Distributing company has been incorporated at Trenton, N. J., with a capital stock of $100,000. The company has secured a concession from the commissioner-general of the United States to the Paris exposition for the exclusive privilege of establishing and maintaining American bars there.

WATERING THE LAND

HOW IRRIGATION IS PROGRESSING IN IDAHO.

Hitherto Arid Regions Being Rapidly Transformed Into Gardens—Farmers' Societies in Many Instances Own the Irrigating Works.

(Boise, Idaho, Letter.)

Most of the people who farm in the rainfall regions suppose that the irrigation of land is a complicated process and that the art of doing it can only be acquired after years of experience, whereas, as a matter of fact, it is about the easiest and most simple work the western farmer has to do. In most cases the children attend to it under the direction of their parents, and any boy of 10 or 12 can do a man's work when it comes to irrigation.

The western farmer is wholly indifferent as to rainfall. He doesn't depend upon it in the least. The water that interests him is that which flows down into the valley from the melting snows in the mountain ranges. These waters he diverts into great canals which run along the rim of the valley about the irrigable lands and are tapped at stated intervals by what are called "laterals" or sub-ditches which flow from farm to farm and out of which the farmer takes the water for his fields. In some cases the waters of these mountain streams are acquired by the community of farmers along their course, each one holding as many shares of stock in the co-operative canal scheme as he owns acres of land, and being entitled to so many inches of water for every acre of his ownership. This is the usual plan. But when the construction of the main canal, owing to engineering difficulties, is too expensive a piece of business for the farmer to afford, irrigation companies undertake the work and build the canal into portions of the country where large areas of land are to be reclaimed. These irrigation companies are "common carriers" of water and furnish it for a nominal price per acre per annum to the farmer. Sometimes these irrigation companies own large tracts under their ditch which they sell in small farms with the water right, to settlers at a nominal price per acre. In other instances they do not own land at all, leaving that to be acquired by the settler under the various acts of congress.

Perhaps no portion of the Union is now making such active progress in irrigation development, or is receiving so large a quota of immigrants, as southern Idaho. There are millions of unoccupied acres in that state which only await settlement to become as productive as the lands upon the Nile. Efforts are being put forth by the state authorities to bring the advantages of these lands to the notice of the eastern farmer, and the several railroads of the state are engaged in the work.

Perhaps the easiest and the best way to acquire information is from the General Passenger Agent of the Oregon Short Line at Salt Lake City, from whence conservatively prepared pamphlets descriptive of irrigation methods and containing reliable information about the various localities now open for settlement, are being mailed free.

The time is certainly not far distant when the unoccupied public domain of Idaho will be entirely taken up, a condition which will be most unfortunate to those who delay taking advantage of the rare opportunities now offered.

WOKE UP JOE JEFFERSON.

For Fear He Would Sleep Like "Rip" for Twenty Years.

A good story is told of an experience of Joseph Jefferson, the great actor. A number of years ago he played a one-night engagement in a small Indiana town, appearing in his favorite part of Rip Van Winkle. In the hotel at which he stopped was an Irishman "recently landed," who acted as porter and general assistant. Judged by the deep and serious interest which he took in the house, he might have been clerk, lessee and proprietor rolled into one. At about 6 o'clock in the morning Mr. Jefferson was startled by a violent thumping on his door. When he struggled into consciousness and realized that he had left no "call" order at the office he was naturally very indignant. But his sleep was spoiled for that morning, so he arose and soon after appeared before the clerk. "See here," he demanded of that individual, "why was I called at this unearthly hour?" "I don't know, sir," answered the clerk. "I'll ask Mike." The Irishman was summoned. Said the clerk: "Mike, there was no call for Mr. Jefferson. Why did you disturb him?" Taking the clerk by the lapel of the coat the Hibernian led him to one side and said in a mysterious whisper: "He were snoring like a horse, sir, and Oi heerd the b'ys say as how he were onct ather schlaping for twenty years, so Oi ses to meself, ses Oi, 'Molke, it's a coming onto him agin, and it's yer duty to git the crayther out o' yer house instantly!"—Leslie's Weekly.

Rob Cleverdale's Adventure.

By Seward W. Hopkins.

Copyrighted, 1906, by Robert Bonner's Sons.

CHAPTER XI.

On the following morning Rob rose weary and aching from a bed on which he had tossed in wakefulness since he had heard the words of Lemuel Starne. Capt. Elvin nodded to him when he stepped out into the large room, and at once led the way to the dining-room.

"Eat heartily," he said. "You have a day of hard work before you."

It seemed to Rob that every bone in his body ached from the excessive exertion of his walk the day before. But he was so thoroughly aroused to the necessities of his situation that he grimly bore it without a word, and fell to on the breakfast as if he was really a happy boy.

Breakfast over, Capt. Elvin lighted a cigar and offered one to Rob.

"Thank you, sir, I don't smoke," said Rob.

"Not smoke! A nephew of Torrevo not smoke!"

"But I was not always with my uncle Ricardo," said Rob.

"True. Boys in New York do not learn to smoke as early as they do here. Well, Ricardo, come. Let's get to work."

The Englishman led the way to the office again, and pointed to a desk on which there were paper and writing materials.

"That is your place," he said. "You are young for this trust, but Torrevo spoke highly of you. He said you could be trusted. But, after all, I am not going to trust you far. You will know the names of the men you write to, and that is all. Now, I will give you three forms of letters. They are in cipher, and no one except those who receive them can read them. Then I will give you a list of names for each understand, it is the last syllable of my own name."

"Yes, sir."

"Now, here are three lists of names. You have the first letter marked number one. Did you mark the cipher number two?"

"Yes, sir."

"The short one is number three. These lists of names are numbered one, two and three. You will send a letter of each number to every person named in the list bearing the same number. Do you understand that?"

"Yes, sir."

"Here are envelopes. There are stamps. Do it all up in good shape, and perhaps in a week or two you will have something to remember this occasion by."

Rob thought he would, too, if his own plans did not fail.

Elvin stood over him while he studied the names on the lists.

List number one was made up of names and addresses in cities of South America, most of them being in Argentina. Some were even in New York, a few in London and Paris. There were about 300 in all. List number two, or those to whom the cipher was to be sent, were men in the republic, most of them with some kind of a military title. Rob's curiosity was aroused at this, and he resolved to read the cipher, if possible. There were about a hundred of these names. List number three, to whom the "Loyalty" letter was to be sent, were scattered all over the world, but most of them were civilians in South American countries.

It was clear to Rob that he had more than one day's work before him. He began at once. He was methodical in habit, and as he wrote a letter from form number one he would address an the alphabet. How was he to learn what they stood for? He took the first sentence, FWFSZU, and so on, meant absolutely nothing, and could not be made to spell anything. Starting with A, the first letter of the alphabet, Rob tried to make F stand for it. But there was no way to fit the same rule to F, and make sense. This would be ARA. It might lead to something. But when he had gone through the sentence he found it would not do, and began on B. He kept this up, with all the ingenuity his young head was capable of, and tried C and D. He began to despair of reaching it, when he tried E.

The first five letters gave the word "Every."

With his heart beating faster now, Rob kept on his way. Each letter of the simple cipher really stood for the letter that came before it in the alphabet. And when he had studied it all out, the message read as follows:

"Everything is ready. You will at once assemble your forces and join me here."

This meant something, surely. It meant that a revolutionary army was to assemble under Richard Elvin and make an attack on the forces of the government. This means, perhaps, ruin to his uncle in Buenos Ayres. And if his uncle was killed, perhaps Elvin would take all his property and wealth.

With his heart filled with boyish courage, Rob wrote the letters in cipher, as he had been ordered to do. Then he addressed envelopes from list number two.

The message in form number three meant nothing to him. The nearest he could come to a guess was that it informed the persons to whom it was sent that the "Black Cat" had brought another cargo of contraband goods. But what had loyalty to do with smuggling? No, it was another revolutionary message, and the "Black Cat" had perhaps been taken as the symbol of the revolutionists.

Fortunately, Elvin remained away, and Rob had an opportunity to carry out the design he had formed. He wrote a letter to his uncle.

"Dear Uncle David," he wrote, "I was not drowned when I was thrown overboard from the Royal Mail. I was picked up by a smuggler, and am now a prisoner among some men who are smugglers, and also conspirators against the government of Argentina. The head man's name is Richard Elvin, and he thinks I am the nephew of Torrevo, the captain of the schooner that picked me up. If he knew I was writing this, he would kill me. The man who threw me overboard was Lemuel Starne, the same one who is trying to marry my cousin Elsie. He is a scoundrel. He is really the son of Elvin. He comes here, and I am afraid he will recognize me. So, as soon as I get this off with a lot of letters I am writing to other conspirators, I am going to slip out of the window and go back to the schooner 'Black Cat.' Captain Torrevo told me to come back if I was in danger, and I think I am. I could have gone last night, but I wanted to finish the job they set me at, so that I could get this letter off to you. There are three kinds of letters I am writing, and I can only read one. That is the very one that seems hardest to read. It is in cipher, but I made it out. It is being sent to several generals and colonels and captains in Argentina, and says: 'Everything is ready. You will at once assemble your forces and join me here.—Vin.' The name Vin means Elvin. 'Here' means a house not far from the river, at a spot called Black Cat Bay. If I get back to the schooner I will be safe until Elvin finds me. But I hope you will come after me, or send someone. I warn you against Lemuel Starne, whose name is Elvin. He is trying to get Elsie and your money. He tried to kill me to prevent me from reaching you. Please try and get me away from these men. I am afraid they will kill me yet. Your loving nephew, 'ROB CLEVERDALE.'"

Rob addressed an envelope to "David Horton, Buenos Ayres," and slipped the letter, folded neatly, into it. Then he placed this among the letters of number one, that he had written the previous day and which Elvin had looked over.

Engaging Frankness.

Edith—There is one thing in particular that I like Mr. Tactin for. He is so frank, you know. He always tells me of my faults without the least hesitation. That was the agreement I caused him to make. Bertha—Do you mean to say that you do not get angry with him? Edith—Never. Bertha—Tell me some of the faults he has found in you. Edith—O, he hasn't found any yet. When I ask him to name them he always says that I am faultless.—Stray Stories.

Mechanical Argument.

Judge—And what did the prisoner say when you told him that you would have him arrested? Complainant—He answered mechanically, yer honor. Judge—Explain. Complainant—He hit me on the head with a hammer.—Stray Stories.

A WEEK IN ILLINOIS.

RECORD OF HAPPENINGS FOR SEVEN DAYS.

The Chicago Canal Petition—Drainage Board to Go to Washington to Present It—The Memorial to Congress Asks for Appropriation.

Chicago.—Arrangements have been made by the drainage board to leave for Washington, D. C., to present its memorial to congress, petitioning the federal government to make the necessary appropriation for a deep waterway between Lake Michigan and the Mississippi river. The document, which is now in the hands of the printer, consists of more than 500 pages and numerous maps and pictures, illustrating the construction of the sanitary channel. The memorial reviews the history of the canal, its construction, measurements and cost, and asks congress to complete the work begun by the Chicago sanitary district by constructing a commercial waterway, fourteen feet deep, between Lockport and St. Louis. The estimated cost of the labor, which contemplates the deepening of the Illinois river for a distance of more than 300 miles, is $20,000,000.

She Led a Double Life.

Chicago.—The sudden death of Nellie Tuttle in a resort on Dearborn street, of which she was proprietor, revealed the double life a south side society woman was leading at the Hotel Ranier, a fashionable apartment building, Cottage Grove avenue and Thirty-third street. She was known as Mrs. Frank Land, a widow. Here she lived in richly furnished rooms, and had a large circle of friends. Her son, 17 years old, was a student at Notre Dame university. Unknown to him and other members of her family, and equally unknown to her south side acquaintances, Mrs. Land had been a noted figure in the Chicago tenderloin district for several years, and had grown rich. Her son was shocked at learning of the life his mother led. Thomas Moore, a brother of the woman, is a leading citizen of Hyde Park. Mrs. Land was 47 years old.

Sixteenth District Democrats.

Jacksonville.—At a meeting of the democratic central committee of the Sixteenth congressional district, held here today, June 19 was fixed as the date of the convention, and this city the place. The candidacy of W. H. Crowe of Pike county for the office of attorney general was indorsed, and a resolution was passed commending the race made in 1898 by M. F. Dunlap of Morgan county for the state treasurer-ship. Each of the counties in the district has a candidate for congress, and the convention will be an exciting one. The candidates are: Calhoun, T. J. Selby; Cass, Judge J. F. Robinson and F. E. Downing; Greene, Henry T. Rainey; Jersey, T. F. Ferns; Macoupin, W. L. Mount; Morgan, W. H. Hinrichsen; Pike, W. E. Williams; Scott, J. D. Dyer.

Mount Vernon District Conferences.

Mount Vernon.—Presiding Elder Nathaniel Crow of the Mount Vernon Methodist Episcopal district has announced the third series of quarterly conferences for the year, to be held as follows: Waltonville, Mount Vernon circuit, Mount Vernon First church and Union Street church, March 30 to April 1; Duquoin and Pinckneyville, April 7-8; Chester and Steeleville, April 14-15; Opdyke and Tamaroa, April 21-22; Benton and Spring Garden, April 28-29; Marion, Carterville and Corinth, May 5-6; Frankfort and Crab Orchard, May 12-13; Blomfield, Belknap and Vienna, May 19-20; Elco Cairo and Makanda, June 2-3; Villa Ridge, Mount City and Vergennes, June 9-10; Carbondale and Murphysboro, June 16-17.

Galbally Out for Congress.

Alton.—Richard Galbally, superintendent of the Illinois Glass company, of Alton, announced his candidacy tonight for the republican nomination for congressman from the Eighteenth district. The announcement of Mr. Galbally's candidacy was a surprise, as but one candidate for the nomination was in the field, Senator John J. Brenholt of Alton. The new candidate was brought out by the political opponents of Senator Brenholt. The district is represented by Thomas M. Jett, a fusion democrat, who will probably be a candidate for re-election.

Illinois Militia Discharges.

The following members of the First infantry, I. N. G., have been discharged: Honorably—Corp. Jas. C. Vankirk and Privates Charles E. Battershall and George A. Simkin, Company C; Sergt. George B. Holmes and Privates Frank A. Coyle and John J. Maley, Company H; Corp. Daniel Creighton and Private Frederick C. Stevens, Company I; Private Harold B. Johnson, Company M. Dishonorably—Private George R. Stull, Company C; Privates Harry C. Casper and Charles Hald, Company F; Privates Thomas S. Bartlett, Ira W. Byrnes and Thomas C. McDowell, Company L.

SMALLPOX DISTRIBUTORS.

How the Germs Are Nurtured and the Disease Is Spread.

It would seem that people will never learn to be careful. The recent alarming spread of that dire epidemic, smallpox, throughout different sections of the country has been traced by physicians and sanitarians in many instances directly to the moldy and rotting layers of paper and paste which cover the walls of many houses. The practice of laying layer after layer of paper on a wall, using common flour paste, is especially calculated to create homes for disease germs. People could not do more to effect such a result if they tried. The rotting vegetable matter affords caves from which are ready to dart forth the infection at every opportunity. There is no excuse for this practice, as walls and ceilings can be coated with a pure, cleanly and sanitary material like Alabastine, for instance, at no greater expense. Alabastine is a rock-base cement, which incorporates itself with the wall or ceiling. It is easily applied, comes ready to mix with cold water, requires no washing or scraping before renewing or retinting, is beautiful, long-lasting and safe.

For walls that have been infected, nothing is equal to Alabastine as a disinfectant to render them pure and clean and the rooms once more habitable.

The above illustration shows one of the mammoth buildings occupied by the great Mail Order House of the John M. Smyth Company of Chicago.

For one-third of a century this Company has been in business. Beginning in a small way, they supplied their neighbors in the near-by towns, each year widening their field. They are now selling merchandise direct to the consumer at wholesale prices throughout the United States.

Some years ago they began supplying their customers with an illustrated catalogue. As the business expanded they were obliged to increase the size of this catalogue, until today it exceeds 1,000 illustrated pages, quoting the lowest wholesale prices on everything to Eat, Wear and Use. By a superior process of color photography they illustrate many of their goods in natural colors, bringing out the rich color value of curtains, carpets, draperies, and the latest designs in wall paper, etc., thus enabling the customer hundreds of miles distant to select goods at his own fireside, knowing by the description, illustration and price the class of goods he may expect.

This feature of their business is becoming more and more popular each year, for it not only saves long and tiresome railroad journeys but is a great time saver. It leaves out the profit of the jobbing house, the retailer, the expensive commercial traveler, the general agent, the sub-agent and thus eliminates from one to four profits, saving this amount for the consumer. In short, it is a great wholesale store brought to the home. The mammoth catalogue referred to is a 20th century dictionary of economy.

The illustration below shows the recent building added to this great enterprise.

The success of this Company seems incredible, considering the fact that they have advertised so little. Their spirit of fairness and industry is the secret of this wonderful success. The quantity of goods they require in some lines enables them to handle train loads of merchandise secured at the lowest possible cost and freight rate.

When goods in the rough are coming from the mills and factories in the East, the lake steamers are pressed into service at a freight expense which is but little in advance of the iron ore rates.

Their references are: Any bank or express company, or any man, woman or child in Chicago.

"Yes, sir."

"Read them over."

Rob repeated 'be letters.

The public has read so much of late about the "open door" in China and the partition of the Celestial empire that political changes in that country attract more than passing attention. The announcement of the abdication of Emperor Kwang Su and the enthronement of Pu Chun was therefore regarded as important, though it apparently does not signify any material change in the policy of China, either as to her domestic affairs or her relations with foreign powers.

For some years the real power behind the throne and the real ruler of the Chinese empire has been the dowager empress, though she was never really empress nor even imperial consort. She was the concubine of Hien Feng, the Chinese emperor who in 1860 fled from Peking on the arrival of the Anglo-French troops. As the mother of Hien Feng's heir, Ting Chi, however, she took the title of empress. There is no law of hereditary succession to the Chinese throne, but each ruler is expected to appoint his successor from the members of the younger generations of his own family. Ting Chi was followed by Kwang Su, a weak candidate, really chosen by the empress. Her power now grew so rapidly that in 1898 not only the higher officials, but the emperor himself, "kotoed" or paid reverence to this vigorous if venerable lady. But she was not entirely satisfied. Within a twelvemonth it was evident that, further to strengthen her power, she was preparing the way for the dethronement of Kwang Su. Later the emperor was reported to be strangely ill. Now we learn that an edict has just been published to the effect that, as he is unable to conduct the business of state owing to his poor health, he appoints Pu Chun his heir. This is accepted in China and elsewhere as tantamount to an abdication. The new emperor is a 9-year-old boy, son of Prince Tuan, who was a son of the Emperor Hien Feng. Like his predecessors, Pu Chun will unquestionably be only a tool in the hands of the empress.

While the dowager empress is the power behind the throne, her latest move indicates that there is a still greater power behind the dowager empress, and that is Russia, which for the present finds it convenient to further her intrenchment against Chinese progressives and foreign reformers.

At last there has been found one place where the organ grinder is appreciated. It is the Kongo Free State, and the people there are so fond of the music that the missionaries have turned it to excellent account. When they first went there, they found that the natives had a decided antipathy to the marital yoke, but they overcame it by announcing that at every wedding a hand organ should play. The innovation was accepted with enthusiasm, and the rush to the hymeneal altar was tremendous. So infatuated were some couples with the music of the ceremony that they insisted upon being married daily for several successive days. The Kongo Free State appears to be the organ grinder's paradise, and if widespread publicity is given to the fact it may prove a double blessing by multiplying the number of marriages in that country and relieving this from the tortures of the much abounding barrel organ.

The report of the South Carolina dispensary liquor bureau for the year 1899 shows that the total net profits of the system were $414,181. In contrast with the South Carolina dispensary system is the New York license system, which during the past year returned a net profit of $12,582,248. New York's population is nearly six times larger than South Carolina's, but its receipts from its liquor traffic are about 30 times greater.

The federal courts are considering the case of a woman accused of forgery. The case is unique in that the defendant has been known for years as a man and has not only done a man's work as carpenter, plumber, stone mason, plasterer and in other capacities, but has also made love to several young women. Verily, the way of the new woman passeth understanding.

Two Billion Dollar Country.

Every year's developments seem to justify the assertion that this is "a billion dollar country." The year 1899 brought our foreign commerce for the first time past the $2,000,000,000 line, and the month of February, 1900, shows our money in circulation for the first time as more than $2,000,000,000. Thus by a curious coincidence the announcement of $2,000,000,000 of foreign commerce and $2,000,000,000 of money in circulation are made within a single month, the totals indicating that the $2,000,000,000 line had been crossed in our commerce for 1899, having been only completed by the treasury bureau of statistics on Jan. 14, while the treasury bureau of loans and currency on Feb. 1 announced that the total money in circulation had also crossed the $2,000,000,000 line, while gold and gold certificates alone had crossed the $800,000,000 line.

The total foreign commerce for the year 1899 was $2,074,345,242, while the total money in circulation on Feb. 1 was $2,003,149,355. The use of ten figures with which to show the business conditions of the country is indeed becoming surprisingly frequent. The tables of the December summary of commerce and finance show, for instance, the total resources of national banks at $4,475,343,924, the latest report of the comptroller of the currency shows the deposits in savings banks to be $2,230,366,954, the total resources of all banks in the United States are given by the same report as $5,196,177,381, and the latest number of the summary of commerce and finance shows the December clearing house returns of all cities outside of New York at $3,012,896,144 and those of the city of New York at $5,348,285,867.

The treasury bureau of loans and currency publishes each month a statement of the amount of money in circulation and, by combining with this the actuary's estimate of population, presents a monthly statement of the amount of money in circulation per capita. This statement puts the population on Feb. 1, 1900, at 77,116,000, the money in circulation at $2,003,149,355 and the circulation per capita at $25.98. On Feb. 1, 1899, it was $25.42; on Feb. 1, 1898, $23.42; on Feb. 1, 1897, $23.05, and on Feb. 1, 1896, $22.47.

The navy department is endeavoring to secure the appropriation of money to build a small experimental plant for the manufacture of powder; but, according to information received from Washington, it is not likely to be successful, because the powder manufacturers of the country want to make all the powder used by the government. Some such reason as this is alleged against some other measures which, it is believed, would be conducive to the public good. The people, it may be fairly asserted, favor postal savings banks; but, though strongly urged by the postal authorities for a number of years, there is apparently no prospect of the immediate adoption of the plan. The private savings banks are opposed to it, and this seems to outweigh in congress popular favor and the indorsement of the postoffice officials. Again, the parcel post is urged by Postmaster General Smith, and the people apparently want it. The press of the country is almost unanimous in favor of it, and the experience of other nations proves its feasibility. But the indications are that there will be no legislation in congress in the direction of the establishment of the parcel post. The express companies are against it. And there you are.

Less than three years ago the Klondike seemed so far away that even stout hearted Americans of the pioneer and adventurous types hesitated before setting out to cross the savage fronted Chilcoot pass. Today news reaches the States from Dawson City within six days. If new discoveries of gold are made in the far north, as there are abundant reasons to believe there will be, a few years hence Cape Nome newspapers will be publishing press dispatches hot off the wire, and the daily output of ore from the Klondike region will be known in the money centers of the world almost as soon as it is posted at Dawson.

Mrs. U. S. Grant is certainly a remarkable woman. Her tact has put an end to the bad feeling between the Mexican and Austrian ministers growing out of the shooting of Maximilian. It was General Grant who said, "Let us have peace," while Mrs. Grant has proved herself to be one of the greatest peacemakers.

General Leonard Wood appears to be simply demonstrating that "peace hath her victories no less renowned than war."

A GREAT NEWSPAPER.

It has always been claimed for The Chicago Tribune that it would, in all probability, pass with the highest average in any competitive examination among the newspapers of the United States for excellence in all departments of journalism.

"Under date of May 2, 1899, the Omaha World-Herald, editorially answering a letter from 'Inquirer' asking the names of the five best newspapers in this country, points out that a newspaper may excel in one way and be inferior in another. 'The World-Herald' gives lists under five general headings of leading American newspapers distinguished especially for excellence, mentioning 'in all some twenty'."

THE FOLLOWING ARE THE HEADINGS

"(1) Most and best news, foreign and domestic, presented attractively.
"(2) Best possible presentation of news briefly.
"(3) Typographical appearance.
"(4) Classification of news by departments.
"(5) Editorials.
"The Chicago Tribune is the only newspaper in the United States which the World-Herald considers worthy of mention under four different heads."—From the October Plain Talk.

Practically all high-class intelligent newspaper readers, comprising the best and middle classes in Chicago and vicinity, read The Chicago Tribune. A great majority of them read no other morning newspaper.

The Chicago Tribune prints more advertising year in and year out than any newspaper in the West.

GEO. M. WAGNER.

What to Do Until the Doctor Arrives.

It is very hard to stand idly by and see our dear ones suffer while awaiting the arrival of the doctor. An Albany (N. Y.) dairyman called at a drug store there for a doctor to come and see his child, then very sick with croup. Not finding the doctor in, he left word for him to come at once on his return. He also bought a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, which he hoped would give some relief until the doctor should arrive. In a few hours he returned, saying the doctor need not come as the child was much better. The druggist, Mr. Otto Scholz, says the family has since recommended Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to their neighbors and friends until he has a constant demand for it from that part of the country. For sale by A. L. Waller, Barrington and A. S. Olms, Palatine.

P. H. Marvin of Joliet has secured the situation vacated by Mr. Trestrall.

The W. R. C. took advantage of the last run of sleighing last week when two double sleigh loads, with John Robertson, and C. P. Hawley acting as pilots, left for Carpentersville, where they spent the day with Mrs. Stuart Miller, who, when a resident here, was an honored member and an officer of the corps. At noon, dinner was served the corps, which would have tickled the palate of an epicure and reflected much credit upon the skill and ability of the hostess. The day was characterized as one pre-eminent among the social gathering of the corps and will long be remembered on account of the jollity occasioned by the male quartet, who so kindly furnished the music. A delegation from Elgin and Barrington Center joined the corps at Carpentersville, which added much to the pleasures of the day and upon separating kindly invited the corps to visit them at their respective homes.

Lounsbury lodge, No. 751, A. F. & A. M., was tendered a surprise by about twenty-five ladies Saturday evening. They made their appearance at the lodge room door late in the evening, though unexpected, they were gracefully and cordially received. The members of this society thought they would not be outdone by the fair ones, so they entertained them at cards and dominoes, in which all participated. The entire program was completely changed when Chief Butzow reported to the ladies that the lunch was ready to be served. For a second time the jolly members were surprised and were compelled to surrender to the appeal of their appetites and heartily joined with the ladies in disposing of a dainty luncheon. A good time was enjoyed and all returned home well satisfied with the evening's pleasure.

Prof. J. I. Sears and pupils gave three recitals in the Salem church on Tuesday afternoon at 1 and 4:30 o'clock and in the evening at 8 o'clock. A large number were present in the afternoon, but in the evening standing room was at a premium—nearly 500 people being present. The programs were very interesting and pleasing from start to finish, and showed excellent judgment in the make-up of the program. The class went through their compositions in an able and creditable manner, and Mrs. A. L. Robertson proved a very good accompanist. Prof. Sears is to be congratulated upon the great success of the recitals and upon the advancement made in his pupils since the last recital. The citizens of this vicinity make no mistake when they place their children in his care to be educated in music. Prof. Sears also gave the following recital this week: Wednesday, Cary, at the home of Mr.

and Mrs. T. Allen; Thursday, Nunda, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Throop; Friday, Palatine, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. Richmond and tonight a recital will be given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Whiting at Arlington Heights.
