WAS A BRAVE SAILOR.

Capt. John Betts, twice the recipient of costly presents from foreign powers for brave rescues at sea died in New York last week of pleuro-pneumonia. During the Spanish-American war he commanded the transport Knickerbocker, and never fully recovered from the effects of an illness contracted at Santiago. He was born in Watertown, Mass., Oct. 12, 1828. Previous to the late war he was captain of the New Orleans of the Cromwell steamship line. Oscar II. of Norway and Sweden presented Captain Betts with a magnificent medallion for rescuing the crew of the Pauline Siblian in 1877. It bore the inscription, "For a brave act." From Emperor William I. of Germany Captain Betts received a gold watch for his gallant rescue of the crew of the bark Onkel Aldermann, in 1882. The rescue occurred 150 miles south of Cape Hatteras. The bark had been in a helpless condition four days and several vessels had passed it, but feared to go to its assistance. Captain Betts set off in a lifeboat, in a heavy sea, with a crew of volunteers and brought safely back the crew of fifteen.

CIGARETTES HAVE THE STAGE.

Cigarette smoking suddenly has become a most interesting topic of discussion in Washington as a result of an investigation and a report made by Willis J. Brown of Chicago. He started the easy-going community which dwells beneath the shade trees, beside the red brick sidewalk and the asphalt and about the parks and parklets, circular, square and triangular, of the national capital. When Mr. Brown told an audience that 50 per cent of the schoolboys in the city were smoking cigarettes there was alarm in the hearts of the hearers, and when he said that many girls, even young women of the upper grades, smoked, there was a shock. Washington has not got over it yet and the crusade started by the Chicagoan is growing rapidly to large, sweeping proportions. Meetings in the center of the city and in the suburbs are announced. New district organizations of the Anti-Cigarette league are forming and an attorney has been chosen.

GUAM ON PAYING BASIS.

Gov. Leary has sent to the navy department another of his characteristic official reports about affairs in Guam, including the results of a thorough census taken under his direction and a financial statement of the first six months of his administration, which shows a gratifying and growing surplus of Mexican dollars in the island treasury. American money has not yet entered into circulation in Guam, and the figures in the balance sheet represent the silver currency left there by the Spaniards. The amount in the treasury on July 1, 1899, was $2,171. The receipts from July 1 to January 1 last were $9,415 and the expenditures for the same period were $6,767, leaving in the treasury on January 1, 1900, $4,819. The receipts will not be so large for the remainder of the fiscal year, as the tax on marriage licenses will not be so productive, but the expenses will be proportionately reduced, as many of the improvements have been completed.

CLEVELAND CAR STRIKE ENDS.

The strike of the employees of the Big Consolidated Street Railway company, which resulted in much rioting during its progress in Cleveland last summer, has just been formally declared off by the union. A boycott was successfully maintained against the various lines of the company for several months after the strike had been broken, which proved very costly to the company. It is announced now that a settlement satisfactory to the men has been reached. It is said that those of the former employees who are desirous of reinstatement will be taken back, some of them at once and others as rapidly as places can be made for them.

PORTUGUESE AID TO ENGLAND.

According to a cable from Lisbon there is a bitter feeling throughout Portugal at the action of the government in allowing the passage of British troops through Geira and Rhodesia. The government is accused of being friendly beyond the limits of a neutral power and this contention is, according to the rules of international law, well grounded, unless the South African Republic and the Orange Free State be regarded as in rebellion against Great Britain. To assume this is to sit in judgment on the prime cause of the war, and this, it may be conceded, is beyond the province of a neutral state.

URGE REFORMS IN CHURCH.

Bishops' Address Is a Surprise to Conference Delegates.

Methodist bishops put themselves in the front rank of progress Thursday morning at the Auditorium, Chicago. Their address, read by Bishop Andrews at the quadriennial general conference, was one of the most comprehensive, incisive and vigorous that has been given to the church. The bishops stand squarely on all reforms that have been agitating the church for the past decade. They gave their indorsement unequivocally to the equal lay representation and declared that it was the logical unfolding of the church. They recommend the abolition of the time limit in the pastoral term or the return to the three-year period. Opposed to religious unity as impracticable, they urge a union with kindred bodies in a federation of Methodism. Deprecating amusements, they would not hamper conscience and ask the conference to recast the declaration of the church on that subject. Recognizing the social changes that the world is undergoing, the bishops warn the preachers that the church is a religious, not a political teacher, and should not be dragged into the economical issue. The distinction of classes in the church is deprecated and the rich are urged to respect the poor. A higher Christian citizenship is demanded of the church members to meet the problem that confront the country.

Delegate Wilson of Iowa offered a resolution to forbid Methodist bishops receiving extra pay for attending dedications and commencements. Church papers and theological seminaries will be investigated. Bishop Thoburn outlined his plan for army of 100,000 workers to save 2,000,000 and collect $20,000,000. Sunday school union and tract society held anniversary meeting.

W. C. EDICOTT IS DEAD.

Secretary of War in Cleveland's First Cabinet Expires.

William Crowninshield Edicott, secretary of war in President Cleveland's first administration and one of the foremost lawyers and orators of the east, died Sunday afternoon at his winter house in Marlborough street, Boston, of pneumonia. Judge Edicott's health had been poor for some time. He was a man of high character, a lawyer of ability, a natural orator, an upright judge and his life was one of unusual activity and usefulness. He was born in Salem Nov. 19, 1826, the son of William Putnam Edicott and Mary (Crowninshield) Edicott. His father was a descendant of John Edicott, the first governor of the Massachusetts colony. He received his early education in the Latin school in Salem. He was graduated from Harvard with the class of 1847. Soon after graduating he studied law in the office of Nathaniel J. Lord and in the Harvard law school and began practice in Salem in 1851. He was appointed to the supreme court bench of Massachusetts in 1873 and held his position until 1882, when he resigned on account of his health and made an extended tour in Europe. In the state elections of 1871, and '73 Judge Edicott was a candidate for attorney general and in 1870 ran for congress on the democratic ticket. In 1884 he was the democratic candidate for governor of Massachusetts, but he did not appear in the canvass and consequently received a small vote. In 1885 he became secretary of war in the cabinet of President Cleveland.

Jackson I. Case Is Fined.

After making every effort possible to prevent a public trial, Jackson I. Case, postmaster of Racine, Wis., went to Kenosha, and surrendered himself to the authorities to answer to a charge of violating the state game laws by killing twelve jackrabbits on the morning of April 21. The farmer who had made the complaint accompanied Mr. Case to the city and offered to withdraw the complaint, but Justice Stater and District Attorney Buckmaster declared that the prosecution must go on, and then the well-known politician entered a plea of guilty and was fined $20 and costs. The fine was paid.

Prize Fights Local in Gotham.

Promoters of prize fights in New York were made happy by a decision in their favor rendered at Jefferson Market police court by Magistrate Meade when he discharged John Hayward and "Kid" Thomas, pugilists, and George F. Considine, manager of the Broadway Athletic club, who had been arrested for violating the Horton law. He decided that the Horton law, which will be a law until Sept. 1, does not require an athletic club to obtain a license of any character. A CITY OF DESTINY.

TACOMA, WASH., ORDAINED TO GREATNESS.

Has Natural Advantages That Are Unequaled by Any Other City on the Continent—Some Potent Facts About the Coming Metropolis.

Tacoma, the City of Destiny, is situated on Puget sound, at a point where ships meet the cars at the farthest point inland. Nearly thirty years ago the Northern Pacific Railway Company made exhaustive examinations of the entire Northwest and decided that Tacoma offered the best facilities for terminals. The city's progress was slow at first, but she has now entered on an era of prosperity which will undoubtedly prove lasting. It is on the established highway of the nations, the shortest route between the Orient and the West. It is the terminus of one of the greatest systems of railroads—the Northern Pacific—whose magnificent shops, wharves and other terminal conveniences cost nearly $9,000,000. The system radiates from Tacoma, one line to British Columbia, one through the center of the state to St. Paul, one branch to Portland, Oregon, and two others to the Pacific coast and harbors in the state of Washington. The panic stopped the construction of the Great Northern and Union Pacific railroads to this city, but no doubt they will come, as they expended $2,000,000 on grades between Tacoma and Portland.

Tacoma is situated on the shores of the sound, at an elevation of about 200 feet, and is covered by a forest of primeval giants, many of them piercing the sky to an elevation of 250 feet. This park is being intelligently treated to obtain all its natural beauty possible. The scenery in Tacoma is unequalled in any city in America, and by but few in the world. The deep waters of Puget sound which encompass it on two sides are of a beautiful blue. Extending for hundreds of miles beyond is a range of snow-capped mountains, the counterpart of the Oberland Alps of Switzerland. Their serrated and snow-covered crests present in the morning and evening a picture of beauty which is indescribable. On the other side of the city is a lofty range of mountains and in front rises majestically, a high peak, whose entire proportion can be seen from this city so clearly that it seems only a mile or two away, though it is sixty miles distant. This grand mountain arch is eternally covered with snow. This mountain rises from the water's edge at Tacoma almost imperceptibly for miles until it reaches the limits of perpetual snow, from whence it becomes a mountain peak nearly three miles high, which challenges the best class of expert mountain climbers to scale. The interesting features of Mt. Tacoma would take weeks to explore; Mt. Blanc, in Switzerland, can be exhausted in a few days.

It is difficult to write truthfully about the state of Washington and the city of Tacoma without writing enthusiastically, but there is no statement made in this article which cannot be substantiated. No city of the same size in the United States has the same things, well established, which undoubtedly build great cities.

Commencing at the very boundary of the city is a forest, covering 20,000,000 acres, of the most valuable timber in the world, because it can be used for more purposes than any other timber. Thirty miles from the city limits commence coal fields, as extensive as those of Pennsylvania.

Tacoma is the wheat shipping port of the state. Wheat is shipped there as cheaply as it is possible to ship it at any place in the world. Trains and cars run by an easy grade, on solid ground, until they arrive above a four-story warehouse. Grain is discharged into these warehouses by chutes, and from there passes by electrically run appliances into the vessel. The wheat, and that which is ground into flour in this city, goes to China, Japan and Europe.

Thirty miles from the city commences the mineral district, and from what is known at present, after a great deal of money has been spent in prospecting, little doubt remains but that the state of Washington will be the richest copper district in the world. There are also gold and silver mines which are giving indications of enormous richness. Iron, lead, gypsum, handsome building stone, sulphur and a great many other things which, indeed, make a combination in no place equalled, are found in paying quantities.

The valleys on Puget sound are as rich as any in the world. Hops grow here wonderfully. Not far from the city are large hop fields, the product of which goes direct to England; anything which can be raised in a temperate climate can be raised in this part of the country and are unsurpassed. Apples are noted for their beauty and quality. There is no better country for dairies.

Fisheries will in time be one of the greatest sources of wealth. The climate is the most healthful, as is shown by the government returns. Tacoma has had the last two years a death rate of six and seven in a thousand, which is the lowest rate of any in the United States.

The city is well located for carrying on an extensive manufacturing and shipping business, at the same time affording such delightful places for homes so nearly adjoining.

The Tacoma of today is a city built upon a bluff, terraced from the water to about 300 feet high. Then comes a level country for miles, which is as beautiful a natural park as one could desire.

There is no street in Tacoma that is less than eighty feet wide. Its alleys are forty feet wide. It has noble avenues 100 feet wide. In the center of the city is a beautiful park of some thirty-five acres, which, though only some few years old, shows evidence of great care and is adorned with statuary. Five miles from the center of the city is one of the noblest parks in the world, of nearly 1,000 acres.

This is essentially an educational city. Seventeen school houses, beside private schools, colleges and academies, and our public schools are noted for their excellence; seventy-one churches testify to the moral character of the city. This is the acknowledged music and art center of the Northwest.

Tacoma is noted for its beautiful homes and for its wonderful wealth of flowers. The rose carnival is an annual festival here, and is made successful by the abundance of roses we have. It has sixty-two and a half miles of electric and cable roads. Tacoma has a large number of factories, employing 7,000 men. Tacoma has consular representatives from England, Germany, France, Chile, Peru and Japan. The Northern Pacific railroad has seventy miles of side track in the city, which is being increased to accommodate the rapidly growing trade of that road. The largest and finest docks and warehouses on the coast are on Tacoma's waterfront.

Now these features are common to many places with fine harbors and trade established with foreign countries, but where is such a city on the Atlantic seaboard which has the crude material for manufacturing at its very door, and has abundance of coal and water power almost within sight of its walls, streams which combined will furnish power, almost, if not quite, equal to that of Niagara Falls? Tacoma is the only city that has this combination.

The coal is a very fine bituminous coal of many grades. It makes a good coke, I am informed, as the Connellsville coke. Coke ovens are established within fifty feet of the main lines of the Northern Pacific railroad. Trains can be run from any of the mines to the coal bunkers at Tacoma by gravitation. We have magnificent coal bunkers, run by electricity, with a capacity of 22,000 tons. The Central and Southern Railroad Companies, get their coal from their own mines, situated twenty-five miles from Tacoma, to run their steamers and locomotives in California.

DEWEY'S FLAGSHIP OLYMPIA IN BOSTON DRY DOCK.

About 500 visitors in the Boston navy yard the other morning had the first American opportunity of looking at the bottom of the vessel which led the United States fleet in Manila bay May 1, 1898—Admiral Dewey's flagship Olympia. Probably all of the spectators, excepting a few who had seen a battleship in dry dock, were much surprised to observe, as the water was pumped out of the stone basin, that the under part of the hull was not shaped like that of an ordinary vessel—not like an ocean liner's—but was flat in the center, or amidships, and bulged outward from the water line down. The hull, painted red below the water line, was seen to be "bewhiskered"—shaggy with barnacles. Still, considering the fact that the ship had not been out of the water since she was docked at Hong Kong, a year ago last June, the bottom was quite clean, indeed. Most of the spectators had heard of the accident in the Suez canal to one of the propellers, when Admiral Dewey was on his way home. So they went round to the stern and took a peek. The starboard propeller showed two blades askew, one being bent in the middle to a right angle and the other having a bad twist. The docking of the Olympia is the foremost operation of the kind in the records of the Boston navy yard. The ship had about six inches to spare on each side as she passed through the mouth of the dock. Four thousand six hundred tons of precious historic iron and steel was manoeuvred into position in the stone basin safely and with remarkable skill. Naval Constructor William J. Baxter, chief of the department of construction of the yard, superintended the whole business.

And nervous prostration is something you don't want, that's certain. Then don't have it. A perfect Sarsaparilla prevents this distressing and dangerous disease, and it cures it, also. It keeps you up when especially pressed with work. It cures dyspepsia, and it builds up exhausted nerve tissue. But it must be a perfect Sarsaparilla to do this. England's Obligation to India.

The specter of famine in India now intrudes upon British enthusiasm for the war in South Africa. While its unwelcome visitation has not served to dampen patriotism, the consciousness has been aroused that the obligations of empire are not confined to the extension of imperial supremacy in South Africa. A population of 300,000 at most is directly interested in the outcome of the South African war, while 60,000,000 of British subjects are in peril of starvation and plague in India. In the prosecution of the war against the Boer republics there is being expended £150,000,000, and more will be required if the war is continued three months longer, while only £125,000 has been so far subscribed by the mother country for the suffering and dying millions in India. It is perhaps not to be wondered at that such a wide difference of figures should exist, but the facts are none the less painful. The £125,000 is but a mite in the relief fund of the Indian treasury, which, with a self pride and patriotism unequalled in history, has until recently assumed the sole obligation of administering to 60,000,000 starving people.

India is so remote and the war fever so intense that figures meant little in their isolation, but when comparisons are made and it is shown that the famished population is equal to nearly double the whole number of people in the entire United Kingdom and nearly 6,000,000, or about as many persons as there are in London, are daily subsisting upon aid from the Indian government the whole ghastly situation is brought home forcibly to Anglo-Saxon minds.

For at least five months more, even assuming that favorable rains shall fall in June, the condition of the British wards in India must remain much the same unless substantially alleviated by charitable aid.

However the war in South Africa may be interpreted, the famine in India can only serve to emphasize the extent of the obligation of the British empire and evoke admiration as well as pity for these stricken people, who have been so patient in their suffering and so strong in their allegiance to the mother country. It is a notable fact that during all this dreful visitation the Indian government and the viceroy have done their level best and have never lost sight of the heavy burden Great Britain was carrying in South Africa. In order not to embarrass the home government these British wards have borne with remarkable patience and fortitude the dreadful affliction, but as the actual facts, telling a story of distress almost unexampled in history, are made known the British conscience is at last being aroused. It is a pity that this awakening should have come so late.

Mudie's famous circulating library in London has recently come face to face with a new and puzzling problem that may affect all librarians. It has been fined $500 for circulating a book containing libelous matter. A book on Emin Pasha recently translated from the German contained a statement reflecting both upon the honesty and the sobriety of Mr. Ernest Vizetelly, who is most widely known as the translator of Zola's works into English. Mr. Vizetelly first secured a verdict against the publishers with damages of $500 and then repeated the process with equal success against the Mudie Select library. The defendants pleaded that they could not be expected to read the 5,000 new books that were annually offered to them, that they had at once canceled the offensive page when they learned of the libel and that this was the first time an action of this kind had been brought against them. These pleas had no force with the court, however, and British librarians are now wondering what they can do to protect themselves.

The cordial welcome home received by the Prince of Wales on his return from Denmark illustrates the advantage of getting shot at by a poor marksman.

Annual N. W. A. Picnic.

The Lake County Royal Neighbors and Modern Woodmen Picnic Association met at Woodmen Hall, Libertyville, on Thursday, May 3, 1900, for the purpose of electing officers for the ensuing year and locating the second annual picnic.

The representation was not as large as it should have been, however, there were three new M. W. A. camps and one R. N. added to the list of membership, viz, Ivanhoe, No. 1253, Wauconda, No. 643, and Gurnee, No. 4140, also Alice Camp of R. N. of Wauconda.

President Thomas Strang called meeting to order and in the absence of the secretary, L. O. Brockway of Lake Camp, No. 174 of Waukegan, was elected secretary pro tem, after which officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows:

Thomas Strang of Wadsworth, president; Mrs. E. A. Golding of Wauconda, and A. P. Staples of Libertyville, vice presidents; L. O. Brockway of Waukegan, secretary; George C. Roberts of Wauconda, treasurer; Directors: Mrs. Eva Crippen, Lake Forrest, W. H. Anderson, North Chicago, E. A. Golding, Wauconda; E. G. Payne, Rockefeller; Wm. Hoban, Waukegan; H. E. Flood, Gurnee; G. F. Lynch, Libertyville.

Proposals were presented by Wauconda and Ivanhoe Camps for the annual picnic and on the first ballot there was a tie between the two places. On second ballot it was awarded to Ivanhoe Camp, and the time fixed upon July 4th.

Both these camps have an excellent reputation as entertainers and both made liberal proposals. However, the location of Ivanhoe's grounds, which are the old picnic grounds at Diamond lake, gave it some advantage as it is more centrally located and accessible by railroad.

There were some amendments made to the by-laws among which was the making of the president of the association ex-officio chairman of the board of directors, and authorizing him to call a business meeting of the board of directors at any time.

The president has issued a call for the board of directors to meet at Waukegan, on May 15th, to close up last year's business and arrange for the coming picnic.

When Woodmen recall the grand success of the picnic given by Ivanhoe Camp at Gray's Lake in 1897, undoubtedly every one that was there and every one who has since heard of the event will try to be present, and the picnic of 1900 will be remembered as one of the brightest events in Lake county woodcraft.

Many Fraudulent Claims.

All the big life insurance companies spend a lot of money each year to prevent fraudulent claims from being paid, and the ingenuity with which some of these claims are planned calls for the very best detective service that the companies can command. They are willing to spend a good deal more than the amount of the policy to expose these frauds.—Indianapolis News.

A GREAT NEWSPAPER.

It has always been claimed for The Chicago Tribune that it would, in all probability, pass with the highest average in any competitive examination among the newspapers of the United States for excellence in all departments of journalism.

"Under date of May 2, 1899, the 'Omaha World-Herald, editorially answering a letter from 'Inquirer' asking the names of the five best newspapers in this country, points out that a newspaper may excel in one way and be inferior in another. The World-Herald gives lists under five general headings of leading American newspapers distinguished especially for excellence, mentioning in all some twenty.

THE FOLLOWING ARE THE HEADINGS

"(1) Most and best news, foreign and domestic, presented attractively.
"(2) Best possible presentation of news briefly.
"(3) Typographical appearance.
"(4) Classification of news by departments.
"(5) Editorials.
"The Chicago Tribune is the only newspaper in the United States which the World-Herald considers worthy of mention under four different heads.—From the October Plain Talk.

Practically all high-class intelligent newspaper readers, comprising the best and middle classes in Chicago and vicinity, read The Chicago Tribune. A great majority of them read no other morning newspaper.

The Chicago Tribune prints more advertising year in and year out than any newspaper in the West.

Jephthah's Daughter:

A Story of Patriarchal Times.

By JULIA MAGRUDER...

COPYRIGHTED 1900, 1894 AND 1896 BY ROBERT BONNER'S SONS.

Now, as the host of Jephthah marched down the streets of Mizpeh, while all along the people cheered and shouted as they passed, behold at Jephthah's side, in front of them, there rode the young man Adina, and not behind, as was his wont. And by this token all the people knew that he had won glory for himself in battle, and that Jephthah strove thus to show the favor which he had toward him, and with the noise of their shoutings, "Long live Jephthah, the Gileadite!" were mingled cries of "Long live Adina!"

And as these sounds came even to the ears of Namarah, behold the flush upon her cheeks grew deeper and her eyes yet more glorious. And ever the soldiery pressed onward, followed by the shouts of triumph from the crowd. And Jephthah, the mighty captain, rode a night-black charger, while that of Adina was white as milk. Both men were clad in gleaming armor, on which the rays of the setting sun made blazes of vivid fire, gilding the silver of the old man's beard, and burnishing the gold of Adina's thick curls, which seemed a part of his shining helmet. And ever, as they rode, the eyes of both were turned toward the house of Jephthah, for Jephthah had vowed a vow unto the Lord, and had said: "If Thou shalt without fail deliver the children of Ammon into my hands, then it shall be that whatsoever cometh forth of the doors of my house to meet me, when I return in peace from the children of Ammon, shall surely be the Lord's, and I will offer it up for a burnt offering." And he looked to see what it should be.

But the young man Adina, who knew not of Jephthah's vow, and had said naught of the tidings sent to Namarah by the carrier bird—that being a secret between the maiden and himself—knew that Namarah would be prepared for their coming, and rightly thought that she would come to meet them.

And now, as they began to come nigh to the house, behold, the great doors were thrown open, and forth there came the maiden Namarah, clad all in white and gold, and after her her maidens, with timbrels and dances. But Namarah came first, with her head erect and all her face made glorious with joy. The childish timidity she was wont to show had vanished now, and she faced the band of soldiery a royal princess in her bearing. She felt herself a queen, indeed, for happy love had crowned her.

And as she came, behold the two men who were at the head of the great host drew rein and suddenly checked their horses, and all the soldiery halted. All eyes were on the beauteous face of the majestic maiden, hers only seeing the faces of the two men who led the host.

Her gaze sought first the face of Adina, with a treacherous fealty which she could not control, and as their looks met thus, behold the joyousness of his heart gleamed forth into his eyes, which met hers, with a look that thrilled her soul with rapture. For a moment she was blinded with ecstasy, and saw naught before her but light, supreme, bewildering; and then, with the reflection of that light upon her face, she turned her rapt gaze upon her father, and suddenly the great light became a great darkness, which likewise cast its reflection upon her; for the face of Jephthah her father was as the face of a man in mortal throes, and behold the hand that held the bridle shook and fell, and his body swerved in the saddle, so that he would have fallen but that the young man Adina, seeing the maiden's sudden change of countenance had looked toward its source, and was just in time to put out his hand and stay Jephthah in his place.

Then Adina dismounted and ran to Jephthah's side, and while the maiden Namarah herself laid hold on the bridle of his horse, the young man assisted him to the ground, and with Namarah's help led him into the house. The eyes which had but lately looked such joy into each other, exchanged now looks of pain and horror, for it was quickly passed from mouth to mouth that the great captain had been seized with mortal illness, and that the joy of his victorious return and meeting with his daughter was like to cost him his life.

But Jephthah, when he heard these words, denied and said: "It is not as ye say, O men of Israel; nevertheless the hand of the Lord is heavy upon me this day. Cause to go out from me all save the maiden Namarah and the young man Adina."

And when they had so done, behold Jephthah rent his clothes, and said:

"Alas! my daughter; thou hast brought me very low; and thou art one of them that trouble me; for I have opened my mouth unto the Lord, and I cannot go back!"

And Namarah said unto him:

"My father, if thou hast opened thy mouth unto the Lord, do to me according to that which hath proceeded out of thy mouth; forasmuch as the Lord hath taken vengeance for thee of thine enemies, even the children of Ammon."

So spake she, and her voice was firm and clear, but her face went deadly pale, even as the face of the young man Adina put on a ghastly pallor; and as he stood before her in his shining armor a great trembling seized him, so that his armor shook and sounded. And as she looked on him and saw his grief, behold her heart bled for him, and for all the visions of her happy love; and she turned to him and threw her arms about his neck. And Adina clasped her to him, careful not to hurt her tender body against his mail-clad breast, and it seemed unto them both that the barrier that had come so suddenly between their two souls was even as this barrier between their bodies—hard and cruel and impassable. But there was no barrier between their lips, and as they softly touched and trembled on each other, they knew not whether that moment's ecstasy was of pain or joy.

And Jephthah sat and gazed on them, and as he looked he was no longer the mighty man of valor, but a creature sore stricken, so that his hands shook for very weakness, and feeble and impotent tears fell down upon his beard and trickled to his armor, while his face was changed and piteous to behold, and he looked, all at once, an aged man.

Turning her eyes toward him, and seeing him in such unhappy case, Namarah slipped from her lover's arms, and went and knelt beside her father, circling his neck with her tender arms, and calling him all manner of caressing names, while she kissed him with deep lovingness on his forehead, his cheeks and his lips. Then did she loosen his heavy armor, and remove each piece in turn, beseeching him to take comfort, and avowing toward him an affection more fervent and dutiful than ever she had shown him in the past. But Adina spake no word either with or against her, but stood where she had left him, with his right hand holding the elbow of his left arm, which was raised toward his face, his chin sunk in his palm. He was still in complete armor, only he had removed his helmet, so that his sunny curls were uncovered. Right goodly to look upon he was, in the majesty of his stalwart youth, but his ruddy skin was ashen white, and in the great blue eyes, which had so lately glowed with so luminous a love-light, there was now the shadow of great despair. And ever his eyes were fixed upon the maiden, following each movement that she made, and the hunger of his soul was in them.

CHAPTER VII.

When Jephthah, at her bidding stood up, that Namarah might lift from him the weight of his heavy armor, he turned and looked upon Adina, and a great cry broke from him, and he sank backward into his seat and covered his face with his hands. But Namarah bent above him and drew away his hands, kneeling on her knees before him, and holding them in both her own.

"Nay, grieve thee not, my father," she said, tenderly. "Let it be done to me according as thou has vowed."

"Thy life is mine, and vowed to me!" burst forth Adina, hotly, taking a step toward her, as if he would wrest her from her father. But the compelling eyes of the maiden Namarah arrested him, and he turned, and began to pace the apartment with the angry strides of a caged beast.

"Ah, woe, my daughter," Jephthah spake, "that thy father, who hath so loved thee, should bring thee now such hurt. It had pleased me well that thou shouldst wed Adina. It was but the morning of this day on which I dreamed these dreams, and to what are they come? Alas, my daughter, why camest thou forth to meet me, so contrary to thy wont and usage? Thou wast ever affrighted before the soldiery and held backward when they came about the door."

"I was even bold and fearless, my father, against my usual wont, because happy case, Namarah slipped from her that love had made me so, and in the presence of my lord, Adina, I had but one fear only, lest I might fall of my honor to him—who knew not my ways as thou knewest them—and appear unloving and ungracious in his eyes."

At these words Adina's motions grew more gentle and he checked him in his walk, and came and stood near by, his chin sunk in his palm, as before, and his eyes, with a most mighty tenderness in them, bent upon Namarah.

"But, how knewest thou, my daughter, that the victory was won and thy father's host returning, seeing I sent no messenger before me, but made haste myself to bring thee tidings?"

Then Namarah turned her fair face upward, and said:

"Adina, speak. Let it be known unto Jephthah, my father, that the thing that is come upon us was partly of our own doing—thine and mine."

Then Adina, softened, mayhap, by the sight of the old man's suffering, and more yet by the nobleness and submission of Namarah's spirit, answered, and said:

"These words be true, O Jephthah, for it was even I that sent unto the maiden tidings, by which she gained the knowledge of our approach."

"But how sendest thou these tidings," said Jephthah, "seeing that I gave thee no leave to take a messenger?"

"Therein the fault was mine," Namarah said, "if fault there be—for, were it not the will of God, naught that was done or is to be were possible—seeing that I gave unto Adina one of my carrier birds, to send me word of thy triumph and return, and the bird, in truth, brought me the tidings this morning. Seest thou not then therefore, oh, my father, that this thing that is befallen us was to be?"

Then Jephthah bowed his head upon his hands and uttered a mighty groan. "How sayst thou, my daughter, that we shall be delivered? Knowest thou not that according to my vow thou must be offered a burnt sacrifice?"

As he spake these awful words, the maiden's face grew whiter still, though the courage of her eyes faltered not, and through all the body of the young man Adina there ran a great shiver that again made to shake his armor that it rattled and sounded, seeing which, Namarah rose and ran to him, fearing lest he might even fall to the ground, so greatly he tottered and trembled. Taking him by the hand, she led him to a place beside her father and gently pressed him to a seat, while she herself sank back upon her knees before them, holding a hand of each, and as she lifted up her head and looked at them, it seemed unto the father and the lover both that her face was as the face of an angel.

"Hearken to me, O thou to whom my soul best loveth," said Namarah, "for there is a voice within me that seemeth to me to speak, and that most dread and sacred voice saith to me what it shall comfort thee to hear. 'I will deliver thee,' the voice crieth continually, and shall we not believe this Heavenly voice? Let us, therefore, be comforted, and take courage and pray continually for deliverance from the terror wherewith we are affrighted. For what is it that thy soul feareth, O Adina, and O Jephthah my father? Is it not even the thought of parting?"

As Namarah spake these words, the spirits of the men who listened to her grew suddenly more calm, and the faith and courage with which her own heart was animated seemed to be in some sense imparted to them, so that Jephthah turned unto Adina, and spake unto him in these words:

"Let not thy soul within thee hate me, O Adina, for my heart is sad even unto death. Forgive me the harm that I have done unto thee through ignorance, and let it be with us both even according unto the words that this maiden hath spoken, and let us take comfort and have hope. Let us together pray continually for the deliverance that she feeleth to be in store for us."

And Adina answered, and said: "It shall be as thou sayest, O Jephthah, and the God of power hear our prayers."

Then Jephthah caused him that he knelt in front of him, at the side of the maiden Namarah, and as they rested so, Jephthah lifted up his hands, and blessed them. And as their heads were bowed together, the short golden curls of the man beside the long dark tresses of the maiden, Jephthah rose, and softly left them; and when they lifted up their heads, behold they were alone.

THE CONGRESSIONAL RECORD

Proceedings of Six Days in National Congress.

TELLER TALKS FOR THE BOERS

Senate Passes Bill to Amend the General Pension Laws So as to Provide for Disabilities Under the Act of 1890.

Thursday, May 3.

Nicaraguan canal bill is placed on senate calendar. Senate passes army appropriation bill after a discussion of Philippine war. The Clark resolution is called up and consideration postponed. Efforts are making in senate to restore clause in postal service appropriation which will give Chicago a pneumatic tube service. House passes "free homes" bill granting patents to bona fide settlers on lands purchased from Indians.

Friday, May 4.

The senate passed the reorganization bill, which practically revolutionizes the present staff arrangements of the army. The bill provides for an increase in several branches of the service. The fortifications appropriation bill, carrying $7,733,628, an increase of $640,146 over the house measure, was also passed. The senate adjourned until Monday.

In the house, seventy-three of the 132 pages of the sundry civil appropriation bill were completed. Members of the naval committee made efforts to cripple the coast and geodetic survey in retaliation for the refusal of the house to place the survey of waters of our insular possessions in the hands of our navy. A message from President McKinley vetoing the bill authorizing the adjustment of settlers on the Navajo Indian reservation was laid before the house. An order was made giving the day following the disposition of the sundry civil bill to the committee on claims.

May, 5.

Secretary Hay enters into agreement with Lord Pauncefoot, the British ambassador, to extend the term of the ratification of the Hay-Pauncefoot treaty seven months. Ex-Judge Springer, representing drainage canal trustees, files with Supreme court answer to brief of Missouri plaintiffs for injunction. It is thought St. Louis' application to congress for $5,000,000 to aid Louisiana Purchase exposition will yield only $3,000,000 or less. The house passes the sundry civil bill; army and fortifications measures sent to conference. Extension of time to arrange treaty over Mexican boundary is arranged. United States will send no minister to Turkey until claim is settled. Representative Cannon leaves for Pretoria.

Monday, May 7.

In the senate Mr. Teller delivered a speech in which he strongly urged the senate to extend its sympathy to the Boers in their contest with Great Britain. The adoption of his resolution of sympathy, he maintained, could not be considered as an unfriendly act by the British government. During most of the session the senate had under consideration the naval appropriation bill. Mr. Chandler's amendment to curtail the increase of the marine corps created some debate, and finally was laid on the table, 30 to 14. The bill was not completed. Notice was given that the armor plate provision would be considered in secret session, on account of certain facts that were to be called to the senate's attention. A bill was passed to provide for a survey of the Illinois river. In the house it was suspension day and a number of bills were passed. The most important was the senate bill to amend the general pension laws so as to provide for aggregating disabilities under the act of 1890 without regard to service origin, and to increase the net income a widow may have without destroying her right to a pension from $96 to $250. The purpose of the bill is to modify rulings of the pension office in accordance with the recommendations of the G. A. R. It was passed without a dissenting voice. The bill to increase the appropriation for the national guard from $400,000 to $1,000,000 was among those passed. Mr. Sulzer (N. Y.) attempted to secure action upon his resolution expressing sympathy with the Boers, but was cut off by the speaker.

Tuesday, May 8.

The senate concluded the consideration of the naval appropriation bill, with the exception of that section relating to armor and armament. This went over until Wednesday, when it will be considered in secret legislative session. A number of major bills were passed, among them one to reimburse various collectors of internal revenue for internal-revenue stamps chalked against them but not accounted for. The debate on the naval bill was practically confined to the paragraph relating to the commissioning of naval cadets. The committee's amendment striking off the proposition in the house bill which sought to commission the cadets at the expiration of the four years' term at the naval academy, abolishing the preliminary two years at sea, was carried after a warm debate.

The house devoted most of the day to the consideration of private bills recommended from the committee on claims and ten bills were passed. The most important was one to remit the penalties imposed by the government on the Union Iron works of San Francisco, the builders of the monitor Monterey, for her failure to make contract speed. Resolution was adopted calling upon the secretary of the treasury to inform the house of the material used in the manufacture of oleomargarine.

New Style in Train Robbery.

After robbing five passengers on a Northern Pacific freight train near North Yakima, Wash., six highwaymen compelled their victims to jump off the moving train, that they themselves might be secure when the conductor and brakeman returned from the front end of the train. Compelling the passengers to line up with arms uplifted, the robbers went through them, securing watches, rings, and nearly $600. The passengers were then made to jump off, the robbers meanwhile shooting them and pounding them over the head with their guns. Fred Broker and John Cleman were shot, but will recover. The passengers walked to Rosa station and wired Sheriff Tucker at Yakima, who organized a posse and started in pursuit. The robbers left the train at Umtanum.

Hemmed in by Ashantis.

The Colonial office at London has received the following dispatch from Sir Frederick Mitchell Hodgson, governor and commander-in-chief of Gold Coast colony, dated April 27: "On April 25 the Ashantis surrounded the town in great force, probably 10,000 and made a determined attack. The Hausas were obliged to evacuate the cantonment and to concentrate around the fort. The engagement lasted four hours. Twenty of our native allies and Hausas were killed."

Falls in a Fit and Dies.

Walter Scott Kumer, 49 years old, former mayor of Oxford, fell in a fit in the street in Oxford, O. His head struck a cement pavement, and he died instantly. Mr. Kumer had a romantic life. In his youth he married Miss Nettie Miller of Hamilton, O., who is now the wife of United States Commissioner of Internal Revenue Wilson. They separated and were subsequently divorced.

Falls 120 Feet and Lives.

Gus Olson of Chicago, an expert who was engaged in building the steel tank for the municipal works at Oconomowoc, Wis., fell a distance of 120 feet, is still alive, has no broken bones, but is bruised terribly. He was working on a ladder suspended by a rope. The latter gave away, but Olson clung to the ladder until it struck a guy rope 105 feet below, to which fact he owes his escape from instant death.

Who am I Anyhow?

I married a widow who had a daughter. My father visited our house frequently, fell in love and married my step-daughter. Thus my father became my son-in-law and my step-daughter my mother, because she was father's wife. My step-daughter had also a son, he was of course my brother and at the same time my grandchild, for he was the son of my daughter. My wife was my grandmother, because she was my mother's mother. I was my wife's husband and grandchild at the same time; and as the husband of a person's grandmother is his grandfather, I must be my own grandfather.

Solve this problem and then clear your mind by smoking a Grand Republic cigar. For sale by E. F. Schaefer.
