Miss Ellen Fox of Grand Rapids, Mich., was a guest of Miss Amabel Hardin, a few days this week.

Mrs. Taylor and children of Chicago, has been visiting her, sisters, Mesdames Clark and Harris, this week.

CARD—I hereby extend my thanks to many friends who assisted in many ways during my husband's sickness, and after his decease.

MRS. C. JENSEN.

J. I. Sears and pupils will give a recital at the M. E. Church Monday at 3:30 and 8:15 p. m. A fine program has been arranged for the occasion.

A short but very interesting program was given in the Methodist Church by the Sunday school last Sunday evening, it being Children's Day.

Odd Fellows from Palatine, Cary and Wauconda attended the funeral of John F. Wood, a member of Palatine Lodge, at Arlington Heights last Sunday.

Christian Jensen died in the Chicago hospital of consumption last Friday, and the funeral services were held at his late home in Palatine last Sunday afternoon.

Rolland Beutler had his hand badly bruised during a ball game Tuesday afternoon by being hit with a club. He expects to be able to play in form again in a week or so.

The choir concert for which the St. Paul's church choir has been practicing for a number of weeks, will be given this evening in the church. A rare treat is promised to those who attend.

Miss May Hutchins of Denver, Col., is visiting Mrs. Nancy Sutherland.

Palatine Lodge No. 314, A. F. & A. M. gave degree work last Saturday afternoon, and held a grand banquet in the evening. Members were present from Barrington and Arlington Heights, and good time enjoyed.

A woman in Idaho got a divorce from her husband because he would not take her to the Paris Exposition. He testified in court that he was afraid of water and that he was afraid to get into a bath tub even, he got so seasick. That man has indigestion just as a good many others we know and should take Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

Schrader-Doerge.

Married at the German Lutheran Church, Thursday morning, June 14, 1900, by Rev. Droegenqueller, Miss Louisa Doerge to Fred Schrader. Both are well-known young people of this place. A grand reception followed the ceremony at the home of the groom's parents, which was attended by hosts of friends.

The young couple will reside on a farm at Hirn's corners, where the groom has built a residence. We wish them much happiness in their new life.

Palatine, 24; Onwards, 8.

Palatine High School added another to its list of victories last Saturday by defeating the Onwards of Chicago by a handsome majority. The game started out with both teams evenly matched and a pretty contest was looked for, but Palatine soon commenced to smash the ball and continued their excellent stick work to the finish of the game. They faced three different pitchers before the game was finished. The school boys won by superior all around playing. They all batted well, the base throwing was good and the ball was fielded well at all times. Beutler for the local team had the opponents at his mercy and had a big total of strike outs to his credit. Williams at third picked up some hot grounders and Slade fielded a number of times while Beutler covered first. Filbert played his usual good game behind the bat.

Commencement Exercises.

Commencement week has been a good one and the exercises passed off smoothly. The baccalaureate sermon was delivered Sunday morning by Rev. F. B. Hardin in the Methodist Church.

The class day exercises were held in the church, as the evening was too cool for out-of-door exercises. The class of four, Misses Julia Bollenbach, Clara Taylor, Agnes Danielsen and Elsie Baker, gave a very interesting program to a large audience, as follows:

- Song by class.
- Oration "Russia"—Julia Bollenbach.
- Class History—Elsie Baker.
- " Prophecy—Clara Taylor.
- " Poem—Agnes Danielsen.
- " Paper—Class.
- Song by class.

The Eighth grade exercises were held Thursday afternoon in the school house, and a large number of people attended.

The High school graduating exercises were held in the Methodist Church last evening and the church was packed as usual. The exercises passed off in a first-class manner. The orations were well delivered and interesting. Sabey's Chicago orchestra rendered music and they were highly applauded for their performances. Mr. E. L. Sabey rendered a violin solo, which was enthusiastically received, as was the cello solo by H. O. Johnson.

Prof. W. D. Snyder of Hunting ave., delivered a short, appropriate address and C. D. Taylor presented the diplomas in behalf of the Board of Education.

THE BOER WAR FROM AN ENGLISH STANDPOINT.

Under circumstances our sympathy ought to be with England. We fought a war for humanity and they upheld our course; they did not accuse us of going to war for the sake of getting more territory.

Now that they are carrying on a war for justice we ought not to accuse them of going to war for the sake of getting gold mines.

We ought to uphold a war the causes of which are so just and so similar to our last war.

Both wars can be called wars of civilization. Both called forth the condemnation of the European nations.

We ought to know by this time that the European nations will always accuse a country of going to war for selfish purposes no matter how just the cause.

Are we going to do the something after we ourselves have been accused? Cast aside your suspicion and uphold a nation that is fighting in behalf of civilization.

Give up your sympathies with a correct ally who's people detest civilization and give it to a nation that will relieve a people from their sufferings, to a nation that will make a declining community progressive, and to one that will give equal rights to all.

WILLIAM A. DANIELSEN.

SECESSION.

The Texan soil gained in the Mexican war renewed the struggle between the North and the South. David Wilmot had offered in congress in 1846, a bill forbidding slavery in any territory which should be acquired from Mexico. This measure, though lost, caused very much excitement. In 1847 Calhoun presented a set of resolutions to the senate, covering the whole ground of the slavery question with regard to the territories. The key-note of the remarks with which he prefaced them was the assertion that "the day that the balance between the two sections of the country is destroyed is a day that will not be far removed from political revolution, anarchy, civil war and wide spread disaster."

In 1850, when California applied for admission to the Union as a free state, a hot debate ensued and for a time it seemed as if the Union would be rent asunder.

Calhoun in a speech March 5, 1850, declared, "As things now stand the Southern states cannot remain in the Union." At this terrible crisis Henry Clay, "the Great Pacificator," came forward and, with his wonderful eloquence urged the necessity of a mutual compromise the result of which was the historic "Omnibus Bill" or compromise of 1850. HENRY F. IMHOFF.

CRUSADES.

In the majestic march of ages nineteen hundred years have rolled by since the birth of Christ of Nazareth. Through that beautiful and humble life the land of Palestine has been made sacred for all times, and it is to this that the crusades, which lasted from the end of the eleventh, through the twelfth and thirteenth centuries, owe their existence. Let us transport ourselves for an instant to that age, study the existing conditions to find the cause that gave birth to this strange and wonderful undertaking. We notice a singular superstition pervading the christian world which extends over entire Europe and it is plunged into the deepest excitement. On account of a misinterpretation of a certain passage in the bible it is universally believed that the end of world was at hand. The utmost terror prevails in all the countries of Europe. Churches are thronged with penitents and people are taking pilgrimages to the Holy Land in the vain hope of purchasing pardon for past sins, and of procuring favor in the world to come.

MARTHA L. BOLLMAN.

MYTHS.

The myths of India, Greece, Italy and Germany differ not in material, but only in development. Myths are common to all tribes and nations, for the same story runs from the valley of the Indus to Iceland; from the frozen North to the waters of the Southern seas. But of all the mythologies no other was so highly developed as that of Greece.

Myths, the spontaneous and earliest growth of the Grecian mind contributed that entire intellectual stock of the age to which they belonged. The same exuberance which characterized the other elements of Greek life seems to have given a double impulse to the myths of Hellas. Both in number and finish, they far surpass those of any of the sister countries of the ancient world.

To fully understand the origin and significance of myths one must enter into the childlike spirit of those who conceived them. We must try to identify them with the state of mind of mythical age. ADDIE M. GILBERT.

MODES OF TRAVEL.

We can see how much civilization has advanced in learning and science by looking back a few centuries to ancient Greece and studying the different modes of travel from that time to the present century. In the very early times the people in Greece rode in chariots. These had two wheels, no seat and were drawn by eight horses. They were closed on the sides

GENERAL ANDRE.

NEW FRENCH MINISTER OF WAR.

Insane Man Seeks Two Lives.

An escaped murderer and lunatic attempted to take the life of Fremont Alford, criminal judge at Indianapolis, and Prosecutor Edwin B. Pugh. The would-be assassin was George W. Bennett, who escaped from the hospital for the insane Saturday.

Bennett entered the courtroom Tuesday after court convened and attracted the notice of the court by his incoherent talk. Judge Alford started to the telephone when he found Bennett at his back with a revolver pointed at his (Alford's) head.

Bennett killed two men at Lafayette in 1889, was sent to prison and afterward transferred to the insane asylum.

Many Die in a Collision.

A head-end collision of cars on the Oakland Beach electric road at Providence, R. I., Sunday, resulted in the immediate death of four persons and the wounding of over a score of others, some of whom are in a precarious condition. Among the latter is Lieut. Gov. Charles O. Kimball. The list of victims follows: Arthur Liscomb, George W. Baker, 15 months old; Lewis C. Sanborn, Providence; Ed D. B. Burroughs, motorman.

One Bolt Kills Four.

Tom Jenkins, Peter York, Harry Davis and Peter Wiggins, all colored, employees of the Merrill-Stevens Engineering company, were killed by lightning at Jacksonville, Fla., Thursday, while at work under the steamer Commodore Barney, hauled out on the ways at South Jacksonville. Fourteen other men were shocked, some of them seriously.

Premier Is Dying in Prison.

Apollinario Mabini, premier of Aguinaldo's cabinet, who is not only the most able among the leaders of the insurrection, but almost the only one whose honesty never has been questioned, probably has finished his career. His friends believe he is dying. Mabini remains in an American prison in Manila because he has nowhere else to go.

Suicide of Aged Chicagoan.

John D. Weber, formerly a wealthy dry-goods man of Chicago, committed suicide by swallowing carbolic acid in a room at the La Pierre hotel. He was found in an unconscious condition and taken to the county hospital, where he died soon after.

ENTIRE BATTALION CUT UP.

Disaster to British Troops at Roodeval.

SEVENTEEN MEN KILLED.

The Boers Returned the Wounded to the British—Two Lieutenants Among the Dead—War in South Africa Seems to Break Out Afresh.

Fifty thousand British troops were reported Tuesday to be within half a hundred miles of the marauding Boers north of Kroonstad, and they were expected, of course, to make short work of them. Lieut. Gen. Sir Frederick Forestier-Walker, who is now in command of the lines of communication in South Africa, reports that in the disaster to the British troops June 7, at Roodeval, where the Boers cut Lord Roberts' line of communications, the Fourth battalion of the Derbyshire regiment were all killed, wounded or made prisoners, except six enlisted men. Two officers and fifteen men were killed and five officers and seventy-two men were wounded, many of them severely.

The Boers returned the wounded to the British.

The following were the casualties: Killed—Lieut. Col., Baird-Douglas, Lieut. Hawley, fifteen of the rank and file. Wounded—Col. Wilkinson, Capt. Bailey, Lieut. Hall, Lieut. Lawder, Lieut. Blanchard, fifty-nine of the rank and file; Shropshire Light infantry, one; Cape Pioneer Railroad regiment, seven; Ammunition Park Royal marines, one; Imperial telegraphs, one; Postoffice corps, one.

It is inferred that the Boers captured over 500 men, and as late as June 10 held positions cutting off the British forces north of Kroonstad from reinforcements.

Tuesday, June 12.

Premier Schriener of Cape Colony is engaged in re-forming the cabinet owing to the resignation of three members, caused by differences relative to the treatment of rebels. Great Britain decides that the South African republics, when conquered, shall become crown colonies. Gen. Buller drives the enemy back, but reports that his casualties will probably exceed 100. The London war office is alarmed over the lack of news from Gen. Methuen. Renewed activity is manifested among the Boers in the Orange River colony.

The Colorado democrats name a delegation instructed for Bryan.

GLADSTONE'S WIDOW IS DYING

Mrs. William E. Gladstone, widow of the grand old man of England, is dying at Hawarden. All the members of the family have been summoned to her bedside.

Girl's Long Wandering Ends.

Elsie Fry, the young girl whose home is in Junction City, Kan., but who mysteriously disappeared from Kansas City, Mo., where she had gone to visit her sister, was found at the little town of Jarbalo, about fifteen miles west of Leavenworth. She wandered into the hotel of the place exhausted and shortly afterward became unconscious. Her disappearance baffled the police of Kansas City, who have been searching for her since Monday. She was in Leavenworth Tuesday night, when she visited a hair dresser and wanted to sell her beautiful hair. She then disappeared and was not heard of until found.

Chrisman Retains His Post.

The Kansas state normal regents, by a tie vote, 3 to 3, decided not to dismiss Oscar Chrisman from the professorship of pedagogy. A fight was made on Prof. Chrisman because of his paper before the mothers' congress at Des Moines last month, in the course of which he declared that man never loves. As Prof. Chrisman had already been re-elected to his position the tie vote on the motion to dismiss saved him.

Boer Envoy at Milwaukee.

Abraham Fischer, the peace envoy of the Transvaal, arrived in Milwaukee Friday from St. Paul. He was given a royal reception. Mr. Fischer speaks at the exposition building under the auspices of the German societies and the Wisconsin Transvaal Red Cross association.

Straight Road To Health

Is by the way of purifying the blood. Germs and impurities in the blood cause disease and sickness. Expelling these impurities removes the disease. Hood's Sarsaparilla does this and it does more. It makes the blood rich by increasing and vitalizing the red globules and giving it power to transmit to the organs, nerves and muscles the nutriment contained in digested food.

TALMAGE'S SERMON.

AN INCIDENT IN THE LIFE OF OUR SAVIOR.

The Path of Least Resistance Is the Best One in Which to Perform Good Works—Rough Places in Life's Journey.

(Copyright, 1900, by Louis Klopsch.)

Text, Mark 39, "And He arose and rebuked the wind and said unto the sea, Peace, be still."

Here in Capernaum, the seashore village, was the temporary home of that Christ who for the most of his life was homeless. On the site of this village, now in ruins, and all around this lake, what scenes of kindness and power and glory and pathos when our Lord lived here! I can understand the feeling of the immortal Scotchman, Robert McCheyne, when, sitting on the banks of this lake, he wrote:

"It is not that the wild gazelle Comes down to drink thy tide, But he that was pierced to save from hell Oft wandered by thy side.

"Graceful around thee the mountains meet, Thou calm, reposing sea. But, ah, far more the beautiful feet Of Jesus walked o'er thee."

I can easily understand from the contour of the country that bounds this lake that storms were easily tempted to make these waters their playground. This lake, in Christ's time, lay in a scene of great luxuriance; the surrounding hills, terraces, sloped, groved; so many hanging gardens of beauty. On the shore were castles, armed towers, Roman baths, everything attractive and beautiful—all styles of vegetation in smaller space than in almost any other space in the world, from the palm tree of the forest to the trees of rigorous climate. It seemed as if the Lord had launched one wave of beauty on all the scene and it hung and swung from rock and hill and oleander. Roman gentlemen in pleasure boats sailing this lake and countrymen in fishing smacks coming down to drop their nets pass each other with nod and shout and laughter or swinging idly at their moorings. Oh, what a beautiful scene!

It seems as if we shall have a quiet night. Not a leaf quivered in the air, not a ripple disturbed the face of Gennesaret. But there seems to be a little excitement on the beach, and we hasten to see what it is, and we find it an embarkation. From the western shore a flotilla pushing out: not a squadron of deadly armament, nor clipper with valuable merchandise, nor piratic vessels ready to destroy everything they could seize, but a flotilla, bearing messengers of light and life and peace. Christ is in the stern of the boat. His disciples are in the bow and amidships. Jesus, weary with much speaking to large multitudes, is put into somnolence by the rocking of the waves. If there was any motion at all, the ship was easily righted; if the wind passed from starboard to larboard, or from larboard to starboard, the boat would rock and, by the gentleness of the motion, putting the Master asleep. And they extemporized a pillow made out of a fisherman's coat. I think no sooner is Christ prostrate and his head touched the pillow than he is sound asleep. The breezes of the lake run their fingers through the locks of the worn sleeper, and the boat rises and falls like a sleeping child on the bosom of a sleeping mother.

Coming of the Storm.

Calm night, starry night, beautiful night! Run up all the sails, ply all the oars, and let the large boat and the small boat glide over gentle Gennesaret. But the sailors say there is going to be a change of weather. And even the passengers can hear the moaning of the storm as it comes on with great stride and all the terrors of hurricane and darkness. The large boat trembles like a deer at bay among the clangor of the hounds; great patches of foam are flung into the air; the sails of the vessel loosen and in the strong wind crack like pistols; the smaller boats, like petrels, poise on the cliffs of the waves and then plunge. Overboard go cargo, tackling and masts, and the drenched disciples rush into the back part of the boat and lay hold of Christ and say unto him, "Master, carest thou not that we perish?"

That great personage lifts his head from the pillow of the fisherman's coat, walks to the front of the vessel and looks out into the storm. All around him are the smaller boats, driven in the tempest, and through it comes the cry of drowning men. By the flash of the lightning I see the calm brow of Christ as the spray dropped from his beard. He has one word for the sky and another for the waves. Looking upward, he cries, "Peace!" Looking downward, he says, "Be still!"

The waves fall flat on their faces, the foam melts, the extinguished stars re-light their torches. The tempest falls dead, and Christ stands with his foot on the neck of the storm. And while the sailors are baling out the boats and while they are trying to untangle the cordage the disciples stand in amazement, now looking into the calm sea, then into the calm sky; then into the calm Savior's countenance, and they cry out, "What manner of man is this, that even the winds and the sea obey him?"

The subject, in the first place, impresses me with the fact that it is very important to have Christ in the ship; for all these boats would have gone to the bottom of Gennesaret if Christ had not been present. Oh, what a lesson for you and for me to learn! Whatever voyage we undertake, into whatever enterprise we start, let us have Christ in the ship. All you can do with utmost tension of body, mind and soul you are bound to do; but, oh, have Christ in every enterprise!

Seeking God's Help.

There are men who ask God's help at the beginning of great enterprises. He has been with them in the past; no trouble can overthrow them; the storms might come down from the top of Mount Hermon and lash Gennesaret into foam and into agony, but it could not hurt them. But here is another man who starts out in worldly enterprise, and he depends upon the uncertainties of this life. He has no God to help him. After awhile the storm comes, tosses off the masts of the ship; he puts out his life-boat and the long boat; the sheriff and the auctioneer try to help him off; they can't help him off; he must go down; no Christ in the ship. Your life will be made up of sunshine and shadows. There may be in it arctic blasts or tropical tornadoes; I know not what is before you, but I know if you have Christ with you all shall be well. You may seem to get along without the religion of Christ while everything goes smoothly, but after awhile, when sorrow hovers over the soul, when the waves of trial dash clear over the hurricane deck and the decks are crowded with piratical disasters—oh, what would you do then without Christ in the ship? Take God for your portion, God for your guide, God for your help; then all is well; all is well for a time; all shall be well forever. Blessed is that man who puts in the Lord his trust. He shall never be confounded.

But my subject also impresses me with the fact that when people start to follow Christ they must not expect smooth sailing. These disciples got into the small boats, and I have no doubt they said: "What a beautiful day this is! How delightful is sailing in this boat! And as for the waves under the keel of the boat, why, they only make the motion of our little boat the more delightful." But when the winds swept down and the sea was tossed into wrath, when they found that following Christ was not smooth sailing. So you have found it; so I have found it.

Did you ever notice the end of the life of the apostles of Jesus Christ? You would say if ever men ought to have had a smooth life, a smooth departure, then these men, the disciples of Jesus Christ, ought to have had such a departure and such a life. St. James lost his head. St. Philip was hung to death on a pillar. St. Matthew had his life dashed out with a halbert. St. Mark was dragged to death through the streets. St. James the Less was beaten to death with a fuller's club. St. Thomas was struck through with a spear. They did not find following Christ smooth sailing. Oh, how they were all tossed in the tempest! John Huss in a fire; Hugh McKall in the hour of martyrdom; the Albigenses, the Waldenses, the Scotch Covenanters—did they find it smooth sailing? But why go into history when we can draw from our own memory illustrations of the truth of what I say?

Not Always Smooth Sailing.

A young man in a store trying to serve God, while his employer scoffs at Christianity! the young men in the same store, antagonistic to the Christian religion, teasing him, tormenting him about his religion, trying to get him mad. They succeed in getting him mad and say, "You're a pretty Christian!" Does that young man find it smooth sailing when he tries to follow Christ? Or you remember a Christian girl. Her father despises the Christian religion; her mother despises the Christian religion; her brothers and sisters scoff at the Christian religion; she can hardly find a quiet place in which to say her prayers. Did she find it smooth sailing when she tried to follow Jesus Christ? Oh, no! All who would live the life of the Christian religion must suffer persecution. If you do not find it in one way, you will get it in another way. But be not disheartened! Take courage! You are in a glorious companionship. God will see you through all trials, and he will deliver you.

My subject also impresses me with the fact that good people sometimes get frightened. In the tones of these disciples as they rushed into the back part of the boat I find they are frightened almost to death. They say, "Master, carest thou not that we perish?" They had no reason to be frightened, for Christ was in the boat. I suppose if we had been there we would have been just as much affrighted. Perhaps more. In all ages very good people get very much affrighted. It is often so in our day, and men say: "Why, look at the bad lectures. Look at the various errors going over the church of God. We are going to founder. The church is going to perish. She is going down." Oh, how many good people are affrighted by iniquity in our day and think the church of Jesus Christ is going to be overthrown and are just as much affrighted as were the disciples of my text! Don't worry, don't fret, as though iniquity were going to triumph over righteousness. A lion goes into a cavern to sleep. He lies down with his shaggy mane covering his paws. Meanwhile the spiders spin a web across the mouth of the cavern and say, "We have captured him." Gossamer thread after gossamer thread until the whole front of the cavern is covered with the spider's web, and the spiders say, "The lion is done; the lion is fast." After awhile the lion has got through sleeping. He rouses himself, he shakes his mane, he walks out into the sunlight. He does not even know the spider's web is spun, and with his roar he shakes the mountain. So men come spinning their sophistries and skepticism about Jesus Christ. He seems to be sleeping. They say: "We have captured the Lord. He will never come forth again upon the nation. Christ is overcome forever. His religion will never make any conquest among men." But after awhile the Lion of the tribe of Judah will rouse himself and come forth to shake mightily the nations. What's a spider's web to the aroused lion? Give truth and error a fair grapple, and truth will come off victor.

Frightened by Revivals.

But there are a great many good people who get affrighted in other respects. They are affrighted about revivals. They say, "Oh, this is a strong religious gale! We are afraid the church of God is going to be upset and there are going to be a great many people brought into the church that are going to be of no use to it." And they are affrighted whenever they see a revival taking hold of the churches. As though a ship captain, with 5,000 bushels of wheat for a cargo, should say some day, coming upon deck, "Throw overboard all the cargo!" and the sailors should say: "Why, captain, what do you mean? Throw over all the cargo?" "Oh," says the captain, "we have a peck of chaff that has got into this 5,000 bushels of wheat, and the only way to get rid of the chaff is to throw all the wheat overboard!" Now, that is a great deal wiser than the talk of many Christians who want to throw overboard all the thousands and tens of thousands of souls who are the subjects of revivals. Throw all overboard because they are brought into the kingdom of God through great revivals, because there is a peck of chaff, a quart of chaff, a pint of chaff! I say, let them stay until the last day. The Lord will divide the chaff from the wheat.

There is one storm into which we will all have to run. The moment when we let go of this world and try to take hold of the next, we will want all the grace possible. Yonder I see a Christian soul rocking on the surges of death. All the powers of darkness seem let out against that soul—the swirling wave, the thunder of the sky, the shriek of the wind, all seem to unite together. But that soul is not troubled. There is no sighing, there are no tears; plenty of tears in the room at the departure, but he weeps no tears—calm, satisfied and peaceful; all is well. By the flash of the storm you see the harbor just ahead, and you are making for that harbor. All shall be well, Jesus being our pilot.

"Into the harbor of heaven now we glide; We're home at last, home at last. Softly we drift on the bright, silv'ry tide; We're home at last. Glory to God, all our dangers are o'er; We stand secure on the glorified shore! Glory to God, we will shout evermore, We're home at last."

Model of the Maine.

Rear-Admiral John W. Philip, commandant of the Brooklyn navy yard, has consented to take charge of the fund to be raised among the sailors and marines of the United States navy for the purpose of having a silver model made of the United States battleship Maine. This model is to be presented to Miss Helen Gould. The model of the Maine will cost about $2,000. Considerable money has already been raised. The plan is to collect 10 cents from every sailor and marine in the navy. As there are about 25,000 enlisted men, the amount is practically assured.

THE WAR WITH THE BOXERS.

Severe Battle in the Empire of China.

MANY NATIONS TAKE A HAND.

Pekin Club-House Burned and the Belgian Legation Roughly Handled in the Streets—Twenty Missionaries Slain—Serious International Complications.

All the telegrams indicate that the situation in China has not in the least improved. On the contrary, the disorder has spread from the neighborhood of Peking to the capital itself, which is growing turbulent in anti-foreign demonstrations. In addition to the burning of the Peking club the secretary of the Belgian legation has been roughly handled in the streets. Hostile crowds continue to demonstrate against the legations. Two thousand international troops are approaching the city.

A special dispatch from Tien-Tsin says it is reported that the dowager empress has fled to the Russian legation at Peking.

The American board of commissioners for foreign missions at Boston has received a cablegram from Peking City confirming the press dispatches that Tung-Cho has been abandoned by the missionaries, and that the missionaries are safe at Peking, but that the native converts have been massacred and scattered.

There were sixteen missionaries at Tung-Cho, nineteen native helpers, 213 native communicants, 360 native adherents and 450 Sunday school members. The total number of pupils in the educational department of Tung-Cho was 220.

Of the sixteen missionaries four or five are known to be in this country on furloughs.

Admiral Kempff has 200 marines ashore, and 100 more will be sent from Manila. Russia is acting alone. Other naval forces are under orders of the British admiral. The American minister is to act independently of other nations, but concurrently.

Tuesday, June 12.

Soldiers of the empress's favorite bodyguard murdered chancellor of Japanese legation. Catholic convent at Pao-Tung-Fu surrounded by 3,000 Boxers. Sixteen British marines fought and chased 2,000 Boxers, killing twenty or thirty, near Lofa, on the way to Peking. Missionary interests urging president to send expeditions to secure safety of missions. American consul at Chin Kiang asks that a cruiser be sent there.

Three Killed by Posse.

Striking street car men were shot down in St. Louis by prominent citizens Sunday evening. The citizens, acting as part of a posse comitatus, came into collision with a marching band of strikers. The killed are: Edward Burkhardt, former conductor on Delmar avenue line; side of head shot away; died at hospital. George Rine, formerly motorman on Delmar avenue line; lives at 2308 Kossuth avenue; shot through abdomen; died at hospital. Edward C. Thomas, former conductor on Chouteau avenue line; shot through left lung; died on way to hospital.

Pope in St. Peter's Cathedral.

The pope went to St. Peter's cathedral Sunday to participate in the ceremony of veneration of two Italian saints recently canonized. Thirty thousand people were present. He was borne on the sedia gestatoria, surrounded by seventy cardinals and the papal court. He seemed in good health, and when giving the blessing to the pilgrims rose from his seat briskly as if he wished to reassure the congregation regarding his condition.

Falls Into Molten Metal.

At Kansas City, Mo., Thomas Kern, aged 35 years, an employe of the smelting works at Argentine, fell into a large pot of molten metal and died a few hours later in horrible agony. Kern fell into the pot in a sitting posture. His companions shouted with horror while the man laid his hands on either side of the red-hot kettle and tried to raise himself out. Other workmen hurried to his assistance and removed him.

Gov. Shaw in Wreck.

Gov. Leslie M. Shaw was injured in a head-end collision on the Chicago & Northwestern railroad inside the city limits of Des Moines Monday night. The governor was in the day coach, there being no sleeper on the train. The shock of the collision threw him forward across the next seat and his forehead struck on a screw.

Congress Has Adjourned.

Congress adjourned; deadlock was broken by house's agreement to senate proposition leaving ocean surveys under naval direction. In closing hours popular songs were sung in house. Ways and means committee will meet before reassembling of congress to consider reduction of war taxes.

OUR MAN IN THE EAST.

Capt. Louis Kempff, who landed the United States marines at Peking, where the "boxers" troubles have necessitated sharp action, is of Illinois birth.

He was appointed to the naval academy September 21, 1857, and since that time has passed through many varied experiences.

Gen. Dutton Dead. Gen. Everett F. Dutton died at his home in Sycamore, Ill., Friday, after a short illness of three days, aged 62 years. Gen. Dutton held many offices of trust, including clerk of the Illinois Supreme court and clerk of the house of the thirteenth general assembly. He was a large stockholder and president of the First National bank of Sycamore and an authority on monetary matters. He served continuously four years and two months in the civil war, rising by his gallantry and meritorious service from private to brigadier-general in the One Hundred and Fifth. He was a favorite among the veterans and a member of the Loyal Legion and the Grand Army of the Republic.

Mexicans Rob and Murder.

Anton Olsen and J. Stewart, proprietors of a small store on the desert, forty miles north of Phoenix, Ariz., were murdered by a gang of four Mexicans, who have cut a wide criminal swath through several sections of Arizona in the last few days. The storekeepers were killed within their cabins, and rifles lay beside the dead bodies. A trail of blood indicated that one of the assassins was wounded. The same gang held up a prospector on the road the night before and relieved him of considerable gold dust. A few days ago four Mexicans meeting the description of these raided a gambling house in Globe, Ariz. Posses are scouring the country for the fugitives.

Ascribes Death to Foul Play.

County Physician Converse of Hoboken after making an examination of the body of a man found in North river off West New York states that the man must have met foul play. The body was loaded down with iron. The body was identified first as that of Capt. James Barnes of Jersey City, who disappeared six months ago, but his relatives said later it was not the captain's body.

Another Negro Is Lynched.

An unknown negro was lynched at Metcalfe, Ga., for attempting an assault on the daughter of E. H. Stringer. There was no excitement.

When the news of the Mississippi City lynching was taken to Gov. Longino at Jackson he intimated that if the facts are as reported he will leave no stones unturned to bring the guilty parties to justice.

Death Due to Poisoned Cake.

Mrs. Edward Shubert, residing in the town of Genoa, Wis., baked some cakes in which she placed rat poison, intending to use them to kill rats in the barn and other outbuildings. Temporarily she placed the cakes in the pantry without warning the family. While she was out of the house her brother, Max Wolfe, ate one of the cakes. He died within an hour.

Chilian President Is Dying.

The state department received the following dispatch from United States Minister Wilson: "Santiago, June 11.—Secretary of State: President Errazauriz had third and dangerous attack of paralysis yesterday. Death simply a question of time. Executive functions transferred to Prime Minister Albano, as provided by the constitution."

Finds Death in Niagara Rapids.

A girl who registered at Niagara Falls as "Mabel Williams, Philadelphia," threw herself into the Whirlpool rapids Monday. Telegrams from Allentown show the girl to be Gertrude Roth, 20 years of age, a sister of Mrs. Charles N. Wagner there. It is supposed a quarrel with a Lehigh university student led to her taking her life.

Filipino Generals Are Taken.

General MacArthur at Manila cabled the war department as follows: The report of the capture of General Hizon near Mexico and of General Cavestany at Alcala, both important, is made. The latter is a very important leader of guerrillas in Pangasinan province, Luzon. M'ARTHUR.

Recruits For the World's Battles.

Upon the battlefield of life again resound the footsteps of the ever recurring army of graduates. Soon the overflowing colleges and academies of our land will send forth their hosts of young men and women to do battle with the practical problems of the age, to keep step to the stirring music of progress that accompanies the onward march of our nation. With the weapons forged for them by years of study they go forth bravely to face the future that holds for them all that life may give. Their potent weapon is the wisdom they have acquired in the schools added to the training they have received in our American homes. For although we rely upon our colleges to perfect our men and women it must ever be in that grandest of American institutions, the home, that the main part of their education must be gained.

These bright faced, eager young students march with bold, confident tread. They feel that all the world lies before them, ready to be conquered if it be but seized with the strong grasp of confidence. They feel that they have but to ask, and the doors of opportunity will fly open to them, but they know naught of the pitfalls and difficulties that the great world holds. They must learn the worth of patience, of constant, steadfast devotion to work that alone and inevitably commands success. They need to be warned of the danger of overconfidence in their book learned lessons, this confidence that seems so sure, but that bears so ill the test of time. True it is that their knowledge has been gained at the cost of hard work and study, but equally true that it will not bear the brunt of the world's rough shoudering unless it be well supported by those virtues that mean so much in this busy American world of ours—patience, hard work, singleness of purpose and moral uprightness.

With these, coupled with the training the schools have given them, they are well equipped to fight the battles of life, in which all will wish them god-speed.

We do not look in vain for the most commendable acts of heroism in that great army of commerce, the railroad men. The heroic acts, though frequent, usually go unheralded and are taken as a matter of course. The humble brakeman or switchman now and again risks his own life and sometimes loses it to save the lives and property of others, and the incident passes usually without comment or expression of gratitude on the part of those for whom the sacrifice is made. Heroism of a peculiar but highly admirable type was displayed the other day in Philadelphia by William Wood, a switchman employed in the Reading subway. A train was approaching the tower where Wood was stationed, and he had to move a certain switch to prevent a disastrous derailment. The action of the lever revealed to him that something was out of order, and, hurrying to the switch, Wood found that a pivot bolt had dropped out and disappeared. The train was moving rapidly, and to save it a substitute pivot was instantly and absolutely necessary. Wood thrust his middle finger into the empty hole, signaled to a companion in the tower, and the switch moved. Then Wood found himself fastened tight, so close to the track that a second's delay meant death beneath the advancing train. He did not delay. He gave one hard pull and walked away, leaving his finger behind him. The improvised pivot served the intended purpose, and the train passed safely.

The "Peoria overture," about which more or less has been said in the newspapers, is not a piece of music written by a man named Peoria or by a resident of Peoria, nor is it a selection from an opera entitled "Peoria." It is merely a suggestion of a change in the method of organizing the standing committees of the Presbyterian general assembly and got its name from the fact that it originated in the Peoria presbytery.

Let the Chinese Boxers beware. Uncle Sam is putting on the gloves and getting into the ring.

Unclaimed Letters.

The following is a list of unclaimed letters remaining in the postoffice at Barrington, June 15, 1900:

Mrs. Anna Bofski, Miss Anna Doga, Mrs. Marry, A. L. Bratbrook, H. Kohn and Otto Hausman.
H. K. BROCKWAY, P. M.

A Testimonial from Old England.

"I consider Chamberlain's Cough Remedy the best in the world for bronchitis," says Mr. William Savory, of Warrington, England. "It has saved my wife's life, she having been a martyr to bronchitis for over six years, being most of the time confined to her bed. She is now quite well." It is a great pleasure to the manufacturers of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to be able to publish testimonials of this character. They show that great good is being done, pain and suffering relieved and valuable lives restored to health and happiness by this remedy. It is for sale by all druggists, Barrington; A. S. If You were to bump your head against a brick wall you could not feel worse than does anyone who suffers from stomach troubles. We have a positive cure in Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Ask Chas. E. Churchill.

Biliousness is a condition characterized by a disturbance of the digestive organs. The stomach is debilitated, the liver torpid, the bowels constipated. There is a loathing of food, pains in the bowels, dizziness, coated tongue and vomiting, first of the undigested or partly digested food and then of bile. Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets allay the disturbances of the stomach and create a healthy appetite. They also tone up the liver to a healthy action and regulate the bowels. Try them and you are certain to be much pleased with the result. For sale by all druggists, Barrington; A. S. Olms, Palatine.

The funeral of Bernhard Dobner, whose death occurred last Wednesday, June 6, was held at Volo from St. Peter's Catholic church, Rev. Father Rhode officiating. The remains were interred in the Volo Catholic cemetery. Mr. Dobner's death, which came so untimely, was due to injuries sustained in a runaway last Wednesday, the details of which were given in last week's issue. He leaves a wife and six children, the eldest of whom is but fifteen years of age, to mourn the loss of a kind and loving husband and father, to whom we extend our heartfelt sympathy.

The Commencement exercises last Friday evening at the M. E. Church were, as usual, attended by an immense audience, and it is needless to say they were not disappointed in the evening's program. The evening was nice and cool and everything was arranged as comfortable as possible. The church was beautifully decorated with flowers and potted plants, and looked handsome and appropriate.

The following were the graduates: Ethel A. Duers, Lilah, M Golding Catherine Freund.

The following was the program:

- Piano Selections - "Holiday Spirits" Mrs. Burdick and Miss Hicks.
 - Invocation
 - Vocal Solo - The Golden Pathway Miss Villa Dixon.
 - Essay - Ideal Life Catherine Freund.
 - Quartette - The Band Miss Villa Dixon, Mr. & Mrs. Burdick and Mr. Burnham.
 - Essay - An Art Gallery Lilah M. Golding.
 - Violin Solo - A Simple Confession Herman Maiman.
 - Essay - Writers and their Characteristics Ethel A. Duers.
 - Address to Class - Rev. D. C. Dutton
 - Presentation of Diplomas - School Board
 - Piano Selection - Fif-Pad Mrs. Burdick and Miss Hicks.
 - Benediction
 - Motto: Launched, to Anchor Where?
- The program was admirably carried out and the graduates covered themselves with glory by the eloquent and able manner in which they spoke and constructed their essays.

Miss Friends subject, "Ideal Life," was a solid subject, and from beginning to finish was full of good, sound reasoning.

Miss Golding's subject, "An Art Gallery," was of an entirely different nature the date of her subject being placed at 1910, and gave rise to the future prospects of many of our young people.

Miss Duer's subject, "Writers and their Characteristics, was again of the solid nature, dealing with our great poets and writers and handled in a most able manner.

Much credit is due Prof. Hubbard their able instructor for the past three years, by whose careful training "Step by Step They Climbed the Heights." We would like to publish the essays, they are high class in every particular, but have not the space. During the exercises may valuable presents and choice bouquets were presented to the graduates.

At that time ships were very rude affairs. They were curved up at the ends, having only one sail, which was very small. There were ten pairs of oars to the ships, yet with such a navy the Athenians helped to destroy the Persian powers. In Venice even today the only means of traveling about the city is in boats, for the Venetian streets are all water. These boats are called gondolas. They are long, narrow boats with a high bow and stern and are propelled by one or two oarsmen, called gondoliers.

THE HAY-PAUNCEFOOT TREATY.

The Hay-Pauncefoot treaty has been of great interest, and caused much discussion in the United States and England, it finds its origin in the Clayton-Bulwer treaty, which was concluded in 1850, and entitled England to have joint control with ourselves, over any interoceanic waterway across the isthmus, even if it were constructed at our own expense. This treaty interfered with the execution of any plan for the construction of the Nicaragua canal. The Hay-Pauncefoot treaty was designed to remove objections by changing the Clayton-Bulwer treaty so that the canal could be built. The settlement and growth of our Pacific coast, the increasing commercial consequence and the question arising about China make it necessary to pierce the Central American isthmus by a canal. The isthmus and its surrounding places became of interest to European nations, especially to England, as to the use of the canal and support it would give her in acquiring power.

THE BOER WAR FROM A BOER STAND-POINT.

The patriotic people of this country take a deep and abiding interest in the life and death struggle between Republic and Empire going on in South Africa. The cause of the patriots of South Africa is a just one. No one who impartially reads history can honestly dispute it. These Boers are defending their homes and repelling a tyrannical and cruel invader. England's attempt to steal their country is the outrage of the century and should be condemned by this Republic and by christian powers of the world. In 1776, the patriotic fathers of this Republic fought England to gain their independence. The South African patriots today are fighting the same country to maintain their independence. That is the only difference. The courage of the Boers has surprised all mankind and their heroism against almost unconquerable obstacles has won the respect of the civilized world. The story of the struggles, the hardships, the trials, and the triumphs of these brave people in South Africa is one of the saddest and one of the greatest pages in all history.

ALEXANDER HAMILTON.

We are in age of hero worship. The celebration which was raging in New York deserves to go down in history as one of the most remarkable orgies of hero worship and undue adulation of which Americans were ever guilty. The tendency is becoming so great that one almost wonders if this really is the land of the brave and free. The general desire of the multitude to get down on its knees and worship the heroes has grown into a mental disease. All this flattery and fawning, this homolary, this worship of a man by men, is unworthy a free and rational people. I do not bring up the name of Alexander Hamilton, the great and noble hero of a century ago in this light. We age not to worship the man, but his deeds. We will recall the deeds of this great man and what he has done for his country. Hamilton's distinction among the founders of the Government of the United States is everywhere acknowledged. He is worthy to be compared in political debate with Pitt, Burke, Fox and Webster; in organization with Cavour and Bismarck; in finance with Sully, Colbert, Robert, Morris, and Gladstone.

"A kind true heart, a spirit high That could not fear and would now bow, Were written in his manly eye And on his manly brow."

CLARENCE E. COMFORT.

FICTION AS A MEANS OF INCULCATING RELIGIOUS TRUTH.

That fiction is one of the greatest entertainers of the age, all who read will admit, but in these times of enlightenment and civilization, those things which enter largely into our lives must be more than merely pleasant and amusing, they must in some way tend toward our higher development. Wherein then, lies the utility of fiction? The Puritans of olden times would not tolerate either class of romance, whether comic or heroic. They set their faces like flint against all imaginative fiction, which they considered little better than lying. Should it be our fortune to meet that venerable sage of a generation long past, whose brain was filled with ponderous Greek and Roman learning, he would doubtless warn us against all classes of fiction, prophesying that it would render our minds incapable of grasping the truths of science, philosophy or religion. But to such advice, in this age of enlightenment we are ready to reply: We would tell him that the masses of the people receive their only instructions in philosophy and science from the novels which are daily in their hands. We would tell him that the only preachers to whom many of these people listen are the noble and upright lives portrayed in the novels which they peruse.

Without a doubt, the fictitious work of greatest influence, embodying and beautifying religious truth, is Bunyan's world famed "Pilgrim's Progress." As we follow Christians through so many of the temptations and trials which are common to man, and behold him come forth from them all victorious, and as gold which has been tried in the fire, we cannot but realize that it is only with God's help that Christian has been thus triumphant, and that if we also would be conquerors, we must follow the greatest teaching of christian's experience: "All through life, look to and live upon Christ."

AMABEL B. HARDIN.

THE INFLUENCE OF A WORLD'S FAIR.

From time immemorial people have had a desire to exhibit their prowess in the arts of industry and peace. To accomplish this they did not take their works of art from one home to another, but they gathered them in one-place in general. This custom did not originate in our time, but the manner of exhibiting has been enlarged upon by the people of the present time. Centuries ago the Greeks and Romans had their time for such an exhibition of art and pleasure. By arts, I do not merely mean the arts of painting, sculpture and music, but all arts; such as making machinery and all the implements and goods used in the industrial world, for I consider it far more of an art to construct a locomotive or a steamboat than to paint a picture.

The Simplest and Best

ANYONE who will stop to think for an instant cannot help but admit that the less parts used in any machine the less trouble and expense will be noticeable to the operator and owner. It must be admitted that in Simplicity is the Essence of Perfection.

The Jones Lever Binder

has but 16 pieces in the knoter alone while on other machines the parts used for a like purpose are from 28 to as high as 50 pieces. It is the simplest, lightest draft and longest lived mower made. It is made of steel and malleable iron for long wear and requires less expense for repairs than other machines.

THE JONES CHAIN MOWER

Is the leading grass cutting machine of the world. A glance will convince anyone that such is a fact. We invite you to call and examine the Jones Lever Binder and Jones Chain Mower.

ON THE VELDT

A South African Love Story

(Conclusion.)

The day broke at last, and the guards entered the tent and cut the bonds that bound the prisoner's legs. The upper part of his face was enveloped in a thick woolen muffler, and thus blindfolded he was led out to die.

His grave was already dug, and they stood him beside it. The firing party consisted of four men; three of the rifles held blank cartridges and the fourth was to deal the death blow, but none of them knew who held the deadly weapon.

The firing party were in charge of an officer who held a revolver in his hand. Should the prisoner be alive after the party had fired, it was the officer's duty to execute the sentence himself.

"Present! Fire!"
The rifles rang out, and Hendrick stood by his grave unhurt. Without a word the officer advanced to within three paces of the doomed man, raised his revolver, and a bullet crashed through Hendrick's brain. He fell forward, and then rolled on his back, the bandage slipped from his eyes, and the face of the dead man lay upturned to heaven. His executioner took a step forward, and then a cry of agony startled the morning air.

"Hendrick! Hendrick! My God! My God! Hendrick! My brother! And I have killed him. Oh, God, forgive, forgive!"

Paul Hoopstad placed his revolver to his forehead, and fell across the corpse of his brother. They loved each other in life, and together they joined the great unknown.

That morning the English army stormed the heights of Glencoe, and the Boers were defeated with heavy slaughter, and side by side with Captain Dick Harvey rode John Martin.

In the engagement Captain Harvey was wounded, and sent to Durban, where Nancy nursed her soldier lover back to health. He told her the story of Hendrick's death as he had heard it from one of the Boer prisoners.

"He loved me," she said, as the tears ran down her cheeks. "He said he would serve me to the death, and in rescuing my father he lost his life!"
(The End.)

The Mercy of the Boer

A Wartime Story of the Transvaal

Night had just fallen upon the veldt. The short dusk had suddenly deepened into a heavy, thick obscurity, impenetrable for a space until there rose the rim of a full moon over the edge of the plain which showed hard and clear against the great disk. The ant hills, that alone broke the monotonous flatness, flung interminable inky shadows as the cold, white glare, electric in its fierce intensity, shone out level across the plains.

By the edge of the marsh a transport wagon had outspanned for the night, and within the circle of firelight, where moon and flame struggled for the mastery, loomed the wavering outlines of the trek oxen tethered to the disselboom, and now and again the figure of a man.

The only sounds were the crackling chirps of the bullfrogs in the vlei, and the voices of two men who sat leaning back against the kaross of meer-kat skins flung over one of the wagon wheels.

"No!" repeated the elder man, the transport rider and owner of the wagon—raising his voice. "With us they shall not come—either she or the brat."

"But look, Jakob," persisted the other; "it is now three weeks, four weeks, that we are on the trek, and she has followed all the time, and carried the child, too. How the poor girl lives I do not know. Take only the child, Jakob."

"How are we to eat? How is the vrouw to eat?" demanded the Boer querulously. "Are there not enough mouths to fill already? And God knows how much further the span can go without water in this accursed country; they have enough to pull, as it is. And why should I feed the wife and child of every black schelm that is fool enough to want them? Verdomte swartzkop!" And he spat angrily into the fire.

"But the child," persisted Piet; "that is small and eats but little, not a quarter as much as a dog. Besides, Klaus may run away if the girl falls sick, and he alone knows the road and the drifts across the river."

There was a moment's pause. "Well, then, the brat, in God's name," snapped the other. The girl can walk, as she has walked these three weeks," he added, and rolled himself into his rug to avoid further surrender.

Piet rose stiffly to his feet; the night breeze was growing chill. He knocked the ashes out of his pipe, kicked some fuel into the embers of the fire and went around to the other side of the wagon, where the three Basuto boys were lying.

"Klaus!" he called. "Here a moment!"
A grunt from one of the blankets answered him.

"Baas Jakob says a baby may ride with the vrouw in the wagon, but the girl must still walk."

There was a sudden movement at his feet and a dark figure rolled out of the blanket.

"No, boy, no! Not that!" His hand was being covered with kisses. Piet drew it sharply away, and, taking a strip of bilton from his pocket, thrust it into the Basuto's grasp. "Here, this may help for the girl; it was all I could get," he answered roughly, and turning on his heel he went back to where his brother lay sleeping. Baas Piet was as averse to being generous as the transport rider, though for other reasons.

For a while Klaus lay still. Presently, carrying the piece of hard sundried meat and his own supper of boiled mealies, he crept slithering from his blanket and went slowly out to the silent veldt, in the direction from which the wagon had come, as he had gone every night; to listen for the signal that told him Beta was there among the ant hills. Then he would cheer her up and sit beside her while she ate some of his poor rations, though they were not enough for her and the child.

Klaus grasped the kerrie dangling from his belt at the recollection of the cut across the mouth that the drunken transport rider had given him with his sjambok when he had asked his permission. Besides, there was the baby, and he could not have left both of them behind, so far from the kraal and her own people. But Baas Jakob was a hard man, and he did not understand such things.

Ever since they had left Burghersdorp—many weeks ago—she had walked after them, the baby slung up her back; and there were yet three weeks more and the desert strip to cross before they reached the Great Belt and the river. But the baby was to ride in the wagon now with the vrouw, and the girl would not be so tired.

Ah! Baas Piet was a good man—better than Baas Jakob. He would help; and later on he might even be rich enough to buy a few head of cattle and some ponies and they would all go back to the old place on the Krei, and . . . He started to his feet as the pipe of a honeybird came faintly out of the distance. Beta was there at last.

The wagon was creaking along under the burning noonday sun; the oxen stumbled lazily with lolling tongues; crawling at snail's pace without fear of the flick of the lash, for every one was asleep except the little voerloper trudging in front of the two leaders, crooning an endless native song to himself.

Suddenly there was a stir under the tilt. The curtain was flung aside, and Baas Piet stepped out on to the fore part of the wagon, yawning sleepily. "Boy!" he shouted, "saddle the mare. I shall ride on to the water hole beyond the drift. It cannot be far off now."

Klaus appeared from underneath the wagon, where his blanket was slung hammock fashion in the day time.

"No, Baas Piet, the spruit should not be more than one hour's ride now, and the hole is only two, three miles further."

Presently he brought the mare around from the back of the wagon, where she had been tied up, tightened the girths and rolled up the riem of the neck halter. Baas Piet swung himself off the edge of the wagon into the saddle.

"Tell the Baas when he wakes up," he said; and with a shake of the reins cantered off through the dust.

"It cannot be far now," repeated Klaus to himself, as he watched him until he became invisible in the midst of the vast brown expanse of sun scorched hillside.

It was now five days since they had left the last vlei, and he had given nearly all his share of the hot muddy water that the vrouw served out to the girl for the last few days, but that was very, very little, and she was sick, too.

The baby was certainly the most contented of all, lying in an empty sugar box under the shade of the tilt, engaged in coiling the soft end of the eighteen-foot lash round and round its chubby arms. It grew fatter and merrier every day. The vrouw rather liked it, black as it was, for she had no children of her own.

All at once came a warning shout from the voerloper. They were right on the edge of the drift, and the leaders began to pick their way slowly down the steep bank over the loose rocks and sand. Klaus was busy putting the heavy iron shoe drag under one of the hind wheels, while Baas Jakob, in a bad temper at having his sleep disturbed, sat upon the front of the wagon, swearing at him and the other boys for being lazy.

Now sliding sideways over a smooth, shelving rock, now plunging down over a ledge with a jar that wrenched every bolt and wheel spoke, the heavy wagon crashed down the bank only to come to a dead stop at the bottom, imbedded in sand up to the axles. The span were knotted in a tangled mob of clashing horns and twisted yoke reins, snuffing and pawing up the sand with impatient hoofs; instinct told them that water was there—but it was far, far below, for the rains had fallen many months back.

"Verdomte roolnecks!" raged the angry Baas, beside himself. "Twist their tails; get that iron spike—here, Hendrik—that will make the devils move."

But it was of no use; the span only became more hopelessly entangled. In vain Klaus dashed in among them, sjambok in hand, kicking here and slashing there, while Hendrik and the voerloper called upon the beasts by name and urged them forward. Water they knew was there, and water they would have.

"The whip! Why don't you take the whip, you schelms? Where is it?" roared the infuriated Boer, rising and glaring about the wagon.

As he went forward he stumbled over the baby and its box, upsetting it and sending the child rolling across the floor of the wagon, where it lay in a ball on a heap of skins, crowing with delight. People so seldom played games with it.

The Boer thrust the empty box back against the side with his foot, and snatched up the bamboo whip handle. Poising it carefully above his head in both hands, he gave a preliminary flourish, but the end was caught in something—the brat again, curse it!

It opened wide eyes of pleasure at him, holding up its dimpled wrists, wound round with the end of the lash.

With a savage oath he kicked it off the end of the wagon into the midst of the struggling cattle and brought the great whip down upon them with all his force. Again and again it uncoiled and whizzed down with a crack like a rifle shot, cutting into the steaming flanks of the plunging mob until they bellowed again. Scarred and bleeding, deafened by the report of the whip and the hoarse yells of the men, the maddened beasts straightened out, and with Klaus and the voerloper tugging at the leaders' heads, strained, panting up the further bank of the drift.

It was late that evening before Klaus crawled stealthily away from the wagon, taking a full beaker of fresh water from the pool, and his suppel; the Baas was very angry with him because the wagon had stuck in the drift—though how could he help it if the oxen would not be driven?—and had forbidden him to leave the wagon to see Beta. But no Baas could keep him from doing that, no matter how many hidings he got for it.

Klaus walked for many hours, but the girl did not come. Of course, having the baby to carry again would make her take longer; for Baas Jakob had told him how he had seen it roll off the wagon that morning trying to reach a big tortoise on the road and crawl after it unhurt, and how he had watched it there until Beta had picked it up when she came along. Still, she would catch them up next evening, and he left the water beaker and the food tied up in a piece of rag under a heap of stones in the middle of the road, so that the aasvogels could not get at them, and Beta might find them there in the morning.

But Beta did not catch the wagon up next evening, or the next.

Four days afterward they had passed the edge of the desert and outspanned among the shady tamarisks and the willows by the banks of the Great river.

"Never mind, Klaus," said Baas Piet kindly, patting him on the shoulder; "hunger is a bad death, but it is God's will. Besides," he added, with a smile, "there are yet many good girls in Basutoland. But you will stay with Baas Jakob and me yet a bit!"

"I stay with you—and Baas Jakob," answered Klaus simply. "He treats me as well as any other Baas."

A WEEK IN ILLINOIS.

RECORD OF HAPPENINGS FOR SEVEN DAYS.

Dowie, the Chicago Faith Healer, Has Set on Foot a New Money-Making Scheme, That of Manufacturing Lace at "Zion City," Lake County.

Awarded Their Degrees.

The graduating exercises of Lombard college were held at Galesburg. The chief feature was an address by Rev. Frank Gunsaulus of Chicago. Others on the program were William D. Buchanan for the Ryder Divinity school; Martha Belle Arnold, Carrie Ruth Nash and Ira May Steckel for the College of Liberal Arts. Degrees were conferred as follows: Bachelor of science—Burt G. Shields, Galesburg. Bachelor of arts—Martha Belle Arnold, Galesburg; Fay Alexander Bullock, Galesburg; Gertrude Grace Kidder, Galesburg; Edwin Julius McCullough, La Prairie Center; Carrie Ruth Nash, Galesburg; Charles Wait Orton, Mount Pleasant, Iowa; Ava May Steckel, Macomb; Earle Walcott Watson, Barry; Harry William Weeks, Galesburg. Bachelor of divinity—William David Buchanan, Coon Rapids, Iowa. Master of arts—Claude Bryant Warner, Avon. Doctor of divinity—Rev. A. H. Laing, Joliet. The prizes for the annual Townsend ladies' contest in declamation were awarded Miss Nellie C. Turner and Miss Bertha Bradford. At the instance of Henry C. Morris of Chicago, a newly elected trustee of Lombard college, the alumni association passed a resolution recommending the establishment of a department of commerce. The board of trustees referred the resolution to a committee for investigation.

Dowie's Lace Industry.

The "Zion Lace Industries" is the name under which John Alexander Dowie's latest money-making scheme is to operate. Incorporation papers have been filed setting forth the capital and object of the new enterprise. The object for which the corporation is formed is that of manufacturing lace and linen, spinning cotton, weaving wool and making such special machinery as may be employed in carrying on the industry. The location of the factories is to be at Benton, Lake county, Ill., on the property known as the site for the "Zion city." The state issued the incorporation papers June 5. The capital stock is said to be $1,000,000, each share of which is to be valued at $100. The "general overseer of the Christian Catholic church," Dowie, holds the lion's share of the stock, 9,996 shares, worth $999,600, while one $100 share goes to each of the following: Charles J. Barnard, Carl F. Stern, H. Worthington Judd and Samuel W. Packard.

Deaths at Quincy Soldiers' Home.

The following deaths at the State Soldiers' Home at Quincy are officially reported for the month of May: Frank Keel, company A, Fifteenth Missouri infantry; John Veit, company K, Third United States cavalry; Mace Rhykaldo, company E, Seventh Iowa cavalry; George Smith, company E, Forty-first Illinois infantry; William Kellum, company B, First Illinois cavalry; Walter T. Carroll, assistant surgeon, United States army; Samuel L. Williams, company F, Eleventh Illinois cavalry; Giles D. Moore, company K, Ninth Iowa cavalry; William G. Niles, company E, 119th Illinois cavalry; John Boulanger, company F, Tenth Illinois cavalry. Present aggregate membership, 1,808.

Illinois State's Attorneys' Association.

The delegates to the fourth annual meeting of the Illinois State's Attorneys' association enjoyed an excursion on the Mississippi river at Quincy, given through the courtesy of Capt. S. P. Bartlett of the steamer Reindeer. A business meeting was held on the return trip, and the following officers for the ensuing year were elected: A. L. Anderson of Logan county, president; Bert L. Cooper of Kankakee, Walter I. Man of Mount Sterling and J. H. Rennie of Stark county, respectively, first, second and third vice-presidents; J. P. Franklin of Marshall, secretary-treasurer; W. N. Butler of Alexander county, historian. Monticello was chosen for the next place of meeting.

Ready for Boy Farmers.

Good Will camp, to be occupied by boys and girls from Chicago commons, will be opened for its third season at Elgin about June 25. Henry F. Burt, who will have charge this summer, has already got the garden well under way, and when the first group of thirty boys arrive they will have plenty of green things for "sass," and find work awaiting them in the weeding line. After the boys have had their outing of a couple of weeks another lot will come, and in the course of time the girls will have their time. The townspeople are generous in contributions, and many of the youngsters get the first taste of country life, which is a revelation, indeed.

Cheaper Ice for New York.

Somebody has cut the price of ice in New York city, but the high officials of the American Ice company say they did not do it. In widely scattered sections of the city agents and drivers were offering ice to all householders at the old price—40 cents a hundred-weight. Contracts were being made at that figure instead of 60 cents, and icemen on the upper west side announced that they had general orders to that effect.

Earthquake Shocks Are Felt.

A QUEER REVENGE.

HOW MILLIONAIRES GET EVEN WHEN OFFENDED.

Two Instances Where They Spent Fortunes to Wipe Out Real or Fancied Wrongs—The Case of Citizen Train—Built a Hotel and Ran Other Out.

As a general rule it doesn't pay to have trouble with millionaires. This is brought to mind by the relations between Millionaire W. S. Stratton and Maxey Tabor in Denver. Mr. Stratton is the gentleman who discovered the Independence mine at Victor, Col., and made a "boom" mining camp out of the place. Since then his men have been taking silver and gold and other dross out of the hole in the ground at a rate of speed which makes the average tenderfoot dizzy, and most of it has been credited to the account of Mr. Stratton in various banks. He also dug into the good things at Cripple Creek to the enlargement of his fortune, and, taking everything into consideration, it is generally conceded that Mr. Stratton is fixed to keep a whole pack of wolves away from the door should occasion arise.

Maxey Tabor, son of H. A. W. Tabor, ex-senator from Colorado, builder of the Tabor opera house, and original "boomer" of Denver, is manager of the Brown Palace hotel. Last winter Stratton was stopping at the hotel. There chanced to be a vaudeville queen in town at the same time, who was considered quite the swellest, daintiest and most alluring vaudeville queen that had crossed the plains for some moons. And to her, the story runs, Mr. Stratton extended the courtesies and gallantries which a man of his wealth and position was eminently fitted to exercise. There were little lunches on afternoons when the matinee did not claim the actress and little suppers after the performance. Manager Tabor became displeased and notified the actress that her absence would be agreeable. Mr. Stratton became indignant, but bided his time. A short time ago he carelessly asked the owners of the Brown Palace what they considered the property worth. They lit a fresh cigar and murmured that a million and a half would take the whole thing just as it stood. Mr. Stratton yawned and observed that he would take it. And now they do say that Manager Tabor will be out of a job just as soon as the new owner moves into the second floor front suite.

Along in 1867 or thereabouts, when the Union Pacific road wandered over the prairie and discovered Omaha, there was something of a rush to the place and the hotel which had held its own for some years as a half-way house for the trains of prairie schooners was a bit crowded. Among those who flocked to Omaha to see what was doing was Citizen George Francis Train, then in the possession of scads of money. One morning at the hotel the biscuits were cold or the coffee gave grounds for complaint—something of the kind happened and led to an argument with the waiter on the part of Citizen Train. The manager of the hotel was called and as he had a monopoly in the hotel line he was just a bit ungracious, or at least it so appeared to the mind of Mr. Train.

"All right," said the citizen, "you're the boss just now. But I'll build a hotel here within the next 60 days and you'll come around and ask me for a job before I get through." Thus said Citizen Train and more to the same effect.

The landlord of the existing hotel smiled blandly and in an idle way turned to the head clerk and raised the rates. Then he went away. In a few days an army of men were at work under Mr. Train's orders building the hotel and in 60 days it was completed. He didn't go into the thing to make money—merely to get even, and he didn't care for expense. Therefore he imported chefs from New York and edibles from every other old place and he cut the rates away down and put up the grandest service west of Chicago for prices that were a joke. And everyone came over to Train's hotel and things fell out almost as the citizen had predicted. Which taught the other hotel man a few new tricks.

Wanted Corpse Stuffed.

In Yorkshire a clergyman, the other day, visiting a poor man who had just lost his little boy, endeavored to console him. The poor man burst into tears, and in the midst of his sobs exclaimed: "If 'twarna ag'n t'law A should ha' liked to have t' little beggar stoofed."

Harness Holds Head Down.

To prevent stock from jumping over fences a Virginian has designed a harness which leaves the animals' heads free to graze, comprising a crupper and halter, connected by straps running between the animal's forelegs, which prevents lifting the head high enough to jump.

FORTUNE FOR DRESS.

Mrs. Belmont Spends $25,000 in a Single Season.

Our fashionable women spend a few dollars for fashionable uniforms, but whether they spend as much as is ascribed to Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont readers may judge for themselves. However, the list is suggestive of the needs of the luxuriously inclined and is also interesting. Ten gowns for ball and opera, $3,000; ten bonnets, $950; one sealskin cape, $400; two fur muffs, $150; one ear muff, $120; one opera cloak, $300; one opera cloak, $250; six pairs walking shoes, $90; four pairs dancing shoes, $48; four pairs kid slippers, $60; three dozen long gloves, $360; four dozen gloves for driving and walking, $144; ten tea gowns, $2,200; six dressing gowns, $500; three riding habits, $400; four teen corsets, $420; twelve pairs silk stockings, $60; four dozen pairs lisle stockings, $144; two pairs bed room slippers, $20; four suits silk underwear, $120; ten suits woolen underwear, $200; lingerie, $1,500; four dozen handkerchiefs, $45; three dozen handkerchiefs, $36; two dozen handkerchiefs, $48; two dozen handkerchiefs, $36; toilet articles, $1,000; ten gowns for walking and driving, $1,000; three bath robes, $160; three fans, $75; three pairs riding boots, $75; two bicycle suits, $300; two traveling outfits, $200; two winter wraps, $200; two winter wraps, $150; three skating outfits, $275; trimmings, ribbons, etc., $300; four umbrellas, $48; one sable trimmed wrap, $1,000; three dinner gowns, $1,200; two evening cloaks, $800; one dozen veils, $150; jewelry, $5,000; one fur wrap, $800; two fur boas, $200; two morning gowns, $200; three sleighing outfits, $400; three theater costumes, $300; one fancy dress ball costume, $300; six pairs overshoes, $6; total, $25,749.—New York Journal.

FASHION'S PARASOLS.

Some of the Latest Fancies in Season's Sunshades.

If the woman who uses a parasol would be particularly far in advance of her feminine rivals this summer she will buy herself the very latest creation in parasol ingenuity, the sunshade with square edges. It is not a thing of beauty, perhaps, but at least it is strikingly odd and to be odd is at least to be noticed. The square parasol is covered with a bandana handkerchief in the gaudiest pattern obtainable and the effect is certainly bizarre and unusual. The newest handles for the season's parasols are club shaped, and some of them are adorned with bunches of flowers and fruit. Among the elaborate handles wooden ones are seen mounted in gold and silver and set with real or imitation jewels. Ivory, coral, and lapis lazuli are also cut up into the parasol handles. Parasols for morning service are always of plain design and material. Silk is, of course the rule. For carriage use a white satin sunshade is always a desirable requisition and it may be beautified by lace butterflies and flowers applied upon the satin. One of the fancy shades shows a parasol formed of stitched bands of white taffeta put together with strips of insertion and hemstitching.—Chicago Chronicle.

Swiftest Ocean Current.

Among the twenty-five known great ocean currents, or rivers of the sea, it appears that the swiftest in its course is the branch of the great equatorial current so well known as the Gulf Stream, its speed at various places varying from four and a half to five miles an hour, with its waters at a mean temperature of 51 degrees Fahr. After running 3,000 miles towards the north, as far as 40 degrees north latitude, it still preserves, even in winter, the heat of summer. The influence of this vast body of warm water upon the seas and coasts it washes cannot be overestimated. It covers the ocean with a mantle of warmth and serves to mitigate the rigors of our European winter. The existence of this wonderful stream was first discovered in 1512 by Ponce de Leon, a Spaniard.

The World's Newspapers.

The records show that sixty-eight per cent of all newspapers published in the world are in the English language. Of the more than fifty thousand newspapers published, the United States and Canada issue 21,000; Great Britain, 8,000; Germany, 46,000; France, 4,200; Japan, 2,000; Italy, 1,500; Austria-Hungary, 1,200; Spain, 1,000; Austria, 800; Russia, 800; Greece, 600; Switzerland, 450; Holland, 300; Belgium, 300, and other countries about 2,000.

WHAT WOULD YOU DO?

Everyone Can't Go to Paris.

Those that can go, will, it is hoped, travel via the "Northwestern Line," but to those who can not go we commend some of the many American resorts, reached via the "Northwestern Line."

Hot Springs, South Dakota.

To the invalid, the tired person and to the young people, and others out for a good time, this resort offers attractions not found elsewhere, and the trip is not long, and is interesting. Take a train on the FREMONT, ELKHORN & MISSOURI VALLEY R. R. at almost any prominent Nebraska town and your route will then be through the northern part of Nebraska, known as the "Elkhorn Valley." Every Nebraskan will tell you that the "Elkhorn Valley" is the best farming portion of the state, year after year; then you pass through the grazing portion of Nebraska, where cattle, sheep and goats are fed in small and large herds. You cannot visit Hot Springs without visiting the because the Hot Springs are in the Black Hills—southern portion—in a valley sheltered by surrounding hills or mountains. You will be surprised to find the delightful climate, the warm, natural water baths—no artificial heating necessary—scenery beautiful, imposing; hotels, all kinds, from the Evans, large, modern and fashionable to the cozy cottage or private boarding house. Within 100 miles of Hot Springs, in the upper portion of the Black Hills, is Deadwood, Lead City and the rich gold mining camps, attracting so much attention just now. Look up the standing and output of the celebrated "Homestake" operating daily with several years' supply of ore in sight.

Spirit Lake, Okoboji.

Queer names, but nice places, situated in northern Iowa, and reached by the "Northwestern Line," a favorable resort for hunting and fishing.

The "Lake Region of Minnesota." No one can tell you how many lakes there are in Minnesota, but we would like to say that there are a great many along the line of the "Northwestern Line" and that game of all kinds, fish, etc., abound in this region.

We have pamphlets telling more about these places that we will gladly send to any address upon request.

Write us before deciding what to do and where to go.

We have some cheap excursion rates to these resorts that we will tell you about.

Clara Kopp Wrote for Mrs. Pinkham's Advice and Tells what it did for Her.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I have seen so many letters from ladies who were cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's remedies that I thought I would ask your advice in regard to my condition.

I have been doctoring for four years and have taken different patent medicines, but received very little benefit. I am troubled with backache, in fact my whole body aches, stomach feels sore, by spells get short of breath and am very nervous. Menstruation is very irregular with severe bearing down pains, cramps and backache. I hope to hear from you at once."—CLARA KOPP, Rockport, Ind., Sept. 27, 1898.

"I think it is my duty to write a letter to you in regard to what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for me. I wrote you some time ago, describing my symptoms and asking your advice, which you very kindly gave. I am now healthy and cannot begin to praise your remedy enough. I would say to all suffering women, 'Take Mrs. Pinkham's advice, for a woman best understands a woman's sufferings, and Mrs. Pinkham, from her vast experience in treating female ills, can give you advice that you can get from no other source.'"—CLARA KOPP, Rockport, Ind., April 13, 1899.

The United States Sugar Refinery at Waukegan, started up full blast Monday morning. The same number of men that were used at the plant previous to the shut down a few weeks ago for repairs, are at work. The factory is to be kept running permanently.

This is no fish story. Two of our young men laid away the cares of business and took it into their heads to go fishing Tuesday. They went, and after lying under the shade of a big tree all day watching the mud turtles nibbling their bait, decided that fishing was poor. Before returning, however, they purchased a nice mess of fish.

Last Saturday our youthful ball team went to Cary to cross bats with the small potatoes of that village. The score at the end of the game stood 15 to 5 in favor of the Caryites. Our boys claim that the latter team had a few "ringers" in their nine and if they would get down to their weight and age they could not get the feathers of a foul. The pitcher and catcher were full-grown men.

The Thursday club met at the residence of Mrs. Wm. Howarth Thursday afternoon. After the usual program the ladies were invited into the dining room, where they found a long table laden with all the dainties and good things one could imagine or wish for, and still there was more to follow. It is needless to say that a very pleasant time was enjoyed. The last meeting of the season will be held at the residence of Mrs. Alverson on next Thursday. The election of officers will take place and arrangements will be made for the annual picnic.

A regular session of the W. R. C., No. 85, was held at G. A. R. hall Wednesday afternoon at which time it was decided to accept an invitation already received to visit the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. D. The "Veteran's Week" is to begin Sunday at the M. E. church. Rev. F. A. Read, who was pastor here in 1849, and Rev. Silas Searle, pastor of 1885, will make the morning addresses. At 2 o'clock in the afternoon Dr. Robinson brings up the history of this charge and remarks by E. N. Miller, J. W. Kingsley and others. Rev. G. Hoover will speak at 7:30 in the evening and other former pastors during the week.

Running time of passenger trains between Chicago and Fox Lake was reduced to one hour and twenty minutes by new schedule which went into effect on the Milwaukee & St. Paul road Sunday. Though the line to Fox Lake has been open for business only about a month, the time of passenger trains has been reduced twice. The service was started with an hour and forty minute time card between Chicago and the lake. This was cut to one hour and thirty minutes, and now ten minutes more will be eliminated. The distance is fifty miles. Officers of the company think by next summer, when the roadbed will have been settled more firmly, the distance may be covered in an hour. The business of the St. Paul's new line has increased to such an extent that officers of the company are planning to establish an hourly service between Chicago and Fox Lake next season, operating about eight daily trains in each direction.

The Bureau of Associated Charities of Chicago desires to send a detachment of children from 6 to 14 years old, to Palatine for a summer outing of two weeks. Many of them come from poor homes where food is poor and scarce. To live two weeks with plenty to eat, fresh air, green grass, shade trees, birds and flowers, to enjoy will be to them a rare treat. Who wishes to do good in this way? Already about twenty are provided for. The second and third weeks in July are set for their coming. Those to whom this work appeals, but who can not entertain, may substantially help by contributing to the transportation of the children. Rev. Mr. Hoffmeister and Mrs. Hardin have the work in hand and may be consulted any time. Detachments are to be sent to other towns along the line. Please attend to the matter early. w2

Sprouse-Kampert Wedding.

The marriage of Miss Martha Kampert to Mr. John R. Sprouse of Dundee was solemnized Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the parsonage of the Salem Evangelical church, Rev. A. Strickfaden officiating. Only the near relatives witnessed the ceremony.

After the ceremony the bridal party proceeded to the home of the bride's father, on East Main street, where the congratulations were freely bestowed.

They took the five o'clock train that evening for a short wedding tour and were greeted at the depot with a shower of rice by their friends. Upon their return they will go to housekeeping at Dundee.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. Fred Kampert and has lived in and near Barrington all her life. She has a host of friends and is highly thought of by all who have had the pleasure of forming her acquaintance. The groom is a man of sterling character and is popular with all. He is a sober and industrious young man and at one time was employed in the Barrington laundry.

THE REVIEW joins with their many friends in wishing for them a happy and prosperous journey through life.

Teachers' Institute.
