Bitter fighting does not necessarily mean personal abuse or unsavory remarks. Keep your temper. Work for your party and stand by your convictions—work all night and talk all day if you find it essential to your success. It will irritate you and cause dyspepsia, but you can find relief for that in Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which is guaranteed by Chas. E. Churchill.

The parlor to listen to several humorous readings. Everybody is invited to register their guesses with the secretary—Rose Converse, or the assistant, Mrs. Converse. Slips are to be drawn by the company and the five holding the short slips will constitute the counters, who together with the two successful guessers will dispose of the melons guessed on. The Queens hope to make this the most pleasant affair of the season, and want everybody to feel generous and happy. Old and young come and welcome. Should the weather be unfavorable out of doors you are invited indoors.

Hooked the Hook.

John Wilson's horse stole a milk can from the preacher Tuesday night. Mr. Hardin has a post in front of his house into which he inserted a large hook on which the milkman hangs the pastor's morning drink. Mr. Wilson hitched his horse to the post Tuesday night and after a visit across the street he unhitched and went home. He noticed nothing unusual about the horse that night but the next morning, when harnessing his horse he discovered the preacher's milk can hook stuck through the lid of one of the horse's eyes. Mr. Wilson removed the hook and returned it to the dominie with due apologies and the horse does not seem to be much hurt. How the hook could be removed from the post without tearing out the eye lid is a mystery as the hook was tightly screwed into the post.

Home Seeker's Cheap Excursions.

The North-Western line will sell home seekers excursion tickets August 7 and 21 and the first and third Tuesdays of each month during the year with favorable return time limits, to numerous points in the West and South at exceptionally low rates. Lawn Party.

You who read are especially invited to the lawn party, Saturday evening, September 1, at the Converse corner, from 7 to 11 o'clock. Come promptly as the time will fly fast. Watermelon, cantaloupes, ice cream, peach shortlet, pineapple and raspberry ices and cake, coffee and doughnuts—your choice at the usual prices. Music from the veranda, by the persons who have kindly consented to play and sing, will be appreciated by all. The drawn slips will indicate the order of musical numbers. The bell will call you to Harlow Williamson.

Harlow Williamson, a brother of Judge Williamson (deceased) died at his home in Ashton, Ill., last Wednesday of kidney disease. There remains but one brother in this family who now lives in Vermont. Mr. and Mrs. Dr. Wood of this place attended the funeral at Ashton last Friday. Mr. Williamson made a number of pleasant acquaintances during his visits to this place.

Notice.

As unfavorable weather prevented us laying the corner stone of the new church at Lake Zurich last Sunday we will make another attempt at it next Sunday at 2:30 p. m. Let us gather in great numbers. Let us offer a good collection that will buy an organ for the new church. English friends please come and help us.

Respectfully,
J. C. HOFFMEISTER.

Preparing to Fight.

The delegates composing the Federation of Townships met in Chicago last Saturday. Twenty-six townships were represented, and after debate upon the most important details relative to consolidation and anti-consolidation, it was decided that a vigorous campaign be made against the work of the Citizens' committee.

Mr. Thiemann stated that the idea that himself or any member of the opposition had accepted any compromise measure or intended to do so, or that any had been offered, was simply imagined by a morning newspaper reporter in Chicago. He wished to assure the delegates that he was heart and soul in the work as proposed and would push it with all the vigor at his command. The next meeting will be called by the chairman, no date having been selected at Saturday's conference.

Two Candidates.

for the insane asylum saved themselves from the stomach troubles that drive folks crazy by taking Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It is guaranteed to cure every form of Stomach trouble. Sold by Chas. E. Churchill.

Dwellings in Demand.

There is an opportunity for some one with idle capital to put it to good use in Barrington. There is a demand for cottages, a modern tenement or something in the shape of living apartments for small families, that can be secured at reasonable rental. There are no vacant houses in the village with the exception of two or three, and they are large enough for hotel purposes. Not even rooms for light housekeeping or furnished rooms can be secured. People desire to come here and live. Must we turn them away because there is no place for them? Loosen up that hoarded capital and help advance the interests of the village.

Wanted to "Lick the Spoon."

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 16, '99.
PEPSIN SYRUP CO.
DEAR SIR:—We have been keeping house for five years and are never without Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. We find nothing to equal it for stomach troubles and my children like it as well as candy. One night recently my wife was giving a dose to our baby (1½ years old) and Nelda (our little girl 4 years old) cried for some, too. Her mamma told her she didn't need it and then she said: "Can't I lick the spoon?" It is so pleasant to take, the effects are so good, we hate to be without Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.
Yours truly,
LAFÉ D. WERTHERS,
Mgr. Enterprise Hotel.
Sold by Chas. E. Churchill.

Murdered Couple Buried.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bobb, 92 and 87 years old respectively, who were murdered in their home near Buena Vista, Ill., Thursday night, were buried Sunday. Hundreds of people attended the funeral and the excitement ran high, the farmers from that vicinity declaring they would give the murderer short shrift if caught. The discovery of the crime was not made until Saturday noon. Suspicion points to a tramp who was camping near by and who has disappeared. The sheriff and a posse of 200 men are scouring the country north of Freeport, and the sheriff telephoned to that city from Wisconsin at noon Sunday that he thought he was on the right track. The Bobbs were the parents of Mrs. Samuel Lauver of Naperville, Ill., whose husband, the Rev. Samuel Lauver, an old member of the Rock River conference, died this week from the effect of accidental burns.

Fitzsimmons Wins.

Since the time that Referee Wyatt Earp decided that Thomas Sharkey defeated Robert Fitzsimmons on a foul in California several years ago the sailor has constantly maintained that he was the Cornishman's master in that encounter and could again demonstrate his superiority. Friday night, in the ring of the Seaside Athletic Club at Coney Island, Sharkey, improved as to science and in the best physical condition possible, again had an opportunity to demonstrate to ring followers whether there was truth in his continued statements. To the satisfaction of 5,000 spectators Fitzsimmons showed that in every respect he was the master of Sharkey, who was counted out in the second round, because of his inability to get to his feet after ten seconds had been announced by Referee White.

Teeth Save Him from Death.

A. Alizewski, a painter, saved his life at LaSalle, Ill., by his teeth. He had been engaged for several weeks in painting the spires of St. Hyacinth's Polish Catholic Church. The spires are 160 feet high. He reached the top of them without scaffolds, his only support being from ropes suspended from the top of each spire. The work on one had been completed and in gilding the cross on the other he was standing on a small platform suspended by the ropes. In some manner he became overbalanced, falling backward. A rope was dangling from the platform, which he grasped with his teeth. Thus he hung for several seconds until he was able to grasp the rope with his hands, when he again pulled himself to the platform.

Chief Porcupine Dances.

Porcupine, an old Cheyenne chief, who originated the dances of 1890, started out again with seven followers, ghost dancing. He was caught at Fort Harland, N. D., and put in the guard house. Three hundred and eighty Indians have petitioned the agent at Fort Yates to ask Secretary Hitchcock to take Porcupine to some distant part of the country, where he will not be so troublesome.

Col. McLaughlin has purchased a splendid tract of grazing land on Tongue river, Mont., a reservation for the Cheyennes of Montana, who at present are wanderers.

Soldiers Wounded by Chinese.

The war department received from Lieut.-Col. Wint, commanding the Sixth Cavalry, the casualty list of the fight outside Tien-Tsin Aug. 19. It is as follows:

"Sixth Cavalry—Wounded: Troop A, Trumpeter Fred Corrigan, heel, severe; Privates Hale McCormick, arm and chest, severe; Samuel E. Hartsfield, hand, slight; John H. Van Sickle, lance, knee and back, severe; troop C, Trumpeter Edward E. Lyon, arm, slight; troop D, Loff I. McCallister, thigh, severe. All but Corrigan on hospital ship Relief."

Michigan Fruit Damaged.

Fruit-growers in Michigan say fruit was greatly damaged by rains in August. Early peaches suffered the most. Pears, plums and apples are also damaged. The damage to late peaches depends on whether the rains continue. Fruit is so softened that shippers will only send considerable distance at the buyer's risk. Leading commission men here say the minimum loss is $1,000,000.

Deeds Over Her Property.

Anticipating death, Mrs. Wright caused deeds for her property to be executed today conveying it to her son in California. The realty consists of five lots in Gilman and 160 acres of land near Donovan, Ill. Since her departure the excitement has cooled and turned into tender sympathy for those lingering between life and death as the result of last night's terrible experience.

Burglars Set Fire in Order to Rob.

At Holland, Mich., fire destroyed the house belonging to John Harmsen. The occupants, William Trimble and family, barely escaped. The fire, it is supposed, was set by burglars, who looted the homes of John C. Post, Fred Motz, John Raven and Frank Hadden while they and their families were at the fire.

TRY TO SLAY A WOMAN.

A Night of Tragedy at Gilman, Ill.

The going down of Monday evening's sun brought to a close the most tragic and turbulent period of twenty-four hours in the history of Gilman, Ill. Beginning with an attempt to serve a warrant on Mrs. Dr. Charlotte E. M. Wright at her home, tragedies and attempts at violence multiplied until there were six casualties besides the dead girl whose sad fate was the cause of all the trouble. Two are dead, three more are expected to die and the sixth is badly hurt, but may recover. The dead: John B. Meyers, companion of Mrs. Wright; Michael Ryan, section man on the Illinois Central railroad and deputy. The wounded are: Mrs. C. E. Wright, shot in arm and shoulder, will probably die; Lawrence Ryan, brother of the dead deputy, shot in abdomen, wound probably fatal; George Willoughby, local agent for the Standard Oil company, shot in left side, cannot recover; Peter Haufr, carpenter, shot in side and shoulder, will probably get well.

Mrs. Wright was an eccentric character, and her residence in the northeast part of Gilman was the mecca of many persons who went there for treatment. About ten days ago Miss Dessie Salter of Leonard, a small station on the Toledo, Peoria & Western, a few miles east of Gilman, entered the seclusion of the Wright home. Miss Salter died, and Mrs. Wright informed her parents of her death and sent the remains away for burial. They were privately interred and later they were exhumed and made the subject of investigation and inquest. They bore evidence of death having ensued fully a week before Dr. Wright informed the outer world of the fatality of the treatment. The coroner's jury returned a verdict accordingly and recommended that Mrs. Wright be held to the grand jury. When the facts pertaining to the case became known indignation rose to great height, and as Constable Milsted, accompanied by half a dozen deputies, went to her home with a warrant charging her with the murder of Miss Salter, he was followed by perhaps 200 citizens, who expected to witness trouble with the inmates of the Wright "castle."

As the officers were forcing the inner door shots were fired from within, and the shooting became general, with the fatal results mentioned.

Dies to Escape the Officers.

Rather than be arrested, William Steffen of Caledonia, Houston county, Minn., committed suicide after a fight with the officers. The ball pierced the brain back of the ear and death was instantaneous. He had planned to kill his wife.

Several Killed or Wounded.

At Columbus Gov. Nash received a telegram from the sheriff of Summit county asking for militia to quell the riot at Akron. The famous Fourth regiment was sent to the scene of trouble.

Dynamite was being used in front of the city building. The first charge smashed all the windows in the city building and did much other damage. All prisoners were released.

In the excitement of the third attack someone fired a shot, which was followed by a fusillade. The officers in the building appeared at the windows and began to shoot over the heads of the people. A man armed with a shotgun leveled his weapon at the officers and they were soon made the target for the mob's fire.

An indescribable scene followed. Several of the policemen fell wounded, others were struck by bricks and other missiles hurled by the mob and the return fire of the law's officers wrought havoc in the ranks of the mob. It is certain that thirty or forty persons were wounded in the melee and two are known to be dead.

Bar Colored Residents.

There was an attempt at lynching at the village of Reading, a suburb of Cincinnati, Friday night. The excitement was great, but no harm was done, as Mayor Cooper took immediate efforts to stop the unlawful measures. Sam Geraci, a fruit dealer on Main street, has for several days been employing a colored man. Citizens of Reading not caring to have colored people in the village, formed a committee and proceeded to Geraci's place with a rope, with the intention of scaring the colored man, which resulted in his departure without further ceremony. The citizens of Reading want it understood that colored people are not allowed within the corporation limits.

Crowds at Iowa State Fair.

On Tuesday more than 40,000 people attended the Iowa state fair. This is nearly double the attendance on the same day last year. It was old soldiers' day, and nearly 8,000 survivors of the Union army were in the crowd and participated in the exercises peculiar to the day. The Fifty-first Iowa band was a prominent feature in these exercises. Aside from the soldiers' day feature were the horse races.

To Talk of Municipal Reform.

The National Municipal league will hold its next annual meeting at Milwaukee on Sept. 19, 20 and 21. The occasion will also mark the eighth national conference for good city government. Two sessions will be held each day. On the evening of the 20th the delegates will be given a banquet at the Hotel Pfister.

CALVIN TITUS, THE HERO OF PEKIN.

Everybody in Vinton, Ia., is proud to claim Calvin P. Titus as a townsman. When he scaled the walls of the city of Pekin and hoisted the stars and stripes as the first to float above the Chinese capital, young Titus, writes a correspondent from that place, did no more than his friends might expect from him. He is a native son of Vinton. His father was Calvin Titus, a blacksmith in this town. Here young Calvin was educated and here he has spent his youth. The family removed to Wichita, Kan., and were living there at the time the United States declared war on Spain. Young Titus, who was paying a visit to Vermont, enlisted in Company K, First Vermont volunteer infantry, and was discharged from the service on Nov. 2, 1898. In April, 1899, he enlisted in Company E of the Fourteenth United States infantry, and was sent with that regiment to the Philippines. There he remained until last month, when he was transferred with his regiment to China. Pekin's hero is not yet 20 years old.

TELLS OF MEXICAN FARMING.

Senor Romero Thanks American Industry for Progress of His Land.

The farmers' congress was addressed at Colorado Springs, Colo., by Jose Romero, second secretary to the Mexican legation at Washington. He spoke of "General Agriculture," but with particular reference to the industry in his own country. He showed that no country in the world has made more rapid progress. He heartily approved of the interest being taken in the development of the vast resources of his country by citizens of the United States and gave an extremely bright picture of what the results of the next few years are bound to be in Mexico. The congress passed a resolution thanking the speaker and also his government for sending him to Colorado Springs. The committee on resolutions reported. Resolutions were adopted favoring liberal appropriations for rivers and harbors; favoring the early construction of an inter-oceanic canal between the Atlantic and the Pacific; favoring the bill now pending at Washington making imitation butter subject to the laws of any state where taken and increasing the taxation on imitation of yellow butter, adding, however, no additional burden on oleomargarine, which is of such distinct color as to apprise the consumer of its nature; commending Secretary Wilson in his efforts for the collection and distribution of seeds, but recommending that the distribution be made through United States experimental stations and not through members of congress; favoring rural mail delivery; protesting against leasing of public domain; favoring investigation of irrigated agriculture by United States experimental stations, and favoring liberal appropriations for the same.

Fall Plots in Manila.

The war department has made public letters found among the papers of Gen. Ricart, recently arrested by the police near Manila. Among them is an unsigned letter in regard to an attack on Manila, in January, 1900. It declares the reason for not carrying out the proposed attack was because of the small number of resolute persons stationed at the gates, and because Gen. Otis had gone aboard a ship in Manila bay. Another attack was planned, but not carried out, because the "enemy" made a careful search of the city as a result of disturbances the previous day. The letter advises another attack, and outlines the following plan:

"Recruit in your command of south Luzon 3,000 men of sure daring and steadiness. These will enter the walled city armed with knives. The entrance of this number of men will be effected during a period of about three weeks. It will be very easy to do it, and I shall undertake to place them in safe places while the rest are arriving, and as soon as they all get in I shall give the necessary instructions to direct and arrange for co-operation in the blow on the said point, the walled city."

Catch Fever at a Reunion.

Seventeen members of the Griffith family were seized with typhoid fever last week, and the others who attended the family reunion at the home of H. D. Griffith, five miles north of Springport, Mich., probably will be taken with the disease. At present the physicians in attendance say that four of the Griffiths probably will die. The reunion was held on Aug. 3 with a large attendance. Most of the afflicted persons are farmers in Jackson county. Mr. Griffith's farm is one of the most prosperous in that section and the residence is one of the best in the county. Physicians are at a loss to locate the source of the disease. An analysis of the drinking water is being made.

Fight Fire to Save Town.

For two weeks the residents of Council City, according to the Nome advices, have fought a fierce fight against fire which threatened the whole town, and during eight days had scarcely a moment's rest, felling timber, setting backfires and dousing thousands of gallons of water upon the threatened houses. On Aug. 10 the terrible forest fires on Solomon river had about ceased, or had passed further up the river, and with blackened features and scorched skins the volunteer fire fighters had the first chance to take an inventory of the damages. As a result they found twenty-five cabins consumed, ten partly so, one man dead and three injured.

Brings Gold from Alaska.

The steamer Ohio arrived at Seattle, Wash., from Nome Sunday, with 332 passengers and treasure estimated at $2,000,000. About one-third of the gold came from Nome. The Klondike contributed the rest. Chief among the consignees were the Alaska Exploration company of San Francisco, the Empire Transportation company of Seattle, the Selby smelting works of San Francisco, the Corwin Trading company of Seattle and Boston, Puget Sound and national bank of Seattle, Scandinavian-American bank of Seattle, John B. Agen of Seattle, the Ames Mercantile company, the Bank of British Columbia and John Clunan, best known as "Tough Nut Jack."

VETERANS IN CHICAGO

Thirty-Fourth Annual Reunion of Old Soldiers.

An army, grand but without guns, glorified but grizzled and decrepit, stormed Chicago Monday morning, looted the treasure houses of its hospitality, plundered its pleasures and sacked the city day and night while every citizen looked on approvingly and cried "Welcome!" and "Well done!" The scouts had been coming for a week, the skirmish line came Saturday, the advance guard fell upon the city Sunday and all Sunday night the main army, 30,000 strong, was rushing forward.

Twenty thousand old men who knew about weather and war overran the streets and parks Sunday. Dressed in army blue, with badges splendid only in the significance, the old soldiers waded ankle deep in pools of rain, bared their heads before the heroic figures of Lincoln, Grant and Logan and "went a-visiting" and "a-foraging" till the torrents which deluged the streets had soaked and bedraggled them into condition for a camp-fire and a bout with the canteen.

Every Train Was Crowded. During the twenty-four hours ending at 12 o'clock Sunday night nineteen railroads entering Chicago brought into that city more than 100,- a Washington attorney, and Dr. J. B. Hubbell, field agent of the society. Other prominent members of the Red Cross who will visit Chicago for the encampment are Mrs. J. Ellen Foster of the board of control and Mrs. Walter P. Phillips.

Mrs. Harriet J. Bodge, national president of the Woman's Relief corps, is present and is a guest at the Palmer House. Mrs. Bodge lives in Hartford, Conn. She is accompanied by Mrs. Charlotte E. Wright of New Haven, Conn., and Mrs. Cordelia A. Blake-man, of Shelton, Conn.

Monday's program, as carried, was as follows:

6 a. m., salute to the flag; 9 a. m., dedication of naval arch; 10 a. m., pension committee met at the Palmer House; 11 a. m., grand parade of Naval Veterans, ex-Prisoners of War and Sons of Veterans; 12 m., national headquarters opened at the Palmer House; 2 p. m., executive committee met at the Palmer House; 3 p. m., reception at Memorial Hall to Commander-in-Chief A. D. Shaw, officers G. A. R., and state commanders. Water front naval parade; 5 p. m., naval battle off Lincoln Park; 8 p. m., council of administration met at the Palmer valley and faced the remnants of Lee's army at Appomattox. Veterans who participated in Banks' Red river campaign affiliated with comrades who tasted the glory of the victory at Gettysburg.

More veterans, notwithstanding the age of the members of the Grand Army of the Republic, joined in the march than ever was expected by the most sanguine of the survivors of the organization. Veterans from every state in the union were there and met their former comrades, and 7,000 posts of the Grand Army had representation in the column.

Bryan Declines to Attend.

William Jennings Bryan was not present to participate in any of the encampment. He announced this decision in a telegram to the citizens' committee as follows:

"Since President McKinley is detained by public business, I believe the proprieties of the occasion demand that I also decline and thus relieve the reunion of any appearance of partisanship. W. J. BRYAN."

In reply Executive Director Harper sent the following telegram to Mr. Bryan:

"Your telegram declining invitation to attend the Grand Army reunion because of President McKinley's absence by reason of his public duties is received. The executive committee appreciates the delicacy of sentiment under the circumstances, but regrets that we cannot have the pleasure and honor of entertaining you."

Glories of Iron Brigade Told.

Five regiments and a battery mustered a quota of 400 men Monday night at the banquet of the Iron brigade in the Chicago Athletic club. When the story of the Iron brigade had been told by the speakers, when the count of the battles had been made, and the lists of losses told, it was granted easily that there was in the banquet a fair representation from the brigade, which lost 1,153 of 1,883 men engaged at Gettysburg, and to which official report credited the salvation of the nation on that field. They were the survivors of the Second Wisconsin, which lost 77 per cent of its men at Gettysburg, of the Sixth Wisconsin, which lost 357 dead, of the Seventh Wisconsin, which lost in killed and wounded 1,016; of the Nineteenth Indiana, which lost 61 per cent; of the Twenty-fourth Michigan, which lost 80 per cent, and of Battery B, Fourth United States artillery, at whose guns more men fell than in any other battery in the union army.

The G. A. R. Parade.

Martial music and the steady tread of the marching feet of veterans had the attention of the great crowd of visitors in Chicago Tuesday. The greatest parade in the history of the Grand Army of the Republic took place at 10 o'clock. Representatives of the Army of the Potomac touched shoulders with the blue-clad veterans who marched and fought in the Army of the Cumberland. Hardy followers of Sherman, who tramped from Atlanta to the sea, kept step with men who chased Jubal Early through the Shenandoah 000 visitors, mostly Grand Army veterans and their families. The railroads and number of passengers respectively are: Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific, 16,490; Chicago & Northwestern, 11,756; Chicago, Burlington & Quincy, 9,755; Lake Shore & Michigan Southern, 6,040; Michigan Central, 7,350; Baltimore & Ohio, 4,156; Wabash, 3,456; Monon, 2,147; Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, 4,579; Chicago & Eastern Illinois, 4,567; Pere Marquette, 3,546; Grand Trunk, 2,145; Pennsylvania, 6,545; Fort Wayne, 3,640; Santa Fe, 5,437; Nickel Plate, 4,511; Chicago & Western Indiana, 5,423; Chicago & Great Western, 4,325; Chicago & Alton, 5,345.

This heavy traffic has never been equaled. All regular trains had from one to three sections and there were twenty-eight specials run on the various roads. Some of the western trains came in five hours late and several eastern trains were three hours late.

Throngs at Headquarters.

State headquarters were besieged with fresh arrivals from every section of the country, who rush up to one another, clasp hands and remark that the weather was very much like that which the national encampment encountered in St. Louis.

Large delegations are in attendance from South Dakota, New Mexico, Arkansas, Wisconsin, Michigan and Pennsylvania, and smaller ones from Florida, Georgia, California and other western states. A numerous delegation from West Virginia, headed by Commander Arnold Brandy, and a Kentucky delegation reached the city Monday.

Miss Clara Barton Present.

Clara Barton, president of the United States organization of the Red Cross society and the only honorary member of the Woman's Relief corps, is in Chicago. She came by special invitation of the encampment. With her are Mrs. Ellen Spencer Mussey, general counsel of the Red Cross and Severe Battles in the Empire of China.

MANY NATIONS TAKE A HAND.

Persistent Rumor That the Allies Were Defeated with 1,800 Loss Inside Pekin—Conger and Chaffee Both Make Reports of the Situation.

Thursday, August 23.

First friction between commanders of allied forces occurred before occupation of the sacred city; General Chaffee declared Chinese had been punished enough; all concurred but Russian General, who insisted on capturing imperial palace.

United States resolved not to send more troops to China, since General Chaffee cabled he had ample troops. Uprising threatened at Hankow; twenty-seven warships assembled at Shanghai and Woo Sung. Captain B. H. McCalla's report of his expedition to Pekin published by Navy department. Official text published of reply of United States to Li Hung Chang's proposals.

Friday, August 24.

President McKinley has instructed ministers in European capitals to sound governments as to future policy. Advices from Shanghai and other points indicated that peace is at hand; all sorts of rumors regarding imperial family. Rumors regarding mental condition of Minister Conger proved untrue; will need rest after terrible ordeal. It is believed in Washington that powers blundered in attacking sacred city. Kaiser Wilhelm will pay promised reward of $500,000 for rescue of legations. Mob burned Japanese temple at Amoy; marines landed to protect officials. Consul Fowler cabled that half of the population of Pekin had fled.

Sunday, August 26.

Dispatch received that the Japanese legation, Washington, said Chinese are rallying forces ready to attack allied armies at Pekin; Washington worried that nothing has been heard from Chaffee for a week; allied forces may now be under siege. Prince Hespere Oukhtomsky, prominent Russian editor, arrived in New York, en route to China. Rumor that Russia, Germany and Japan had declared war upon China not officially confirmed. Li Hung Chang received dispatch from Pekin stating Japanese alone occupy palace.

Monday, August 27.

Gen. Yamaguchi cabled that 9,000 Chinese with fifteen guns were on their way to Pekin; Boxers played havoc with telegraph lines from Pekin; Conger's belated cable announced the arrival of 2,000 German troops. It is rumored in St. Petersburg that allied forces lost 1,800 men in fierce battle at Pekin; Chinese reported to occupy fortified positions, from which armies of the powers are murderously bombarded. Li Hung Chang displayed his anxiety to effect peace by wiring the Chinese empress to propitiate the powers. Gen. Chaffee broke a week's silence reporting an American victory. Chinese emperor may be restored to the throne under guardianship of the powers.

Tuesday, August 28.

Li Hung Chang is held as a hostage by the admirals at Shanghai. Washington officials say he is not really a prisoner, but admit the reception of a message from Admiral Remey relating to the subject. Signs appear that Germany is on the verge of declaring war against China. In such an event the United States may select a sphere of influence in the orient. A dispatch from Tien-Tsin announces the safe arrival of a party of refugees from Pekin, among whom are Miss Woodward of Evanston, Ill., and the sister-in-law of Gen. Leonard Wood. Rioting continues at Amoy. The United States ship Castine is on the way to that port. The report of the landing of Japanese troops to protect the residents is confirmed. Gen. Chaffee is preparing for a winter campaign and is arranging to maintain 15,000 soldiers in China.

Stevenson for Second Place.

Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois was named as the populist candidate for the vice-presidency of the United States by the national committee of that party at Chicago Monday. The selection was made after a seven-hour session. There was a long debate, but the point was carried with a good majority, the test vote being 75 to 24. Before the meeting adjourned a committee consisting of Senators Butler and Pettigrew, Committeeman Washburne of Massachusetts, Executive Chairman Edmiston and Secretary Edgerton was named to prepare an address to the populists of the country explaining the action of the committee and asking their support for Mr. Stevenson as well as Mr. Bryan.

Army Veteran Killed in Philippines.

A cablegram received at Mishawaka Ind., from Manila by Dr. J. B. Greene, announces that his brother, M. S. Greene, was killed there. The latter was a special signal-service officer and had been in the United States service for twenty-two years. He was a resident of Mishawaka and was in the battle of Manila bay. He was the possessor of several medals from the government for brave conduct in the face of the enemy's fire. He is the fifth of eight brothers who gave their lives for their country, all having been in military service. His father served in the Mexican war, his grandfather in the war of 1812 and his great-grandfather in the army of 1776.

Murderers' Dramatic Suicide.

A tragedy is reported from Golovan bay, where Caesar Ainsworth, a miner, murdered his two partners, Curley Mickle and Clarence King, both of San Francisco, by shooting them while they were asleep in their tent. The report of the gun was heard by men near by, and when the murderer tried to escape by a boat his pursuers gave chase on the water. Seeing that escape was impossible, Ainsworth tied a weight to his neck, leaned over the boat's side, turned the pistol on himself, pulled the trigger, plunged into the water, and sank. The shooting was the result of a partnership quarrel.

Statue of Apollo Found.

A magnificent marble statue of Apollo, life-size, has been discovered in the vicinity of Athens, Greece. Its workmanship is of the fifth century, B. C., and it is believed to be the first in existence. Archeologists are delighted at this important discovery.

PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY

M. T. LAMEY, Ed. and Pub.

Entered at the postoffice at Barrington, Ill., as second-class matter.

Saturday, September 1, 1900.

It is too much to expect of a nation like China that the succor of the legations by the allied armies or even the fall of Peking will bring about peace. The Chinese are patient, but they are likewise resentful. Japan humiliated them through the folly, as they believe, of their rulers. The Boxer uprising is but a sequel to encroachments by outsiders which has extended over the best part of a century. In the eyes of a Chinaman retaliation, even if long delayed, restores his "face."

Westerners who know the temper of China are convinced that a return to the old order of things must not be tolerated. The rulers may promise, but cannot insure peace and the security of foreigners. Yet the foreigners are there, with vast interests, both commercial and moral, at stake. The powers must insist upon reform, and reform directed by western ideas. The possibility of a repetition of the outrage upon the legations cannot be allowed to exist even at the expense of a long war.

The teaching of history is that in the long run the original inhabitants of a civilized country which is vanquished dominate. They are entrenched in the soil, the social fabric and the institutions. With the Chinese the case is still stronger. They have again and again yielded before foreign armies, but never before foreign ideas and customs. They do not receive, they do not imitate foreign civilization. Li Hung Chang declares in a note of savage defiance, "You can defeat us, but you cannot conquer us."

The "spheres of influence" plan, which until the present crisis was the dream of the European powers, contemplated a slow evolution which would not simply require generations, but centuries, to produce results. This would not be the Europeanizing of China, but the evolution of a new China in an environment modified by the presence of Europeans. Apparently these "spheres of influence" must be captured and defended by the sword. This, in other words, would be hostile occupation, and hostile occupation of a country like China, whether for beneficent or commercial purposes, would seem a hopeless and assuredly an unprofitable task.

In arriving at the exact extent of America's interests which are now at stake in China, says John Barrett, formerly United States minister to Siam, in Harper's Weekly, we should note carefully the returns for 1899 in comparison with those of 1889. Our direct trade, not including Hongkong, with China was valued in 1889, in exact figures, at $19,819,540; in 1899 at $33,112,708, or an increase of $13,293,168. In this same period it is well to observe that our exports to China increased far more rapidly than our imports from China, thus tending to make the balance of trade in our favor. In 1889 our exports were less than $3,000,000; in 1899 they amounted to $14,500,000. To form a just estimate of our entire commercial exchange with China, Mr. Barrett says, the trade of Hongkong should be included. Although this is a British colony, it is essentially a part of China. Ten years ago we bought of and sold to China and Hongkong products valued approximately at $25,000,000; last year we nearly reached the $44,000,000 mark for the same field, or a remarkable increase of $18,000,000.

The sealer of weights and measures in Minneapolis will ask the Minnesota legislature to pass a law requiring all vegetables to be sold by weight instead of by measure as at present. He says that the failure to give honest weight in selling by measure is so prevalent that it is hopeless for him to attempt to check it, for as fast as he destroys the measures the dealers buy new ones.

Some of our enterprising American exchanges are publishing photographs of Chinese Boxers in the act of slaughtering their victims. It would be interesting to learn how the photographers got so close without being caught. These pictures are on a par with many of the biograph views of the Spanish-American and the Anglo-Boer wars which were made in New Jersey.

The Craze For Big Populations.

In many cities and town there is bitter disappointment and something of chagrin over the population bulletins of the twelfth census, which are now being issued from Washington. These cities and towns find that the official count does not give them as many people as they thought they had and hence there is fault finding and dissatisfaction.

But why should they complain? What difference does it make whether the place one chooses as his abode has a few thousands or even tens of thousands more or less than some other city? What is there so eminently desirable in the mere accumulation of numbers? Does bigness conduce to contentment and well being? While civic pride and enterprise are always to be commended, is there not somewhat too much stress laid upon the mere matter of population, without special regard for the character of the population? It may not be the worst thing that could happen if the new census puts a quietus on the craze for big populations in cities and turns the attention of public spirited citizens to the improvement of the conditions of the people, rather than straining every point to crowd more people into certain prescribed territory embracing the city's limits. It is quite too common that we are ambitious to see the city of our home grow like a monster gourd, without much regard for the character of the growth. It might not be unprofitable here to listen to the "good, gray poet," Walt Whitman, on city growth and excellence:

The place where the great city stands is not the place of stretched wharfs, docks, manufactures, deposits of produce.
Nor the place of ceaseless salutes of newcomers or the anchor lifters of the departing.
Nor the place of the most numerous population.

Where the city of the faithful friends stands,
Where the city of the cleanliness of the sexes stands,
Where the city of the healthiest fathers stands,
Where the city of the best bodied mothers stands,
There the great city stands.

Would it not be well if the builders and promoters of cities were to turn their attention to quality rather than quantity, and instead of merely accumulating numbers to swell the census reports make it their ambition to have their municipality the one where in dwell the most happy, virtuous, healthy, enlightened and contented people? What an emulation that would be, a unique rivalry, the contest among the great cities for the best and noblest population in the country!

One of the prominent and apparently most beneficial activities of the Salvation Army is the colonization enterprise, to which much attention is now being devoted. Commander Booth-Tucker announces that the Salvation Army Colonization company has been incorporated in New Jersey for the purpose of forwarding the colonization work which was started by the Salvation Army two years ago and which has been carried on by that organization up to the present time with satisfactory results. The capital stock of the company is $300,000 and, according to Commander Tucker, will be placed on the market very soon. The Army's colonies are in California, Ohio and Colorado, all of which are reported to be in a flourishing and prosperous condition.

The obliteration of Finland's liberties by the czar of Russia goes steadily forward, the latest move being the extension of the Russian censorship over the country and the suppression of the more important native newspapers. This is a matter that might engage the attention of the nations were they not preoccupied. At all events there ought to be a vigorous protest from liberty loving people.

A San Francisco Chinaman, who for a wonder was also a wise Chinaman, when asked for his opinion of the relative greatness of the United States and China, replied: "China gleat long time 'go; 'Melica gleat now. Chinaman have glandfather; Melican have glandson. Chinaman had money; Melican have money. Melican living; Chinaman dead."

It may be noted that in some localities just now the city directory compiler is regarded as a much more reliable man than the census taker. But the country at large will be quite apt to accept the latter's figures as the most correct.

These are great days for those persons who have been so persistently predicting that the present century would wind up with a general war.

The hay fever sufferers are beginning their annual trek to the golden-rod precincts.

A Minister's Good Work.

"I had a severe attack of bilious colic; got a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, took two doses and was entirely cured," says Rev. A. A. Power, of Emporia, Kan. "My neighbor across the street was sick for over a week; had two or three bottles of medicine from the doctor. He used them for three or four days without relief then called in another doctor who treated him for some days and gave him no relief, so discharged him. I went over to see him next morning. He said his bowels were in a terrible fix, that they had been running off so long it was almost bloody flux. I asked him if he had tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and he said 'No.' I went home and brought him my bottle and gave him one dose; told him to take another dose in fifteen or twenty minutes if he did not find relief, but he took no more and was entirely cured. I think it the best medicine I have ever tried." For sale by Chas. E. Churchill, Barrington, and A. S. Olms, Palatine.

The Chicago Tribune

is a newspaper for bright and intelligent people. It is made up to attract people who think. Is not neutral or colorless, constantly trimming in an endeavor to please both sides, but it is independent in the best sense of the word. It has pronounced opinions and is fearless in expressing them, but it is always fair to its opponents.

Matters of national or vital public interest get more space in THE TRIBUNE than in any other paper in the West.

For these reasons it is the newspaper you should read during the forthcoming political campaign. THE TRIBUNE's financial columns never mislead the public.

Its facilities for gathering news, both local and foreign, are far superior to those of any other newspaper in the West.

It presents the news in as fair a way as possible, and lets its readers form their opinions. While it publishes the most comprehensive articles on all news features, if you are busy the "Summary of THE DAILY TRIBUNE" published daily on the first page gives you briefly all the news of the day within one column.

Its sporting news is always the best, and its Sunday Pink Sporting Section is better than any sporting paper in the country. It is the "cleanest" daily printed in the West.

Dr. T. H. Rath, dentist, office over Churchill's drug store.

The corner stone for the new church will be laid tomorrow.

The recent rains did considerable damage to the crops in this neighborhood.

Messrs. Seip and Lohman attended the G. A. R. reunion at Chicago this week.

John Hodge is entertaining his father this week. Mr. Hodge came from New York to attend the G. A. R. reunion.

No services were held in the village hall Sunday owing to the heavy rain. However, quite a number congregated at the church.

A new remedy for biliousness is now on sale at Chas. E. Churchill's drug store, Barrington, and A. S. Olm's drug store, Palatine. It is called Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. It gives quick relief and will prevent the attack if given as soon as the first indication of the disease appears. Price 25 cents per box.

Miss Alma Knigge and Mr. William Buesching, jr., were quietly married in Chicago Thursday of last week. They will go to housekeeping at once in the Prehm residence. Mr. and Mrs. Buesching are well-known to the people of this vicinity, who wish for them a happy and prosperous journey through life.

Charles Eklund, who was drowned while fishing in Lake Zurich on Sunday, August 19, came up Monday morning after being in the water nine days. The body was brought to shore and Coroner Knight was notified at once. When the coroner arrived a jury was impaneled, which returned a verdict of accidental death. The remains were taken to Joliet for interment.

Ancient History.

The township of Cuba in Lake county, in which is located a goodly portion of the village of Barrington, is one of the towns hereabouts that can boast of having been organized over half a century. It is considered one of the most fertile, compactly settled and containing as large a number of well-to-do people as any township in this section of territory. It numbers among its people many who helped to construct it from out of its natural surroundings, and many who have always called it home.

The township was first known as Troy and the meeting to organize the township was held on Tuesday, April 2, 1850, at the dwelling house of Noble R. Hayes. An election was held that day at which Philletus Beverly was chosen supervisor. Mr. Beverly was sworn into office by Robert Bennett justice of the peace and Troy township started to do business. The first board of election judges consisted of Robert Bennett, Noble Hayes and J. S. Hardin.

At the fall meeting of the county board the name of the township was changed to Cuba for the reason that there was another township named Troy in the state. In November 1850 the town found out its value, or rather the county board did, and the fertile lands were assessed at $3.53 per acre. The value of real estate was $32,800, of personal property $13,000. The town that year paid a state tax of $259.94 and county tax of $249.02.

Should Take His Rights.

President Candage, in an address before the 20th annual session of the Farmers' National Congress, held at Colorado Springs, lately said: "A large part of the population of this country is engaged in agricultural pursuits, and should be fairly represented in the halls of legislation. Such however, is not the case, as the farmer is seldom chosen for such work. Not but what he is able, honest and intelligent, but because he does not, of his own volition seek political preferment, nor does his class insist upon his representing them." This is true, but it would be much better for the prosperity of the nation and to the interest of the farmer if he would take his right and enter the political field. He knows what he needs in the way of legislation, and as he pays the bulk of the taxes, ought to have pretty near what he wants.

Dairy Outlook.

The dairy outlook seems to be bright though not without some discouraging features. The high prices of the past have gone and there is danger of a sharper competition from foreign markets, and the future seems promising. Increasing prosperity and refinement will swell the demand for the choicest dairy products, and give ability and willingness to pay advanced prices for fancy cream, butter and cheese.

Republican Nominees.

Lake county republicans held their convention at Libertyville, Friday August 24, and placed in nomination the following ticket: L. O. Brockway, circuit clerk; S. D. Talcott, states attorney; Dr. Taylor, coroner; James Anderson, surveyor. The convention was most harmonious and the nominations for circuit clerk and states attorney were made by acclamation.

The ticket is a good one and there is nothing in the way of its triumphant success at the polls November 6.

FOR SALE—Six lots, fine location, east front, 66 by 300 feet. M. C. MCINTOSH.

It has been suggested that suicides were buried at crossroads because it was usual to erect a cross at such places. Those who were excluded from holy rites were buried there as the place next in sanctity to consecrated ground. It was an old superstition that the devil danced at crossroads and that the erection of a cross thereat would prevent such unseemly practices. From this or some other superstition, such as the fear that his ghost might walk the earth, arose the custom of driving a stake through the suicide's body.

These plausible theories have gained many advocates, but it is more likely that burial at crossroads was intended as a mark of indignity. The temples, or rather altars, of the heathen Teutons were mostly at the junction of crossroads. The place of execution was there, and criminals were sacrificed to the gods; hence suicides were buried at the crossroads to give as strong an impression as possible of heathen burial. Probably, too, the publicity of such a spot, which insured the fact that a great number of people would become directly aware of the degrading consequences of the crime, had a good deal to do with its selection.

A curious fact in this connection is to be found in Plato's Laws (book ix, chapter 12). The murderer of any of his near kin, after being put to death, was "cast out of the city, naked, in an appointed place where three roads meet, and let all the magistrates, in behalf of the whole state, carry each a stone and hurl it at the head of the dead body."

The current value of Stradivarius violins in London is said to range from £80 to £800. In Stradivarius' own time one Cervetto of London received a consignment of the master's instruments which he was commissioned to sell for £4 apiece. But he was obliged to send them back, as no Englishman at that time would buy them at any such figure. Stradivarius himself is said to have asked a price of 4 louis d'or for each of his violins.

A Story Illustrating the Horrors of War

By H. B. WELSH...

CHAPTER III.

Three days later James Crawford was committed to the grave, where all the sins and crimes of his past life were to be forever hidden. And Margaret heard the stern command which all mourners have to hear sooner or later—"Turn thee, and try to work."

Word had come to her on the second day after her father's death that she had passed her "final" with honors. She was free to enter on her lifework—that life which she felt must now be devoted to one end, that of making restitution, so far as she was able, to John Cleland's son.

It was a work which could only end with her life—she was sure of that. However successful she might be, it seemed extremely improbable that she should ever be able to pay back anything like the sum of money which her father had stolen from Paul Cleland's dead father.

She did not think it necessary to publish her father's crime and disgrace by confessing to Paul Cleland what he had done. It seemed that Cleland himself was against of the sin that he had vicariously borne, and therefore it would be cruel to him, as well as the dead, to expose the wrong.

But she felt that never again should she dare to look on Cleland's face. She, who for one brief moment had been inside paradise, and had seen the beauty and joy of it, had been thrust forth, and could not hope to return again, because the angel with the flaming sword on which was written in letters of fire, "Thou shalt not," barred the way.

She could not go back to Edinburgh. She felt that her only safety lay in putting a distance between herself and Paul Cleland. It seemed as if it was in answer to her prayers that at that very time, before she even wound up her father's affairs, an offer should come to her from the professor whom she was relying upon to help her of an assistantship in a small private hospital in a northern town. In a few weeks Margaret found herself stationed there under the newly-bestowed title of "Margaret Crawford, M. B., C. M."

She wrote Paul Cleland a brief, cold little note, which wrung her heart to write, merely stating that she had received an appointment in a country town—she did not say where—and would not likely be back in Edinburgh, thanking him for his past kindness and help, and adding that, since her father's death, she had made up her mind to devote herself entirely to her career as a lifework.

No answer was possible; for she gave no address; and none came.

She was busy at St. Fillan's, and the time passed quickly. When autumn came she had a fortnight of holidays; and, while she was hesitating as to where to spend them, a little scented note came from an old school friend, whom she had occasionally corresponded with since school days: "I have heard where you are from Mrs. Douglas of the Bughts, St. Fillan's, who is an old friend of the master's. If you have holidays, won't you come and spend them with us—part of them, at least? We are staying near Pen-y-Gant, and it is a magnificent place for holidays. Do come! I wish to see a real, live lady doctor. Yours ever, FLO WYNTER."

She was a little butterfly of a creature, surrounded by luxury and all that she could desire; but Margaret felt somehow inclined to go. She was strangely lonely and friendless in St. Fillan's, and longed for a little human companionship. And she could not think it was necessary that she should quite cut herself off from that because of that terrible phantom of the past that must walk beside her forever.

So she went to Greystoke. Florence Wynter herself drove to the station to meet her, looking very fresh and charming in her dainty fawn-colored driving coat, and hat with drooping feathers. She was a pretty little creature, golden-haired and blue-eyed. "I'm so glad to see you!" she said, embracing Margaret with effusion. "And you don't look a bit like a lady doctor, I declare! You don't wear spectacles! And that style of wearing your hair is certainly very becoming to you"—reflectively—"though I don't think it would suit me. You've a kind of grotesque appearance, you know, Margaret."

She chattered gaily as she held the ribbons and her greys pranced along the high road, through a fine country of woodland and wild, with the peak of Pen-y-Grant forever facing them.

"You know, I did want you so much to come! There are only a few people staying with us just now—two married couples, and two men who are unmarried. One of them is rather a bore. He will attach himself to me, and"—blushing a little—"the truth is I—well, I very much prefer the other. So I hope, dear Margaret, you'll act a true friend's part to me, and allow me to have a little pleasure sometimes."

Margaret smiled a little at the naïveté of the way in which the young lady showed her purpose of inviting her old schoolmate to Greystoke; but it would have taken more than Florence's little selfishness to have annoyed her then. A great sorrow makes one almost indifferent to the pinpricks of petty annoyances.

They were at Greystoke presently, and Margaret found herself in due course in the drawing room. A few people were in, and Margaret was introduced to them.

She was sitting beside Mrs. Wynter, a gently interrogative person, when the door opened and some one entered. Margaret did not look up until Mrs. Wynter said:

"Ah, there is Dr. Cleland at last! Now, my dear, you will find yourself sustained in your profession."

Margaret looked up, all the blood rushing from her face, her heart suddenly beating fast and loud. Yes, it was Paul Cleland indeed!

His eyes seemed somehow to go straight to the corner in which she was sitting. He started, and a momentary change passed over his face; but he controlled himself in a minute—so quickly that Flo, who swept her elaborate dinner gown up to him, did not notice it.

"Here you are at last, Dr. Cleland! Now, I have some one I wish to introduce you to. Come over to mother's corner with me. Dr. Cleland—Miss, or rather, Dr. Margaret Crawford."

Margaret bowed, feeling her eyes were fixed on her face; then, making a great effort, she extended her hand.

"Dr. Cleland and I have met before, Flo," she said, quite calmly and distinctly. "We met each other at college."

"Oh!" said Florence, in an indescribable tone. An angry little flush rose to her cheeks as she glanced at Cleland's dark, imperturbable face. There was an expression on it now which Flo had never seen upon it when he looked at herself, and her woman's instincts were sharp enough to tell her that, whatever his feelings toward Margaret were, they were not of the ordinary kind.

Yet Paul Cleland made no effort to be near Margaret for the rest of the evening, and Margaret herself rather avoided him than otherwise. Only once his eyes fixed in a strange, intense way on Margaret's face, and the expression of it sent a thrill of angry jealousy through Florence.

That night, when Margaret was at last alone in her own room, she sank on her knees and prayed, through fingers tightly wrung together: "Oh, my God, help me! It is hard—harder than I thought—harder than I thought!"

The days passed somehow. It was the month of September—rich, sweet September—with skies of clear blue—not summer blue, with its depths and softness and sultry heat; but a blue paler, cooler, brighter; fresh, bracing, invigorating September, coming like a breath of cool air after a day of enervating heat. The evenings were beginning to grow longer, and were even now chilly with the first breath of the fall of the year.

The world was fair outside; but Margaret Crawford's heart was in no mood to enjoy it. How she lived through those terrible days she never afterward knew. Seeing Paul every day, talking with him, knowing, above all—what agony the discovery gave her, and yet, with a woman's inconsistency, how sweet the knowledge was to her!—that his love had undergone no change, it was sometimes more than she could bear.

She tried to be cold and distant, and succeeded so well that she managed to deceive Cleland for a time. He began to think that, after all, those had been right who called Margaret Crawford cold and proud. Had she loved him as he did her, he argued, no disgrace on her father's name, no real crime, even had he committed such, could stand between and separate them from each other.

One day Florence Wynter and Cleland were sitting together in the old-fashioned summer-seat at the end of the great rambling garden of Greystoke. Florence had managed to escape from her persistent admirer, who was a good-looking and pleasant enough young fellow named Frank Thorpe, and made some excuse to entice Cleland into the garden.

Presently the figure of Margaret, tall and slim in its dark garments, walked slowly down the garden path. At the same moment a carriage rolled up the drive outside.

Florence started up suddenly. "Isn't it too warm to sit much longer, Doctor Cleland? Let us go in now."

"I find it very pleasant here," Cleland answered eagerly. "You do not need to go in yet, do you, Miss Wynter? Here is Miss Crawford coming down the garden."

"That is Sir Edmund Yorke's carriage, and I must go in and entertain, for mamma is lying down," said Florence. "Do come and help me to make conversation, Doctor Cleland."

"You really must excuse me, Miss Wynter; I'm not a ladies' man, as you know. And besides, you know I offended Lady Yorke hopelessly when she was here before," said Cleland gravely. "I will go in as soon as the guests take their departure."

Florence looked decidedly angry as she walked away. She would have tried to persuade Margaret to return with her; but she knew Cleland would overhear it, so there was nothing for her but to walk on to the house.

Margaret did not see Cleland until she was close to the seat, and then, with a little start, she would have passed, merely bowing slightly; but Cleland rose at once.

"You meant to take this seat, Doctor Crawford. Don't let me deprive you of it. I shall vacate it if you would prefer to be alone."

There was nothing for Margaret but to sit down, which she did at once. Cleland stood beside her. A volume of poems lay on the seat; it was one of Browning's.

"You have been reading Browning, I see," said Margaret, a little nervously.

"Yes. He is my favorite poet—my only poet, indeed."

How well Margaret knew that! She touched the book with fingers that were not quite steady.

After a pause Cleland spoke again.

"I had a dear friend once—it seems very long ago," he said, looking, not at her, but at the far-off ridge of Pen-y-Gant rising up in bold relief against the clear sky, "to whom, I think, I introduced Browning. I remember one day, it was early April, and we had gone a long walk—the only pre-arranged walk I ever went with her—to the Pentlands. We sat down on a mossy knoll above Bonally, where we could look down on the silvery Forth in the far-off distance, and I read aloud to her. May I read the same thing to you now, Doctor Crawford?"

Margaret, looking up with a sudden flush of fear in her eyes, merely bowed.

She sat still and motionless as he read aloud, in a voice that sounded deeper than usual, the words that had become so familiar to her after that day on which he first read them aloud on the green slopes of the grassy Pentlands. They had haunted her then for days afterwards, and they seemed now to stir a chord in her memory that ached until it almost became unbearable, as she sat with her pale, dark-eyed face turned from him.

We two stood there with never a third; But each by each, as each knew well, The sights we saw, and the sounds we heard,

The lights and the shades made up a spell, Till the trouble grew and stirred. Oh, the little more, and how much it is!

And the little less, and what worlds away! He paused abruptly, but even then did not look at her.

Then—what was it?—a sudden movement of the little white hands—a movement which he saw, and which seemed, in a strange, vague way, to reveal all to him, compelled him to turn and look into her face.

She was leaning back against the old-fashioned summer seat, her face pale as death, her lips parted, and her breath coming in short, unequal pants, as if she were fighting hard with herself.

In a moment Paul Cleland's arms were round her, and once again her head lay for one brief moment against his breast.

Chinese Customs Upside Down.

China is the land where everything is upside down. Thus in Canton the women act as sailors and boatmen, while the men are employed as chambermaids, laundresses and seamstresses. In salutation the Chinaman shakes his own hand instead of that of his visitor. As a remark of respect he puts his hat on instead of taking it off. Their signboards are perpendicular instead of horizontal. In reading Chinese print it is necessary to begin at the right hand side at the bottom and read to the left and up. The Chinese raise the toe of the shoe and depress the heel instead of raising the heel, so that they sometimes appear to be in danger of falling over backwards.

Library 4,000 Years Old.

Professor Herman V. Hilprecht of the University of Pennsylvania has just added another to his many discoveries in the archaeology of Babylon. He has dug up a library of 17,000 tablets which belonged to the great temple of Nippur. Not one of these tablets is of a date later than 2280 B. C. Professor Hilprecht says that five years will be consumed in unearthing the remaining treasures of the temple. For ten years the University of Pennsylvania has been excavating the ruins of ancient Babylon, and its collection of those antiquities is the finest of its kind in the world. Nippur was one of the oldest seats of religion and civilization in Babylonia.

PROF. HILPRECHT.

Its great temple, upon whose library Dr. Hilprecht has just come, was coeval with the beginning of Chaldean history. This temple was sacred to Bel, the god of which the Bel, more generally known, was a later modification. The date of the founding of this old temple is now conceded to be 7000 B. C., or earlier by 3,000 years than the time fixed as the beginning of the world, according to the biblical translators of Genesis. But long before the building of this temple civilization ruled in Babylon. According to Professor Sayce, "for the beginning of Babylonian writing we will have to search among the relics of centuries that lie far behind the foundation of the Temple of Nippur."

The Ancient Fifth.

The Fifth United States Infantry is just about to sail from San Francisco for service in China. The Fifth is one of the oldest and best regiments in the regular service, and it has one of the best records for active service in the entire army. The Fifth was organized on July 16, 1798, and after several consolidations with other commands again became the Fifth in 1869, and has so remained ever since. Colonel Richard Comba, the commander of the regiment, has been in the service longer than any other officer now engaged in active duty. He entered the army in 1855 and has been in it ever since. Notwithstanding that he is more than 63 years old and that he will be retired next year, he is as anxious as any of the young men of the regiment to get to the scene of the conflict in the orient. Capt. Hackney will have charge of the Fifth after it lands in China. He has been in the service for 35 years.

Capt. Hackney.

The Hard Work Cure.

Dr. Pye-Smith, in an address before the British Medical association, prescribed hard work as a remedy for many ills. He declared that regular and steady work is the best cure for a thousand nervous ailments, and that this is true is shown by the fact that the hard working people are not those who are affected by these ills. He declared that nervous prostration, worry, and brain-ension are too often synonyms for the effect of gambling and drink. There can be no question that hard work is healthy, for it is those who work hardest that live longest, and the lazy die young. One advantage of Dr. Pye-Smith's prescription is that it is easily followed and that the remedy is cheap.

Powers Writes a Letter.

The sentence of life imprisonment hanging over Caleb Powers, who was convicted of complicity in the murder of William Goebel, does not seem to weigh heavily upon the prisoner's spirits. He has hope of a release from confinement or a mitigation of his sentence through a new trial or an appeal to the higher courts on a writ of error.

Powers still maintains that he is innocent of the charge against him, and has made public the following statement:

"To the Public:—I am asked my opinion concerning my trial and the verdict of the jury. Could I have but one opinion? Can any fair-minded man or woman of this state have but one? That one of the greatest judicial farces known to history has been enacted here in my trial, under the forms of law, no well informed man can doubt. Innocence is no shield with $100,000 and the methods of Campbellism against you. The rectitude of one's past life counts for naught. They say Taylor is guilty because he was at his office, and that I am guilty because I was away from mine. I have never had, and I now have no apology to make for being true to the trust imposed upon me by a majority of the voters of this state. History will draw its dark lines around those who have outraged me and disgraced the judiciary and blackened the history of the state."

Caleb Powers.

Waldersee's Wife.

Countess Von Waldersee, the wife of the famous German field marshal (whom the emperor will probably send to China as commander in chief of the forces there), is an American princess not by marriage but in her own right. She is one of the most successful women of America who have married abroad. Her first husband was Prince Frederick of Schleswig-Holstein. To marry her on terms of equality the prince sacrificed his title and royal rights. Then the emperor of Austria made him Prince of Noer and his wife Princess of Noer. The princess was Miss Reade of New York, daughter of a wholesale grocer. Her husband was very old at the time of the marriage, and died during the honeymoon, leaving his immense fortune to the widow, who at the end of two years' mourning, married the Count Von Waldersee, then a young officer. Countess

Young and Brave.

Major Waller, the commander of the American marines in the fighting before Tientsin, China, whose report was made public by the war department Aug. 17, recommends Lieut. A. Eugene Harding of the marine corps for promotion for conspicuous gallantry in action. Lieut. Harding was born and raised in Quincy. He was a captain in the Illinois national guard, but resigned about a year before the Spanish war broke out. When war was declared the troops were called for. Harding enlisted as a private in the 5th Illinois. Col. Culver made him a captain, and he was given the command of the Taylorville company of that regiment. He served through the Spanish war and in 1899 was appointed by the president a lieutenant in the marine corps.

Wilhelmina to Wed.

The Lokal Anzeiger announces the engagement of Queen Wilhelmina to Prince Frederick Adolf of Mecklenburg-Schwerin. At frequent intervals since Wilhelmina ascended the throne rumor has had it that she was to wed this or that prince of a noble house. Among the princes named as aspirants have been the eldest son of the prince regent of Brunswick, Prince Friedrich-Heinrich of Prussia, born on July 15, 1874, and whose grandmother was a Dutch princess, the Princess Marianne of the Netherlands, and Prince Bernhard of Saxe-Weimar, who is still more nearly related to Queen Wilhelmina, as his grandmother, who was also a Dutch princess, was the sister of King William II. Prince Harold of Denmark, whose maternal grandmother, the late Queen Louise of Sweden and Norway, was a daughter of Prince Friedrich of the Netherlands by his marriage with the Princess Louise of Prussia, a daughter of Friedrich Wilhelm III, was also thought to have a fair chance of success, and in fact most of the young Protestant princes of suitable age have been in turn spoken of as the future prince.

Great Railroad Plan.

A great scheme is now being seriously discussed by a company of Franco-American capitalists. It is nothing less than making possible a trip from Paris via Berlin, Moscow and St. Petersburg to New York city by rail. To do this Bering strait will be bridged, which at its narrowest point is about twenty miles wide. The preliminary investigation for the route will soon be commenced by Harry de Windt, the great traveler and Siberian explorer. He will be accompanied by an engineer and upon their report will depend the future action of the adventurous capitalists. The journey is likely to have good results, even though the railroad scheme should not be found feasible, for Mr. De Windt will endeavor to ascertain if a paying trade between Siberia and Alaska could not be established across Bering strait if a good seaport were located on the Siberian coast.

Was a Great Sculptor.

Carl Rohl-Smith, the sculptor of Washington, died at Copenhagen last week of Bright's disease. Mr. Rohl-Smith was born in Denmark and came to America in the early 80's. A notable piece of art executed under the direction of the sculptor stands in a city park at Des Moines, Ia.

To Carl Rohl-Smith had also been given the honor and distinction of erecting the granite and bronze statue of General William Tecumseh Sherman, now in course of construction at the south front of the treasury.

Will Be Her Third War.

A rich young American girl has gone to China to assist in caring for the soldiers of Uncle Sam and the other countries who are battling with the Chinese hordes. She is Miss Margaret Livingston Chanler, sister of William Astor Chanler, congressman, explorer and soldier, and a lineal descendant of the original John Jacob Astor.

Three years ago Miss Chanler relinquished the pleasures of society to become a member of the Red Cross society. She learned to be a trained nurse in New York, and when the Spanish war broke out she went to Santiago as one of Clara Barton's co-workers. Later she was sent to Porto Rico, where she established a private hospital for soldiers. For her heroic services in Cuba and Porto Rico Miss Chanler was voted a gold medal by congress and a vote of thanks by the New York state legislature. Miss Chanler went to the Philippines not long ago. She is now on the United States hospital ship Relief, which is cruising with the American warship off Taku, within easy reach of the allied forces now in Pekin city. Her zealous sympathy for the soldiers has made her deeply beloved by our boys in blue. Miss Chanler enjoys a private income of $35,000 a year and is said to devote all of this sum to philanthropic work.

To Recoup Fortune.

When Miss Dorothy Studebaker, granddaughter of the South Bend (Ind.) wagon manufacturer, married Scott McKeown, several years ago, he was worth a million dollars, which he had inherited from his father, a Pennsylvania oil magnate. Now, through the husband's prodigality, his patrimony

MRS. SCOTT MCKEOWN. has disappeared. His wife will attempt to recoup her fortunes by going on the stage.

Mrs. Maybrick Is Hopeful.

For the first time since her life sentence was imposed eleven years ago Mrs. Florence Maybrick had a private interview with her counsel, Dr. Clark Bell of New York, at the Aylesbury prison in England the other day. Mrs. Maybrick is indignant at the attacks made by the Liverpool Post on the late chief justice of England, Lord Russell, of Killowen, former counsel for the prisoner. "The only person up to the present who ever saw me alone," she Mrs. Maybrick said, "was the chief justice. When the assizes came here last February Lord Russell came to the prison and asked to see me. When he was starting to go he said: 'Mrs. Maybrick, I am doing all in my power for your release. Whatever happens, remember this—that if there is one man in England who believes in your innocence, I am that man.' It was only by accident that I heard of Lord Russell's death, for I have not seen a newspaper for a decade, but I could not help but feel that in his death I had lost my best friend."

For the last few days Mrs. Maybrick has been in a hospital ward, owing to a slight illness, but she says her health is generally good. The recent United States memorial is still in the hands of the home secretary, Sir Matthew White Ridley, and Mrs. Maybrick's friends are hopeful that when the answer comes it will be a pardon.

THE DOUGLAS SHOE.

The best advertised and consequently the best known shoe in the world today is undoubtedly made by the W. L. Douglas Shoe Co., of Brockton, Mass. The one idea of this company has always been to sell a shoe for $3.50 which equals in every way the $5 shoes of any other concern. They are able to do this on account of there being no middle man's profit, as the goods are sold direct from the factory to the wearer. In 60 of the principal cities of the country they have their own retail stores. The goods are made in all sizes and widths, and few shoes equal them for style and durability.

The factory at Brockton employs over 1,100 hands, and all labor troubles are settled by the state board of arbitration. Nothing but union labor is employed, and pay about the best average wages of any shoe workers in the United States. The factory pay roll amounts to $17,435 per week. This company makes shoes for men only, and it is their proud boast that over one million men wear them.—Denver (Colo.) Post.

"Buried Alive."

The opening article in the September Journal of Suggestive Therapeutics, published by the Psychic Research company, Times-Herald building, Chicago, is from the pen of the noted scientist, Alexander Wilder, M. D., of Newark. The article deals effectively with the perils of premature burial; something which constitutes a real menace to the public welfare. The necessary precautions to be observed in guarding against this danger are pointed out, among which may be mentioned keeping the corpse in a warm bed for at least thirty-six hours after the supposed death has taken place. Dr. Wilder places little reliance, apparently, upon physicians' certificates of death, and quotes several ghastly examples to support his position. The article should be in the hands of every reader and the publishers announce that they will send free copies to all who apply until the stock is exhausted. Make a note of it.

Ten Years Pain

"I am a school teacher, have suffered agony monthly for ten years.

"I wrote to Mrs. Pinkham, stating my case, and received a prompt reply. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and followed the advice given me and now I suffer no more. If any one cares to know more about my case, I will cheerfully answer all letters."—MISS EDNA ELLIS, Higgsport, Ohio.

NEBRASKA THE LAND OF PLENTY

I wonder why it is that so many men spend their days working hard on rented farms, barely making enough to get along, with no great prospect ahead of owning their own homes, when within a few hours' journey is a land of plenty—Nebraska—where all kinds of grain and fruit can be raised with the least amount of labor; where cattle and hogs fed on corn bring a handsome profit; where the climate is healthful and churches and schools abound; where land is cheap and can be bought on very easy terms.

Think of this, and if you want information about the country send to me for "The Corn Belt," a beautifully illustrated monthly paper that tells all about Nebraska, and also for "The West Nebraska Grazing Country," an interesting illustrated booklet containing a large sectional map of Nebraska.

On the first and third Tuesdays of each month during the balance of this year cheap excursion tickets will be sold over our road to Nebraska, so that people may go and see for themselves. Ask your ticket agent about this.

FARM FOR RENT—The Higley and Hawley farm, comprising about 300 acres, will be rented for a term of years to responsible tenant. Inquire of Fred Hobeln, Barrington.

We learn with sorrow of the death of J. D. Lamey, brother of M. T. Lamey, editor of the BARRINGTON REVIEW, which occurred on Thursday last. Mr. Lamey was a man of genial disposition, a big heart and an open hand. He has been a well-known business man of Barrington for a number of years and if he had an enemy we never knew of it. The aged parents and the brothers and sisters of the deceased have the sympathy of the entire community.—Wauconda Leader.

The rooms occupied by Harry Askew and wife, in the Columbia hotel block, narrowly escaped being gutted by fire yesterday forenoon. Mrs. Askew was burning some old papers in the stove when the pipe became separated. She had presence of mind enough to know that to call aid would give the blaze a start, so entering the bed room she secured several comforters and succeeded in smothering the flames. Her clothing was scorched, hand slightly burned and two comforters destroyed.

In a political discussion held on the street the other evening, one orator, who was old enough to know better, said: "No, sir, we will never see the state of Illinois casting her electoral vote for a democrat president. She quit that about war times. Yes, the democrats elected a governor—Altgeld—but that was on local issues." Give every political party what belongs to it. A gentleman named Grover Cleveland secured the 24 electoral votes of Illinois in 1892 by a plurality of 26,993, and that is since the war.

Saturday afternoon the Nationals and Mission Band base ball teams met to do battle for supremacy. The boys of the Mission Band thirsted for gore. They had suffered defeat at the hands of their opponents the Tuesday previous, and longed for revenge. The Nationals were puffed full of glory and put on as much agony as a colored minister leading a white man's prayer meeting. They finally got together and after they had howled themselves hoarse, and their clothes looked as if they had been used for mop rags, the teams decided they had played a game. The Nationals won by a score of 20 to 15.

Funeral of J. D. Lamey.

Saturday morning dawned brightly. The surcharged clouds that for two days had hung low upon the horizon's girt and the vivid lightnings that had forked athwart the bending heavens, had given way to perfect weather, which might lend less sombreness o'er the funeral obsequies of him so highly respected and deeply mourned by all.

At an early hour the large circle of friends who had known J. D. Lamey in life, old and young, wended their way to the family home and took a farewell look at the one, who in the embrace of death was awaiting that tender hands should convey him to a bed 'neath the flowers; to that long sweet sleep from which there is no awakening.

At 10:30 o'clock the casket was taken to the pretty church and placed within the chancel where the impressive funeral service of the Catholic faith was conducted by Rev. Father Quinn. Beautiful floral offerings from the B. S. & A. C. and friends covered the silver trimmed home of Joe, and manifestations of sorrow were noticeable on the faces of all who crowded the edifice. At the close of mass, Mrs. Quinlan of Woodstock rendered the beautiful solo "Earth has no Sorrow God cannot Heal," and Father Quinn delivered a short discourse on the uncertainty of life.

The funeral cortege was a large one that escorted all that was mortal of Joseph D. Lamey to his silent home. The pall bearers were Messrs. Henry Donlea, William Cannon, Chas. Beinhoff, Lawrence Donlea, Fred Beinhoff and Chas. Zornow.

Relatives and friends from abroad were: Edward Lamey, Oregon, Wis.; Miss Julia Lamey, Mr. and Mrs. John Collins, Mrs. Ida Keating, Mrs. Sarah Banghart, Miss Mae Hayes, Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Snyder, Mayfair; Mrs. Carrie Sokol, William Lamey, Maquoketa, Iowa; Charles Heimendinger and son Charlie, Vulcan, Mich.; Miss Mary Putnam, Palatine; Mrs. Charles Davlin and daughter Evalene, Wauconda; Edward Meyer, Notre Dame, Ind.

Favors the Shirt Waist.

A short item appeared in these columns lately relative to the new fad of wearing shirt waists, adopted by a circle of the male population who really ought to have been created the opposite sex. A nicely laundered pink and white, blue and white, or any color shirt waist is very becoming to any lady, and we presume comfortable; on a man it is out of place. It is an outer garment of feminine apparel. Dudes and idiots may try and force the fad but men of common sense will continue to appear at home and in public—dressed. The following has been received and we presume the writer desired that her (?) view of the question be given publicity.

To the Editor:—

Being an ardent admirer of both the sensibleness and the neat appearance of men's shirt waists, I beg permission to make a few remarks relative to the piece which appeared in your last issue of the Barrington Review. Perhaps we should not expect every one to agree on the suitability of every article of clothing; but would it not be much more sensible for man to wear a pretty, neat shirt waist than to be bundled up in a heavy, hot coat on a roasting hot day? Of course, you might say that a thin coat of some kind might be worn. Well, a linen coat is alright for the country, but one wouldn't care to wear one in a city like Barrington, and if a man wore one of those hideous, long black coats that look like brilliantine, people would take him for a restaurant waiter.

Now as for hurling bricks at a man because he has a little style about him, enough style to wear a shirt waist, I think the bricks might be used for a much better purpose, namely to be hurled at the old loafers in the village of Barrington who stand around the depot platform and obstruct the sidewalks in the business part of town. Perhaps if they had a few bricks thrown against them they wouldn't stand and stare at everyone that got on and off the trains; perhaps they wouldn't dull their jackknives by picking their teeth with them; perhaps the community would become more civilized if citizens kept their bricks for something else than to hurl at a man clad in a shirt waist.

When the men of your sister towns, oh excellent citizens of Barrington, are experiencing comfort and admiration in their shirt waists, you will, no doubt, be roasting in high collars and thick coats.

X. Y. Z.

The above contains more truth than poetry, and facts are stated therein which strike straight home. While we endorse a portion of the sentiments contained therein our opinion regarding the shirt waist as an article of dress for men, remains unchanged. The question has been freely discussed and so far has found supporters only among that class which run wild on any new fad in dress. The custom of the sons of rest ranging themselves on the depot platform to witness the arrival and departure of trains, is an old one but should be abolished.

Advocates of the shirt waist question may give their opinions publicity by addressing the sporting editor of this journal.

Opening of School.

The Barrington public school will open for the fall and winter term Monday morning September 3. A farewell to sports and amusements of summer vacation days will be said by the happyurchins, young ladies and gentlemen, and the attractions of the school room will occupy their attention until the holiday recess. The following corps of instructors will welcome pupils the coming year:

Prof. F. E. Smith, principal; Miss Minnie Battenton, 7th and 8th grades; Miss Rose Kublank, 3rd grade; Miss Alvina Meyers 4th grade; Miss Alice Lawler, 2nd grade; Miss Hahn, 5th and 6th grades; Miss Mary Frye, primary. Miss Kublank of Palatine and Miss Hahn, the new members of the corps, come highly recommended.

Obituary.

ELSNER—Wilhelm Elsner died August 28, after having suffered for a number of months from the effects of an abscess. He was not confined to his home but a short time being able to be about for ten days previous to his death. He was a native of Germany, aged 42 years and seven months, and had resided in Barrington nineteen years where he was engaged in the business of contractor for brick and stone work. He was well respected and a good citizen. A wife and two sons survive to mourn his loss. The funeral was held from St. Paul's Lutheran church, of which he was a communicant, Friday, services being conducted by Rev. Menzel. Interment was at Evergreen cemetery.

BOEHMER—Raymond Boehmer, son of Henry and Louise Boehmer, died early Wednesday morning, August 29, of peritonitis, aged 11 years and three months. Raymond was one of those children who endear themselves to all. He was exceedingly bright and possessed of pleasing manners and kindly disposition. He was a member of the Mission Band and Salem Evangelical and M. E. Sunday schools, a little leader among his associates. Three weeks ago he was taken ill but his parents did not consider his condition serious until a few days before he was called away, they feeling assured that his rugged constitution was able to successfully combat the disease. Mr. and Mrs. Boehmer have the heartfelt sympathy of all in their loss of one of the brightest jewels of their home. The funeral was held at the Salem church Friday at 10 o'clock, services being conducted by Rev. Strickfaden and Dr. Robinson. The remains were laid away in Evergreen cemetery.

ROBINSON—Alice B., daughter of Dr. J. B. Robinson of this village, died at the home of her sister, Mrs. O. R. Derby, in Morgan Park, Saturday August 25, and was buried at Aurora Monday. She had been in feeble health for years. She was an earnest Christian lady.

Embrace this Opportunity.

Prof. C. S. Horn has acceded to the wishes of his many friends in this vicinity and will remain here and offer his services to all desiring a thorough course of instruction in vocal and instrumental music. Prof. Horn has instructed the M. W. A. band, 20 pieces, of this village the past eight months and developed it into one of the best musical organizations to be found in the smaller towns of the state. His excellent work is sufficient recommendation. He will open his school of instruction Wednesday September 5. His class should be a large one.

Notice.

All children becoming six years of age on or before Jan. 1, 1901, are requested to begin school Sept. 3. All others becoming six years of age before the close of the school year may begin at the beginning of the spring term.
