Big Rally.

The republican rally last Thursday night was a gratification to the committee that arranged the affair and was a source of encouragement to the followers of McKinley. A big parade, headed by the Palatine band, and swelled by marchers from Arlington Heights, marched through the streets and made an imposing appearance.

The hall was handsomely decorated and when the crowd attempted to get in it was found that the hall was not large enough to hold them all. Chairman Sutherland called the meeting to order and the glee club sang "The Democratic Boat," which took the crowd and they sang again.

Congressman George Edmund Foss was introduced and he threw some hot shot into the ranks of the opponents. His speech for the most part was on the national issues of this campaign and his address was a masterly and convincing effort.

After another song by the glee club Clark J. Tisdell, who has become a regular Palatine speaker because the people like to hear him, addressed the audience and he had everything his own way from start to finish. He took up the democratic issues one by one and expounded them in a way that kept the audience spell-bound. Mr. Tisdell is one of the best speakers on the platform this campaign. Mr. Busse and Hon. Wm. Thiemann were present but time prevented them from being heard from.

A Popular Train and Crew.

The Wisconsin division of the C. & N. W. Ry. has many excellent train crews in its service—men who are highly esteemed by patrons along the line. While Barrington people are interested in the service afforded to them generally, they are personally interested in and intimately acquainted with the gentlemen who operate the local or suburban trains running between this village and the metropolis. It is the intention of THE REVIEW to give to its readers pen pictures of the men who look after their safety while riding on the rail, and the first of the series allows us the opportunity to speak of Train No. 514, better known as first Barrington local.

T. C. Dolan is popular, good looking gentleman who conducts this train and punches commutation pasteboard, and he is so intimately identified with the patrons along the line that many admiring parents have named their boys "Tom" as a mark of respect for him. He is as full of urbanity to patrons as and egg is full of meat, and to ride with "Tom" is an assurance the trip will be a safe and pleasant one. Mr. Dolan has all the qualifications required to conduct a Pullman Palace Overland Limited and will do so eventually but Barringtonians and residents along the line would rather have him remain No. 514.

The man who pulls the throttle on engine 678 is William Thorp and the B. of L. E. has no more worthy representative. He can manipulate 678 in a manner, that would cause the Empire Express time to pass unnoticed. The writer will make affidavit that Thorp and his engine can raise the hair on a baldheaded reporter quicker than any engineer on the line. He is one of Barrington's esteemed citizens and possesses a pretty home surrounded by a happy family and the comforts of life. It is the wish of many that when "Bill" Thorp is ordered on his last run on this earthly sphere he will take a ten-wheeler on the through vestibuled train to that country where the rails are of gold, ties of jasper and switches all set to the main track.

John Nicholson is the handsome example of humanity who feeds the fire-box on 678, and he is one of those original, good-hearted, everyday sort of men of whom the world has not enough. John's first experience in "firing" is not so many years ago that he cannot recall the facts, and he has given close attention to his duties and made a record for promotion to the right side of the cab. He occupies a cozy residence in our village ornamented by a faithful helpmate and bright little son. He is popular with a large acquaintance and from line of daily conduct is positive that when he goes hence he will not have to follow his present vocation.

The boys to announce the stations, pay special attention to the comfort of the ladies old and young—on this popular train are two of the most highly esteemed young gentlemen of Barrington, Ray and Will Cannon. They are known as the Chesterfields of the first first out Barrington local, and deserve the distinction. Ray Cannon can transfer a feminine passenger from coach to station platform in a manner that would shame a Russian Duke, while Will, by his pleasing manner can interest a weary, tired passenger with as much ease as he calls the stations. The boys by their courtly demeanor and attention to duty are in the line of promotion and every man, woman and child on the line between Barrington and Wells street station hope to see them go to the top of the ladder.

E. L. Wilmer is the uniformed attendant on this local flyer who looks after the baggage and has the reputation of handling Saratogas, telescopes etc., in a way to please the owners. The same trunk has been known to last two trips with "Eb" and that is a testimonial. Like all baggage men Mr. Wilmer has a large acquaintance with people along the line and accommodating disposition has benefited many a commuter who was endeavoring to reach home heavily laden with products from the bargain counters. He has all the trials and tribulations that go with his position but continues to grow in grace and good looks. It is the wish of his large army of friends that he may reach his ambition in railway service.

May Rival the Klondike.

It will not be surprising to see people who live along the streets that are being macadamized, out with shovel, pick axe and hoe, tearing up the macadam and carrying, with jealous care, particles of crushed stone into their houses, there to be submitted to the mineralogical tests, for the secret has leaked out that the stone is impregnated with gold to a degree that fully equals, it is said, the products of some of the western mines, says the Waukegan Gazette.

Gold in Lake County! Who would of thought it? The streets of the capitol of Lake County paved with gold! We have noticed of late that the Gazette was putting on more or less agony about something or other. No wonder. Living on the top of an undeveloped mine of untold wealth is sufficient to cause the most affluent of the fraternity to build air castles and the Gazette story is therefore excusable. Talk about the eternal city! It is not in it with Waukegan.

River Wrecks Big Glacier.

Engineer G. W. Garside, who has returned to Juneau from Taku Inlet, reports that he found the appearance of things wonderfully changed by the slipping into the sea of half a mile of the big Windom glacier. For a century this glacier has been dead, and its terminal extended into the inlet as an immense crescent-shaped bar. Big trees grew on the bar, showing it had been there many years. Garside found all this changed. Instead, an immense body of ice is floating about, with huge icebergs, and a wide channel has been cut through the bar to tidewater.

Comes Near Being Lynched.

Brooklyn, a little town six miles northeast of Metropolis, Ill., came near being the scene of a lynching Saturday night. Horace Lauders, a negro desperado, went to the house of Agnes Hamilton, a colored girl, and because she refused to go to an entertainment with him shot and killed her. Had it not been for the fact that he escaped through the rain and darkness to Metropolis he would have been lynched by the indignant citizens of Brooklyn. He went and begged the jailer to lock him up quick, as he feared a mob would come to lynch him.

With the exception of a few public records and documents picked up in some of the decayed buildings before their complete destruction, nothing more than a memory of the historic old settlement remains. The old Pope house, the first brick structure built west of the Ohio, in which the first session of the first legislature of Illinois was held, was the last building to be washed into the waters.

WAS THE GIRL MURDERED?

Chicago Detectives Unraveling a Mystery.

SMILEY WAS ONLY A TOOL

Had Been Promised $1,000 for Posing as Girl's Fiance—Makes a Confession of His Part in the Alleged Conspiracy—A Big Swindle Charged.

Chicago has a mystery which is giving the detectives plenty to do. Marie A. Defenbach, aged 25, a pretty girl, died late in August, and now it is alleged she was poisoned as part of a plot to swindle three life insurance organizations.

A confession has been made by Frank H. Smiley, one of the alleged conspirators against the life of the young woman. Smiley gives a full history of the plot in detail, and in his statement it is shown that Dr. August M. Unger and F. Wayland Brown had arranged to gain the insurance, and that they were to divide it. Unger was to receive $3,000, while Brown was to take $7,000. Smiley asserts that he was only a tool in the plot, and that all he was to receive was $1,000 from Brown for allowing himself to be known as the intended husband of Miss Defenbach. Smiley and Brown were employes of the Mooney & Boland detective agency of Chicago, and it is the heads of that agency who are most zealous in the prosecution of its former employes. Smiley confirms the belief that the body that was cremated at Rose Hill was that of Marie Defenbach, and not that of a substitute. Smiley is said to confirm the charges that Unger and Brown were in a conspiracy with Miss Defenbach to secure the insurance on her life. Smiley says he was to be paid $1,000 for posing as the intended husband of the young woman. Brown was to pay him.

THE CEDAR LAKE MYSTERY.

Work for Detectives at Crown Point, Ind.

A WOMAN'S SKULL IS FOUND.

Dental Plate in the Mouth the Possible Clue That May Lead to Identity of the Deceased—Looks Like a Murder Case—Sleuth Work Begins.

Citizens of Crown Point, Ind., and vicinity were wrought up over the finding of a gruesome skull in Cedar Lake Saturday, by little Tony Hertzler. The lad was fishing and his hook brought up the bony framework of what is supposed to have been the head of a woman.

The fine hair on the skull and the peculiarly delicate curve of the tooth plate—these are their chief proofs. An important clue is believed to exist in the peculiar fashioning of a dental plate found in the mouth.

The teeth were upper incisors, running from the left eye tooth to the front of the mouth. The plate, which Dr. Tinkham said was not of the most approved make, was only an inch across in its widest part, that fitting across from gum to gum of the back teeth.

From the "soft palate" end to the point where the teeth were attached was one and one-quarter inches, and the point where the teeth were attached was nine-sixteenths of an inch across. There was no gum work on the plate.

Dr. Joseph Van Osinski, deputy coroner, told Sheriff Lawrence of Lake county, that he had placed the plate and teeth in the little coffin in which he had buried the crumpled skull after the inquest, in which he declared murder had been done.

The importance of the plate as a clue was so great that arrangements were made to exhume it. Dr. Osinski was preparing to accompany the sheriff to the cemetery, when he put his hand into his overcoat pocket. There he found the plate. Sheriff Lawrence seized it eagerly. He had not seen it before.

While Dr. Osinski was inclined to think the head was that of a man, he admitted that he based his opinion entirely on his examination of the hair. He found two grades, one coarse and one very fine. Before the head fell to pieces in Sheriff Lawrence's hands he had noticed hair clinging to the lime-like substance that answered for flesh, and he believed the head was that of a man with a beard.

From the fact that there were fine and coarse hairs Dr. Osinski figured the same way, although he never saw the head before it broke into fragments.

Sheriff Lawrence is proceeding entirely on the theory that a woman was the victim of the lake murder mystery. All about Cedar Lake, among the regular dwellers and the cottages, is intense excitement, and a demand for the fullest investigation.

Foreman McKinnon of the Armour ice house at Cedar Lake, admitted that one of the 300 men employed there last winter had failed to call for three days' pay due him, and that the amount was still to his credit on Armour & Co.'s books in the Chicago office. But he said it was nothing unusual for the ice cutters to wander away in that manner. There had been no serious quarrels among the men during the past few winters, as far as he knew.

Says Andree Was Killed.

H. S. Knapper, a newspaper man, returned Monday morning to Minneapolis, from a perilous trip to the Hudson Bay country, in which, with nine white men and eight Indians, he sailed 600 miles up the east coast of that great inland sea. Knapper was assured by Eskimos whom he met that a "sky boat" had come into the region on the extreme northern shore of the bay two years before; that it came to the ground, and that the savages who inhabit that country had killed the white men in it. This, he explains, was Andree's polar expedition.

Coal Miners to Meet.

The call for a convention of the striking anthracite coal miners has been formally signed by President Mitchell and by the presidents of districts Nos. 1, 7 and 9 of the United Mine-Workers, and all interest in the future of the strike is centered in the probable outcome. The convention is to be held in Scranton, beginning Friday, Oct. 12, at 10 a. m., and will continue in session until the miners have decided what they wish to do with regard to the 10 per cent increase in wages by the operators.

Root Knocks Creedon Out.

Jack Rooth of Chicago knocked out Dan Creedon of Australia in one round at Kansas City, in the presence of 5,000 people. The fight lasted 2 minutes and 3 seconds. Root landed a hard right swing on the jaw, forcing Creedon and ending the fight. Creedon outweighed his opponent twenty pounds, but at no time was he able to land a damaging blow.

OUR FILIPINO VISITOR

Senor Sixto Lopez, former confidential secretary and confidant of Gen. Aguinaldo, also representative of his countrymen at Washington up to the time when shots were first exchanged between the natives and the Americans at Manila, is visiting Fiske Warren in Boston. He proposes to write a book on this country. Fiske Warren is the third son of the late Samuel D. Warren, the great paper manufacturer, and is very wealthy. He cares more for tennis, outdoor life and the country than he does for society. He was 80s and has traveled extensively abroad.

Mrs. Warren, who has joined her husband in entertaining the one-time secretary of Aguinaldo, was Gretchen Osgood, the eldest daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Hamilton Osgood. She is petite, with a beautiful figure and exquisite complexion and masses of reddish gold hair. She dresses in absolutely good taste, and with any amount of chic. She is a full-fledged society leader, much sought after, clever and interesting.

Not so very long ago she accompanied her husband in a trip around the world.

These representatives were three in number. Senor Agoncillo left for Canada before the clash with the Filipinos on that fatal day, Feb. 4, 1899.

Lopez was a member of the Filipino commission that came here in 1898, to present the case of their country.

Although as early as Jan. 9, 1899, it was publicly stated that a member of the senate committee on foreign affairs had advised the arrest of these men, the other members of the deputation, Senor Sixto Lopez and Dr. Losada, remained in Washington until March, and the motive they announced for their leaving was Dr. Losada's illness. He was desirous, it was said,

Quite a chatty person is his imperial majesty Kaiser Wilhelm. From 1889, when he ascended the throne, to the present day, he has made more than 700 speeches, all of which have been printed in full in the official journal. Ohio Town Excited

Community Rent with Quarrel Over McKinley's Birthplace.

The thriving little city of Niles, O., threatens to be rent in twain by a question which has set the good inhabitants on edge, has divided families, turned brothers against brothers, not flock to see the wonder in any numbers.

The other half of the divided house was bought or leased by a gentleman named Flattery, whose business being thriving called for increased storage room. In short, the other half—and Flattery says he is sure this is the half in which the worthy President first saw the light—has become a factory. And so the controversy rages. In another part of the town a little red schoolhouse is pointed out as the one in which McKinley learned his A, B, C's. This is used as a carpenter shop.

CAUSE OF THE FIGHT IN NILES.

A Vanderbilt at Work.

It is not easy to understand why such an ado is made over the fact that young Mr. Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt has elected to go into a railroad office and learn the business in which he is to be an important factor, instead of giving up his time exclusively to society and its diversions. Numerous sons of rich business men have done the same thing, and the custom is not so infrequent that it should occasion surprise. There are many such young fellows similarly engaged, and it is creditable to them that they prefer an active business life to a lazy social career. Young Mr. Vanderbilt has plenty of money and is removed from the necessity of any kind of work, but he has wisely chosen to learn the business in which so much of his wealth is invested instead of devoting himself to polo, automobiles and golf. In this respect his choice is in sharp contrast with that of young William K. Vanderbilt, who is just now making himself obnoxious in the land of steady habits by his erratic performances with automobiles and frequent violations of state laws. Probably young Alfred does not imagine he is doing anything remarkable in selecting business for his occupation as numerous other wealthy men's sons have done before him.

Silas M. Douglass, the new chief justice of the circuit courts of Ohio, is an old neighbor of John Sherman, in Mansfield, O. He did not leave the farm until he was of age and has been at the bar only seventeen years, though in that time he has been mayor of the town, city solicitor and circuit judge. He is 47 years old.

Walter Houston, an old soldier, who died recently in Utica, Wis., left $12,000 to the veterans' home at Waupaca, Wis. He had visited the place disguised as a poor soldier in order to satisfy himself of its condition and management.

The Oldest Indian Woman.

The old Indian woman living is Nancy Jacobs, who lives in Cedar county, near Antlers, in the Choctaw nation. She is 100 years old. Nancy is a big woman. She is very tall and erect. She is one of the original six town Indians, a clan among the Choctaws. She is a medicine woman, and treats the young people of the tribe with the same mysterious concoctions that were used by her husband. She says she is as strong as when she was 20 years old.

The Prince and the Pole.

Prince Luigi of Savoy-Aosta, duke of Abruzzi and first cousin of King Victor Emmanuel III of Italy, has succeeded in reaching a point 19 minutes of latitude nearer the north pole than did that intrepid Norwegian explorer, Nansen, who penetrated farther into the arctic circle than had any of his predecessors. The venturesome young Italian reached a latitude of 86 degrees 33 minutes north, while Nansen's "farthest north" was 86 degrees 14 minutes.

Born to the purple, with every inducement held out for a life of luxurious ease and inactivity, the Duke of Abruzzi has been a good deal of a hustler and shown in a number of undertakings remarkable courage, endurance and persistence. He is best known on this side of the Atlantic on account of his successful ascent of Mount Ellas, on the border of Alaska, the summit of which he was the first to master. He is the savant of the royal house of Savoy and, though still a young man, has through his explorations and researches contributed not a little to physical science and geography. Whether or no there are any practical benefits to be derived from his latest feat it is impossible to withhold admiration for the man who accomplished it. He and his companions suffered many hardships, and three of their number died. The duke himself had three fingers so badly frozen that amputation was necessary. His vessel, the Stella Polare, appears to have suffered more than did Nansen's ice resisting Fram and was caught in the pack, where it remained fast for 11 months. The duke succeeded in getting within 241 miles of the frigid goal of arctic explorers, which is 19 miles nearer the pole than any one had hitherto reached. Up to date the Italian prince holds the polar record, which he has gallantly wrested from the Norwegian explorer. But that undaunted and resourceful American arctic navigator, Lieutenant Peary, who at last accounts was heroically pushing poleward, is yet to be heard from. So far as any one knows he may have already transferred the stars and stripes from the fore peak of the Windward to the main truck of the north pole.

In Berlin one may ride on the street cars a distance of six miles for 1 1/2 cents. Besides this, one is always sure of at least standing room. A sign is posted on the outside of cars informing patrons how many seats are left and what proportion of the standing room remains. When the seats are occupied and the platforms have enough people on them not to make riding uncomfortable, the car does not make any stops on signal. Enough cars to accommodate everybody are operated. The roads pay the city 10 per cent of gross earnings. This ratio is fixed until the companies show that they are dividing among their shareholders 12 per cent, when they must arrange to turn over the entire surplus. There are some things that they don't do so badly after all in the effete old world.

According to the St. Louis Post-Dispatch employees of the Southern railroad are urged not to talk politics while on duty, as more accidents occur during a political campaign than at other times, railroad employees, in the ardor of debate, neglecting their duties more or less. As a rule the ordinary political discussion is a pretty fruitless occupation. Neither disputant is apt to convince the other of the error of his way, and both are likely to lose their tempers, while their business, if they have any, is pretty sure to be neglected. It is the duty of every citizen to thoroughly inform himself as to the political issues and situation, but this information is not usually acquired in heated discussions on the street corners, in business offices, hotel lobbies or barrooms.

Mr. Fitzsimmons will honor Chicago by making his residence there. It seems that no city is truly great until it has a great pugilist among its leading citizens.

Under a recent territorial agreement Colombia gets a large area of barren land from Venezuela. It may come in handy some time as battlefields.

The Growth of Porto Rico's Commerce

According to treasury department reports, commerce between the United States and Porto Rico has developed rapidly since the new act went into effect on May 1, 1900. Imports into the United States from that island have increased 50 per cent over those of one year ago and are three times as great as the average when Porto Rico was Spanish territory, while exports to the island have increased nearly 150 per cent over one year ago and are nearly five times as much as the average when Porto Rico was Spanish territory. During the month of July, whose figures have just been completed by the treasury bureau of statistics, the exports from the United States to the island were $529,720 against $206,406 in July, 1899, and $156,296 in July, 1897. Taking the entire three months in which the new act has been in operation, May, June and July, the exports to the island were $2,117,207 against $873,453 in the corresponding months of 1899 and $485,270 in the corresponding months of 1897 and $393,225 in the corresponding months of 1896. On the import side the figures for July, 1900, were $640,023 against $448,267 in July, 1899, $145,273 in 1897 and $254,676 in July, 1896.

It is apparent, therefore, from an examination of these figures that imports from Porto Rico in the three months' operation of the new law are fully 50 per cent in excess of those for the corresponding months of 1899, when the island was under the American flag, but the former tariff relations yet unaffected, while they are nearly three times as much as in the corresponding months of the closing years of Spanish control of the island.

Taking the export side of the picture, the evidences of growth are still more plainly apparent. The exports from the United States to the island in May, June and July, 1900, amounted to $2,117,207 against $873,453 in the corresponding months of 1899, $485,270 in the corresponding months of 1897 and $393,225 in the corresponding months of 1896. Thus the exports under the new law are nearly 2 1/2 times as much as in the corresponding months of 1899, when the island was under the American flag, but the tariff relations yet unaffected, and nearly five times as much as the average during the closing years of Spanish control of the island.

Speaking of the Boer flag incident at Bar Harbor, Captain Mahan tells of an interesting personal experience of his own during the civil war. Captain Mahan was a lieutenant on the United States ship Macedonian, which entered the harbor of Plymouth during the early summer of 1863. At that time, which was prior to Vicksburg and Gettysburg, the general feeling in England, so far at least as it found expression, was distinctly adverse to our cause. A British merchant vessel near by hoisted a Confederate flag. This was clearly insulting, as was the act of Mr. Van Ness. Soon after a boat from a British ship-of-war was seen to go alongside, and the Confederate flag was hauled down, and that afternoon a British naval officer visited Lieutenant Mahan's ship, expressed his regret at the occurrence and stated that the flag had been lowered by their direction. In neither instance was there any political significance, but both were in exceedingly bad taste.

The National Association of Letter Carriers has adopted a new plan to secure pensions for its retired members. Heretofore the association has been urging the government to grant such pensions, but it had never received much encouragement from congress or the postal authorities. Now that the letter carriers have come to understand that the government will not support them after they have ceased to work they have adopted a new plan. The bill they propose to submit to congress provides for the creation of a retirement fund to be raised by withholding a portion of the salary of each carrier actively employed, to be kept by the secretary of the treasury in the United States treasury. The assessments range from 2 1/4 to 5 per cent per annum, in accordance with the term served, and the pensions range from 20 to 50 per cent, the amount also being based upon the length of service.

It is said that George Gould put up $1,500,000 to pay Boni Castellane's debts, just as a matter of family pride. Evidently in one respect at least George doesn't take after Jay very hard. The latter's pride would never have carried him to such an extreme.

Perhaps it is just as well to keep a watch on the inside of Mr. Wu's flowing sleeve.

A Minister's Good Work.

"I had a severe attack of bilious colic; got a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, took two doses and was entirely cured," says Rev. A. A. Power, of Emporia, Kan. "My neighbor across the street was sick for over a week; had two or three bottles of medicine from the doctor. He used them for three or four days without relief then called in another doctor who treated him for some days and gave him no relief, so discharged him. I went over to see him next morning. He said his bowels were in a terrible fix, that they had been running off so long it was almost bloody flux. I asked him if he had tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and he said 'No.' I went home and brought him my bottle and gave him one dose; told him to take another dose in fifteen or twenty minutes if he did not find relief, but he took no more and was entirely cured. I think it the best medicine I have ever tried." For sale by Chas. E. Churchill, Barrington, and A. S. Olms, Palatine is a newspaper for bright and intelligent people. It is made up to attract people who think.

Is not neutral or colorless, constantly trimming in an endeavor to please both sides, but it is independent in the best sense of the word.

It has pronounced opinions and is fearless in expressing them, but it is always fair to its opponents.

Matters of national or vital public interest get more space in THE TRIBUNE than in any other paper in the West.

For these reasons it is the newspaper you should read during the forthcoming political campaign.

THE TRIBUNE'S financial columns never mislead the public.

Its facilities for gathering news, both local and foreign, are far superior to those of any other newspaper in the West.

It presents the news in as fair a way as possible, and lets its readers form their opinions.

While it publishes the most comprehensive articles on all news features, if you are busy the "Summary of THE DAILY TRIBUNE" published daily on the first page gives you briefly all the news of the day within one column.

Its sporting news is always the best, and its Sunday Pink Sporting Section is better than any sporting paper in the country.

It is the "cleanest" daily printed in the West.

Election day is coming fast, And William soon will breathe his last; When he has given his last kick We'll send his body up Salt Creek. —The Campaign Poet.

A gentleman entered this office last Saturday and remarked as follows: "A disciple of Blackstone, over on Main street, just told me that there was a law against calling a man a liar on the public street. What do you think about it? Not being familiar with the statute in such case made and provided we could not verify the statement of the learned jurist, but we advised him that if he could not prove the assertion or run faster than the other fellow, not to say a word.

This village can boast of a young lady, one of the prettiest in face and form, one of the leaders in enjoyable events; one who is not dependent on her father for support, one who can dig seven rows of potatoes as rapidly as any man in the corporation. Whoever is lucky enough to lasso this lady will secure a jewel.

Not long since a family moved into a residence on Main street. After a few days a lady friend called and asked how they liked the new locality. "Pretty well," was the reply. "Have you called on any of the neighbors as yet?" "No, but I'm going to do so if some articles that disappeared from my clothes line don't show up around here pretty soon. Those articles never blew away, and I know it.

If there is one creature on earth more despicable than another it is the man who can see no good in his fellow citizen who differs with him politically. We overheard a representative citizen pour forth a tirade of bad English relative to a man who had declared his belief in the principles of democracy. Give every man the privilege you desire for yourself. Moral suasion is sensible in an argument; abuse shows your mental calibre. Because a man differs with you as to the issues of the campaign is not proof of the fact that he is an anarchist or an idiot.

"The Heart Beats Seventy Times a Minute" is the heading to an article appearing in the Chicago Tribune. That may be true, and an ordinary heart may get along comfortably on seventy beats a minute, but we passed a couple standing in front of a Cook street residence Monday evening; he was making glad waist places, and both waiting for the moon to pass behind a cloud—talk about seventy times a minute—we'll wager that seventy times a minute wasn't local freight train time compared to the speed those two hearts were beating.

There was a warm political argument in one of the village stores the other evening and matters got be extremely personal. One veteran, who has voted since the days of Martin VanBuren, said: "I'll just bet yer yer can't tell us ten lines of the constitution of these United States yer a blowin' so much about." "Oh, I can't hey? Well, if you think I can't why perhaps I can't, but damn me if I don't know enough to vote and how to vote. In '88 you was a terin' around, and cussin' Harrison and you wasn't goin' to vote for him nor Morton, so you cut their names off the head of the ticket and voted for the whole set of electors." That clinched the argument.

Judging from the behavior of several young men and women who have attended the two political mass meetings held here of late, it is evident that they were allowed to go out into the world before competent. Children only half-witted should be kept where they cannot intrude upon the public. The children are not altogether to blame—early education, not of sufficient mental capacity to judge right from wrong. The parents are derelict in duty in allowing nuisances to run at large. Young ladies old enough to wear long dresses; young men who are old enough to wear tailor made trousers, are old enough to be made examples of, and the application of a club would seem to be about the proper treatment.

The college football schedule indicates that some of the games will conflict with the presidential election. It ought to be arranged to give the 12 political parties a clear field when they line up on the 6th of November.

A Chicago paper announces that President Harper of Chicago university is to confer with Mr. Rockefeller. It is safe to say that the topic under consideration will not be 15 cent dinners.

There is one consoling feature of the late dispatches telling of the horrible slaughter of women and children in China—they come via Shanghai.

The Chinese tsung-li-yamen appears to be a sort of aggravated board of strategy.

AN OPEN LETTER TO VOTERS AND VOTERS' WIVES.

DEAR SIR AND MADAM:

I am a candidate for your favor for the position of leading jeweler of this village and vicinity. I submit my platform for your consideration. I am opposed to "ways that are dark" in business, and favor open and honest methods with the public. I represent values as they actually are and call "a spade a spade" when I describe the different qualities of goods. I am in favor of selling goods at such a profit only over cost as will enable me to continue business successfully, looking to my prosperity in the large volume of business which will result from selling at modest profits. I respectfully solicit your vote and influence—and a visit to my store.

In the Desert...

A Story Illustrating the Horrors of War

By H. B. WELSH...

"He is living yet, thank God!" said the colonel. And he thought of his sister, who, after much pleading and resolution, had, along with Dr. Margaret Crawford, come as far as Berber. "We must send him back to Berber," said the colonel. "We are on the march almost incessantly now, and he cannot live unless he is properly attended to. We shall send him there at once."

And so, under an escort of Arab "boys," Cleland was taken by river and rail to Berber, the "Queen of the Soudan."

Adrienne and Margaret were there, the latter attending to a few sick soldiers who had been left in the hospital. The time was not up for her entering upon her duties, and she felt that she could not leave the Soudan until she learned whether Paul was living or dead.

Adrienne had told her all Rayburn's dying confession, and now, when probably it was too late, Margaret recognized the fact that the barrier she had thought insurmountable was no barrier after all.

As Margaret was stooping over a sick man one day, one of the native attendants came to tell her Mrs. Breynon wished to see her. Margaret went to the door, and at first sight of Adrienne's face she grew pale as death, and leant for support against the doorway.

"Tell me—you have heard that he is dead?" she gasped, rather than spoke. "No, my dear," Adrienne passed her brave, unshrinking hand round the woman Paul loved and supported her with it.

"He has been found, he is coming here; but he is ill, unconscious, Margaret. Still, God may be merciful, and we shall pray until He must hear us, Margaret."

Margaret lifted her pale face, glowing with a strange joy, and clasped her hands.

"I shall nurse him, at least," she whispered. "Oh, thank God!"

And she did, until the ebbing life began—very slowly, but quite perceptibly—to flow again.

It was one evening—ah, should Margaret ever forget it as long as she lived!—while she sat beside him on her camp-stool, looking through the open window at the brilliant moonlight making a pool of light for itself on the brown sand of the desert, that Cleland, quite suddenly and quietly, as if he were awakening from sleep, opened his eyes and looked at her.

"Margaret, is that you? I dreamt you were there. My darling, are we both dead, and is this my first awakening on the other side?"

"No, no, Paul! You are still on earth, thank God, and I am here beside you, never more to leave you now, if you wish it so, dear, for the barrier is gone for ever."

A strange flash came into the sick man's eyes, but for a moment he was silent.

At last he spoke.

"I do not know if I am still dreaming or if I have heard aright. Margaret, say it again, and I shall be satisfied. You are mine for ever now?"

"For ever, Paul, if you will have me," she answered, with a sob in her throat.

He drew her face to his, and then their lips met in one long, long kiss—such a kiss as surely those who have loved each other on earth may give when they meet for the first time—"beyond the bourne of time and space."

Presently Adrienne came in. She approached the bedside, and as she came near she paused, a strange expression on her lips and in her eyes; for she saw then that happiness had come to Paul and Margaret at last.

Paul saw her and smiled, holding out his weak, thin hand.

"You, too, my friend! Surely I am recompensed for all I have suffered by knowing that I have the friendship of one noble woman and the love of another. Yes, it is true, Mrs. Breynon. Margaret and I are quite happy, and we owe our happiness she has told me, to a large extent to you."

"And bless you both," said Adrienne. She held his hand in her own, and then, turning to Margaret, kissed her with brave unquivering lips.

(The End.)

HER SISTER'S SECRET

I had vowed never to enter the Dormers' house again; but when they sent word that Maisie was dying I went there as fast as a hansom would carry me. We had always been such friends—the child and I. But she was not a child now, at seventeen.

"We never quarreled," she said, holding my hand tightly. "There is not much time to quarrel now. You won't will you, Fred?" I shook my head. A lump in my throat kept me from speaking. "Promise me before I tell you—something."

"My poor little Maisie!" I cried brokenly. "I promise." She had been a pet of mine from the days when she was a toddling baby and I a big, awkward boy.

"It is about you and Lucy—when you quarreled." She stopped abruptly. "Yes?" Lucy was her elder sister. We had been engaged.

"You wrote her an explanation—a satisfactory explanation."

"Apparently she did not think so. She never answered the letter that I gave you to deliver."

"I—I kept it." She buried her face in the pillow. I was too astonished for words, but I kept stroking her hair. "I read it first. Then I burned it."

"If you get well, May," I said, "and grow up I shall like you better than everybody." She laughed faintly. "I believe I always did." I wiped her eyes.

"I sha'n't," she said. "So—you will like her again now, won't you?" I hesitated. My affection for Lucy died a natural death. It had never been very deep; neither, I fancied, had hers for me.

I frowned. "You have not told her—about the letter?" She shook her head.

"But you will be good to her? You will make it up, won't you? You need not tell her about me—only say that you are sorry and want to be friends. Then you can be engaged again; and—and—some day—" Her lips quivered.

"Marry her?" She nodded. "But if I no longer care for her? If I know that I can never love her as I could love? My dear little playfellow and friend, I am not half so fond of Lucy as I am of you."

"Ah!" she looked at me with big, deep eyes. "I am only a child, dear Fred." The wistful affection in the child's face touched me to the heart, and I kissed her frail hands.

Lucy met me at the bottom of the stairs.

"Maisie told me that she never gave you the letter, Lucy; that all the blame was hers."

"She told you—that—just—to—screen me," she said, brokenly.

"Do not trouble about it any more," I do not care for you after all."

There was nothing more to say. So I turned to go; but there was a knock at the front door and I heard some one say, "The doctor." So I waited to hear what he pronounced.

After a few minutes he came down the stairs talking to Mrs. Dormer.

"It is a natural sleep," he said. "The pulse is steadier and the temperature more normal. The odds are still against her, but there is hope."

The tears came to my eyes at last, and Lucy came and put her hand on my shoulder.

"You can win her back to life, Fred," she said, "our little girl. Stay till she wakes." I had already resolved to stay.

I went upstairs and sat with my elbow on her bed and my face on my hand, watching my little favorite. Presently her mother came and knelt beside me.

"Lucy has told me all, Fred," she whispered. "You—you will not tell the others?"

"I will not," I promised.

When my little girl awoke she was not looking toward me.

"Better dear?" asked her mother.

"Why yes," she laughed feebly. "It must be Fred. Do you know, I believe he would make me grow well if he were often here with me."

"He will be, little sweetheart," I said softly. She turned to me with a happy cry, and I whispered in her ear what I knew, and other things that were only for her and me. They were the things that won her back to life, she says, when we talk of such matters.—Chicago American.

Greek Dekadrachm.

A Greek dekadrachm, or medallion of Syracuse, dating from 405, B. C., sold for $665 at a sale of rare antique coins in London the other day. An American eagle, minted in the first year of gold coinage in America, was knocked down for $27. Rare Italian, French, and German coins brought high prices.

Current Topics

The Late Gen. Cary.

For sixty-five years General Samuel F. Cary, who died in Cincinnati last week, stood the most picturesque figure in American politics. His life was rounded out to its fulfillment with a completion that is without precedent. He was a statesman, active in all that the demands of statesmanship entail during all of that time, and was the compeer of famous men for three successive generations—from 1836 to 1895—and had the distinction of having met on the field of political debate more noted men in the politics of this country than any other man who has lived and died in America and enjoyed the privilege of being the oldest native born resident of Cincinnati. Death closed a book in the passing of Mr. Cary that is as full of distinguished incidents as any other volume on the shelves or in the archives of the United States government. He was the intimate personal friend of General William Henry Harrison, Henry Clay, Daniel Webster, Abraham Lincoln,

GEN. SAMUEL F. CARY.

Tom Corwin, Ulysses S. Grant, Oliver P. Morton, John Brough, Thomas A. Hendricks, Samuel J. Tilden, Horace Greeley, General Benjamin F. Butler, Henry Ward Beecher, Thaddeus Stevens, Reuben E. Fenton (his cousin) and scores of others. He had few equals and no superiors as an orator.

George Brown, an old negro janitor at the Annapolis Naval academy, has been in the employ of the academy ever since it was founded in 1845, and has been more or less familiar with all our naval heroes since that date. He is the only person now living who was connected with the institution when it was opened.

The Forward Movement.

Dr. W. J. Spaulding, who has just become connected with the forward movement of the People's church, Chicago, of which Dr. Thomas is pastor, was for many years president of the Iowa Wesleyan university. He is a native of Ohio and was graduated from the Ohio Wesleyan university, at Delaware, with the degree of Ph. D. He is a man of wide educational experience, but has given up routine work for the more general and broader study of humanity. It is this that has attracted him to popular educational plans mapped out for Dr. Thomas' church. He is said to be a man of rare insight into the human mind and with an almost more than human knowledge of the anxieties and mental needs of human beings. His work in Chicago will be of voluntary character and will take the form of lectures and conversational classes at the new headquarters of the People's church. Dr. Spaulding is a well-preserved man of nearly 70.

Edward B. Isett, president of the First National bank of Altoona, Pa., has started for British Columbia and the Klondike to search for gold. He is a hearty old man of 75 and is worth $250,000. He expects to travel 400 miles by stage and pack mules.

Another Labor Temple.

Union labor is building a handsome structure in the city of Moline, Ill., out of funds raised by annual fairs and Labor day celebrations. During the last six years $8,000 has been collected. Of this sum $4,000 was paid for a desirable site, and $15,000 was raised by loan. This will leave $20,000 to be spent on the building, which will be two stories high throughout with a three-story front. On the ground floor will be a store-room and an immense hall for conventions. The second floor will be divided into meeting rooms, library, baths, and a smaller hall. To the use of this building 6,000 workmen will have access. The Moline Industrial association, with which the new labor temple originated, was incorporated in 1894. Its membership consists of delegates appointed by each of the 50 local unions.

Stage Robs Society Again.

Another well-known society belle has forsaken the drawing-room for the stage, and is billed to appear in Chicago with Louis James and Kathryn Kidder in "A Midsummer Night's Dream." Miss Jane Oaker in private life is Miss Dorothy Peper of St. Louis. She is a reigning beauty and one of the society debutantes of 1898. The engagement of Miss Peper brings out an interesting story. She comes of a wealthy family, being the daughter of Christian Peper, Jr., the millionaire tobacco manufacturer of St. Louis, and a graduate of Vassar. Her parents and friends were bitterly opposed to her going upon the stage and used every endeavor to prevent her taking the step. But when her parents saw that their daughter was determined they relented, and they are now quite enthusiastic and will do all in their power to keep the miss in her chosen profession.

The Dramatic Season.

Critics who have complained for years that theatrical managers never gave native playwrights a chance ought to be satisfied at last. Judging from preliminary announcements and from the first productions of new plays already given the stage is to be almost monopolized during the coming season by American-made dramas. Practically every one of the novels by American writers which was successful during the last year has been dramatized and awaits production by a star of greater or less magnitude. The result of the season from a box-office standpoint should be a fair test of the drawing power of home-made dramas. If a majority of the new plays are financially successful hereafter, the United States will be independent of the effete monarchies of Europe in a dramatic way, as it has recently become in so many other directions. Before long we may have England, Germany and France sending over to this country for dramas and farces as they now send for canned beef and wheat.

John C. Wingate of Wingate, Ind., owns the original beaver hat that helped to elect two Harrisons President. It was made for Mr. Wingate's grandfather, Christian Coon, who wore it to the old Harrison rally on the Tippecanoe battlefield.

Notes from the Paris Exposition.

"The Singer Manufacturing Company, of 149 Broadway, New York, show their usual American enterprise by having a very creditable exhibit, located in Group XIII, Class 79, at the Paris International Exposition, where they show to great advantage the celebrated Singer Sewing-Machine which is used in every country on the globe, both for family use and for manufacturing purposes. The writer was highly pleased with this display and observed with much satisfaction that it was favorably commented upon by visitors generally.

The Grand Prize was awarded by the International Jury to Singer Sewing-Machines for superior excellence in design, construction, efficiency and for remarkable development and adaptation to every stitching process used in either the family or the factory.

Only One Grand Prize for sewing machines was awarded at Paris, and this distinction of absolutely superior merit confirms the previous action of the International Jury at the World's Columbian Exposition, in Chicago, where Singer machines received 54 distinct awards, being more than were received by all other kinds of sewing machines combined.

Should it be possible that any of our readers are unfamiliar with the celebrated Singer Machine, we would respectfully advise that they call at any of the Singer salesrooms which can be found in all cities and most towns in the United States."

Queen-Mother of Italy.

The queen-mother of Italy reads English as she runs. A London paper thinks that the interpreters, who otherwise might have the trouble of translating the wordy address Alfred Austin has drawn up on behalf of the Dante society, may thank their stars. The queen herself is all directness and brevity of speech. Even in cheerful times she shuns the dithyrambic. Simple in speech, she has striven also to be simple in deed and life. Last winter season, it may not be generally known, she persuaded the king to give up entertaining at court, and to devote the money thus saved to the poor. This winter the experiment would have been repeated. In Turin the widowed queen is expected to lead henceforth a life detached from state and amusement almost to the point of austerity. —Buffalo Commercial.

Insects Fooled the Firemen.

Millions of small insects mistaken for a cloud of smoke emanating from the magnificent St. Peter's Catholic cathedral, erected at a cost of half a million dollars, were responsible for the ringing in of a fire alarm the other night in Erie, Pa., under the mistaken impression that the edifice was in danger of destruction by fire. The deception was so realistic that streams of water were turned on the building before the real condition of affairs was discovered.

Secrets Known to the Chinese.

In the making of confectionery it is said the Chinese possess secrets that Europeans would like to get hold of. They can remove the pulp of an orange and substitute jellies of various kinds and no one can detect by the closest examination that the skin of the orange has ever been cut or disturbed in the least. And they fill eggs, or their shells, with nuts and sweets, and the egg to all appearance is as whole and sound as a fresh-laid one.

Risks Life to Save Others.

Risking his life in order that he might save a load of passengers, Robert Hamill of Braceville was struck by a Chicago & Alton south-bound passenger train. He received injuries which are expected to prove fatal. Hamill was one of a party that had borrowed a hand-car from section men to take M. Sullivan to Braidwood, there being no evening train. They were on their way home and had reached the Godley crossing, when they saw a train nearly upon them. Ah jumped from the car except Hamill, who, fearing that it would wreck the train, attempted to lift it from the track. Before he could do so, the train struck him, throwing him against a telegraph pole ten feet away. An examination showed that his skull had been fractured; his right leg badly crushed, and there were other injuries which he can scarcely survive. The train was stopped and Hamill taken to his home in Braceville, where medical assistance was summoned. The passenger train was about an hour late and running at high speed to make up time. Mr. Hamill has lived in Braceville for the last fifteen years.

Sunday School Convention.

The attendance at the Sunday school convention held in the Baptist church at Alto Pass was good, considering the inclement weather. H. E. Tufkin of Anna, presided and talked on subjects of vital interest to Sunday school workers. The different subjects discussed were: "What Stimulates Punctuality in Scholars?" "How to Interest Parents in Sunday School Work." "How to Dismiss a Sunday School." Mr. Tufkin of Anna, George Rich of Cobden, and J. B. Anderson and Mrs. M. E. Spann of Alto Pass led in the discussion. President H. E. Tufkin is one of the most noted Sunday school workers in Illinois, and has the work in the county in excellent condition.

Will County Shows a Gain.

The figures for Will county were made public by the census department, and shown a population of 74,764. Ten years ago Will county, with 62,007, was seventh in population of the state. Of the gain of 12,700 over 7,000 is from the City of Joliet alone. As a result of the census the county board of supervisors will be increased from thirty-six to forty. Joliet township will have sixteen supervisors instead of eleven. Reed township, in which the mining town of Braidwood is situated, is the only town to show a decrease. In consequence, it will lose one supervisor.

Joliet Men Return to Work.

Thirteen hundred of Joliet's working men returned to their labors Monday morning, after a brief period of idleness. The converter and billet mills of the Illinois Steel company, closed a week ago, started up again and about 800 men resumed their old positions. The rod mills are now the only idle departments at the steel company's local plant. It is not known when they will resume. The Pressed Steel Car company's plant is again running full blast, having been closed three weeks for repairs.

Must Not Ship Coal to Decatur.

State Secretary-Treasurer Ryan of the United Mine Workers of America has notified operators of mines at other places having agents in Decatur that they must not ship any coal into Decatur until further notice, after filling what orders they now have, basing the notice on the ground that members of the miners' union at Decatur are not making living wages, and that most of the mines have been idle over half the time and part have not been in operation at all.

Highland Park After Lake Shore Land.

Residents of Highland Park have signed petitions to the county judge asking for a vote on the organization of the park district there under the state law. It is proposed to include in this district the entire east side extending from the Cook county line north to For. Sheridan and from the Northwestern railroad to the lake. The object is to get control of the lake front and Sheridan road.

Old Resident or Evanston Dead.

John Lyman, a resident of Evanston for over forty years and at one time a member of the village board of trustees, died at his home in that city, aged 80 years. He is survived by five daughters—Miss Janette Lyman, now in Europe; Mrs. Lydia Stillman of Springfield, Mrs. Kate Mortlock of Chicago, Mrs. Matilda Muer of Biloxi, Miss, and Mrs. Julia Rudolph of Winnetka, Ill.

Boy Crushed Beneath a Car.

As a result of flipping on street cars Frank Treachet, 6 years old, of Chicago, is at the St. Elizabeth hospital with both legs amputated above the knees. He jumped from a westbound Chicago avenue car at California avenue in front of one going in the opposite direction and was crushed beneath the wheels. He probably will die.

October 25 is the date decided upon by milk shippers to advance prices. The advance will probably be 1 cent a quart, and may not be but three-quarters of a cent. In the midst of a debate during the meeting held by the shippers at the Sherman House in Chicago lately, it was discovered that the most of them had made enough money the past two months to justify at least temporary maintenance of current prices.

Republicans Open the Campaign.

The republicans of Barrington and Cuba townships opened the campaign last Friday evening with a rousing mass meeting at Stott's hall which taxed the capacity of that assembly room. The meeting had been generally advertised, and the fact that Congressman Geo. E. Foss was to deliver the principal address of the occasion, attracted many from outside the village.

Very little interest had been manifested in the issues of the campaign by the party in this vicinity and many old time workers said the people were over-confident and would not enthuse. But all that was required was to get together and they did it. The chairman of the meeting somewhat disappointed the assemblage when he announced that Congressman Foss was unable to be present. A goodly array of lesser lights were at hand and enthusiasm was not allowed to cool during the evening.

Music was furnished by the M. W. A. band and the McKinley Quartet. S. D. Talcott, candidate for States Attorney of Lake county, delivered the opening address, and it was a good one replete with facts for thought, sound republican doctrine, free from personal abuse and musty statistics. He was followed by Clarence Smith of Waukegan, Chris Hoerner, Geo. M. Brown and J. J. Barbour of Chicago, who in turn fired hot shot at the democracy. The speakers presented argument as to why the present administration should be sustained in its policy of annexation and pronounced the real issue as the same which confronted the voters in 1896. The meeting was productive of much good and awakened renewed interest in the work of increasing the vote in the district.

Present from Waukegan were Messrs. R. D. Wynn, David Webb and H. K. Brockway, who accompanied the speakers. The campaign work will now be conducted effectively until the polls close on the afternoon of Nov. 6.

Democratic Campaign Club.

The democrats of Barrington and Cuba townships organized for campaign work at a meeting held in the village hall Monday evening. The attendance was very gratifying to the friends of democracy and much enthusiasm manifested. Twenty-five signed as charter members and formed the Bryan, Stevenson and Alschuler club, auxiliary to the National Association of Democratic clubs.

M. B. McIntosh, one of the old line democrats was made temporary chairman, and the election of permanent officers resulted as follows:

President—W. B. Shales.
First vice-pres't—M. C. McIntosh.
Second vice-pres't—G. H. Comstock.
Secretary—C. H. Morrison.
Asst. Sec'y—Lawrence Donlea.
Treasurer—M. B. McIntosh.
Executive Com—Geo. Wagner, Wm. Howarth, Frank Dohmeyer, Henry Volker, Henry Kilian, of Barrington. John Walsh, Ray Kimberly, Geo. Heimerdinger, Henry Winkler, Arnold Schauble, of Cuba.

The officers of the club are ex-officio members of the executive committee and act with that committee. The organization will commence active work and use all honorable means to increase the democratic vote in Barrington and Cuba townships.

Barrington Fire Department.

This village is fortunate in having within its borders a well-drilled and efficient corps of fire laddies who are ever watchful of the homes and property of our citizens from the ravages of the fire king. The present volunteer department was organized June 15, 1898 and is officered as follows:

President—Wm. Shales.
Vice-president—N. Stenger.
Secretary—Geo. F. Stiefenhofer.
Treasurer—Henry T. Schroeder.
Foreman—J. Brommelkamp.
Assistant Foreman—Henry Brasel.

MEMBERS.

Wm. Shales.	Geo. F. Stiefenhofer.
N. Stenger.	Henry T. Schroeder.
J. Brommelkamp.	Henry Brasel.
F. H. Plagge.	Henry Kirmse.
Aug. F. Miller.	Henry Landwer.
Herman Garbisch.	Edward Peters.
Frank Gieske.	Fred Meister.
Frank Searles.	E. Naeher.
H. S. Meier.	Sam. Landwer.
Fred Stott.	Henry Roloff.
Chas. Hutchinson.	S. G. Palmer.

The apparatus consists of a hose cart, with 800 feet of 2 1/2 inch hose; one double team hook and ladder truck supplied with all modern appliances for fighting fire. The old "Niagara" hand engine is in retirement—a back number—owing to the excellent system of water works.

The department has had only a few opportunities to show its skill as a fire quencher, but in each case its efficiency was clearly demonstrated as the fires were put out before they had fairly gained headway. The boys are alert and ready at the first note of alarm—they never sleep. The organization is a credit to the village and commands the respect and support of all. The boys protect our homes.

Unclaimed Letters.

The following is a list of unclaimed letters remaining in the postoffice at Barrington, October 11, 1900:

Mrs. Schneider, Henry Copelen, George Hoertel, F. C. Payers and Miss Edna Wilmot.

H. K. BROCKWAY, P. M.

The Democrats Rally.

Stott's Hall was packed Thursday night by supporters of democratic doctrines and many of their republican friends to hear the issues of the campaign discussed from a democratic standpoint. S. S. Parks of Chicago delivered the first address of the evening and in an agreeable manner, without recourse to personal abuse or mud slinging, presented the position of his party on trusts and imperialism. His argument was a fair one and was well received. A German Quintet, under the direction of Prof. Stedman rendered vocal selections and the Barrington band entertained the audience with instrumental music.

Mr. Augustine of Chicago delivered an address in German which was partisan to an extreme. He went behind the issues of the present campaign and resurrected questions settled long ago.

Hon. Clayton Crafts, was billed for the meeting but could not fill the date owing to other assignments, and disappointed many. The democrats of Wauconda, Lake Zurich and Langenheim were well represented. The second meeting will be held next Thursday evening.

Elect Officers.

The annual business meeting of the Young Peoples' Evangelical Missionary society was held last Tuesday evening. The meeting was led by the pastor, Rev. A. Strickfaden. The first on the program was the opening exercises, following by the report of the secretary, Alma Strickfaden, and the treasurer, Henry S. Schroeder, which were approved.

The total receipts for the year were $265.38, expenditures $190.90, leaving a balance on hand of $74.48.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President, Albert G. Gieske.
Vice-pres., George Lageschulte.
Rec. Sec., Laura Boehmer.
Cor. Sec., Luella Plagge.
Treasurer, Henry Schroeder.
Organists, Laura Landwer and Nora Plagge.

Ushers, Fred Grabenkort, Harry Kirschner.

Librarian, Frank Bauman.

Program Committee, Mrs. Charles Schaefer, Miss Ida Gieske and Henry O. Sott.

The society now numbers ninety-four and regular meetings are held on the first Tuesday evening of each month.

NEOGA, ILL., Oct. 14, '99

PEPSIN SYRUP Co., Monticello, Ill.

Gentlemen—I feel it my duty to express to you my gratitude for what your remedy has done for me. I was completely run down with a complication of stomach disorders. For ten months I could not speak and was treated by three eminent physicians. One insisted upon operating on me, declaring nothing short of an operation for appendicitis would cure me. A friend induced me to try Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin and from the first dose I began to improve and have not had any trouble since. I have gained 25 pounds in weight and am enjoying the very best of health. I never fail to say a good word for Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin for I know what it has done for me it will do for others.

Gratefully yours,
CHARLES CURRY.
Sold by Chas. E. Churchill.

Complete Cure for Scandal.

Here is a cure for a terrible disorder of the mouth, commonly called "scandal," and which in some communities often becomes epidemic. If you are afflicted try this cure. If it does not cure you—get off the earth.

"Take of 'good nature' one ounce; of an herb called by the Indians 'mind your own business,' one ounce; mix these with a little 'charity for others,' and two or three sprigs of 'keep your tongue between your teeth.'"

The symptoms are a violent itching of the tongue and roof of the mouth, which invariably takes place while you are in the company of a species of human vultures known as gossipers.

Sig.—When you feel the attack coming on take a mouthful of the mixture, hold it in your mouth, which keep closely shut 'till you get home, and you will find a complete cure. Should you apprehend a relapse, keep a small bottle about you, and on the slightest symptoms, repeat the dose."

Couldn't Translate It.

We received a letter recently we were unable to read. We failed to determine the nationality of the writer. The only words we were able to make out were, "Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin cures Indigestion." Chas. E. Churchill.
