

THE BARRINGTON REVIEW.

VOL. 16. NO. 1

BARRINGTON ILL, SATURDAY MARCH 16, 1901.

$1.50 A YEAR IN ADVANCE.

PALATINE LOCALS

Gathered and Compiled by A. G. Smith, Local Editor.

Lecture next Friday night.
Miss Mae Baker is home from Chicago.
Republican caucus this afternoon from 1 to 7 o'clock.

Mrs. Esterbrooks will go to St. Paul today to visit friends.

Ray Fox and lady friend visited his grandparents here Sunday.

G. D. Stroker and family visited Austin friends over Sunday.

A new Wheeler & Wilson sewing machine for sale at this office.

Darius B. Wood expects to return to Palatine to live next spring.

Sam Camp and wife of Chicago visited Palatine friends over Sunday.

John Jackson was a visitor at E. R. Converse's home the first of the week.

August Volkering and Miss Katzer of Hanover were married there Thursday.

Miss Adella Smith entertained Miss Mary Weighman of Evanston over Sunday.

Elegant wall paper at H. C. Matthei & Co.'s all the way from 2 to 40 cents per roll.

Irene and Grace Talbot of Arlington Heights have been absent from school this week.

John Fasse and wife will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary in Schaumburg today.

Miss Roseau and Mr. Busche were married in Emmanuel's church at Hanover Thursday.

Mrs. W. L. Smyser and Mrs. H. P. Matthei visited Mrs. Amabel Stewart in Chicago Thursday.

Pay as you go, or don't go. This means to pay your way on the train as well as anywhere else.

Charles Bogart has rented the room over THE REVIEW office, where he will live for a few months.

Horses clipped with flexible machine by R. H. Lytle at his barn in Palatine. Several years experience.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bicknase and child of Chicago visited H. P. Bicknase and family over Sunday.

Miss Grace Beutler has been in Avondale this week to keep house for her brother, his wife being ill.

Get your horses clipped by Nichols & Bennett. Flexible shaft clippers. All work neatly and promptly done.

Herman Busche and Miss Hulda Freise, second daughter of H. C. Freise, both of Schaumburg will be married there today.

Several Palatine ladies have interested themselves in a Relief Corps in Palatine and they expect to organize a good-sized society tonight.

Miss Lambert attended the Woman's Club meeting, which was held at the home of Mrs. Deitrick at Arlington Heights Wednesday afternoon.

The people of Palatine who fail to hear Rev. J. H. Alling tell his droll experiences as a Methodist preacher for over forty years will miss a fine entertainment.

Charles Julian's big dog died last week, seemingly from being fed crushed glass. The dog was a valuable one and the family had become attached to it.

M. Burkitt of Arlington Heights will be at the PALATINE REVIEW office every Thursday hereafter to fit you with eye glasses. All work guaranteed. Leave orders with A. G. Smith.

Why buy your wall paper of the paper hangers and pay twice what it is worth? H. C. Matthei & Co. have received a lot of beautiful patterns and are selling them at from 2 to 40 cents a roll.

Elmer Robertson and W. L. Hicks attended the funeral of Mr. Dymond in Chicago Thursday. The body was taken to Libertyville for interment, where several members of the family are laid to rest.

J. A. Burlingame has rented the room next to THE REVIEW office, which he will use as an office to attend to his book business. Mr. Burlingame is agent for several big Eastern publishers and has a good trade in first-class books.

Rev. J. H. Alling will deliver his lecture "Forty Years in the Circuit and Stations of Northwestern Methodism," in the Methodist church next Tuesday night. A collection will be taken. This lecture is highly spoken of and should be heard by all.

Ladies and gentlemen's shoes repaired in first-class manner by Wm. Vogel.

Ira W. Frye, the present town clerk, positively refuses to enter the race for the candidacy for that position again. Mr. Frye has served the town in this capacity for a number of years and leaves a good record for accuracy and attention to business.

Lee Bissell celebrated his birthday anniversary at his mother's home last Tuesday night. A number of friends were present and assisted in making the occasion a pleasant one. An oyster supper was served and a very pleasant evening spent.

The Ladies Aid society will hold their regular meeting in the church parlors next Wednesday at 2 o'clock. The society has recently reorganized and adopted a constitution. Work for the bazaar will now be taken up and we would be glad to have all the ladies interested in this work to come out and help.

H. C. Glade, jr., will harvest a new kind of corn this spring. Usually a farmer sows his winter wheat in the fall and cuts it in early harvest with a full crop, but Henry planted his corn late last summer and intends to harvest this spring. His crop lacks the long ears but is well seasoned. Better go back to the old way of doing things, Henry.

Playing Under Difficulties.

"The Woodmen Picnic" company, which went to Long Grove to present their drama Saturday night, knows what it is to be with a company that has busted. They started out with two covered rigs and the vehicle in which the gentlemen rode broke down about three miles from their destination. The manager, Fritz, Jed, Pete and the rest of the company got out and walked. They looked very much like a stranded concern. Another rig was obtained before reaching town, however, and their spirits rose again and so did the wind, and it kept on blowing until the opera house was in danger of blowing away. When eight o'clock arrived the house was not full, indeed, there was space left for more people than were present. The curtain arose at last, and what the audience lacked in number they made up in appreciation, for the actors were well received and much encouraged by the applause they received. If the weather had been pleasant the hall would have been packed.

When the proceeds were counted it was found that the company had just about enough to get out of town, but they went over to Mr. Zimmer's hotel where they had a nice supper and the serious condition of the treasury was forgotten. The night was so dark that it was thought best to wait until it became lighter to go over the bad roads and a good time was had in the hall until some began to wish they were home in bed, and tried in vain to catch a few winks of sleep. Early in the morning a rain storm set in that froze as it fell and the prospects were good for an all night stay. The start home was made about 6 o'clock and it was a forlorn troupe that struck town Sunday morning.

Confidence.

A man may know how to accomplish some admirable scheme, but if he does not possess the proper amount of confidence and courage, the idea will stagnate, says the Dry Good's Chronicle. Confidence is one of the most desirable qualities that a man can possess. An over-abundance of it is reason for congratulation rather than the opposite. Many of the successful ideas in life come to us second-hand. The originator of them lacks the confidence to materialize the same, and in a moment of discouragement reveals his pet idea to someone who does possess sufficient confidence to push it to success and to reap the rewards. A man may possess so much confidence in himself as to be distasteful to his friends, and yet, when his rapid strides to success are noted, we are willing to forgive his falling, and to wish that this same confidence was also an inherent quality of our own nature.

Announcements.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of collector of the village of Palatine and ask the support of my friends at the caucus.
CHRIS KUBLANG.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of village clerk and ask the support of my friends in the caucus.
A. G. SMITH.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of collector for the town of Palatine and ask the support of my friends at the republican caucus to be held next month.
CONRAD H. SCHROEDER.

REAR END COLLISION

Of C. & N.W. Freight Trains at Arlington Heights Kills Three Men.

Arlington Heights was the scene of one of the worst wrecks this division of the North-Western railway has had in a long time. A fast freight train from Baraboo, Wis., to Chicago struck a stock train that was standing on the main track ready to proceed to Chicago, after attaching another car of stock. There were nine men in the caboose of the stock train and all were more or less injured. Two of the men died soon after the accident—Gus A. Buck, a stockman of Johnson's Creek, Wis., who was injured internally, and Ed Schmidt of Palatine, who had his left leg crushed, two ribs broken and injured internally. He was taken to his brother's home. His leg was amputated five hours after the accident and he died immediately after amputation.

The injured were:

JOHN JOHNSON, trainman, seriously injured.

J. BUSCH, trainman, seriously hurt.

ED. WEBER, Richwood, Wis., slightly injured.

CHARLES STOLLEN, Janesville, Wis., spine injured. Taken to Chicago hospital.

JAMES WILSON, Fort Atkinson, Wis., fractured thigh. Taken to Chicago hospital.

ALBERT MILBRATZ, Arlington Heights, face and body badly injured.

G. W. WORTHINGTON, Oak Center, Wis., slightly injured.

The stock train left Palatine about twenty minutes ahead of the fast freight and when it reached Arlington Heights the conductor went back of the train quite a distance and signalled the on-coming freight. He received no response to his signals and the freight paid no attention to the block signals which were set against the freight. The engine struck the stock train while going at a tremendous speed and the caboose and three cars were completely destroyed and the balance of the train was driven several rods by the fast freight. No one on the fast freight was injured.

When the crash came most of the stockmen were asleep and they were crushed and thrown about in a horrible manner. The stove in the caboose set fire to the wreckage and only the prompt action of those who were first on the scene of the disaster prevented many from being burned to death. The fire bell was rung and soon many rescuers were on hand. Neighboring doctors were telegraphed for and the injured were given prompt attention. Mayor Sigwalt opened his home as a hospital, where five of the men were cared for. A number of the railroad officials visited the wreck and superintended the necessary work.

The coroner's inquest over the remains of Ed. Schmidt and G. A. Buck was held in Chicago Wednesday and the verdict was rendered by the jury there and no one was blamed for the accident.

Death of James Dymond.

James Dymond well known to the residents of this section, died in Florida last week after a short illness. He was 65 years of age and a brother-in-law of John Robertson and Silas Robertson of this village. He was among the early settlers of Lake county but of late years had made his home at Englewood excepting during the summer season when he lived at Lake Zurich. He leaves a large number of relatives in Lake and Cook counties. His early life was spent in this section of the state, his business being that of a cattle dealer, and his acquaintance extended throughout this region. He was highly regarded by a large circle of friends and associates who will read with regret this notice of his passing away.

The remains were brought to Libertyville and interred in the cemetery there Wednesday.

SMALL POX SCARE

In the Village of Lake Zurich—Chas. Wewitzer the Victim.

The neighboring village of Lake Zurich was all excitement last week and the first of the present week over the report that in the village was a case of that dread disease, small pox. Last Friday Charles Wewitzer Jr., residing on the west side of the lake, on the farm owned by Charles Wool of Barrington, was taken suddenly ill and Dr. Moffett of Palatine was summoned who pronounced the young man suffering of an attack of small pox. Sunday the board of health placed a quarantine on the house and premises and stationed guards there. Mr. Wewitzer had for some time been employed in the ice house of the Consumers Co., and for some days had complained of not feeling well but thought his ailment nothing but a severe cold, and was a badly frightened young man when the physician informed him of the disease of which he was suffering.

The attack was not in a malignant form but of sufficient importance to cause the residents of the vicinity to become alarmed and all manner of reports were circulated. It is reported that there is no danger of a spread of the disease and the authorities have given the case proper attention. Some say the case was only chicken pox, but let that be as it may the people were scared.

Pupils' Recital.

The pupils of J. I. Sears gave a public recital at the Salem church Monday afternoon and evening. The junior class program was well rendered and showed considerable genuine talent.

Miss Smith of Cary gave a recital in the afternoon at 4:15 o'clock, which was excellent. The following program was rendered:

SONATA OP. 10, NO. 1.....BEETHOVEN
MISS CORNELIA SMITH.

EVENING STAR.....WAGNER-LISZT
MISS ALICE THOMPSON.

ROMANCE OP. 21, NO. 1 EDWARD SCHUTT
GAVOTTE, F. SHARP MINOR JOHN ORTH
ALICE TRANS.....ASCHER

MISS CORNELIA SMITH.

ROMANCE.....BECKER
MISS ALICE THOMPSON.

IMPROMPTU OP. 29.....CHOPIN
VALSE, C SHARP MINOR, OP. 64, NO. 2...
ROMANZE OP. 44.....RUBENSTEIN

MISS CORNELIA SMITH.

RHAPSODIE NO. 6.....
MISS ALICE THOMPSON.

POLONEZ OP. 9, NO. 6.....PADEREWSKI
MISS CORNELIA SMITH.

At 8 o'clock the senior class gave a program and each number was a gem. Miss Mary Putnam of Palatine scored a hit in a rendition of a "Maiden's Wish," one of the best numbers on the program.

The reading by Mrs. McIntosh was most entertaining and the entire program was full of interest and proved the rapid advancement of the pupils under the instruction of Prof. Sears.

The Feminine Observer.

It takes a woman to read a woman.

Take away women—and men would follow.

Few men admire the woman who scoffs at religion.

Happy is the man who can claim some good woman for his friend.

A widow says good husbands are like dough because women need them.

The woman who has only woes to relate is not conspicuously popular with her acquaintances.

A woman says that Solomon's wisdom was due to the fact that he had 700 wives whom he consulted on all occasions.

"If a woman can bake good bread," a contemporaneous writer observes, "she has as much right to the word, artist, as a woman who paints a bad sunset."—Philadelphia Times and Chicago News.

Destructive Storm.

Last Saturday night and Sunday forenoon a storm of sleet and rain visited this section. It was accompanied by heavy wind which wrecked fences, unroofed out buildings, blew down trees, signs, telegraph, electric light and telephone wires, etc. The sleet, froze to pavements in a solid mass, rendering them treacherous for pedestrians, keeping people who were afraid to venture, in the house. The street circuit of the Electric Light company was rendered useless Saturday and Sunday nights, and the residence circuit badly crippled. This village was more fortunate than some surrounding places where the damage was great.

Contributors Wanted.

Possibly there never was a paper in any locality that gave all the news, says an exchange. It is often that some come or go that the editor does not see. It happens that a family is missed several times. They get the impression that the paper man does not care to mention them or has a grudge against them. It is a mistake. The paper has no ill feeling, no spite, no enmity against anybody. It is going to do what is right by everybody. Most people take the local paper to get the local news. Don't be afraid to tell the editor you have friends visiting you. Perhaps you think the paper shows partiality, but just try and see if it doesn't treat you right if you give it a chance.

CANADA IS PERPLEXED.

Believes United States Syndicates Will Annex Its Chief Industries. The parliament of Canada will be engaged until the end of the session in the consideration of three of the largest measures ever presented to that body since the inception of the Canadian Pacific railway scheme. James J. Hill, F. H. Clergue and other promoters engaged in securing charters will superintend operations in Ottawa. These measures are: Crow's Nest Pass Coal and Railway project, the Canadian Lloyds bill and the scheme intended to complete a new transcontinental route practically under government control and partially under government ownership. A hard problem which must be faced in the acquisition by American capitalists of the control of Canada's greatest industries. It is computed that the passing of the Sydney (Cape Breton) steel and coal interests into the hands of the American steel syndicate means, in effect, that the Canadian treasury will be called upon to pay direct tribute to the syndicate to the extent of $15,000,000 a year under the bounty law. The bounty expires in 1908, and if the trust can put out 10,000,000 tons of manufactured product in that period it will cost the Canadian taxpayers $10,000,000 in cash. The situation is thus summed up: With the Morgan-Rockefeller trust controlling the iron and coal of the Atlantic seaboard, with Hill and Rockefeller controlling the coal of the Crow's Nest Pass, with the same combination directing the Midland, the "Soo" and the Nanaimo (B. C.) enterprises, the annexation of Canada's industries will be practically complete, and Canada henceforth a mere annex of the American syndicate.

Farmers Fall Among Thieves.

Two farmers went to Chicago Thursday from Illinois towns and in the evening called on the police to explain that they had lost their money without so much as having seen the explosion. One of them, not having the means to buy a railroad ticket, started to walk home. The most hapless of the two was Herman Young, 18 years old, who lives near Joliet. Some Chicago man promised to get him employment, so he put $15 in his pocket and came to town. His kind friend met him, took him down on State street, and robbed him. Young started to walk back to Joliet, declaring he would spend the rest of his life on a farm. The other unfortunate was James Roger, 70 years old, who lives near Sterling. The other day he was seized with a sudden desire to visit friends, so he secured $10,000 in drafts and made the start. Near Chicago he was robbed of all his loose money by a gang of tramps, but he succeeded in saving the drafts. He will take them home and Ireland will have to get along without him for awhile.

Large Gift to Hadley Home.

The Indiana W. C. T. U., which some years ago established the Hadley Industrial Home through the liberality of Addison Hadley and wife of Hendricks county, Ind., has received another liberal gift. The will of Mr. Hadley, who died recently, sets aside a large portion of the estate as an endowment fund for the home, to which is added 277 acres of land, making the total holdings 387 acres.

New Illinois Electric Lines.

The Belleville Traction company has decided to build an electric line through several nearby cities, the terminus to be at Red Bud, Ill. This would give Red Bud an electric line direct to St. Louis. At the next meeting of the county board of supervisors franchises will be asked for. Land is being obtained so that the line may be built over a private right of way.

Shoots Wife and Father.

Charles Rogers, a carpenter, whose wife had left him several times because of nonsupport, went to the home of her father, Milburn Batey at Terre Haute, Ind., and shot her and her father, mortally wounding both. Two weeks ago the father-in-law caused Rogers' arrest for assault and battery. Rogers gave himself up.

Dewey Receives Prize Money.

Milton E. Alles, the new assistant secretary of the treasury, who succeeded Mr. Vanderlip, executed his first official document in his new capacity Thursday morning. He attached his signature to a warrant drawn in favor of George Dewey, admiral of the United States navy, for $9,570—prize money for the capture and destruction of the Spanish fleet at the battle of Manila bay. Had the court found that the Spanish force was superior to the American Admiral Dewey would have received twice that sum.

GEN. HARRISON IS DEAD

Ex-President Passed Away at 4:45 Yesterday.

KEEN SORROW OF FRIENDS.

Doctors Unable to Prolong His Life Until the Arrival of His Son and Daughter—Body to Lie in State—History of His Career.

Indianapolis, Ind., March 14.—Without passing out of the unconscious state in which he had lain for hours, Gen. Benjamin Harrison breathed his last at 4:45 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The death scene was an affecting one, but signs of the deep grief felt by all at the passing of the distinguished statesman were restrained, and it was not until Dr. Jameson had silently given the signal that the end had come that there was a full giving away to tears. Mrs. Harrison bore up bravely, and it was only after the final dissolution that the strain of the week's illness told. She then sank exhausted into the arms of a friend. The little daughter, Elizabeth, stood silently holding to her mother's hand and looking from the face of her mother to the pallid countenance of her dying father. Russell B. Harrison, the general's son, who was called from Washington, did not get here in time to see his father before death came. Mrs. McKee, the general's daughter, also failed to reach here in time.

Friends Called to Bedside.

Mary neighbors and close friends of the general had gathered in the downstairs rooms of the Harrison home in North Delaware street during the afternoon, knowing that the end could not be far removed. Toward 4 o'clock Dr. Jameson saw that the event that had been expected for more than twenty-four hours was soon to come, so Mrs. Harrison and those nearest to the general were notified of the true condition of affairs. The little party moved to the chamber where the general was laboring for breath. He gave no sign of recognition, but reclined in the same unconscious state that had marked his late hours of illness. The doctor bent over and spoke to him, but there was no response or sign of recognition. His respiration, which had been rapid all day, had materially increased and shortly before his death it was at the rate of sixty to the minute.

Dr. Jameson on the Last Hours.

Dr. Jameson, in speaking of the final hours of Gen. Harrison's illness, said last night: "The final hours were marked with no decided change from the condition of the whole day. At no time in the day had his mind been at all clear. I think I might say the unconscious state began last night and continued clear through to the hour of his death, only growing more profound all the time. The dissolution was marked by no particular change. He gradually grew weaker, his breathing was more labored and more rapid. It was just a gradual sinking away. The end came peacefully and without a movement of any kind. It was, in truth, difficult to tell just the exact moment when life was extinct."

Gen. Harrison's illness lasted only six days and a half. The first three days he was ill his condition was not thought to be dangerous. One week ago yesterday he walked downtown, a distance of many blocks, and called at the office of Miller & Elam, two of his old friends, one of whom, Mr. Miller, he made attorney-general during his administration. He walked home late that afternoon and in the evening made a social call at the home of Augustus L. Mason. He was apparently in the best of health and remarked while at Mrs. Mason's home that of late he had been feeling better than for a long time.

Seized with a Severe Chill.

The next morning he arose feeling as well as usual. After breakfast, however, he was seized with a severe chill. Later in the day, the effects of the chill not passing away as readily as the general thought they should, Dr. Henry Jameson was called and diagnosed the case as an attack of the grip. He thought it was due to the fact that the general in his apparent health had probably exposed himself more than he should have done. The attack was not regarded seriously. It was not until Friday that the general made any complaint that indicated an illness more serious than the grip. On Friday he complained of a pain in his left lung and it was then that his physician foresaw that there might be danger of pneumonia.

Those Who Were at the Bedside.

The group at the bedside included Mrs. Harrison, W. H. H. Miller, Samuel Miller (his son), the Rev. M. L. Haines (pastor of the First Presbyterian church, which Gen. Harrison had attended for so many years), Secretary Thibbitt, Drs. Jameson and Dorsey, Col. Dan Ransdell (sergeant-at-arms of the United States senate, and a close personal friend of the dead ex-president), Clifford Arrick and the two nurses who have been in constant attendance at the bedside. Gen. Harrison's two sisters and an aunt were also present. Mrs. Harrison knelt at the right-hand side of the bed, her husband's right hand grasped in hers, while Dr. Jameson held the left hand of the dying man, counting the feeble pulse beats. In a few moments after the friends had been summoned to the room the end came, Dr. Jameson announcing the sad fact. The great silence that fell on the sorrowing watchers by the bedside was broken by the voice of Dr. Haines raised in prayer, supplicating consolation for the bereaved wife and family, mingled with the sobs of the mourners.

Flags at Half Mast.

All the flags in the city are at half mast. Gov. Durbin, with his secretary, drove to the Harrison home as soon as he received news of the death and expressed his sympathy with the sorrowing family.

Body to Lie in State.

In the afternoon it was decided at a meeting of Gov. Durbin with a number of the other state officers that the body of Gen. Harrison should lie in state in the rotunda of the capitol all day next Saturday.

Gen. Harrison's Wealth.

Gen. Harrison's wealth is variously estimated, public opinion rating it as high as $500,000. Those who are best informed about the ex-president's affairs, however, say he was worth about $250,000 or $300,000. At the time he was elected president he was reputed to have accumulated a fortune of $125,000 from his law practice, and this has been doubled at least since that time. Of late his practice, owing to his great reputation as a constitutional lawyer, was very lucrative. His fee in the Venezuelan boundary dispute, in which he represented the South American republic, was $100,000.

Official Mourning Prohibited.

Washington, D. C., March 14.—Deep interest was exhibited in all of the executive departments throughout the day in the reports that came as to the condition of ex-President Harrison. As office hours had closed for the day before the end came, the first official action regarding the death was deferred until today, when, following precedents, President McKinley will issue his proclamation to the people, notifying them of Gen. Harrison's death and setting out in becoming terms his virtues and characteristics. He also will order salutes to be fired at the various army posts, the day of the funeral and on shipboard when the news is received. Little more can be done officially, as the act of March 3, 1893, specifically forbids the draping of public buildings in mourning or the closing of the executive departments on the occasion of the death of an ex-official.

McKinley to Attend the Funeral.

President McKinley will go to the funeral of Gen. Harrison and will probably leave over the Pennsylvania railroad at 7:20 o'clock Thursday evening. He will be accompanied by Secretary Cortelyou and expects to stop over one night at Canton. No arrangements have yet been made for any members of the cabinet to accompany him. The president sent a telegram of condolence to Mrs. Harrison last night.

Tributes from Public Men.

Public men of all political parties were quick to express regret at the death of Gen. Harrison. Among the many expressions of admiration for the dead ex-president were the following:

Grover Cleveland—"I am exceedingly moved by the sad intelligence of Mr. Harrison's death, for, notwithstanding the late discouraging reports of his condition, I hoped his life might yet be spared. Not one of our countrymen should for a moment fail to realize the services which have been performed in their behalf by the distinguished dead. In high public office he was guided by patriotism and devotion to duty, often at the sacrifice of temporary popularity, and in private station his influence and example were always in the direction of decency and good citizenship. Such a career, and the incidents related to it should leave a deep and useful impression upon every section of our national life."

Thomas B. Reed—"No one could doubt the great intellectual force of Gen. Harrison, or the strength of his character. These attributes always gave him command of the confidence of the nation."

William Jennings Bryan—"Former President Harrison was respected by his political opponents as a clean, conscientious and able statesman. Those who differed from him could criticize his politics, but they could not attack his motives. His conduct since his retirement from office was such as to strengthen his hold upon public esteem. The death of such a citizen is a distinct loss to the country."

Gen. Harrison's Career.

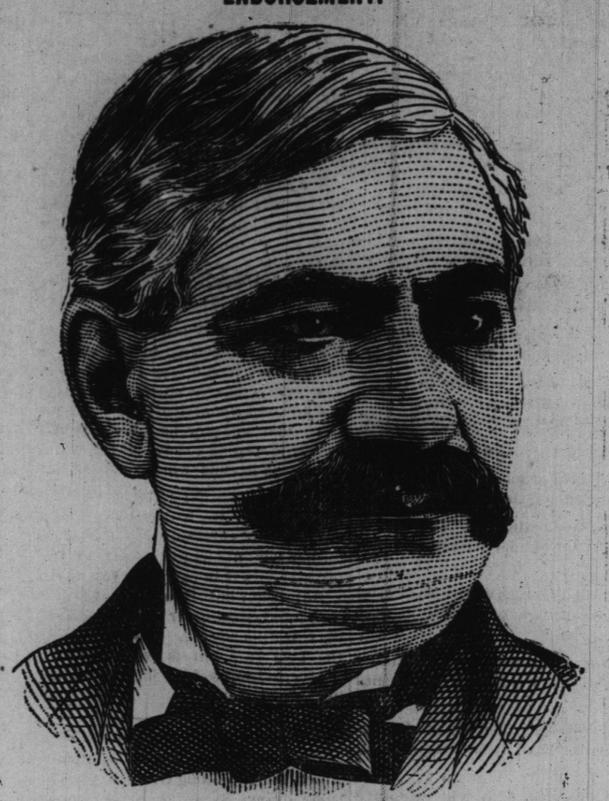

Benjamin Harrison was born in North Bend, Ohio, August 20, 1833. He is a grandson of Gen. William H. Harrison, and was born at his grandfather's house. Benjamin was trained on his father's farm, and in 1852 was graduated at Miami university. He studied law in Cincinnati, and in 1854, Mr. Harrison located at Indianapolis, which ever since has been his home. In 1880 General Harrison was chosen for United States senator, which office he held until March 3, 1887. At the national Republican convention, held at Chicago in 1888, he was nominated by his party for president, and subsequently elected. In 1892 he was again nominated for the presidency on the Republican ticket, but was defeated by Grover Cleveland. Subsequently he was prominent in some celebrated law-suits, notably as counsel in the Venezuelan matter, and earned some of the largest fees ever paid to an attorney. His wife died at the White House in 1892, and Mr. Harrison was married to her niece, Mrs. Dimmick in 1895. By the latter union there has been one child. Gen. Harrison was prominently before the public last winter on the lecture platform, his most remarkable speech being the one delivered at Ann Arbor, Mich.

CATARRH THIRTY YEARS.

A Remarkable Experience of a Prominent Statesman.

CONGRESSMAN MEEKISON GIVES PE-RU-NA A HIGH ENDORSEMENT.

CONGRESSMAN MEEKISON, OF OHIO.

Hon. David Meekison is well known, not only in his own State, but throughout America. He began his political career by serving four consecutive terms as Mayor of the town in which he lives, during which time he became widely known as the founder of the Meekison Bank of Napoleon, Ohio. He was elected to the Fifty-fifth Congress by a very large majority, and is the acknowledged leader of his party in his section of the State.

Only one flaw marred the otherwise complete success of this rising statesman. Catarrh with its insidious approach and tenacious grasp, was his only unconquered foe. For thirty years he waged unsuccessful warfare against this personal enemy. At last Pe-ru-na came to the rescue, and he dictated the following letter to Dr. Hartman as the result: "I have used several bottles of Pe-ru-na and feel greatly benefited thereby from my catarrh of the head. I feel encouraged to believe that if I use it a short time longer I will be able to fully eradicate the disease of thirty years' standing. Yours truly, "David Meekison."

Many people can tolerate slight catarrhal affections. A little hoarseness, a slight cough, a cold in the head, or a trifling derangement of the digestive organs, do not much disturb the average person in his business. But this is not true of the public speaker or stage artist. His voice must always be clear, lungs perfect, digestion undisturbed. Hence the popularity of Pe-ru-na among the leading actors and actresses of this country. They have come to regard Pe-ru-na as indispensable to their success. Their profession is so exacting that it requires a perfect health in every particular. They regard Pe-ru-na as their friend and safeguard. Many letters are received from this class of people. Miss Carrie Thomas, in speaking of Pe-ru-na, says: "I have used Pe-ru-na with splendid results. Would not be without it. No money would hire me to have a settled cold or chronic cough, or hoarseness. Catarrh is the most dreadful thing that could happen to one of my profession. Pe-ru-na is my shield and protector against this most undesirable disease."—Carrie Thomas.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Pe-ru-na, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Exporting Zinc to Europe. Contracts have just been made for the exportation to Europe of 50,000 tons of high grade zinc ore from the mining district of Missouri and Kansas. Zinc ore has been growing scarce in Europe for several years, while the district in question has been yielding more than American smelters could handle. The disposal of the surplus in Europe will tend to keep up prices.

A Remedy for the Grippe. Physicians recommend KEMP'S BALSAM for patients afflicted with the grippe, as it is especially adapted for the throat and lungs. Don't wait for the first symptoms, but get a bottle today and keep it on hand for the moment it is needed. If neglected, the grippe brings on pneumonia. KEMP'S BALSAM prevents this by keeping the cough loose and the lungs free from inflammation. All druggists, 25c and 50c.

DIAZ REPORTED INSANE.

Soldier and Statesman Kept in Seclusion.

HE FEARS ASSASSINATION.

Mental Malady Partly Due to Arroyo's Attempt on His Life and Subsequent Discovery of a Political Plot—Nature of Malady.

"President Diaz will never rule Mexico again," said a prominent army officer and a close friend of the president, the other day, "for he is insane and the doctors have no hope of his recovery."

Rumors of a like nature have been in the city ever since the president hurriedly left the capital two months ago without giving any official notice of his departure. It is now pretty generally believed he was hurried out of the city by those close to him to keep from the public the fact that his mind was badly affected.

One of the doctors attendant upon General Diaz said a few days ago that the old man appears quite childish, and that the strong will that made a nation out of a disorganized conglomeration of states peopled by robbers, cut-throats and political intriguers, has completely broken down and left the old man as helpless as a child. All there is left of his former strong self is his obstinate refusal to come back to Chapultepec castle. A member of the legislature and a man who has been in close touch with the president for years, said this week: "The present malady of General Diaz commenced to show itself in slight eccentricities some three or four years ago when an attempt was made upon his life by a drunken tailor named Arroyo. At the time the general public attached no great importance to this incident, nor did they think the president did. But the event had a significance which the public did not see, for Arroyo was but the tool in the hands of others who wished to get Diaz out of the way so that another prominent official might become president."

Let Bullfight Go Unchecked.

Ever since the bull ring opened at Nice a few weeks ago the people have been longing for an exhibition more exciting than is allowed by the government regulations. Their desire was gratified Sunday, when, without interference by the authorities, a large crowd witnessed an exhibition calculated to satisfy the most callous and bloodthirsty. The bulls tortured were splendid creatures and fought gamely. One tossed a Spanish matador named Robert, who, however, was little hurt. Another matador was badly gored in the groin. Three horses, wretched, blindfolded starvelings, were disemboweled.

Lynching Is Threatened.

The people of Carthage, Miss., are growing impatient over the prolonged trial of nine persons, including one white man and two negro women, accused of the murder of the Gamble family of five persons near Conway, Miss., Oct. 8, and threaten to avenge the crime by lynching. In the event that the prisoners are not all convicted and legally executed Carthage will see a wholesale lynching.

Fear Harrison May Die.

Former President Benjamin Harrison's condition at Indianapolis continues to cause alarm to his family and the fear grows that the statesman has been stricken with his illness. Dr. Jameson has stated that the upper part of General Harrison's left lung is inflamed. There is some danger of the congestion extending to the rest of the lung and to the right lung.

Harrison Family Abandons Hope.

The family and immediate friends of General Harrison, as well as the physicians in charge, Wednesday morning abandoned all hope of his recovery.

Texas Boy Killed in a Duel.

W. J. Stevenson of Dallas, Tex., has received information from Denver that his son, W. I. H. Stevenson, had been killed in a duel in Colorado. Mr. Stevenson says it was a duel with pistols between his son and a Denver man named Frederick Liebrecht. The latter was not hit, but killed young Stevenson at the first fire. The cause of the duel lay in Liebrecht's conduct toward Mrs. Stevenson, who was formerly Miss Myrtle Winchell of Lawrence, Kan. Stevenson, before going to Colorado, was in the service of a Texas railway company. His body was taken home for burial.

War Upon Migratory Hoboes.

Chief Detective Rank of the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern railroad secret service has begun a systematic warfare on the swarms of hoboes who infest the trains of the company. On the Elkhart-Chicago end of the system detectives ride part of the way on every freight train and wholesale arrests are being made. The effect is being noticed in the drift of the green line sleeper patrons to other roads. The chief detective states that the force of secret service men on the line will be increased during the Pan-American Exposition this summer.

Wolter Held to Grand Jury.

Ernest J. Wolter, the Schuyler, Neb., merchant, was held at Omaha under bonds of $2,000 to appear before the federal grand jury on the charge of having attempted to blackmail United States Senator Kearns of Utah. Wolter was arraigned before United States Commissioner Anderson, and after his preliminary hearing returned to Schuyler. He denied that he is guilty, and added: "The case may look bad upon its face, but I have no misgivings as to the outcome. There are other parties in this. That's all I care to say at present."

British Steamer Is Lost.

The British steamer Avlona, Capt. Lenox, has been wrecked at the Bilbao, Spain, breakwater. The twenty-one persons on board were lost. The last obtainable reports of the movement of the steamer Avlona show her to have left Santander Feb. 12 and arrived at Troon Feb. 17. She was of 1,140 tons net register, 284 feet long, 34½ feet beam and 24 feet deep. She was built at Dundee in 1880 and was owned by the Avlona Steamship company of Ayr.

Bloodless Riot in Porto Rico.

A serious riot occurred at San Juan de Porto Rico. At 6 o'clock in the evening five artillerymen and a corporal of artillery named Hiscock left their guard post without orders and charged across the plaza into a street in which a mob of people had been assembled. The soldiers fired a volley into the air, dispersed the mob and rescued School Superintendent Armstrong, who was besieged by the mob in a house situated about a block from the city center.

Wife Tired of Living.

After writing a note in which she bade her husband good-by and said she would rest under the fatal spell of a drug, Mrs. Altha Flynn, No. 9305 Commercial avenue, Chicago, drank a quantity of morphine, which resulted in her death. The message, which she left on a table in her room, read: "Well, John, I am tired of living. Will take a dose that will put me to sleep."

Did Not Threaten Denmark.

An emphatic denial is given at the state department to the statement published in a London newspaper to the effect that the United States government has addressed a note "almost threatening in tone" to the Danish government, declaring that it will not permit a transfer of the Danish West Indies to any foreign power.

Acquittal in Murder Case.

The trial of Elmer E. Clark, charged with the murder of Harry Ball, ended in the Menard county (Ill.) Circuit court Tuesday, the jury, after deliberating two hours, returning a verdict of "not guilty."

THE ILLINOIS LEGISLATURE.

Work in Both Houses at Springfield.

REPORT OF THE PROCEEDINGS.

Donnor Introduces a Bill Prohibiting Railroad Companies from Requiring Trainmen to Give More Than Twelve Hours Continuous Service.

Wednesday, March 6.

The sub-committee of the house appropriations committee appointed to visit the Bartonville Insane Asylum recommends a reduction of $100,000 in the amount asked for this institution. The original amount asked for in the two bills was $204,574.92. The committee recommends $104,574.92. The item of $317,000 for new buildings and furniture and the purchase of land is eliminated altogether. The house committee on appropriations made a deduction of $69,500 in the amount asked for the Asylum for Feeble-Minded Children at Lincoln. The committee on judicial department and practices reported favorably upon Mr. McConnell's bill amending the law in regard to wills by providing that charitable bequests shall be made void unless the will by which they are made is executed at least thirty days prior to the death of the testator.

Thursday, March 7.

Capt. Farrell put in a bill which, if it should pass, would make it a state crime for any one to sell coal oil, kerosene, gasoline or naphtha for fuel purposes. The bill prohibits the sale of combustible oils for fuel purposes and carries heavy penalties for violations. Capt. Farrell says he introduced the bill because a large proportion of the fires in the state are due to the use of gasoline and kerosene for fuel purposes. Should the bill pass users of oil stoves who use gasoline, gasoline engines and gasoline, naphtha and steam automobiles would have to go back to coal, gas and electricity.

Friday, March 8.

Less than a dozen members were present in the house, and after a brief session presided over by Representative Brown of Randolph an adjournment was taken until 5 p. m. Monday. The following bills were introduced: By Riess, providing that in prosecutions against corporations under the anti-trust law the officers of such corporations may be compelled to bring books and documents into court as evidence, but providing that such evidence shall not be used in any prosecution against them as individuals; also a bill providing that the sales of land made for delinquent taxes under the drainage act shall be made either at the court house or on the land sold, at the discretion of the commissioners. By Jones of Cook, a bill to allow witnesses for the defense to testify before grand juries. Senator Underbark held a session of the state senate without the aid of any other member of that body. After the reading of the journal he declared the senate adjourned until Monday.

Monday, March 11.

The bill granting to the John Creger Library a site on the lake front in Chicago was the first introduced when the house re-assembled for this week. Representative Farrell offered it. The same thing will be put before the senate tomorrow. Representative Trautman has put into the form of a bill and introduced the resolution offered some time ago at the suggestion of Speaker Sherman for a commission to revise and codify the school laws of Illinois. The proposed commission is made to consist of seven members, instead of five, and the president of the State Normal University at Normal and the county superintendent of schools of Cook County, as well as the state superintendent and president of the state university, are made ex-officio members of the commission.

Tuesday, March 12.

Representative Robert G. Hammond in the house introduced a bill for the protection of discharged employes by providing against the system of blacklisting and all other methods whereby workers might be debarred from obtaining other employment. This portion of the bill, which it is believed, would be unavailing, is rendered important by the third section of the measure, which provides that every employe, when at person or corporation, upon discharge shall be given the written cause of discharge showing the reason for such action and providing penalties for the refusal to give such written cause or, having given it, to use it to the detriment of the employe.

NOTES OF THE SESSION.

Representative George E. Apsley of Chicago is engaged in drawing up a bill which if it should be passed through the assembly will provide for a suitable reward for any member of the police or fire department of Chicago who has become conspicuous for any especially meritorious act of bravery. The measure amends the merit law in such a manner as to promote without examination or reward to seniority of service any employe who shall appear to be worthy of this special honor. Mr. Apsley points out that a great injustice is done in these departments in that as the law at present stands there is no way by which a man who has become specially prominent by acts of bravery may be properly rewarded save by an examination and, therefore, any man who is not sufficiently educated to pass the theoretical test must remain in obscurity. It is generally expected that the bill will pass, as there is a strong sentiment in the house in its favor.

Representative Christian's house bill, prepared by the citizens' education committee of Chicago, amends the school law. The bill provides that in cities having a population exceeding 100,000 inhabitants the board of education shall consist of nine members, to be appointed by the mayor. The portions of the law relating to the care and expenditure of school funds is not materially changed, but is made more specific.

Senator Pemberton has introduced a bill designed to provide state supervision for title guarantee companies. It requires a deposit with the state auditor of $5,000 for companies outside of Cook and of $2,000 for companies in Cook county; also for a reserve and indemnity fund of $25,000 outside of Cook and of $100,000 in Cook.

Representative Christian introduced in the house a primary election bill which was prepared by the Civic Federation of the city of Chicago. The bill entirely remodels the existing primary election law and is intended to meet its defects. It provides, among other things, that a primary district shall include not more than 700 voters of any one party, and that when such primary districts are established they shall remain until a change is necessitated by law. Persons serving as judges and clerks in primary elections will not be eligible for delegates or alternate delegates.

Mr. Young's amending law in elections for drainage commissioners has been introduced.

Priest Ends His Existence.

Dependent over his recent discharge from the Duluth diocese, Rev. Francis Budzyski, a Roman Catholic priest, shot himself in the heart in a hotel at Minneapolis, and died before aid could reach him. He had tried asphyxiation, but the odor of gas was noted and his attempt frustrated. He fired two shots at himself, while two bellboys stood outside the door waiting for him. He had on his person a letter from Bishop McGrick dispensing with his services. Two other letters were found, one addressed to a brother in Elmira, N. Y., and the other to a waitress in a Minneapolis restaurant.

French in Fight at Tuat.

A dispatch has been received at Algiers from General Serviere announcing that another engagement has been fought between the French punitive expedition, consisting of French and Algerian troops, and the Moroccan Berbers, in the district Timoun, oasis of Tuat, in which the tribesmen were dispersed with great loss. The French expedition lost two French officers and twenty-three men, including four Frenchmen, killed, and had many others wounded.

Palmer's Cashier Arrested.

Walter O'Hill, cashier of Edmund Palmer's defunct Ashley bank, against whom two warrants were issued last week charging him with being an accessory to Palmer in the embezzlement of the bank funds, was arrested at Nashville, Ill., and given a preliminary hearing before Justice Munding. He waived examination, and was placed under $20,000 bonds to appear before the April term of the Washington county circuit court.

Missing Cashier of Bank Insane.

Mrs. Charles A. Johnson, wife of the cashier of the First National bank of Niles, Mich., which closed its doors last Friday, has returned from Chicago. She has talked with no one except W. W. Stevens, son-in-law of Bank President W. K. Lacey, Mr. Stevens, who is a director and one of the heaviest stockholders in the suspended bank, says Johnson is in Chicago in the care of one of his brothers and that he is insane.

Big Starch Factory Burns.

The largest corn starch factory in the United States, which is located in Kankakee, Ill., was destroyed by fire Tuesday, the fire being caused by an explosion in the packing department. The plant was owned by the Fisher Starch company, and had been in operation about one year and the buildings covered about five acres of ground. The loss is about $300,000; insurance, $200,000.

Stabbed at Sweetheart's Side.

Warren Hayes was stabbed and seriously wounded by a jealous rival in St. Louis while he was talking to Miss Birdie Russell in the doorway of her home. Miss Russell refuses to give the name of Hayes' assailant and to all questions asked as to his identity she says "love has sealed her lips." The knife blade penetrated the fleshy part of his arm, but no arteries were severed.

Pancakes Cause Trouble.

Because his wife wanted to feed him on pancakes Alfred Grogan of Paterson, N. J., became angry and tried to choke her by stuffing the pancakes down her throat. She was nearly dead when neighbors who heard her struggles rushed in and rescued her. Grogan said that pancakes were no food for a man who had to work hard. He was arrested.

To Unveil the Logan Statue.

It has been arranged that the equestrian statue of General Logan in Washington shall be unveiled with appropriate ceremonies Tuesday, April 9. All the regular troops in Washington and probably the District National Guard, will participate in the exercises. The president will attend with his cabinet and probably will make a short address.

Woman Fagin in the Tolls.

Sam Lee, a Chinaman, and Victoria Hyleska, 18 years old, were prisoners Thursday at the West Chicago avenue police station, Chicago, charged with abduction. The girl is said to be a woman Fagin, who instructs young girls in the art of shoplifting. A quantity of goods was recovered at 350 North Carpenter street, where the girl lives.

Cuban Postal Thief Punished.

John Sheridan, formerly in charge of the money order department of the Havana postoffice, who was arrested Jan. 20, charged with the theft of $1,300, sent from the postmaster at Guantanamo, Dec. 26, has been sentenced at Havana to two years' imprisonment and to pay a fine of $1,300 the amount of his defalcation.

Sprague Goes to Asylum.

Charles F. Sprague, the multimillionaire and ex-congressman representing the eleventh Massachusetts district, is an inmate of McLean insane hospital at Waverly. His term in congress expired last Monday and he was driven to the asylum at dusk on Wednesday, accompanied by his valet and a hospital attendant.

Hetty Green Loses Suit.

Judge Fuller issued a decree in the probate court at Taunton, Mass., in the matter of the disputed accounts connected with the estate of Edward Mott Robinson of New York, in which Mrs. Hetty Green appeared as an objector. The decree allows the disputed accounts, which show receipts and payments of about $500,000 and no balance in this state. The objections which had been filed to an item in a prior account by Mrs. Green were overruled. The case now goes to the supreme court.

A WEEK IN ILLINOIS

RECORD OF HAPPENINGS FOR SEVEN DAYS.

Fly-Wheel of Steam-Saw Outfit Bursts, Killing One Man and Injuring Two Others—Bold Robbery at Duquoin—Chicago Banks Show Gains.

Carnegie Gives to Libraries.

Andrew Carnegie has given to Rockford $60,000 for a public library building on condition that a suitable site be furnished and $8,000 a year pledged by the city council for its maintenance. These terms will be met. Mayor W. O. Jones of Lincoln received a letter from Mr. Carnegie stating that he will be glad to give that city $25,000 for the erection of a public library building providing the city furnish a suitable site and agree to maintain the library at a cost of not less than $2,500 a year. The conditions have been met. Mr. Carnegie has increased his donation for a public library building at Springfield from $60,000 to $75,000. The city council has passed an ordinance appropriating $11,000 per annum for library purposes, contingent upon receiving $100,000 from Mr. Carnegie.

Two Men Crushed to Death.

The hoisting machinery of a freight elevator at the Moline Plow company's factory broke, at Moline, and twenty-five men fell two stories. Upon the crowd of men huddled upon the platform 8x12 feet at the bottom of the shaft, four 100-pound counterpoise weights fell. The dead are: Arvid J. Burgston, 21 years, single, back of skull crushed and died instantly; Edward Swanson, 25, single, internal injuries, from which he died two hours afterward. Seven men were injured. The men were being taken from the second to third floor when control was lost, and they fell to the basement. Four sections of the balance weight were thrown from their guideway and fell from the top of the building, three stories.

Fast Train Nearly Wrecked.

That a fast passenger train on the Big Four was not wrecked and hundreds of lives lost is regarded as almost miraculous. The heavy train pulled into Litchfield late and Engineer King sent the engine around the sharp curves and bends into Hillsboro at a mile-a-minute rate of speed, making up a portion of the lost time. When the signal to leave Hillsboro came the engine refused to move. Investigation proved that the pony trucks containing the two head wheels of the engine were missing and the tire of a big driving wheel was almost dislodged. Later the missing trucks were found near Litchfield, proving that they had become dislodged while the train was at high speed.

Chicago Banks Show Gains.

The auditor has issued a statement showing the aggregate resources and liabilities of the state banks in Chicago at the opening of business Feb. 25, together with a comparison with the statement of Dec. 14. Loans and discounts amount to $97,639,375, an increase of $2,216,022; United States bonds show an increase of $315,242; other bonds of $2,244,257. The increase in the amount due from national banks is $7,008,608, while the sum due from state banks decreased $2,668,929. Gold coin increased $246,704, and gold certificates $1,663,865. The surplus funds show an increase of $2,665,090. Undivided profits decreased $2,531,313. Savings deposits are $60,169,893, an increase of $3,271,580.

Circular Saw's Run Is Fatal.

As a result of the bursting of the fly-wheel of a steam-saw outfit on the farm of Charles Nelson, ten miles west of Galesburg, Henry Griffe is dead and George Paul, Levi Young and the latter's son are severely injured. The saw was in full operation, with Griffe as engineer, while the other men were at the woodpile two rods distant. A twenty-five pound fragment of the wheel struck one of Griffe's legs and knocked it off. The breaking of the wheel revealed the large circular saw from its bearings, and in its revolutions around the lot it struck Paul, cutting off his leg, and knocked the Youngs down.

Woman May Die of Burns.

While Mrs. Ord Hostetler, wife of a prominent farmer near Lovington, was replenishing an air-tight heater, her dress was drawn in the stove and caught fire. She fought desperately to extinguish the flames and was terribly burned. If she lives her hands will have to be amputated. The dress of a neighbor who ran to her aid caught fire and both would have perished but for assistance.

Bold Robbery at Duquoin.

Robbers broke into the jewelry store of Henry Croessmann of Duquoin, taking watches, rings and other articles valued at $890. The robbery was committed while Mr. Croessmann was at luncheon. There is no clew to the robbers.

Eight Council for Public Ownership.

The city council of Elgin has put itself squarely on record as being in favor of municipal ownership of public utilities. At its last meeting resolutions favoring the stand taken by the aldermen of Chicago on this question were adopted without a dissenting vote.

LIVING PARACHUTES.

Habits and General Characteristics of the Flying Squirrel.

If there is a four-footed animal in the New England woods which is entitled to the name of "gentleman" in the best sense of the term that animal is the flying squirrel. Though the smallest member of his family hereabouts, as a woodsman he is without a superior. Of course when it comes to tree climbing and traveling through the tops of closely grown trees the gray squirrel is simply magnificent. But in the open woods, where the trees stand further apart, the flying squirrel has a decided advantage, for he can just sail through the air from one tree trunk to another. His appearance is in keeping with his character. The soft, velvety fur of his upper parts is of an inconspicuous shade of gray and the under parts are white. The black eyes are very large and prominent, the whiskers dark and long, and the general expression of the face good natured, but earnest. The claws are much curved and as sharp as fishhooks. But the most peculiar parts of his anatomy are the membranes by which he is enabled to make his long distance flights, or rather sails (for flying squirrels do not really fly) through the air. These membranes, one on each side of the body, extend from the wrist of the forefoot, to the wrist of the hind foot, and are formed by the extension of the skin of both the upper and lower parts. Consequently, though quite thin, they are of double thickness. They are covered with short fur both above and below. When not in use these membranes are inconspicuous, for, being elastic, they contract, forming an irregular ridge along each side. When the squirrel wishes to "fly" he springs into the air from the upper part of a tree, and by spreading his legs as wide as he can, stretches the membranes taut, like the covering of an open umbrella. On this natural parachute he is able to sail for a considerable distance, but always from a high point to a lower one. His tail also is well adapted to this mode of traveling, for, instead of being bushy, like those of other squirrels, it is flat, like a feather. Some flying squirrels build nests of leaves in the treetops, but most of them live in holes in the trunks and branches. The last year's nest of a downy woodpecker makes an ideal home for a flying squirrel, and if the tree happens to stand in a swamp it is not likely to remain long without a tenant.

HOMICIDE THROUGH SNEEZING

Now Said That Person Who Coughs Disseminates Disease.

Dr. Hermann Koeniger, a German scientist, has for some time been trying to find out what becomes of the germs that are released when a person speaks, coughs and sneezes, and from the conclusions at which he has arrived M. Henri de Barville, a French scientist, feels justified in claiming that a person may by simply sneezing commit homicide, according to the St. Louis Star. "Dr. Koeniger," he says "has clearly proved that a person who speaks, coughs and sneezes in a room in which there is no appreciable current of air disseminates germs to a distance of more than seven meters, and that these germs are carried in all directions, and even to a height of more than two meters. As few persons talk alike, the germs disseminated by speech vary greatly, some of them remaining in suspension for an hour, and others only for a quarter of an hour, the latter being especially the case when there is even a slight current of air. On the other hand, germs are very quickly disseminated by coughing and sneezing, and the smaller the microbes are the further they are likely to spread. Among such tiny microbes are those of influenza and the plague, whereas among the larger ones are those of tuberculosis and diphtheria. Evidently, therefore, the danger is greatest whenever there is the greatest number of microbes within a person's mouth. In view of Dr. Koeniger's discovery it will be well for every one to keep as far away as possible from persons who cough and sneeze."

Uncle Sam's Submarine Navy.

It is expected that the six submarine torpedo boats of the Holland type will be ready for commission by April or May next. It is generally agreed that men who enlist for service in the navy should not be assigned to such dangerous work as that of operating submarine boats without their consent, and the navigation bureau will recommend that special service enlistments for these vessels be authorized. It is also recommended that men assigned to submarine boat duty receive additional pay.

Reported as a Levee.

Dr. Mary Walker, clad in imported tweeds, with trousers turned up and a fancy pin in her four-in-hand scarf, held a levee in a downtown New York building the other day. One bibulous caller slapped the doctor on the back and invited her out to "take something." Dr. Mary said, with asperity: "You are no gentleman," to which the man replied: "Neither are you," and the levee went to pieces there and then.

The Great Chicago Fire.

The great Chicago fire began on the night of October 8, 1871. It was caused by the overturning of a lamp in a barn in De Koven street. It is recorded that 17,450 buildings were destroyed, 98,500 persons were rendered homeless and 250 persons lost their lives. The money loss is stated to have been over $200,000,000.

THE NEVSKY PROSPECT IN ST. PETERSBURG, RUSSIA.

On Wednesday last, while the people of the Russian capital were celebrating the anniversary of the emancipation of the slaves, some students became so enthusiastic that the police presumed them to be rioters. Before the real facts became known to the city authorities, some mounted police are alleged to have charged on a crowd, but this the officers deny. The excitement soon subsided. No one was reported injured.

Casualties in Philippines.

General MacArthur's latest casualty list is as follows: Killed—Sept. 20, San Miguel de Mayumo, Luzon, company A, 35th infantry, Charles A. Baker; March 3, near Silang, Luzon, company D, 46th infantry, Sergeant Walter A. Gilmore. Wounded—Jan. 4, Mount Lemog, Luzon, company E, 47th infantry, Corporal Thomas L. Casey, wounded in arm, serious; Feb. 24, San Vicente, Luzon, Troop F, 3d cavalry, Charles W. Larzelers, wounded in thigh, moderate.

No Hope for Younger Boys.

The proposed Minnesota parole law, by which it was hoped to secure the freedom of the Younger brothers, has been so loaded with amendments that it kills all hope that the prisoners will ever get out of the penitentiary. The debate over this bill was extremely bitter. Many of the older members participated in the chase after the bandits after the Northfield bank robbery and they were sternly opposed to opening the prison doors under any pretext.

MILBET. LANEY, Editor and Publisher.

SATURDAY, MARCH 16, 1901.

A recent letter from Rome in the Philadelphia Ledger states that the pope's income for 1900 amounted to $4,375,000, nearly two-thirds of which was income from securities and Peter's pence. The expense account of the holy father for the same year is figured at $1,000,000, of which $483,000 represented salaries. The remainder of the account includes the expense of keeping up the Vatican, the repairs at St. Peter's, charities and contingent expenditures and losses. The most notable item in this account is the personal expenses of the pope himself, which amount to $2,500, showing that he lives a simple life. There will be a balance of over $3,000,000 to be added to the contingent fund, which now amounts to over $30,000,000, a large part of which is in American securities. The satisfactory condition of the papal income shows that Leo XIII is a more thrifty man and a better financier than his predecessor.

Some Chicago women have apparently caught the Carrie Nation fever and begun a campaign of wreckage against drug stores on the ground that medicines are unnecessary. That women pretending to ordinary respectability and intelligence should engage in such performances is almost unbelievable and is quite unaccountable, except on the theory that the contagious example of Mrs. Nation has caused a species of mania among her admirers. The Chicago affair is a sharp reminder that when lovely woman stoops to folly she is generally resolved to outdo all recorded efforts of masculine humanity in the same direction.

Lives are saved by making the egress from theaters easy, but many more could be saved if theaters could be kept from overheating. When an audience leaves a theater, it is generally in a perspiration, which is increased by overcoats and wraps. It is remarkable that everybody is not made ill by such conditions. The theater that makes itself entirely safe as well as comfortable ought to be the rule.

The Wisconsin legislator who introduced a bill in the state legislature offering an annual pension to the mothers of large families evidently believed Napoleon Bonaparte's statement that "the greatest woman in France" was the mother of the most children.

Novel Use For His Fodder.

"I have heard of some strange and curious expedients that have been used to clear the tracks in cases of railroad wrecks," said a well known railroad official recently, "but the methods used on a small railroad not far from Baltimore a few years ago to clear the tracks and incidentally save a fine engine from serious damage were the most original I ever heard of."

"The wreck had been caused by ice forming on the rail from an overflowing tank near the trestle. The train had two engines. The first engine and the cars had run out on the trestle and dropped over. The rear engine was left standing half sideways on the trestle, which was 30 feet high. It seemed as if the touch of a man's hand would cause it to topple over, and it blocked the road, which was only single tracked, and the wrecking car with its derrick could not be used. If we only had something soft to drop it on and then hoist it back," said one official, "we could manage all right."

"This remark gave a farmer of the neighborhood an idea. He offered to sell his big stock of corn fodder. The plan was to pile the fodder from the ground underneath the trestle to within a few feet of the track and then topple the engine over. The plan worked well, and owing to the elasticity of the fodder the engine was not damaged in the least."—Baltimore Sun.

Protecting American Dairy Interests.
The Dulliver amendment to the agricultural appropriation bill adopted by the senate takes a commendable step toward preserving the foreign markets for American dairymen. Senator Dulliver's proposition is for a rigid inspection of all dairy products intended for export. Its purpose is to prevent butter imitations from being shipped abroad as genuine butter, only to be rejected after trial and test by the foreign consumer. One of the most urgent complaints against the present practice of the makers and exporters of butter imitations is that they do not hesitate to ship their goods abroad in the name of the genuine dairy product, thus depreciating the value of the latter in the foreign market. By the use of a double export pall cover and other cunning devices the makers of artificial products have been enabled to avoid detection as the goods are being sent abroad. Under a proper system of government inspection it ought to be impossible to send out of the country any article of an artificial nature branded as natural, and it ought, furthermore, to be possible to prevent such adulterations as will eventually destroy the foreign market for all classes of goods, whether pure or not, which fall in the least degree under suspicion. It is hard enough to capture the foreign market at best and more difficult still to hold it in the face of the opposition of foreign governments without the handicap of fraudulent practices which serve to destroy confidence abroad in the integrity of American products.

In view of the recommendations sent to congress by the president for rewarding the naval heroes who destroyed Cervera's fleet in Santiago harbor, there is special interest in the publication just made by the editor of The Naval Service Gazette of a conversation which he had with Rear Admiral, then Commodore, Schley on board the Brooklyn the day after the battle. When congratulated on the thoroughness of his achievement, as evidenced by the smoking wrecks along the Cuban coast, the commodore disclaimed his right to any special credit for what he called simply the performance of his duty, but he did not hesitate to express his joy at the chance which had brought him the opportunity to fight and win a great battle. "I am thankful," he added, "that it found us prepared and that we did our work so well that there can be no dispute as to where the victory lies." A moment later the visitor said, "You'll get a substantial reward for yesterday's work," and then inquired, "If you could name your own reward, what would you have from the president and congress?" After the commodore had declared that it was not for him to measure the value of what had been done he continued: "I would suggest this as a good and sufficient reward: Let the president or congress have struck off bronze medals commemorating the victory. Let one be given to every officer and man who participated in the battle, one of these medals to go to me. I would value it highly. You know, I don't believe in special medals of gold and silver. Just plain bronze medals, for all alike. Then there is one more reward which I would like. It would mean much to me. It is 'the thanks of congress by name.' That's all I expect, all I hope for. With it and my own consciousness of duty done I shall be satisfied." The editor of The Naval Service Gazette asserts that Admiral Schley has not changed his views since that day.

It is stated that India has already contributed $2,500,000 for a national memorial to the late Queen Victoria. This would be very well under different circumstances, but a country which has millions of people on the verge of starvation almost every year could make a more sensible display of its generosity by putting its money to more practical uses than subscribing to memorial funds.

The report that William Waldorf Astor is to be made a baron may be intended to injure King Edward's popularity. It is hardly possible that, after ignoring the pleas in behalf of Mrs. Maybrick, the new monarch of England would be moved by the vulgar suppliances of Astor.

Mr. Carnegie is not to get money (except the little matter of $25,000,000), but stock, for his interest in the steel business. However, if he gets real hard up he may be able to induce some one to lend him a few dollars on the stock.

The thriving American city which has already built a library building without assistance of Mr. Carnegie is entitled to a few regrets when it thinks of all those millions waiting to be given away.

Senator Chandler denies the report that he is going to write a book. Possibly he realizes that one book would not contain half the things he wants to say.

Timid Woman, Callous Brute.
There is an F street real estate man whose pretty home is in one of the pleasantest streets in the older part of town. He is just an ordinary man, with no particular sympathy for the fears of nervous women; he has been married 15 years, and his wife is one of those women who fairly revel in all sorts of painful imaginings and frightful forebodings. She always makes her will when she starts on a journey, and she never fails to forgive all her enemies before she trusts herself behind any kind of a horse. There has not been a night in all the 15 years of her married life that she hasn't either smelled smoke or heard burglars. Last week, in the middle of one night, the husband felt the familiar pinch which for 15 years has calloused his arm. He heard the familiar voice say the same old words: "Oh, Charles! Do get up! I smell smoke!"

As usual, for after 15 years of that sort of thing even an ordinary man learns not to argue with a woman, he climbed obediently out of bed and went to the window. The street below was full of people, and a fire engine was puffing away at the corner. "Oh, Charles!" called the wife. "Is the house on fire?"

Fifteen years have made Charles' feelings as callous as his arm. "Yes," said he brutally; "thank goodness the house is on fire at last. Now perhaps you'll stop worrying."—Washington Post.

Daniel O'Connell's Fees.
In the National Library of Ireland is the fee book of Daniel O'Connell. This volume, in its 100 pages or so of parallel columns, laboriously prepared by the hand of the liberator himself, shows in pounds, shillings and pence his early struggles. O'Connell was called to the Irish bar in 1798—the year of the rebellion—and seven days later he got his first brief, from a brother-in-law, who retained him to draft a declaration on a promissory note. The only other business he got that year was also given him by a kinsman—a cousin—and it was of the same kind. The fee on each occasion was £12s. 6d. It was in one of his earliest cases that O'Connell made the retort that attracted attention to him. He was cross-examining an awkward witness, who declared that he had drunk nothing but his share of a pint of whisky. "On your oath, now," thundered the young counsel, "was not your share all but the pewter?"

O'Connell's fee book is an interesting record of his rapid rise in the profession. For the first year, as we have seen, his income amounted to only £25. 6d. Next year he earned over £50, and the year after he made over £400. According to memoranda made in his own handwriting his income in 1803 was £465, and in the following years, £775, £840, £1,077, £1,713, £2,198, £2,736, £2,951, £3,047 and £3,808 respectively.

Anticipated.
He was a Scotch minister in a small country parish, and he was sometimes put to it for fresh pasture wherewith to feed his flock. One day, however, he bethought himself that he had never thoroughly exhausted the subject of Jonah, and his heart rejoiced. Jonah and the whale was a sort of thing whereby you could easily drag out a sermon its allotted two hours. He was in full career and had reached triumphantly the anatomical peculiarities of the case.

"An what feesh do ye think it wad be?" he cried in stentorian tones. "Aiblins ye think it wad be a haddock? Na, na. It could nae be a haddock for to tak a big mon like you in his belly. Aweel, aiblins ye think it wad be a salmon, but I tell ye na, na. It wad na be a salmon, for deed I doubt if they ever see salmon yonder. Aweel, aiblins ye're thinking it wad be a big cod!"

Here an aged and weary voice piped up from the body of the church: "Aiblins it was a whale!" "An the dell hae ye, Maggie Macfarlane, for takin the word out of the mouth of God's meenister!"—Lippincott's Magazine.

Condensed Reproof.
Occasionally there is to be found a proprietor of a secondhand bookstore who is something more than the nature of his business would seem to indicate. He regards his old and rare volumes rather as a collection than a stock of goods and experiences a pang when he parts with one.

A flippant young man dropped into a secondhand bookstore kept by a man of this kind.

Taking down several choice old books from the shelves, he fingered them carelessly and replaced them. They happened to treat of abstruse subjects and did not appeal to him.

"Are any of these books for hire?" he asked carelessly.

"No, young man," sharply answered the proprietor. "They are for lore."—St. Louis Republic.

Fires in New York.
Fires in all parts of New York city are most common between 8 and 9 p. m. and are least common between the hours of 6 and 7 p. m. Between 5 and 6 in the morning there are very few fires; between 6 and 7 there are the fewest, but after 7 o'clock the number steadily increases until 9 o'clock at night, when a rapid diminution begins, the increase being again resumed at 7 o'clock.—New York Sun.

The legal voters of the township of Wauconda are notified to meet in caucus at the engine house in the village of Wauconda this afternoon at 2 o'clock to place in nomination candidates for the following offices: Town clerk, assessor, collector, two justices of the peace, commissioner of highways, two constables and to transact such other business as may come before the meeting. All voters are requested to be present.

A most pleasant surprise was tendered Mr. and Mrs. Willard Darrell Saturday evening at their home, about three miles west of Wauconda. The surprisers were the same merry crowd of neighbors and friends, who have been making those pleasant evenings for one another throughout the winter. Mr. and Mrs. Darrell accordingly gave them a hearty welcome and invited all to make themselves at home, which they did, no doubt, as the most varied of amusements were had and no one could fail to enjoy themselves. A fine relay of refreshments were served at 11:30, of which all heartily partook. They remained until the midnight hour before dispersing. Mr. and Mrs. Darrell were thanked for a most pleasant evening spent and hoped to renew it and some future time.

Monday morning dawned bright and pleasant and Andrew Oaks remembered that it was his 58th wedding anniversary and he expected his daughters home, but he did not expect twenty other relatives and friends there to help him celebrate it. The latter company was an impromptu surprise which took him and his wife by storm but was gladly appreciated by them. A fine dinner was served and a few hours were most pleasantly passed in social visiting and reminiscences of the good old New England times of 60 years ago. One of the elderly ladies present had on her mother's wedding ring, which was worn 72 years ago. Another guest stated that she had stayed at home all winter and heard about the young folks' surprises and she said that this one was just as nice as any of 'em and did her heart good. Mr. and Mrs. Oaks have been residents of our village for many years past and, despite that age is rapidly creeping upon them, they seem to grow no older and we hope to see the aged couple live to enjoy many more such pleasant social events.

A Wise Guy.

There was a man in our town
And he was wondrous wise;
To make his business grow
He used to advertise.
"I am always to be reached,
Be the weather foul or fair,
Just call me up by telephone,
You will find that I am there."

Eat a Whole Cabbage

If you want to. It won't hurt you. People used to think cabbage lung heavy in their stomachs. After each meal, no matter what you eat, take a dose of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. You will never suffer with constipation, indigestion, sick headache or stomach troubles. Chas. E. Churchill.

A Remarkable Record.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has a remarkable record. It has been in use for nearly thirty years, during which time many million bottles have been sold and used. It has long been the standard and main reliance in the treatment of croup in thousands of homes, yet during all this time no case has ever been reported to the manufacturers in which it failed to effect a cure. When given as soon as the child becomes hoarse or even as soon as the croupy cough appears, it will prevent the attack. It contains no opium or other harmful substance and may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult. For sale by Chas. E. Churchill.

Unclaimed Letters.

The following is a list of unclaimed letters remaining in the post office at Barrington March 14, 1901:

Mrs. Harriet Calren. Mrs. Joseph VanLewin; Peter Beck; Jno. Cherlin; L. G. Druell; Arthur Payne; L. Twiley; Gus Jacksha.

H. K. BROCKWAY, P. M.

In S. L. Powers' story at the Middlesex Bar association dinner the lawyer tried the case for the complainant. Sue sued a middle aged gentleman for breach of promise. He married another girl. The jury retired, and the defendant also went his way. The jury returned, the defendant did not. The jury found for the plaintiff in $800 damages.

The lawyer met the middle aged gentleman a few minutes later in the lobby of an adjacent hotel.

"Squire," said the latter, "how did the jury decide?"

"Against you," was the answer.

"I didn't think they would do that," said the middle aged gentleman musingly. "What's the damages?"

"That ain't so bad!" he exclaimed, on being told. "Squire, there's that much difference between the two women."—Boston Herald.

The Real Trouble.

Mrs. De Style (looking from her paper)—The ideal I told that reporter not to mention my name in connection with the Glogore's reception, and yet he's done it. I'll just go down to that newspaper office tomorrow and see about this.

Mr. De Style—Oh, I wouldn't pay any attention to it, my dear.

Mrs. De Style—I wouldn't, but they have got my name spelled wrong.

HISTORY OF PALATINE.

COPYRIGHTED BY A. G. SMITH.

On May 23, 1838, there arrived in Kinzie street, Chicago, a young man and his wife who had started from Manchester, Vermont, to start a new life in the wild west. They started from their home and went to Troy, N. Y., from there they went through the canal and passed through the Great Lakes to Chicago. The couple were Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Staples, who were on their way to Deer Grove, where Mrs. Staples's brother, Mason Sutherland, had settled. Mr. Staples went down Kinzie street to Milwaukee avenue and started across the prairie with its sloughs and sink holes, to say nothing of the dangers of snakes and wolves. After walking eight miles they came to a house located on the site where Jefferson now stands. Here they were urged to stay but they determined to keep on and finally came to the second house this side of Chicago located on the Des Plaines river. This was the house of Mr. Rand and was located a half-mile north of the present village of Des Plaines. As it was nearly sun down, they were persuaded to stay there over night and they continued on their journey the next morning. They arrived at the Harris place, where Mason Sutherland lived, the next morning at 11 o'clock. Their temporary abode proved to be a one-story affair of one room. There was no floor, mother earth being utilized as a carpet and a hole in the roof let out the smoke, there being no chimney. The windows were simple holes cut into the sides of the abode and doors were in the south and north end of the building. The windows were superfluous as the boards on the hut had warped so that it was not necessary to go to the window holes to see outside. Their first meal was made from a larger containing flour, salt water and potatoes. There were no furnishings of any kind, so the first thing to be done was to build a bed, which was accomplished by much labor by means of an ax and auger, which neighbor Webster had loaned them. This was the first bedstead in the settlement and it was proudly exhibited to the few neighbors. Game furnished a large amount of food and a cow was purchased which supplied many wants. Mr. and Mrs. Staples went to Joliet the first winter where he worked on the canal. He purchased 40 acres of land when the land was offered by the government. He hadn't quite enough money to make the purchase and he and Harris Webster heard of a man in Elgin who had some money to loan and they walked to Elgin to get it, but were disappointed to find the money had been loaned to someone else at twenty-five per cent interest. Mr. Staples stayed on his farm for about fifty years, when he bought some land and moved to Palatine, where he died December 15, 1890, after serving the community in an official way for several years. Four children were born to them: Emily is the wife of John W. Wilson of Palatine, Francelia is the wife of Andrew H. Fosket of Chicago. Merit, the oldest boy, went to Iowa where he died about 15 years ago. Mason L. was born on the old homestead December 10, 1854, and on November 10, 1876, he married Clarantie Waters, who died June 27, 1878. He married Miss Alice E. Lambert on April 4, 1889, and they reside just north of the village. Mr. Staples is at present the supervisor of the town. Mrs. Staples lives in the village and is enjoying good health.

Both Were Surprised.
The third time I changed cars at the Hornesville Union railroad station and lunched at the little grillroom just up the street the jolly little proprietor recognized me as a regular patron and did his best to entertain me while my special pot of coffee was coming to a boil.
"Notice that fellow who just went out?" he asked, chuckling contentedly to himself.
"I hadn't noticed particularly, but I knew it would be disconcerting to admit, so I nodded encouragingly, says a writer in the New York Herald.
"Well," he continued, "that's Jim Smith—Long Jim Smith they call him—conductor of the Erie, and, say, he's laying for me. Greatest practical joker you ever saw. Always getting rigs on me, and I never could get back on him until last week, and then I was about as much surprised as he was.
"I was coming down the street and saw a crowd gathered around some Salvation Army singers. Long Jim was away on his tiptoes so he could see over the heads of the rest. He had his back to me, and, sticking out from under his arm, was a big bag of lemons. I saw my chance, and I sneaked quietly behind him, hauled off and gave that bag of lemons an awful swipe with my cane."
Here the little man went off into an uncontrollable fit of laughter over the remembrance.
He laughed till his sides shook and tears ran down his face. I waited till he had quieted down.
"Well?" I queried. "Scattered the lemons all about, I suppose?"
"Scattered! Ho, ho, ho! He! Hi, hi, hi! He! Hum! Well, I should say so. But they wasn't lemons; they was eggs."
The Pie Eaters.
Pie in New England is served in many queer ways, especially the king of all pies, the royal mince. Not long ago there appeared a sign in the station of said, crooked and correct Boston—a sign bearing the strange device, "Hot Mince Pie and Ice Cream."
This is a mild combination compared with one that was served in this city at a midnight supper. A Welsh rabbit was being made, and there were some who did not care to eat it on crackers; no toast in the house, for it was the fire's evening out. A mince pie was found lurking in the ice chest and pressed into service. The rabbit was spread over the pie, and both vanished in a short time. Those who ate are still afraid in the dark, for they can imagine that the same things are coming for them again as came during their dreams of that wild, weird night.
A local minister tells a pie story on himself that is a "corker." He is a delicate man, and his wife was down on pie for him and vetoed it for family use. Once he went to a convention in Pittsfield, and a dinner was served at which there were seven kinds of pie. The minister took a "little of each, please," and never enjoyed himself so much in his life.—Baltimore American.

Why Bees Work in Darkness.
Bees go out all day gathering honey and work at night in the hive, building their combs as perfectly as if an electric light shone there all the time. Why do they prefer to work in the dark? is often asked. Every one knows that honey is a liquid with no solid sugar in it. After standing it gradually assumes a crystalline appearance or granulates and ultimately becomes a solid mass.
Honey has been experimentally enclosed in well corked flasks, some of which were kept in perfect darkness, while the others were exposed to the light. The result was that the portion exposed to the light soon crystallized, while that kept in the dark remained unchanged.
Hence we see why the bees are so careful to obscure the glass windows which are placed in their hives. The existence of the young depends on the liquidity of the saccharine food presented to them, and if light were allowed access to this it would in all probability prove fatal to the inmates of the hive.—Weekly Bouquet.

Weight by Inches.
"Forty and a half," sung out the cutter of a Chestnut street tailoring firm as he passed the tape across a customer's chest. Thirty-eight was registered when the measure girded the customer's waist, and then the cutter stepped back and sized up the patron's height as compared with that of the salesman who was recording the measurements. "Your weight is 165 pounds," he said.
"One sixty-seven," spoke up the man who was being measured for a coat. "How did you guess it?"
"No guesswork about it. I simply compared your height with that of the salesman here, who is 5 feet 8 inches tall. You are about two inches taller, or, say, 5 feet 10 inches. With chest and waist measurements and a man's height figured out I can come within a pound or two of his weight every time, as my close estimate of your avoirdupois proves. Of course there are exceptions, notably the man with the very slim waist and wide shoulders, who is invariably much lighter in build than his appearance and measurements indicate. In that case I drop about ten pounds from my figures and manage to come pretty near the mark."—Philadelphia Record.

"I have to thank you for a great kindness, Mr. Dynevor," she said simply. "You put no name to your note, so I never knew till now to whom I was indebted."

"It was a very trifling service. When I read the advertisement it flashed upon my mind you answered the description of the missing girl."

"Yes, I was the girl mentioned. It is nearly three months ago, and I have heard nothing. Sometimes I feel almost safe; then something depresses me, and I go through all my terrors again."

"You mustn't," he said gently, "you will make yourself ill if you fret over contingencies. Believe me, Easthill-on-Sea is as safe a hiding place as you can find. It is hardly known beyond its own immediate neighborhood."

The ten room was deserted—Harold established Beryl in a remote corner, and fetched refreshments for her from the buffet. The grey eyes sought his face half pleadingly:

"I ought not to trouble you," she said wistfully; "but I should like to tell you just this: I have not done anything dreadful—I mean, I am not flying from justice."

Harold laughed outright; he really could not help it.

"Forgive me," he said penitently; "but no one could possibly think you were. You do not look like an escaped criminal, Miss Lendon."

"My father, has married again," she said frankly, "and I could not stay to see his wife in my mother's place, so I ran away. I don't think it was wrong."

"But he must miss you very much."

"Oh, no," she said naively, "he never cared for me. He always said I was a nuisance to him, and he would want less than ever now he has his new wife."

"I hope you are fairly comfortable?" he said anxiously. "I have never met Mrs. Tanner; but I own to a great dislike of her friend, Mrs. Wilmot."

"Mrs. Wilmot is terrible; but Mrs. Tanner is not in the least like her. She is very sad and gentle."

"And you mean to stay with her?"

"Yes; if only the school gets on enough for her to afford to keep me."

"Miss Lendon," said Harold, "when she rose to return to her post, 'I need not tell you your secret is safe with me; but you are very young to be so much alone in the world. Will you make me just this one promise? That if troubles arise so that you need a friend, you will let me do my best to help you.'"

She was his enemy's daughter. Beryl felt if he knew she was the child of the pair who had wronged him he would have no more to do with her; but she only said simply she should never forget Mr. Dynevor's kindness.

It was a brilliant function, and an unqualified success. When at last the stalls were empty, and the flock of pleasure-seekers had gone home, Mrs. Craven carried off the busy money-makers to an informal supper at the Manor. Mrs. Dynevor and her son joined the party, and Beryl found herself seated between Kitty and her brother.

"Will you come and see me, Miss Lendon?" asked the daughter of the Dynevors kindly. "Mother will be very pleased to welcome you. I suppose, in strict etiquette I ought to call at Woodlands; but I might come in school hours, or make some other dreadful mistake, so it will be much nicer if you come to Uplands."

Beryl thanked her; but said something about her duties and Mrs. Tanner.

"Oh, she must spare you sometimes. I seem to know you quite well after all these hours spent together, and we can't go back to being strangers."

Mrs. Grey, her husband, and Beryl drove home in the shabby pony carriage; Mrs. Dynevor and her children walked the half-mile between the Manor and Uplands in the silvery moonlight.

"It was a huge success," said Kitty. "I really quite enjoyed myself, and we made a lot of money."

"And you worked like Trojans," said her brother; "everything went off famously."

"Mother dear," said Kitty anxiously, "are you tired?"

"Not very. You mustn't think me dull, Kitty; but somehow I never can enjoy myself at the Manor. I seem to see the good old days, when your uncle and aunt were alive and we visited there. Kind and hospitable as the Cravens are, it is not the same thing."

"Of course not, mother," said Harold; "but they are far pleasanter neighbors than the real owner of the soil."

"I hope he will not come here," breathed Mrs. Dynevor anxiously. "Harold, you must have been eight or nine when your Aunt Nina left the Manor; do you remember her at all?"

"Only that she was very pretty and gentle, and seemed more like a play-fellow than an aunt; but why do you ask, mother?"

"Then you won't see the resemblance," said Mrs. Dynevor, in a disappointed tone; "but when I first looked at that girl who came with Mrs. Grey I thought the years had turned back, and I saw Nina as she was when your uncle brought her home a bride. Miss Lendon's face is graver and sadder, but the likeness is wonderful."

"Chance resemblances are puzzling things," said Kitty. "I have asked Miss Lendon to come and see us, mother—you don't mind, do you?"

"I shall be glad for her to come, Kitty, she seems a charming girl. And, my dear, if Harold were not the best of brothers, you might be earning your bread."

"I shouldn't be half as brave and contented over it as she is," said Kitty frankly.

Arrived at the Uplands, mother and daughter went to bed, for it was past their usual hour. Harold turned into his own den to smoke one pipe before retiring. As he lighted the gas his eye fell on a letter with the Marton postmark, addressed in the well-known hand of Mr. Proctor.

"What can he want to write about? I saw him yesterday."

But the lawyer had gone out of his way to do Harold a kindness. He would not even trust one of his clerks to write the letter of warning which he sent to his old friend's son. The letter was marked "private"—a needless precaution, for Harold Dynevor would be sure to keep its contents from his mother and Kitty until the last possible moment.

Dear Dynevor: I have had news for you. It has reached me from a true source that Eustace Lendon intends to give you three months notice of foreclosure at Michaelmas. My informant believes that he is keeping his intention dark, so that it may take you by surprise, in the hope that the three months will be all too short for you to get the needed capital. I need not assure you of my most earnest sympathy. Still, the amount, though large, is not preposterous, and it ought to be possible to arrange things. Anyhow, by this letter you have five months to raise the money instead of three.

Yours sincerely,
W. Proctor.

Harold Dynevor put his head on his hands and fairly groaned. He had been old enough when Dynevor Manor passed to a stranger to feel the loss of the old place very keenly; but that was as nothing compared to the bitterness he felt at the bare thought of Uplands, his mother's home, going from them to the man who was their direct foe.

"Please God, it shall not be," he said reverently, as he folded the letter and put it in his pocket. "Mother shall never lose the house she was born in if I can help it. I'll work as man never did before, I'll toil early and late, but that money shall be found. And Eustace Lendon must content himself with Dynevor Manor; Uplands shall not be his!"

But, brave as was the resolve, Harold did not make light of the difficulties in his path. To raise such a sum would have been a hard task even in prosperous times; and now, when a succession of bad harvests had spelled something like ruin to many a landowner, the difficulties of the attempt were quadrupled.

CHAPTER VIII.

Helen Craven's engagement followed very quickly on the fete, and she departed on a long visit to her fiancé's family. Perhaps it was her friends' absence which made Kitty Dynevor remember the pretty girl at Mrs. Tanner's and her desire to see more of her. She missed Helen very much. There was a cloud on the Uplands. Kitty, who was still treated as "the little one," from whom all sorrow and anxiety must be kept as long as possible, was not allowed to know that Eustace Lendon now held the mortgage on their home; but she could not help seeing that her mother was graver than usual, and Harold seemed extra troubled. She knew them both too well to ask questions, and, deciding a little company would be good for them all, she strolled over to East hill-on-Sea about a fortnight after the fete, called at Woodlands, and asked to see Mrs. Tanner.

Kitty was impulsive in all things. She detested the Wilmot, but she was ready to believe Beryl that Mrs. Tanner was not like her sister, and she felt she could hardly hope to see much of Miss Lendon if she persisted in ignoring her employer.

She took a great fancy to the slender, sad-eyed widow, and made her request as frankly as possible.

"I lost my heart to your assistant at the fete, Mrs. Tanner. I asked her to come and see us; but perhaps she is standing a little on ceremony, for I have not seen her, so I came over today to ask if you would let her walk back and have tea with us."

"I shall be very pleased," was the prompt reply. "Miss Lendon is a dear little thing, and this is a dull home for her."

"Do you know," said Kitty, "when she came into the tent in her white frock, I thought Mrs. Grey had discovered some wandering princess, and pressed her into the service."

"She is very pretty," said Agnes Tanner, with a smile, "and, what is more, she is very patient and sweet-tempered. All my pupils like her, and my own little girls almost worship her. I hope I shall be able to keep her if only the school gets on."

Kitty said a few kind words, hoping Woodlands would prosper, and then Mrs. Tanner sent for Beryl.

"Miss Dynevor wants you to go back with her to tea at Uplands," she said kindly. "I can spare you perfectly, and the change will do you good."

Left alone, the two girls looked at each other; and then Kitty Dynevor broke the silence impetuously.

"Why wouldn't you come without my having to fetch you?"

Beryl hesitated.

"I don't think I ought to come," she said slowly. "You are one of the county, Miss Dynevor, and I am only a little school teacher."

"I am not a snob!" said Kitty, quite angrily. "I know a lady when I see one, and I don't value my friends for their position or their purse. Now will you come?"

Five minutes later they were walking back to Uplands together, and Beryl was telling Kitty how long and dreary she thought the way the first night of her arrival.

"I don't wonder," returned Miss Dynevor. "A drearier place to arrive at after a long journey I can't imagine. I can't think why people tried to turn that hamlet into a watering place. Easthill itself is delightful."

"You have lived there a long time, haven't you?"

"I was born at Uplands, Harold, my brother, was born at the Manor. There had been something wrong with the Uplands drains, and mother went to the Manor for two months. The old gossips used to declare it meant he would inherit the property, that the master of Dynevor was always born at the Manor. They were quite wrong, however. But I forgot—perhaps you don't know our story?"

"Mrs. Grey told it to me," said Beryl frankly. "I think it is one of the saddest I ever heard. I wonder you don't hate Mr. Lindon."

"Mother and Harold are too good to really hate any one. I am afraid when things go wrong at home, and they look more bothered than usual, my feelings towards Mr. Lindon are rather bitter."

"I suppose you don't remember his wife?"

"Oh, no; I was not born when she left England. Of course it was really her fault the place passed away from us; but I have always felt sorry for her."

"I wonder why?" remarked Beryl, trying to keep the eagerness out of her voice.

"A very little thing. There was a woman in the village here Aunt Nina took with her as maid. When they got abroad I think she was promoted to be a kind of humble companion. She came back about twelve months before Aunt Nina died, and she lived with us for a few years. She was not given to talking; but now and again she'd let out things. She was my nurse, and I was just the age of Beryl Lindon, Aunt Nina's second child. Somehow she'd say things now and then which made me feel Mr. Lindon ill-treated his wife. She never said anything outright—never enough for me to repeat it to mother; but though I was only a little thing—she left before I was ten years old—she said enough to make me sure my aunt was unhappy."

They were at Uplands now. Beryl had no time to ask the nurse's name, or if she were still living at Easthill. Mrs. Dynevor stood on the veranda waiting to welcome the stranger, and the conversation was changed.

(To be continued.)

TO LEARN TRADES.

Training School to Make Crippled Pupils Self-Supporting.

With the new year the pupils of the public school for crippled children, conducted by Mrs. Emma F. Haskell in Illinois hall, will begin a novel undertaking, says the Chicago News. A training school will be established with the hope that some of the pupils may be made self-supporting. They appear almost helpless so far as useful work is concerned, but Mrs. Haskell says they are not. Many of them can work with their hands, and are anxious to learn. The boy who has lost both legs has an ambition to become a carpenter. This appears rather impossible, and his ambitions will be turned in the direction of wood carving. The girls will be taught needlework and similar occupations. They are almost all too helpless to be taught domestic science. Supt. Cooley will make a recommendation to the board of education at its next meeting that materials and equipment for the school is provided. Mrs. Haskell will have charge of the classes, leaving the general work of instruction to her assistants. Truant officers of the board of education are to make a canvass of the city for the purpose of ascertaining the number of crippled and maimed children who would be able to attend school if they were furnished with transportation. Secretary Larson was refused his pay yesterday by the board of education. President Harris, who blamed City Controller Kerfoot for not honoring Mr. Larson's signature a week ago, refused yesterday to issue a voucher for his salary in the new position. Mr. Larson asked for a voucher for his salary at the rate of $4,000 a year for the part of December he served in the office. President Harris said he had been paid his former salary of $150 a month, and could not be paid the salary of secretary until the board voted it. A statement was furnished President Harris by Auditor Custer yesterday that shows that the revenue of the board of education for educational purposes will be $235,853 less than the appropriations called for.

The drawer in which everyday plate is kept should be lined at the bottom with green baize, cut large enough to fold over the plate when it is laid on the baize. Plate should be put away carefully and neatly, all the large forks together and all the small ones together, and so on.

Lessons from Sherlock.

The methods used by Sherlock Holmes, the great fictional detective, have so impressed the authorities of Massillon, O., that they have provided the police with books telling of the greatest achievements of Holmes. The officers are under instructions to apply the Holmes principles in all cases possible. Accordingly, when it was reported that a trunk had been broken open and $85 stolen at John Stevenson's boarding-house the other day, Officer Seaman proceeded to investigate along Holmes' line. He found that the brass hasps securing the trunk lid had been severed with a sharp instrument. None was in the vicinity. The landlord was asked if he had an ax. He produced one from a coal-house, where he said he always kept it. There were small particles of brass on the blade and it just fitted the cut in the trunk. The officers argued that if a robber had committed the crime he would not have lugged away an ax. Therefore they decided it must have been the landlord. When they arrested him he was so amazed at their line of reasoning that he admitted his guilt. He is now in jail.—Pittsburg Post.

East Randolph, N. Y., March 11.—(Special.)—Mrs. E. A. Deacon of this town is Vice-President of the local Women's Christian Temperance Union. She is a lady of splendid capabilities, and these she has always directed towards the uplifting of humanity. What Mrs. Deacon says is accepted in East Randolph without question. No one has ever doubted her truthfulness or honesty of purpose.

Mrs. Deacon says: "My attention was first called to the remarkable curative value of Dodd's Kidney Pills, through the cure of a literary lady who was a friend of mine, and who from mental overwork was on the verge of insanity. After the failure of her physician to help her, her husband was advised to have her try Dodd's Kidney Pills, which she did with gratifying results. She used five boxes before she was completely cured, but at the end of two months' treatment, she was her own happy, brilliant self once more."

"Feeling languid and worn out myself, I thought they would perhaps be a help to me, and I am very glad to say that two boxes made a new woman of me. I feel ten years younger, am in the very best of health, and appreciate that it was entirely through the use of Dodd's Kidney Pills. I give them highest endorsement."

These cases are becoming very common in Cattaraugus County, and many ladies have had experiences similar to those of Mrs. Deacon and her friend. What Dodd's Kidney Pills have done for these suffering women, they will do for anyone who gives them a fair trial.

They are 50c. a box, six boxes for $2.50. Buy them from your local druggist if you can. If he cannot supply you, send to the Dodd's Medicine Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

CONFEDERATE REUNION.

Memphis, Tenn., March 10.—At a recent meeting of the general executive committee of the Confederate reunion for 1901 a committee was appointed to join with the several commercial bodies of Memphis to visit Washington and invite President McKinley to be the guest of the city of Memphis on the occasion of the reunion in May next. The committee will leave for the national capital in a few days.

As the time for holding the reunion approaches the several committees are becoming more active. The city is being canvassed by the committee on hotels and accommodations and every available room is being registered. A. D. Langstaff, secretary of the commissary committee, a sub-organization of the general committee in charge of Confederate reunion arrangements, has been very active in the past week or so in the discharge of the duties assigned to him. He is engaged in planning ways and means for caring for the Confederate veterans when they come to the reunion. Many of the commands will very likely bivouac in order to observe strict army regulations and if this should prove true they will have to be cared for the same as if they were in actual service again, but with more care for their comfort. The commissary committee is to look after these matters. Mr. Langstaff announces that it is the purpose of the committee to have the means of caring for every Confederate veteran whether he is able to pay his own way or not, and they will do so if it is possible. They want it understood that the commissary committee is not organized to look only after those who are able to pay their own way, but to look after the rest as well.

FACE HUMORS

Pimples, Blackheads, Red Rough and Oily Skin PREVENTED BY

Cuticura SOAP

MILLIONS of Women Use CUTICURA SOAP, assisted by Cuticura Ointment, the great skin cure, for preserving, purifying, and beautifying the skin, for cleansing the scalp of crusts, scales, and dandruff, and the stopping of falling hair, for softening, whitening, and soothing red, rough, and sore hands, for baby rashes, itchings, and chafings, in the form of baths for annoying irritations and inflammations, or too free or offensive perspiration, in the form of washes for ulcerative weaknesses, and many sanative antiseptic purposes which readily suggest themselves to women and mothers, and for all the purposes of the toilet, bath, and nursery. No amount of persuasion can induce those who have once used these great skin purifiers and beautifiers to use any others. CUTICURA SOAP combines delicate emollient properties derived from CUTICURA, the great skin cure, with the purest of cleansing ingredients and the most refreshing of flower odors. No other medicated soap is to be compared with it for preserving, purifying, and beautifying the skin, scalp, hair, and hands. No other foreign or domestic toilet soap, however expensive, is to be compared with it for all the purposes of the toilet, bath, and nursery. Thus it combines in ONE SOAP at ONE PRICE, viz. TWENTY-FIVE CENTS, the BEST skin and complexion soap, and the BEST toilet and baby soap in the world.

Complete External and Internal Treatment for Every Humor. Consisting of CUTICURA SOAP (25c.), to cleanse the skin of crusts and scales and soften the thickened cuticle; CUTICURA OINTMENT (50c.), to instantly allay itching, inflammation, and irritation; and soothe and heal; and CUTICURA RESERVES (50c.), to cool and cleanse the blood. A SINGLE SET is often sufficient to cure the most torturing, disgusting, and humiliating skin, scalp, and blood humors, with loss of hair, when all else fails. Sold throughout the world.

PROCEEDINGS IN CONGRESS.

Summary of Legislation in National Body.

MEASURES IN BOTH HOUSES.

Senator Frye of Maine Re-Elected, Unanimously, President Pro Tempore of the Senate—Senator Morgan Asks for Abrogation of Clayton-Bulwer Treaty.

Thursday, March 7.

Senator Morgan closed speech on canal with appeal for specific declaration abrogating Clayton-Bulwer treaty. The foreign representatives interested in reciprocity treaties pending before the United States senate are in communication with their governments as to the course to be adopted since the senate has failed to act upon the instruments. As to most of them the view prevails that they expired with the end of the recent regular session. This is so as to the various treaties with Great Britain covering the Brit-

Secretary Hay with the fact that he had received a communication from his government on the subject, and it is believed it had been in his possession for several days. Secretary Hay had acquired a general knowledge of the character of the British response.

Held for Hanging Negro.

Dr. Thomas B. Reagin, a dentist of Duquoin, Ill., has been bound over to await action of grand jury on a charge of hanging Ferdinand French to extort a confession of theft. Reagin has acknowledged he hired the carriage in which French was taken to the woods. A number of other prominent business men, it is charged, engaged in the hanging. Other arrests will be made.

DEATH AND DESTRUCTION ACCOMPANY GREAT STORM.

TELEGRAPH POLES WRECKED ALONG ILLINOIS CENTRAL.

Reports of the great storm coming from all over Texas shows that the casualties were many, the extent of territory visited large and the property loss fully $1,000,000. At least a score of persons were killed and a large number injured. At New Boston several houses were wrecked and the property loss will reach $75,000. At Blossom the damage to residences was great. At and near Emery, Raines county, one man was killed and many persons were hurt, two fatally. The damage to property was heavy. Several towns between Uvalde and Will's Point report damage, but it was not until the last named place was reached that the tornado's effect was felt.

The storm of sleet, wind and rain swept over Chicago early Sunday morning. Telegraph and telephone wires suffered the heaviest damage, and wire communication between Chicago and cities west, southwest and south was greatly interrupted. The telegraph poles along the Illinois Central road where it skirts Lake Michigan within the limits of Chicago were nearly all snapped off, Chicago's damage by the storm was $100,000.

ish West Indian possessions, Barbadoes, Bermuda, Trinidad, and Guiana, and it is understood that the colonial authorities in each case have been made aware of the fact that no action was to be expected. Senator William P. Frye of Maine has been re-elected unanimously president pro tempore of the senate to serve during the pleasure of the senate. Lord Pauncefote will represent Great Britain at Washington for another year.

Friday, March 8.

Final adjournment of the extraordinary session of the senate would have been taken had the new senator from Oregon, Mr. Mitchell, been present to take the oath of office. He could not reach Washington until Saturday, however, and adjournment was postponed until that time. Mr. Hoar offered a resolution providing for the appointment of a committee of senators to call upon the president and inform him that the senate was ready to adjourn without day. Mr. Morgan objected to consideration, saying that Senator Mitchell would be in Washington Saturday, and it was due him that the senate remain in session until his arrival. No business of importance was transacted in open session.

Major William Warner of Missouri may be appointed pension commissioner to succeed Henry Clay Evans. Semi-official reports received that Cuba will accept the conditions for independence made by congress.

Monday, March 11.

Great Britain has declined to accept the senate amendments to the Hay-Pauncefote treaty. The notification of this attitude toward the amended convention has been received. The long-expected answer to the state department's communication was returned at noon Monday. Lord Pauncefote, the British ambassador, had acquainted

Glass Works Close Down.

The factory of the Diamond Flint Glass company at Hartford City, Ind., has closed down, making the third factory of this kind to shut down within the last several weeks in that city. The plant had been in partial operation for two weeks. Altogether about 600 men and boys are out of employment as a result. The flint glass market is said to be in a stagnant condition and factories are closing down in many of the towns and cities of the gas belt.

Found with Skull Crushed.

The body of Thomas Applegate, a prominent farmer of Eatonville, Monticounty, about six miles from Bordentown, N. J., was found with the skull crushed in the large stable on his farm by Franklin Shinn, his manager. In December last Applegate was threatened by White-Caps for wife-beating and told that if he persisted he would receive a coat of tar and feathers. Word reached the White Caps that Applegate was not obeying the order.

ANCIENTS HAD SENSE.

Dated Beginning of Year from Opening of Spring

WHEN ALL THINGS IN NATURE START AFRESH.

Some Other Things in Which the Ancients Have Given Us Points.

The ancients began their year with the advent of spring. How much more appropriate thus to begin the New Year with the new life of nature in the awakening spring. At this season all processes throughout the natural world start afresh.

The ancients also showed their sagacity and appreciation of the great changes and active processes of spring-time, by realizing that this is also the time for renewed life and energy in the human system. They well knew that the blood should be cleansed from impurities and the nerves re-invigorated at this season. Hence the establishment of the custom of taking a good spring medicine.

This most sensible and healthy custom is followed by almost everybody at the present day, few people of intelligence venturing to go through this trying time of change from winter to summer without taking a spring medicine.

The unanimity on this subject is a settled fact; the only question heretofore has been in regard to what is the best thing to take. The people have now become unanimous in their decision that as a spring tonic and restorative, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy is pre-eminently the best.

Year after year Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy has proved itself the surest, most positive and reliable remedy. Made from pure vegetable medicines, it invariably cleanses, purifies and enriches the blood, making the blood rich and red, and at the same time, by its invigorating effects, giving strength, power, vitality and energy to the nerves.

In fact, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy has proved itself the most perfect of medicines and just what everybody needs for a spring remedy. Try it this spring.

Mr. Stoughton L. Farnham of Manchester, N. H., says: "Some time ago I was troubled with lassitude and a feeling of fatigue. I did not have the ambition to do anything that demanded unusual physical exertion."

"I was recommended by a friend to try Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. I took two or three bottles and am prepared to say that it did me good. I can recommend it as a tonic, as I know it helped me."

Remember Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy is recommended by physicians, in fact, it is a physician's prescription, the discovery of the well-known specialist in nervous and chronic diseases, Dr. Greene, of 35 W. 14th St., New York City, who can be consulted free of charge, personally or by letter.

THE DUTY OF MOTHERS.

What suffering frequently results from a mother's ignorance; or more frequently from a mother's neglect to properly instruct her daughter!

Tradition says "woman must suffer," and young women are so taught. There is a little truth and a great deal of exaggeration in this. If a young woman suffers severely she needs treatment, and her mother should see that she gets it.

Many mothers hesitate to take their daughters to a physician for examination; but no mother need hesitate to write freely about her daughter or herself to Mrs. Pinkham and secure the most efficient advice without charge. Mrs. Pinkham's address is Lynn, Mass.

Mrs. August Pfalzgraf, of South Byron, Wis., mother of the young lady whose portrait we here publish, wrote Mrs. Pinkham in January, 1899, saying her daughter had suffered for two years with irregular menstruation—had headache all the time, and pain in her side, feet swell, and was generally miserable. Mrs. Pinkham promptly replied with advice, and under date of March, 1899, the mother writes again that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cured her daughter of all pains and irregularity.

Nothing in the world equals Mrs. Pinkham's great medicine for regulating woman's peculiar monthly troubles.

Chicago is in the throes of a municipal campaign that will be a warm one. Carter H. Harrison has been renominated for the third time by a united democracy and is opposed by Judge Elbridge Hawley who is supported by what is termed in that city "the Lorimer machine," the title being used to designate a faction of the republican party opposed to the candidacy of John Harlan. The Record, Daily News, Chronicle and Hearst's American are openly opposing the republican candidate while the Journal and Inter-Ocean are making a bitter fight on Harrison. The Times-Herald is neutral and Tribune says but little in support of Hancey. It seems that Mayor Harrison has the advantage at the start.

At the close of the year 1899 the Modern Woodmen society had 448,346 members and 7,405 local camps, or lodges, in absolute good standing. At the beginning of the present month the society had 585,163 members in good standing, in 9,076 local camps or lodges. It is said that the growth of the Woodmen society surpasses the growth made by any similar organization in the history of United States.

The members of the Modern Woodmen society must appreciate the fact that the low cost of their insurance is due to energetic field work, which brings in the young blood. This is shown very clearly when the increase in benefit membership of the following societies during the year 1900, is noted: Modern Woodmen of America 109,497; Knights of Maccabees of the World, 40,537; Ancient Order of United Workmen, 28,064; Woodmen of the World, 16,354; Royal Arcanum, 16,196; Independent Order of Foresters, 16,185.

It is said the Chicago & Northwestern company will beautify the grounds surrounding their depot in this village the coming season. We hope the report will prove true. This is one of the important stations on the line for transfer of passenger traffic in the summer season and the surroundings of the depot are the most shabby of any place on the line between Harvard and Chicago. As the terminal of suburban traffic we deserve something better in the way of a depot and surroundings than we now have.

A lady decided to scare her husband, who was quite a hard drinker, so he would reform, says the Nunda Herald. To do this she secured the costume of a devil which she had worn at a masquerade. The next time the erring spouse came home feeling happy she quickly donned the costume. As he opened the door she stepped forward and said in sepulchral tones: "Come in with me—I am the devil." The result rather startled her, as the response which greeted her was: "Zot so? Shake it, boy. I'm your brother-in-law. I married your sister."

Much has been said by the friends of the temperance cause about the army canteen, and strong pressure was brought to bear upon the war department to have it abolished. They succeeded in having the canteen at Fort Sheridan done away with. The devil has been to pay at the fort and surrounding territory since the hour the canteen was closed. The Chicago Chronicle, speaking of the matter editorially, says: "It is earnestly to be hoped that the good sisters of the W. C. T. U. and other enemies of the post canteen will not neglect to go up to Fort Sheridan and take a look at the result of their work in driving the enlisted men from the post into the arms of the saloon keepers whose establishments border the military reservation. The guardhouse is the place where the sisters will acquire the greatest quantity of information."

PERSONAL MENTION.

John Westphal of Chicago called on friends here Sunday.

Frank Waterman and Delos Church were in Elgin Tuesday.

Rudolph Pawelski of Chicago visited with relatives here Sunday.

Misses Carrie and Bertha Staack were visiting friends in Woodstock Sunday.

Miss Minnie Kuhlman, who has been visiting Miss Tina Gruber, returned home Sunday.

Miles T. Lamey, supervisor of Cuba township, has been attending a session of the county board at Waukegan the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Heimerdinger of Woodstock and George Heimerdinger and wife of Cary visited with Mr. and Mrs. G. Heimerdinger Saturday and Sunday.

Leroy Powers, who has been detained at his home on account of illness, is about again and his army of friends hope his health may continue to improve.

Richard Stroback of Chicago visited friends and relatives here this week and superintending the moving of his mother's household effects to Chicago, where she will reside.

Charles Beinhoff, wife and baby are visiting relatives here. Mr. Beinhoff has resigned his position at Braddock, Pa., and says he would not dwell in that region of earth for love or money. The climate was not conducive to health. He will probably be given an agency at some point in Indiana. He says Illinois is good enough for any man, and he is right.

Town of Barrington Caucus.

The voters of Barrington township assembled in caucus at the village hall yesterday afternoon and placed in nomination the following officers to be voted for at the election to be held Tuesday, April 2. The exciting features of the caucus was the contest for collector and constables. Messrs. Dohmeyer, Jencks and Humphrey entered the field for collector and Messrs. H. M. Hawley, Geo. Wagner and J. E. Evans for constable. The other candidates had no opposition. There was 147 votes cast:

Supervisor, A. H. Boehmer.
Town Clerk, Leroy Powers.
Assessor, John C. Plagge.
Collector, Frank Dohmeyer.
Highway Com., F. A. Lageschulte.
School Trustees, J. W. Waterman.
Justices of the Peace, F. H. Frey and John A. Waterman.
Constables, Geo. H. Wagner and J. E. Evans.

ATTEND THE CAUCUS

And Make Your Nominations For Township Officers.

This afternoon at 2 o'clock the voters of the town of Cuba will meet in caucus at the Columbia Hotel and nominate candidates for the several township officers to be voted for at the coming election. It is the duty of every taxpayer to be present and take part in the caucus and register their choice for candidates. Up to the present but few candidates have taken the field. For the office of town clerk the present incumbent, Frank Gieske, is a candidate for reelection. For assessor Fred Kirschner announces his desire to hold on another term. For the office of collector L. E. Runyan and John Kampert are making an active canvass, and it is reported that several dark horses will scamper into the ring and make the contest lively. For highway commissioner Frank Hollister is making the race against John Jahnke who has held the office for a number of years. The offices of justice of the peace and constable may bring out some dark horses.

All the candidates mentioned are capable to fill the positions to which they aspire. If the voters desire a change the caucus will no doubt be filled with a large number of substantial men who will not object to being nominated.

Hammered to Death With a Poker.

The quiet of Sabbath afternoon was broken by the shouts of "hit him with the hatchet!" "Kill him!" "Break his back!" "Shoot him!" "Don't let him escape and defeat the ends of justice!" and other exclamations filled the air for several moments and struck terror to the hearts of pedestrians who were struggling to keep right side up on the slippery pavements. Soon strong men were observed hurrying to the scene ready aid in the capture of the fugitive. He had by some means found the secret entrance to the room containing the valued symbols, insignias and rituals of the B. S. & A. C., bent upon their destruction or to learn of the ancient rites conferred upon the degree members of that honorable and highly esteemed order. He was discovered and in trying to escape jumped upon the shoulders of a stalwart member intending to disable him. The distress signal was sounded and soon the gymnasium was alive with 79 and 28th degree members. Chairs were lifted high to crush out the life of the intruder. He struggled from the custody of his would-be slayers and made an attempt to jump through the plate glass window of the reading room. Foiled in this mad dash for liberty he sought refuge in the art room, or for the present known as the receiving room for the photographs of illustrious men. To the gymnasium he was forced and there hammered to death with a poker handled by the grand high mogul of the committee on amusements. The remains of the rodent were embalmed and shipped to Dunderback's crematory.

SCHOOL NOTES.

Of Interest to Parents and Pupils of Barrington School.

There were twenty-five children of Miss Lawler's room who were neither absent nor tardy during the month of February.

The following pupils were promoted from high third grade to low fourth grade in Miss Kublank's room: Hattie Johnholtz, Gussie Decker, Elmer Reese, Wilbert Naehner, Lillian Augenstein, Lyle Alwerson.

Mary Weimuth left school Friday to make her future home at Honey Lake.

The following officers were elected by the High School Social and Literary society Friday afternoon: President Alta Powers. Vice-president, Amanda Kampert. Secretary, Genevieve Fletcher. Asst. Secretary, Alex Boehmer.

Pupils in Miss Lawler's room have organized a Junior Thursday club and elected the following officers: Mabel Peck, president; Madeline Blocks, vice-president; Violet McIntosh, secretary; Lillie Volker, assistant secretary; Violet Ultsch, treasurer. The club colors will be yellow and white. Their first meeting was announced to be held at the home of Mrs. S. Peck. May 1 the club will give a May party and banquet at the home of Mrs. M. C. McIntosh to which the mammas and "big friends" of the little ladies will be invited.

The little folks have caught the club fever. Now comes the young gentlemen of Miss Hahn's room who have organized the Barrington Junior Athletic club, patterned after the senior organization. They are ready to go into training and have ordered boxing gloves, punching bag and other gymnasium supplies. The first regular meeting will be held April 14. The following officers have been chosen: E. A. Clausius, president; R. L. Colleen, vice-president; A. J. Taylor, secretary; H. H. Powers, treasurer; E. G. Volker, manager.

School Entertainment.

Superintendent of Schools Bright of Cook county entertained the pupils of the Barrington schools at Zion church Wednesday evening. His address was a most interesting one, illustrated by exterior and interior views of a number of the buildings devoted to school purposes in that county, and descriptions of them, which in a number of cases were not very complimentary to the directors in those districts. His talk was plain and to the point. The program rendered by the pupils was well received by a large audience, and in all the evening proved one of more than ordinary interest to all.

ANCIENT HISTORY.

Minutes of the First Town Meeting held in Town of Cuba.

From the dusty records of the town of Cuba we bring to light the minutes of the first meeting held to elect township officers. It was then the town of Troy. The record reads as follows: □

Minutes and proceedings of the first town meeting held in the town of Troy, on the second day of April, in the year of our Lord, one thousand eight hundred and fifty, at the house of Noble R. Hays, under the town organization law in pursuance of public notice.

When the voters were assembled J. J. Bullock was elected moderator and T. J. Hawley clerk, when they organized and proceeded to elect officers to conduct affairs of the town for the ensuing year and the following named persons were elected to wit:

Philetus Beverley, supervisor.
Noble R. Hays, town clerk.
Robt. Comme, Harvey Lambert and James Jones, highway commissioners.
Robert Bennett and J. Hollister, justices of the peace.
Chester Bennett and Fred Vauvliet, constables.

Chester Bennett, collector.
Francis Kelsey, poormaster.

The following resolutions were unanimously adopted:
That every man be his own poundmaster.

That horses and cattle be allowed to run at large unless unruly.
That sheep and hogs shall not be free commoners.

That $100 be appropriated for town purposes.

That $50 be raised for roads and bridges to be expended at the discretion of the highway commissioners.

That the next town meeting be held at the house of Noble R. Hays.
NOBLE R. HAYS, TOWN CLERK.

HER LIFE WORK ENDED.

Mrs. Ellen Wilson Called to Enter Eternal Rest.

Friday morning, March 1, at three o'clock Mrs. Ellen Wilson crossed the dark river into the great unknown. Her passing away was due to advanced age, she having attained the age of 86 years.

Mrs. Wilson was well known to the elderly people of Barrington and surrounding townships having resided in this section many years, and was highly regarded by all. For years past she had made her home with her daughter, Mrs. D. E. Jayne, in this village, and of late was in feeble health.

Deceased was born in Toronto, Canada, December 25, 1815. At an early age she was married to Andrew Wilson. Four children were the result of that union, all of whom have passed away. In 1846 she married James Garwood who died leaving two daughters, Mrs. D. E. Jayne of Barrington and Mrs. Charles Smith of Sheldon, Nebraska. Mrs. Wilson was for many years an adherent to the Methodist faith and a firm believer. She leaves to mourn her departure two daughters, twelve grandchildren and sixteen great grandchildren.

The funeral service was held at her late home, Sunday afternoon, Rev. W. H. Tuttle officiating. Interment was in the cemetery at Lake Zurich.

The Papering Season IS NOW IN FULL SWING.

Prices are so low and designs so interesting this year that you cannot afford to let your rooms go any longer. Do you know that I am selling the New Century designs? Do you know that I am selling border at the same price per roll as side walls? Let me call on you and prove that I can undersell any dealer or agent in town.
