Raymond Beutler is working in Richmond's creamery. He has taken the place of Hiram Garms, who has resigned his position after fourteen years of continual service. Hiram is now working for the C. & N. W. railroad in Chicago.

The Methodist church was crowded Sunday night when the Sunday school held its annual services. The church was profusely decorated with plants and flowers and presented a beautiful appearance. The exercises were exceptionally good and all parts were gone through smoothly. The recitations and choruses were of more than usual merit.

The egg social given in the Methodist church under the auspices of the Queen Esther circle last Monday night was a very enjoyable affair and the egg hunt, which was an interesting and exciting contest, was enjoyed by young and old. The eggs of candy had been stowed away in every conceivable hiding place and when the lights were turned on the hunt began. The young people hunted and the older ones watched the scramble. Joe Converse won first prize by finding over a hundred eggs and in a draw contest Geo. Matthei received the "booby" prize. Ice cream and cake were served and games enjoyed after the hunt.

EASTER IS OBSERVED

At the Churches—Special Music and Beautiful Decorations.

Easter Sunday was appropriately observed by Barrington churches with a beautiful display of flowers, music and special services. The musical programs proved an attractive feature at several houses of worship.

In recent years, as the lines of sectarianism have become less distinct, the observance of the Easter season is more general among all religious people. It is no longer confined to the denominations which follow the liturgy and claim a special sanctification from apostolical descent. In all the Christian churches and in the majority of Christian homes Easter lilies and other flowers are displayed as emblems of the reviving year awakening from the burial of winter. Each year the observance becomes more general and vies with Christmas as a day of religious celebration.

At the Methodist Episcopal church a program of unusual excellence was rendered by the Sunday-school children, and a sermon by Rev. Tuttle. The floral offerings were numerous, the music effective. The program was as follows:

Song "All Hail".....The School
Invocation.....The Pastor
Song "The Lily".....Primary Department
Recitation, "Easter Flowers".....Mrs. Page's and Miss Elvidge's Class.

Recitation, "Crowning the Cross".....By the Girls
Song, "Up From the Tomb".....Miss Meyers
Song, "Far Off Bells".....By the School.

At St. Ann's Catholic church no special program of music was given. The church was beautifully decorated with a profusion of flowers and potted plants. The altar was resplendent with Easter lilies and geraniums. Rev. Father Quinn of Woodstock conducted the service and a choir from the Sunday-school rendered appropriate music. Miss Costello of Seattle, Washington, who is visiting here, presided at the organ.

At the Baptist church Rev. Blanchard delivered an eloquent discourse at the morning service and the choir rendered a number of beautiful selections. The church was embellished with floral tributes consisting of ferns and flowers. In the evening the following entertaining program was given by the Sunday-school assisted by the choir:

Opening Chorus.....Sunday-school

ASK CHANGE IN CIVIC BILL.

Country Towns Seek to Alter Proposed Federation Measure.

Delegates from the Country Towns' Federation and Civic Federation of Chicago met in convention at Chicago last Saturday, to debate the features of the bill now pending before the judiciary committee of the legislature relative to the consolidation of country townships with the city of Chicago. The township of Barrington was represented by Messrs. Leroy Powers, J. C. Plagge, A. H. Boehmer and Frank Robertson. The session was a lively one as the resolution contained a number of provisions not acceptable to country town delegates.

We publish the resolution in full that our people may know just what the issue is. The matter in italics is what the country delegates wished to have eliminated from the bill; the matter in gothic type is what the country members desire added:

HOUSE JOINT RESOLUTION NO. 22.
Resolved, by the House of Representatives, the Senate concurring herein, That there shall be submitted to the voters of this state at the next election of members of the General Assembly, a proposition to amend the seventh section to the tenth article of the constitution of this state that the same shall read as follows:

Section 7. The General Assembly may provide for the consolidation of city, county, township, park district, sanitary district and other governmental functions, or a part thereof, within the limits of the city of Chicago or Cook county, or any part thereof, and no act providing for or amending such consolidation scheme, or relating to the governmental affairs of the city of Chicago or the county of Cook hereinafter named, shall be held invalid for violating any provision of this article, or any provision of Section 22 of Article IV of this constitution, relating to county, township or municipal affairs. Such consolidation scheme shall provide that a county shall be formed of within which shall be the territory comprising the present or future limits of the city of Chicago, and which shall be known as the County of Chicago, and shall provide for courts and county government and for fixing the county seats by a vote of the legal voters thereof for the remainder of Cook county, as in the case of new counties, and shall provide a just method of apportioning the debts and property of Cook county between the counties constituted or affected. Not more than two counties shall be formed from such remaining territory, and it may be provided that the courts of record and county offices of such new county or counties shall be located within the city of Chicago.

No act providing a scheme of consolidation hereunder shall take effect until submitted to the vote of the electors of said Cook county at a separate election to be held thereafter, and ratified by a majority of the legal voters voting thereon, of the city of Chicago, and also by a like majority of the legal voters voting thereon of that portion of Cook county outside of said city, and any amendment thereto shall be ratified by a majority of the electors voting thereon of the district affected before taking effect. Upon the taking effect of a scheme of consolidation hereunder, all the provisions of this constitution relating to Cook county, shall be deemed to apply to said county of Chicago.

The authorities of such city or county of Chicago shall not be given power to permit the sale of intoxicating liquors in any district where such sales are prohibited at the time of the adoption of this amendment.

The General Assembly may provide for abolishing the offices of justice of the peace and constable within the city of Chicago or the county of Chicago, when established, and for the substitution thereof of other courts and officers to be elected or appointed as may be provided by law.

The one article that caused the most stubborn division of opinion related to the boundary lines of the new (proposed) counties. The country delegates wanted fixed lines to prevent future incorporation, willy-nilly, into the City of Chicago. This was objected to by representatives of the Civic Federation. The bill as amended (portions in italic and gothic as here printed) by the Country Towns' Federation was left with representatives of the Civic Federation for decision as to whether the revisions would be accepted, and in case they are not the country towns will take immediate steps to oppose the bill at Springfield.

A Remarkable Record.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has a remarkable record. It has been in use for nearly thirty years, during which time many millions of bottles have been sold and used. It has long been the standard and main reliance in the treatment of croup in thousands of homes, yet during all this time no case has ever been reported to the manufacturers in which it failed to effect a cure. When given as soon as the child becomes hoarse or even as soon as the croupy cough appears, it will prevent the attack. It is pleasant to take, many children like it. It contains no opium or other harmful substance and may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult. For sale by Chas. E. Churchill.

LOVE IS BEST

By Florence Hodgkinson

CHAPTER XII.

It was springtime at Easthill-on-Sea, and things were settling down again. Mrs. Dynevor, with her son and daughter, still lived at the Up-lands, but with no fear now of the mortgage foreclosing. It was generally believed—and specially so by Harold—that the interest was paid to the young mistress of the Manor; really it went into the local bank account of "Kitty Dynevor," for Lillian knew that Allick Craven's wooing would soon end successfully, and wanted Kitty to have a nice little sum in hand for her trousseau.

Woodlands was a school no longer. Mrs. Tanner lived at the Manor as chaperon to Miss Dynevor; and Lillian, thoughtful in all things, had insisted on purchasing an annuity of two hundred a year for her friend, so that, as she put it, if she did not live long Mrs. Tanner need not open a school again.

Mrs. Dynevor and Kitty were often at the Manor, and loved Lillian even better than they had loved Miss Lendon; but Harold never went there, and when he met his cousin at Up-lands treated her with a cold reserve that almost broke her heart.

"Your brother was kinder to me when I was a poor little governess," she said to Kitty. And that damsel, then on the eve of her wedding, lectured Harold pretty sharply on his manner to her favorite.

"You don't understand," he said coldly. "Lillian is rich, we are poor, and that makes a gulf between us."

"But it need not," Kitty persisted.

Lillian and the twins were her bridesmaids when the June day came that made her Mrs. Allick Craven; and somehow, when the happy pair had driven off, Harold found himself alone in the garden with the chief bridesmaid.

"It went off very well," he remarked, "I never saw Kitty look better."

"No. I think they will be very happy," she said quietly.

"I suppose yours will be the next wedding in the family, Lillian? It is high time you chose a prince consort for the Manor."

"Only that I am not going to do anything of the sort," she answered. "I thought I heard Mrs. Tanner say something about changes at the Manor."

"Yes; but they need not mean matrimony," she hesitated. "You were so kind to me in the old days, when first I came to Easthill, that I would like to tell you my plans. I am quite sure I am not fit to be a great lady, and I should like to feel that my life was of use to some one, so I am going to London to be trained as a hospital nurse."

"Lillian!"

"And as my life will be spent among sick folk, you see, I shall never want the Manor; and you are the last of the Dynevors—you would make me very happy, Harold, if you would go back to the old home which was to have been yours, which would have been yours if I had never been born."

"Lillian, you know it is impossible!"

"I know you have shunned the Manor lately; but if it was your own?"

"I have only shunned it because something it contained was growing all too dear to me. Lillian, did you ever guess my secret—that I loved you with all my heart, and but for the gulf between our fortunes I should have asked you to be my wife?"

"And I thought you hated me because I was my mother's daughter."

"I love you dearly; I have loved you ever since the old days, when I thought you were only a penniless little teacher."

"I wish I had been," she answered wistfully. "I don't think money has brought me much happiness. But Harold, when I go to the hospital you must take the Manor; the dear old place can't be left desolate."

And then Harold Dynevor's love conquered his pride. He took Lillian in his arms, and whispered that he would only take the gift with the giver.

And now Dynevor Manor is a happy home, and children who bear the old name make merry in the nursery Mrs. Craven had been afraid to use.

The End.

Lesson in Astronomy

It was the third week of our trip across the plains. We were now just seventy-five miles from Fremont, and expected to make it very shortly; but on rising I was disgusted to find that one of the horses—we had only two—was dead lame. He had cast himself in the night. I was rubbing the strained tendons when the professor came and stood beside me.

"How long before he will be ready for work again?"

"I don't know," I said shortly. "He's that all right."

"What is a near estimate?" he inquired, with a touch of mild irritation.

"Surely in these days of scientific exactitude so slight a matter as the length of a horse's lameness may be computed with reasonable accuracy."

"I just wish you'd try it, then," I said, sulkily. "He may be ready to-morrow—we may have to wait two weeks—unless you want to ride the mare in. I don't mind walking."

"And leave my specimens to the mercy of any Yahoo that happens along? My dear Curtis, I could not think of it! Since there's only you and I we can make ourselves very comfortable. But I do hope the creature will be all right in a short time. I am anxious to be in Fremont to study the collision of the comet with my colleague there."

"Collision of the comet!" I repeated straightening up. There's nothing so tiresome as rubbing a sprain."

"Certainly! That brilliant comet to which I have called your attention for several nights, will surely collide with the earth, in a few days at farthest. The phenomenon will prove a rare and wonderful one, though astronomers have often expected such an occurrence. Unfortunately, something always seemed to interfere."

"May the interference continue," I said, laughing. "I don't believe this old world will be smashed up yet awhile."

"I did not say it would be smashed," returned the professor with some dignity. "The most advanced theorists agree in saying that the comet itself is now only in a gaseous form, and that now only in a gaseous form, and that—"

"Hallowell," I interrupted, "go and make the coffee. We can discuss gaseous comets while we eat."

Three days passed, and the black was no better. As miseries never come single, his mate, a pretty mare, having the undue curiosity of her sex, experimented with a tempting weed, and was in a very serious condition when I found her. I dosed her with several remedies, getting little help from the professor. He was so busy watching a cloud that lay along the horizon that I was tempted to smash his telescope in order to bring him down to mundane affairs. Having done what I could for the poor mare, I came back to the wagon.

"I don't believe she'll pull through," I said savagely.

The professor squinted one eye up a little tighter.

"Amazing!" he murmured. "It travels with scarcely the speed of a locomotive. I marvel the velocity is no greater—doubtless the earth's gravity exercises a controlling influence at present." Then, in a different tone, "Curtis, there's a buffalo calf coming toward us. I suppose you would not be interested if I told you of the arrival of something really important."

I took the glass out of his hand.

"It's not a calf, Hallowell. It's a man—riding like the deuce. What do you reckon is the matter?"

Hallowell was from the east and was not used to southern localisms.

"It is impossible to reckon anything on so slight a basis," he answered seriously—then made a wild dive at something that floated by. When he turned to me there was a shining bubble in his hand.

"The comet!" he shouted. "The collision has occurred."

"Do you call that thing a comet?" I asked contemptuously. "I might say to you with Festus—'Much learning hath made the mad.'"

"It is a detached fragment from the main body of the gas," he replied, dancing triumphantly around. "The comet as a whole is that faint cloud you see yonder."

"The deuce it is," I said anxiously. "We shall smother or be blown away. I remember you said something about its traveling like a train."

"Not blown away," corrected the professor. "We can take refuge in the hole by that hemlock yonder. As to our chance of smothering, I wonder you can mention such a trifle in the face of material of such overwhelming scientific interest. I think—"

We were interrupted by a cry from the advancing horseman. I saw that he was using whip and spur on his mount, and that the latter instead of responding was evidently played out. Indeed, as he reached us, the poor brute went down. His rider staggered up before I could lend him assistance.

"For God's sake let me have a horse!" he exclaimed entreatingly. "I am on my way from X—, to Fremont, with a pardon for my brother. If I do not reach the town before 12 to-morrow, the best man that ever buckled will die for no worse fault than putting a bullet through that hound, Pistol Pete. It is nearly 5 now!"

"You shall have the horse and welcome," I replied, for the young fellow's manly face was haggard with an awful grief, "but one is dead lame, and the other is too ill to stand."

He made a rush for the horses to satisfy himself, and came back with a gesture of despair that went to my heart.

"Look!" he cried wildly, drawing out an envelope. "There's a life in that paper—and I have ridden—ridden—and met with one hindrance after another!"

The professor looked at him pityingly.

"How limited are the capabilities of the body compared with the desires of the spirit," he murmured.

"I cannot bear it!" cried the stranger, frantically. "They told me that was a good horse—the liars!"

He flung himself on the ground and, hard, dry sobs shook his chest.

The professor picked up the glass.

"In less than an hour it will be here," he said thoughtfully.

"Thank God I am not a scientist," I said rudely. "You fellows have about as much feeling as the dry bones you study."

The professor ignored me, and shook the prostrate man.

"Get up," he said, commandingly, a new note in his voice. "De as I tell you, and your brother may be saved yet."

The man rose. We both stared at Hallowell. I wondered if he had really gone crazy.

"Take the tongue off the wagon," he said curtly, "and spread the cover and all the cloth you can find on the ground near me."

For a moment I hesitated; then it dimly occurred to me that even a bookworm might have original ideas, and I said sotto voce to the newcomer—

"Do as he says; he's by no means as big a fool as he looks."

I rather think Hallowell overheard me, for he shot a distinctly ungrateful glance in my direction, but he could say nothing, as we were both now zealously obeying him.

He made us cut the great cloth cover in two large sails, and these we fastened on the wagon under his orders.

"Surely—surely," I gasped, "you don't think that you can make that cloud of gas help us? Why, it's fading away!"

"It is not fading," said the professor, brusquely. "It seems much fainter because you are so near it and because of the action of the sun on it. Do as I tell you—there's no time to lose."

When he was satisfied he made us scramble into the wagon and we sat there, waiting for—what? Three apparently sane men in a horseless wagon, waiting for a sky motor which momentarily grew fainter! When ten minutes passed by outraged dignity asserted itself.

"I won't be made a fool of," I said, angrily, and started to leave the wagon.

Hallowell pushed me back on my seat. Then I became aware of a sickening odor—a fresh breeze on my back—a pale mist around us shot with brilliant hues, and lo! we were running over the plain at a rate that threatened to wreck the wagon—our sails swelled out like two great wings.

My hair was rapidly assuming a vertical position, but the two faces near me showed utter unconsciousness of danger. That of the stranger was burning with joy and reverent thankfulness. To him it was a God-sent miracle for a good man's rescue. The professor was radiant over this new factor in his knowledge and he muttered his observations aloud. Neither seemed disturbed by the fact that from the speed and the smell, breathing was no easy matter. As to me—my one hope was that I might touch old earth again safely.

On, on we flew. Again and again I expected an immediate smashup, but our wagon was of fine and strong make, the plain was level, and we bade fair to reach the town shortly. In less than two hours we were not three miles from Fremont!

Then a terrible idea flashed on me which I had been too hurried to think of before. We should pass the town! Like the brook, we might go on forever—or at least far enough to wreck us on the broken lands beyond. As to the stranger, the trip would have been of no earthly use to him.

"I shall jump," he said simply, as if in answer to an outspoken inquiry. The professor was looking anxious but he said nothing.

But we had forgotten the little river lying near the town. We struck it like a cyclone, and its four feet of water was whipped into wild spray around us, while the wagon spun like a frantic top, then stopped with a lurch that nearly sent us flying. Either the force of our motor was lessening or perhaps, even at its best, it would not have had time or strength to loosen the wagon from the heavy snag driven between the spokes, for the pale gas rushed on, leaving three dripping men and some ruined specimens in the river, with Fremont not 500 yards away.

TEUTONS IN FRANCE.

Parts of the Republic Are as Much German as the Fatherland.

The northern third of France and half of Belgium are today more Teutonic than the south of Germany. This should not occasion surprise when we remember the incessant downpour of Teutonic tribes during the whole historic period. It was a constant procession of Goths—from all points of the compass—Franks, Burgundians, and others. France was entirely overrun by the Franks, with the exception of Brittany, by the middle of the sixth century, says the London Express. All through the middle ages this part of France was German in language and customs as well. The very name of the country is Teutonic. It has the same origin as Franconia in Southern Germany. In 812 the council of Tours, away down south, ordained that every bishop should preach both in the Romance and the Teutonic languages. The Franks preserved their German speech 400 years after the conquest. Charlemagne was a German. His courtiers were all Germans. He lived and governed from outside the limits of modern France. The Abbe Sleyes uttered an ethnological truism when, in the course of the French revolution, he cried out against the French aristocracy: "Let us send them back to their German marshes whence they came."

Removal from County Jails.

One of the measures before the legislature of North Carolina provides that all criminals—condemned to capital punishment shall be removed from the county jails immediately upon conviction, to the state penitentiary to await the execution of their sentence.

STORIES FROM OUR EXCHANGES

The career of Jonathan Prentiss Dolliver, the mountain boy who became a senator, is entertainingly described by Cyrus Patterson Jones in Success for March. The senator's love of humor is thus described:

"His wit is one of the most attractive of his gifts. He can tell a story with wonderful effect. His keen sense of humor would have made him a comedian if nature had not cast his other faculties in a more serious mold. Therefore his fun only crops out at times."

"When I asked him when and where he first began to consider himself famous he said:

"My first term in congress gave me my first sense of exaltation. The people up in the Iowa hills had a little lake, and they named it after me. Then a new postoffice was named in my honor, and a colored woman named her baby after me. I began to think of engaging a niche in some temple of fame."

"But, in my second term, I was disillusioned. A climatic disturbance dried up the lake, free delivery wiped out the postoffice, and the child died—and I found myself back at the very place whence I started!"

"A few years ago Mr. Dolliver was invited to deliver a lecture in St. Paul and Minneapolis, Minn., before the Young Men's Christian association, lyceum. In each city the hall was crowded, some 1,500 young men attending. His topic was 'Chances for Young Men.'"

"That," said he to me, "was a favorite topic with me. As in the case of your own publication, I believed in young men, and liked to talk with them, knowing full well that if one can stir them up to energy and ambition he is doing a grand work in the world."

"Well, I have not changed my opinion since the delivery of that lecture, but, when I got back to Washington to resume my congressional duties, a week later, I began to hear from those particular young men. Letters began to pour in on me. They came in bunches of two and three, then in dozens, and finally in basketfuls. Every St. Paul and Minneapolis young man who had heard me declare that this is the young man's age wrote that he fully agreed with me—and asked me to get him a government job!"

INDIAN GIRL IN ROME

"She is the brightest, most winsome little tot of a girl that we've brought across the Atlantic in many a day," said Commander Englebart of the North German Lloyd liner Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse yesterday morning, reports the New York Times. The object of his praise was a 9 year old Indian child from the Rocky mountain region of Montana. Kolinzuten, which in the court language of the Flathead Indians means "child of God," is the name of the diminutive maiden, who, when she landed, prompted an admiring coterie that surrounded her on the pier that she was just returning from Rome, where, with KOLINZUTEN.

Mother Provincial Mary Amandeus of Helena, Mont., she had gone to see Pope Leo.

Kolinzuten is an inmate of the convent of the Ursuline nuns at Helena, Mont., an institution where nearly 500 Indian children are being educated.

"This little girl," said Mother Amandeus yesterday, "accompanied me as the representative of the 500 Indian children who are being educated in the diocese of Helena by the Ursuline nuns. Dressed in the costume of her people, with her gay feathers and bright-colored dress, she was presented to the holy father. When she appeared his holiness exclaimed in his eagerness, 'Who is this child? Who is this child?' blessing her several times during the audience. Kolinzuten is a member of the Flathead tribe—a tribe that boasts of never having shed the blood of a white man."

COULDN'T FIND THE MAN

One of those drummers who does a good deal of driving about the country delights in telling about an old-time boniface who runs a country hotel within a day's drive of Detroit, says the Detroit Free Press.

"Sharp as a tack," declared the drummer. "Always as smooth as oil until some one tries to make a run on him, and then he can get back harder, faster and in fewer words than any man I ever heard talk."

"I saw a man come in there one day

"WHERE'S THE MAN?" ASKED THE OLD CHAP.

from the city. He is all right at home, but was feeling his oats that day, and opened up on the old landlord by saying: 'Hello, granddad, get your frame into circulation. Don't set around here like a bump on a log. I want accommodation for man and beast.'

"Where's the man?" asked the old chap, in a flash."

TRAIN YOUR BOYS.

Sons Should Be Orderly and Systematic in the House.

A wise mother, will impress upon her sons, as well as upon her daughters, the importance and comfort of being orderly in the household. It is usual for the mother to strive to make her daughter systematic and tidy, to induce her to keep her bureau drawers, her closet and her room in order; to put away her clothes carefully, and to make her bed properly; but the boy has all these things done for him, and, consequently, never learns orderly habits, unless they come to him by nature. There is no sense in this distinction between the boy and the girl. Neatness and orderliness in regard to one's room and surroundings are as essential to a well-bred man as neatness of person, and the boy is at a disadvantage in whose home-training these points have been neglected. Mothers know that their sons are liable, after they are grown, to be away from their care for years before establishing homes of their own. It is a positive unkindness, therefore, to allow them to grow up with slovenly habits, which will cause them to be regarded as ill-bred by persons of refinement, and which will be a source of discomfort to themselves. It is becoming much more common than formerly for men to have a knowledge of domestic affairs. Many men would feel it as much of a disgrace to live in the midst of dirt and disorder, when thrown upon their own resources, as a woman would under similar circumstances. It is not unusual to find cultured men who take pride in being competent to perform the ordinary duties of the household. A knowledge of these duties is most convenient to any man, for in every home emergencies come in which his own comfort, and that of others, will depend upon his ability to do the necessary things in the right way; but if such proficiency as this is too much to expect from every man, mothers should see to it, at least, that their sons, equally with their daughters, are taught to take that care of their rooms and personal belongings which the requirements of refined living demand.—New York Weekly.

Congressman's Trouble About a Shave.
Congressman Mondell of Wyoming had an engagement with a theatrical party in Washington the other evening and at the last moment dashed out to get shaved. He found the barber shops closed and, having no razor of his own, borrowed one from a friend. He almost sliced his left ear off and now swears that at the next session of congress he will introduce a bill compelling barber shops to keep open all night.

Rooney Fats Turk on the Mat.
John J. Rooney, the Chicago wrestler, defeated Halli, the "Terrible Turk," in Alton in the first bout. Rooney, with many beautiful plays in the wrestling art, laid the big Turk's shoulders to the mat in nine and one-half minutes. In the second bout Rooney laid the "Terrible Turk" down in four minutes, making the two downs in thirteen and one-half minutes. It took Jenkins just sixteen minutes to do the same place of work with the Turk.

A WEEK IN ILLINOIS.

RECORD OF HAPPENINGS FOR SEVEN DAYS.

Galena Officials Break Up a Gang Who Have Been Robbing Railroad Cars in the Yards of Three Systems—Lombard's Coming Jubilee.

Teachers Feel Confident.
Argument in the teachers' mandamus proceeding against the state board of equalization at Springfield has been concluded. Attorney E. S. Smith, for the petitioners, made the closing argument. The matter will be referred to Judge O. P. Thompson for his decision. It is quite likely that he will take the matter under advisement, and a decision is not expected for several days. The teachers seem confident that they will be granted the writ, while the attorneys for the respondents give no answer to questions on the matter. Attorney John S. Miller for the respondents completed his argument. One of his principal arguments was that the present revenue law is based upon uniformity, the same as the Australian ballot law is based upon the secrecy of ballot and not the intention of the voter. From this theory Mr. Miller made the deduction that, even admitting that the corporations complained of had been taxed upon one-fiftieth or one-hundredth of their actual values, the petitioners had made no effort to prove that other corporations or individuals had been taxed on a greater per cent of valuation. Mr. Miller also argued that the teachers had proved no wrongdoing or conspiracy on the part of the members of the board to let any class of property escape its just taxation.

Charged with Robbing Cars.
P. D. O'Neill, special detective agent of the Chicago and Northwestern railroad, and Deputy Sheriff Jacob Melfey of Galena have arrested two members of a Galena gang of railroad thieves who for the last five years have been robbing Illinois Central, Chicago and Northwestern and Burlington freight cars in the Galena railroad yards. Hiram Starr and John Smith, firemen, were arrested as a result of a theft committed, when a Northwestern car was looted of its contents, which were transported by team to the home of Daniel Starr, father of one of the prisoners. Several dozen pairs of shoes, a large quantity of meat, canned goods and clothing were found in an obscure dugout at the Starr residence. The prisoners pleaded not guilty at the hearing. Other members of the gang are being sought for. The prisoners reside on an island in the Mississippi river, and a search of their home, the police say, will result in the discovery of several hundred dollars' worth of stolen property. Daniel Starr, at whose home a quantity of the stolen goods was found, is 98 years old and will be arrested in connection with the thefts.

Big Strike on at Peoria.
It is likely that there will be a general strike of all the organizations affiliate with the Building Trades' council of Peoria within a very short time. The painters are out, the carpenters will strike and it is expected that the plumbers, plasterers and tin roofers will follow shortly. The painters demand more money and shorter time and cannot reach an agreement with the master painters because the latter insist that they must first withdraw from the Building Trades' council, so that in event of a general strike the painters will not be affected. The master painters do not ask the journeymen to withdraw from the union, but maintain that the Building Trades' council should have no jurisdiction over them.

Mission Presidents Elected.
The Illinois branch of the Woman's Board of Missions of the Interior at Elgin elected the following: President, Mrs. George H. Clark, Chicago. Presidents of associations: Aurora, Mrs. James Hanna, Bureau; Mrs. J. B. Hannum, Buda. Central, Mrs. B. F. Boller, Pontiac. Central east, Miss E. Schrader, Chebanana. Central west, Mrs. Thomas McClellan, Galesburg. Elgin, Mrs. C. A. Miller, St. Charles. Fox River, Miss May E. McDougal, Ottawa. Quincy, Miss Abbie Hatch, Griggsville. Rockford, Mrs. J. L. Keep, Rockford. Rock River, Mrs. C. L. Grimes, Moline. Springfield, Mrs. J. B. Williams, Chapin. Southern, Mrs. F. B. Hines, Albion. Quincy was named as the next place of meeting.

Jubilee Due to Lombard.
Lombard college, at Galesburg is making extensive preparations to celebrate its fiftieth anniversary, June 2 to 6. Edwin H. Conger, minister to China and a graduate of the college of 1869, will be present. Gov. Richard Yates has accepted an invitation to be present if possible, and Harlow N. Higginbotham of Chicago will also probably be present. An effort will be made to increase the endowment fund. Peter A. Carlson committed suicide at Galesburg by shooting himself. Despondency was the cause.

Rooney Fats Turk on the Mat.
John J. Rooney, the Chicago wrestler, defeated Halli, the "Terrible Turk," in Alton in the first bout. Rooney, with many beautiful plays in the wrestling art, laid the big Turk's shoulders to the mat in nine and one-half minutes. In the second bout Rooney laid the "Terrible Turk" down in four minutes, making the two downs in thirteen and one-half minutes. It took Jenkins just sixteen minutes to do the same place of work with the Turk.

The dance at the M. W. A. hall on Monday evening was attended by 40 couples. Music was furnished by the Lakeside orchestra and a very pleasant time is reported. Mrs. Graham and Eloise Jenks furnished supper for the occasion and, to tell it mildly, it was fine, and speaks most highly for the two ladies who superintended the maneuvering.

HISTORY OF PALATINE.

COPYRIGHTED BY A. G. SMITH.

Grove Bennett, son of Robert and Sarah Bennett, was born in Nelson, O., September 26, 1815. He came to Palatine in 1837, taking up a government claim east of the Grove in sections 11 and 12. He was engaged one year on the Illinois canal and one year in the lead mines at Galena. In 1842 he returned to his farm and lived there until 1873, when he moved to the village of Palatine. He was married to Miss Hannah McKee in 1844. Mr. Bennett held the contract for carrying the mail from Wheeling to Deer Grove in the early '40's and he was faithful in his burdensome labor. He carried the small parcel of mail in a bag strung over his shoulder and rode his horse back and forth. He announced his approach to the settlement by blowing a horn and the settlers would gather at Mason Sutherland's house, where the post office was located, to get the latest news from the East. Mr. Bennett carried mail once a week and the government paid him the magnificent sum of $5.00 per year for his work. When the station was put in at Palatine the Deer Grove office was abandoned.

Mr. Bennett died in Palatine December 27, 1895, at the age of 80 years. His widow died here a few years later. The children living are: Albert L., who resides with his family at Palatine; Austin is married and lives at Dundee and Delia Anderson lives in Chicago.

Thomas, Andrew and James Wilson came from Toronto, Canada, with three teams, via Detroit, and came in Joliet December 5, 1839. They worked on the canal there one year and then came to Palatine. James and Thomas worked the Dunton place of 40 acres, situated 1 1/2 miles south-west of the present village. In 1841 James returned to New York and brought his father and mother back with him. His father purchased 40 acres of government land and James bought 40 acres. Andrew afterwards purchased 80 acres more from the government, all located near where they first settled. Andrew, sr., died on the old homestead and his wife died January 21, 1844, aged 97 years.

Thomas Falls Wilson was born in Ireland, September 15, 1810, and came here with his parents. He married Mary A. Norton in New York November 1, 1832. He was licensed to preach in 1849 and for three years served on the Lake circuit in Lake county. He later settled in Palatine, where often he preached on various occasions. "Uncle Tommy," as he was familiarly called, was beloved and respected by all. For his second wife he married Mrs. Mary Buck November 2, 1869. He died in Palatine October 1, 1886.

James Wilson was born in Schenectady county, N. Y., April 23, 1820, and came to Palatine to remain permanently in 1845. He took up a claim of 160 acres which he soon cultivated. He sold his farm and moved into the village in 1870, where until a few months ago he was proprietor of the Palatine nursery. In June, 1845, he was married to Sophia Fulkerson, who died in 1869. He married Libbie Whitman, to whom two children were born. Rollin died in childhood and Libbie lives with him. After his second wife's death he married Miss Nettie H. Helm, who died in Arizona in 1892. On December 13 of the same year he married Mrs. Desda Robinson and they now reside in Phoenix, Arizona.

William died in 1896, John died in Ohio at the age of 63 years, Andrew died in September, 1842, Alexander died in Wheeling in 1890, Jane McMillen lives in Terra Cotta, Ill.; Margaret died in New York, aged 10; David died in West Union, Ia., in 1897; Henry lives in Parsons, Kansas; Marie Hyde lives in Albert Lee, Minnesota, and Matilda Martin lives in Lake City, Minn.

RAILWAY GOSSIP

About the Boys Who Are Admired and Respected by Everybody.

Engine 678, that pulls the "Dolan Popular," came out Tuesday noon looking as bright as a new ten dollar gold piece. Her jacket shone like the heel of an Ethiopian; the number plate was as brilliant as the ornament on a Chicago alderman's shirt front. The interior of the cab was a revelation. The decorations are in crylight green and Tuscan maroon. A handsome pattern of linoleum covers the otherwise exposed woodwork 'neath the upholstered couches of engineer and fireman. The decorations are the handiwork of Engineer Thorp and Fireman Nicholson, who (it is not generally known) served their time under instructions of the old masters in their childhood's home on the banks of the bay of Naples. No. 678 is none too pretty to pull the "Popular," the cab none too handsomely decorated to match the good looking occupants.

George Vermilya, former station agent at Woodstock, has begun work as brakeman on the Wisconsin division milk express. Mr. Vermilya will become a resident of Harvard and move his family there in a few weeks.

ooo

The handsome countenance of that sweet singer and well-balanced monologue artist, Chet Purcell, illuminated the cab of No. 95 last Saturday afternoon. Chet is a chip off the old block and a thorough engineer—it was born in him.

ooo

Ed Dolan, who pulls the throttle on No. 694, can boast of pulling the best paying train on this end of the Wisconsin division—the milk express. For years the dwellers along the line have set their timepieces by the milk express—it is always on time. There is a story about Dolan that shows he is a man quick to grasp an opportunity. Sometime ago the supply of butter-milk in Chicago was low, some enterprising dealer had cornered the market. Ed said he'd bust the combination, and he did. He started out of Harvard with the throttle wide open and when he brought up at the platform at Halstead and Indiana streets, Chicago he had churned the ten cars of lacteal fluid into the finest lot of buttermilk ever placed on sale in the metropolis. Yes, he's a runner.

Among the popular men who run in the Chicago-Barrington suburban service are Engineer Robert Purcell and Fireman John Hill. "Bob" Purcell is a veteran at the throttle and what he don't know about a railway locomotive is not worth knowing. He is a familiar figure on this end of the division, and when commuters board a coach attached to No. 633 they know that they are going through to the Wells street station. A gentleman remarked the other day that "Bob" could roll 'em in all right if he should lose a couple of drivers along the road. The Purcell home on Main street is a monument to his thrift and capabilities as a wage earner. John Hill, who keeps 633 warm, is a direct descendant of Mulhoolan O'Hill who, in a 97 hour contest whipped the sultan of Turkey at the battle of the Nile. It was from this illustrious ancestor that John inherited his capacity for debating public questions, and John has prostrated many. He is one of the whitest, most good natured boys that ever fed a fire. His home is amongst us and we hope he may remain until called to higher station.

There are engineers who have lived many years and accomplished many feats of note but none of them have as yet succeeded in raising the hair on a bald headed man any quicker than William Loco. Will is one of those railway men who has knocked the rough edges off of life by traveling around considerable. He has been a close observer, and consequently is as full of general information as an egg is full of meat. As a master of his engine No. 601, he don't take a rear seat for any of them. Will is well known and never fails to respond to a salutation. He was walking through the waiting room of the Northwestern station one day when a colored individual said "Hullo, Bill!" Mr. Loco turned around and replied "Hello!" whereupon the ebony-hued piece of humanity shouted, "Cuse me sah, I'se 'dressing that other cullud man." Will is a Baptist, or at least he was baptized last fall. He is a mighty good, all around gentleman and has a host of friends on the line.

Chicago's vast expanse.

The capture of an eagle in Chicago recalls attention to that city's vast expanse. It is rumored that several large herds of bison are still at large in the northern wards, while traces of living mammoths and remains of a comparatively recent dodo's nest have been reported from the jungles of the far south. The coming spring will probably see the setting out of several hunting parties after "big game," while a scientific exploring expedition in search of the traditional mountains of the moon is contemplated.—New York Tribune.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address F. J. ## ANCIENTS LIVED IN LUXURY.

Discoveries in Crete Show a Remote Civilization of a High Order.

In an article the North American Review Mr. Charles Waldstein Slade, professor of the fine arts in King's College, Cambridge, endeavors to interpret the significance of the results of the excavations recently made in the island of Crete by Messrs. Evans and Hogarth. Nothing, Prof. Waldstein thinks, of so striking a nature has been found since the days of Schliemann. The material unearthed in Crete belongs to a period as remote as the fifteenth century before Christ, and it gives the impression of a civilization of a very high order: "People lived in a developed social organization, in ease and comfort, nay, in luxury. The various handicrafts and arts were practiced with great variety and proficiency; wood, ivory and metals were carved, turned, beaten, soldered and combined in the most skillful manner; architecture and paintings and architectural sculpture reached a comparatively very high state of perfection, a stage higher than we have evidence of for several centuries succeeding this era. And now, through the most brilliant discovery of Mr. Evans, we learn that they even possessed the art of writing. For he has found written documents in the Hellenic lands at least seven centuries earlier than the first known monuments of historic Greek writing."

A WOMAN'S HEART.

Mrs. Samuel G. Dyer Tells a Harrowing Tale of Suffering.

M'Carroll, Mich., April 8.—(Special.)—Mrs. Samuel G. Dyer of this place has given the following interesting letter for publication:

"For years I suffered intense pain in the region of the heart. I doctored with the best physicians. Some of them would relieve me for a short time, but the pain always returned. My heart was so bad that I would have to sit up in bed for hours, to get relief. I would lie awake almost all night. I am 62 years of age, and no one can understand how much I suffered with this Heart Trouble.

"About a year ago I heard of Dodd's Kidney Pills, and commenced to use them. From the first my condition improved. The pain in my heart gradually grew less, and my general health much better, and now I can say positively that I am entirely cured. I can sleep all night, and enjoy almost perfect health. I thank God for the cure that has come to me through the use of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"I have thought long over the matter of giving this letter for publication, and am doing so now without any solicitation whatever, and simply because I feel it to be my duty to express the profound gratitude I feel for my recovery, and to let others who may be suffering as I was know how they may find a cure. I know that nothing else but Dodd's Kidney Pills cured me, because I have taken no other medicine for over a year. I feel better now than I have for many years, and it is all due to the use of Dodd's Kidney Pills."

Mrs. Dyer's case and its cure has attracted a great deal of attention, and her letter is a splendid tribute to the curative properties of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

TYPHOID EPIDEMIC.

THE TYPHOID GERMS ARE NOT INHALED.

They Are Swallowed with Water or with Food—The Eating of Raw Vegetables Attended with Danger—Warning Given by Scientists.

Ashland's epidemic of typhoid fever is undoubtedly due to her drinking water, in regard to the character of which there has been more or less complaint for some time past; but there are other causes for typhoid epidemics, as the disease is one that is quite easily disseminated, says the Milwaukee Wisconsin. Typhoid germs are not inhaled; they are swallowed, with water or with food. General cleanliness is therefore recommended, in addition to care as to the water supply. Foods that are cooked are thus made innocuous, as the germs are destroyed by the heat; but uncooked foods, or food articles that are handled in shops after they have been cooked, may carry typhoid germs into the alimentary system. Vegetables are a source of infection, and unfortunately it is quite difficult to avoid risks in the consumption of raw vegetables, such as lettuce, celery, radishes, cabbage, or tomatoes. The fact was recently announced that Prof. Guadali, of the bureau of hygiene of Rome, has observed a close connection between the prevalence of typhoid fever and the seasons during which raw vegetables are consumed. This led to microscopical examinations of lettuce, celery and the other vegetables which are generally consumed in a raw state, with results which demonstrate that such vegetables may become a source of infection. The findings of Prof. Guadali have been duplicated by Dr. H. W. Wiley, chief chemist of the department of agriculture, who states that he is in perfect agreement with the foreign scientists who have come to regard raw vegetables as one of the leading sources of typhoid infection. The "truck farms" and "market gardens" on the outskirts of large cities are in many instances fertilized with sewage, refuse of various kinds, and street sweepings. The vegetables from these farms are particularly dangerous, and the health officers who have given the subject their attention are in favor of official inspection in order to safeguard consumers against infection with typhoid fever. The scientists who have been investigating the vegetables are not warning people against the eating of lettuce, celery, etc.; on the contrary, they declare that it would not be wise to discourage the consumption of such products of the fields and gardens. But they suggest the sterilization of vegetables which are eaten raw, by the use of a three per cent solution of tartaric acid. After the vegetables are washed in the solution they should be washed a second time, in sterilized water. It is said that tartaric acid is easily removed, and that even should a small amount remain after the treatment, it will neither injure the flavor of the vegetable nor the health of the consumer. The only thing involved by the precaution is the time of the cook or the cook's helper.

He Loved Animals.

Charles Kingsley's love for everything that had life was remarkable. He spoke of all living creatures as his friends, and saw in them the handiwork of God. On his lawn lived a family of natterjacks (running toads) that dwelt from year to year in the same hole in a green bank which a scythe was never allowed to approach. He had two little friends in a pair of sand-wasps that made their home in a crack of the window frame in his dressing room. One of these he had saved from drowning in a hand basin taking it tenderly into the sunshine to dry. Every spring he would look eagerly for this pair of wasps or their children, watching for them to come out from or return to the same crack. The little flycatcher that built its nest every year under his bedroom window was a constant joy to him. He had also a favorite slowworm in the churchyard, which his parishioners were warned not to kill under the mistaken idea that slowworms were poisonous. The same love for God's creatures was encouraged in his children. He taught them to admire and to handle gently every living thing. Toads, frogs, beetles and worms were to them not repulsive things, to be killed as soon as seen, but wonders from the hand of God.—Youth's Companion.

World's Oldest Inhabitants.

The oldest persons in the world, according to facts gathered by the Hundred Year Club of New York, are Izal Rodofsky, of Moscow, Russia, who is in his 136th year, and Mrs. Nancy Hollifield, of Battle Creek, Mich., who is 117. Rodofsky was reported by Dr. Joseph Jorinsky, of Moscow, who says the old man comes of a long-lived family. His father died at 120 years. Rodofsky's sight is good, but his hearing is poor. Mrs. Hollifield has lived a temperate, simple life, doing housework for years.

Lloyd Mistaken for Roosevelt.

Thomas Jefferson Lloyd, an assistant door-keeper of the United States senate, though in a general way totally unlike Vice-President Roosevelt, yet in some mysterious way always strikes one as resembling the strenuous New Yorker. Visitors to the national capital often mistake his identity and even Washington officials fall into the same error.

If every one in the world were healthy and happy what a glad day Easter would be. But the sun rises every Easter morning on a multitude of sick and afflicted. The Easter lilies gladden the hearts of the sick and well alike.

But to the sick something more than the Easter lily is necessary to bring that hope and cheer which every one expects on Easter day. The well need no physician, but the sick need a remedy.

Nearly one-half the people in the United States are suffering from some form or phase of catarrhal ailment. These ailments take different forms at different seasons of the year. In the springtime catarrh assumes a systemic form, producing nervousness, lassitude and general languor.

Systemic catarrh deranges the digestion and through deranged digestion it impoverishes or contaminates the blood. Thus we have blood diseases and nervous derangements through systemic catarrh.

Peruna is a specific for these cases. No other remedy yet devised by the medical profession is able to successfully meet so many phases of spring ailments as Peruna.

Men and women everywhere are praising Peruna as follows:

A First Class Tonic.
Wm. A. Collier, Assistant Paymaster U. S. N., writes: "I have taken Peruna and recommend it to those needing a first-class tonic."

A Great Tonic.
Hon. M. C. Butler, Ex-U. S. Senator and Ex-Governor of South Carolina, writes from Edgefield, S. C.: "I have been using Peruna for a short period and I feel very much relieved. It is indeed a wonderful medicine and besides a great tonic."

Splendid for the Nerves.
Robert B. Maniell, the famous actor, writes from New York City: "Peruna is splendid and most invigorating—refreshing to the nerves and brain."

For General Debility.
Hon. Jno. V. Wright, of the Law Department, General Land Office of Tennessee, writes: "I wish everyone who is suffering with general debility or prostration could know of Peruna."

THE BEST HE EVER SAW.
A Missourian Pronounces on the Farming Possibilities of Western Canada. Just at present considerable interest is being aroused in the fact that a few new districts (of limited acreage) are being opened up by the Canadian government in Saskatchewan and Assinibola (western Canada), and any information concerning this country is eagerly sought. Mr. W. R. Corser, of Higginsville, Lafayette Co., Mo., was a delegate there during last summer, and writing of his impressions he says: "I found surprising yields of grain of all descriptions. One farmer I visited threshed of 175 acres: "600 bushels of wheat from fifteen acres, 40 bushels to acre. "600 bushels of barley from ten acres, 60 bushels to acre. "15,000 bushels of oats from 150 acres, 100 bushels to acre. "The samples were all No. 1. "I also saw a considerable number of stock. Swine do well and there is no disease amongst them. They are a good source of income to the farmer. The cattle on the range beat anything I ever saw. Fat and ready for beef, fully matured and ripened on the nutritious grasses of the prairie. I am firmly convinced that this country offers better facilities for a poor man than any I have ever seen."

Information concerning these lands can be had from any agent of the government whose advertisement appears elsewhere in this paper.

Keen competition makes business conditions so difficult to successfully handle that not a single element that will aid in securing patronage should be neglected. The experience of years has demonstrated that advertising is of great benefit to the retail merchant and should be carefully studied.

Guy Lemmers of Woodstock has acquired the Hebron Tribune and taken possession. There is room for great improvement on that publication and Guy will no doubt take advantage of the opportunity and give the people of Hebron such a paper as they deserve. We wish Guy success in his efforts.

Elsewhere in this issue will be found the notice for election of members of the Board of Education of this village. This is an election that should interest every taxpayer. The funeral of Mrs. Mary Gibney was held Monday morning, services being conducted by Rev. Father Quinn of Woodstock at St. Ann's Catholic church. At the close of mass Father Quinn delivered a discourse in which he paid high tribute to the Christian life and many virtues of the deceased who was so closely connected with the work of the church. A large number of friends and acquaintances were in attendance to pay the last mark of respect to her who lived among them for half a century.

Easter weather was exactly right Sunday for the greatest enjoyment of the day by the greatest number. The cloudy promise of the morning was not fulfilled by rain. The sun shone often enough through the clouds to make the day cheerful, and the weather was not too cold for the women to display their new gowns unhindered by winter wraps, nor for the men to parade in their fashionable spring suits for which they had sacrificed many hard earned dollars.

The Pleasure club of Woodstock, an organization composed of some of the best gentlemen on this terrestrial globe, gave a minstrel performance lately. Among the artists we note the name of Charley Lemmers, the well-preserved editor of the Sentinel. If Charley could have been on the end and John Duffield of the Democrat on the opposite corner the audience would have witnessed a show out of the ordinary. Those two quill drivers could move an audience to tears or laughter by the endearing personal remarks they bestow on one another, not occasionally, but regularly. Manager Carroll neglected an opportunity.

We believe just as the gentleman does who was the victim and who told us about it. A friend of his was in trouble, deep, dark trouble. He had to have $6.50, and have it quick. He got it. Wishing to pay the donor for the favor he invited him across the street to sample the stuff that inebriates. There was congregated seven others who were not adverse to taking a smile. The man whose pocket now bulged from the effect of an overload of borrowed coin, asked the assembly to imbibe. The invitation was accepted. The generous hearted man had business outside. He forgot to return. The good samaritan was requested to pay 90 cents. He paid, but not without protest. The total was then $7.40. It was a Chinese trick performed by an American Buffalo. Moral: Never drink with a friend who borrows of you.

E. M. Blocks, the enterprising and up-to-date funeral director, has added to his establishment one of the finest funeral cars to be found outside the large cities. It is the product of the best makers of that class of work in this country, Cunningham & Co., of Rochester, N. Y., and Chicago. It is of latest design and finished in every detail in the richest manner. The interior trimmings are of heaviest broadcloth, silk and worsted fringe, silver guard rails and denominational emblems. The exterior finish is best ebony; the driver's seat being upholstered in finest broadcloth and morocco, silver hand rails, and surmounted by large silver ornamented lamps. It cost $1,000 and is a credit to the village, grand enough to transport the remains of king or emperor. Mr. Blocks is deserving the thanks of our people for furnishing the village with such a costly and beautiful vehicle.

WOMAN'S RELIEF CORPS Entertains Prominent Visitors and Enjoys an Afternoon.

Monday afternoon, April 10, 1901, will long be remembered by the members of Barrington W. R. C. and the guests who measured their hospitality. Never in the history of its organization has the corps entertained so many ladies prominent in W. R. C. work.

The noon train brought the visitors who were welcomed by a reception committee at the depot and escorted to the parlors of the M. E. church where the exercises of the afternoon were held. The guests of honor were Mrs. Emma Wallace, past National Department President, Florence O. McCloud, Department President, the latter accompanied by her staff, and Ida E. Palmer, Department Secretary. The following is a list of the ladies from Chicago besides the officers mentioned:

Sadie E. Hirsch Alma J. Ferguson Ella V. Hirsch Eva E. Bent Mary J. Miller Rose W. Weir Mary J. Miller Mary B. McCreary Mary Lewis Vitula Harrington Mattie Cureton M. B. Heavey Iva A. Blake

Four others were present who failed to register. The corps lately organized at Palatine was represented by the following ladies:

Mrs. Wallace—Nancy Sutherland Alma E. Arps Emma E. Matthei Edna Helsin A. R. Baldwin G. D. Stroker Zelpha Converse Minnie G. And erman Jennie M. Putnam Elvora Hunt

Misses—Mary Putnam Elvora Arps.

Mrs. Roberts, president of the Nunda corps. Mrs. Wallace delivered the chief address of the afternoon and it was an eloquent effort. Mrs. M. A. Bennett gave a reading and Miss Elvora Arps of Palatine a recitation. The dinner served was pronounced one of the most tempting spreads set before an assembly in Barrington for years, and was a substantial compliment to the ladies who prepared it. Taken as a whole the occasion was one of genuine enjoyment and added to the reputation of the local W. R. C. as entertainers of the highest order.

Chicago Highlands.

There is work in progress at the Highlands. Street cars are not running, as yet; no electric lights illuminate the unpaved thoroughfares; no limited trains stop at the yet to be constructed depot, but the syndicate promoters are going to erect something. Excavating is completed for the foundation of a foundry building 500 feet in length and 150 feet wide, brick and iron construction, and the mason work will be begun at once.

The C. & N. W. road has put in a spur track and lumber, iron and stone is coming along for the building. The old building near the crossing is being remodeled for a boarding house, and plans have been drawn for two dwellings to be built near the site of the foundry. Large bodies move slow and the Chicago Highlands association is g large body.

Most Unique in the State.

The little village of Shumway, in Shelby county, just southeast of Pana, is one of the most unique in the state of Illinois. It has one saloon. The proprietor pays $700 annual license for the exclusive privilege of dispensing drinks. Nearly all this money is spent in brick sidewalks, and, although there are only about 150 residents in the place, it has over two miles of brick sidewalks. The mayor and aldermen receive no salary. The town has no police, as each alderman is a policeman, and the saloon-keeper also has police powers.

The village clerk receives $18 a year, and he is the only officer who draws a salary. When there is a disturbance the whole town turns out and arrests the guilty parties. When they are fined the money goes to build more brick walks.

L. A. POWERS, Clerk.

Arbor Day.

April 26 will be celebrated in the schools as Arbor day, with lectures on forestry and tree planting, as is the usual custom. It is to be regretted that the day is not more generally observed than it is. All should try and heed the governor's proclamation by learning something about the trees if you cannot plant and care for one.

Eat a Whole Cabbage

If you want to, it won't hurt you. People used to think cabbage hung heavy in their stomachs. After each meal, no matter what you eat, take a dose of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. You will never suffer with constipation, indigestion, sick headache or stomach troubles. Chas. E. Churchill.

Grayslake is having a warm campaign for village officers. Editor Pickering is using his paper "to purify" the situation. He says: "It's up to you, gentlemen. The people of Grayslake don't want themselves or their ordinances to be the laughing stock of county, and all we have been asking for is good, honest laws, good government and a governing body which will treat all citizens right. If we are wrong or spiteful or persecuting, trot in your evidence. We will print it."

John Below of Barrington Center, had the index finger of his left hand cut entirely off about two weeks ago while cutting up meat with a hatchet. The member was entirely severed from the hand. A surgeon attended and put the finger in proper place. It is now healing and Mr. Below is able to move it. The member is conscious of the power of touch, and contains considerable blood. It is a very unusual case and has attracted much attention.

Cary is on the verge of organizing an Improvement association. The movement is being backed by the progressive men of the village, and meetings are being held for the discussion of the situation. The association is formed for the purpose of locating factories in Cary, improving the village and advancing public affairs in general.

Has Antioch a gold mine? asks the News of that place, and then relates its reason for asking the question in the following: Hiram Colegrove has shown us a sample of a 24k gold nugget, found among the dirt taken from a well on his farm, which was dug last fall. The history of the find is somewhat remarkable. About Thanksgiving time he killed some tame ducks raised on the farm, and in the crop of one of them a small gold nugget was found, together with several particles. The nuggets were taken to Chicago and pronounced by the government assayer to be 24k gold. Later a search was made through the dirt taken from the well and several nuggets and quartz rocks were found containing a large percentage of gold, but whether there is "pay dirt" there in sufficient quantity to be worth developing, is not known at the present time.
