She was born in Bennington county, Vermont, and came to Chicago with her husband and family of six children in 1844. At that time the ground on which now stands Chicago's skyscrapers was nothing more than a marsh, so Mrs. Hollister has been an eye witness to the whole of the growth of the city. Her trip from Vermont was made by way of the great lakes and Erie canal. Mrs. Hollister had two brothers and a father-in-law who fought with George Washington in the revolutionary war. She is noted among all her friends for her kindness, benevolence and lovable character. She now resides with her daughter, Mrs. Themas Cowin, at 2712 North Paulina street. Held for Keeping "Fence." Justin N. Semon, an Alexandria, Ind., merchant, charged with having received stolen goods, is on trial in the Madison circuit court. It is alleged that Semon has for several years been conducting a "fence," receiving stolen goods in large quantities from the crooks throughout this part of the country. Clothing, dry goods, shoes, etc., were received by Semon and shipped to Chicago firms. Howard Boone, serving a sentence in the Jeffersonville penitentiary for robbery, testified yesterday, confessing his guilt and incriminating three others. Twenty-five stores in gas belt cities were robbed by these men and in two months $5,000 worth of stolen goods were delivered to Semon. ITALY PLACED ON PEDESTAL.

Rapprochement Is Halled by the Parislan Press as an Accomplished Fact and Even Opponents Give Praise to Loubet -Friendly Expressions.

The satisfactory manner in which the functions of the week at Toulon and vicinity have been carried out has been a personal success for President Loubet of France. Nothing but praise is heard, even from his opponents, at the able manner in which he has played his part. The accounts agree that not a false note has disturbed the harmony, and the tact displayed on all | will be called on to come out, no one sides, from President Loubet, the Duke of Genoa and Admiral Birileff, to the minor participants in the events, was a noteworthy feature. As to the political side of the Franco-Italian demonstration the Temps tonight, now that the speechmaking is over, puts the situation in a clear light:

"The words pronounced by M. Loubet and the Duke of Genoa, and especially the telegrams exchanged between M. Loubet and the King of Italy," says the Temps, "stamps the proceedings at Toulon with their true diplomatic significance. France and Italy gave one another officially the title of friends, which accords so well with the fraternity of their genius and blood. This is an event which must not be distorted nor wrongly interpreted. But there is little risk of exaggerating its importance, which, taking everything into consideration, is considerable. Both Italy and France have greatly changed since the time of Bismarck and Crispi. We cannot yet say what fruits yesterday will bring forth, but we augur much therefrom."

The Journal Des Debats says the events at Toulon will leave a happy souvenir in the history of France and Italy and their reapproachment will, benceforth rank as an established, avowed and proclaimed fact. M. Hanotaux, the former minister of foreign affairs, in an interview, is quoted as expressing the opinion that the Toulon demonstrations were a valuable indication of the pacific sentiments animating the powers. The visit of the Italian squadron, he said, marks the end of a painful period of tension in the relations between France and Italy and points to an evolution of the sentiments of the Italian government at McKeesport That May Involve Many Concerns. As a result of a dispute involving the employes of the W. Dewees Wood plant of the American Sheet Steel company at McKeesport, and the company, about half of the men are on strike there and the operation of the plant is badly crippled.

The event is looked upon as momentous throughout the iron and steel trade of the country, from the fact that it is the first conflict between organized labor and the United States Steel corporation and because of the announced intention of President T. J. Shaffer, the head of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers, to tie up every plant of the new combine-steel, tin, tube, structural iron, wire and all-if necessary to win the fight. As to the chance that the men in all the mills of the United States Steel corporation connected with the management of any of the organized plants in the new corporation will consent to be quoted.

New Paper for Milwaukee.

Milwaukee is to have a new English morning daily. The talk of a new paper which has been heard of late crystalliezd in the filing of articles of incorporation of the Free Press Company with a capital stock of $100,000 divided into 1,000 shares of $100 each. The incorporators are H. P. Myrick, Albert Huegin and C. M. Paine. Mr. Myrick was formerly editor of the Sentinei, retiring when the paper changed hands. Mr. Huegin is the business manager of the Sentinel, and Mr. Paine was one of the leaders in the fight against the street railway company last spring. It is expected the paper will make its appearance about the 1st of June. The news service will be that of the Publishers' Press.

City of Butte Is Sliding. A portion of Butte, Mont., believed to embrace the larger part of the big hill upon which some of the Anaconda mines are located, has made a very perceptible movement southwestward during the past few days. At the foot of the Anaconda hill the slide pushed the tracks of the street railway line about six inches for a distance of about 300 feet along the road. As there are no large buildings in that part of the city, no damage was done except to the railroad tracks, and but for their displacement the slide would not have been noticed. Geologists and scientific men claim that the entire range of mountains about Butte is constantly moving.

Wabash Train Is Wrecked.

Wabash passenger train No. 14, south-bound, was wrecked at Wilcox, Mo., by running into an open switch. The engine was overturned and the mail car thrown into the ditch. Beyond slight injuries to Engineer Rogerson and his fireman from jumping no one was hurt, although the passengers received a severe shaking. A report to the officials of the road from Conductor Morton says the key in the rod connecting the switch stand had been removed allowing the switch to fly open. The train was running slowly at the time, which prevented more serious consequences. Traffic was suspended nearly five hours.

Cracker Men to Osganise.

Cracker manufacturers of the United States will hold a meeting at St. Louis early next month for the purpose of taking measures to combat the organization which they claim is interfering with their business. Eighty prominent firms at various points in the country will be represented. An organization for mutual protection will be formed. At the same time a large delegation of cracker-makers from England and the continent will be in session there and an elaborate program is being arranged for their entertainment. A number of flour manufacturers will also attend.

Poem by Longfellow Found. An unpublished hymn written by Henry Wadsworth Longfellow has been discovered among worthless papers and old letters at the Longfellow house, Boston. The hymn is entitled "Christo Et Ecclesiae," and was written for the dedication of Appleton Chapel, which took place on Oct. 17, 1858. Dr. F. G. Peabody read the hymn at morning prayers recently. New England Women

Have an Abiding Faith in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

After years of struggle to attain and merit public confidence, with a firm and steadfast belief that some day others would recognize in us the truth, good faith, and honesty of purpose which we know we possess, what a genuine satisfaction it is to succeed, and to realize the uplifting influence of the

A Lively Scheme. Stated briefly, the new work consists in reconstructing a railway, which already crosses Mexico at its narrowest point, to such an extent that freight can be rushed across it In a shorter time and at a lower rate than would be possible by the Nicaragua canal, the saving of time of vessels through the use of this more northerly route being expected to even up the disadvantage of handling a ship's cargo twice.

This railway is the Tehuantepec line, built by the Mexican government several years ago and used only for local traffic, but never as an interoceanic freight route, being entirely without terminal facilities for its handling. Now, however, harbors are being constructed at both ends of the route -at Coatzacoalcas, on the Gulf of Mexico and Salina Cruz, on the Pacific Ocean-which will give anchorage to the largest vessels in the merchant service, while the quays and wharves are to be fitted with the most modern machinery and appliances for the loading and discharging of vessels. Meanwhile the road itself is being rebuilt almost entirely and fitted for heavy traffic.

Pupils Hurt in a Color Rush.

The annual banquet given by the girls of the senior class of the Springfield high school to the male members was given in that city, and as is customary upon such occasion, the boys of the class were arrayed in their class colors. The juniors and sophomores attempted to remove the colors and a general rush followed, the freshmen going to the assistance of the seniors. Several of the participants were seriously hurt. Scott Humphrey, son of Judge J. Otis Humphrey of the United States District court, sustained a broken collar bone, and Emery Gaffney, son of Dr. E. C. Gaffney, was rendered unconscious. Other pupils received painful bruises. Principal Castles and Instructors Seymour, Magill and Brown tried to stop the rush, but were ignored by the boys, and it was not until young Humphrey and Gaffney were found to be seriously hurt that the scramble ended. The injured pupils were removed to their homes and the banquet proceeded under the protection of the instructors.

Railwood Enterprises That Are Bringing the Earth's People Togethen. The plan of building a railroad across the Sahara desert is being pushed by several of the leading engineers of France. Several routes are under discussion. M. Foureau of the Paris Geographical society, who has recently returned from an African expedition, has gone so far as to explore and survey one line of the proposed road. The enterprise embraces over 3,000 miles of track-laying.. It will be necessary to protect the roadbed against sandstorms and moving dunes. The route passes through the territory of many savage tribes, bitter foes of every white enterprise. The proposed routes are all planned to cross one or more of the cases. Such a road would be of great importance in developing central Africa. It is not generally realized that Cecil Rhodes' railroad, which is to connect Cape Town with Cairo, is already completed for one-third of the distance. His telegraph has reached central Africa. The twentieth century will possibly witness the completion of a continuous railway line through the United States, Central and South America. A number of roads are at present in operation which will be connected and extended. The plan of connecting Cape Horn with the United States in this way is getting practical and merely awaits greater commercial interests to set it in motion. There are several projected railways much nearer realization for connecting the United States with Alaska, which would thus place the entire western coast line of the two continents in close communication. It is within the range of engineering possibilities that, with the exception of a ferry at Behring strait, or even a pier bridge there, it may some day be possible to travel by rail from Cape Horn to Cape Town. The twentieth century may witness the construction of the long-talked-of bridge or tunnel connecting England with the continent of Europe. Both plans have been pronounced entirely practicable by expert engineers, but have been held up for fear of political complications. The ocean telephone meanwhile is assured. We may expect to talk with Europe within five years. The canal connecting the Atlantic and Pacific in Nicaragua will doubtless be realized early in the twentieth century. The great Siberian railroad is even now a reality. Within a few years the road will doubtless be extended to Port Arthur and probably into China. The privileges which will probably soon be given by China for railroad construction will make it possible within a few years to travel by rail continuously

GREATEST IN THE WORLD. Railroad Bridge at Pitteburg Is a Nov-olty of Its Kind.

York World.

The greatest steel structure in the world, so far as railroad work is concerned, is just about completed in Pennsylvania. It is the wonderful bridge of the Erie railroad across the Kinzua valley in McLean county. The original bridge was a marvel and was considered one of the wonders of the new world. The old abutments are used to support the new structure. This original structure was found to be too weak for the modern heavy engines and cars of the Erie railroad, and last May traffic on this branch was suspended. It extends from Carrollton, on the main line, to Johnsonburg, a distance of 43.2 miles and passes through Bradford, Custer City and Mount Jewett and connects with the narrow guage divisinon of the Pennsylvania and Western railroad. It traverses a wilderness region where bears, deer and wild cats are found. and the ruffled grouse is at home in the almost impenetrable slashings and virgin forests. The new bridge is much heavier than the old structure. In the old bridge 2,500 tons of material were used, but in the new structures there will be 3,500 tons of steel, or 7,000,000 pounds. This modern steel miracle is 3011/2 feet above the level of the small wilderness stream and is 2,100 feet in length and nine fet wide. Twenty towers of steel support the structure and these vary from twenty-three feet to 285 feet in height and rest on solid piers of stonework. Looking up from the bottom of these magnificent towers look like spider web, but as they are closely examined some idea of the strength of the new bridge is ascereights inch mild steel, with a depth of six and one-half feet, look like mere cords from below. These girders are placed on steel girders thirty-eight inches long and three inches in diameter to provide for elasticity, or, in other words, contraction, and expansion. This wonderful structure is now ready for traffic. It is one of the marvels of the age.-Pittsburg Post.

Work in Both Houses at Spring-

REPORT OF THE PROCEEDINGS.

The Bill Concerning the Circulation Disposal of Criminal Literature Contains Sweeping and Stringout Pro-Visions-To Increase Assessment Values

Tresday, April 9. new primary election bill, providing for nomination of party candidates direct vote, has been introduced by Se ator Busse. It is much like the so-called Minneapolis law, which has not always produced unimpeachable results. Coming so late in the session and being so com-plicated that thorough understanding o it necessitates careful study, the bill has small chance of passing either house, but it may serve as a thought provoker on the subject of nominating by direct vote. Wednesday, April 10.

A measure was introduced into the house in the shape of a bill reported by the committee on insurance. This bill was sent in as a committee bill. That means that it bears the name of no member of the house as its author, but the committee stands sponsor for it. The bill proposes to make the state superintendent of insurance an elective officer. It provides that in November, 1902, a superintendent of insurance shall be elected in the same way that other state officers are chosen. The term of office is fixed at four years. The salary of the superintendent is placed at $3,500 per year, and the duties of the proposed elective official are the same as those now devolving on the appointed incumbent of the position. The elected insurance superintendent is required by the bill to give a bond of $100,000. The introduction of this bill called out animated discussion from both sides of the house.

Thursday, April 11.

A great number of bills came into the senate, were read a first time, and sent to second reading. Senator Townsend's bill, which provides that commercial traveiers' associations may insure members of their organization who are not engaged in the business of commercial traveling, passed-yeas, 32; nays, 3. Governor Yates sent to the house this morning eight bills making amendments to the practice act prepared by the practice commission

Friday, April 13.

The senate advanced to third reading Mr. Stubblefield's bill taxing the premiums of foreign fire insurance companies and made it a special order for next Wednesday. As amended the tax is reduced to 3 per cent on gross premiums, but applies to all classes of insurance companies, life as well as fire. Another amendment provides that no reduction in the tax shall be allowed on account of cancellations or reinsurance.

The minority members of the committee appointed to investigate charges of mismanagement of the Southern Illinois penitentiary report in part as follows:

That the defalcation of Kursdorfer, lately indicted in the Circuit Court of Randolph county, to the extent of $475.35 as mentioned in majority report, is only a partial and incomplete report thereof; that a shortage of $160 due a stone firm in Monroe county, Indiana, and other shortages for stone shipped to and from said prison, are not included in said report; that if allowed to introduce the evidence of witnesses they would have shown that hundreds of bushels of potatoes not mentioned in the majority report were pur-chased from political friends at ten and fifteen cents per bushel cost to the state above local market prices; that a carload of cider belonging to the warden, and large shipments of lumber from the sawmill of the warden in Clay county were sold to the state and shipped to the prison, such sales of lumber being made through one Moore of Louisville, Ill., as agent for said warden

The report recommends that all employes of said institution holding positions of trust wherein they handle property or money of the state of Illinois, should be required to give sufficient security.

NOTES OF THE SESSIONS.

Some amusement was created the other day when Speaker Sherman called upon Doorkeeper Thomas Spellman to enforce the rules and expel the outsiders if necessary. Spellman was down in the treas-urer's office drawing his pay. "Is the doorkeeper present?" asked the speaker, in his quiet, penetrating tones. There was no response. "Is the doorkeepet present?" he repeated, raising his voice until it reverberated through the house chamber. He looked grim and deter-mined and the house was quiet as a church. "It will be in order to move an investigation to inquire as to the whereabouts of the doorkeeper, and it will be in order for the speaker to make an investigation when pay day comes around." he continued. He then appointed two special policemen to enforce order among the visitors and declared that unless the Chicagoans kept quiet the sheriff of Sangamon county and the mayor of Spring-field would be brought into service. For the remainder of the session there was noticeable quiet.

A. W. Miller, James J. Gray, and C. W. Randall of the Cook county board of assessors and F. W. Upham and F. D. Meacham of the board of review have been at Springfield looking after tha various revenue bills now pending. All are in favor of the bill limiting taxation to 5 per cent of the assessed value of property. The two boards differ as to Senate bills 207 and 213. The assessors favor and the reviewers oppose these bills. Bill 207 greatly reduces the present power of the board of review by limiting its authority to reducing assessments only, and also provides for an appeal to the courts from any finding of the board of review. Judge Carter has been quoted as having said that the passage of the bill would make some 40,000 lawsuits every year in Chicago in the shape of appeals from the board of review. The bill No. 207 leaves but little of the board of review. Senate bill No. 213 provides that the board of review shall meet monthly, and that all changes of assessments shall be made

Martin B. Madden has been at Springfield in the interest of the bill which proposes to permit the construction of an industrial exposition building on the lake front, Chicago.

The committee on judiciary of the house spent two hours the other afternoon in listening to arguments for and against the house joint resolution for a greater Chicago, which was prepared and is be-ing pushed by the Civic Federation of Chicago. The country towns are against the proposition to make a separate county of the city of Chicago, and then giving it power to reach out and take in the adjoining country towns.

The recount of ballots in the Bolinger-Alden contest for a seat in the Senate has been concluded. The recount shows the following totals for the Forty-eighth district: Alden, 10,984; Bolinger, 10,954; Alden's majority, 30. By the original election returns Alden's majority was 45. Russia and Manchuria

It seems to be the unalterable purpose of Russia to secure possession of the province of Manchuria, in China; at whatever cost and wholly regardless of the attitude of the other powers. According to late cable dispatches from Peking, an ultimatum to this end has been sent to the Chinese authorities. Li Hung Chang declares that he is powerless to resist the demand and is said to have appealed to the United States, Great Britain, Germany and Japan to intervene in China's behalf. Chinese say, "the li are short." It nat-This persistency on the part of Russia to get control of Manchuria is of dual concern to the United States.

First, it is against the general policy of this government, which from the very beginning of the Chinese controversy has steadfastly opposed anything approaching the dismemberment of the empire. It is likewise against our contention for the maintenance of an "open door" for trade in China. The transfer of Manchuria to Russian control would practically close to us a rapidly growing market for American goods, particularly in cotton fabrics and kerosene oil.

Manchuria has a population of about dependency, not a part of the compact, central territory known as "China proper." The single treaty port through which foreign commerce enters Manchuria is the port of Newchwang, whose customs officer says in a report to the Chinese government: "The entry of 584.877 pieces of American drills, valued at 2,023,646 haikwan taels (haikwan tael equals 73 cents in American gold) shows the firm hold these goods have on the market, they having increased tenfold in as many years. American sheetings are even more sought after, over 1,000,000 pieces having come in, valued at 3,910,916 haikwan taels. The importation of American cotton flannel quadrupled in comparison with the total for preceding fragrant. years. American kerosene oil has leaped from 1,730,000 gallons to 2,282,000 gallons and Russian kerosene oil from 92,000 gallons to 205,000 gallons, though great as is this growth the consumption is small in comparison with the district fed, but there is a strong competitor in the native vegetable oils."

States has especially strong ground for protest against Russia's aggression.

The Russian church has at last carried out its long continued threat to excommunicate Count Leo Tolstol. The organ of the holy synod at St. Petersburg has published the official notice placing on record the apostasy of the great novelist, philosopher and philanthropist and casting him into outer darkness, so far as the Orthodox Greek church is concerned. The sentence of spiritual death thus pronounced upon him is not likely to trouble Count Tolstol to any great extent. As the circular of excommunication says, he has "by speech and writing unceasingly striven to separate himself from all communication with the Orthodox church." His whole intellectual life has been lived outside the forms and "creed of that church, so he will not feel the excommunication as others might. Happily the physical and material sufferings that once accompanied the displeasure of a church can no longer be inflicted in Russia or elsewhere. The social ostracism that once followed the victims of a decree of this kind now hardly exists, and it is not likely that Count Tolstoi will be severely shunned by the peasants to whom he has devoted so much of his time and money. For the favors of the rich and powerful he has never cared. So long as an excommunication does not carry with it torture or the world he is a larger figure than all again without the aid of a single nail. the members of the Russian hierarchy combined.

This is a big country, and it takes a whole lot of money to run it, but the people at large would view with somewhat more satisfaction the $1,500,000,-000 appropriations of the late Fiftysixth congress had they included provision for beginning an isthmian waterway or furthering some other great national enterprise.

In Minnesota a law has been enacted making the maximum penalty for kidnaping 25 years' imprisonment. Other states have raised the limit as a warning to child stealers, some going so far as to make the offense punishable by death. Chinese Method of Measuring.

Many travelers returning from China have commented upon the apparently singular lack of knowledge of the distanes cross their country or between their towns that exists among the Chinese. If at one town you inquire the distance to the next, you may be told that it is 20 li (one-third of a mile), but upon arriving at the town you will be urprised to find the distance back to the town from which you have just come is 24 li and that the cost of journeying back again is correspondingly greater than the cost to go to it.

The Chinese measure distance not by rule, but by the amount of physical energy required to traverse them. Their wage is based on a unit of energy, the amount that it takes them to carry a given load, one picul one li, on level is a different one, consisting of spasms. ground. If the road from A to B is The meat of goats which had fed on down hill, the distance is regarded as less than the actual linear distance because it is supposed to take less energy to travel in that direction, or, as the urally follows that in traveling in the other direction, from B back to A, the road being a gradual ascent, a greater expenditure of energy is necessary. "The li are long," and in order to get a fair compensation for their work the carriers must see that the distance and the charges are correspondingly increased. With this explanation what has often appeared as a vagary of the Chinese becomes simple and reasonable.-Leslie's Weekly.

Olives.

The olive tree in its wild state is a thorny shrub or small tree, but when cultivated becomes a tree 20 to 40 feet high, with no thorns. It lives to a good age. The leaves resemble those of a 8,000,000 and is usually classed as a willow, the flowers are small and white and grow in clusters as grapes do, and the fruit is greenish, whitish, violet or even black in color and generally oval in shape. It is produced in great profusion, so that an old olive tree becomes very valuable to its owner.

Among the Greeks the olive was sacred to Minerva, the goddess of wisdom. It was also the emblem of purity. A crown of olive twigs was the highest honor that could be bestowed upon a Greek citizen. An olive branch was also the symbol of peace, and the vanquished who came to beg for peace bore olive branches in their Polite Erie Commuters.

A stranger who had an appointment ferry house, which is used by Erie commuters, was greatly puzzled the Thus it would seem that the United other afternoon by the actions of the men who passed the ticket taker's window. Nearly three-fourths of them took their hats off to the ticket taker in the most polite style.

The stranger thought that possibly the ticket taker's wife was in the box with him, and he went back to look again. There was no one in the box save the ticket taker, who looked good natured, but not imposing. When his friend arrived, the stranger said:

"Why, every man who passes him takes his hat off, gives him a marching salute and walks on."

The friend smiled pityingly at the stranger's ignorance and said it was a trick of the Erie commuters to carry their tickets in the crown of their hats. They took their hats off so that the agent might see the ticket.-New York

A Historie Throne. The biggest episcopal throne in Europe is at the Exeter cathedral. Composed of the very best oak, with magnificent carving executed by the most expert designers of the day, the throne soars upward in beautiful tapering pinnacles, which rise up to the lofty roof of the sacred edifice. The throne is not only the biggest, but one of the oldest. It was saved from destruction by the Puritans by the ingenuity of the Cavaliers, who when the Roundheads marched on Exeter pulled down the throne and divided it into 365 pieces, whereupon the sergeant produced an one for every day of the year. The pieces were safely secured in many imprisonment a man like Tolstoi can hiding places, and when peace was reafford to smile at it. In the eyes of stored the pieces were put together

Poison Proof Animals.

Neither differences of organization in animals nor in the constitution of the polsonous substance generally afford any clew for interpreting an exceptional want of effect. Unaccountable is the immunity of rabbits against belladonna leaves (Atropa belladonna, deadly nightshade). You may feed them with belladonna for weeks without observing the least toxic symptoms. The meat of such animals, however, proves poisonous to any one who eats it, producing the same symptoms as the

Pigeons and various other herbivora are also to some degree safe from the effects of this poison, while in warm blooded carnivora it causes paralysis and asphyxia. In frogs the effect hemlock has sometimes occasioned poisonous effects. Chickens are nearly hardy against nux vomica and the extremely dangerous alkaloid, strychnine, contained in it, while in the smallest amount it is a fatal poison to

More remarkable yet in this respect is the immunity of Cholæpus hoffmanni, a kind of sloth living on the island of Ceylon, which, when given ten grains of strychnine, was not much affected. Pigeons are possessed of high immunity from morphine, the chief alkaloid of opium, as well as from belladonna. Eight grains were required to kill a pigeon, not much less than the mortal dose for a man. Cats are extremely sensitive to foxglove (Digitalis purpurea), which on the contrary may be given to rabbits and various birds in pretty large doses.

Fined For Death on Board. "The only place, as far as law is concerned, where it costs money to die from natural causes is aboard a steamship," remarked a vessel owner. "The purpose of the law' was excellent enough. There was a time when emi-grants were being brought to this country in very large numbers, or 'by the shipload, as it was termed. There is no doubt that there was crowding in the ships that brought them, and to prevent this a law was passed imposing upon the ship a fine of $10 for every death that occurred during the passage from natural causes of persons over 8 years of age. This put a stop to overcrowding, or, at least, it is supposed that it did, which is about the same thing. Ships do not fancy having to pay fines of this kind. "Of course, in comparison with the great army of persons who are brought across the ocean from month to month, there are very few deaths, for the statisticians have been kind enough to show beyond a doubt that the steamship is the safest means of transportation in existence, but, just the same, there are a considerable number in the course of a year."-Washington Star.

Mrs. Burritt, although at this advanced age, attended to her household duties until about one week before her death.

Her death, while not wholly unexpected, came as a shock to the entire community. Mrs. Burritt, whose maiden name was Julia Ann Ford, was born in the state of Vermont, and having acquired a good education, after coming to Illinois was engaged in teaching for some years. Perhaps nothing has been more talked about than the color scheme of the with the sun-bonnet and apron drill, Pan-American. It was a daring thing proved the hit or the season and was to attempt to array in colors the exloudly applauded. Refreshments were tensive buildings of this Exposition, for scarcely any precedent existed for such an undertaking, and to attempt it and fail would be disastrous indeed. It was out of the question to duplicate the White City at Chicago. Something absolutely new must be devised for the Pan-American at Buffalo. Happily the Spanish renaissance architecture furnished the hint for the solution of this problem, and now that it has been solved and the color scheme is seen to anniversary a few weeks ago, and lit- be so well adapted to the purposes of tle thought that the reaper death exposition architecture it is realized

The Floral and Electrical Display at the Pan-American Exposition.

There is a saying that "Flowers are the poetry of earth, as stars are the poetry of heaven." If this be true, the beauty of the floral effects to be seen pronounced as a rare combination of both, for never yet at an exposition have such magnificent effects been seen as will be visible in some of the fountain basins at the Pan-American. There beautiful plants and flowers, kissed to a state of dewy dazzlement by the falling spray and the glow of concealed incandescent lamps, will delight the visitor.

At the exposition in Omaha some little success was obtained in thus lighting up the flowers and the foliage of plants in the water basins, and this has led Henry E. Rustin, chief of the mechanical and electrical bureau, to attempt to enlarge upon what he accomplished in Omaha. When thus lighted, the flowers and plants take upon themselves new colors, each one seemingly more beautiful than the color displayed under full sunlight. Then the little mystery of where the illumination comes from is delightful, and, knowing this, the skilled electrician is most careful to conceal his lamps where least likely to attract the eye. Perhaps an artificial leaf, an artificial flower, is used to hide the lamp, but its full brilliancy is allowed to beam upon the plant and flowers, making a picture that is lasting. It is when such effects and it will be more so at the Pan-American.

Automobiles at Exposition.

The automobile has been developed since the Columbian Exposition at Chicago. What marvels may be exhibited and in practical daily use at the Pan-American Exposition can only be dimly conjectured. The railway, vessel and vehicle exhibits at Buffalo this year will outrival in interest anything that has been possible in the past.

In 1881 the largest arc light machine made supplied current for 16 lights, and when Mr. Brush made a 50 light machine it was a giant. In the electrical exhibits of the Pan-American Exposition the largest type of Brush arc light machine will be shown, and this will afford interesting comparison with the machines of 20 years ago.

BANDS FOR PAN-AMERICAN.

Their Music Will Be a Great Feature of the Exposition at Buffalo, Arrangements have already been made for the appearance at the Pan-American Exposition of some of the most famous bands of the American Continent. Throughout the season, from May 1 to Nov. 1, concerts will be given daily in various parts of the Exposition grounds by these bands, and the variety of musical entertainment thus afforded will be a notable feature of the Exposition. Prominent among the organizations engaged is Sousa's Band, which is known wherever there are lovers of music and whose success in the rendition of military music has been remarkable.

The most notable achievement in the istory of international events was perhaps the triumphal tour made by Sousa and his band through Europe, extending from April to September, 1900. It was 22 years since an American band had been heard on the European Continent, and so emphatic was the success of the American conductor and composer that the tour became a series of evations throughout France, Germany, Belgium and Holland. It was the official band at the Paris Exposi-

The Mexican Government Mounted Band has been engaged to give concerts during the Exposition.

Fanciuilli's Seventy-first Regiment Band of New York has been engaged for a series of concerts during the season. This band has also a great reputation for its rendition of military music, and it followed Sousa's Band in the concerts at Manhattan Beach.

Canada will be represented by several bands, among them the famous Thirteenth Regiment Band of Hamilton, which is the crack band music organization of lower Canada.

The Elgin Band of Elgin, Ills., which stands very high in that state, has also been engaged.

Another well known band is the Carlisle Indian Band, which made a great hit in Washington and New York City. When the Ancient and Honorable Artillery of Boston made their recent notable tour in Europe, they were accompanied by the Salem (Mass.) Cadet Band, which contributed much to the success of the tour. This band will also be heard at the Pan-American Expo-

The Brooks Chicago Marine Band, E. B. Brooks conductor, which is considered by many the best in Chicago, will be heard.

Another band engaged is the Ithaca Band of Ithaca, N. Y., which is backed by E. N. Truman, one of the wealthy men of that section. It has achieved a great reputation in the central part of New York State.

The Boston Ladies' Military Band, which has been before the public for two or three years and made a pronounced success, has been engaged. It is spoken of highly by musical people in Boston.

Besides these bands from other por-tions of the United States, the best are obtained that the full appreciation | bands of Buffalo have been engaged of enjoyment is expressed in the single | for the Exposition, including the well word "beautiful." It was so at Omaha, known Seventy-fourth Regiment Band and the Sixty-fifth Regiment Band, which saw service at Camp Alger during the Spanish-American war. Another band of Buffalo is Scinta's

Band, a strong organization.

These local bands have been strengthened to the number of 33 men each and the leaders claim to have put them in a very fine condition, so that Buffalo need not be ashamed of the performances they will give during the progress of the great Exposition.

This is not a complete list of the bands which will be heard at the Pan-American, but simply shows the character of the entertainment to be pro-

Minerals at the Pan-American. Minerals will be fully represented, comprising every production, both useful and ornamental, mined from the earth. All parts of the United States and every country of South and Central America, Canada, Mexico and the islands of the sea will contribute specimens for the exhibit. All kinds of machinery used in manipulating ores will be exhibited. The great advantages that the Americas have over the rest of the world in the wealth of their minerals in connection with climatic conditions, accessibility, etc., will be clearly illustrated. While the exhibits will be under the auspices, of the various Governments, many individuals and mining companies will be represented by individual displays, representing their special interests.

Mexican Appointment.

The Mexican ministry of fomento (encouragement) has appointed as Mexican representative of the Pan-Amerchief of the second section in the afor said ministry.

CHAPTER I

"Of course, my dear George, if you | uneasiness in the home circle, wish very much to have these people here, they must be asked," said Lady Caroline, regarding her husband atthrough the handle of the tee-urn. The children had just left the room, so she thought it a good opportunity of finally learning his wishes on this subject without the intervention of Mildred's rather vehement opinions. "It is a dreadful nuisance," she said-"and I don't suppose they are the very nicest people in the world for the girls to know; but, if you see no way out of the difficulty, of course there is nothing more to be said."

"Nothing, lit cannot be helped now at all events," Sir George returned. running his eyes ruefully over a letter which he held in his hand: "He was an old schoolfellow of mine, you know; and, when he expresses a wish to come and see me. what can I do but write and say how welcome he and his family will be?"

"Exactly so," assented Lady Caroline, "but it is a horrible bore for all that. And how they are to be amused is more than I can tell you. There is a. son, is there not and a daughter?"

"Yes, a son and a daughter. As to amusing them, the young gentleman will hunt, I suppose, and probably ruin one of my best hunters before he leaves; and the girl-oh, I should think she will do very well!" said Sir George. cavallerly. "Mildred will manage about that, and will get some fellows to meet her."

"How did he make his money?" Lady Caroline asked presently, and then began to think with dismay of what the whole countryside would say. It was eminently aristocratic, the countryside, and never had it as yet introduced within the sacred boundaries of Its circle such a horror as a family polluted by trade.

"Cotton," answered Sir George briefly: and then indeed his wife felt that the cup of her affliction was full.

"If it only had been wine," she said, hopelessly. "I am sure I don't know what the Deverills will think; and of course the girl will be unbearable. Be-Wides"-with a sigh-"it will be such an additional expense."

"True." returned her husband, and the lines laid by care upon his face became more clearly defined: "but, as I said before, darling, it can not be helped, so we must only make the best

But Lady Caroline could not "make the best of it" just then, and so went out of the room to consult with Mildred. of whose sympathy she was certain. the girl being more opposed to the coming of their visitors than even she could be.

Seven children had blessed the marriage of Sir George Trevanion and Lady Caroline. First, there was Charles, the heir, a great, tall, goodlooking fellow, with a careless, sweet temper-"as like his father at that age." said his mother, "as ever a boy could be." He was about twenty-six at this time, and held a commission in a cavalry regiment. After him came also to follow up their lately begun Florence, who resembled nobody in particular, and had married during her first season-very desirably indeed-a Mr. Talbot, of very prepossessing appearance—when he had any expression in his face, which was seldom-and hunting season at King's Abbott, when the owner of considerable property about twelve miles from King's Ab-

It was always a great source of comfort to Lady Caroline's anxious mind that Florence had "got off" so well before Mildred was old enough to make her bow to the world. Had Harry Talbot dallied in his love-making for two years longer-as some young men are in the habit of dallying-instead of coming to the point at once-like a much-to-be-applauded gentleman, as he was-Lady Caroline would not have answered for the consequences. Mildred, her father's darling, was so much more beautiful-such a slight, exquisite girl she appeared. with the darkest violet eyes and the most enviable golden hair imaginable.

And yet, in spite of all her beauty. she had not half the number of lovers her sister Mabel could count, who was barely eighteen, and not nearly so handsome, Mildred being cold and proud, and almost haughty in her manner to strangers. Pride of birth was the rock on which she stumbled. Any family without a pedigree, no matter how rich and how well received by society in general, was as an abomination in her sight.

In between these two came Eddie. who was about nineteen at this time. a merry reckless fellow, handsome as an Apollo, and the acknowledged pet amongst all the women in the county, far and near, old and young.

Eddie and Mabel were something like each other, both being much darker than the rest of the family, who were rather Saxon in their general appearance. Mabel, or "Queen Mab," or "the queen." as she was indiscriminately called, on account of a little stately walk she had that contrasted funnily with her face and manner, which were gay in the extreme, had dark eyes of a soft hazel, and hair nut-brown to ling. match. She was quite as tall as her ter, and, though by no means as beautiful, was pretty enough to create a sensation anywhere. At eighteen she Younge." was an incorrigible flirt, but amiable and sweet enough to prevent her from 'Brigham' Younge when they were intense.

running into extremes, and causing

For all that, however, calm Mildred was more the "hearth-angel" than she was. To her, as to their mother, came all the boys, with the numerous griefs and annoyances that usually beset a schoolboy's path. Charles was very fond of asking her advice, and Eddie believed most firmly in her wisdom, generally addressing her under the title of "Minerva." Her father and mother had few secrets from her, and even Florence, who was slightly selfsufficient and given to assert herself. at times, with astonishing boldness. had been known, on two or three oceasions, to come all the way from Rvelands to ask Mildred's opinion upon certain subjects.

Mildred at home and Mildred abroad were very different persons. She was most capable of loving, but her unfortunate coldness of demeanor prevented this from being universally acknowledged. Only her own people knew her tender, loving heart, and returned her affection in kind.

There were two other boys, mere youngsters, named George and Ernest. who were at present undergoing the discipline of school in some distant

Sir George had discovered, some years previously, that he was not as well up in this world's goods as a man had need to be with seven growingup children. But at the time he had put the evil thought behind him and considered it no more, until about a year back, when several circumstances had happened again to force it upon his memory. Debts somehow had begun to accumulate of late years, and now began to declare themselves with very disagreeable openness. The family lawyer shook his head solemnly; and Sir George in self-defense went home, and having sold two of his favorite hunters most disadvantageously, walked about his farm, doing gloomy penance, and was cross to his wife for the first time for a number of years.

But this state of things only lasted a very few days indeed, and at the end of that time, his third hunter having fallen lame, one of those disposed as bought back again, at a very different price from that paid for it to Sir George, and presently the other followed suit; after which their master gave up the gloomy penance, to the great relief of the household at King's Abbott, who were considerably put out by it, and having kissed his wife, did not go round the farm for several

Lady Caroline of course soon discovered that they were in difficulties-indeed Sir George's face was incapable of concealing a secret-and these two women, in "mamma's" boudoir, discussing probabilities and improbabilities, and the selling of "papa's" hunters, until Mildred at length suggested that the annual visit to London should be given up--for this year at all

The Trevanions were determined economical designs by having a quiet autumn and winter at home, and had actually made up their minds, with Spartan heroism, not even to invite their usual number of friends for the there reached them the unjucky letter from the Younges, saying how much the head of the family desired to see the friend of his boyhood-namely, Sir George.

This letter put a full stop to all their plans, and was looked upon as a brainblow in more ways than one, as not only did it insure an expensive winter, but, what was worse, upon examination it was discovered that these friends of Sir George's youth were most disreputable in their antecedents, having been in trade. A cotton merchant! It sounded horrible! Cotton could not possibly mean anything but low birth, and low birth of course meant vulgarity.

Lady Caroline groaned in spirit, and thought dismally of what the Deverills and the Blounts and the Stanleys would say, finally going off to consult with her prime minister Mildred.

"It is all over," she began; "they must be asked."

"I never heard of such a thing in my life," said Miss Trevanion. "It is perfectly indecent—their asking themselves here. But what can one expect from such people? Good gracious, mamma, fancy a cotton merchant! It quite makes me shiver. How many of them are there?"

"Four," answered her mother. "Father, mother, daughter and son."

"Any more?" inquired Mildred, sareastically.

"The blue rooms; they are the farthest off," said Miss Trevanion.

"Very good. I will tell Holland. Do you know they are coming on Friday, if-as Mr. Younge says in his letterwe can conveniently receive them on that day? Dear me, Mildred, I wonder what they will be like, and how long they will stay?"

"Oh, as to what they will be like, said Mildred, toasting her pretty feet comfortably before the fire, and looking as wise as Solomon, "I can tell he will have a strong dash of Manchester mixed with his turnips, and he Kidney Pills. will be always using horribly old-fashioned words, and he will be very attentive to you, and will probably call you 'ma'am. And Mrs. Younge will be large and fat and red, like the ook; and Miss Younge will be a mincing, silly schoolgirl, ready to die with and Brigham' will be a-boor, of course.

'What will the county say?" ejaculated poor Lady Caroline, elevating her hands and eyes, perfectly aghast at the pretty picture her daughter had drawn. "Really, Mildred, I shall die of shame

"That will not do a bit of good." returned Miss Trevanion; "and of course you must be prepared to hear the county say all manner of unpleasant things—that they do not know what Sir George could be thinking of that the said people are extremely disgusting, and so on." But for all that you will be kind and civil to them-will you not, Mildred, my love?" her mother asked again, anxiously watching the girl's

Sidney Smith's Sneer. If Sydney Smith were alive today he would realize that in the last eighty years of the century just closed considerable progress had been made in this country-more perhaps than in any country in the civilized world, It vas only in 1820 that, in one of his savage attacks on our people, in the Edinburgh Review, he sneeringly asked: "In the four quarters of the globe, who reads an American book? Or goes to an American play? Or looks at an American picture or statue? What does the world yet owe to Amerian physicians or surgeons? What new substances have their chemists discovered or what old ones have they analyzed? What new constellations have been discovered by the telescop s of America? What have they done in he mathematics? Who drinks out of American glasses? Or eats from American plates? Or wears American coats or gowns? Or sleeps in Amerian blankets?" The records of the nineteenth century show that these questions have been answered pretty conclusively to the British mind, if no: always satisfactorily to the British pocket, remarks the Washington Star. Perhaps some snarler of the present period would like to submit another Markings on Mars.

Astronomers now agree that the markings on the surface of Mars form a complete network of narrow, straight lines crossing the entire face of the planet in all directions, and are always visible. The narrowest are thirty to forty miles wide. Two hundred of these so-called canals have been charted. Many observers believe them to be stretches of land darkened annually by vegetation and laid out in strips to facilitate irrigation. It is supposed from the unity in the design of the network that the inhabitants of Mars are under one government and are highly skilled in the engineering demanded by the fact that the planet is entirely without rainfall. Tenant Swindled Children.

A man living in a tenement in Battersea, London, told the children of the neighborhood that the penny-in-theslot gas meter was a new and resplendent bright red money box, specially designed to accommodate the savings of economical youngsters. On this assumption they cheerfully dropped their copper savings into the slot, and the ingenious deceiver burned the gas which cost him nothing. When the collector came and cleared away all the pennies the chagrin of the children was Among the new century reforms which the postal authorities are credited with having under consideration is the adoption of the system known payable" parcel post. Under this scheme, for a very small commission, "I suppose I could not go to Aunt, the value of the article and transmits it to the sender of the parcel. During the last year 2,500,000 parcels were thus carried by the Indian postoffice, the commission realizing £34,-000. The Indian postoffice has a simllar system of paying money-orders, "I am a selfish wretch," declared the whole operation occupying no more time than it at present takes in hand and becoming penitent on the delivering a registered letter and obspot. "Of course, mamma, I will not taining the addressee's receipt for it, says the London Express. This system is also under discussion at the general postoffice. The number of letters, parcels, money orders, etc., carried by the Indian postoffice last year was 520,000,000. The number of complaints, was infinitesimal, and pracit. What rooms shall we give them? Heally the whole of the work is done by natives. There should be little difficulty, therefore, in introducing these eminently desirable reforms in the English system.

British Postal Reforms

I consider Dodd's Kidney Pills a God-send to suffering humanity. They may rightly be named the Elixir of Youth.

"While speaking of my own case and the wonderful benefit I have received, I might also add, that my mother, who is now an old lady of 74 years and who lives with me, has been troubled more or less, with aches and pains, as is natural with one of her advanced age. When she saw what Dodd's Kidney Pills had done for me, she commenced to use them herself, and she says that they have done her more good than any other medicine she has ever tried.

Captain Read has been in the service of the United States in the commissary department out by the postoffice department askof the army since July 16, 1898. He was in the military academy at West Point for a short time ten years ago. The semi-official judgment at Washington is that the scandal will assume considerable proportions before all has been revealed. There is no question in the minds of these who claim to know the situation in Manila as to the high and rapid pace of living in certain army cliques there. Private reports from Manila for months and verbal statements by officers and men who have witnessed passing events in that city are to the effect that the army of officers in many instances were devoting much more time to dissipation and midnight revels than to chasing the wily insurgent or otherwise doing their duty. It is pointed out at Washington that naturally a few officers will succumb to such temptations, but that it does not follow there is a general laxity on the part of a majority of the men in commend. Burgiare Kill Two Men. A gang of three burglars was captured at Pittsburg, but not until a merchant and a detective had been killed. The two killings occurred within ten hours, one early in the morning, the other in the afternoon. The police are positive that the captured men have been guilty of more than a score of robberies attempted or committed in Pittsburg and vicinity for two months past. At 3 a. m. Thursday the wife of Thomas D. Kahne, a grocer, of Mount Washington, in South Pittsburg, was awakened by a noise in her room and saw a man standing beside the bed in which she slept with her little boy. She tried to arise and the man pushed her back, pressing a handkerchief saturated with chloroform over face. She managed to cry for help and was heard by her husband, who slept in the adjoining room. He was shot as he came to his wife's assistance, and died in a few minutes. The murderer and two accomplices immediately fled, without any booty. Later in the day the robbers were captured, but not until they had killed Detective P. E. Fitzgerald.

Fatal Fight with Outlaws.

A battle was fought at the head of Boone's Fork not far from Whitesburg, Ky., as the result of an attempt to arrest outlaws. Two men of the posse were killed and a third wounded, while one of the men who defied the posse of thirteen was dangerously wounded. Five men had been indicted for the assassination last November of Mrs. Hall and her son, who had incurre dthe enmity of the band. George W. Wright, with twelve men, made an attempt to take them. A desperate encounter followed, 300 shots being fired. William Wright and Isaac Millard, members of the posse, were instantly killed and Deputy Osborne wounded. Outlaw Creed Potter, being left alone, retreated when his ammunition was exhausted.

Cuba Rejects Platt Amendment.

At a private session in Havana, the convention, by a vote of 18 to 10, adopted a motion expressing the opinion that the convention is opposed to the Platt amendment on account of the terms in which some of its clauses are drawn, and the contents of others, as the third, sixth and seventh. After voting this it was proposed to dissolve the convention. The question of sending a commission to Washington was not voted upon. It is considered that the convention's action is a half-hearted way of rejecting the Platt amendment, and that it was of the delegates against General Wood, they being anxious to show him that

HON, DAN A. GROSVENOR, OF THE FAMOUS ONIO FAMILY. Hon. Dan. A. Grosvenor, Deputy Auditor for the War Department, in a letter written from Washington, D. C., says:

"Allow me to express my gratitude to you for the benefit derived from one bottle of Peruna. One week has brought wonderful changes and I am now as well as ever. Besides being one of the very best spring tonics it is an excellent catarrh remedy." Very respectfully, Dan A. Grosvenor.

A remedy that will cure catarrh of the stomach will cure the same condition of the mucous membrane anywhere. I have found it the best remedy I have ever tried for catarrh, and believing it worthy my endorsement I gladly accord it."

Mrs. Elmer Fleming, orator of Reservoir Council, No. 168, Northwestern Legion of Honor, of Minneapolis, Minn., writes from 2535 Polk St., N. H.:

A Jolly Funeral An Italian doctor named Louis Cortusio, who died in the eighteenth century, left some curious instructions as to the manner of his burial. This gentleman, by his will, forbade his relations to weep at his funeral on pain of being disinherited and appointed him or her who should laugh the longest and loudest the principal heir and legatee. Not a stitch of black was to be displayed either in the house in which he should die or in the church in which he should be buried. They were both to be strewn with flowers and green boughs on the day of his funeral. Instead of the tolling of bells lively music was to accompany his body to the church, and 50 minstrels were to march with the clergy sounding their flutes, trombones and trumpets. The bier was to be carried by 12 marriageable girls clothed in green, to each of whom the testator bequeathed a sum of money for her dowry. Lastly, no one in the procession was to wear black. All these orders were absolutely carried into effect.-Household Words.
