VOL. 16. NO. 11.

BARRINGTON, ILL. SATURDAY MAY 25, 1901.

$1.50 A YEAR IN ADVANCE.

PALATINE LOCALS

Gathered and Compiled by A. G. Smith, Local Editor.

Memorial Day Thursday.

Bazaar Tuesday and Wednesday.

A show is billed here for next week.

Mrs. John Rose of Chicago visited Palatine friends Tuesday.

John Hira is very sick at his home and brain fever has developed.

Wm. Vogel has a first-class line of shoes for all people. Right prices.

L. Heidenreich of Lena, Ill., visited J. C. Hoffmeister and wife the first of the week.

The Relief Corps will hold a strawberry social some time in the early part of June.

Prof. Banta, of the Arlington Heights public school, visited friends here Saturday.

The Queen Esther Circle will meet with Mrs. E. Converse at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon.

We wonder when the railway company will mow their first crop of hay where the park used to be.

Wm. Homier has sold three acres of land east of the old Plum Grove church to the church society there.

Get your horses clipped by Nichols & Bennett. Flexible shaft clippers. All work neatly and promptly done.

Mrs. Lesemann of Lena, Ill., is staying with her sister, Mrs. Hoffmeister, during the illness of the latter's son.

Mrs. C. S. Cutting is recovering from an operation performed on her to cure a serious case of appendicitis.

Mrs. Ed Lincoln entertained her sister, Miss Rose Peterson, and friend, Miss Sophia Frick, of Langenheim on Wednesday.

The rains this week has been worth thousands of dollars to the farmers. The outlook is encouraging for good crops this fall.

Henry Freise has purchased Henry Harmering's interest in the firm of W. B. Comfort & Co. We wish the new firm success.

Carl Hoffmeister still remains in the same condition. His disease has proven to be tuberculosis of the brain instead of typhoid fever.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is guaranteed to cure constipation, indigestion, sick headache and stomach trouble by Chas. E. Churchill.

The Palatine High School Alumni met at the school house Wednesday evening and decided to hold their reunion and banquet on Friday evening, May 31.

Arthur Bennett was home Wednesday and Thursday and started for Wisconsin yesterday, where he will have charge of a farm for his former employe in Chicago.

Charles Wehrenberg, Wm. Garms and James Freeman started for Oklahoma Tuesday, where they will look over the country with a view of investing in that rich soil.

Mary Zimmer died at the home of her parent in Long Grove Thursday morning, aged 29 years. The funeral services will be held at Buffalo Grove church Saturday morning.

NOTICE—Our annual conference collection will be taken up next Sunday. Please be prepared. Announcement was forgotten last Sunday.

J. C. HOFFMEISTER.

Friday evening, May 31, Rev. F. A. Hardin will preach in the Methodist church. Saturday evening, June 1, a Salvation Army brigade under Ensign Douglass of Chicago will begin a ten days' meeting.

Remember the bazaar to be given by the young people of St. Paul's church in Knigge's hall next Tuesday and Wednesday. Many articles will be for sale and a good time given all. The proceeds are for the benefit of the church.

A big crowd was on our streets Saturday as a result of a much advertised balloon ascension, which a half-dozen Chicago sharks had arranged. The show crowd struck town Saturday morning and laid their wire on the street as an advertiser, but it was not taken up to be used by the "celebrated slack wire performer." It seems that Mayor Oims was asked permission by them to run a wheel of fortune which request he refused. The show people said if they could not run the wheel they would not ascend in the balloon, so the affair was called off. They still have people in Chicago who think that the people outside the city limits are green. The fakirs packed their goods and left town with a cry of "fake" from the boys.

Get your eye glasses fitted by G. R. Burkitt at A. G. Smith's office every Thursday. All work guaranteed.

Memorial Sabbath will be observed Sunday morning with appropriate sermon and services in the Methodist church conducted by the pastor, Rev. D. J. Holmes. The Relief Corps will attend in a body. All old soldiers are requested to occupy front seats. The widows and soldiers' daughters and sons are requested to sit next back. The public is cordially invited.

The Palatine High school ball team is still undefeated. They met Wauconda school team on the grounds here Saturday and defeated them the second time by a score of 15 to 5. Palatine is improving in every way and put up a clean game. They expect to play Wauconda at Barrington this afternoon and will play the Republic Iron and Steel Co. team of Chicago at this place next Saturday.

Dr. Marie Mergler.

Dr. Marie J. Mergler, daughter of Mrs. Mergler of this place, died at Los Angeles, Cal., last Saturday. Death was due to pernicious anemia. Dr. Mergler went to California about a month ago for the purpose of regaining her health, which had been impaired from over work. The deceased was born in Mainstockheim, Bavaria, and came to this country where two years old with her parents, who located at Wheeling, this county, when her father was a physician of repute.

Marie attended the Cook county Normal school, where she graduated. After teaching in the Chicago schools she attended and graduated from the New York State Normal school at Oswego in 1871. For four years after she was assistant principal of the Engelwood High school. She attended Woman's Medical College in Chicago, graduating in 1879 and was elected lecturer of Materia Medica in this school soon after. She next went to Zurich, Switzerland, to study further in her chosen profession. In 1881 she returned to Chicago and established a general practice. She had held the position of Professor of Gynecology in the Woman's College for eight years, an attending surgeon at the Woman's hospital and gynecologist to Wesley hospital.

When appointed on the attending staff of the Cook county hospital, she was the second woman to receive that honor. Dr. Mergler was elected head physician of the Hospital for Women and Children soon after the death of its founder, Dr. Mary Thompson. She was an enthusiast in her profession and her love for humanity made her ever eager to overcome the ills. Her life was sacrificed to this end. She was an exceptionally industrious student and she always conquered a technical point in required skill. Her later life was a continual service to patients, not only to the wealthy but much of her skill and time was devoted gratuitously to the poor. Her supreme trait was her conscientiousness. She never worked without giving her best efforts to its performance. A host of friends mourn her departure.

Private funeral services will be held at the residence of Rev. Dr. Denforth, Chicago, on Saturday afternoon, Dr. Thomas officiating. Public services will be held in Union Park Congregational church Sunday afternoon, Rev. Dr. Noble, the pastor, will officiate.

JOHN R. TANNER DEAD

Former Governor of Illinois Expires Suddenly at Springfield.

John Riley Tanner, ex-governor of Illinois and one of the leading characters in public life, died suddenly at his parlor in the Leland hotel at Springfield, Thursday afternoon, May 23, at three o'clock.

Although his health has been in a precarious condition for some time his family nor physicians suspected the ailment to be of so serious a nature. Up to a few moments before his death he conversed on business matters with his son and dictated several telegrams to political associates. He was unattended when death came.

The taking off of John R. Tanner removes from republican politics of Illinois one of its most astute politicians and fearless leaders. For twenty-five years he was a power in state politics. He held nearly every position of honor in the gift of his party in this state, and had he lived several years longer doubtless would have made a hot fight for the senatorial toga now worn by Shelby Cullom, and it was said he was in the race for Senator Mason's seat two years hence. Since the late senatorial fight the ex-governor had taken but little interest in political affairs, except in a way to aid Governor Yates in the southern districts of the state, but had he lived he probably would have been the chief factor in the reorganization of the new republican state machine, as he has always been influential in the democratic congressional districts in the southern part of the state. He had, by reason of his acts as chief executive and choice of appointees, attracted a strong opposition in the northern section of the state, especially in Chicago and Cook county.

John R. Tanner was so well known to the people of Illinois that an extended description of him and his public life would be superfluous—it is a part of the political history of the state. The funeral will be held at Springfield Sunday afternoon and will be military in character.

Niemann-Biegel Wedding.

Wm. Niemann of Arlington Heights and Miss Louise Biegel of Palatine were married at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hitzemann in Palatine Saturday evening, May 18. The ceremony was performed at 8 o'clock by Rev. J. Proegemueeller, of the Lutheran church. The house was beautifully decorated with palms and roses. A bounteous wedding supper was served by the hostess.

The evening was pleasantly spent and the happy couple received the congratulations of many friends.

They will reside at Arlington Heights where the groom, who holds a position in the C. & N.W. Railway freight office in Chicago, has resided.

Those present at the wedding were: Messrs. and Mesdames August Niemann, Charles Straus, Wm. Langhorst, Wm. Linneman, August Voss, John Kraft, Nicholas Decker, Mrs. Minnie Krausle, Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. John Beivers and Alma Beivers, Roselle; Miss Anna Fetz and Louis Jahnke, Arlington Heights; William Wolf, Henry and Ella Langhorst.

URGES RETURN OF CANTEEN.

Colonel VanHorne Points to the Evils of Fort Sheridan.

Colonel William Van Horne, commanding Fort Sheridan, where eight companies of the Twenty-ninth Infantry are located, has forwarded to the war department a powerful protest against the continued abolition of the army canteen. He furnishes the department with facts that are at once sensational, and, from his standpoint, incontrovertible, in support of his protest. He shows that 73 men were in the guard-house at the post as a result of drunkenness and that 100 others were absent and being searched for Monday. He charges that the transformation of Fort Sheridan into a prison was brought about by the abolishment of the canteen by an act of congress.

For some time after the repealing law was signed the soldiers behaved nicely and there were no evidences of a disposition on their part to indulge in wholesale intoxication, but beginning last Saturday, when the paymaster visited the post and the men received their money, Fort Sheridan and vicinity have been in a state of turmoil. The enlisted men by hundreds swarmed through the neighboring barrooms and many of them have gone on extended periods of intoxication. The record is pronounced by Adjutant General Corbin as unprecedented in the history of army posts in the United States. The town of Highland, where the saloons patronized by the soldiers are located, is terrorized by drunken soldiers. There have been shooting affairs and razor fights. At one time eighteen soldiers, all in a state of helpless intoxication, were found lying in a single street.

The W. C. T. U. have nothing to be proud of for their interest in the matter of abolishing the post canteen. It is another case where prohibition does not prohibit.

ITEMS TO PLEASE

Those Who Believe in a Little Nonsense Now and Then.

The shortcake, the shortcake. The shortcake came to town. With its lower layer soggy And the top a crispy brown. And the boarders cease awhile To be fretful and they smile With hope at one another and prepare to gulp it down.

The shortcake, the shortcake. It's here again, and oh The boarder lifts the cover Of his place and looks below. To discover with despair The old, old conditions there— It's always short of berries and it's always long on dough.

If all the devils were cast out of some people, they would look like walking skeletons.

"Did you ever run away when you were a boy?" "Once." "And I suppose the tears flowed freely when you returned?" "Yes. I made the mistake of going back when my father was at home."

If you would enjoy your food be good humored. An angry man doesn't know whether he is eating boiled cabbage or stewed umbrellas.

It was at the annual banquet of the B. S. & A. C., held last winter, that an auburn-haired member of the board of aldermen said: "If you intend to drown yourself, always remove your clothing. It may fit your wife's second husband."

"What is the sacrament of marriage?" asked the Sunday school superintendent of a girl in the juvenile class.

"It is a state of punishment into which we enter to prepare for another and better world," replied the little miss, who had learned her lesson by rote and got things slightly mixed.

"That isn't the orthodox answer," said the superintendent with a deep sigh, "but perhaps, after all, it may be correct."

The earth is believed to be flat at the polls, and we have a distinct remembrance of some candidates for office who were flattened at the polls.

The funniest story told to the reporter of this paper, in many moons, was Geo. W. Foreman's recital of How Ike Fox Was Chased by a Spotted Bull Pup. It is a true story and full of incidents that would put Puck or Judge to shame. The pup, a short-horned steer, a pair of bobs and the plethoric Isaac are the characters.

When a man is confronted with a lot of his old love letters in a breach of promise suit he realizes that his kind words can never die.

Petition to Probate Will.

TROOPS USE BULLETS.

Albany Merchant Killed and Two Other Men Receive Fatal Injuries.

Riot and bloodshed, coming Thursday night at the close of a day of comparative peace, added a long list to the victims of the strike on the United Traction company's lines at Albany. One citizen was killed and another was fatally wounded, while one non-union workman had his skull fractured and cannot recover. A large number of others were wounded more or less seriously. Obedient to orders to shoot if assaulted, guardsmen of the Twenty-third Regiment opened fire at dusk upon a mob of strikers, sympathizers and innocent bystanders. The hurling of a stone against the soldiers was the signal for the attack.

William Walsh, a merchant, was fatally shot by national guardsmen while sitting in front of a store on Broadway; removed to hospital, where he died during the evening.

The fatally injured are: Leroy Smith, merchant and prominent citizen, shot while sitting in front of his store in company with Walsh.

William Marshall, a non-union motorman, skull fractured.

Others injured are: George Booz, citizen, cheek slashed open by bayonet.

Gilbert Hall, non-union motorman, shot by mob.

William Rooney, citizen, shot by national guards.

An incident of Friday was the arrival of the Ninth regiment from New York city. More non-union men arrived also, and cars were started from the North Albany barns, as well as from the Quail street barn, the company operating fourteen cars, seven from each barn, and opening up the Central avenue branch. The Ninth regiment came to Albany with 524 officers and men, in command of Colonel William C. Morris. E. Leroy Smith, who was wounded by a bullet discharged by Lieutenant Wilson of Company E, Twenty-third regiment, died in the Albany hospital. Albany's Committee of Thirteen, which is much like the Citizens' union in New York, issued an address severely condemning the police for their inability to suppress the disorder and charged them with being in league with the strikers.

Oil Struck in Illinois.

For several years it has been generally known that the southern portion of Coles county, Illinois, lay within the oil and gas belt which extends from Findlay, Shelby county, east to the Indiana fields, but no particular attention was paid to the fact until a few days ago, when three prominent Indiana experts and capitalists, who have inspected the territory, announced their findings. At Findlay both gas and oil have been struck. At Windsor one well on the Smyser farm was opened that expelled a current of gas, which, when lighted, could be seen here, a distance of twelve miles. Last Tuesday, while drilling on the Sargent farm, crude oil was struck, which readily burned.

Omaha Girls Hire as "Supes."

A party of forty society girls combining economy with a lark have hired out as "supes" for Mansfield's performance of "Henry IV." at Omaha, Neb. Under the leadership of an Omaha newspaper woman they applied in a body for employment and were taken on for the great London bridge scene in the fourth act. The girls after two hours' drill were able to give voice to their greeting in a fairly creditable way. The girls engaging in the venture belong to a well known set which has given a number of charitable entertainments and is possessed of more or less dramatic ability.

Albany Cars Run Again.

The two men shot by national guardsmen in defense of life and property at Albany were buried Sunday afternoon, but the pouring rain kept away the thousands of sightseers that otherwise would have marked the occasion with their presence. The departure of the Twenty-third regiment early Sunday morning was a feature of the day and stirring sermons in many pulpits aided in closing the incident.

Stranger Commits Suicide.

A mystery developed at Burlington, Ia., in the suicide by shooting of a well-dressed middle-aged man, a stranger, in Crapo park. His handkerchief bears the name of F. Shephard. An envelope of a Chicago druggist containing morphine was found in his pocket, but not a cent in money or valuables. The first joint of the man's forefinger is missing and may be the only clue to identification.

Harvard Student's Bad Fall.

H. A. Rich, a Harvard sophomore, fell from the fifth story of Weld hall at Cambridge, Mass. He was removed to the Cambridge hospital in an unconscious condition. It was found that he had broken his left arm, had a compound fracture of his left thigh and that he also had concussion of the brain. Rich's home is in Dighton, Mass.

Edwin F. Uhl Dies.

Edwin F. Uhl, former assistant secretary of state and ambassador to Germany under the Cleveland administration, died Friday at Grand Rapids, Mich. He had been ill nearly a year, suffering from a complication of diseases, among them Bright's disease. Mr. Uhl was president of the Grand Rapids National bank, director in the Fifth National, and had large interests in various manufacturing institutions. His wife, two sons and two daughters survive him.

BLOODY DEEDS OF A MANIAC

Succession of Tragedies in Evansville Sunday Morning.

THREE DEAD; THREE INJURED.

Murderer, After Killing a Married Couple, Fatally Wounding a Policeman and Seriously Hurting Others, Kills Himself—Foretells His Plans in Letter.

Three persons dead, a fourth dying, a score of men and women wounded, a barn burned, nine cows killed, a siege by police, and a mob of citizens demanding the life of a murderer are features of a tragedy enacted in Evansville, Ind., Sunday. All these unusual events are results of a fit of madness, caused by brooding over fancied wrongs, which took possession of Everett Conway. The series of crimes culminated when Conway, driven to bay and facing certain death at the hands of infuriated men, kissed his wife and babies good-by and fired a revolver bullet into his own heart. Conway, who lived next door to William Garrison, has long been at odds with his neighbor, claiming the latter worsted the elder Conway in the purchase of a dairy business two years ago. He had threatened to square accounts, and the prosperity of the dairyman preyed upon his mind, until he determined to avenge the supposed wrong. Taking a repeating rifle, Conway Sunday went to his neighbor's place. Meeting Garrison in the yard, he took careful aim, and sent a bullet through the dairy owner's heart. Conway's father, whose home also adjoins the Garrison place, was in the barn, and, attracted by the report of the shot, he ran out to learn the reason. The madman turned the rifle upon the elder man and fired, but the father was not shot and he fled, soon distancing his pursuer. Mrs. Garrison was the next to appear and become an object for Conway's fury. As she approached the man shot her, and she dropped dead at his feet.

Kills Cows and Burns Barn.

Conway entered the dairy barn, where he found nine milk cows. These he killed, reloading his rifle from a supply of cartridges he had in his pocket. When the last of these animals went down before his bullets the madman piled hay against the sides of the building and ignited it in half a dozen places. As the flames swept up the walls of the dairy Conway turned to seek more victims, but all intelligent persons on the premises had fled. Barricading himself in the house Conway opened fire upon the officers with a repeating shotgun. By this time a crowd of several persons had assembled, and the tiny leaden pellets scattered among the spectators. Officer Wallis was struck five times and cannot recover, while fully twenty men and women were wounded by the shot.

Writes Letter Telling of Plans.

The deed was premeditated, as Conway had sent the following letter to a local paper, asking its publication: "Well friend readers, what I will do will be a plenty. I will tell you why. This man Garrison has bullied the whole ranch since he has been here, but he run against a snag when he landed on me, so I think he will sink. He got the ranch under control, and he got it for nothing. My dad gave him everything he got. He run the whole family away and has caused my dad to disown me. I am from Kentucky and you know what's in them people. He threatened to kill me, and you know the jig is up. I need not tell you what I am going to do, for it will be in sight, so come and see."

MRS. LYMAN J. GAGE IS DEAD.

Wife of Secretary of the Treasury Succumbs to Illness.

Mrs. Lyman J. Gage, wife of the secretary of the treasury, passed away at 9:30 Friday evening at Washington. In spite of her illness of nine weeks death came suddenly, and it has greatly shocked the official and social community here, for it is no disparagement to the other women in official life to say that Mrs. Gage was the most popular and best known woman of the McKinley administration. Beyond all question she had given up her life to her official station, and her name must be added to those who have been sacrificed in the relentless treadmill of political and social life in Washington. Mrs. Gage was peculiarly a martyr, because she went to Washington with no previous official experience. The result was that she entered upon her social duties with such a scrupulous regard for other people, that she, who had scarcely known a sick day in her life, broke down under the strain last fall and never fully recovered. After the funeral services at Washington Secretary Gage will accompany the body back to Chicago, and the burial will take place in the family lot at Rosehill. The services there probably will be private.

Asks Aid for Alaskans.

E. W. Clarke, special treasury agent at Seattle, Wash., has issued an appeal on behalf of the destitute natives of the Aleutian Islands and Alaska generally. The failure of their regular hunting supplies and the recent epidemic to which they have been subjected are given as the direct causes of present distress. Supplies and contributions received will be distributed by the revenue cutter service.

Railway Fraud in Russia.

Investigation of the frauds recently discovered in the management of the Russo-Polish and Vistula railroads, discovered some time ago, shows that the peculations amounted to 31,000,000 roubles (about $15,500,000). Forty arrests have been made in Warsaw and others are expected. The frauds were carried out by wholesale declarations of deficient freight rates.

Dinner Party for Cambon.

A dinner party was given in honor of Ambassador Cambon Sunday evening at the residence of James Deering in Chicago, where the ambassador is being entertained during his present visit to Chicago. Those at the table were Mesdames Caton, Strobel, Howe, Keep and Patterson, and Messrs. Potter Palmer, Robert Lincoln, Howe and Deering.

Shot by Daughter's Suitor.

Dennis Reed, an 18-year-old boy, shot and seriously wounded George Williams at Metropolis, Ill. Reed had called on Williams' daughter against the father's orders. Williams stepped into the room, objected to the young man's presence in his house, and the shooting followed.

THE LATE MRS. LYMAN J. GAGE.

Must Obey Eight-Hour Law.

That the eight-hour law must be enforced by contractors for the city of New York was made known in a decision rendered by the appellate division of the Supreme court. It was in the case of Eugene Lentihen, who made a contract with the city in June, 1899, for removing the Forty-second street reservoir. Comptroller Cole refused to pay the contractor because he had made his men work more than eight hours and had not paid them the prevailing rate of wages.

Smallpox Epidemic in Alaska.

Following are private advices received by mail at Seattle from Sitka, Alaska, dated May 11: "Drs. Moore of Skaguay and Linhart of Juneau have been investigating the smallpox epidemic here and at the Indian ranch. Russian town, and the Indian mission. Dr. Moore said there could be no question of the seriousness of the situation. At the mission there were found over thirty children suffering from smallpox."

MANY MACHINISTS STRIKE

Fifty Thousand Men Out for Nine-Hour Day.

LEADING CITIES ARE INVOLVED.

Six Thousand Out at Cincinnati and More Than That Number Quit at San Francisco—Few Strikers in Indiana or Illinois.

Approximately, 50,000 machinists throughout the country struck Monday for a nine-hour day, a scale of wages equal to the ten-hour per day scale, and other demands. This is the estimate of President O'Connell of the National Association of Machinists, based on the telegraphic advices that have reached him today from the machinists' headquarters in the various cities. The strike thus far has not extended to the allied trades, save in one or two instances, as at Scranton, Pa., where men in a part of the allied trades are out. The machinists out on strike are numbered as follows: Cincinnati, 6,000; other Ohio cities, 2,400; Philadelphia, 1,335; other Pennsylvania cities, 8,600; San Francisco, 6,500; other Pacific coast cities, 75; Hartford, 2,500; other Connecticut cities, 3,165; New York, 2,000; Chicago, 55; other Illinois cities, 417; Milwaukee, 1,600; Wisconsin and Michigan, 1,450; Boston, 1,500; New England cities outside of Connecticut, 950; Baltimore, 800; Plainfield, N. J., 1,000; other New Jersey cities, 1,495; cities in many states, 925. Total, 42,767.

The number out in smaller cities runs the grand total up to about fifty thousand.

Fitz John Porter Dead.

General Fitz John Porter, formerly major general of the United States army, who was cashiered during the civil war and afterward restored to his rank by act of Congress, died at his home in Morristown, N. J., Tuesday. General Porter was 80 years old and was highly regarded by the younger officers of the regular army, who accepted General Grant's dictum that if Porter had been in command at Bull Run the war would have stopped there and then. For several years he had been living in retirement on the comfortable fortune accumulated by his business activities after he left the army.

Scalded Drunken Man to Death.

William Hall, a bachelor coal miner, 64 years old, died at Washington, Ind., from the effects of being drenched with boiling water, which was thrown upon him from a second story window. Hall was in a helpless state of intoxication at the time and was never able to explain from what building the water was thrown. When found by the police he was still drunk, but was suffering terribly from his burns. He was taken to Walter's Hotel, where death relieved his sufferings. The police think some woman is responsible for the old man's death, and are working on that theory.

Indorses the Canteen Law.

The Wisconsin W. C. T. U.'s annual convention opened for a three days' session. There were about 150 delegates in attendance. Mrs. Mary C. Upham in her opening address indorsed the workings of the canteen law. She sympathized with the work of Mrs. Carrie Nation in Kansas, and said that temperance, if brought about, must be by the rural people. The report of the secretary and treasurer showed the society to be in good condition. There has been an increase in membership of 1,467 during the last year.

Library for Lafayette, Ind.

The two daughters of the late Mrs. Elizabeth Reynolds, who died recently in the Illinois congressman, and Mrs. L. Diaz Albertini, have presented the commodious building and grounds occupying a block near the center of the city to Lafayette, Ind., for a public library. The property donated is valued at $15,000. Mrs. Reynolds' estate is estimated at $600,000, chiefly in government bonds and securities.

Train Buried in a Torrent.

A passenger train, carrying eighteen people besides the crew, was submerged in a wall of water fourteen feet high, which swept over the Denver and Rio Grande tracks ten miles south of Pueblo, Colo. The escape of the passengers was miraculous. They clambered through the broken windows and perched on top of the cars until assisted to places of safety. The flood was a result of a cloudburst in the Sierra Ojada Mountains.

Killed in Roadhouse Brawl.

Willis Long was shot and killed by William E. Wallace, proprietor of a roadhouse north of Wisconsin and his twin brother, William Long, was seriously shot and may die. The Long brothers started a quarrel with a third person and Wallace attempted to interfere, when both attacked him and he began shooting. The Longs are bricklayers. Wallace surrendered to the police.

Earthquake Shakes Ohio.

An earthquake shock was felt at Portsmouth, O., and in many towns in that vicinity Friday morning. It was the severest seismic disturbance in the history of the city, houses shaking like leaves. Hundreds of persons rushed into the streets in their night clothes, thinking there had been an explosion. No serious damage was done, but many chimneys were broken. There was a succession of violent undulations, almost merged, lasting thirty seconds, and passing from west to east.

BIG FAIR DEDICATED.

Buffalo Makes the Occasion a Holiday. The big buildings of the Pan-American exposition were formally dedicated Monday. The inclemency of the weather could not keep the holiday crowds off the streets, and later when the sun came out for a few minutes the city soon took on a gala appearance. The crowds were astray early and the trains brought thousands of recruits to their ranks. The exposition grounds and the business districts of the city, where the military and civic parade formed, were the centers that attracted the largest numbers. The following telegram of congratulations from President McKinley was read by President Milburn:

"San Francisco, Cal., May 20.—William I. Buchanan, Director General Pan-American Exposition, Buffalo, N. Y.—Fellow Citizens of the United States and Fellow Americans from All Our Neighboring Nations: I send you greetings from the shore of the Pacific, with fervent prayers for the benediction of heaven upon this beneficent enterprise, with sincere congratulations to all those whose energy and devotion have brought it to pass, and with heartfelt welcome to our guests from our sister republics, to whom we wish continued and abundant prosperity. May there be no cloud upon this grand festival of peace and commerce, no thought of rivalry except that generous competition in useful arts and industries which benefit all. I earnestly hope that this great exhibition may prove a blessing to every country of this hemisphere and that even the world at large may profit by the progress of which we give proof, by the lesson of our efforts and their results. I trust that it may become evident before this exhibition closes, that our vast and increasing prosperity is fruitful of nothing but good to our elders in the brotherhood of nations, and that our onward march may forever exemplify the divine sentiment of 'peace on earth and good will to men.'"

WILLIAM MCKINLEY.

New Comet Is Disappearing.

The new comet which excited so much comment a few weeks ago has proved an elusive disappointment. It is now rapidly disappearing from sight and has been practically of no importance to astronomers. There was much of mystery connected with its visit. The three tails which were seen on the earliest observations seem to have disappeared, leaving only a faint nebulous streak. Then, too, the object seen by Prof. Frost of Williams Bay, Wis., on the morning of April 27 and believed by him to be this comet was away out of the orbit which was computed from later observations. It is regretted that cloudy weather prevented a satisfactory series of observations. There are grounds for believing that there were two comets and that the original three-tailed one got away.

Dynamite Explosion in Bank.

What the police believe was a daring attempt to rob the Cambridgeport National Bank of Cambridge, Mass., by the use of dynamite in broad daylight, was revealed by an explosion which blew out the side of the bank office, damaged other parts of the building, and in which Cashier William F. Roaf sustained a bad wound on the head. If the explosion was a part of a plot to rob the bank, the plan failed, for nothing of value was taken. It is thought from the force of the concussion and other evidences that dynamite was used, and that it may have been set off by a time fuse. The bank is in a four-story brick structure in the business center of Cambridge. The shock of the explosion was felt for several blocks, but no damage was done outside of the bank building.

To Combine Indiana Mines.

Operators owning mines in the Indiana fields held a meeting in Terre Haute and appointed a committee to negotiate for the proposed coal operators' combination. The committee is composed of W. S. Bogie, Chicago; J. C. Kolsom, Terre Haute; Joseph Martin, Rosedale; John S. Bayes, Sullivan, Ind., and A. M. Ogle, Indianapolis. It was decided to form the company on the same plans as the Pittsburg coal combine, which controls the mines of the Pittsburg district. The Indiana company will have a capital stock of $10,000,000, and four months' options will be taken on mines throughout the Indiana district.

Kills Woman and Himself.

T. C. Ellzey of McComb City, Miss., shot a woman companion and either killed himself immediately afterward or was killed by officers. Ellzey and the woman arrived at Wells Point, Tex., and after leaving an officer learned that the man was wanted by the authorities in Louisiana. Armed with a warrant, two officers started after Ellzey and his companion. They were overtaken near Elmo and Ellzey shot the woman dead and began a pistol duel with the officers. When the smoke of battle cleared away Ellzey was found dead, but it is not known whether he was killed by the officers or by his own hand.

Not Worried by Murder.

The Washington police are making slow progress in clearing up the mystery attending the murder of James Seymour Ayres, the young census clerk from Michigan who was shot to death in the Kenmore hotel Wednesday morning. They are convinced that Ayres was shot by another guest of the Kenmore hotel, that the murderer was probably a man who felt that he was avenging a wrong and that a woman was mixed up in the affair, but that is as far as their investigations have led them.

SILK EMBROIDERY.

Bohemian work in silk embroidery is a distinct form of the art being always stamped in a conventional Bohemian design and wrought in the Bohemian colors, green and gold.

The designs are of two kinds, in the light little sprays with dots and graceful scrolls such as are seen in the decorations on Bohemian glass and the heavier scrolls and figures which are also distinctly Bohemian in character.

The lighter styles in design are used on small dollies and fancy pieces for stands and dressing tables. In working these use Montauk number 102 and carefully fill each little figure first with lengthwise stitches in white cotton or the silk, then work them over and over in close, even stitches, being careful to put the needle down and bring it up exactly on the line. The little scrolls and dots should be worked in Montauk number 703. Fill the dots first and then work over them with a single thread of number 703 in the opposite direction from which they are filled. Work the scrolls in outline stitch.

The illustration gives a design for a centerpiece in Bohemian embroidery. It is an especially effective and handsome piece when finished.

Place two threads of number 103 Montauk in the needle and bring up in the center of figure marked 1 in the illustration close to the line. Then put your needle down on the line on the right side close to the first stitch and bring up just below the first stitch, making a buttonhole. Take the next stitch on the left of first in the same manner, thus making a long close feather stitch. Fill the space with this stitch. Fill the spaces marked 2 in the same way, using Montauk number 102, and the next spaces fill with Mon-

SOME PRETTY SUMMER JACKETS.

No. 1—Belted jacket of tan-colored cloth, finished with stitched bands of the same.
No. 2—Eton cloth, faced with white satin, trimmed with braid and gold ornaments.

THAT FLOWER GARDEN.

The first thing to be decided in a flower garden is the contour and size of beds. Often this is predetermined by the shape of the lot; still, beds should follow the curves of paths, as plants rarely look well if grown in straight lines. Curves are not always possible to secure, and, after all, shape is merely a question of taste. Consider the garden and lawn as a whole, trying with fine eye of imagination to see the garden in all its summer luxuriance. An uninterrupted lawn vista is one of the beautiful things of nature; though if one desires a brilliant bit of color, to break it with a bed of golden-leaved salvia or one of Mme. Brunt geraniums would be striking. A decidedly tropical effect can be secured by using the bronze foliaged vicinus in mass, surrounded by glowing scarlet cannas, says Harper's Bazar. If one is fortunate enough to have lilacs, syringas, or the pretty barberry bushes grouped near the edge of the garden or lawn; here will be the very nook for the fragrant lily-of-the-valley and the lovely amaryllis. Poppies and delicate larkspur all thrive admirably among the hardy shrubs. In planning borders, place tall-growing varieties in the background; for this purpose, with their orchidlike bloom, or the amaranthus may be used. The double dahlias are particularly effective used in this way.

As soon as the ground can be worked the soil must be spaded and turned, that the spring sunshine may warm it sufficiently before seed sowing.

Devil's Food or Midnight Cake. Half a cup of chocolate, grated; half a cup of sweet milk; half a cup of brown sugar. Boil these together until as thick as cream and let cool. One cup of brown sugar; half a cup of butter; two eggs; two-thirds of a cup of milk; vanilla flavoring. Mix well; beat in the boiled mixture and two cups of flour sifted with a heaping teaspoonful of baking powder. Bake in layers and put together with boiled frosting. This cake may also be baked in a loaf. Other varieties of this are simply good chocolate cakes, baked in layers or in loaves.

SUMMER GOWN

Of ecru batiste, tucked in fine tucks. Ecru lace yoke, and also on the skirt. Light blue velvet bow and ends, and belt.

THE BLACK VELVET BRACELET.

In Paris the pretty fashion of wearing a black velvet ribbon bracelet is being revived. Sometimes the ribbon is simply tied about the wrist in a smart little bow, or it may be fastened with a gold or jeweled ornament, says the Philadelphia Inquirer. Black velvet is also being worn about the neck, with evening gowns. A fancy clasp fastens this in the back and a brooch is usually planned on in front.

The best proof of a man's character is taken in the press of life.

A FAMOUS OLD HOUSE.

The house of Walter Baker & Co., whose manufactures of cocoa and chocolate have become familiar in the mouth as household words, was established one hundred and twenty-one years ago (1780) on the Neponset river in the old town of Dorchester, a suburb of Boston. From the little wooden mill, "by the rude bridge that arched the flood," where the enterprise was first started, there has grown up the largest industrial establishment of the kind in the world. It might be said that, while other manufacturers come and go, Walter Baker & Co., go on forever.

What is the secret of their great success? It is a very simple one. They have won and held the confidence of the great and constantly increasing body of consumers by always maintaining the highest standard in the quality of their cocoa and chocolate preparations, and selling them at the lowest price for which unadulterated articles of good quality can be put upon the market. They welcome honest competition; but they feel justified in denouncing the fraudulent methods by which inferior preparations are palmed off on customers who ask for and suppose they are getting the genuine articles. The best grocers refuse to handle such goods, not alone for the reason that, in the long run, it doesn't pay to do it, but because their sense of fair dealing will not permit them to aid in the sale of goods that defraud their customers and injure honest manufacturers.

Every package of the goods made by the Walter Baker Company bears the well-known trade mark "La Belle Chocolatiere," and their place of manufacture "Dorchester, Mass." Housekeepers are advised to examine their purchases, and make sure that other goods have not been substituted.

An attractive little book of "Choice Recipes" will be mailed free to any housekeeper who sends her name and address to Walter Baker & Co., Ltd., 158 State Street, Boston, Mass.

Queer Ideas of Justice.

Some of the justices of this city appear to have taken a singular view of their duties and prerogatives, says a recent Manchester, England, dispatch.

The case of Hugo Shaw and W. H. Hughes—who have rightly resigned a position for which they were clearly unfitted—has created a great sensation, and has drawn a letter from the home secretary in approval of the censure of the city justices. These two gentlemen have escaped lightly, for they were guilty of about as scandalous a breach of magisterial decorum as can be imagined. From the report furnished by the chief constable we gather that when a local publican was to be summoned for permitting drunkenness on his premises these two justices made repeated attempts to induce the police to refrain from prosecuting. Moreover, when the case was called on they were found on the bench, and when the police shifted the case to the other court, Messrs. Shaw and Hughes moved after them. Having done all they could to stop the case they thrust themselves upon the bench out of their turn. There is a strong hint in the chief constable's report that undue influence is frequently brought to bear on licensing cases in Manchester.

Teaches Tricks to Bantams.

Mrs. Rosalie Gandolfo is a St. Louis woman who has a penchant for bantam chicken pets and has a brood of them of which she is exceedingly proud, for she has trained them to perform tricks that are the wonder of the neighbors. Two of her roosters, especially favored by her, are named McKinley and Roosevelt. These two little fellows were perched on a newspaper's mammoth bulletin board on election day last November and kept the big crowds shouting with delight at their continual crowing. It seemed as if the little redbreasts knew when big returns came in for McKinley and Roosevelt, for as the figures were posted up they would emit louder than ever their "cock-a-doodle-do." The roosters will perch on Mrs. Gandolfo's fingers, fly to her arm, shoulder or head at command; will crow whenever their mistress tells them to, will eat out of her hand, will guard articles like a watch dog and in other ways will show the result of long and careful training. Mrs. Gandolfo, who is president of the Rosalie Woman's club, named after her, prizes her pets very highly and takes great pains in teaching them new tricks.

A Home for Stray Cats.

An uptown woman in New York, the widow of a supreme court judge, has devoted her attention to the welfare of stray cats. She has had constructed a cage thirty-two feet long and ten feet wide, where all homeless animals, who are found in the vicinity receive food and shelter. The neighbors call it the "cat mission." The cage is fitted with cushions and has a house heated with hot water pipes in one end. A local milkman has the food contract for this asylum and leaves a large can of milk daily for the inmates. Over forty cats are being cared for at present, and news of the institution is spreading.

Condemned to Wear Wooden Collar.

A man who had been condemned to wear a wooden collar was seen by some of his friends. "What have you been doing," they asked him, "to deserve this?" "Oh, nothing," he replied; "I only picked up an old piece of rope." And you are to be punished thus severely," they asked, "for merely picking up an end of rope?" "Well," answered the man, "the fact is that there was a bullock tied to the other end."—Herbert A. Giles, in "History of Chinese Literature."

INTERESTING CHAPTERS FOR OUR RURAL READERS.

How Successful Farmers Operate This Department of the Farm—A Few Hints as to the Care of Live Stock and Poultry.

Cataract of Fowls.

General Considerations. Cataract in the sense in which it is here used is any inflammation of the mucous membranes of the head,—viz., mouth, throat, nasal passages, and eye sockets, accompanied by the formation of a deposit, exudate or membrane upon the affected parts, which may accumulate to such an extent as to cause a discharge, or completely fill the cavity which the mucous membrane lines.

Thus when the inflammation affects the mucous membrane lining the nasal passages there is more or less redness of the latter, accompanied by a discharge from the nostrils, which discharge may become thickened so as to close the opening of the nostrils and obstruct the breathing. In the same way the mucous membrane lining the eye socket may be similarly affected and a watery fluid escapes which bathes the eyes, and which later may become thick like pus, eventually gluing the lids together.

This pus may furthermore become thick and cheesy, and accumulating in the inner corner of the eye socket produce a tumor-like mass which displaces the eye.

Again the inflammatory condition may affect the mouth and throat, extending to the larynx. In this case the mucous membrane is more or less reddened and covered with a deposit or exudate. This latter may be easily removed, or it may firmly adhere, any effort to remove it causing the underlying parts to bleed.

Cataract is caused by bacteria finding lodgment on the mucous membrane which in their growth generate poisons that irritate the tender mucous surface.

The disease may assume two forms: Simple, non-infectious cataract, and malignant, infectious cataract, or roup.

Our knowledge of these two forms of the disease is not sufficient to draw a sharp line of demarcation between them, inasmuch as their general manifestations are the same. In many cases one may be only a mild form of the other, in others the two seem to be quite distinct. Infectious cataract is usually more malignant in its character, the symptoms more pronounced, the death rate greater, while its spread through a flock clearly points to its contagious nature.

Simple Cataract is quite common among domestic poultry. The mucous membranes of the nasal passages are inflamed and thickened and exude a thin watery fluid which escapes through the nostrils. This latter may become thick and hard so as to entirely close the nasal openings and cause mouth breathing. The eyes may also become inflamed and watery, and later the lids become glued together with the viscid secretion. Catarrhal patches may also form upon the mucous membrane of the mouth and throat. The affected birds show general symptoms of illness, more or less severe. They are dull, have little appetite, and may show a roughened plumage. The birds sneeze, or the mouth breathing is accompanied by a wheezing or snoring sound. The principal predisposing cause of simple cataract is exposure to cold, dampness and strong draughts of cold air. These influences may be further aggravated by insufficient nutrition and lack of exercise. It is therefore best prevented by keeping the birds in warm, tight houses, with good feeding.

For treatment the mouth and nostrils can be washed once or twice daily with either of the following solutions—boracic acid 15 grains to the ounce of water, or a one per cent solution of creolin. These solutions can be injected into the nostrils by using a small oil can, and a camel's hair brush used to apply the solution to the affected parts of the mouth or eyes.—Bulletin 47, Delaware Experiment Station.

Pure and Impure Milk.

Edward N. Eaton, state analyst of Illinois, in a report on the condition of the Chicago milk supply in relation to its purity says:

Perhaps the most serious adulteration in milk is contamination with disease germs which, unfortunately, cannot be detected by chemical analysis. These germs may carry disease to consumers. Especially susceptible are infants, who have not the vitality to destroy or throw off the infection. Milk may become contaminated from the cow (which animal may be diseased), or from association with disease in the human family. The composition of milk makes it an ideal food and home for bacteria, and, consequently, bacteria of all kinds breed rapidly in it. A poor start is all that is necessary to make milk a few hours old swarm with microbes. Infectious disease germs which, unfortunately, feed on the food elements of milk, make it unfit for human use and dangerous indeed for infant feeding. Feeding babies aged and decomposed milk is unquestionably the cause of the alarming mortality in hand-fed infants. The danger in using, and the liability of getting fermented and therefore contaminated milk increases with hot weather. The difficulty of getting milk into the hands of the Chicago consumer in fresh, wholesome condition, has led to the far too general use of preservatives. The remedy, when early applied, is certainly efficacious, but the cure is almost as bad as the disease.

Another precaution against impure milk is sterilization or boiling of milk, which certainly assures safety if not digestibility. If sterilization is carried out under proper conditions, there is every reason to believe, both from theory and from experience, that the digestibility is increased rather than diminished. Pasteurization is another method used to make market milk safe. When properly accomplished pasteurized milk answers all the requirements, and the unavoidable slight cooked taste is soon unnoticed. The term "Pasteurization" is, however, so loosely applied of later years that it means little unless the process is known. The best milk is produced from dairies kept in a sanitary condition, and the milk drawn under conditions which preclude the possibility of contamination with dust, dirt or disease germs. Milk so procured has been sent from Illinois to the Paris Exposition and arrived at its destination in good condition. There can, however, be no harm in the pasteurization or sterilization of such milk and for infant feeding may even be desirable if delivered in sealed and sterilized bottles.

Variability of Tests.

Prof. Haecker says that when a farmer gets his test and it is 3.4 and the month before it was 4.4, he will come to the creamery and say: "I know my herd tests 4.4 and here I have only a test of 3.4." You hear these things wherever you go; it is universal. Now, for the purpose of throwing a little light on this subject, I wish for a moment to call your attention to the wonderful machine a cow is. We know that the average cow has not proper care; that she is not kept comfortable; that one day she has all she wants to eat and another she has not; that some nights she is cold and some nights she is comfortable. Now here we have a record from cows properly cared for. One tests in the morning 4.2; in the evening she tests 4.1; the next morning she tests 3.7; the next milkings 3.5, 3.3, 3.6, 4.3, 3.4. Just see the variations from one milking to another—altogether of one per cent; or in other words, the cow gives 25 per cent richer milk at one milking than she does at another. Now that is so far as the daily test is concerned, for we test every milking and have since 1891. Now the same peculiarity exists from week to week. Let us take the first milking of the cow—7 per cent fat; the next 5.4, 5.7, 6.1, 5.3, 5.1, 4. Well now suppose some farmer had taken his cow and employed some one to make these tests at his farm and then found at the end of the week that she averaged 5.5. Why, he has a five per cent cow and you would hear that every week. Now examine what she will do later. All that week she averages 5.4. This is taking one test in the morning and one in the evening, and that should give us a pretty good idea of what she did. But next week I find she gives 4.4 on an average; and when I tested the third week, all the week, every milking, she tested 4 per cent. Another week testing every milking and she tests 3.2. Now here you have the whole month's record of averages for each week, commencing with 7 and ending with a week's test of 3.2. Possibly we should be a little more charitable to the farmer who finds fault because these things are not generally understood. Let us take for instance a whole herd. I will read notes of a few tests made during 1895. First, for three consecutive days the herd tested 4; the next day it tested 4.1; the next 4.3; the next 4.3, and the next 3.9. These variations can not be accounted for.

National Meat Inspection.

The live stock and meat inspection service of the Bureau of Animal Industry has had a phenomenal growth and now constitutes the larger part of its work. Meat inspection was carried on, in the fiscal year 1900, at 148 packing houses and abattoirs, situated in forty-five different centers. The total number of antemortem inspections of animals was 53,087,994. This comprised 9,656,762 inspections of cattle, 9,854,733 of sheep, 559,735 of calves, 33,011,205 of hogs, and 5,560 of horses. The number of animals rejected, subject to post-mortem inspection, was 159,519. The actual number of animals inspected before slaughter was 34,840,374, against 3,809,459 in 1892, an increase of 31,030,915, or 815 per cent. The post-mortem inspection of 34,737,613 animals resulted in the condemnation of 61,906 carcasses and 30,346 parts of carcasses. The Bureau in 1899 inspected microscopically 108,928,195 pounds of pork for export, as against 38,152,874 pounds in 1892, when microscopical inspection was begun, an increase of 70,775,321 pounds, or 186 per cent. In 1900, however, but 55,809,626 pounds were inspected, or only about half as much as in 1899.

When new inventions come into existence new problems arise in their connection. The milk test did away with some of the old problems that hung around the selling of milk in bulk, such as the inclination of the patron to add water to increase the bulk of his product, but it brought in the problems of honesty and correctness in making the tests and the questions of the strength of acids and perfection of the measuring bottles. It takes a man a long time to find out that the milk from his cows varies constantly. This fact makes trouble for the man that does the testing, no matter how honest he may be.

Raymond had just been over to the hall with his basket of flowers, mostly from the woods and fields.

Decoration day always found him on hand; and although his contribution was simple, he was glad to be able to do even a little toward furnishing material for this touching memorial service.

Raymond was the grandson of a veteran of the civil war, and this year he wanted to do something more than usual, to let the old friends of the grandfather whom he had never known understand his loyalty, both to his grandfather's memory and the country that he had died for.

Suddenly he remembered an old tattered flag that stood in a corner in the attic, and beside it a musket, rusty and time-stained. Then he looked at Rover.

"Can you do it, Rover?" Raymond's eyes asked the question. The soft brown eyes of the dog answered, "Try me."

"All right, Rover, I will." Rover's tail ceased its impatient tattoo upon the floor, and with a yelp of delight he followed his master up the attic stairs. Half an hour later the boy and the dog sat side by side upon the door-step. The boy held a flat piece of wood in one hand, and his jack-knife in the other. Occasionally he lifted a faded flag, and slipped the end of the worn stick through a hole which he was whitening in the new piece of wood.

At last he sprang to his feet, saying, "All ready now, Rover! Do you think you can hold that in your mouth?"

Rover's eyes said, "Of course I can!" as his tail gave three excited thumps. Good, faithful Rover! Raymond knew that he could be depended upon to be his color-bearer. Now for his own part in the program. The sound of approaching footsteps and the beat of a drum floated up to the spot where the boy and the dog were making ready to honor their country's fallen heroes.

From a window of the cottage a pair of tear-dimmed eyes watched the strange preparations.

Raymond hastily donned an old soldier cap, and shouldered the rusty gun. He hoped that he looked like a soldier. Rover's admiring eyes assured him that he did.

"Now, Rover," said Raymond, patting the dog's head, "I'm going to let you hold the flag."

Rover never was happier than when he could carry a bundle; but this was such an unexpected privilege that for a second or two the flagstaff veered like a weather-vane, with each delighted thump of his stub of a tail. Then, seeing his master's motionless attitude, Rover took pattern; and as the little company of veterans drew near, the color-bearer and his master attracted instant attention.

Every man in Company C loved Raymond; loved him for his own sake, for he was a bright and lovable boy, and also for the sake of the brave comrade who had marched with them through many a weary campaign, and at last had given his life for his country.

There was a quick order from the front, and instantly every man lifted his hat, and the band struck up the "Star-Spangled Banner;" and Raymond, with his faithful dog beside him, and his grandfather's tattered flag waving in the breeze, was the hero of the day.—Helen M. Richardson.

Thousands of Unknown Dead.

One of the largest national cemeteries in this country is located at Salisbury, N. C. There are 11,000 unknown dead in the cemetery, which is kept in splendid repair by the government.

The society hand-shake isn't exactly what you'd call "a pretty how'd you do?"

Mr. Schwab on Success.

President Schwab of the United States Steel corporation, who draws a salary of $1,000,000 a year, has been telling the boys of St. George's Evening Trade school, in New York, how to succeed in business. With his general rules as to industry, integrity, frugality and devotion to duties about every one will agree, but even the exercise of these to the fullest degree does not land many men in million dollar jobs, though unquestionably no real success in any calling is ever attained without them. His contention, however, that "manual education excels for a life of business and for manufactures" and that "a college education is not necessary for a successful business career" may not be universally accepted. Mr. Schwab supported the latter phase of his contention by recounting the names of half a dozen exceptionally successful manufacturers not noted for scholarship and by saying that of 40 financial magnates with whom he had once foregathered only two had been to college.

Strangely enough, The Engineering News of London has much the same doubts about the utility of technical education that Mr. Schwab has about the academic and asks if it does not lead rather to small improvements in old methods than to the making of original and important contributions to the industrial arts. It mentions Watt, Stephenson and Brinley as great men whose technical education was by no means thorough and instances Harrison, the carpenter, who gave us the chronometer; Arkwright, who collected hair from barbers' shops before he turned his attention to spinning by machinery, and Dr. Cartwright, who never saw a loom until he made his own. Edison, Gramme and Swan were without scientific training in the modern meaning of the term, and Bell was more of a philologist than a physicist.

The truth is that the more one knows, whether acquired through college education or manual training or without the aid of either, the better he is equipped for a successful and useful career. If, however, the accumulation of many millions and the holding of positions which pay such enormous salaries as that which Mr. C. M. Schwab annually receives be the only mark of success, very few persons can hope to attain it, no matter what the educational qualifications. That sort of success comes very largely through peculiar conditions and environments, though unquestionably there must be the basic qualities of thrift, industry, fidelity, trustworthiness and knowledge of the business in hand. For these things every boy should strive, whatever his advantages in the way of education, and, though he may never get into the millionaire class, he may become none the less a successful, useful and honorable factor in society.

The people of the little kingdom of Serbia are to have a new constitution, under which they apparently will enjoy larger liberties and greater privileges than heretofore. An authoritative outline of the new constitution, which will shortly be promulgated by King Alexander, has been published at Belgrade. According to the programme, the senate will consist of 51 members, of whom 18 will be elected by the people. The qualification for the franchise will be the payment of 500 francs per annum in taxes. The king will nominate 30 life members. The remaining three members will be the heir to the Serbian throne, provided he is a male and of age; the metropolitan of Belgrade and the bishop of Nish. Half of the elected members of the senate will resign every three years. A bill in order to become a law will have to be approved by both the senate and the national assembly, or skuptchina, which will now have a balance wheel in the shape of a second chamber. The present constitution has been in operation since 1889. According to it, the legislative power is exercised by the king in conjunction with the national assembly. The senate consists of only 16 members, eight nominated by the king and eight chosen by the assembly. It examines and elaborates the projects of law and authorizes extraordinary loans. According also to the old constitution, the assembly consists of one body, composed of deputies, one elected by every 3,500 taxpaying males.

It will cost about $3,000,000 to buy up the Palisades of the Hudson, according to the plans of the Palisades interstate park commission. But none can tell where the money is to come from. Nevertheless the commission has nearly $800,000, and this sum ought to be sufficient with which to make a start.

A bank president who was determined on death provided himself with a razor, some rough on rats and a bottle of acetic acid. Had he been as cautious in conducting his bank as he was in preparing for his demise he might not have felt that suicide was necessary.

American Malleable Casting Company, Chicago Highlands.

Capacity Fifteen Thousands Tons Annually; Employing Three Hundred Men, and Supporting a Population of One Thousand People.

The main building is 541 x 110 feet, with an annex in the rear, 42 x 162 feet, containing the engine, furnace and core rooms. The walls of the main building are 20 feet high at the gutter line and 35 feet high at the ends. A lantern 10 feet high and 48 feet wide extends the length of the main building for a distance of 341 feet. The building is divided into foundry, mill room and annealing room by fire walls running its entire width. The foundry is 300 feet long, the mill room 40 feet and annealing room 200 feet. Foundations of Joliet stone, and wall of brick. All columns, trusses and supports of steel. The engine room is to be equipped with three engines of 50 horse power each, also with blower, pumps and all necessary machinery. The power used throughout the building will be electricity. Railroad tracks extend the full length of the building at the rear of same and connect with the Chicago & Northwestern and the Chicago Outer Belt (E. J. & E.) Railways. The walls of the building are near completion, and the work of putting on the roof will be underway by the last of next week. The plant is expected to be in operation by September.

"Corners" and the Law.

In breaking the "corner" in Northern Pacific on the New York Stock Exchange there was invoked a phase of the law not frequently, if ever before in this country, employed in stock speculations. When the corner had forced Northern Pacific stock up to $800 and $1,000, a dealer who had sold "short" 200 shares of this stock sought and obtained a preliminary injunction enjoining the person or persons to whom he sold the 200 shares from enforcing the claim for their delivery, this order of the court being based upon allegations, which were verified under oath, that the defendants in the case had combined and procured a corner of the stock and had acquired possession of all available stock. Knowing that they possessed all the available stock, they instructed brokers to purchase the stock from everybody, knowing that sellers of the stock could not deliver it, inasmuch as the stock was already in the possession of the defendants.

The injunction order was not served, but was held as a club over the parties responsible for creating the corner and resulted in breaking it, the defendants agreeing that all short sales of Northern Pacific could be covered at 150, which was the ruling price of the shares before the corner was effected.

Perhaps under the stress of excitement that then prevailed it is just as well that the question was not pressed to a judicial test, though it is likely to be brought there at some future time, and in any event it will make those who attempt to corner the market, whether in stocks or in products, wary of going too far.

The principle involved is as old as the law of contracts itself. It might be said to be based upon that "ancient and honorable" betting formula which prevails everywhere in sporting circles, except possibly among stock gamblers, that "if you can't win you can't lose." It is a thoroughly established precept of common law that an agreement by which the promisor binds himself to perform something which the promisee knows it is impossible to perform is no agreement whatever. It is held also that if there is a valid agreement and that after it is made the promisee makes its performance impossible the agreement is rendered null and void. This law was laid down in England at the very earliest dates and has been uniformly followed by the United States supreme court and by the state courts generally. There is no reason why it should not apply to the stock transaction above referred to. At all events, if "cornering" the market, either of stocks or products, and the process of forcing up prices beyond all reasonable limit by getting control of the "available supply" can be declared illegal, it will have a potent effect upon the most perilous phase of speculation.

The spring floral festivals occurring in various sections of the country at this season of the year seem to have been eclipsed by the wholesale exchange of bouquets between Minister Conger and Minister Wu.

New Yorkers have reason to be jubilant. For the first time in 12 years the record of its baseball team has been placed at top of column next to pure reading matter.

The Washington Post thinks that "the discovery of another author of 'The Breadwinners' will be sure to start the 'Beautiful Snow' explorers again."

It must be more or less of a surprise to J. Pierpont Morgan to wake up in the morning every day and learn how many things he bought the day before.

There seems to be some question as to which of Sir Thomas Lipton's yachts will do "the wearing of the green."

Up to the time Mrs. McKinley was taken dangerously ill in San Francisco there had been no untoward incident to mar President McKinley's transcontinental tour, which was in many respects one of the most remarkable journeys ever taken by the chief executive of the nation, though brought unexpectedly to an end ere it was half completed.

From the time of the departure from the national capital until the tour was brought to an untimely ending in the metropolis of the Pacific coast the president had been welcomed with unfailing courtesy and unbounded hospitality. Immense throngs have everywhere greeted and cheered him, not as an individual or as the representative of any particular set of political principles, but as the chosen head of a sovereign people. In all the thousands of miles of travel and in the greetings of all the millions of people no word of insult has been spoken and not the slightest vestige of ill feeling exhibited. In the early stages of the trip the president's route lay through communities once bitterly hostile to the ideas he represents and still mainly opposed to him in essential matters of public policy, but the welcome he received could not have been more cordial or sincere. He has made a series of happy, tactful speeches, which have everywhere been well received, and, though he has occasionally touched upon political matters, his utterances have been accepted even by those differing with him with characteristic American good humor. He has mingled with the people and been treated as one of them.

Viewed in comparison with the "tours" that have been made by the rulers of European countries the trip of President McKinley across this vast continent might be regarded as something quite miraculous. But we do not need to measure it by European standards. The American executive has gone on his way through the country absolutely without physical protection, and indeed there was no reason why he should be "hedged about by the minions of the law." That the president should be wholly free from insult or physical harm from the people who met to greet him was no more than might reasonably be expected in such a government as ours, but the trip has given the nation and the world another concrete demonstration of the deep, underlying popular respect for the office of the president of the United States, an office greater in honor than that of the most exalted hereditary ruler in the world and equal in prestige to it. It likewise demonstrates that we have the faculty, lacking in all other peoples, of forgetting our differences and burying our rancors without surrendering our convictions and honoring our chief executive regardless of the divergence of opinion as to the line of political policy he represents. It is not unprofitable that the lesson of national unity and strength taught by the president's tour should now and then be impressed upon us.

The promotion of Cardinal Martinelli entails upon him the necessity of purchasing an entire new wardrobe, which will cost about $1,000. Each set of vestments which he must have requires silk stockings, slippers and gloves, which are of red and embroidered in bullion, with a cross and other sacred symbols. Even his underwear must be renewed and must be according to the rule prescribed. Cloaks, capes and cassocks for different functions make up a large portion of the expensive wardrobe. The clergy in every part of the United States are raising a purse for the prodegrate, as his income is only $6,000 a year. With this he must pay his household expenses and the salaries of his auditor and secretary. The total expenses of his elevation are estimated at about $5,000.

PETERSBURG, ILL., Oct. 13, 1899. PEPSIN SYRUP CO., Monticello, Ill.

Gentlemen:—Our baby Esther has never tasted a drop of medicine other than Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin for more than a year. It entirely cured her of constipation. She is a lovely child and since I gave her your medicine she has been perfectly healthy, although she had not been well and strop until we began using it. We know of others who are using it with equally good results. Wishing you success. Gratefully yours,

Mrs. C. A. TRUCKMULLER. Sold by Chas. E. Churchill, Barrington.

A most pleasant surprise was tendered Master Earle Golding last Friday evening at his home, it being the thirteenth anniversary of his birth, by about twenty of his young friends. The evening passed away quickly at various social games and amusements. At 10 o'clock a grand relay of refreshments was served, of which all heartily partook, after which the amusements were continued for another hour and then all departed, thanking their host for the delightful evening and wishing him many happy returns of the event.

Memorial Day will be celebrated in Wauconda this year in a fitting manner. Gen. Green B. Raum will deliver the Memorial address and M. W. A. lodge and the teachers and pupils of public school will assist the G. A. R. post and W. R. C. in making the day one to be remembered. At 1 o'clock the procession will be formed and will march to the Wauconda cemetery, led by the Wauconda band, where the usual Post ceremonies will take place, after which the soldiers' graves will be decorated. The procession will then march to the Oakland hall, where a program will be rendered. Every one is invited. The Post has arranged to hold Memorial services at Volo Sunday, May 26.

Mr. Gleason of Waukegan, a representative of the Waukegan Sun, was a caller in our village Wednesday soliciting ads for the 1901 fair program.

Thursday evening of last week the Wauconda Gym and Social club celebrated their first anniversary by having dinner served at the Oakland hotel at 8 p. m. It was a grand affair, served only as Landlord and Landlady Grantham can serve, and everybody did ample justice to the spread. This was followed by toasts; one to Orton Hubbard, their honorary member, one to the absent members and one to the prosperity of the club. The toasting over, the merry group of youthful maidens ascended to the hall where all proceeded to trip the "light fantastic toe." Some took the part of gentlemen and seemed quite capable. A prize was given and Mrs. Lester Burdock and Miss Lisle Houghton secured it. The judges were Mr. and Mrs. Grantham and Miss Avis Cook. The evening was most pleasantly passed away until the hour of eleven and then, bidding their host and hostess a happy good night, the "gym" departed.

CARPENTERSVILLE.

Miss Tillie Hooker visited in Chicago several days.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Peck were recent visitors at Dundee.

Mrs. Swick of Palatine was here during the illness of her brother, E. Rollins.

Rev. Wykoff is attending the State Congregational association at Galesburg this week.

George Sawyer, who left Thursday afternoon for Nebraska, is much improved in health.

Dundee Congregationalists contemplate building a new church at a cost of $7,000, half of which is already subscribed.

The ladies of Carpentersville are greatly interested in the W. R. C. work. Three of its officers are Carpentersville ladies.

Mesdames Sheedy, Swick, Grant, Peaseley, S. Bumstead and S. Miller joined the Woman's Relief Corps at Dundee Tuesday afternoon.

Rev. Flucks, of the M. E. church, has invited the G. A. R. to attend church there Sunday evening preceding Memorial Day. The W. R. C. will also be there.

A FEW HINTS

Arranged in Paragraphs for Visitors to the Printing Office.

We must now speak of a matter of, perhaps, but little consequence to the general public, but of considerable importance to the proper conduct of a printing office. The class of people referred to are found everywhere, and representatives are not absent from this vicinity. The public are heartily welcome to any department of this publication, but—well the following hints observed will make you thrice welcome.

It frequently happens that visitors do and say things which are improper and annoying. They do not mean to be rude, and have not the slightest idea that they are making themselves disagreeable, for the reason they are not accustomed to printing office etiquette.

When you enter the office don't handle the type in the cases. If you wish to examine it say so and we will be glad to empty the case on the floor where you may examine it at leisure. Never mind putting the type back, as we have nothing else to do.

Don't read the manuscript or proof-sheets. If you want to know what is going to appear in the paper ask us and we will read it to you; will be only pleased to quit work and entertain you. If you wish to know the actual number of subscribers the publisher will run over the mailing list for you at any time.

Don't ask for a sample copy, but take as many as you want. Don't spit tobacco juice into the porcelain cuspidors but use the stove or floor.

Don't lean up against the standing galley rack and shove your elbows into live matter, not that we object to the work of repairing the damage, but it is an ungraceful position.

Don't advise us how to run the next issue of the paper, not that we claim to know anything about publishing a weekly journal, but it casts reflections on the judgment of our many satisfied patrons.

Come and see us as the bearer of a good batch of local items; if you are not a subscriber a willing cashier will write you a receipt, but don't annoy the mechanical or brain workers of the lever that moves the world.

Alas! How Soon Forgotten!

is an ache or pain or trouble of any kind when one is well rid of it and if it happens to be headache or stomach trouble that bothers you, take Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin and you will not only forget you ever had it, but will know that you are not liable to have it again. The dose is small and it is pleasant to take. Sold by Chas. E. Churchill, Barrington.

A GOOD METHOD

To Encourage Pupils in the Practice of Writing Short Stories.

The teacher of the school in Dist. No. 1 has a method of encouraging her pupils to write original stories, taking as subjects illustrations, objects, or writing from memory of some story told to them or which they have read. It is an excellent practice for the scholars and one to be commended. The teacher has requested THE REVIEW to aid in such encouragement of the children in this practice, and we this week present the story of the "Lombardy Poplar Tree," written from memory by Lizzie Gilly, nine years of age. The penmanship, punctuation and spelling is very good for a child of that age.

The Lombardy Poplar Tree.
In olden times, one evening, just at sunset, a man found a pot of gold which lies under the end of the rainbow. His home was beyond the dark forest through which he was passing. The pot of gold was very heavy and soon he began to look for a safe place for it until morning. A poplar tree stood near the path, stretching its branches out from its trunk. That was the way poplar trees grew in those days.

"Ah!" said the man, "I will conceal my treasure in this tree; it will make a good hiding place," said he. "All of these trees are asleep; their leaves are large and they hang thickly."

He placed his pot of gold in the tree carefully and hurried home to get his family to see his fortune. Very early the next morning Iris, the faithful rainbow messenger, missed the precious pot of gold. She hastened to Zeus to tell him of the loss. Zeus immediately sent Hermes to the forest where the pot was. He awakened the trees and asked them if they had seen the lost treasure. They shook their heads sleepily and murmured some words Hermes could not understand. Then Zeus spoke to them himself and said: "Hold out your arms and see if all the trees are awake." Up went the arms of the poplar, also down to the ground came the pot of gold. The poplar tree was more surprised than any one else. It was a very honest tree and for a moment hung its head in grief and shame. Then it raised its arms as before and said: "Forgive me great father, hereafter I will stand here in order that you may know I hide nothing from the Sun, my king." At first the others laughed at the poplar, and often told him he looked like a great umbrella which a storm had turned inside out. Since then as the years have gone by the poplar tree has always grown straight and has been respected and loved for rightness and strength.

ECONOMY Is in itself a great revenue.

But economy does not necessarily mean to look for the cheapest article on the market. Cheap materials are dear even as a gift. Pure white lead and oil paints has more substitutes and imitations than other material. The chief adulteration of white lead is Barytes, a ground crystalline, without opacity or body, and to buy this stuff is like throwing money away, because if it is desired to use a good paint afterwards, there will be no foundation to which it can adhere. Heath & Milligan's paints have been the standard for 47 years and are guaranteed to be the best; that's the reason we handle that brand.

Best Prepared Paint.

Has a world-wide reputation to sustain. It is the highest product of a half-century's successful experience in the paint business. It is the backbone of our trade. The Best Prepared Paint is a painter's paint and is largely used by practical workmen in preference to the old method of mixing by hand. It is more convenient and profitable for them as well as the consumer.

Put up in gallon, half-gallon and quart cans. 52 handsome colors to select from.

Color card free for the asking.

Family Prepared Paint.

Put up in 26 popular shades in pint and half-pint cans. For re-igniting and decorating the mail chairs, screens, toys, flower pots, etc. These sizes will be found convenient and economical.

CREOLITE.

Handsome and durable floor paint. Put up in gallon, half-gallon and quart cans in 8 colors. Dries over night without tack. Best mineral paint on the market and is guaranteed to wear.

Full line of dry colors and colors in oil.

WAGON PAINT.

Prepared especially for the wear and tear on wagons and farm implements. Put up in 1, 2 and 4 gal cans in blue, red, yellow, green and black. Cannot be surpassed by any wagon paint on the market.

BUGGY PAINT.

Our Climax Buggy Paint is prepared much in the same way as a coach color. Dries with a hard glossy finish. Put up in quart, pint and half-pint in black, red, wine, green, yellow, brewster green, blue and carmine.

VARNISH STAIN.

Put up in quart, pint and half-pint cans to imitate cherry, walnut, oak, mahogany, rosewood and antique oak. Can be used over raw, stained or painted surface. Will not chip or crack and dries with an egg shell finish.

Roof and Barn Paint.

Adapted for barns, roofs and large structures on which an economical paint should be used. It is a combination of the best grade mineral colors and will outwear any of its kind on the market.

Guaranteed
Raw and Boiled Oil and Strictly Pure White
Lead, Turpentine, Varnishes, hard oils, etc., etc.

Satsuma INTERIOR ENAMEL.
Put up in 22 of the handsomest colors ever blended. This is a new product and has proved by test to be superior to any interior enamel made. Just the thing for decorative purposes such as chairs, beds, stands, etc. Dries in 12 hours with a high polish.
We also handle bicycle enamel in all colors.

Hygienic Kalcimine
This beautiful and sanitary wall finish has been the king of all kalcimines for years. Endorsed by kalcimines everywhere. Anyone can put it on in a few hours. Try it and you will use no other. Put up in fifteen handsome and beautiful shades. Ready for use by adding warm water. Prices greatly reduced this season.

Gold Paint for decorating and regliding. Make you buggy top look like new by using our top dressing.

We carry in stock the best grades of Portland and Common Cement, Wall Plaster, Lime, Brick, Drain Tile, Stucco, Plastering Hair, Window and Plate Glass, in fact, everything that a mason or painter uses. Call and get our prices, we can interest you.

Mildred Trevanion

BY THE DUCHESS.

CHAPTER V.—(Continued.)

"I don't suppose you have," said the scapegoat, very submissively, being so far "down on his luck" just now as to render him patient toward any indignity, even when administered by a younger sister. So he took his scolding with meekness, and made no open show of resistance or disapproval, though in his inmost soul he resented the treatment hotly; only he turned away from Mabel, and addressed himself once more to his first confessor. "Why don't you abuse me, Mildred?" he said. "Am I beyond even your censure, that you refuse to say anything harsh to me? Have you given me up altogether? If you have, I know it is only what I deserve."

Miss Trevanion moved abruptly away from the side of the oaken window frame, against which she had been leaning, and went up to where he was standing, rather apart. She laid her hand upon his shoulder.

"Poor old fellow!" she said, softly, whereupon Eddie Trevanion, in spite of his twenty years, fairly broke down, and buried his face on his arms, and burst out crying.

This was too much even for "the queen's" stoicism; she repented her righteous anger immediately, and, putting her arms around his neck, proceeded to press her lips lovingly to the only portion of his ear at all visible, while Mildred, with tears in her soft, blue eyes, told him to cheer up and have courage, and "maybe they'd manage it somehow, you know," with a good deal more to the same purpose.

As the girls hung round him in this fashion, and patted the sinning Eddie, until a looker-on would have deemed him a suffering angel at least, Denzil Young sauntered upstairs in his mud-stained, scarlet coat. Entering the picture gallery on his way toward his dressing room, and not seeing very clearly, in consequence of the fast-approaching darkness, he came upon the tableau at the end of the apartment almost before he had time to collect his senses.

The three figures looked gray and ghost-like to his bewildered eyes, but one thing was distinctly evident, and that was Eddie Trevanion's unmistakable distress.

"I beg your pardon," Denzil said hastily. "I'm awfully sorry, Miss Trevanion, to have intruded in this rough manner, but unfortunately I did not perceive you until I was quite close. However, as I have committed my blunder, can I—may I—try to be of some assistance?"

Mabel looked up eagerly. Here was a golden opportunity. Here was a rich young man with nothing on earth to do with his money, and unquestionably good-natured!

"Could he be of some assistance?" Of course he could—the greatest—if Mildred would only look up and answer him. Mildred did look up and answered him—answered him very distinctly indeed, though scarcely in the spirit that Mabel had hoped for, having intercepted "the queen's" glance and interpreted it correctly.

"You are very kind," she said, steadily—"very kind indeed; but this is a matter in which, I fear, you can be of no help to us."

"Let me try," he implored, eagerly. "Impossible," she returned, coldly; "you do not understand; it is a case in which no stranger can take part. Thanks very much all the same."

When Miss Trevanion said that, of course there was nothing left for the young man to do but to bow and go on his way, which he accordingly did, with a bitterly hurt feeling in his breast, engendered by that one word "stranger."

"What a stress she laid on it! How obnoxiously it had sounded as applied by her to him. How coldly distinct had been her voice when speaking it! Well, it wasn't her fault, he supposed; she was gifted with neither heart nor gracious manner, nor anything else tender and womanly—only with a glorious face and figure, which of course did no good to any one and only made one—Where the deuce had Connor put his brushes? That fellow was growing more confoundedly careless every day; and how abominably that brute of a horse he had given one hundred and fifty pounds for last week, had taken that last water jump this morning, just when the entire field was looking on, too! On the whole, it hadn't been so very pleasant a day, as he had fancied in the first heat of the moment, when it was all over and he was discussing it during the homeward ride with old Appleby. Hanged old nuisance that old Appleby was, by the bye!" And so on and on indefinitely sped Denzil's reflections, while the cause of them all stood still in the gallery where he had left her, with her kind little white hand on Eddie's shoulder.

"Haden't you better go and get yourself ready for dinner, dear?" Mildred suggested, tenderly.

And then Eddie told her that it was of little use to him to go and clothe himself in broadcloth and fine linen when he knew that the first bit he ate would infallibly choke him.

This seemed dreadful to Miss Trevanion. He must be far gone, indeed, in his misery when he could refuse to accept the goods the gods down stairs were preparing for his delectation, and she was just beginning to argue with him on the subject of that presupposed strangulation, when Mabel broke in suddenly.

"Mildred," she said, "I have an idea." And Mildred appearing sufficiently struck with the novelty of this announcement, Mabel went on: "I have a plan to say nothing further either of you about this matter to any one until tomorrow evening, and leave everything in the meantime to me."

"But won't you tell us your plan, whatever it is?" Miss Trevanion asked anxiously, rather taken aback by this unexpected prospect of rescue from their slough of despond. "I think it will be wiser of you to let us hear it." Upon which "the queen" said: "No, I won't very emphatically, indeed, and marched out of the room with colors flying."

CHAPTER VI.

At eleven o'clock the next morning Mabel Trevanion said to Wilmot, the footman:

"Tell Jenkins to bring my horse round."

And Wilmot the footman, having scrippulously and on the instant delivered that message to Jenkins the groom, it so happened that ten minutes later "the queen" of King's Abbott was riding away on the high road to Blount Grange, with her sister's little nondescript, black-coated dog at her heels.

When at length she had reached the wished-for massive iron gates, and had traveled all down the long line of stately elms that in the summer time proved the glory and comfort of the Grange avenue, and had evoked a servant in answer to her impatient summons, she asked, eagerly:

"Is Mr. Blount at home?"

"Yes—the master was at home just then, the man told her; whereupon Mabel jumped from her horse, desired a groom, summoned by the butler, to take her horse round to the stables, and gathering up her skirts, entered the spacious hall, her little bright-eyed follower close behind her."

Dick Blount, or "old Dick," as he was more commonly called by his friends and acquaintances—whose name was legion—was a man somewhere in the "fifties," tall, strong athletic, and the master of an income close upon six or eight thousand a year. The Grange was one of the loveliest estates in the county, situated about two miles or so from King's Abbott, and why the owner of it had never taken to himself a wife was a question often asked in Clifton, but never satisfactorily answered. No woman's name had ever been connected with his—in the matrimonial line at least—since on his uncle's death he had come to take possession of his property. How and where he had lived previously was little known to anyone, beyond the certainty that he had spent much of his time abroad, wandering in a desultory pleasure-seeking fashion from city to city, with probably no ulterior designs, except those of enjoying the present hour to the uttermost.

Far and near there was no man more universally beloved and respected by all classes. Young men adored him for his genial advice, always so gently given, and his ready assistance, while every child in the neighborhood had reason to remember the good nature of old Dick Blount.

"Mr. Blount," said Mabel, as the old gentleman advanced to meet her, "I want to speak to you in private, please, for a minute or so."

"So you shall. Come in here," said Dick Blount, and he led the way into his library, the door of which he closed carefully behind her. "Now what can I do for you?"

"I am going to ask something dreadful," began Mabel, after a pause, during which she had felt her courage oozing rapidly away—"something that I feel sure no woman should ask, but you must promise not to think too hardly of me for all that."

"I promise you."

"Well, then,"—desperately—"I want you to give me three hundred pounds." Blount laughed.

"Is that all?" he said. "Why I thought you were about to confess to half a dozen murders at least. Sit down, Miss Mabel, and tell me all that is on your mind."

And Mabel, sitting down, told him all her trouble—all about Eddie's evil behavior, and her father's ignorance of it, together with his inability to pay so much ready money just then, and her own determination to come over to him, as the only person she could think of likely to help her in her calamity. When she had finished she looked up at him wistfully out of her beautiful hazel eyes.

"I know I have done a very wrong thing," she said, with quivering lips—"a hateful, unfeminine thing that will make you despise me forever. But what could I do? You were the only one I could think of to help me, and so I came."

"I consider you have done me a very great honor," answered old Dick, promptly, "and I feel proud and glad of it. To whom indeed should you come, if not to your oldest friend? I'll tell you what, Miss Mabel—I'll write you out the check now on the spot, and you can take it at once to your naughty brother with your love; and we will never tell any one—you and I—one word about it."

Mabel's eyes filled with tears. She stooped suddenly, and kissed the kindly large brown hand that lay on the table near her.

"Nonsense, child," said Blount, hastily; "what did you do that for? Why, the money is lying idle at my bankers, not doing the slightest good to any one and I am only too pleased to be able to oblige you so easily."

"Thank you," returned Mabel, "thank you again, Mr. Blount, for all your goodness to me."

"I have done nothing for you," protested old Dick, "and I shall be seriously angry, Miss Mabel, if you ever mention my 'goodness' to me again."

They were crossing the hall at this time, and presently gained the outer porch, where he put her on her horse and gathered up the reins for her hand. "Well, good-by, and take care of yourself; and be sure you look your very loveliest on Thursday evening."

"Good-by," Mabel cried, and rode on beneath the elms once more to the high road on her way home to King's Abbott.

When she reached it she found the house deserted—the two elder ladies, accompanied by Miss Younge, having gone a distance of five miles to return some visits, while the gentlemen had been shooting since early dawn.

"And Miss Mildred—where is she?"

"Miss Trevanion has just gone down by the coach way, toward Grant's farm," to see Kate Dempsey, whose "man" has "been in trouble," Jenkins, the footman, informed her.

And so there was nothing left for Mabel but to wait patiently until such time as any of the members of the household should take it into their heads to return.

Mildred at that moment was returning from Mrs. Dempsey's dwelling house, and Denzil Younge was at her side.

Slight and tall though she was, she scarcely reached her companion's shoulder as they walked along side by side, very silently at first. The chill breeze sent a bright warm glow to her cheeks, and played with and flung about her hair, until she seemed transformed into one of the ancient sirens, come back once more to break the hearts of men. The heart of the man beside her was very fairly on the way to breaking just at present, so sweet she seemed to him, so fair past all expression, so hopelessly beyond his power to reach.

"And of what are you thinking, Jenny?"

Mildred hummed gayly, glancing up at Denzil with laughing violet eyes.

"Of you," he answered simply, "and of something else."

"Very explanatory," said Miss Trevanion—"only I want very much to know what the 'something else' is. I hold it as my duty to tell me, because I am your Bradshaw just now, and you certainly owe me a return for my services."

"If I told you, it would not interest you in the least."

"I can quite believe that—few things do; but we have a good long walk before us, with no earthly subject to discuss, as I conclude you hardly feel equal to the weather. Do you?"

"Of course I do; surely you cannot suppose that this little gust of wind possesses the power to upset me?"

"I don't mean in that way—how stupid you are! I spoke of being 'equal to,' or as you would say, 'up to,' discussing the weather."

"Oh, that indeed! I beg your pardon; the cobwebs thicken on my brain of late, I fancy. I only hope this lively breeze will blow them all away before Mr. Blount's ball, or I shall find no one there to take pity on me."

"Remove your hat, then, and give your head a chance; the result will probably be a severe cold in it—but that doesn't matter compared with the clearness of intellect. Are you thinking much about the ball?"

(To be continued.)

SCOTS TOAST THE QUEEN.

Audience Was In Doubt Whether Cow or Sovereign Was Meant.

About five months ago I clipped the following from the Glasgow Weekly Mail. It occurred in the report of an agricultural show dinner. The chairman spoke thus: "No, gentlemen, will ye fill your glasses, for I am about to bring forth 'the Queen.' Our queen, gentlemen, is really a wonderful woman, if I may say it; she's one of the gold and silver sort. Nae Whigmaleries or faldersalls about her, but a dour descent lady. She's respectable beyond a doubt. She has brought up a grand family o' well faured lads and lasses, her oldest son being a credit to any mither, and they're a' well married. One daughter is nae less than married to the Duke o' Argyll's son and heir. Gentlemen, ye'll may no no' believe it, but I ance saw the queen. I did. It was when I took my auld broon coo to Perth show. I remember her weel—such color, such hair!"

Interruption and cries of "Is it the coo or the queen ye're proposing?" "The queen, gentlemen. I beg your pardon, but I was talkin' about the coo. However, as to the queen. Somebody pointed her out to me at the Perth station, and there she was, smart and tidy-like, and says I to myself, 'Gin my auld woman at hame slips awa', ye need na remain a widow another hour langer.' Noo, gentlemen, the whusky's good, the night is lang, the weather is wet and the roads are saft and will harm naeboddy that comes to grief. So aff wi' ye drink to the bottom? The Queen?"

The number of saloons in Ohio last year was 10,348, an increase of 476 over 1899. The license receipts were $1,864,642.

LATEST ILLINOIS NEWS.

Dedication at Urbana.

Tuesday marked the dedication of the new agricultural building of the University of Illinois, erected at a cost of $150,000. Addresses were made by S. Noble King of Bloomington, A. P. Grout, H. M. Dunlap, L. H. Herrick, president of the Illinois Cattle Breeders' association; Dr. T. J. Burrill, dean of the general faculty of the University of Illinois, and Professor Eugene Davenport, dean of the Agricultural college; Dr. Thomas F. Hunt, dean of the Agricultural college of the Ohio state university, and Joseph G. Cannon.

Yates Names Secretaries.

Governor Yates has announced the appointment of Colonel John G. Oglesby of Elkhart, son of former Governor Richard J. Oglesby, as private secretary, vice Fred H. Rowe of Jacksonville, chairman of the Republican State Central committee, who resigned to accept the position of attorney for the state insurance department, and of W. S. Robbins, Chicago, as personal secretary.

James P. Nichols Dead.

James P. Nichols, a retired hardware merchant, who was a pioneer of Chicago and Waukegan, died at Waukegan. He was in his seventy-ninth year. He lived in Chicago from 1842 to 1844 and then moved to Waukegan, where he had since resided. He was married in 1846 and a remarkable coincidence is that his funeral was held in the fifty-fifth anniversary of his marriage. He leaves a widow and several children.

Will of Ida Harris Contested.

An attempt was made at Urbana to break the will of the late Ida May Harris, the reputed author of "The Breadwinners." An objection was made in the County Court of Champaign County by her father, B. F. Harris, Sr., and brother, H. P. Harris, to the probate of the will and codicil on the ground of mental incapacity, incident to the illness attending delirium.

Illinois Congregationalists Meet.

Delegates to the State Association of Congregational churches arrived at Galesburg for the fifty-fifth annual convention. The sessions will continue four days and the program includes addresses from those engaged in the general church work throughout the country, as well as in the state. The general theme of the convention is "The Conquering Church."

Crack Shots at Tournament.

The annual tournament of the Illinois State Sportsmen's Association opened at the Illinois Gun Club's grounds, Springfield, with the largest attendance of crack shots ever gathered there. The women's shoot for the governor's trophy, a handsome silver cup, was held at twenty-five birds each and was won by Mrs. G. W. Shepherd of Chicago.

Train Kills and Maims.

One man was killed and another seriously injured by a Northwestern elevated train at the Halsted street station, Chicago. The dead man is Carl Bisping, 25 years old, machinist, Livingston, Mont. Bernard Levy, Livingston, Mont., was struck and thrown aside by the train and severely cut and bruised about the head and body.

Held for Barnes Murder.

The jury in the Barnes poisoning case at Jacksonville brought in a verdict finding that Barnes came to his death from strychnine administered by William Ferguson, alias William Winn, Mrs. Mamie Barnes, wife of the deceased, is charged with being an accessory before the fact. Both are in jail at Jacksonville, and refuse to talk.

Illinois River Fish Thrive.

The biennial report of the Illinois fish commissioners, just issued at Springfield, states that fish in the Illinois river have not been materially affected by the introduction of lake water by reason of the completion of the drainage canal and are as plentiful as at any time in the past.

Suicide Blames His Wife.

After a family quarrel John D. Epkins, aged 60 years of Pekin, committed suicide by hanging himself with a clothes line. He left a note alleging his end was due to unkindness of his wife.

Dixon's $12,000 Depot.

The red brick depot of the Illinois Central at Dixon, the oldest structure of its kind in the state is being replaced by a new building to cost $12,000.

New Agricultural Building Dedicated. Morrow hall, the University of Illinois' new agricultural building, at Champaign, was dedicated Tuesday.

Waukegan Trouble Simmers Down. The rival police departments of Waukegan did not clash Monday night. During the day Chief Powell offered his resignation to the newly elected mayor. The new policemen were sent out to locate their predecessors and bring in the stars or their owners. The desertion of the leader disheartened the ex-policemen and an hour later the stars were locked in the new official's desk. At the Council meeting in the evening the Democratic Aldermen acquiesced in the acceptance of his bond, and Mayor Finer was declared the chief executive.

A GIFTED AND BEAUTIFUL GIRL Threatened With Nervous Prostration, PROMPTLY SAVED BY PE-RU-NA.

MISS ROSE CULLEN, OF BUTTE, MONT.

Miss Rose Cullen, President Young Woman's Club, of Butte, Mont., writes from 921 Galena street, as follows:

"Peruna has many friends in Butte. I cannot say too much in praise of it. While finishing school I became very nervous and exhausted from over-study. I was weak and sick, and could neither eat, sleep nor enjoy life. A couple of bottles of Peruna put new life in me. I find that having it in the house and taking a dose off and on keeps me in fine health."

"A large number of my friends place Peruna at the head of all medicines."—Miss Rose Cullen.

How Peruna Quickly Cures Backache, the Bane of Womanhood.

MRS. G. W. HEARD, Hempstead, Texas, writes:

"We have moved recently, and I must have lifted something that was too heavy for me in straightening things up, for I had such a backache and could hardly stand on my feet at all. Beside, I was so tired all the time. My face was spotted and I was very thin. I took one bottle of Peruna and was soon real well. When I feel tired and all run down I take Peruna and feel all right before I finish one bottle. I know it is a wonderful medicine, and both myself and husband praise Peruna."

"There has been a great deal of sickness through this part of the country, but, thanks to Peruna, which we use freely, our own family has escaped with almost no sickness at all."

"Could you but see our baby Ruby, (to whom we gave Peruna for bowel trouble), you would see from her robust looks that you need no better advertisement in this little town. She is so fat and rosy, is nearly five years old now, and is a great believer in Peruna."—Mrs. G. W. Heard.

Given Up to Die—All Doctors Failed—It Proved to be Catarrh of Stomach and Was Cured by Peruna.

W. A. Mitchell, dealer in general merchandise, of Martin, Ga., writes: "I wrote you some time ago concerning my wife's case. She had tried all of the best doctors, and we got to where we thought all they did was against her. She weighed about 190 pounds when she was in good health. When she commenced with our family physician in April, 1898, she weighed about 130, but kept going down all the time. She went to Atlanta, Ga., and took treatment, but it did her no good. Then she went to Harmony Grove, Ga., and took treatment from the best physician there for three months. She kept going down under his treatment, although he was considered the best physician in the county. She went down from 130 pounds to 68, and we saw she could not live long. She was a skeleton. We consulted an old physician who told her to use Peruna. She gradually improved and got stronger. She has gained 38 pounds since she has taken Peruna, and is gaining every day, and does her own housework. "She was well known when she was so low, and now everybody wants to know what cured her. She had indigestion and catarrh of the stomach. It is as good for children as for grown people. We haven't had to have a doctor for one of our children since 1898."—W. A. Mitchell.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Teachers Are Contented Boarders.

A farmer's wife, writing to the American Agriculturist, says that it has been her good fortune to take summer boarders for the past seventeen years, and she sums up her experience thus: "I have had boarders of all ages, from the baby with its nurse to the aged grandmother, but my favorites are maiden ladies and school teachers. They are most always contented."

What Do the Children Drink?

Don't give them tea or coffee. Have you tried the new food drink called GRAIN-O? It is delicious and nourishing, and takes the place of coffee. The more GRAIN-O you give the children the more health you distribute through their systems. GRAIN-O is made of pure grains, and when properly prepared tastes like the choice grades of coffee, but costs about 1/4 as much. All grocers sell it 1 lb. and 25c.

The Government Building at the Pan-American Exposition is rapidly being filled and many most interesting exhibits have come in. The light house exhibit is being put up. It will contain a first-order flashlight, giving twenty-four flashes at each revolution, a flash every five seconds. A prismatic lens will reflect rainbow colors. The light is similar to the one on Fire Island and at Great West Bay.

What Mexico Boasts of.
In our country we have the following, says El Correo de Sonora: The highest mountain in North America, Popocatepeti; the deepest mine in the world, Valencia; the richest vein in the world, and the one which has yielded the most silver, that of the mountain of Guanajuato; the most extensive and wonderful caves, those of Cacahuamilpa and Villa Garcia; the oldest city in the Americas, formerly Tolan, now Tula; the oldest commercial house in America, the book store of Abadano, founded 21 years ago; the city in which printing was first established in the new world, Mexico, in 1533; the sanctuary most venerated in which only may be compared that of Lourdes in France; the people, whose tongue, like that of the Basques, cannot be classified among any of the continent, the Seri; the capital, with a higher altitude than the other cities of its country, Mexico; the biggest known tree, the "Santa Maria del Tule" in Oaxaca; the most recently created volcano, Jorullo; finally, the ruler now in power who has done most to preserve peace in all the countries of America freed from Spanish rule, General Porfirio Diaz.

An "M. D." Open Letter.
Benton, Ill., May 20—R. H. Dunaway, M. D., of this place, in an open letter, makes the following startling statement:

"I had Diabetes with all its worst symptoms. I applied every remedy known to the profession, as well as every prescription suggested in our books. In spite of all, I was dying, and I knew it."

"As a last resort, and with scarcely any faith whatever, I commenced taking Dodd's Kidney Pills. In one week I saw a great improvement. After I had taken five boxes, I was sound and well. This is ten months ago, and I have not taken any medicine of any kind since, and am convinced that my cure is a permanent one."

"As a practicing physician with years of experience, I most positively assert that Dodd's Kidney Pills are the best medicine in the world today, for Diabetes or any other Kidney Disease. Since using them myself, I have used them in many cases in my practice, and they have never failed."

"I am making this statement as a professional man, after having made a most thorough test of Dodd's Kidney Pills, and because I feel it my duty to the public and to my professional brethren. The truth can never hurt anyone, and what I have said is the absolute truth."

R. H. DUNAWAY, M. D.
It is no wonder that the public are enthusiastic over this new medicine, when our leading physicians themselves, are being won over to its use.

War Bicycle Exhibited.
One of the special bicycles built for the use of the British troops in South Africa which went through the campaign with Gen. Ian Hamilton's column was recently exhibited in London, where its excellent condition, considering the knocking about it had received, excited general comment. England seems busy with the organization of cyclist soldiers, and many companies of wheelmen will figure in the Easter maneuvers.

THE OHIO IS LAUNCHED.

Big Battleship Companion of the Oregon
New in the Water.

The launching of the battleship Ohio took place at San Francisco Saturday. It was the great event which attracted to the Pacific coast President McKinley and his cabinet, the majority of the Ohio congressional delegation, Gov. Geer of Oregon, the governor of Nevada and numerous other state officials and congressmen. The steel clad hull slid from its cradle twenty-six minutes after the hour of noon in the presence of the chief executive and several thousand spectators. The President met the employees of the builders at the wharf and was presented with a souvenir which the men prepared for him. When all but the last rope holding the ship was gone Miss Barber, niece of Mrs. McKinley, pressed an electric button, causing the knife to drop, severing the cord which held the last stay. As the ship began to glide down the ways, Miss Helen Desbier dashed the bottle of champagne which hung by a ribbon from the bows and christened the vessel.

Putnam; Bridget Noonan, by Miss Blanche Schilding; Mamie Lane, by Miss Mary Putnam; and Sol Davis, the "Gilded Yankee," by W. H. Brockway.

He swore good and plenty. For a number of weeks his appetite had craved for fish. He had completed all arrangements for a trip up the river. His wife prepared a bountiful lunch. The time set for departure was 4 a.m. During the previous evening he was busy overhauling tackle, looking after bait, etc. Late in the evening he came down town, purchased two doz. pints of Pilsner and stored them in a market basket. He also added a pint of snake bite remedy. This he carefully deposited in the inner pocket of his raincoat. Arriving at the house he set the basket of pints under the front stoop for "safe keeping." He retired to dream of the great catch. While he snored his thoughtful wife arose, abstracted the snake bite remedy from his coat, and emptied the stuff in the kitchen drain and refilled the flask with tea. His neighbor was also interested in his (the fisherman's) comfort, and abstracted the two doz. from under the stoop, replacing them with three coupling pins and 15 mts. The trip to O'Hara's cottage was made in good time, the drinkables and eatables unloaded. An introduction to the flask revealed the robbery. The basket was uncovered and—this is a family newspaper and the language of that man is unprintable. He returned home and every neighbor in the block was aware of his presence.

West Dundee Not Satisfied.

Since the late election in West Dundee, when a no license board was by some manner or means chosen, the village has been in a ferment. Three of the trustees have resigned and all municipal business is tied up. The Hawkeye says:

"The present crisis in the municipal life of West Dundee is to be regretted. We do not pretend to say who is responsible for the deplorable state of affairs now existing, giving everybody concerned credit for having the welfare of the town at heart. What everybody needs to do is to keep cool. Because we are face to face with a perplexing situation is no reason why friendly relations should be strained to a breaking point. The late election from beginning to end has been fraught with all kinds of trouble and dissatisfaction. Perhaps it would be the best thing to have a new start—all members of the present board resigning. Then let us have a ballot sheet entirely free from all suspicion of illegality."

Junior League Flower Social.

The Junior League of the Methodist Episcopal church gave an unique entertainment at the church parlors Wednesday evening, and it proved a most enjoyable affair to not only the little folks but to the older ones as well. Miss Hattie Tuttle managed the entertainment and to her efforts is due the success of the same.

The church parlors were prettily decorated with lilacs and potted plants, but these could not eclipse the loveliness of the happy band of little ladies and gentlemen who were there to entertain with recitations and music. The guessing contest excited all and many of the older ones wished they were conversant with botany, at least for the moment. Rev. Tuttle proved a good guesser, having 16 out of 21. Lovell Bennett was a close second with 15 correct answers. The prize cake went to Lovell. When the hour for refreshments arrived each one in attendance was given a card on which was written the name of a flower. Those holding cards bearing the same name, were "bunched" the result being bouquets of carnations, violets, daisies and roses were formed. It fell to the lot of the reporter to have a place among the violets the sweetest and prettiest bouquet in the house.

The following was the program: Song.....Junior League Prayer.....The Pastor Recitation.....Howard Harnden Recitation.....Marie Nightingale Solo.....Pearl Wilmer Recitation.....Stella Harnden Recitation.....Herbert Wilmer Solo.....Gussie Decker Recitation.....Sanford Rieke Recitation.....Lydia Decker Solo.....Lovell Bennett Recitation.....Victor Rieke Quartet.....Misses Sadie Blocks, Ruth Meyers, Emma Pomeroy, Louise Rieke. Closing Chorus.....Junior League The program was nicely rendered, quartet deserving especial mention.

MEMORIAL DAY

To be Properly Observed by Veterans and Public of Barrington.

Thursday, May 30, the day set apart by a grateful and liberty loving people to honor the memory of those who sacrificed their lives on the fields of blood and carnage and those who have since the close of that awful war gone to their eternal rest—those who faced the hail of death dealing shot, that the Union might be preserved—is a day that should be held sacred to every individual who loves that emblem of freedom, who boasts of the enjoyment of the rights of American citizenship. Throughout this broad land on that day will gather, with the decimated ranks of what formed the noblest and grandest army that ever marched onto fields of battle, the great mass of citizens, and pay loving tribute to the heroic dead; respect to those who still survive the greatest rebellion known in history.

Barrington will not be found wanting in her measure of tribute, General Sweeney Post and the W. R. C. having arranged a program suitable to the occasion.

Sunday, May 20, the Post will attend the Baptist church in this village where special service will be held at 10:30 a. m. At one o'clock the Post will proceed to Barrington Center where services will be held and graves of comrades in Barrington Center cemetery decorated.

Thursday, May 30, a procession will form on the public square at 10 o'clock and headed by the Barrington M. W. A. band march to Evergreen Cemetery and decorate the graves. At 1:30 p. m. the procession will again form and proceed to the corner of Grove avenue and Hawley street where the exercises of the afternoon will be held. Prof. W. W. Carnes of Chicago will deliver the address; vocal music will be furnished by a quartet and instrumental selections by the M. W. A. band.

The Soldiers of The Republic.

"They fought to preserve the blessings of liberty and that their children might have peace. They were the defenders of humanity, the destroyers of prejudice, the breakers of chains, and the name of the future they slew the monster of their time. All honor to the brave! They kept our country on the map of the world, and our flag in heaven. The soldiers of the Republic finished what the soldiers of the Revolution commenced. They relighted the torch that fell from their august hands and filled the world again with light."

"Grandeur than the Greek, nobler than the Roman, the soldiers of the Republic, with patriotism as untainted as the air, battled for the rights of others; for the nobility of labor; they fought that mothers might own their babes; that arrogant idleness should not scar the backs of patient toil; and that our country should not be a many headed monster made of warring states, but a nation, sovereign, grand, and free. The soldiers of the Union saved the South as well as the North. They made us a nation. Their victory made us free and rendered tyranny in every other land as insecure as snow upon volcano lips. They rolled the stone from the sepulchre of progress, and found therein two angels clad in shining garments—Nationality and Liberty."

CALLED FROM EARTH

To the Land of Pure Delight Where Sorrow is Unknown.

Ada L. Landwer, a daughter of A. W. Landwer and his wife, Martha, was born in Barrington, Lake county, September 15, 1885, and died happy in her Saviors May 17, 1901, at the age of 15 years, 7 months and 29 days at Barrington.

She was a faithful member of the Salem United Evangelical church. Though timid by nature, she was always ready to testify to the saving power of her Saviors, on whom she leaned during her painful sickness, which lasted nearly five months. She was of a quiet nature and loved the good and the beautiful, was much attached to her home and her family and was what one would call her, "a papa's girl." She will be greatly missed by all. She leaves a father, mother, two sisters and many friends to mourn her early departure.

The funeral was held at the Salem church Monday at 2 p. m., conducted by Rev. A. W. Strickfaden.

ALVINA NAGGATZ.

Alvina Rieck Naggatz, wife of Charles Naggatz, departed this life at her home on Elm street, Wednesday morning, May 22.

Mrs. Naggatz was the eldest daughter of Henry Rieck, deceased, and Louisa Rieck, and was born in this village January 13, 1881. Her entire life had been spent within the confines of Barrington, and she was well-known to the residents of the North side of the town. Since early childhood she had been a member of St. Paul's Evangelical church and a close observer of the rules of her chosen religious faith. Two years ago she was united in marriage to Charles Naggatz. Last September her health began to fail and the ailment developed into quick consumption. Since the sudden death of her father, Henry Rieck, six weeks ago, she had failed rapidly, the past five weeks being confined to her bed. An infant boy, eleven months old, is left as the only comfort to the bereaved husband who has the sympathy of all in this sad affliction which deprives him of his young companion. To the mother, Mrs. Rieck, the blow is a heavy one, she having been called to give up husband, eldest son and daughter during the short year past.

The funeral will be held from St. Paul's Evangelical church this (Saturday) afternoon at one o'clock, Rev. Menzel conducting the service. Interment will be in the German cemetery.

Dissolution of Partnership.

The partnership heretofore existing between J. H. Hatje and George Stiefenhofer under the firm name Hatje & Stiefenhofer, was on the 8th day of May, 1901, dissolved by mutual consent, J. H. Hatje retiring. All outstanding accounts must be paid to either one of the undersigned inside of 60 days to settle the business.

J. H. HATJE.

GEO. STIEFENHOEFER.

Card of Thanks.

We desire to express our sincere thanks to the many friends who so kindly gave assistance during the illness and burial of our beloved daughter.

ADJOURNED SESSION

Of the Village Board of Trustees Held Monday Evening, May 20.

The temperature of the village hall was as chilly as the affections of a jilted lover, when the trustees convened in adjourned session Monday evening. There was nothing in sight to warm them, so they buttoned up their winter overcoats, sat at the desks and indulged in heart to heart talks for the good of the public.

All members were present when President Lamey called the board to order. The minutes of previous meeting were read and approved.

The clerk read a communication from C. F. Meyer, in which Mr. Meyer suggested that Lake street be scraped, rolled, paved or otherwise improved, and that the crosswalks of the village be repaired; also that he had nothing to do with the walk in front of the McGuire property on Liberty street.

The communication was referred to the committee on streets.

The committee to whom was referred the matter of purchasing a public drinking fountain, made an informal report, from the tone of which it is reasonable to presume the fountain will be in position in the far distant future, probably next winter.

The street committee, who with the street commissioner inspected the sidewalks and crossings, evidently found numerous places where they had not long to wait for something to turn up. There will be a general "fixing up" as a result of the committee's inspection.

Bids for tapping water mains were presented by L. F. Schroeder at $5.30 and $8.55 and H. D. A. Grebe at $6.00 and $8.50. Trustee Grunau moved that the contract be awarded to L. F. Schroeder. Carried.

The creamery sewerage matter, that has been before the board for some time, was finally disposed of by the committee recommending that tile be put in on Washington street from Williams street to Walnut street; also tile put in on Liberty street extending 50 to 100 feet west, 24 inch tile to be used.

A report on the C. & N. W. railway culvert was presented and on motion of Trustee Grunau, seconded by Trustee Peters, the clerk was instructed to notify the railway company to clean the ditch on the south side of its tracks at first culvert east of depot.

The street committee was authorized to proceed with the work of putting in a catch basin and drain at the corner of Russell and Cook streets.

The G. A. R. Post asked that it be allowed to construct a platform on Grove avenue for Memorial Day exercises. The request was granted.

Trustee Peters moved that Cook street, beginning at the south side of Station street and extending to the Northwestern right of way, be graded and graveled; also East Main street from the railway crossing to the corner of Elm street be improved. Trustee Donlea seconded the motion and it carried.

H. H. Gross of Chicago addressed the board on the question of slag as a foundation for paved or graveled streets, and presented specimens of the slag and testimonials.

J. E. Heise was heard in relation to the extension of water mains to the property in his subdivision, but no action was taken.

The board then adjourned.

A Covey of Greeks

Will Wagner was the object on which the colony of Greek railroad laborers employed on the E. J. & E. road vented their spite Thursday afternoon.

A detachment of weary willies were taking a siesta along the right of way of the Belt Line; the deizens of ancient Greece tugged and toiled on the track near by.

One of the wearys shied a coupling pin among the Greeks.

The weary was pursued and sought refuge in the yard of Geo. Wagner where Wm. Wagner was cultivating the juicy tomato and highly perfumed onions. They mistook William for a hoboe and did then and there attempt to wreak vengeance.

The portly form of Marshal Donlea appeared on the scene. He found the hoboe and two others of that tribe and placed them in durance ville. The sons of Greece escaped the drag net.

Today nine members of the Greek colony will appear, if Marshal Donlea can apprehend them, before Police Magistrate McIntosh and tell why they interrupted William Wagner in his peaceful occupations.
