PALATINE LOCALS

Gathered and Compiled by A. G. Smith, Local Editor.

John Hirm will hold a sale today on his farm. See posters.

The old Sayles farm will be sold on Tuesday. See posters.

Mrs. West has gone to Irving Park to live during the winter.

Mrs. Gray has gone to Chicago, where she and her husband will go to keeping house.

G. H. Arps is doctoring in Chicago for his stomach trouble and is getting along nicely.

Joseph Robertson and friend, Mr. Smith, of Boston has been visiting relatives here the past week.

Plin Arps was under the weather two days this week and unable to attend his school duties in Chicago.

FOR RENT—Farm of 240 acres, for cash, or will furnish stock and rent on shares. C. H. PATTEN. (11)

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Smyser go to Evanston today to attend a reunion of Twin Lakes campers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richards.

Robert Mosser started for Minnesota Tuesday, where he will look after some land interests. He will do some shooting while he is there.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Gibbs will celebrate their fifth wedding anniversary on the 28th of this month and have issued neat wooden wedding invitations.

FARM SALE—The Sayles farm of 80 acres, 4 miles north-east of Palatine, will be sold at public auction October 22 at 2 p. m., on the premises by B. D. Wood, administrator. (11)

Schoppe Bros. have their plate glass windows in and the new entrance finished, making a fine looking store. The plate glass weighed 1,700 pounds and was put in by Battermann, Ablemann & Ost.

If you are going to California apply to agents Chicago & North-Western R'y. about the through tourist sleeping car service to Los Angeles and San Francisco. Round trip tourist tickets on sale daily. dec. 31

The next regular meeting of the Woman's Relief Corps will be held as a memorial meeting to the late president, Wm. McKinley. All Corps are to observe the day thus, by order of the national president.

Attorney Roy Peck of Barrington has come to Palatine to live and will reside at Mrs. Wm. Wilson's in the Mix house. Mr. Peck comes here with a splendid reputation as an attorney and we welcome him to Palatine.

Wm. Garms returned to Oklahoma last Friday where he purchased two farms, one being a cotton plantation. Mr. Garms will go West with his family in a short time, where he believes there is more money to be made than here.

Mrs. Taylor, who has been keeping house for her sister, Mrs. L. Clarke, while the latter was on a trip in the East, returned to her home in Chicago Thursday, having received word of the sudden death of her husband's father.

The Woodmen are contemplating leasing Battermann's hall for their use and rent same to parties desiring to use it. This will give them a fine drill hall and a splendid meeting hall. A committee has been appointed to investigate the matter and lease same if it is found practicable.

Renovation services will be held in St. Paul's church next Sunday at 10:00 o'clock a. m. and 7:30 o'clock p. m. Rev. Fleer of Des Plaines will address the young people in the evening and pastors from neighboring churches will be present. The choir has prepared for good music and the public is invited to attend. A short address in English will be given and a special collection will be taken to help the renovation fund.

Francis A. Stewart, the colored evangelist, spoke and sang in the M. E. church Sunday morning and evening, and he had good audiences on both occasions. Mr. Stewart is a gentlemanly, courteous and pleasant personage, and his talks both morning and evening were highly commented upon. On Monday evening he lectured on "That Nigger" and gave an impressive talk on the injustice done his race on account of their color. His manner of presenting his case left an abiding impression on his hearers and they will think twice before they speak of the colored man in wrong terms. His singing held the people in the church long after the lecture and he ceased the singing of the old melodies despite the request for more.

FOR SALE—Good house and three lots in best location in Palatine at a decided bargain. Very cheap if sold at once. E. F. BAKER, Palatine.

Mr. Cameron and wife of Chicago attended a meeting of the Sunday schools in the Methodist church last Wednesday night. Mr. Cameron is a worker for the Cook County Sunday School Association and gave some good instructions for teachers in Sunday school work. A. G. Smith was elected president and Adella Smith secretary of township organization.

Rev. D. J. Holmes and wife returned from conference at Evanston Wednesday. Mr. Holmes returns to his labors here, as was expected, and we notice that Rev. F. B. Hardin has the privilege of changing with the pastor of Winnebago Street, Rockford, if both agree to the change. Rev. Samuel Erney was appointed presiding elder of this district, succeeding Rev. F. A. Hardin former presiding elder.

Relief Corps Entertains.

The Woman's Relief Corps gave a public reception to their friends last Friday night. Mrs. Lucy Bowman, assistant inspector and Miss Mary Shaw attended the Corps meeting, and after the goat and other mysterious paraphernalia had been stored away, the guests entered the lodge rooms, where they were hospitably received. A luncheon was soon being passed around and a more bountiful repast one would not care to receive. There were coffee, cake, pickles, olives and fruits nicely served by the ladies and much enjoyed by all. After the luncheon a social time was enjoyed and there was not a dull moment for anyone during the evening. The ladies made so good an impression that they need to but pass the word around when they wish for more company.

COL. VAN HORNE

Has Been Retired From Command at Fort Sheridan.

Adjutant General Corbin, in Washington, Tuesday issued orders approving the finding of the retiring board in the case of Colonel Wm. VanHorne, commanding officer of the Twentieth Infantry at Fort Sheridan. By the operation of the order Col. VanHorne will be placed on the retired list without further process.

The Chicago papers have much to say relative to the retirement of the colonel, stating, among other things, that the loose discipline, the scenes of disorder about the reservation and in Highwood has much to do with the change of commanders. Residents of Highland Park, Lake Forest and adjoining towns have filed a remonstrance with the war department as to the condition of affairs at Highwood. It is reported that property owners in Highland Park and a portion of those in Highwood, are shaping plans to retire from office W. F. Hogan, supervisor from the town of Deerfield, or that portion in which Highwood is situated, from the Lake county board for the reason that his jurisdiction has been concurrent, it is charged, with VanHorne's in the regulation of soldiers in the saloons of Highwood.

The Waukegan Gazette, in commenting on the matter, says: "No fort town in the United States has seen more lawlessness and disgraceful scenes than Sheridan for some time past. The local Richard Croker, Hogan, has had a mortgage on the business and political life of Highwood for years and the good people of Highwood and Highland Park are at last aroused to a true realization of the riot and rot that is disgracing the North Shore, and an assignment of the mortgage will shortly be recorded by Supervisor Hogan.

"The subtle influence of easy money has stupefied the manhood of many of Highwood soldiers' friend and so blind have they become that riots, fights and murder are viewed as a necessary evil. Highland Park is at last incensed and ashamed of its neighbor and will use every legal way possible to wipe Hogan and his followers off the face of the earth, which they desecrate by abuse of public office. The better citizens of Highwood at last know the man who permits the disgracing of the fair name of the town where their wives, daughters and children are subject to open insult and even violence that a decent newspaper cannot mention.

"The civic ulcer on the body politic of Highwood cannot longer endure in Lake county whose citizens will in voke the power of the state's attorney to rid them of an insidious evil that is undermining all respect for law and order in this particular locality that sends its drunken tools to the north and south on the street cars to insult decent people and humiliate themselves."

Unclaimed Letters.

The following is a list of unclaimed letters remaining in the post office at Barrington, Oct. 18, 1901:

Joe Broxter, Mr. Herens, Martin Carrall, Willie King, Thos. Larell, Edward Neeley, Joseph Salizinski and Moses Simmons.

H. K. BROCKWAY, P. M.

IS A MYSTERIOUS CASE

Wm. A. Bishop, a Prominent Lake County Young Man, Found Dead Near Rochester, N. Y.

Mysteriously disappearing from his home in Waukegan, going east with no apparent reason, and saying nothing to relatives of most intimate associates of his intentions, William A. Bishop, a young man of wealth and bright prospects in his profession as a lawyer, was found dead Thursday forenoon, four miles from Rochester, New York.

Mr. Bishop was 31 years of age and was to be married early in November to Miss Ella Strong of Chicago, sister of his law partner. There is no cause known why he should take his own life, but it appears that he did, and he was not known to have an enemy. His reason for going on such a journey is a deep mystery. A lover's quarrel is hinted at, but his fiancée is prostrated and refuses to talk of the matter.

That he was not waylaid on the country road near Rochester and murdered for his personal belongings, is proven by the fact that his money, jewelry and papers were found undisturbed. A Pullman ticket for transportation from Chicago to New York, dated Wednesday the 16th, showed he had started for the eastern city. A pocket knife which he always carried, was missing and the authorities have an opinion that he cut his throat and tossed the knife into the heavy underbrush by the roadside. There is a deep mystery about the terrible affair.

The writer had a personal acquaintance with Will Bishop during the past six years. He was one of the brightest young men among the many who are products of the north shore territory. He was a graduate of Lake Forest University and Northwestern Law school and no young man had better or brighter prospects. He was a favorite at home and among a large circle of friends. He was not one to confide to others his personal affairs, but nevertheless was possessed of a sociable disposition that attracted friends. It is hard to believe that Will Bishop took his life, but if he did more than ordinary trouble is responsible for the act.

FARM TOPICS

Women and Farm Life—Advice to the "Half-way Farmer."

A writer in the Detroit Press gives a view of the frequent discontent with farm life, which may be new to some of our readers. The writer says: "Are we women to blame more than we know for our children's dissatisfaction with farm life? I have known, in my lifetime, many cases where a woman's hatred of farm life has interfered with her husband's conduct of his business as to seriously hamper him and prevent his success. You may think this an exaggeration; it is not, it is true as gospel. More than once a wife's continual grumbling and dissatisfaction, the eternal harping upon one theme that wears one's patience threadbare, has driven a man to give up his farm and all the plans and hopes that centered around it, and move "into town" where he drove a dray or ran a grocery (and lost his capital), or perhaps went on the road as a drummer.

"Now, what we need to correct all this is the teaching our girls the interesting part of farm life. We train our boys to make good farmers at our agricultural colleges, but what's the use if the girls they marry are going to continually cry out against that kind of life? Nothing so takes the heart out of a man and the zest out of his work as to have his woman folk everlastingly grumbling. The girl who hates the farm and the country ought not to marry a farmer; if she does, she should accept his occupation for his sake and cheerfully make the best of it. What we need to do is to train farmers' daughters in the knowledge that will make them contented and happy in their homes and enable them to establish happy homes of their own. I repeat—when you make the girls enjoy farm life, you'll hear a good deal less about the boys wanting to get away from it."

Are You Making Money?

A writer in the Journal of Agriculture says he once knew a very ignorant man who was, nevertheless, a very industrious and money-making farmer. After accumulating $2,000 or $3,000 he concluded to go into merchandising. He was induced to do this because he had a neighbor who had a country store and was a shrewd business man, and was evidently accumulating money. The farmer started his store and had a good trade from the start; money flowed in more freely than he had ever before experienced, and as he was too ignorant to keep track of the relations between expenses and profits he thought he was getting rich, and began to spend pretty freely for outside things. It was not very long before he found that his goods were nearly all gone and his money too. He had overlooked that absolute necessity in every business—keeping up, if not actually increasing his capital.

Many a farmer is in the same fix. He is taking off crops every year, and he may think he is making money, but if he is not keeping up the productivity of the soil he may be losing money, and by and by will find that he has "checked out" his account. There is no good farming that does not provide for keeping the land at least as good as it was in the beginning. That is really the most important problem in the whole business of farming. How can it be done? One way: Put back on the land in some form at least as much plant food as the crops take off. Not every farmer can be a stock feeder, so it is not feasible for everyone to buy feed raised on the farms of others, feed it to stock and apply the manure to his own land, thus checking out of another's account and depositing it to his own, so it has to be done through the several means open to every farmer. That will be keeping and feeding as much stock as can properly be done; saving the manure perfectly so as to keep all the fertility and applying it without loss; buying fertilizers when they can be used economically, and finally by using leguminous crops to gather nitrogen from the air. This can be done and crops sold off, money made and the farm actually made better while doing it.

The Thumb Screw in Waukegan.

The above is the heading of an editorial appearing in the Waukegan Sun of October 12. It was called out by the treatment accorded a couple of unfortunates whose only "crime" was stealing a ride on the platform of a Northwestern railroad coach from Kenosha to Waukegan. The city police resorted to the tortures of mediaeval times to inflict punishment for the "horrible crime." The Sun says:

"Today Waukegan has shifted the scene from the days of the Spanish inquisition and followed out the ancient theory, that there was such a thing as human liberty or personal rights, that the body of a man is not inviolate, but that the law may be used to inflict upon him frightful torture.

"How many readers of the Sun ever attempted to stand bold, upright and hold out their arms for five or ten minutes? We venture to say there are but very few, and yet all day yesterday in the city jail of this city there stood two men, whose only crime was stealing a ride on the Northwestern railroad from Kenosha. Just think of it! With their hands manacled to the bars of a cell, stretched out in front of them, with their feet chained to the floor, those two men stood all day long, with only a little bread and water! Just think of it! Manacled as they used to manacle the Spani h prisoners in the ancient days. If it is not to require cruelty and a resort to torture to compel a human being to work out his fine then by all means open the gates of the prisons, turn them free, lest we as American citizens in this city of Waukegan, forget our manhood, lose sight of compassion and justice and return to those times in Europe when any man who was stronger than any other man, might take that man's property or his life without recourse."

Then follows a bitter arraignment of the mayor who is a strict churchman and often occupies the pulpit of a church in that city. It seems that Christianity and the Waukegan police are not traveling hand in hand.

Spinsters' Convention.

The Spinsters' Convention to be held at the village hall, Friday evening, Nov. 1, promises to be interesting and amusing. Conventions are being held in the principal cities of the U. S. and Barrington is indeed fortunate in securing one. The Spinsters come from Boston to meet their sisters (and there are many) here. For the sum of 10 cents for little folks and 20 cents for adults, the Spinsters may be seen in all their glory. One view is worth 20 times the price of admission.

Lottery Cases Heard.

Oral arguments were heard by the Supreme court at Washington in the lottery cases from Chicago and Cincinnati. In the Chicago case a man by the name of Champion was indicted and convicted of being a promoter of the Honduras lottery. In the Cincinnati case the petitioners are John Francis, Anthony Hoff and John Edgar, who were convicted of bringing lottery tickets across the state line from Kentucky. The cases come before the Supreme Court in the form of a petition for a writ of certiorari, requiring the Circuit court to certify to the Supreme court its review and determination in the cases.

Negro White House Guest.

President Roosevelt for the first time in the history of the government entertained a negro at a private dinner at the White House. His guest was Booker T. Washington, the great negro educator. Colored men have been received at receptions and state affairs for many years, but President Roosevelt is the first to give a private dinner invitation to a negro. Diplomatically and at all state functions no distinction is drawn as to races.

Jail for United States Mint Clerk.

Walter N. Dimmick, formerly chief clerk in the United States mint in San Francisco, was sentenced to two years' imprisonment at San Quentin. Dimmick was convicted on two counts, one charging the presentation of a false voucher, and the other the use of public money in a manner not prescribed by law, Dimmick not being a legal depository.

Clerical Riot in Spain.

Gijon, Spain, dispatch: While a procession was issuing from the Church of St. Pierre it was hooted by the crowd looking on. The gendarmes charged the crowd, which responded by throwing stones. Several persons were injured in the melee, and Senor Dubizaretta, who was carrying a revolver, was arrested. He is a well-known Carlist deputy and the crowd shouted "Viva Carlos."

Hurts Two and Kills Self.

San Francisco telegram: At the Agnew stock farm Charles Douglas attacked his wife and 15-year-old stepdaughter with a heavy water pitcher and seriously injured them. When threatened with arrest Douglas shot and killed himself. Mrs. Douglas was formerly the widow of H. J. Agnew, who made a fortune as a sugar planter in the Hawaiian Islands.

City Forbids Long Skirts.

Pottsville, Pa., telegram: The board of health of Pottsville has ordered all women to wear short dresses. This action is based on the ground that the long dresses which sweep the pavement gather up all the disease germs in the street and are thus carried into the homes of the women. The collection of cigar stumps on the streets is also prohibited.

Judge S. L. Logan Is Dead.

Knoxville, Tenn., telegram: Judge S. L. Logan, for eight years circuit and criminal judge of Knox county, is dead. He was 58 years of age and was one of the most prominent Republicans in east Tennessee.

Death of Famous Musician.

New York dispatch: John L. Dore, known as the "Banjo King," is dead at his home in this city. He has been famous as a banjo player and instructor for many years.

APPEAL FROM MISS STONE

Writes "Recall Troops or We'll be Killed;"

ANOTHER WOMAN WITH HER.

Stirring Letter from the Missionary to Treasurer at Constantinople Urging Ransom Be Paid at Once—Captives' Lives in Imminent Danger.

Further word has come from Miss Stone in the following letter written from Macedonia to W. W. Peet, treasurer of the Turkish Mission in Constantinople: "My Honored Friend: I write to inform you that on the 3d of September I was captured by a great number of armed men—some forty—as I traveled from Banko to Dimaala with about twelve teachers, students and others. They took with me for my companion Mrs. Catherine Tsilka. The reason why they captured us was for a ransom. The price which they demand for us is £25,000, Turkish, which sum must be paid in gold and this entirely without the knowledge of the Turkish and Bulgarian governments within the term of eighteen days from today. We are pursued by a Turkish army. I beg Dr. Haskell himself to go to Constantinople and exhibit himself for the payment of the ransom at Samakov, where men will receive it on presenting an order from me. The men who captured us at first showed courtesy towards us, but now since Turkish soldiers and Bashi bazouks have begun to pursue us and the ransom is delayed our condition is altogether changed. Therefore, I beg you to hasten sending the ransom demanded, and that as energetically as possible you will represent to the Turkish government that it stop the pursuit of us by soldiers and Bashi bazouks, otherwise we shall be killed by the people in whose hands we are. I pray you to communicate without delay the contents of this letter to the representative of the United States at the Porte and request his most serious co-operation. Pray for us. We are at peace with God. With hearty salutations, your friend, "ELLEN M. STONE."

Charles M. Dickinson, United States Consul at Constantinople and diplomatic agent to Bulgaria, who is at Sofia in Miss Stone's interests, made the following statement to the Chicago American's special commissioner: "The brigands are not likely to murder Miss Stone, for they know it would end all chance for ransom. She suffers more than an ordinary captive, because of the activity of the troops on the frontier of Bulgaria and Turkey, and is rushed by the brigands from one hiding place to another. Just before the Stone party appeared, the brigands captured a Turk and battered out his brains with the butt ends of their guns, to prevent him telling they were lying in wait. The whole band was disguised as Turkish soldiers when they captured the Stone party."

Gambler Killed by His Daughter.

An inveterate gambler named De Francesco, of the village of Torrepello, Italy, who impoverished his family by his extravagance, has met death at the hands of his twenty year old daughter Katerina. The girl, enraged at her father for lack of consideration for those dependent on him, shot him while he was asleep, and with the help of two younger sisters, hid the body in a clothes press. The girls have been arrested.

JOHANN MOST, ANARCHIST CONVICT.

Boiler Explosion Kills Four.

Clifton, Ariz., telegram: By the explosion of a boiler in the smelting plant of the Detroit Copper company, W. W. Horgan, fireman; F. A. Adams, fireman; Harry Davidson, converter engineer, and Jose Attiveras, helper on the engine, were instantly killed and several others were partially injured. The condition of the fires and valves on the water supply line shows the fireman had permitted the water to run too low in the boiler and had then fed the hot flues with cold water.

DENOUNCE ANARCHY.

Justices of the Court of Special Sessions Use Strong Language.

Johann Most, the anarchist editor, was sentenced at New York Monday to one year in the penitentiary at Sing Sing for publishing an inflammatory article. In sentencing Most the justices of the Court of Special Sessions delivered a denunciation of anarchy and its principles. They expressed the hope that the laws of the nation will be so amended that men of the stamp of Most will not be allowed to live in the United States.

Judge Sees No Doubt of Guilt.

Mr. Hilquist, Most's lawyer, made a motion for a certificate of reasonable doubt. "Why," said Justice Hinsdale, "we have no doubt. One of the justices is in favor of fining your client $500 in addition to his jail sentence. The motion is denied."

Mr. Hilquist then moved for a new trial and an arrest of judgment. Both motions were denied and Most was taken to the Tombs. Justice Hinsdale brought out a new point of law when he quoted a section of the penal code under which the prisoner was found guilty. Here it is:

"A person who willfully or wrongfully commits any act which seriously injures the person or property of another, or which seriously disturbs or endangers the public peace or health, or which outrages public decency, for which no other punishment is expressly prescribed by this code, is guilty of a misdemeanor." Commenting on this section Justice Hinsdale said: "The plain and obvious intent of this was to leave in the code a little of the flexibility of the common law to meet cases which they had failed to specify in the preceding sections."

Means Threat to Rulers.

Continuing, the decision says: "It is impossible to read the whole article without deducing from it the doctrine that all rulers are enemies of mankind and ought to be hunted and destroyed through blood and iron, poison and dynamite." It is no answer to the evil and criminal nature of this article to claim that it was written for the purpose of destroying crowned heads. It inculcates and enforces the idea that murder is the proper remedy to be applied against rulers. This we hold to be a criminal act. It is not necessary to trace any connection in this article with the assassination of the late President. The offense here in the eye of the law is practically the same as if that event had never occurred." Most said in prison that his sentence was an outrage on justice.

Grover Cleveland a Trustee.

At the annual meeting of the trustees of Princeton university at Princeton, N. J., former President Grover Cleveland was elected trustee to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Rev. George T. Purvis. In the final drawing of the five alumni trustees to decide the length of terms D. B. Jones of Chicago drew the lot, electing him to two years' service.

Swifts Buy Eastern Concern.

Swift & Company of Chicago have bought out the old established firm of J. B. Thomas of Salem, Mass., and will take formal possession November 2. J. B. Thomas has distributing depots in Salem, Peabody, Newburyport and Gloucester; and practically controls the wholesale beef and lamb trade of Massachusetts north of Boston.

ACTS ON TWO PROBLEMS

The Episcopal Convention Transacts Important Business.

THE WORK OF A BUSY DAY.

House of Deputies Adopts a Resolution Favoring Arbitration of Labor Disputes—Approve Canon on Divorce—Dr. Hall on Divorce Records.

San Francisco dispatch: Two important matters were acted upon in the House of Deputies of the Protestant Episcopal Church. One was the adoption without debate of the resolutions presented by the Rev. Dr. McKim of Washington, to have a joint commission of both houses of the church look into the causes of differences between labor and capital and act as arbitrator. The resolutions were adopted. The other question settled was the decision of the committee of the whole in the House of Deputies that the House of Bishops took a proper stand when the bishops agreed that no divorced person should be remarried by an Episcopal clergyman. The House of Deputies adopted without debate the resolution on the relations of capital and labor offered by Dr. Randolph H. McKim of Washington, D. C. The resolutions in part read:

"Resolved, That the House of Bishops concurring, that a joint commission of both houses, to consist of three bishops, three presbyters and three laymen, be appointed as a standing commission upon the relations of capital and labor, and employers and work people, whose duty it shall be:

"1. To study carefully the aims and purposes of the labor organizations of our country.

"2. In particular to investigate the causes of industrial disturbances as may arise; and,

"3. To hold themselves in readiness to act as arbitrators should their services be desired between the men and their employers, with a view to bring about mutual conciliation and harmony in the spirit of the Prince of Peace.

"Resolved, That the said commission shall make report of its proceedings to the general convention.

"Resolved, That it is desirable that the above named commission should be continued by reappointment every three years."

Morgan Votes "Aye."

J. Pierpont Morgan voted for the resolutions.

The House then resolved itself into committee of the whole on section 4, canon 36, relating to divorcees' remarriage, which was debated at length on Friday. The Rev. Dr. Hall of Delaware favored the canon as it came from the House of Bishops. Before the divorcee bill, he said, all other menaces to society—materialism, drink and others—fall in comparison. "We of this nation," he said, "are on the way to the slimy slough upon which the wrath of the Almighty is inexorable. On Sunday we preach that the family is the nursery of the virtues, and on Monday we pronounce man and wife a couple upon whom the stigma of the divorce court freshly lies. These things indicate that the church of the living God is opening wide the gates that lead to the destruction of the family. Let us give our church the prestige of leadership in the inevitable movement for social regeneration." The vote was taken on the adoption of the section as it came down from the House of Bishops. Voting in the affirmative was 182; in the negative, 158. Section 4 was thus adopted exactly as it came down from the House of Bishops. The Deputies rejected the appointment by the Bishops of the Rev. Charles Campbell Pierce of Washington, D. C., recently United States army chaplain at Manila, as Bishop of North Dakota.

J. J. Hill Sells Erie Stock.

President James J. Hill of the Great Northern Railroad has sold nearly all of his holdings of Erie railroad stock. This statement of fact comes from an authoritative source. At the time of F. D. Underwood's accession to the presidency of the Erie railroad Hill and his friends held so large an amount of Erie stock that he was allowed to select the president and make other important changes in the official staff. Since the Northern Pacific-Burlington deal Hill has reduced his Erie holdings.

TO GO OVER NIAGARA FALLS.

Michigan Woman Promises to Attempt Hazardous Feat.

Bay City, Mich., telegram: Mrs. Anna E. Taylor, teacher of dancing and physical culture, who plans to go over Niagara Falls in a barrel some day this week, has left for the falls and before going repeated her determination to make the attempt. Her manager, F. M. Russell, with the barrel, is already at the scene of the undertaking. The barrel was made under Mrs. Taylor's supervision. The inside will be padded and she will have straps to hold to. One end will be weighted and a valve will be placed in the other end to admit air. This will be closed when Mrs. Taylor thinks she is approaching the falls, the start being made more than a mile above. It is estimated she will be able to live an hour in the barrel after the valve is closed, and she expects to be pulled out long before that time.

Story of the Ameer's Death.

Later details of the death of the Ameer have reached Simla. The late Ameer was paralyzed on the right side during the third week of September. His illness was kept a secret by the palace. Finally, on Sept. 28, feeling that he was dying, he summoned the officials and chief citizens and addressed them in a feeble voice, inviting them to say who they considered should succeed him. The listeners declared for Habib Oullah. The Ameer thereupon directed that his sword and jeweled belt be given to Habib Oullah. From that moment he sank rapidly, dying on Oct. 1, but the fact of death was kept secret until Oct. 3 to enable Habib Oullah to complete arrangements for the succession.

Treasury Statement.

Monday's statement of the treasury balances in the general fund, and exclusive of the $150,000,000 gold reserve in the division of redemption, shows: Available cash balance, $167,496,741; gold, $109,307,944; silver, $18,582,079; United States notes, $7,842,065; treasury notes of 1890, $149,516; national bank notes, $8,876,344; total receipt this day, $2,132,624; total receipts this month, $21,992,402; total receipts this year, $164,141,290; total expenditures this day, $1,950,000; total expenditures this month, $20,525,000; total expenditures this year, $144,494,824; deposits in national banks, $110,314,957.

Will Light Bozaris' Town.

Washington dispatch: Karpension, Greece, is to be lighted by electricity, and United States Consul McGinley, at Athens, in a report to the state department says that it is desired to obtain the electric light plant from the United States. Karpension is the village Marco Bozaris was defending in 1823 when he fell in a midnight sortie of Greeks against the Turks.

Damage by California Fire.

A forest fire is raging near Pacific Grove and Monterey, Cal. The damage already done is estimated at $100,000. Many thousands of acres of brush and timber have been burned over. Two messengers have arrived from Pacific Grove with an urgent request for assistance. The fire is in the vicinity of the well-known seventeen-mile drive of Del Monte.

Killed by Electric Football.

David Wok, 20 years of age, was killed in a peculiar manner at Philadelphia. With other he had been playing football and the ball lodged in the globe of an electric light. The lamp was lowered and Wark seized the spheroid, falling back dead. The ball had become wet in the grass, and was charged with electricity.

French Deficit Is $10,000,000.

The French budget for 1912 as read to the budget committee of the Chamber of Deputies at Paris shows a deficit of $10,000,000, of which $4,000,000 is due to sugar bounties. The committee adopted a proposal giving to the state a monopoly of petroleum refining.

Engineers Cut the "Coeds."

At a meeting of the freshmen engineers of the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor it was decided to sever all connection with the literary department. Hitherto there has been a joint set of officers for the engineer "lit" classes. The present entering class of 250 students wishes to have a separate organization. They claim that better class spirit can be engendered without the necessary association with "coeds," which affiliation with the literary department necessitates.

Mrs. Roosevelt's Church.

Mrs. Roosevelt's determination to attend St. John's Episcopal Church while the President is faithful to the little chapel of the Dutch Reform Church has given rise to some misconception, and people who do not understand the facts have assumed there was some radical difference of opinion in religious matters between the President and his wife. They do belong to different churches, but that is a matter of hereditary association, writes a Washington correspondent. The President belonged to the Dutch Reformed Church, as his ancestors had done, and he has kept up the connection as a matter of course. Mrs. Roosevelt was a Carew, and she is an Episcopalian by birth and training. She has always contributed liberally to the church of that faith in New York, Washington and Albany. A Few Peculiar Names.

English proper names are often a snare to the unwary. In Germany and on the continent generally a business education is not complete without a training in their pronunciation. It was from a German officer that the writer first learned the correct sound of many of the names which follow. As all of them occur in English history and English literature, they are here offered to the American school girl for her study and observance: Abergavenny, Abergenny; Acheson, Aitcheson; Adye, Aydy; Alcester, Awlster; Allington, All'ngton; Ayscough, Ask'ew; Bagshot, Bag'got; Beauchamp, Bee'cham; Beaulieu, Bew'ly; Bellingham, Bel'lingham; Belvoir, Bee'ver; Bertie, Barty; Bethune, Bee-

Talks with Birds in Their Own Tongue.

Reina V. Wright, a talented young girl of Oshkosh, Wis., has mastered the language of birds in a manner which enables her perfectly to understand their conversation. Miss Wright, who is now 18, has made a study of bird sounds since she was 12 years old. She began by talking to her feathered friends in their own tongue, and was soon gratified by noting her power of calling them together and imposing silence upon them while she trilled their songs. The birds not only listen, but answer her, sometimes in chorus and again one at a time. Miss Wright is now a teacher of elocution at Grafton Hall in that city. She was born in Nebraska and came hither when a child of 3. She has been a student in the Ralston University of Expression and Physical Culture at Washington, where she worked under the private direction of President Edgerly. She was graduated last year and then returned to teach.

WORTH MORE THAN SILVER.

Colorado's Fields of Alfalfa Exceed Her Mines in Value.

Great as is the wealth of the state of Colorado in silver she has a far more valuable product in the royal purple alfalfa that supplies fodder for the innumerable herds that roam the plains and feed in the valleys. Last year the value of the alfalfa crop was placed at $10,000,000, yet that does not represent its contributory worth. In 1862 the introduction of this grass into the state solved the problem of forage, which up to that time had puzzled the pioneers, who had not been able to raise successfully any other form of forage. Alfalfa made possible the great stock growing industry of the state. Last year the aggregate number of horses, cattle, hogs and sheep, according to the assessors' returns, was 4,000,000, valued at $45,000,000. Excepting the range sheep and cattle and some horses in the cities alfalfa formed the greater part of the food of all these animals. Thus dairying, a new but rapidly developing industry, depends on the alfalfa. The great grain farms and potato ranches need this product as well. Alfalfa is peerless as a soil renovator and enricher. Its long roots, penetrating to a depth below the surface that other plants cannot reach, gather the needed elements and, decaying, liberate them for the benefit of future crops. The Colorado farmer has learned that rotating crops of wheat and alfalfa make the average yield of wheat in Colorado 25 bushels to the acre, while the average for the whole country is less than 14 bushels. The same rotation has produced the famous Greeley potato, as inimitable in its way as the Rocky Ford melon. The Colorado stock raiser has discovered that cattle may be fattened at home without sending them to corn states, and that alfalfa produced beef, not tallow. He has discovered that pigs turned into the alfalfa patch during the summer are ready for market in the fall, and that "alfalfa mutton" brings the top price in the east. The small rancher knows that his chickens, geese, ducks and Belgian hares are finer for the alfalfa that forms part of their daily food, and that his alfalfa honey equals, if it does not excel, the delicious white sage honey of California.

AN ECCENTRIC DINER.

How a French Millionaire Spent His Fortunes at the Paris Cafes.

Paris is par excellence the city of gourmets and cranks, and many a story concerning them has added to the gaiety of the nations. Here is one of the latest, told by a well-known French head waiter. One of the regular customers of a famous Parisian restaurant used to be a short, thin, shy and shabbily dressed man, whose name no one knew, but who gave out that he was a butter dealer, for which reason he was called the butterman at the restaurant in question. He ate next to nothing, but his soup tureen, filled with a soup specially prepared for him, was always put before him. He took a few spoonfuls and had it taken away. Next came a whole fillet of beef, from which he cut the tiniest slice. Then followed four quail or a large chicken, of which he ate one mouthful together with two lettuce leaves and one radish. His dessert was four grapes—never a single one more—and a cup of coffee. A bottle of the best claret and another of the best champagne were served with the repast, but he only touched his lips with a drop of them, and let them go. He took two of these meals a day, and the price for each meal was 120 francs. But this was not all. Every time the butterman got up from his extraordinary meal he gave 40 francs to the head waiter, who put his food on his plate, since the guest did not like to handle spoons or dishes; 20 francs to the waiter, 10 francs to the lady cashier and 5 francs to the porter. Thus each meal came to 200 francs. The head waiter of the restaurant often did slight errands for him, buying his cigars, etc., and took them to the Grand Hotel, where the butterman lived. The little old man would then open the drawer of a wardrobe filled with heaps of banknotes of from 100 to 500 francs in value and with an enormous mass of gold pieces. "Pay yourself," said the owner, and the head waiter did so, putting the bills before his patron, who never deigned to look at them. One day the mysterious millionaire went away and was never seen again.—Westminster Gazette.

Some of the English tenures are exceedingly curious. A farm near Broadhouse, in Yorkshire, pays annually to the landlord a snowball in midsummer and a red rose at Christmas. The manor of Fosdon is held by a rental of two arrows and a loaf of bread. An estate in the north of England is held by the exhibitor before a court every seven years of a certain vase owned by the family; another, in Suffolk, by an annual rental of two white doves.

Original Home of Golf.

The Scotsman contends that golf is a Scotch sport, to which poetical reference was made in Adamson's "Muses Threnodie," published at Perth as long ago as 1638. The terms used in the sport are for the most part Scotch. But the Dutch assert that it was first played in Holland on the ice, and before 1638 the Dutch poet Bredero described how "the golfer, with ice spurs on, stands ready to smile with ashen club weighted with lead, or his Scottish cjeek of leaded box." But while this may be the earliest poetical reference to the game, it does not show that Holland is the original home of golf. The reference to the "Scottish cjeek" seems at first sight to point rather to Scotland.—Baltimore Sun.

A Social Sherlock Holmes.

"She claims to be from the East," we said, referring to the new arrival. "I have my doubts," remarked the observant person. It is well, when in society, to take notice of these little things.—Baltimore American.

ILLINOIS ITEMS

D. F. Holman, an aged resident of Oak Park and prominent in railroad circles, was struck by a Lake Street Elevated train as he stepped from the rear of another train at Home avenue, Oak Park, and was killed. Mr. Holman was on his way to his home at 210 Home avenue from his work in Chicago, and when the train stopped at Home avenue to allow another to pass, before entering a switch, he jumped off. The other train struck him, and he was dead when picked up. Examination showed that his right side had been crushed, his right arm broken in several places, his head cut, and his neck probably broken.

The continuation of the inquest into the cause of the death of Edward J. Colby, the Chicago inventor, in the Kankakee asylum a short time ago, resulted Tuesday in the following admissions by asylum attaches: "Narcotics and other stimulants are administered to patients before the heart has been examined thoroughly in order to determine that it is safe to administer such drugs. All sorts of nurses are employed in the hospital of the asylum. One man who is serving as a nurse at present was a woodworker three months ago. Nurses have access to the medical chests." In view of the day's development, Coroner Traeger continued the inquest until Friday, when more asylum employes will be called to testify.

A novel contest was commenced in the Probate Court at Chicago when heirs of Mrs. Willie M. Sweeney tried to show that when her husband, Charles H. Sweeney, shot her and then committed suicide in the Dubuque flat building, 66 Rush street, the woman survived the man by several minutes. On the proof of this survivorship depends the disposition of $1,500 left by the woman, and which she bequeathed to relatives, ignoring her husband.

The Rock River Conference at Evanston placed itself on record as representative of the sentiment in the Methodist church on three questions. It urged the extension of the army bill prohibiting canteen to all the territory under the American flag, the Philippine and Sandwich Islands, the national buildings, and the Territories being mentioned especially. The assassination of President McKinley was deplored, his character extolled, and laws urged making anarchistic utterances treason.

William Coulson, son of Deputy Sheriff Coulson, was injured in a football game at Streator on Saturday, and as a result of the accident his left side is paralyzed. Advice from Streator say that the injury will probably prove fatal.

T. H. Patterson was put off a Santa Fe train at Streator in a demented condition. Letters identified him as a member of the firm of Patterson & Albert, Kansas City. Telegraphic communication resulted in finding his wife there, and until her arrival he is being cared for by the Streator lodge of Elks, he carrying a traveling card from the Grand Rapids Lodge. He is supposed to have been drugged in Chicago. Physicians believe his derangement temporary.

Locked in a refrigerator car, with the temperature at freezing point and little or no chance of rescue, was the experience of three Joliet men. They are: Isadore Hachstetter, salesman for Nelson Morris & Co.; Reginald J. Hincley, driver for Armour & Co.; and Frank Meyers, a butcher. After being imprisoned several hours they succeeded in breaking open the door of the car and effected their release. The men had gone into the car to look at beef, and as Hincley climbed in he jarred the doors and they closed with a spring. The men turned, but the doors were locked fast. The three threw themselves against the door, but it resisted their combined efforts. They then tried shouting, but the deadened walls muffled their cries for help. There were several tons of ice in the car and the temperature was freezing. The men soon became chilled, and, frantic with the fear that they would be frozen, they redoubled their efforts. Finally, Hincley, grasping the frozen carcasses of two sheep, stepped back, and with a running leap landed against the doors. The doors flew open and the three inmates staggered out.

J. M. Wallace, for many years a foremost operator on the Chicago Board of Trade, died of apoplexy at Salem, Oregon. He was over 80 years old, and had been living in the west about fifteen years, ten years of that time being spent in Greeley, Colo., where he was president of a national bank. During his residence in Chicago he was widely known in religious and philanthropic work. He was a ruling elder in the First United Presbyterian church. President David A. Wallace of Monmouth college was his brother.

Sylvanus M. Warner, for forty years a leading grain buyer of Henry county, died at Kewanee, aged 84. He came to Illinois from Leeds, Canada, in 1838.

The Chicago and Milwaukee Electric Railway company, being desirous of double tracking its line through Lake Forest, asked the city council there for permission to do so. The council is willing, but in return desires to macadamize Green Bay road from Fort Sheridan depot to Heim's crossing, light McKinley road with electricity and agree to lesser items.

At Mattoon James Rourke of Pittsburg, Pa., was shot and killed by John Herman, a painter. Rourke was in the city attending the street fair and drank incessantly. He was locked up by the police while bordering on delirium tremens, but released later. Friday evening he ran amuck, slashing his own person with a knife and lunging at passers-by. He entered Herman's residence while the family was at supper and sought to kill two girls. Herman darted into another room, secured a revolver and shot the madman in the heart as the latter had a weapon poised to kill him.

A divorce granted at a quiet hearing of the Whiteside county circuit court at Morrison, has caused much comment. The suit was brought by Florence E. Dillon against her husband, John M. Dillon, the charge being desertion and non-support. The decree was signed by Judge F. D. Ramsey shortly after the evidence was heard. Dillon is at present a student at the Hahnemann medical college in Chicago. His marriage took place at Milwaukee several years ago, but he never resided with his wife.

Judge Thomas H. Boyd, aged 85, is dead at Carrollton. He was made probate judge in Calhoun county in 1847 and in Greene county in 1857, serving eight years in the latter county. In 1872 he was elected to the Illinois legislature and served four sessions.

The annual convention of the State Federation of Colored Women's clubs came to an end with an interesting address by Miss Bowen of the Mountain Maids' Institute, Springfield was selected as the next meeting place, the usual resolutions were adopted and officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: President, Mrs. Jennie McLain, Springfield; vice-presidents, Mrs. Sarah Ried, Chicago; Mrs. Julia Duncan, Springfield; Mrs. R. Yates, Evanston; Mrs. Alice Stanford, Peoria, and Mrs. A. R. Fields, Peoria; secretary, Mrs. Fannie Immanuel, Chicago; assistant secretary, Mrs. Georgia Hall, Peoria; treasurer, Mrs. M. H. The state board of health is advised of an outbreak of smallpox in Neponset and Venice in Madison county. The attorney general has rendered an opinion to the effect that counties are liable for all expenses in connection with the care and treatment of smallpox patients, with the exception of the expense of enforcing quarantine regulations, for which expenses the cities are liable.

Rev. Sheldon A. Harris, a Congregational minister of Dwight, was elected vice president of the Illinois State Federation of Labor at Joliet. His election, the delegates claim, will bring about a better understanding between the church and organized labor. Mr. Sheldon had two opponents, but was elected on the first ballot by a large majority over both. Other officers elected are: President, Adam A. Mensche, cigar maker, Kewanee; secretary-treasurer, James F. Morris, miner, Springfield.

Five weather and Military Day drew an immense attendance at the corn exposition at Peoria. Thousands attended from all central Illinois. There was a parade through the principal streets, participated in by several companies of state militia and cavalry. After the parade a prize drill was held, company K, Fifth infantry, of Delavan, carrying off the first prize for the infantry, and troop D of Springfield the first for the cavalry. The naval reserves of Moline also gave a drill.

At the request of the trustees of the northern Illinois hospital for the insane, Mrs. Harriett Tathan, for four years stewardess of the institution, at a salary of $50 per month, has resigned, and with her belongings has left the institution and gone to her home in De Kalb. She declares that she will go to Springfield this week to interview Governor Yates as to the cause of her removal. Her appointment was made four years ago under the administration of the late John R. Tanner.

Names of Presidents.

As the poet says, there may be nothing in a name, but nevertheless there is what may be called a remarkable coincidence in the fact that the presidents of the United States in more than two-thirds of the cases have each had but one Christian name. It is probably not a rash estimate to say that nine-tenths of the male citizens of the United States have each two or more "given" names, and yet of the twenty-five who have reached the highest official position in the country eighteen have each had but one "given" name. Before christening their sons Charles Frederick Algernon Jones or William Shakespeare Tompkins Brown American fathers and mothers are advised to read this list of presidents of the United States:

It is true Cleveland was christened Stephen Grover Cleveland, but when he was still a youth, probably before he dreamed of one day becoming president, he dropped the first name.

A long list of the names of other men having but one Christian name who have attained to high honors in statesmanship and in other walks of life could easily be made, but it is only intended here to call attention to the presidents apropos of the recent elevation of Roosevelt to succeed the lamented McKinley.

Secretary Hay and Three Tragedies.

The assassination of President McKinley is the third tragedy of the kind with which Secretary Hay has been intimately connected. When President Lincoln was murdered, Mr. Hay was his private secretary. Mr. Hay was one of the closest friends of President Garfield and was with him almost constantly during the weeks in which he lingered between life and death at Elberon, N. J.

Mr. Hay has not been in good health for some time. The sad death of his son Adelbert in New Haven last spring almost completely prostrated him. His friends are fearful that this last calamity will be more than he can recover from. However, he has said to President Roosevelt that he hopes to be able to remain in the cabinet for another three years, in conformity with the expressed desire of the new chief executive.

The death of Bishop Henry B. Whipple takes from the Protestant Episcopal church one of its most interesting figures. Bishop Whipple was the great religious pioneer of the northwest. He was called the "Apostle of the Indians." By the Indians themselves he was called "Straight Tongue" because he had never deceived them. No white man was ever more thoroughly believed in and obeyed by the Indians than was Bishop Whipple. His plan of life was to do with the best possible will and zeal the work that came to his hand, and it was this plan, joined with native moderation and confidence in the essential good of humanity, that made him so successful in his work. His whole life up to his eightieth year had been given up to the most earnest service of the church.

Musicians are disposed to complain because the widow of Ole Bull presented his violin to the museum of his native Norwegian town of Bergen. It is unquestionably true that the world is deprived of much exquisite music because valuable instruments which ought to appeal to the ear are left to be gazed at in glass cases. Collectors who cannot play a note cling with grim tenacity to violins for which performers would give years of their lives. The owners of pictures or statuary take pride in having them exhibited to the best possible advantage for the common public benefit, but the custodian of a valuable musical instrument feels no such impulse. He is consistently and irredeemably a dog in the manger.

"What a you never" she asked severely at the breakfast table, for he had been out late the night before and she had not yet forgiven him.

"I think," he replied meekly, "that I would appreciate a genial smile and a pleasant word about as much as anything."—Exchange.

"The Best Husbands in Europe."

An English gentleman living in Italy whose daughter's husband was an Italian officer said, "Italians make the best husbands in Europe if they have good wives."—London Mail.

No man is a safe guide who acts from selfish motives. Follow rather the man of principle who has only the broadax of the common good to grind.

GREAT DAYS
PAN-AMERICAN

THE postponement of some of the special days has crowded many great events into the month of October. Toronto day opened the month with many thousand visitors from Canada on the 3d. Pennsylvania day, on Oct. 4, with Governor William A. Stone, his staff and several regiments of the national guard, made a splendid showing. New York day comes Oct. 9, following Brooklyn day. These two days will be the occasion for reunions of people west and east, as New Yorkers are found all over the Union.

The Citizens' Committee of Brooklyn has been hard at work for several months preparing for Oct. 8, and the programme which has been arranged promises a rare treat for those who are fortunate enough to gain admission to the Temple of Music during the time of its presentation. The special oration of the day will be delivered by the Hon. St. Clair McKelway, editor of the Brooklyn Eagle. The Hon. Ludwig Nissen will preside at the gathering, and other addresses will be delivered by Mayor Diehl of Buffalo, William C. Bryant, chairman of the Brooklyn Citizens' Committee, and Hon. W. I. Buchanan, director general of the Exposition. The music incidental to the occasion will be furnished by the Innes band of New York city. Elaborate fireworks have been planned for the evening.

On New York day Governor Odell will be escorted to the Temple of Music by sixteen out of town organizations in addition to the three located in Buffalo. Over 3,000 men will be in line, composing one of the largest and most imposing parades which has ever taken place in times of peace. All branches of service will be represented—infantry, cavalry, artillery, naval and signal. An elaborate programme has been arranged for the Temple of Music and a reception in the New York State building with magnificent fireworks in the evening.

Illinois day, on Oct. 7, is to be one of the great days of the Exposition. While the death of President McKinley made it necessary to postpone the day from Sept. 16, Governor Yates and the State commission have determined that the day shall be an event of great importance at the Exposition. Thousands of Illinois people are coming. The great middle west, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, with Michigan, have sent great crowds already to the Pan-American, and there is every indication that the attendance from that section will be greater than ever during the month of October.

Buffalo will have a great day on Oct. 10. At the Chicago fair Chicago day was the crowning event of the Exposition. So Buffalo people are laboring hard to make Buffalo day the climax in point of attendance.

Many nearby cities will have special days in October, notably Erie, Pa., on Oct. 10 and Dunkirk, N. Y., on Oct. 10. The list is constantly being added to. National Grange day, Oct. 10, will bring Patrons of Husbandry from every part of the nation. Atlantic City people and New Jersey people will visit the Exposition on Oct. 11, Atlantic City day.

Alaska day, on the 28th, will bring into prominence the products and people of that great golden land of the midnight sun, ice, snow and wealth. Every day from Oct. 1 to the 31st will be replete with interest, from Carnival week, which opens the month with the gorgeous floats of King Rex and the replica of Mardi Gras pageantry, to the magnificent pyrotechnic display on the night of the last day of the month.

No exposition ever held in the United States so appealed to the American public as has the Pan-American Exposition in its architectural beauty and symmetry, its gorgeous flowers, now in the fine beauty of fall bloom; its gardens and fountains and its special amusements, music and carnival features. "No person," said Secretary of Agriculture Wilson during a visit on Sept. 10, "should miss seeing the Exposition. It is magnificent beyond compare." Never again will the world see such an illumination. Not every city has the wonderful electric plant driven by Niagara Falls, and without some such plant it will be impossible to reproduce the solemn grandeur, the glorious beauty, the impressive radiance of this City of Light.

There are yet a few more weeks in which to see this vision with all its attendant beauties.

Conventions at Buffalo.

October will be a great convention month at Buffalo. Thousands of members of organizations will take this opportunity of visiting the Exposition at that time. Beginning with the International Cremation congress from Oct. 1 to 3, the month closes with the American Langshan club on Oct. 28.

National Grange Day.

Thursday, Oct. 10, will be National Grange day at the Pan-American Exposition. At a meeting in the city of Washington held in 1900 the National Grangers adopted resolutions setting aside this day, and a great assemblage of Patrons of Husbandry and farmers generally is expected.

OCTOBER FLOWERS.

There is a Beautiful Display of Them at the Pan-American—The Gardens of the City of Light Are One of Its Most Attractive Features. Artistic Scenes Which the Lover of Beauty Should Not Fail to See.

The Pan-American is one of the greatest flower shows that ever was, but there are so many other things in which it is great that the rarity and beauty of its floral features are perhaps apt to be overlooked. If people would take more time to allow the artistic and beautiful features of the Exposition to impress their senses and permeate their imaginations instead of racing from one part of the grounds to another, trying to see every exhibit and every show on the Midway, they would go home feeling greater benefit from their stay in the Rainbow City.

The Pan-American is full of gardens which tempt the visitor to rest awhile and drink in the beauties of nature. It may seem surprising that in the month of October there are flowers worth looking at, but such is the fact. The rains of the past few weeks have kept the landscape as fresh and beautiful as in May and June, and as one flower goes out of the scene another takes its place. On opening day the hyacinths filled the air with their dainty fragrance, in June tulips lifted their proud heads, later in the month of brides and sweet girl graduates came roses, with their rich perfume, and as the summer passed the other flowers in their season sprang up as if by magic to take the place of those which had done their blossoming and served their turn in the entertainment of the visitors to the City of Light. And now one sees the tall canna, the gay geranium and such old fashioned flowers as grandmother's garden had—the phlox, the pink, the begonia, the petunia and other posies which are no less beautiful because they do not happen to be novel.

In entering the grounds by the Elmwood gate visitors pass two tall and curious looking trees, which perhaps few in their anxiety to reach the heart of the Exposition stop to notice. If they realized that they were century plants just budding, a thing which, as all know, century plants only do once in a long, long time, they would doubtless stop and look with open mouths and wondering gaze. It is a sight which one cannot see very often anywhere else. One of these century plants is nearly forty feet in height.

The Rose Gardens around the Woman's building, having for their background the outlines of the Spanish renaissance buildings about the main court and the Electric Tower looming up at its north end, with the Mirror Lakes and the Triumphal Bridge and the groups of statuary abounding, form a scene whose artistic aspect must appeal to even the least æsthetic visitor. The cannas are very effective decorative plants, with their tall leaves in green and red and brown. A rich canna one sees here is named Governor Roosevelt. It would seem appropriate now to change its name to President Roosevelt.

On the opposite side of the Triumphal Bridge is the Wooded Island, and here one roams amid old fashioned flowers, growing as though they had sprung up there all by themselves without any assistance from the landscape gardener and his corps of assistants. But of course that is not the case. The studied carelessness of the gardening of this island is only one of the pretty deceits employed to produce the impression that it is all the work of Mother Nature herself.

Have you seen the fairylike effects in the garden about the Fountain of Abundance at night? It is one of the new things. This small garden is very beautiful by day, and at night electric lights of different colors have been hidden among the flowers and plants, so that one sees the surface of the ground dotted with these little spots of light, bringing out the beauty of the flowers, and all forming a scene impossible to describe, but very charming indeed to witness. It is quite a pretty surprise even to old Pan-American visitors.

Did you ever notice in crossing the Court of Lilies, south of the Machinery building, a heavy vapor arising from the basin in the center of that court? Sometimes it has so much the appearance of smoke that people think something must be afire in the garden, but it is only the steam or vapor created by the heating of the water in that basin for the benefit of the tropical lilies which grow therein. These lilies, which are known as the Victoria Regia, have enormous leaves, some of them three feet in diameter.

Other gardens where there are flowers in bloom during this month of October are those in front of the United States Government building and the Horticulture group, where the gay geraniums and sweet petunias contrast their colors with the green flags growing in the basin and with the white statuary disposed along their slopes.

There was a floral fête at the Exposition during the first week of October, and this in its way, of course, was an affair of much beauty and magnificence; but, as a matter of fact, there have been floral fêtes at the Pan-American since opening day.

Stricken with Paralysis.

Henderson Grimmett, of this place, was stricken with partial paralysis and completely lost the use of one arm and side. After being treated by an eminent physician for quite awhile without relief, my wife recommended Chamberlain's Pain Balm, and after using two bottles of it he is almost entirely cured.—Geo. R. McDONALD, Man, Logan county, W. Va. Several other very remarkable cures of partial paralysis have been effected by the use of this liniment. It is most widely known, however, as a cure for rheumatism, sprains and bruises. Sold by all druggists.

Painting

Pure white lead and pure linseed oil make the best paint.

It is the cheapest paint—in first cost and durability. A house can be kept well painted for a term of years with white lead at less cost than any other paint.

It completely covers the surface to which it is applied.

It penetrates and firmly adheres to the surface, protecting it from the elements and preventing decay.

Does not Scale or Chip

The best white lead is made from metallic lead by the "Old Dutch" process, which requires from four to five months time to complete the finished product. There are numerous quick processes of making white lead, but the products differ materially from those produced by the Dutch method, and it has so far proved an impossibility to make in a few days the same quality that requires months of time to perfect. This may be compared to a process of ripening, that cannot be hurried without detriment to the product.

Pure Linseed Oil

Is as necessary as pure white lead. There are numerous mixtures and substitutes offered in place of linseed oil, containing resin, coal oil and other deleterious materials, which, if used, will ruin the best white lead paint.

You can buy pure white lead and pure linseed oil by purchasing HEATH & MILLIGAN'S PAINTS. It has been in use for 50 years, so that its value and character is thoroughly established. Be sure to get this brand.

We handle the best grades of Raw and Boiled Linseed Oils, White Leads, Turpentine, Varnishes, Hard Oils, Colors in Oil, Dry Colors, Brushes, etc., etc.

Peculiarities of Footpaths.

Footpaths are what roads are not, natural productions, just as the paths made by hares, deer and elephants are. No one really makes a footpath—that is, no one improves it. What is true of central Africa is true of England.

"The native paths," wrote Professor Drummond, "are the same in character all over Africa. Like the roads of the old Romans, they run straight on through everything—ridge and mountain and valley—never shying at obstacles nor anywhere turning aside to breathe. Yet within this general straightforwardness there is a singular eccentricity and indirectness in detail. Although the African footpath is, on the whole, a bee line, no fifty yards of it are ever straight. And the reason is not far to seek.

"If a stone is encountered, no native will ever think of removing it. Why should he? It is easier to walk around it. The next man who comes by will do the same. He knows that a hundred men are following him. He looks at the stone a moment, and it might be unearthed and tossed aside; but, no, he holds on his way. It would no more occur to him that that stone is a displaceable object than that felpar belongs to the orthoclase variety. Generations and generations of men have passed that stone, and it still waits for a man with an altruistic idea."—Spectator.

The British government will hereafter send all mail from Australia to London by way of the United States. The decision to make this change in the Australian mail route is the result of a recent test in which mail sent from Sydney to London by way of the Union Pacific, Burlington and New York Central railroads reached its destination seven days sooner than it would have done had it been sent by the Suez canal, the old route. Importance attaches to the new departure in handling this mail because it consists largely of documents for the British parliament.

The man who expects human nature to be altogether honest is bound to be disappointed somewhere. This dodging of personal taxes is probably a safety valve to many who would otherwise try to beat a street car conductor or work on rattled eggs on the public.

What a Dab of Ink Did.

A certain newspaper proprietor had a way of appearing in the composing and press rooms at the most unexpected times, and his visits often resulted in a general "shakeup" of the working forces of the paper they were awaited with fear and trembling by the employees.

One time one of the pressmen, an excellent workman, who had been there many years, but was sometimes guilty of a lapse of sobriety, had a black eye and was in a quandary as to what excuse he should offer if the proprietor noticed it. By a sudden inspiration he seized an ink roller and daubed some ink on his face, quite covering the discoloration. Presently the governor came in and, with the foreman, went through the room, commenting on every detail and looking very sharply at every workman. When about to leave, he suddenly pointed to the inky pressman and said, "What is that man's name?"

The man quaked in his shoes until he continued slowly: "I want you to give that man 5 shillings a week more wages. He is the only man in the room who looks as if he had been working."

Something to Brace Up On.

It was along about noon when a well dressed man lined up against the bar. He had the air and looked the part of a high liver, but there was every sign of a bad night. He stretched himself, rubbed his head and said to the bartender:

"I want something to brace up on."
"All right, sir. 'What'll it be?"
"Get the large lemonade glass and break five eggs in it."

Chapman, the bartender, looked at him suspiciously and hesitated.
"That's what I want," he ordered.
Chapman broke five raw eggs in the glass and waited for further orders.
"Now a pint of champagne."

Chapman opened the bottle, and the customer poured it on top of the eggs and, taking a spoon, stirred the mixture thoroughly and then drank it. Then he paid his bill and walked out.—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

Prunes as Medicine.

That the fruit possesses very considerable virtue in this respect is conceded by most eminent authorities, and for this reason as well as on account of their food value they are included among the foods suitable for invalids, children and those whose digestive powers are rather inactive. Their influence is mild, which fact makes them desirable for the not over robust.

A dish of well cooked rice and prunes, made dainty and attractive for serving, is a dish to serve for either a breakfast, luncheon or a dessert, especially for the child or invalid, and should be added especially to our list of hot weather dishes, frequently replacing meat and potatoes and heavy, unseasonable desserts.

A Man of Experience.

"You are quite sure, Uncle Bushrod," she queried, "that Judy has no idea there are any books in those two boxes you took this morning over to the courthouse in the cart?"
"Miss Ma'y, answered the old chap, with dignity, "I done had three wives, an' Judy's de las, I reckon. An' I jes' tell you dis, honey, I don' trus' no colored 'ooman's tongue."—Mrs. Burton Harrison in Lippincott's.

Body Proportions.

The proportions of the human figure, says an anatomist, are six times the length of the right foot. The face, from the highest point of the forehead, where the hair begins, to the end of the chin, is one-tenth of the whole stature. The hand, from the wrist to the end of the middle finger, is also one-tenth of the total height. From the crown to the nape of the neck is one-twelfth of the stature.

The Original Pair.

Upon one point the disputants are agreed: Man descended from a pair of ancestors. Who they were is not so apparent.—Chicago Tribune.

Happiness is sometimes like a pair of spectacles. While one looks for it it sits astride one's very nose.—New York Times.

If a man saved the ash of all the cigars he smoked, he would have consumed 1,000 before he had a pound of ash.

Jacinta's beating, bounding heart was crowded with a flood of emotions. Her father would be saved. She also and her mother would be taken out of the power of the conquerors. She would escape from the hateful alliance with Francisco. She would be with him—the brave American—her hero.

A low whistle broke in upon her meditations. Alvarez and Jacinta, quickly snatching a moment when the sentinel could not see, sprang to the window.

A pistol and a knife were thrust through the bars.

"My pistol," said Medworth. "Philip's knife. The coast is clear. But don't shoot if you can possibly help it. Use the knife if you must; it is silent." Alvarez grasped the instrument of his salvation and breathed a blessing upon Medworth.

Jacinta caught his receding hand in hers and kissed it.

"Hurry!" said Medworth. "Hide the weapons. Shall I attract the guard?" "Yes," whispered Alvarez, drawing back from the window.

Immediately there arose outside the window a low, peculiar cry, startling and weird, sounding like neither the cry of man nor beast. The sentinel heard it.

He saw the three prisoners standing in apparent fright, gazing toward the window.

"What is it?" asked the guard. Jacinta, whose excitement might easily be taken for fear, pointed with trembling finger toward the window.

"Something—there!" she said. Again the wail, beginning in almost nothing, rising, swelling, until it seemed like the dying cry of a demon.

With a murmur of surprise and alarm, the guard sprang to the window with his gun, ready to fire.

Like a flash, Alvarez was upon him. The desperate general hesitated not a moment. The knife flashed in his hand, gleamed as he poised it a second above the doomed man, and then descended. The sentinel groaned, staggered, gave a despairing look at his executioner, and fell at Jacinta's feet a corpse.

"Come!" said Alvarez. They followed him from the room, and in the twinkling of an eye they had disappeared through the sliding panel.

CHAPTER XV.

Namampa, the Hero Doctor.

While Medworth and Tempest were exerting themselves to save General Alvarez and his family, and were congratulating themselves upon the fact that Don Juan's daughter, if not free from the clutches of the royalists, was at least temporarily safe, owing to a slight illness, the truth was that Lola was in so feeble and dangerous a condition that Don Juan, Philip and Gomez were all very much alarmed about her.

While the exciting scenes attendant upon the escape of Alvarez were being enacted, it might well be wondered that neither Philip nor Gomez should have been in the council room; or anywhere near to prevent the successful issue of Medworth's plot.

Don Juan, who, notwithstanding his vaulting ambition, sternness and pride, really loved his daughter, was torn with anguish and bitterly condemned himself for bringing her against her will to a place that now threatened to be the cause of her death.

Nearly the same anxiety was shown by Philip, and he did not conceal it. Gomez, felt, in his own way, a great anxiety, but he skillfully concealed the true state of his feelings and appeared rather the sympathetic friend than the baffled lover.

After a conference between the three Mattazudo was dispatched for Namampa, the herb doctor who lived three miles distant. Mattazudo's eyes gleamed with triumph as he bore away toward Namampa's hut.

Gomez, perhaps, discovered the mischief in Mattazudo's looks, for he started to warn the half-breed against any more treachery. But Philip stopped him.

"Don't go, Gomez," he said. "I wish to speak to you in the council room." Then turning to Don Juan, he said: "My dear Garza, remain here with your daughter, and let me know when this herb doctor comes."

Philip and Gomez left together, and went at once to the council room.

"How is this?" said Gomez, pausing at the door. "The room where Alvarez is confined left without a guard? I saw one there when I left an hour ago."

"Strange carelessness," muttered Philip. "The most dangerous enemy we have left unguarded."

As if actuated by a common impulse they ran to the door of the room Alvarez had occupied. All was silent. They entered, and looked hastily around the large apartment.

There, under the window, lay the guard, his face upturned and distorted with the agony of his sudden death.

"By heaven!" exclaimed Philip. "Alvarez has escaped. What was this man doing here? Did Alvarez go out by the window?"

Gomez shook his head in a gloomy way.

"No. He could not have gone through the window. The guard was enticed in here to be killed. But how did Alvarez obtain a weapon, and how did he know we were out of the way?"

A traitor's hand has aided him. I suspected one before. My suspicion has been verified."

"You suspected one of our people?" "Yes; I suspected Francisco. Did it not seem strange to you that Francisco should ask to have the rebel's execution delayed till midnight?"

"Now that you speak of it, certainly was strange; but I was so anxious about Garza's daughter I gave the other matter but little thought. Francisco said that Alvarez, his wife, his daughter, all begged for twelve hours more in which to say farewell—to pray together."

Gomez pointed grimly to the dead sentinel.

"Well, they have prayed to some advantage, it seems, and have said farewell—to us, not to one another."

"But the knife!" exclaimed Philip. "Where did Alvarez obtain the knife?"

"Where, indeed, unless from Francisco?"

CHAPTER XVI.

In the meantime Geo. Alvarez, his wife, daughter and their brave rescuers have gained a place of safety in the secret passage.

"You speak of getting to the Orinoco," said the wife of Alvarez. "It is impossible, as you know. How can you travel without being captured again?"

"I had already thought of that," said the General. "The thing is difficult, I will admit. But the difficulty of traveling is not the heaviest on my mind. If I go, I must go alone. I must leave you and Jacinta here. My anxiety is for you. What will become of you while I am away?"

"You need not be alarmed for them, General Alvarez," said Arthur. "It is certain that, aside from ourselves, no person about the castle suspects the existence of this place. While they remain in ignorance we are safe enough, and I assure you we shall make no effort to inform them of the facts. And you may rely on us. We are only two, of course, but as far as our protection can go, your wife and daughter shall have it."

"Right!" said Tempest. "Two Americans are as good as a dozen of that rabble upstairs." Alvarez smiled.

"You seem to have been better than the entire force to-night," he said. "I agree with you that this place is safe enough; but how will you live? It lacks the necessary comforts. Then the matter of food is most important."

Tempest laughed.

"We must do without the comforts, General," he said. "But as for food, with a river full of fish running past our hidden door, and fruit to be had for the picking, not to mention a stray calf or two from your own herds, I don't think we'll starve. Don't fear for us. If we continue to have the same number of hours at night that the country has had since the creation, and the soldiers of the new king continue to drink plenty of intoxicating beverages, we can walk all around and never be caught."

"You give me renewed courage," said Alvarez. "If two young men who are strangers here can accomplish these things, a General of the Republic should not hesitate. Since I am assured of the safety of my dear ones, there remains nothing now for me to do but go. If I could but get word to Ramana."

"Who? Ramana, the Garib?" asked Medworth.

"Yes," replied Alvarez. "Ramana is old, but he is a true friend."

"What message would you send him?" asked Arthur. "I know his hut. I can go there now."

"You might be captured."

"Did not Tempest just now tell you that we could go anywhere?"

"Go, then," said Alvarez. "See Ramana, and say to him that Alvarez, his friend, is in trouble. Tell him that I have escaped from the castle, and must cross the Orinoco at once, without being seen at Bolivar or any other place on this side. Tell him I must start before it is light. Tell him to bring his large canoe, and his son, Ravona, to help him paddle. Tell him to meet me twenty feet below the secret passage."

Medworth then hurried away, cautiously worked his way out of the secret passage, and started off toward Ramana's hut. He found the old Indian asleep in a rude hammock of grass, and woke him up to give him the message of Alvarez.

He was much surprised at the agility displayed by the old Indian. He called Ravona, who slept in another hammock, and, without wasting time in saying farewell to Ramana's aged wife, they hurried, accompanied by Medworth, to the river bank, where a long, light canoe was moored.

"Come," said Ramana. Medworth took his seat, and the two Caribs, with powerful arms, sent the canoe speeding down the Coroni. In a short time they had reached the straying-place, and the prow of the canoe was shot into the overhanging grass on the bank.

"Where is he?" asked Ramana. "He will come," said Medworth. "Wait here."

They had not long to wait. Alvarez had timed them pretty accurately, and a few minutes after they arrived he appeared, creeping along slowly in the darkness.

"Ah! you are here," he said.

He pressed Medworth's hand, and stepping into the canoe, said:

"Away, Ramana! Then to Arthur. 'My brave friend, to you and your companion I leave my dear ones.' 'You will find them safe on your return,' replied Medworth.

The canoe shot away in the darkness, and Medworth speedily made his way back to the cavern.

In the meantime Philip had been roused from his reverie by the messenger who had been sent by Don Juan with the information that Mattazudo had arrived, bringing Namampa, the herb-doctor.

Throwing off his dejection and moody misgiving, he hurried to Lola's room.

He found Don Juan and Mattazudo there, with an aged Carib whose twinkling black eyes looked out from under bushy eyebrows with an expression of great cunning.

His skin was wrinkled and seared, and looked like rusty parchment, and his hands were long and skinny, seeming to be but the bony skeleton with a covering of skin drawn tightly over them.

Namampa bent over Lola, felt her pulse, looked at her tongue and solemnly shook his head.

"Very bad, Much fever. Bring me some water," he said.

Water was brought him, and he dissolved some crystals in it. Then he poured the fluid down Lola's throat.

In an hour the anxious watchers could see that the condition of the sick girl had improved. Her painful restlessness had given way to a sweet repose. The high fever had subsided. Don Juan's hope was renewed.

The Carib remained in the castle, and was constant in his attendance upon Lola. It seemed for five days that Lola was on the way to complete recovery.

Five days of anxious watching for Don Juan. Five days of cruel suspense for Medworth. Five days of dissembling for Gomez. Five days of villainous plotting for Mattazudo.

Then, one day, when Medworth was in his accustomed place, crouching behind the secret panel, he heard the sound of sobbing and voices that were very sorrowful. At first he pricked up his ears eagerly for Lola's name was mentioned. He listened—then he heard what he had hoped he would never hear. Lola was dead.

He staggered away, and crept back to the cavern and his friends.

The pallor of his face was ghastly in the light of the lantern that hung above their heads.

"What's the matter, boy?" cried Tempest, in alarm. "You look like a ghost. What's happened?"

"She's dead!" he gasped. "Lola's dead. I heard them talking about it just now. She died last night. They are going to bury her in the garden today."

"So soon?" said Tempest. "Why do they not wait longer?"

"They do not wait long in this country," said Jacinta; and then, with her long lashes hiding the gleam of satisfaction that came into her eyes and could not be held back, she placed her jeweled hand in Medworth's, and, leaning forward, she pressed her rich, warm lips to his cold, white brow in what seemed to be a token of her honest sympathy.

That afternoon there was a sad and solemn gathering near the fountain in the garden of Alvarez, and while Don Juan, Philip and Gomez looked silently on, the body of poor Lola was lowered into a shallow grave.

They did not see two pairs of eyes that peeped from a secluded bower, one pair being dimmed with tears.

Medworth and Tempest had risked capture, and perhaps death, to witness the last sad rites.

Rotation of Calendars.

An evening contemporary has been informing its readers that they can use the same calendars every twenty years—when the dates of the month fall on the same days of the week—thereby avoiding the expense of five almanacs for the present century. But here is something better than that. Persons who have the double advantage of ancient family and careful forefathers, by turning up the calendars—unfortunately they are not printed ones, for the twelfth century, by Solomon Jarchus, will find the days and dates coincident with the present century. Such persons can save the expense of buying for 100 years. Again those with a frugal mind, who have preserved the almanacs of the nineteenth century, will avoid an outlay for calendars of the century commencing Jan. 1, 2201, as the dates for the 100 years following will be coincident with those of the last century. But life is scarcely long enough for such economies.—London Chronicle.

Why, the trolley cars run on Pine street on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, and come down Spruce street on Tuesdays and Saturdays."—New York Times.

NEVER HEARD OF THE DEITY.

Baltimore Girl of Twenty Who So Testifies in Court.

That there should be anybody living in a city with more than 400 churches within its precincts who knows nothing about God is almost incredible. And yet, in a little alley that is not more than a minute's walk from Baltimore street, an alley that it within a stone's throw of one of the oldest Presbyterian churches in the city, an alley that comes to an end opposite a Jewish synagogue, lives Emma Paul, the 20-year-old girl who was brought before Judge Wickes in the Criminal Court Friday to testify against her mother, Mary Paul, and her mother's brother, Herman Winsel, and who declared she was in ignorance of the Deity. Questioned by the judge—to ascertain if she knew the significance of an oath—she declared that she had never heard of God and had never been to a church or a Sunday school. All she knew, she said, was her name and her age. After she had been searchingly questioned she said she knew she would be punished if she did not tell the truth, and her testimony was accepted.—Baltimore Sun.

Mrs. Madison's Case.

Polk City, Ia., Oct. 14th.—For over ten years Mrs. Elizabeth P. Madison, a respected lady of this place, has suffered most severely with Kidney trouble complicated with derangements of the bowels and liver. Rheumatism, another painful result of deranged Kidneys, added its tortures to her burden of pain.

Treatments and medicines without number were tried; physicians also exhausted their skill, but all to no purpose.

At this stage of the case a treatment of Dodd's Kidney Pills was resorted to, and the results were simply miraculous, from the very first box an improvement was noticed and the continued treatment resulted in a complete cure.

This remarkable cure created a decided sensation in the neighborhood because of the complications of the case as well as its severity and apparent hopelessness.

Upon investigation Dodd's Kidney Pills are found to be the only remedy that has ever cured Bright's Disease, Diabetes or Dropsy and these hitherto incurable diseases are readily conquered by this remarkable remedy.

Foot Under a Ban.

The Greek poet Andreas Laskaratos, whose death was announced a few weeks ago, was forty years ago placed, by the archbishop of Kephallonia, under a ban, which was not removed till last year, when the poet reached his nineteenth birthday. The ban was on account of a book entitled "The Secrets of Kephallonia, or Thoughts on the Family, Religion and Politics," in which he wrote satires on popular superstitions and against the priesthood.

BECOMES A MARQUISE.

PHILADELPHIA HEIRESS BECOMES WIFE OF TITLED SPANIARD.

They Met Amid the Ruins of Old Mexico—Love Was the Only Language They Knew in Common—Recalls the Revolutionary War.

A pretty romance had its end in the marriage the other day of Miss Frances B. Holmes, a wealthy heiress of Philadelphia, to the Marquis de Klaves Hermosa.

The two met in Mexico among Aztec ruins. Both were wanderers. He could not speak English. She could not speak Spanish. He tried to tell her the deeds of his ancestors, who came across the sea and ruled in the land of the Sun God.

But she could not understand, and she was far more interested in the man than in the tale he told. So she tried to teach him English—a word here and there. That was only a few months ago. Now they are married.

The wedding has interfered with the lessons in English. The Marquis is still unable to speak a word of the language. But the marquis has learned a few words of Spanish, and she acts as his interpreter.

The new marquis is the only daughter of the late Charles W. Holmes of Philadelphia. The family residence is a beautiful old place. Mother and daughter are well supplied with world's goods.

The majority of her relatives are quiet, matter-of-fact people. But there is a French ancestor, whose national characteristics this handsome, clever

MARQUISE DE KLAVES HERMOSA and very original young woman has inherited.

The marquis's grandfather was General Le Mercier, one of the two officers who came to this country with General Lafayette. His daughter, Marie Antoinette Mercier, married General Sturdevant of Washington's army.

The beautiful French woman and her husband, stately, old-time figures, look down from the walls of the Holmes homestead. There is a similarity in the expression in the faces of the French great-grandmother and the vivacious girl who recently brought home a Spaniard as a husband.

Victims of Greed. Many birds are choked to death by trying to swallow more than they are capable of. Hunters tell many tales of how they have found birds in the act of choking to death, and others that have died with the morsel half way down the throat, writes George E. Walsh. Birds that live on other creatures are the most likely to be choked in swallowing their food. They cannot always judge the size of the toad or fish they capture, and in the greed of the moment they gulp it down. Herons have even attempted to swallow water rats, which naturally make a difficult mouthful for them. Fish hawks and gulls often attempt to swallow fish too large for their throat, and while they generally disgorge their meal, they occasionally get caught and die from the effects of their greed. When one of them gets a fish too large for its throat stuck half way down it becomes helpless and unable to fly, and it generally seeks some resting place. Herons have been known to impale hawks on their bills, and the two have died together.—Detroit Free Press.

Athletic Women in Days of Old. Some searcher after curious facts has discovered that athletic women are by no means a product of the nineteenth century, as is generally believed. They flourished in the days of sal volatile, hoops, patches and snuff, in the days when George II. was King. Ladies of the court took part in races arranged for them at the regular meetings, so that there were lady jockeys as well as gentlemen jockeys, and once a series of foot races for ladies in Hyde Park was organized. The first one was run amid great enthusiasm of the populace, and the betting was high. Then stepped in some cross-grained old fellow who persuaded the government that such races were unseemly, and they came to a sudden end, much to the regret of the people of London.—New York Commercial Advertiser.

GOOD, CHEAP LANDS.

A Minnesota Dairy Leader Praises North Wisconsin Lands.

Mr. John Mathieson, president of the Minnesota Dairy association, in a letter to the Dairy Reporter, says: "I made a trip last summer into the lands in cultivation on the 'Soo' railway in northern Wisconsin. I was surprised at the natural advantages offered to dairymen in that locality. There is an abundance of pure water; clover, timothy and blue grass do excellently. The soil is productive, as is shown by the crop grown on the lands in cultivation. This section is destined to be a fine dairy region, all the natural conditions, climate, soil, pure water and nutritious grasses are found here." The location has another advantage, being on the "Soo" railway, dairy products are taken in refrigerator cars direct to New York and Boston, where the best prices are obtained. The lands are very low in price. The soil is rich loam with clay subsoil, very productive. We suggest to our readers that they can find out all about this country from illustrated printed matter which will be sent free to all who write for it by D. W. SCHLEY COOL IN BATTLE

Shows Not Slightest Excitement Says Witness Sears.

HE WAS ABSOLUTELY CALM.

Lieutenant-Commander Sears Says Further That Schley "Was Always Putting Himself in Exposed Positions"—Was Requested Not to Do So.

The testimony of all the witnesses called this week is favorable to Schley. The commander's coolness, bravery and aggressiveness in command are testified to by the following, among other witnesses: Captain Chadwick, Lieutenant F. J. Dewey, Lieutenant McCauley, Captain Cook and Lieutenant Webster.

At the regular session Mr. Rayner questioned Lieut. Sears concerning his associations with Lieutenant Commander Potts on the Massachusetts and asked if he had heard the commodore say, on the occasion of the Colon reconnaissance, anything in the presence of Mr. Potts concerning the conspicuousness of the uniforms of the officers as they stood on the turret during the fire of the enemy's batteries. The witness replied in the negative.

"Was the commodore behind the conning tower on that occasion?" "He was both behind and in front of it; he was moving about."

In reply to a question commander Sears said he had been with Commodore Schley in five engagements, all told. He was then asked as to the bearing of that officer under fire and replied:

"His bearing to me was a model for anybody, worthy of emulation at all times. Under fire his faculties, if it was possible, seemed to be clearer and more in possession of them than at any other time."

"Was he in any state of excitement?"

"Not the slightest."

"Was he cool and calm?"

"Absolutely."

"How about points of danger—would he get away from them or did he expose himself in them?"

"He was always putting himself in exposed positions. I requested him many times not to expose himself, as it was useless to do so."

Judge Advocate Lemly conducted the cross-examination of the witness. The witness, in answer to questions, said that as far as he knew there were no general circular orders of battle.

The witness said that the fleet under Commodore Schley never had been withdrawn from Santiago to a distance out at sea at night. As a rule the ships were farther inside at night than during the day. The ships never had gone farther off than six miles. On one occasion the colliers had been sent twenty-five miles away.

The court asked a number of questions of the witness.

By the court—Were you present when Captain Cotton delivered dispatches to Commodore Schley off Santiago?

"I met the captain at the gangway, but whether he gave the dispatches to the commodore then I cannot say."

"If you heard those dispatches read or read them yourself please state their purport."

"The dispatch he brought I think contained the most positive information we had that the enemy were in Santiago. I remember that dispatch as being the first information of any positiveness that we had had since leaving Cienfuegos. I could identify the dispatch if I saw it."

"Do you know whether the Brooklyn crossed the bow of the Texas?"

"She did not."

By the court—Did the vessels close up July 3 in obedience to the signal made from the Brooklyn, or was there a standing order for them to close up in case the enemy was seen attempting to escape?

"There was a standing order that if the enemy attempted to escape the squadron must close in and destroy it, or words to that effect."

When the court concluded its questions Commander Sears was excused.

Cook Is Recalled.

The Schley court of inquiry began proceedings Wednesday morning as usual with the correction of testimony given on the previous day, the witnesses summoned for this purpose being Capt. Cook and Lieutenant-Commander Newton E. M. son, who was executive officer on the Brooklyn during the war with Spain, was called to relate his observations of the conduct of the Santiago campaign.

It is the purpose of Mr. Rayner to first examine officers of the Brooklyn, and to follow these with a number of those who were on the Oregon during the battle off Santiago. It is understood that his entire list of witnesses is practically confined to persons who were on board those two vessels.

Colombian Rebels Beaten.

The situation on the Isthmus of Panama is unchanged. News has been received at Colon that the government forces defeated the insurgents recently at Panama, killing a large number. Panoneme is now in the hands of the government. The government loss in the engagement was forty killed and wounded, among the latter being Colonel Navia. By a recent decree all import duties in this department were doubled, and valorem duties now being 20 per cent. All liquor duties have also been doubled.

Long Island's Duck Ranches.
There are duck ranches on Long Island where as many as 30,000 ducklings are raised annually for New York's market, and Pennsylvania and Virginia are dotted with ranches having capacities of 6,000 to 12,000, all incubator hatched. There is an enormous duck ranch at Allentown, Pa., and one at Rivington, Va., each nearly as large as the ranch at Speonk, L. I. Geese come from all over, most of the duck ranches supplying them. Squabs raise themselves, for pigeons really require no attention.—New York Press.

BARRINGTON LOCALS.

Go see the Spinsters and enjoy a fit of laughter.

The Columbia hotel building has been equipped with electric lights.

The office of the plant at Chicago Highlands will be connected with the Chicago Telephone system.

Diamond Lake is to have a new hotel. Chas. Tattler has let the contract for a building to be completed by January 1, 1902.

George Stiefenhofer is building an addition to his blacksmith shop. Several new facilities to aid his work demand the additional space.

At a depth of 300 feet oil was struck near South Elgin last week on the farm of Arthur Gullek. It is thought the find will prove a profitable one.

The McHenry County State Bank is the title of a new financial institution lately opened for business at Woodstock. It has a paid up capital of $25,000.

Americus Garrison No. 90, Eminent Ladies, held its regular meeting Wednesday evening. Two new members were initiated into the mysteries of the order.

A Colorado widow has been convicted and sentenced for stealing a horse. She evidently wanted to be ready for proposals as soon as they should begin coming in.

The Lake County Independent celebrated its tenth birthday last week. Frank Just, who edits that newsy journal, says, "we congratulate ourselves and are thankful we're living." That's enough.

The Ladies' Aid society of the M. E. church will give an Experience social next Friday evening in the church parlors. Supper will be served from 5 to 8 o'clock for 15 cents. All are invited to attend.

The case of Levy & Son vs. Gonyo, which has been traveling around the justice courts here for five weeks, will be called before Justice Frey Monday noon. Perhaps it will be tried and perhaps it won't.

Fred Pomeroy has closed the deal for the sale of his Chestnut street residence property to Mrs. August Porep. She will remove from her farm to the village and occupy the upper apartments of the dwelling.

Yesterday morning's Chicago papers mention "a crush at Buffalo." It is not known whether the Barrington contingent were caught in the "crush" or not, but it probably was. That delegation is made up of the kind that never miss anything.

Chris and E. W. Mueller will give up farming next spring and engage in the milk business in Chicago. Chris is tenant on the Willmarth farm, while his brother occupies the adjoining one, known as the S. W. Kingsley or Irick farm, located near Carpentersville.

The Country Golf club of Waukegan, represented by County Clerk Hendee and Arthur Smith and the Lake Zurich club, represented by M. C. McIntosh and M. T. Lamey, indulged in a contest Sunday afternoon. The Country club players went down to defeat.

Miss Carrie Hogan of Janesville, Wis., was so tightly hugged by her to be husband that the services of a physician were necessary to release her overlapped ribs. The case has attracted considerable attention from a medical standpoint. This is a warning to our girls.

Home-Seekers' excursion to the North-west, West and South-west, via the North-Western line. Home-Seekers excursion tickets at greatly reduced rates will be sold on the first and third Tuesdays of each month through the year 1901 to the territory indicated above. Standard and tourist sleeping cars, free reclining chair cars and "the best of everything." For full particulars apply to agents Chicago & North-Western R'y.

As several denizens of this section alighted from a Barrington accommodation train the other evening, each one carrying a catalogue of a big mail order house in Chicago, a merchant remarked, "I'd like to know what attracts those fellows to Chicago to patronize such stores as issue those catalogues. We can sell better goods at more reasonable prices." So you'd like to know what the magnet is that attracts the trade that rightfully belongs to you and other merchants to the mail order houses and department stores of Chicago? The question is an easy one. Persistent advertising does it. Try it.

Friends of the late Gov. John R. Tanner met in Chicago, Tuesday, and formed a finance committee which will have charge of raising funds for the Tanner memorial monument. Assurances were received at the meeting that $50,000 will be raised in a short time. Leading republican politicians form the committee.

The officials of Chicago Highlands association and owners of the American Malleable Castings company plant located there, visited the property last Saturday. Improvements there are going forward rapidly. The heads of the several departments of the big foundry and manufacturing company are preparing for the opening of the works Nov. 1. The plant is one of the most complete of its kind in the west, supplied with latest improvements, and new in every particular.

We are in receipt of a pamphlet setting forth the advantages of McHenry county. Among many other things we find the following: "The county has about 75,000 head of cattle, 10,000 head of sheep, 17,000 head of horses and colts and over 100,000 head of hogs and pigs. The value of the output of poultry and eggs exceeds $100,000 annually. McHenry county is the center of the greatest dairy region in the world. The county has 50,000 cows, from which 2,000,000 pounds of butter and over 200,000,000 pounds of milk are sold annually, bringing in to the farmers a revenue of between $3,500,000 and $4,000,000 annually from these products alone."

The Enterprise-Register says: "The best enterprise for Palatine to foster is a north and south electric railway. If our people continue to sleep on, the old town will soon be doomed to remain a country village. If we don't look out Barrington will capture this plum and Palatine will be left out in the cold." Don't get discouraged, Mr. Paddock. There are roads enough projected to run north and south to give both Barrington and Palatine excellent facilities. We are your superior in point of population and commercial importance and it is natural that good things should come our way. We are not worrying over a north and south road because we are confident that some day it will come our way without extra solicitation.

A Missouri exchange prints the following: The colored people were holding a "distracted" meeting lately and the pastor called upon the brethren to pray for him "that he might have a greater power to lead sinners to repentance." One of the deacons, noted for his ardor and earnestness, put up the following prayer: "O Lord, gib him de eye ob de eagle, dat he spy out sin afar off. Glue his hands to de gospel plow. Tie his tongue to de line of troof. Nail his ear to de gospel pole. Bow his head down atween his knees, an his knees way down in some lonesome, dark and narrer valley whar prayer is much wanted to be made. 'Noint him wid de kerosene ole ob salvasun an sot him on fire!"

The field worker of an insurance society often meets with a man who objects to membership in the order on the ground that he must die to win. He does not realize that membership in the order brings him the benefits of social and fraternal relations to his fellows, which are in a large measure compensation for the money he pays while he lives, besides which he is given the additional satisfaction of knowing that in case of his death his loved ones will not be consigned to the poor house. To a rightly constituted man this is not dying to win. With its 10,000 camps, over 650,000 members and over a billion dollars of insurance in force, the Modern Woodmen society is now a social and financial power whose influence it is difficult to overrate.

The Waukegan Gazette says that the devil is to pay over in the free and easy village of Highwood and there is any amount of material to keep the fires going. The Highwood Independent announces in its last issue that the Gazette is a falsifier and is "trying to sling dirt at our sample rooms" It also announces to the inhabitants of the known world that the village is as peaceful and quiet as a Quaker settlement. Then the editor gets down to business proves the Gazette's statement by publishing four separate articles under scare heads (the like of which never before was seen) telling of "Two Soldiers Doped & Sand-Bagged," "An Outrage Knocked Down and Bruised," "Reporter Used as a Football—Knocked Down and Thrown out of The Room." Several other bits of information usually found in the Police News. Highwood must certainly be a "quiet" place if the Independent tells the truth.

"Hello!"
"Say, fellows, heard anything about the oyster supper to be held at Baptist church November 9."
"Yes."
"It's going to be swell, isn't it. I have got a girl and we are going up. Are they go to be anything besides oysters?"
"Yes, they're going to give the finest and rarest entertainment of the season and an elegant oyster supper afterwards, all for a quarter."

Mrs. Josephine Howard and daughter Hattie, A. L. Hendee and Arthur Smith of Waukegan, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. M. T. Lamey Saturday and Sunday.

Jacob Zimmerman, who has been in declining health for sometime, continues to grow more feeble. There is little hope of his ever again being able to leave his room.

Rev. W. H. Tuttle returned from the M. E. Conference at Evanston, Thursday. His many friends will be pleased to learn that he will continue his pastorate here the coming year.

Edward Schwartz and bride, who was Miss Flora M. Wilber of Carpentersville, were visiting friends in this vicinity the first of the week. Mr. Schwartz is a popular young business man of Carpentersville.

Will Cannon has been promoted to the position of collector on train No. 512, Barrington and Chicago local. He takes the place vacated by Fred Rieber. Will is one of the most highly esteemed employes of the North-western company and deserving of any position that corporation may bestow upon him.

Wm. Bradner, now a resident of Macon, Mo., when a young man was employed by Mr. Seymour, who conducted a farm at what was then called Millen Grove, in Barrington township. That was at the close of the civil war. Mr. Bradner found everything greatly changed and but few residents with whom he was acquainted in those days.

The press of the country is locating immediate relatives of President Roosevelt in many sections of the east and west. Our vicinity is in the list. Mrs. A. V. H. Kimberly of Cuba township is a cousin of the president. Mr. Kimberly is also related to one of the notable men of American history, being a brother to Admiral Kimberly of U. S. navy, as brave an old fighter as ever stood on the bridge of a man of war. George Kimberly, a familiar figure to our people, is also a brother of the admiral.

Mayflowers at Wauconda.

Tuesday was not May day by any means, but Mayflowers were out in full bloom. Thirteen or fourteen, pretty (all Mayflowers) were transplanted from Barrington soil to the pleasant and well cultivated surroundings in our sister village on the lake side, Wauconda.

The Royal Neighbors of that village had prepared an inviting program on the occasion of adopting several new members to their camp and extended an invitation to Mayflower camp of this village to be present and assist. The ladies went in carriages and their husbands went without anything to eat during the day. The Wauconda ladies have an established reputation for hospitality and on this occasion they added another score to their popularity. The Mayflowers were royally entertained with music, readings, recitations and filled with the best on earth. The visit was one long to be remembered by all who participated. The Mayflowers returned in the evening a little frost bitten, but not wilted. The following composed the bouquet:

Mrs. Etta Kirschner Mrs. Belle Shales
Mrs. Nellie Churchill Mrs. Teresa Hoffman
Mrs. Mary Smith Mrs. Minnie Hager
Mrs. Emma Grether Mrs. Kate Leonard
Mrs. Rose Lamey Mrs. Lena Jacobson
Mrs. Myrtle Bennett Mrs. Emma Hollister
Miss Margaret Lamey.

A Bouquet from the West.

Western Industries: "Barrington, Ill., situated 30 miles northwest of Chicago, on the C. & N. W. Ry., and Chicago Outer Belt line, promises to profit in no small degree by the building of several important manufacturing plants at Chicago Highlands, the new town owned by a syndicate of Milwaukee and Chicago capitalists. The village is located on the western limits of Barrington, and being designed as a "factory town" it will not, for some years at least, contain the many advantages such as churches, schools and homelike surroundings to be found in Barrington. It takes time to establish the many conveniences which go to make up a village attractive to the better class of American wage earners. Chicago Highlands, will no doubt, develop rapidly as it is most advantageously situated as regards most excellent building sites and shipping facilities. Its close proximity to Barrington allows the workers there the privilege of enjoying the advantages to which they have been accustomed. While the new village is building up the old town (Barrington) will reap a lasting benefit in more ways than one."

August Walbaum.

August Walbaum, for twenty years a resident in the town of Barrington, has passed to his reward. He was ill for about three months, advanced age precluding his recovery. He was born October 21, 1821, in Ahe, Hessian Nassau Province, Germany. At early age was married to August Deiderding. Ten children were born to them, nine of whom are living, eight sons and one daughter. Deceased and wife spent the best years of life in their native land. Coming to this country in 1881, they settled on a farm near Barrington Center.

Mr. Walbaum passed away Friday, October 11, aged 79 years, 11 months and 21 days. The funeral was held from St. Paul's church in this village Sunday afternoon, Rev. Menzel conducting the services. Interment was in the German cemetery.

There are several more phones contracted for and ready to place as soon as the strike of linemen, now on, is adjusted. The reduction in rates for party line service has placed the convenience within the reach of all. The attention given the local exchange by Mr. and Mrs. Perry is very gratifying to subscribers. The patronage of the company at this station promises to grow.

Notice.

I have decided to remove to Arlington Heights and request all indebted to me to kindly pay bills before Nov. 1, 1901, the same will be handed to a collector.

Very low rates to New York City and return via the North-Western line daily. Tickets will be sold until October 30, 1901, limited to return within 30 days. Apply to agents Chicago & North-Western R'y.

To pastors of churches and secretaries of church societies, we wish to state that this column is set apart for the publication of matters pertaining to religious work. Announcements of meetings, services and topics are requested. You can advance the interests of your church and society by devoting a few moments in preparing a contribution for this department.

The world is cold toward God; it cares little for Him; it neglects to love Him; it has false ambitions in life; it estimates everything by the scales of commerce, and counts as nothing that which does not tend towards material success. But for us, Christ and the cross, the sacred heart with its love for men, are the true ambitions of life.

All services will be resumed at the M. E. church Sunday. Preaching in the morning and Sabbath school to follow. Junior League at 3 o'clock; Epworth League at 6:45. In the evening there will be Union service at the Salem church in the interest of Temperance, addressed by a worker from Chicago.

The voice of Plymouth Rock demands that we hand down unswollen to our children the essential elements of the Christian religion, belief in the son of God, in the freedom of man, in the sin of life, in the atoning sacrifice of Jesus Christ, in an inspired bible and a judgment seat beyond. It appeals to us to elect to public office only men of high character and ample qualifications.

The Peoples' church, to which $1,000,000 has been given by a wealthy mine owner, was started in Chicago by the Rev. Dr. Hiram W. Thomas, a former Methodist minister. Its objects is the establishment of congregations in all the principal cities in the United States in which will be preached a broad doctrine of fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man, with little or no creed and untrammelled by denominational lines. Part of the plan contemplates the opening of a school for the education of liberal ministers, where questions of sociology and comparative religion will receive more emphasis than in existing seminaries.

The Epworth League in the Methodist church is planning to concentrate its energy the coming fall and winter to advance the forward movement which was favored with such success last season. Mr. W. W. Cooper, first vice-president of the league in America, says that the organization has been very active in the last summer, sending out student volunteers to visit the churches and interest them in the cause of missions. The life of Christ is to be studied this winter. Mr. Cooper says that there promises to be a great religious awakening this winter in all denominations, one contributing cause being the death of President McKinley, which has turned the thoughts of people towards the churches as they have not been turned for years.

Rev. Samuel Eargney, of the Wilmette M. E. church, succeeds Dr. Hardin as presiding elder of this, the Rockford district. Rev. W. H. Tuttle will remain with us for another year. Dr. Robinson is transferred from Hebron to Libertyville.

The Hoover trial dragged along on Tuesday. The superintendent of the American Home Finding Association was acquitted; will not lose his seat in the conference. Rev. Mr. Smart, who was under fire, was refused a pastorate by the conference. All the presiding elders declared their unwillingness to assign him, and this settled the matter. It was he who talked so strongly against William McKinley.

Dr. Brushingham, of the First Church, Chicago, and Dr. Ladd of Elgin were made trustees of Northwestern University. The report of the committee of the state of the country also was heard. Former President McKinley was eulogized and anarchy was severely condemned. The sensational press was criticized.

The report of the committee on temperance deplored the fact that the government should in any degree or manner tolerate the selling of intoxicating liquors. It also insisted upon the continuance of the present system in the army where the canteen is not allowed.

The report from the committee on statistics shows for Rock River conference a total of 51,367 full members, 3,073 probationers and 44,741 children in Sunday schools. The estimated value of church buildings and real estate was placed at $4,391,239.

Improve School-Days.

"Enter school with the intention of going to the top of the ladder while you are young," is the advice given by an exchange. "The time will come in after years when you will regret that you did not pursue your studies while you had a chance. You will then regret that you played during your school days, and neglected that which will give you a standing in good society when you have laid your books away. Improve the time while you are young and don't spend your school years in studying devils. Be kind to your teacher, get your lessons and you will thank her in after years for the interest taken in your welfare."

A Typical South African Store.

O. R. Larson, of Bay Villa, Sundays River, Cape Colony, conducts a store typical of South Africa, at which can be purchased anything from the proverbial "needle to an anchor." This store is situated in a valley nine miles from the nearest railroad station and about twenty-five miles from the nearest town. Mr. Larson says, "I am favored with the custom of farmers within a radius of thirty miles, to many of whom I have supplied Chamberlain's remedies. All testify to their value in a household where a doctor's advice is almost out of the question. Within one mile of my store the population is perhaps sixty. Of these, within the past twelve months, no less than fourteen have been absolutely cured by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. This must surely be a record." For sale by all druggists.
