VOL. 17 NO. 8.

BARRINGTON ILL. SATURDAY FEBRUARY 22, 1902.

$1.50 A YEAR IN ADVANCE.

PALATINE HAPPENINGS.

Events Past, Present and Future of Village and Vicinity.

Gathered and Compiled by A. C. Smith, Local Editor.

Lecture Thursday.

M. W. A. meeting tonight.

Mrs. Kimmett has been ill the past week.

Harry Rea was home from Evanston over Sunday.

Mrs. Hunneberg has been ill the past two weeks.

Mrs. Rose Gibbs returned from the Chicago hospital Friday.

Wm. Babcock went to Woodstock Wednesday to visit friends.

Mrs. Albert Beutler of Chicago visited at E. Reutler's Wednesday.

Roland Beutler visited his brother, Al Beutler, and wife in Chicago Saturday.

Henry Bicknase, sr., is rapidly improving and will be able to attend to work shortly.

J. Jappa has once more returned to Palatine, having retired from business in Barrington.

A ten pound boy arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. House in Chicago Tuesday, February 18.

Ohlen Umbdenstock, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Umbdenstock, has scarlet fever, but is getting along as well as possible.

Will Mosser went to Arlington Heights to take some photographs yesterday. Will has a large run of work at that place.

Mrs. Justine Fredricka Wienecke died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Doerge, last Thursday morning, February 20, at the age of 80 years, 1 month and 1 day.

Christian Kublank is the only candidate for collector so far. Chris made a good run last year and it may be that no one cares to try to take the office from him for another year.

The Chicago Underwriters association has decided to raise insurance rates 25 per cent. throughout the territory. This means a considerable amount of money to heavy insurers.

FOR SALE—Good house and two lots at the corner of Benton and Golfax streets in Palatine. Good barn, cistern and well with plenty of water. Will sell cheap. M. UMBDENSTOCK.

Dr. and Mrs. W. P. Schirding entertained a number of friends at a valentine party at their beautiful home Friday evening. A very enjoyable evening was spent by those present.

Judge C. S. Cutting will give a lecture on "Switzerland and the Rhine" in the Methodist church next Thursday night. It is not necessary to urge you to come, but don't forget the silver collection.

Rev. A. H. Altfield, a converted Jew, delivered a lecture in the Methodist church Thursday night. He gave a very interesting description of Jewish customs and religion, and all were well pleased with it.

We hope to see a bowling alley in Palatine before another winter. There has been considerable talk on the subject among business men of late and if some takes the initiative the affair would be a certainty.

The infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Mundhenke died last Sunday after a short illness. The boy was four weeks old. The funeral services were held Tuesday at the house and a large number of sympathizing friends were present.

Deputy Sheriff M. Reynolds closed up L. V. Clark's pigeon lofts last Friday on an execution on a judgment note held by Elmer Robertson, former proprietor of the place. Mr. Clark's household goods were also attached and a custodian appointed over the properties. Mr. Clark bought the lofts from Mr. Robertson about two years ago and for the past several months he has been running the business at a loss. We understand that a settlement was attempted between them, but an agreement as to the amount Mr. Clark should pay could not be made, hence the execution. Mr. Clark has paid about $2,500 on the business, besides some small improvements and pigeons. The property consists of a lot, building and some pigeons. Same will be sold next Tuesday.

The village has been made defendant in a suit brought by Julius Lincoln and children to obtain title to the property now occupied by Mr. Lincoln, on which he has his residence. The property is shown as a street on the village map since Wm. J. Lytle made his addition to Palatine some thirty years ago, but the street has never been used and Mr. Lincoln says that he has a deed to the property. He claims to have occupied the lot for the past twenty-six years and has a house situated thereon. Mayor Olms accepted summons for the village to appear for trial March 17th. The matter will be brought up before the village trustees for discussion as to what action the village will take in the matter. The property has been a source of agitation at numerous times the past few years.

ASKS NEW LAW ON LIBEL.

President of Illinois Press Association Suggests Changes.

The Illinois Press association, composed of the editors of country papers of the state, opened its thirty-seventh annual convention at the Lexington hotel, Chicago, Tuesday. A large representation of the "bright men" of the noble profession were in attendance.

Smith D. Atkins, of the Freeport Journal, president of the association, in his annual address, recommended a change in the law relative to libel as follows:

That the state legislature at its next session be petitioned to pass a law giving all editors charged with libeling or criticising a judge outside of the court room a trial by jury instead of permitting the offended member of the bench the privilege of acting as witness, judge, and jury and the executioner in his own case.

Other recommendations were:

That the United States government acquire and operate as part of the postal service all telegraph lines.

That country editors vigorously oppose the agitation in congress to secure penny postage.

That members of the association found guilty of selling or otherwise disposing of mileage books or trip passes given by railroad companies in payment of advertising be expelled from the organization.

The annual address was delivered by Thomas Rees, of the Springfield State Register, his subject being "The Progress of Journalism." A. C. Bentley, the "heavy man" of the association and editor of the Pittsfield Times read an interesting paper entitled "The Illinois Press Association as a Matrimonial Bureau."

Senatorial Situation.

Congressman Hopkins has concluded his second tour of the state and says "I am sure of election if present conditions hold good." Charles Gates Dawes has returned from another tour of the state and he stoutly maintains there is nothing to it but Dawes for United States Senator. Senator William E. Mason will again enter the field next week. Last week he was incensed at letters that were being sent throughout the state by Fred H. Rowe, chairman of the republican state committee, to friends in each county asking that Hopkins men be named for close campaign work. Senator Mason made loud his protest that the chairman of the state committee should take issue and use the party organization for any particular candidate. The friends of Mr. Rowe maintain he has a right to do this, and the fight thereon promises to become very bitter.

The County Treasurership.

Western Lake county will furnish the candidate for treasurer this time, providing the gentlemen seeking the honor from this section will compromise and get together. Wauconda township furnishes two aspirants for the nomination, A. J. Raymond, the present supervisor from that township, and Lewis C. Price, a general merchant of Wauconda village. Both gentlemen are widely known, enjoy the respect and confidence of the people and qualified to look after the financial affairs of the county. Mr. Price is making a personal canvass of the county and meeting with many of the political leaders, receiving promises of support. Mr. Raymond, we understand, has not fully decided on his action, but will do so before the primaries are held.

A Tribute to the Country Editor.

President Atkins of the State Press association, believes in the country newspaper. He says: "I would rather publish a good country weekly paper, enjoying its privileges, its part in the affairs of the community, the government and the state, than to own a Standard Oil company. I prefer to engage in some kind of business that has something higher than the dollar side, a business that bears some relation to humanity and society. If I were asked today, what is the greatest safeguard in time of national danger, threatened lawlessness, or anarchy, I would say it is a clean, unpurchaseable country newspaper of the land."

REJECT THE PROPOSALS

Made by Holland for Terminating War in the Transvaal.

Action of Great Britain Not a Pronounced Refusal, But Hopeful.

Little Holland used the best efforts she could to bring about a peace agreement between the Boers and British, but failed. Our Washington letter contains the following in reference to the rejection of the proposals:

It does not necessarily follow that Great Britain's reply to Holland's note tendering its good offices toward terminating the Boer war means an end of all peace negotiations, though the British government insists that it will accept no intervention and that peace negotiations must be conducted directly with the Boer leaders in the field. The Hague government in effect applied to the British for safe conduct for certain Boer rangers or delegates now in Holland to go to South Africa and find out upon what terms the Boers still in arms would cease resistance. The British government holds that these delegates have no power or authority to act for the Boer belligerents and that "all the powers of government, including those of negotiation, are now completely vested in Mr. Steyn for the Boers of the Orange River Colony and Mr. Schalkburger for those of the Transvaal."

Great Britain insists, therefore, that "if the Boer leaders should desire to enter into negotiations for the purpose of bringing the war to an end those negotiations must take place not in Europe, but in South Africa."

This apparently settles the matter so far as any European intervention is concerned, though the outlook for peace is not so dark as might appear. In this connection the comments of Montagu White, the Boer representative in this country, on The Hague note and the British reply are pertinent. He says: "The action of the British government is not a real refusal, but, on the contrary, a very direct encouragement to the friends of peace to persevere in their efforts to bring about an equitable settlement. The situation is very hopeful."

It is to be hoped there is good ground for Mr. White's optimistic view and that the bloody tragedy in South Africa may be brought to a speedy close.

In view of the facts lately made public by the London war office it would seem that Great Britain would be willing to end the war on terms less humiliating to its heroic and stubborn foes than have hitherto been exacted. The war office statement shows that up to Jan. 31 the total reduction of the British forces in South Africa from death or permanent disability was 25,305 men. The total of the casualties, including surviving wounded, was 5,240 officers and 100,701 men. It is fairly estimated that the war has cost the British government about $800,000,000 to date.

With such a frightful cost in life and treasure it is not surprising that the English people are heartily tired of the war. How long will they permit Chamberlain to continue it?

The German Tariff Bill.

The German tariff bill is now going through the same sort of experience that tariff bills have in the United States congress. The German bill in its present form would hardly be recognized by its best friends, the press dispatches say, the changes having gone so far that the imperial secretary of state for the interior has given notice that if the bill is further amended the government will withdraw its support. Something besides amendments may have cooled the government's ardor—the election in Saxony, for instance, in which the Socialist vote increased 2,000 on the issue of free trade in foodstuffs, showing very plainly how the industrial classes view the new tariff proposals.

DAWES BOOM IS LAUNCHED

At Chicago by The Charles G. Dawes Republican Club of Cook County.

The senatorial boom of Charles G. Dawes ex-comptroller of the currency, has been launched by representative anti-machine republicans of Chicago and Cook county. Among the supporters of Mr. Dawes are found such prominent leaders as Graeme Stewart, Alexander H. Revell, Edson G. Keith, Orson Smith, Charles Truax, William A. Dyche, Lafayette McWilliams, F. G. Logan, Fred W. Upham and 250 others prominent in the party and opposed to Lorimer and his political followers.

These gentlemen pledge themselves to "use all honorable means to assist in securing Mr. Dawes' election to the high office, believing that he is eminently qualified to represent the state of Illinois in the United States senate, with honor and credit to Illinois and to the nation. We earnestly advocate his election and to that end we pledge him our best efforts and loyal support."

The solid business element of the city is on the Dawes band wagon and the influence of the big financial institutions goes a long way in politics. The Dawes adherents urge that a fight on what is known as the Yates-Lorimer machine be pressed from the start and will solicit organization in every county in the state. On the other hand the Lorimer-Yates-Hopkins men are preparing for a fierce attack on the Dawes-Sherman-Cullom-Mason attraction. It is said that Mr. Lorimer has threatened to bring his machine to the aid of Senator Mason (whom he so thoroughly dislikes) should the Dawes boom assume threatening proportions in Cook county. Lorimer despises the ex-comptroller for his action at the Peoria convention when the federal administration sent Mr. Dawes to assist in defeating the Lorimer machine candidate for governor; he (Lorimer) despises Senator Mason for a great many reasons, but of the two he prefers Mason, whom he will use to divide the republican party in Cook county only, in favor Hopkins.

The fight among the leaders of the several factions promises to be the most bitter in the history of Illinois politics.

WORKING THE NEWSPAPER

In the Interest of Their Candidacy for Office Now in Vogue by Seekers.

Spring is approaching. There is no doubt about it. The first robin has not put in an appearance, but a number of candidates for office have, and that's a sure sign.

The beveled plate glass door of our sanctum was opened by an individual the other morning, who asked:

"Is the editor in?"

We acknowledged that the editor was not at that moment to be consulted, but that we held a power of attorney to act for him, and to prove the assertion showed the blisters on our hands caused by writing red-hot local stuff.

"Well, a lot of my friends want me to run for office this spring and I just give in and want something kind of neat in the way of a send-off."

"Our columns are always open to advance the best interests of the public. In cases of this kind, where you desire to spring a surprise on the public, a pecuniary consideration is necessary, not for publication, but merely as a matter of good faith on your part."

"Of course, I'll pay. Can't expect to run for office without payin' for it. What have you got in the way of announcement notices for candidates for town collector? Nothing elaborate; just plain and neat."

"We can furnish you with almost any kind of a personal notice, from a cheap five liner, simple announcement, to an eighteen-karat biography, and at prices according to the strain on our columns and veracity. We would public opinion for you. Here is a little gem, warranted to make you votes, and with 200 caucus tickets will cost you $2.50:

"Our enterprising townsman, Bill D—, than whom there is no more popular and genial gentleman in the leight and breadth of Illinois, has consented, at the earnest solicitation of many friends, to sacrifice his profitable business to the public good, and has authorized us to announce him as a candidate for the responsible office of town collector."

"We have others in which your qualities of head and heart will be touchingly alluded to, etc., which comes at $3 for one insertion. For referring to you as 'an old settler,' 50 cents extra is charged."

"Well, you can get me up about $3 worth, but can't you throw in something about my war record and membership in the lodge?"

"We always do that."

"And just hitch on something to surprise Jim — He's a candidate for the same office. Don't need to say anything to hurt his feelings. Only say he's not fit for the office; don't own anything in his own name and couldn't get bondsmen if elected. Yes, and add that my brother pays his debts. That will hit him where he's sore, because his brother isn't paying any of his bills. I don't care to lug any personalities into the campaign unless I have to."

"We can't do that. Your opponents are personal friends of ours and subscribers."

"They are? I thought you were running an independent paper in the interest of the people, but I've found out you are subsidized by the other fellows," and he went out to consult his friends.

WEEK'S DOINGS IN CONGRESS

Business Transacted by the House and Senate in the National Capital.

CIVIL SERVICE AMENDMENT.

Census Bill Occupies Attention of the Senate Which Decides All Employees, Except Unskilled Laborers, Shall Be Retained in Permanent Bureau.

Thursday, February 13. In the Senate Mr. Teller concluded his speech. He urged strongly that the Philippines be given the fullest possible measure of self-government, the United States simply maintaining a protectorate over the islands. He said he would prefer that this government should withdraw absolutely and without condition from the archipelago than that the present war should be continued. Mr. Mitchell (Ore.) spoke in support of his amendment to reduce the tariff duties upon Philippine products coming into this country to 50 per cent of the Dingley rates.

The House unanimously adopted a resolution proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the United States for the election of Senators by direct popular vote. Two bills of general importance were passed. One was a Senate bill to provide for the payment of the claims of confederate officers and soldiers whose horses, side arms and baggage were taken from them by Union soldiers, contrary to the terms of the surrender of Lee's and Johnson's armies. The amount to be paid under the bill was limited to $50,000. The other bill was to confer on the Spanish claims commission authority to send for persons and papers and to punish for contempt. Mr. Corliss, who is the author of a bill for a government cable from San Francisco to Manila opposed the laying of such a cable by a private corporation. Several bills were passed by unanimous consent, including that to construct a lighthouse keeper's dwelling at Calumet Harbor, Ill., at a cost of $7,500.

Friday, February 14. A little flurry was created in the Senate over the employment since the beginning of the session of a score or more of extra clerks and messengers to committees. The charges of extravagance made induced the reference of the whole subject of clerical employment to a committee for investigation and report. The bill creating a permanent census office was under consideration for a time, but was not disposed of finally. The committee amendment increasing the salary of the director of the census from $5,000 to $7,500 was adopted. The Senate passed 127 private pension bills, clearing the calendar of this class of measures.

Mr. Wheeler of Kentucky created a sensation in the House by a speech in which he attacked in the most vigorous language the foreign policy of the administration. He referred to Secretary Hay as a pitiable flunkey, denounced Great Britain as an enemy of the United States and declared if reports were half true Lord Pauncefote ought to be ordered to take the first ship for home.

In the last five years he declared the government had been swayed from republican ideas and principles and traditions more than in 100 years. He criticized the decision of President Roosevelt to send his daughter to the coronation of King Edward and found in the proposed reception to Prince Henry a cause for protest.

Saturday, February 15. During the entire session the senate had under consideration the bill establishing a permanent census office. It was not completed, but an agreement was reached to take it up again immediately after the executive session that is to be held Monday for the consideration of the Danish treaty. The great contest of the day, of course, was over the transfer to the classified service of the employees of the census office who are to be retained in the permanent establishment. It involved the entire civil service question, and the debate covered much of the ground that heretofore has been gone over in congressional debates. Among the amendments adopted was one that all employees except unskilled laborers in the bureau when the act is passed be placed under civil service. Amendments limiting the transferred employees to those who remain in the permanent office and providing for the collection of statistics on trusts and combines each year were defeated. Senator Cullom gave formal notice that he would move that the senate go into executive session for the consideration of the Danish treaty Monday. The House was not in session.

Monday, February 17. In a little more than an hour the senate took up the treaty with Denmark, ceding the Danish West Indies to America in consideration of $5,000,000, and ratified it. This practically ends a transaction that has been under consideration intermittently since the administration of President Lincoln. After an extended debate, the senate passed the bill establishing a permanent census office.

By a unanimous vote of 278 the house passed the bill repealing all the war revenue taxes and at the same time gave an example of the celerity with which congress can transact business when it makes up its mind to do so. The bill was adopted rather unexpectedly by a clever parliamentary move on the part of Representative Richardson, the Democratic leader, the result of which was that the war revenue repeal bill was adopted by the house one day earlier than was contemplated by the Republican leaders.

Tuesday, February 18. It was agreed by the Senate that a final vote on the Philippine tariff bill and the pending amendments should be taken up next Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The only stipulation was that the last day's debate should be devoted to speeches not exceeding fifteen minutes in duration. Senator Wellington of Maryland spoke in opposition to the pending bill and Mr. Stewart made a brief legal and constitutional argument in support of the authority of Congress to hold the Philippines and to provide a proper government for their inhabitants. Bills were passed appropriating $200,000 for a public building at Deadwood, S. D.; appropriating $5,700 for the improvement of the legation building owned by the United States at Tokio, Japan; to ratify an agreement with the lower Brule band of Indians in South Dakota and appropriating $70,700 to carry the treaty into effect.

In the House Mr. Gillet of Massachusetts in a half hour's speech declared that the intemperance of Mr. Wheeler's language carried its own condemnation. Nevertheless, he (Gillet) grievously deplored such an affront to a foreign country. During the course of the speech Mr. Robinson (Ind.) and Mr. Thayer (Mass.) disclaimed any sympathy with Mr. Wheeler's utterances. These disclaimers drew from Mr. Talbot (S. C.) the statement that he desired to share the responsibility of the speech, every word of which he endorsed. Mr. Wheeler replied to Mr. Gillet, reaffirming what he had said and declaring that he would stand by his words, whether they were discreet or not.

Heirs to Australian Fortune. A Cleveland man named Barney Reynolds has received word from Sydney, Australia, that an uncle of his is dead and has bequeathed a fortune of $100,000 and a cattle ranch to Reynolds, his two brothers—Charles and George—and a sister—Imogen—who is said to have married a man named Belden in Chicago. Barney Reynolds does not know the whereabouts of his brothers and sister, and until he hears from them the estate of his uncle cannot be settled.

Jealousy Causes Murder. Sparta (Wis.) special: J. P. Parker, a well known citizen of Millston, was shot and killed two miles from that place by Hiram Hall, who has been arrested. He admits shooting Parker, but claims it was done in self-defense. The cause of the crime is said to have been jealousy. Hall claims Parker alienated the affections of his wife. Both men are married. Parker came to Millston from Cornell, Ill., where his parents live.

Studebakers to Build Auto Plant. South Bend (Ind.) dispatch: The Studebaker Brothers' Manufacturing company has leased the Chocklett building, which has been idle since the estate decided to abandon the wagon industry, and will utilize it for the exclusive manufacture of automobiles. The plan of the Studebakers is to make their automobile factory the largest in the United States. They also expect to compete with the factories of France.

Dr. Morrissey Recovering. Rev. Andrew Morrissey, president of Notre Dame University, is slowly but surely recovering from his serious illness with pneumonia. BLIZZARD STRIKES ATLANTIC COAST

Fiercest Storm in Fourteen Years Impedes Traffic in New York.

REACHES INTO THE INTERIOR.

Cities in the Empire State Are Cut Off from Communication by Rail and Wire—The New England States and Pennsylvania Also Affected.

A blizzard, the fiercest in fourteen years, swept over the Atlantic coast Feb. 17. Inland the entire eastern section of New York state and sections of Pennsylvania felt the terrific storm. At times the wind was a hurricane. Trains are snow-bound or delayed, the mails are irregular, and telegraph service has suffered. When the storm which brewed in western Texas on St. Valentine's day reached New York city it developed into a blizzard such as Gotham has not experienced since 1888. The snowfall was ten inches, and the gale rising to a velocity of sixty miles an hour formed huge drifts. Street cars were blocked, trains reached the city hours after schedule time, and in the harbor floating ice practically stopped business.

Advices from points in New Jersey show that the great blizzard was felt from Bergen county to Cape May, and from Atlantic City to Camden. The brunt of the gale, which approached the dimensions of a hurricane, was felt by the sea-coast towns, but the interior cities and towns did not escape. The eastern part of New York state from New York city to the Canadian border was swept by the blizzard. Reports showed that sixteen counties had received in full force the effects of the gale and the accompanying fall of snow.

At Philadelphia the fall of snow was the heaviest in three years. A high wind accompanied the snow.

After an unprecedented stretch of clear weather, dating back to Candlemas day, New England was blanketed with a foot of wet snow and swept by a northeast gale. This impeded traffic and carried down the telegraph and telephone wires, so that many important points were cut off.

EGGS SELL AT 33 CENTS.

High Price Is the Result of Shortage on Stocks.

For a long time, eggs have been scarce but the record breaking price for recent months was established at Chicago when sales were made at 33 cents wholesale. The price situation is simply the result of a shortage in stocks. Hens quit laying with the advent of cold weather. Cold storage stocks are exhausted.

Antarctic Explorer Arrives. Charles Borchgrevink, the antarctic explorer arrived in New York on the Borchgrevink, the antarctic explorer, arrived in New York yesterday on the steamship Etruria. Last night he told in an interview of how, in 1899, he and a party of scientists had reached 78 degrees 50 minutes' south latitude, about 800 miles from the south pole and the most extreme southern point that any man has ever reached.

No Rebels in Batangas. Manila special: The insurrection in Batangas province is practically at an end, and the troops under Gen. J. Franklin Bell have made almost a clean sweep of the district. It is not believed that all the insurgent arms have been captured or surrendered, but that a number of them have been taken by the insurgents to other provinces or safely hidden.

Student Commits Suicide. At Ann Arbor, Michigan, Albert O. Klein, Chicago, a junior student in pharmacy at the university, committed suicide at his lodgings by taking prussic acid. His suicide coming so closely after the similar death of Miss Agnes Ingils two weeks ago has caused a profound sensation throughout the city.

Michigan Farmer Murdered. Caleb France, a farmer near Becker schoolhouse, in Hinegrove, near Pawpaw, was killed in the doorway of his home by a pistol shot. His death was at first reported as a case of suicide, but the location of the wound removed the idea, and it is now agreed that France was murdered.

Arrest Youthful Counterfeiter. On a charge of counterfeiting, the police of Birmingham, Ala., have arrested Ernest Matthews, a 10-year-old boy. BOERS TRAP BRITISH TROOPS.

Eleven Killed and Forty Wounded South of Johannesburg.

Lord Kitchener reports that a force of 150 mounted infantry was drawn into a Boer trap on Feb. 12 in the "Zuikerbosch Rand, south of Johannesburg. Severe fighting followed, in which the British lost two officers and nine men killed and several officers and forty men wounded. The infantrymen had surrounded a farmhouse where they suspected Boers were in hiding. A single Boer broke away from the house, and the British started to pursue him. The Boer climbed a copse, the British following. Immediately a heavy fire was opened upon them from three sides. The British found themselves in a trap and in a position where they were unable to make any defense.

A force of constabulary was defeated Feb. 10 near Witteville river, with severe loss.

PAUNCEFOTE MAY RETIRE.

Rumor That British Ambassador Is to Be Recalled.

It is rumored that Lord Pauncefote, British ambassador, would be recalled in April, but this was denied at the embassy, where it is said the matter is entirely in the hands of the British minister for foreign affairs. Lord Pauncefote has not been in his usual good health for some time and it was suggested that he might be willing to retire. His friends say, however, that the ambassador would regret to retire at this time, because his relief from the embassy here would be constructed as a disapproval by his government of his course in connection with the intervention negotiations just before the Spanish war.

PROVIDES FOR EMPLOYEES.

Millionaire Tufts Left Money for His Old Workers.

James W. Tufts, the millionaire soda fountain manufacturer who died two weeks ago at Boston, Mass., provided in his will for the distribution of $80,000 among his employees in amounts ranging from $100 to $500. To each of his five foremen and the six head men in the counting-room of his establishment he left $500; to each of the 320 married men in his employ, $200, and to each of the eighty unmarried men, $100. Only those who were employed by the company four years ago are to receive awards.

Boy in Shooting Affray.

As the result of a bitter feud between West End boys at St. Louis, Mo., Willie Ledger, 16 years old, was shot and instantly killed by Fretwell Shock, aged 10 years. Shock is a prisoner. He admits he killed Ledger, but says he aimed at one of Ledger's companions. "That fellow had me down, and the gang of them would have beat me to death if I had not shot," said Shock. The boys of both factions are the sons of well-to-do parents.

Oil Spring in the Rockies.

Denver dispatch: Oozing out at the base of Pike's Peak is a spring of oil, is the report that reaches here from Colorado City, whose inhabitants are much wrought up over the strike. The Promotion of the Admiral

(Morley Roberts, in The Strand.)

When the admiral woke, which he did after half an hour's shaking, administered in turns by three of the California's crew, who were anxious to know where he had stowed his bottle of rum, he was still confused by the "dope" given him ashore. And then he rose and rested on his elbow.

"Where am I?"

"On board the California, to be sure."

"I'm dreaming," said the admiral, "that's what it is. To be sure, I'm dreaming."

The admiral sat up suddenly, and by so doing brought his head into violent contact with the deck above him. This woke him thoroughly just in time to receive Mr. Simpson, mate of the California, who came in like a cyclone to inquire after his health.

"Did you ship as a dead man?" asked Mr. Simpson, "for if you did I'll undeceive you."

And with that he yanked the admiral from his bunk and dragged him by the collar out upon the deck at a run. He rose at the end of his undignified progress and stared at the mate.

"Who—who are you?" he said. Mr. Simpson gasped.

"Who am I—oh, who am I. Well, I'll oblige you by stating once for all that I'm mate of this ship, and you're my dog. Now, you lunatic, take this here ball of twine and go overhaul the gear on the main. And if you open your mouth to say another word I'll murder you."

And though he could not believe he was doing it, Sir Richard Dunn crawled aloft and did what he was told. He was stunned.

"I—I must be mad," thought the admiral.

"Now, then, look alive there, you dead crawling cat," said Mr. Simpson, "or I'll come up and boot you off the yard. Do you hear me?"

"Yes, sir," said the admiral, meekly, and he murmured, "I suppose I never was an admiral after all; I don't seem to know what I am."

And the hardest nut among the admirals of the active list wiped a tear with the sleeve of his coat and came down as he was bid.

When the crew were at breakfast next morning trouble began.

"Say, are you an admiral?" asked Knight, the biggest tough on board except Simpson and Wiggins.

"Mind your own business," he said. And Knight gave a full pannikin of tea at him. This compliment was received very quietly, and the admiral rose and went on deck.

"Takes water at once," said Knight; "he ain't got the pluck of a mouse."

But the admiral went aft and interviewed Mr. Simpson.

"I wish to have your permission to knock the head off a man called Knight, for'dard. He have a pannikin of tea over me just now, and I think a thrashing would do him good and conduce to the peace and order of the fo's'le."

"Oh, you think so?" said Simpson. "Very well, you have my permission to introduce peace there."

"I thank you, sir," said the Admiral. He touched his hat and went forward. He put his head inside the fo's'le and addressed Knight:

"Come outside, you bully, and let me knock your head off. Mr. Simpson has been kind enough to overlook the breach of discipline involved."

And Knight, nothing loth, came out on deck, while Simpson and Wiggins stood a little way off to enjoy the battle.

And in five minutes his mates carried Knight into the fo's'le.

"I don't know when I enjoyed myself more," said Simpson; with a sigh.

After that the Admiral had peace and levity something every day, and not least from Knight, who proved by no means a bad sort of man when he had once met his match.

The Admiral and Simpson never had a cross word till they were south of the Horn. Then by chance the mate and the captain had a few words which ended in Simpson getting much the worst of it. As luck would have it, the Admiral was the handiest to vent his spite on, and Simpson caught him a smack on the side of his head that made him see stars. And when the Admiral picked himself off the deck Simpson made a rush for him. The Admiral dodged him and shot up the poop-ladder. At any other time Blaker, the captain, would have gone for the seaman who dared to escape a thrashing for the moment by deserting the poop, but now he was willing to annoy Simpson.

"Well, what do you want?" he roared.

"Well, sir, I wanted to know whether Western Ocean custom goes here. I've been told that if I thrash your mate I shall have his job. They say forward that that's your rule, and if so, sir, I should like your permission to send Mr. Simpson forward and take his place."

Capt. Blaker laughed. He went to the break of the poop and addressed the mate.

"Do you hear, Mr. Simpson?" he inquired, genially.

"Send him down, sir," said Simpson.

"Are you sure you can pound him?" Simpson grinned his teeth and foamed at the mouth.

"Kick him off the poop, sir."

"Are you willing to stake everything on your fightin' abilities, Mr. Simpson?"

And when Simpson said "Aye"

son is a good man. I'll bring him aft again."

And Wiggins made no objection when Simpson was called up by the Admiral.

"Mr. Simpson," said the mate, "this is getting past a joke. Have you any objection to taking on your old job if I secure this preaching madman and take command?"

Simpson was "full up" of the fo's'le, and as he had a very wholesome admiration for the admiral he was by no means loth to return to his old quarters.

"I'm with you, sir. In another quarter of an hour we shall have the sticks out of her."

And still Blaker bellowed Scripture down the wind. He was still bellowing, though what he believed was not Scripture, when Simpson and Wiggins took him down below after five minutes of a row, in which the deposed captain showed something of his ancient form as the terror of the Western Ocean. As they went the admiral, now promoted to being captain of a Cape Horner, picked up the battered speaking trumpet and wiped some blood from his face which had been in collision.

"Up aloft with you, and make those topsails fast," he roared. "Look alive, men, look alive!"

And they did look alive. For "Dick-eey Dunn" never needed a speaking-trumpet in any wind that ever blew.

When things were snugged down and the California was walking north at an easy but tremendous gait he felt like a man again. He turned to Simpson and Wiggins with a happy smile.

"Now we're comfortable, and things are as they should be, Mr. Simpson, let the men have a tot of grog. And how's Mr. Blaker?"

"Waal," said Simpson, cheerfully, "when we left him he wasn't exactly what you would call religious nor resigned."

But if Blaker was not happy the Admiral was thoroughly delighted.

"Now you see what I said was true," he declared at dinner that night. "If I hadn't been an admiral and a man born to rise, how could I have been shipped on board this ship as a fore-mast hand and come to be captain in six weeks? I'll be bound you never heard of a similar case, Mr. Simpson."

And Simpson never had.

"Was it Shanghai Smith, do you think, as put you here?" he asked.

The admiral had never heard of Shanghai Smith.

"When I get back I'll find out," he said. "And if it was I'll not trouble the law, Mr. Simpson. I never allow any man to handle me without getting more than even."

"You don't," said Simpson. If his manner was dry it was sincere.

"But I don't bear malice afterwards. Your health, Mr. Simpson. This kind of trade breeds good seamen after all. But you are all a trifle rough."

Simpson explained that they had to be.

"When the owner's scheme is to have one man do three men's work, they have to get men who will make 'em do it. And when the owners get a bad name, and their ships a worse, then men like Shanghai Smith have to find us crews. If you could get back to San Francisco and hammer an owner some of us would be obliged to you, sir."

"Ah! when I get back," said the Admiral. "This will be a remarkable yarn for me to tell, Mr. Simpson. I still feel in a kind of dream. Would you oblige me by going to Mr. Blaker and telling him that if he continues to hammer at that door I'll have the hose turned on him."

And when Simpson went to carry this message the Admiral put his feet on the table and indulged in a reverie.

"I'll make a note about Shanghai Smith and settle with him in full. But I shall rise higher yet. I know it's in me, Steward!"

"Yes, sir," said the steward.

"I think I'll have some grog."

He drank to the future of Admiral Sir Richard Dunn, master of the California.

Ancient London Church.

With a history reaching back to the days of Alfred the Great, a special interest attaches to the Church of St. Thomas, quaintly situated in a backwater of Regent street, and which is now celebrating its bicentenary. A site granted by Alfred's niece to St. Peter's church, Ghent, was in the reign of Henry V., in accordance with an act for the suppression of alien priories, settled upon the Carthusian Priory at Sheen. In 1530 Henry VIII. appropriated it to the Crown. The next stage was reached in 1687, when Thomas Tenison, afterward Archbishop of Canterbury, secured the old property and built, first a wooden "oratory," and then in 1702, the present building. At length the Charity Commissioners thought fit to upset the original scheme and with the funds of the trust built the Tenison Schools in Leicester Square. Thanks to the present vicar, a freehold site has been purchased and parish buildings have been erected at a cost of about £8,000, where the parochial work involved in caring for three thousand people of the parish—most of them poor—can be carried on. The vestry has an interesting collection of portraits and prints of the various interesting people connected with the church. Sir Isaac Newton, for instance, was a trustee. Here Canon Knox Little served his curacy.

The amount of money in circulation in the United States to-day is $2,250,256,230, or thereabouts. Share and share alike, this is $28.78 per capita. The problem with the enterprising man is to get as many per capita as he can.

Gov. Yates has granted a reprieve of two weeks to Joseph Ellsworth Hinkle, who was to have been executed in the county jail at Peoria for the murder of his wife last summer. Sheriff Kimsey had erected the scaffold and had arranged all the details when the governor's private secretary arrived with the official notice of reprieve.

The auditor of public accounts has issued a permit to organize the First City Bank of Princeton with a capital stock of $50,000. The organizers are: Albert N. Stevenson, Thomas Cecil, Matthew H. Blackburn, Shelby L. Smith, Nelson W. Isaacson, Charles O. White, Ira C. Gibbons and Jacob F. Wagoner.

The state board of health has received a report of a serious outbreak of smallpox at Benton, Franklin county, in the railroad camp of James Ward & Co., contractors, on the Illinois Central railroad. Mr. Ward has notified the board of health that the quarantine is being enforced at the point of shotguns, and that he is unable to secure supplies for his men and stock. Dr. Egan, secretary of the board, has notified the mayor of Benton to permit the delivery of supplies.

Russell Battise, son of J. H. Battise, a prominent merchant of Carlinville, was killed in a rear-end collision on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad near Garrett, Ind. The engine crashed into the caboose, killing him and a companion instantly. The deceased was 23 years of age, and leaves a bride of only a few weeks.

Efforts to organize so-called investment companies and incorporate them under the Illinois laws are causing much annoyance in the corporation department of the secretary of state's office. Secretary Rose has declared against the incorporation of these concerns, and a number of promoters are now engaged in a studied effort to circumvent the decision by securing under false pretenses authority to do business in the state.

The Morgan county medical society met at Jacksonville with a full attendance of members. The general theme of discussion was "pneumonia," with papers by Dr. D. W. Reid and Dr. T. J. Pitcher of Jacksonville, Dr. W. W. Crane of Sinclair and Dr. J. F. Harvey of Griggsville.

James B. Smith, aged 82 years, died at Springfield from an attack of pneumonia. He was born in Maryland and had resided in Springfield for the past thirty years.

James Duncan of the Duncan Foundry and Machine company of Alton has brought suit in the circuit court against the Alton and Auburn Coal company, for $660, the value of thirty coal cars, which the plaintiff alleges he sold the company and for which he has not been paid.

Benjamin M. Abbey of Cropsey, McLean county, has filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy in the United States district court. His liabilities are placed at $10,000; assets, $2,691.

Some months ago Springfield gambling houses were closed by the police and all remained closed until recently. Within two or three weeks, on the supposition that the short session of the grand jury at this term would give them immunity for some time to come, several places have been reopened.

In the condemnation proceeding of the St. Louis & Chicago railway against James B. M. Kehlor in the United States circuit court at Springfield the jury awarded $10,000 to the defendant in the sum of $2,187 as compensation for the land, which is located in the city of Litchfield. The case has been pending for several years. The road is now a part of the Illinois Central line to St. Louis.

Minnie Anteman of Beamington, is seeking to recover five turkeys from James M. Higgins on a writ of replevin. Some time ago Higgins missed some turkeys and claimed to have located them in Mrs. Anteman's possession. The Anti-Horse Thief association took the matter up and recovered the turkeys. Mrs. Anteman, in a suit before a justice of the peace, got back the turkeys, but Higgins appealed the case to the county court and the matter is being fought out there.

Pilas German, a negro, sustained a peculiar but serious accident while at work in the coal mine of the Republic Iron and Steel company, north of Springfield. A large cable used in hauling coal out of the mine broke and one end struck German over the head, rendering him unconscious.

Dale Bannister, who secured small sums of money at Quincy on some worthless checks, was sentenced to the house of correction for 175 days.

At Metropolis fire destroyed an old building in which Col. Robert G. Ingersoll, when a young man, taught school. It was constructed of heavy cedar logs.

Defiance Starch, 16 ounces, 10 cents. Memorial services were held in the Supreme court at Springfield in honor of the late Judge Damon George Tunnicliff, who died at his home in Macomb, Ill., December 20, 1901, at the age of 72 years.

The Decatur public library board has received the first $5,000 of the $60,000 Andrew Carnegie has donated for the public library to be erected in that city.

Appellate Court on Women's Dresses.

The court of appeals of the state of New York has just handed down a decision of unusual interest, particularly to the feminine portion of humanity. It was in the case of Sarah C. Smith versus the Kingston (N. Y.) Street Railway company, an action for personal damages. In her pleadings before the trial court Mrs. Smith alleged that while alighting from one of the cars of the defendant corporation the bottom of her skirt caught on what is described as a "plunger," from which she was unable to free herself, and that when the car started she was thrown down and dragged a considerable distance, to the great injury of her person and feelings. The facts were undisputed, but the railroad company put in a counter plea, claiming that in wearing a long skirt when a short one would have answered the purpose much better and in not lifting it high enough to clear obstructions the plaintiff was guilty of contributory negligence.

The trial court, however, was not impressed by the defendant's contention, and Mrs. Smith was promptly awarded compensatory damages in equitable amount. Appeal therefrom was taken, which gave the highest judicial tribunal of New York an opportunity to affirm the right of every woman to dress as may please her without thereby imperiling her right to recover damages if she has the misfortune to be towed in the wake of a trolley car by her trailing garments.

The decision is altogether just and righteous. It sustains the inalienable right of woman to wear anything she chooses, and in any way she chooses. Suppose the appellate court had sustained the defendant's contention that the plaintiff had no right to wear a long dress in a car and let it drag in alighting. What a protest there would have been even from the "rainy daisies" and the dress reformers! And doubtless the fashionable walking skirt would have developed a train as long as that of a coronation robe as an emphasis of the protest. Why, indeed, should any aggregation of mere men, much less a soulless corporation, assume to dictate or even suggest in the matter of feminine apparel?

Repealing the War Taxes.

Before we get through discussing the conduct of the Spanish war the country is likely to be relieved of the special taxes ordered by congress for the purpose of carrying it on. The ways and means committee of the house of representatives has reported in favor of the repeal of all the purely revenue taxes imposed at the beginning, and the measure or one similar is likely to receive favorable congressional action.

Despite the previous reduction in these war taxes and despite the fact that the war expenses have not ceased, the surplus revenues are still accumulating at the rate of $100,000,000 a year. The repeal bill agreed upon will reduce the revenues $77,000,000 a year. Nine million dollars of this reduction will be obtained by the removal of the tax on tea—a tax which everybody, one might think, would wish to see go. There was, however, a strong remonstrance against its removal from a few tea merchants, who claimed that the tax did not raise the price of tea, but who only convinced the public that the tax did not rest upon the importers. It was charged that these importers desired the tariff on tea to be maintained because it kept the business in fewer hands. Aside from this handful of people, however, the removal of the tea tax gives universal satisfaction. The war tax on beer is abolished, as are the taxes on stock exchange and speculative transactions and the taxes on inheritances, which will cause a large reduction in the revenue.

For several years Mary S. Anthony, a sister of Susan B. Anthony, has paid her county taxes in Rochester, N. Y., under protest, the purpose being, it is understood, to pave the way for a legal test of the right thus to levy taxes on the property of women. Such an action was contemplated last year, but was abandoned for lack of means to carry on the litigation. Now it is said that the necessary money is at hand, and the courts may be called upon to pass upon the question of taxation without representation.

Again we have news from South Africa that the British have once more come near capturing General Botha. It appears that the former arrived the other day at a place where they expected to find the wily Boer, but unfortunately for them he was not at home.

The director of the census publishes the important information that for the first time in the history of this country the population of the south has increased somewhat more rapidly than that of the north. The new south is forging ahead with wonderful strides.

New Aspect In Breach of Promise.

The courts of Indiana have reached a conclusion of much interest, involving the declaration of the principle that the death of one of the parties to a marriage engagement constitutes a breach of promise, entitling the surviving party to the unfulfilled contract to recover compensatory damages in such an amount as may be shown to be just and equitable. The case at bar was that of Christiansen versus Crum and his heirs and executors, in which a young woman betrothed to a young man of substance who died prior to the date fixed for their marriage brought action under breach of promise proceedings to recover damages for the loss of a prospective husband, suing his estate for $7,000. That the plaintiff was, for a time at least, deprived of a husband, albeit by no fault of his, was apparent, but just how the valuation was determined does not appear.

It has generally been conceded that a marriage engagement is in a sense dissolved by the death of one of the parties, since it may be assumed in every case that the one dying prior to marriage did not want to die and that the surviving party is not in any degree reconciled to the disappointment of bereavement without the incidental advantages of widowhood, such as dower rights and other reversionary benefits.

It seems, however, that this view of the matter would not bear judicial scrutiny in Indiana, and an award of $6,000 was granted the plaintiff. It is altogether a novel ruling regarding antenuptial contracts, which is of interest to both sexes.

Results of Pan-American Congress.

Unquestionably much good will come of the pan-American congress, which has just finished its sitting in the City of Mexico, even though all that was hoped for may not have been accomplished. All the Americas have been brought closer together and made to know each other better, and this can hardly fail to strengthen international comity.

Perhaps the most important work of the congress was the adoption of a plan of arbitration which, if approved by all the governments represented, must make for better relations between all the states of this hemisphere. If adopted, the proposed treaty will be tantamount to a compulsory arbitration convention. Before having recourse to the court for the settlement of claims claimants must prove that they have exhausted all legal means of redress in the country against which the claim is brought. A protocol was also signed by the delegates declaring that the principles established in the three Hague conventions shall be considered American public law.

Other important results of the congress are the adoption of proposals looking to the construction of an intercontinental railway, to the establishment of a pan-American bank and to the institution of rules of sanitation governing all ports in the western hemisphere.

On the whole, as Senor Mariscal, Mexican minister of foreign relations, said in closing the session, "the delegates are entitled to the applause of all lovers of moral progress and justice."

The American people have of late been presented with some rather interesting chapters of history in connection with the Spanish war, one of the latest of these being the pathetic preliminary appeals of the Spanish government for European aid or intervention, sent before the war broke out, and the diplomatically expressed and meaningless offers of sympathy which they drew from various ministers of state. There is little in this chapter except the revelation that Spain was prudently disposed to call for help before it was attacked, a call which subsequent events showed was unheeded. There are conflicting statements as to the reasons why she found no helper and ally in her hour of need, but it is perhaps sufficient to know that the powers to which she looked regarded it wisest not to interfere in the quarrel with the United States.

Apparently it has not occurred to the committee of arrangements in charge of Prince Henry's visit to this country that he might not like the rapid pace they have set for him. With such a speedy schedule as has been prepared the prince will hardly be able to remember when he gets back to Berlin whether he passed through a Kansas cyclone or participated in a Hoboken schutzenfest.

It is said that Whitelaw Reid wrote poetry in his younger days. Alfred Austin, however, need have no fear that in the selection of Mr. Reid to attend the coronation there is any purpose of trespassing upon his preserves.

The new department of commerce will make nine cabinet portfolios against five under the late President George Washington. But, then, we have grown some since that time.

Recollections of a lively old couplet are awakened by President Roosevelt's appointment of a son of the late Governor Kent of Maine as chief justice of Colorado.

FOOD IN FRUIT SKINS.

Nutritive Qualities In Them Believed to Be a Brain Food.

There are more nutritive qualities hidden in the skins of fruits, cereals and vegetables than the average person is aware of. In fact, the great bulk of the brain building foods are in the skins of the fruits and vegetables we eat.

If, as Savarin says, "the destiny of nations depends on their food," then the destiny, whether a healthy long life or insanity or suicide of every unit of the United States depends on how he or she is fed.

If the breed so much depends upon food, why should not every person capable of normal thought seek to procure such food as best sustains his or her normality? Brain starvation, through the lack of suitable brain and nerve nourishment in our daily food, is the sole cause of the craving for stimulants to supply, as they do, artificially and improperly what nature has provided in a natural form in the skin of the grape, which contains the best part of the wine; in the skins of all fruits and vegetables, and if not in the skins of the cereals, how comes it that stimulating properties are extracted from them, as the inner kernel, the starch, is devoid of anything other than a heat giver?

It has been proved by chemical analysis and demonstrated by microscopic experiments that the most valuable brain sustaining properties are resident in all skins of cereals, fruits and vegetables; and as an instance of the great difference to the health resultant from partaking or rejecting the skins here is an incident that occurred in India, as told by an Indian officer:

A regiment was stationed in a part of the country where grapes were the chief article of food. The officers, one after another, became so sick as to be invalided as unfit for service, but it being considered remarkable that the troops were all well a commission of inquiry was instituted, when it was found that while every trooper in eating grapes swallowed the skins the officers followed the fashionable habit of rejecting them. It was then ordered that the officers should swallow the skins, which was done, with the result that they immediately recovered.

Thus it will be seen that the skin of the grape, besides being a brain feeder, possesses other healthful and nutritive qualities necessary to the sustenance of the human body. The reason why asparagus, cabbage, string beans, lettuce, spinach and other green vegetables are so wholesome is that the skins are not rejected.—Our Friend.

A Tough Negro.

Stories of brute toughness and Homeric endurance are tenderly preserved in the folklore of the water front—how, for instance, Scipio Flanagan, "the biggest nigger in the business," supported the entire weight of an immense packing case, weighing upward of 1,800, on his prostrate body. The negro held the hand truck to receive the case, which in the hands of half a dozen men was being balanced at just the right angle to slip into place. But it hit the edge of the truck and knocked it away, and the negro unthinkingly lost his footing and fell flat with the great box on top of him. He shrieked in terror and groaned, it was said, like a siren whistle, but when a gang of fifteen men lifted the thing bodily and pulled him out all he did was to screw his fists into his eyes like a big child, stretch his long limbs grotesquely and return to work. Of course he talked about this feat for many a day.—Frank Leslie's Monthly.

Old Delusions.

It is inexplicable how the old delusion that a man cannot eat one quail a day for thirty days holds its own. Any man can eat one quail a day for thirty days. At Lawrence some years ago Will Upton ate two quails a day for more than thirty days. For the first week or two he starved himself with the idea that he must keep up an appetite. After that he sometimes ate three or four of the birds in a day.

Another old fraud on the public is the belief that a horse cannot pull a sack of sand at the end of a two hundred foot rope. Any cow pony in Kansas will go off on a lope with such a sack.—Kansas City Journal.

The "Big Dipper."

In astronomy the "Big Dipper," so called, is in the constellation of Ursa Major, or the Great Bear. The stars forming the tail of the bear also form the handle of the dipper. The first star in the handle is Benetnasch, the second Mizar, the third Alkaid. The other four, which go to form the bowl of the dipper, are Megres, Phad, Merak and Duhde. The two last named are called "The Pointers," because they point or guide the eye to the pole star, which is distant 29 degrees. The top bowl stars are 10 degrees and the bottom ones 8 degrees apart.

"It wa'n't warm, but it was peaceful," says the man who lived in the chicken barn because his wife's relatives lived in the house. Thus the satisfaction of the mind transcends in importance the mere comforts of the body.—New York World.

HE FILLED THE BUCKET.

A Story of Grant When He Was a "Pleb," at West Point.

There is a story told of General Grant when a pleb. He had just entered on his first day in "pleb" camp. A first classman who had noticed the boy's strong build intimated to him it would be a pleasure to have him call immediately at the senior's tent. Grant went. There is a rule at West Point, which was a rule then as well, that any cadet who asks another to perform menial labor for him shall be dismissed from the service. The first classman knew too much to ask his pleb, visitor outright to do anything of the kind, but here is the way he went at it:

"I presume, Mr. Grant, that you have lived on a farm, and, this being the case, you have had undoubtedly a good opportunity to note the effect of the sun's rays on certain objects. Now, if you had left a water bucket that was innocent of holding a single drop of the fluid out in the sun from its rising to its setting, what do you think, sir, would be the particular effect upon that particular water bucket?"

"I think," said Grant, "that it would get warped and leaky."

"Very good, Mr. Grant. You show erudition beyond your years. Now, if you will notice my water bucket, you will see that it is as dry as a chip. Now, by the further exercise of your knowledge, Mr. Grant, can you tell me by what means I may prevent the warping and leaking of my bucket?"

"Have it filled," said Grant.

"Very good again, Mr. Grant, but note that you said 'have it filled,' not 'fill it.' That necessarily means that some one must fill it for me. You have shown so much acumen that I fear to violate your prescription either in letter or in spirit, which I should do if I presumed to carry the bucket to the water tank myself."

Grant filled the bucket.

PROTECTION OF WORDS.

A Plea For a Rest For Our Familiar Quotations.

In these days when everybody is writing and everybody seems to succeed would it not be well to start a society for the protection of words and phrases? Many of these are so brutally overworked by the amateur. The winged words, the words that burn, the thoughts that breathe, the telling phrases, do they not clamor loudly for a rest? That very sentence affords an illuminating example of what I mean. How apt, how vivid, how expressive it would be if all its epithets had not lost their vitality through overwork! To the sated reader the whole sentence is but the echo of an echo. It not merely means nothing, but it is robbed even of its sound and fury.

The greenhorn that complained of "Hamlet" that it was too full of quotations unconsciously expressed a great fact through the medium of a bull. In a wrongheaded way he pointed out that constant reiteration has reduced the grandest passages in the language to mere commonplace. Give our familiar quotations a rest. Lay to sleep our household words. Let fortune for awhile cease to favor the brave. Let us feign that the poet is made. Let a man who would steal another's thunder be arrested for felony. Let us win no more golden opinions. Let the favored few withdraw to some select seclusion and the countless thousands to some dry eyed privacy.

Thus may nouns, adjectives and phrases, after a long rest, reawaken with the freshness of the morning upon them, their original meanings recreated, energetic, effective, brilliant, as on the day when they were first conceived and brought forth.—Era.

Thought She Was a Calf.

When Mme. Schumann-Heink was thirteen, her father was transferred to Gratz, where a singing teacher, Marietta von Leclair, recognizing the young girl's talent, offered to give her singing lessons without compensation. For two years she studied nothing but solfeggios. Then she began learning songs. She had a very deep contralto without any high notes at that time. One day a caller, hearing her sing Schubert's "Der Tod und das Mädchen" in an adjoining room, said to her teacher, "I did not know that you taught young calves."

"She is not a young calf," replied Marietta von Leclair. "Some day she will be a great singer."—Gustav Kobbe in Woman's Home Companion.

The Antiquity of Wheat.

The Chinese cultivated wheat 2,700 years before the beginning of the Christian era, always considering it as a gift direct from heaven. Scientific agriculturists are of the opinion that it was widely known and cultivated by prehistoric man. At the present time it is the principal bread corn of the leading European nations and is fast supplanting the use of maize, or Indian corn, in the American states. The Egyptians attributed its origin to Isis and the Greeks to Ceres.

Troubles of a Hog.

Last Saturday the sun rose in all its beauty, but its beauty and glory was not shed on the residents of South Hawley street, as a cloud of some coming misfortune seemed to be hovering about them. And lo! before the hour hand pointed to nine, the son of Chas. Homuth came tearing over to a neighbor's for a long ladder.

But why a long ladder in such haste? Surely, something had happened. In one breath he told that a hog, having escaped from its enclosure, approached too close to the icy brink of a well, and fell in. In a moment it was at the bottom, calling to some dauntless rescuer for assistance. And he soon appeared. It was the younger son of its owner crawling down the ladder with the agility of a man of seventy-five years. Rope in hand, he descended half the length of the ladder, but seeing the ill-fated hog and two feet of ice water below, his heart sank within him, and in spite of the encouragements, he would go no farther. But his dauntless brother, who is several summer older, soon took his place, and having chopped a larger hole in the ice, he began the work of rescue. Having reached a suitable position, he threw his rope with a dexterity to be envied by the members of a life saving crew. Soon the porker was being drawn to the top by hands of neighbors. When released, he ran to the barn squealing and wagging his tail for joy. He soon found a pile of straw in which he reposed the rest of the day without further misfortune. The joy of the hog was not greater than that of its possessors.

After receiving the congratulations of the neighbors, who performed an active part in the rescue, they went back to the house rejoicing. May Barrington never again be visited by such a sad occurrence.

Lake County Won't Get It.

Lake county's chance for securing the Rural Home and School for Boys has gone glimmering, for Saturday the committee in charge of the matter received an offer from an agent of the Dole estate near the village of Crystal Lake. The land is to be given free and includes 700 acres of finely improved land and 400 acres of submerged land. A number of buildings are available for some purposes of the institution. The land is located one and one-half miles from the village of Crystal Lake.

Things Worth Going After.

Boys suits, specially designed for the confirmation season, $5, 5.85 and 6.45; boys' knee pants 19 and 25c; mens all wool suits 3.95; mens overcoats 4.85; all sizes of mens satin calf shoes, lace and congress, 98c; a new line of ladies percale wrappers, just in, 98c and $1.29; ladies undershirts, black, lined with outer flannel, 75 and 95c; just received, 118 dozen ladies fancy petticoats at 49c; mens flannel shirts 49c; black and white silk laces at 10 and 12c; fancy hat pins at 4 and 9c; remnants of best linings at 8c; 20 lbs. sugar for $1, 10 bars Lenox soap for 28c; 1-gal can pie peaches 15c; Herkimer county cream cheese 15c; selected peaberry coffee, 5 lbs for $1. These are prices which will save you money.

Something That Will Do You Good.

We know of no way in which we can be of more service to our readers than to tell them of something that will be of real good to them. For this reason we want to acquaint them with what we consider one of the very best remedies on the market for cough, colds, and that alarming complaint, croup. We refer to Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. We have used it with such good results in our family so long that it has become a household necessity. By its prompt use we haven't any doubt that it has time and again prevented croup. The testimony is given upon our own experience, and we suggest that our readers, especially those who have small children, always keep it in their home as a safeguard against croup.—Camden (S. C.) Miss Ella Mattern, who has been spending the past month in our village at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Spencer, returned to her home in Chicago Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Fuller and family, who have occupied the Mrs. Rugles residence for the past two years, moved into the rooms above the Cash store the first of the week.

W. H. Beard is again in our village renting deposit boxes in the new safe of L. C. Price & Son. The consideration is but $5 per year and anyone having valuable papers will find this a very convenient and safe place to keep them.

A reception and party was tendered Miss Lilah Golding by Misses Eloise Jenks and Lillian Tidmarsh at her home last Friday evening. About 14 guests were present and the evening was pleasantly spent at perchess, cards and music, interceded with refreshments. A most enjoyable time is reported.

The pupils of district No. 88, known as the Honey Lake school, will give a basket social at the school house Friday night, March 7. The pupils, under the supervision of their teacher, Miss Lilah Golding, will present a short program, after which the baskets will be sold to the highest bidders. All are cordially invited to attend, the admission of all without baskets being 10 cents.

Lincoln's birthday was celebrated by the G. A. R. and W. R. C. at the G. A. R. hall last Wednesday evening. A fine program was rendered, consisting of vocal and instrumental music, readings and recitations, the one of the "nine little girls" being especially interesting. This was followed by refreshments and no one failed to enjoy the affair.

The horse race on the ice Saturday between Lucella, owned by D. Fisher, and Gray Eagle, owned by A. E. Kirwan, proved an interesting and exciting event and considerable money changed hands as a result. Lucella captured the first, third and fourth heats, while Gray Eagle took but the second heat, although his backers had great confidence in him to the finish. A big crowd witnessed the race, all the local sports being out.

PIONEER AT REST.

Patrick McCabe, a pioneer settler of Wauconda township, died at his home, about 3 1/2 miles north of our village, Sunday morning at the advanced age of 86 years. He had been quite feeble for several years and had nearly lost sight and hearing, although he retained his speech to the last. Mr. McCabe was born near Lake Erin, in the county of Fermanagh, Ireland, in August, 1815. By trade he was a stone and brick mason and followed that occupation for a number of years.

On the 1st of May, 1836, he was united in marriage to Miss Ann Gallagher, a native of the same county in which her husband was born. They became parents of four sons and three daughters, the eldest of whom is James, with whom Mr. McCabe made his home for many years. He came to this country and landed in New York, where he remained for three years, after which he spent six years in Chicago working as a stone and brick mason. Afterwards he was employed by A. S. Sherman of Waukegan and about that time removed to Wauconda township, which was then a part of Cook county. A log cabin was built upon a 120 acre tract of land, which he entered, and began life in true pioneer style. On this land not a furrow had been turned or an improvement made. The nearest market was at Little Fort or Waukegan. The usual hardships and privations of pioneer life fell to his lot, and by hard and industrious labor soon worked his way to the front. His wife died June 10, 1888, while attending services at the Catholic church in our village. Both Mr. and Mrs. McCabe were devout christians, being members of the Roman Catholic church.

The funeral was held Tuesday at 10 a. m. from the Catholic church in our village, Rev. Father O'Neil officiating, after which the remains were interred in the Catholic cemetery.

THE DUST OF WASHINGTON

The tombs of England's honored dead
Are, like her annals, grand;
Leaning o'er Chatham's buried head,
Drooping by Nelson's trophied bed,
As if their hearts of marble bled,
Art's silent mourners stand.

But how, my country, hast thou shrined
Thy patriot-heroes' dust?
Hath he, in whose majestic mind
All human virtues were combined—
Hath he—the champion of mankind—
Carved urn or laurel bust?

No—from his tomb th' unsculptured stones,
Mildewed, and broken, fall;
No marble warders guard his bones,
His grave nor state nor nation owns,
And he who startled Europe's thrones
Neglected lies of all.

The monuments that Nature gave
Are melting fast away;
The branches that were wont to wave
Like banners, o'er the good and brave,
Torn rudely from his hallowed grave,
Are speculation's prey.

Conquered Cornwallis rests in state,
So Howe and Clinton lie;
For Britain bars not glory's gate
Against e'en her defeated great,
While we to him, whose sword was fate,
A fitting tomb deny.

Sons of the soil—helps of the fame
Earth's purest patriot won,
Let not his memory be your shame,
The sordid ransom give, and claim
The dust of Washington!

Early Selected for High Honors

Although Col. Washington retired to a private station at Mount Vernon at the close of the frontier warfare, he did not neglect his duties to the public. Still holding the office of adjutant-general of the militia, he circulated orders for them to assemble at certain times and places to be exercised and reviewed. So much were the inhabitants alarmed at the recent successes of the enemy, that their martial spirit received a new impulse, and volunteer companies began to be organized. Their ardor was stimulated from the pulpit and it was in a sermon to one of these companies that the accomplished and eloquent Samuel Davies pronounced the celebrated encomium in a single sentence, which has often been quoted as prophetic. After praising the zeal and courage which has been shown by the Virginia troops, the preacher added: "As a remarkable instance of this, I may point out to the public that heroic youth, Col. Washington, whom I cannot but hope Providence has hitherto preserved in so signal a manner for some important service to his country." This was but the echo of the general voice, and it is a proof of the high estimation in which the character of Washington was at that time held by his countrymen, and of the hopes it had raised.

Patrick Henry's Worthy Tribute

Mr. Wirt relates an anecdote of Washington which shows in what estimation he was held by the members of the first Congress. Soon after Patrick Henry returned home, being asked "whom he thought the greatest man in Congress," he replied, "If you speak of eloquence, Mr. Rutledge of South Carolina is by far the greatest orator; but, if you speak of solid information and sound judgment, Colonel Washington is unquestionably the greatest man on that floor." This opinion was verified by every act of his life. His knowledge, on the subjects to which he gave his attention, was most thorough and exact; and all the world has agreed that no other man has given such proofs of the soundness of his judgment.

Absolute Stranger to Physical Fear

An anecdote is related by an historian illustrative of Washington's resolution and courage. A person of lawless habits and reckless character had frequently entered upon the grounds near Mount Vernon, and shot ducks and other game. More than once he had been warned to desist, and not to return. It was his custom to cross the Potomac in a canoe, and ascend the creeks to some obscure place, where he could be concealed from observation. One day, hearing the discharge of a musket, Washington mounted his horse, and rode in the direction of the sound. The intruder discovered his approach, and had just time to gain the canoe and push it from the shore, when Wash-ton emerged from the bushes at the distance of a few yards. The man raised his gun, cocked it, pointed it at him, and took deliberate aim; but, without a moment's hesitation, Washington rode into the water, seized the prow of the canoe, drew it to land, disarmed his antagonist, and inflicted on him a chastisement, which he never again chose to run the hazard of encountering.

Mrs. Washington's Noble Character

In the course of the year following the French and Indian war, Col. Washington had paid his addresses successfully to Mrs. Martha Custis, to whom he was married on the 6th of January, 1759. This lady was three months younger than himself, widow of John Parke Custis, and distinguished alike for her beauty, accomplishments and wealth. She was the daughter of John Dandridge. At the time of her second marriage she had two children, a son and a daughter, the former six years old, the latter four. Mr. Custis had left large landed estates in New Kent County, and forty-five thousand pounds sterling in money. One-third part of this property she held in her own right, the other two-thirds being equally divided between her children.

By this marriage an accession of more than one hundred thousand dollars was made to Col. Washington's fortune, which was already considerable in the estate at Mount Vernon, and other lands which he had selected during his surveying expeditions, and obtained at different times. To the management of his extensive private affairs his thoughts now turned. He also took upon himself the guardianship of Mrs. Washington's two children, and the care of their property.

ty, which trust he discharged with all the faithfulness and assiduity of a father, till the son became of age, and till the daughter died in her nineteenth year. This union was in every respect felicitous. It continued forty years. To her intimate acquaintances and to the nation, the character of Mrs. Washington was ever a theme of praise. Affable and courteous, exemplary in her deportment, remarkable for her deeds of charity and piety, unostentatious and without vanity, she adorned by her domestic virtues the sphere of private life, and filled with dignity every station in which she was placed.

THE "LAST SUPPER" HYMN.

Possibility That It Has Come Down to the Present Time.

On that climacteric evening, when He and His disciples sat at their last supper, after he had blessed the bread and given it to them as His body, and the wine as His blood, and had declared: "But I say unto you, I will not drink henceforth of this fruit of the vine, until that day when I drink it new with you in my Father's kingdom!" it would seem that the emotions of the moment had risen to that point where words do not bring comfort; and so I find the might of music working in the next verse (of Matthew xxvi., 30), which records, "And when they had sung an hymn they went out into the Mount of Olives." If we but knew the tune of that hymn!

Here, you observe, as far back as the beginning of our era, we find the world in possession of a stock of tunes. There can be little doubt that the melodies which the disciples sang with Christ in person were handed down and formed the body of those collections which Bishop Ambrose, and after him Pope Gregory, brought together, and it is possible enough that the hymn which Christ and His apostles sang was sung yesterday in some church of America, for we have tunes in our Psalmody—not to speak of the Gregorian tunes still surviving as plain chant in the Catholic churches—which have come down from quite immemorial times, and the path of church music, as I have shown, leads directly back to this hymn which was sung on the evening of the last supper.—Sidney Lanier in Lippincott's Magazine.

Held Court on a Train.
A writer in the New York Tribune tells of an unusual event which occurred in a passenger train in the Creek Indian nation a few years ago. A certain United States commissioner was anxious to clear his docket before another session of the federal court. He did not live in the town where his court was situated and made the trip there at intervals of two weeks. Coming back from court one night he met on the train attorneys for each party in a felony case. The accused and witnesses were present. It was fortunate, indeed, that the prosecutor was along; not uncommon, however, for all lived in the same town, up the road fifty miles. The astute judge saw how he was to be rid of that case in a hurry, so he convened court in the front part of a smoking car, installed the brake-man and conductor as bailiffs, and the case proceeded. Arriving at his station, the train was held five minutes to complete the pleas and rendition of a decision. It happened that the man was convicted, his sentence there pronounced, and the same train that took him a free man carried him on to prison condemned, his keeper being a deputy delegated to take him to prison.

When Knox Got Mad.
Attorney General Knox, while a practicing attorney, was one of the busiest lawyers in America. A few years ago he was much put out because he had to accept a fee of $50,000. A friend met him as he was leaving the office and he was swearing mad. He was quivering with vexation and swearing with piratical vigor. "What's it all about this time?" asked the friend, who was used to his ways, and not much concerned over the outburst. "I have been knocked out of a trip to Egypt." "What?" "That's worse than I thought. What did it?" "My folks want me to make an argument in a case, and I told them I could not be here. They told me to fix my price, and I said $50,000, thinking that would put them out of mind. It did not. They took me up, and my plans are all upset."

Chamberlain Must Have Smiled.
John Redmond's recent ironical tribute to Joseph Chamberlain in a parliamentary debate, "You ought to be made king," recalls the fact that this is not the first time the colonial secretary has been recommended for a higher post than he seems likely to reach. The first recommendation, however, was not made in irony but in the good faith of perfect tipsiness. It was at the time Queen Victoria visited Birmingham, fifteen years ago. Chamberlain's carriage was blocked for some minutes and he found himself the object of a fluent and somewhat disordered harangue from a member of the crowd who had fortified himself extensively against the labors of the day. "Ye ain't in office now, Joe," ran the peroration, "but I'll tell yer what I sees in the future. I sees Hengland and Hamerica unlonated into one republic—yus, and you'll be the fust president."

Woman School Superintendent.
Miss Estelle Reel of Wyoming, enjoys the distinction of having received the only appointment bestowed by the present administration upon a woman. She is the national superintendent of Indian schools for the United States, and travels constantly over the length and breadth of the land, visiting schools and organizing and establishing innovations in the line of manual training on the various reservations. Miss Reel traveled 24,000 miles last year—more than half of the distance by stage-coach.

NO GOOD UNTIL HANGED.

Grim Humor of an English Judge When Imperturbed for Mercy.

A recent allusion in a London journal to Mistress Quickly's remark, "Hang-hog is the Latin for bacon," has sent a correspondent on the search and he concludes that the late Ignatius Donnelly knew that Shakespeare was familiar with one of Sir Francis Bacon's jokes, which finds a curious echo in the quoted retort. Thus runs the witticism:

Sir Nicholas Bacon being appointed a judge for the northern circuit, was by one of the malefactors mightily imperturbed to save his life, which, when nothing he had said did avail, he at length desired his mercy on account of his kindred.

"Prythee," said my lord judge, "how came that in?"

"Why, if it please you, my lord, your name is Bacon and mine is Hog, and in all ages Hog and Bacon have been so near kindred that they are not to be separated."

"Ay, but," replied Judge Bacon, "you and I cannot be kindred except you be hanged, for hog is not bacon until it be well hanged."

He Clinched It.
Erie, Kans., Feb. 17th.—In July of 1900, W. H. Ketchum of this place was suddenly seized with a violent pain in his back. He says he supposed it was a "stitch" and would soon pass away, but it lasted five months and caused him great soreness, so that he was barely able to get out of bed. He became alarmed and consulted a doctor which only increased his anxiety and did him no good.

A friend who had some experience advised him to use Dodd's Kidney Pills. Mr. Ketchum began with six pills a day and in a week was well and the soreness all gone. However, this did not satisfy him, for he says: "I thought I would clinch the cure with another box and I did. I have had no recurrence of the trouble since and as this is over a year ago I am thoroughly convinced that Dodd's Kidney Pills have completely cured me."

What "Miscreant" Meant.
The word miscreant formerly signified only an unbeliever, an infidel, Joan of Arc, in the literature of her time, was called a miscreant.

CONQUERS PAIN!

FREE A NEW CURE FOR KIDNEY AND BLADDER Diseases, Rheumatism, etc.

Disorders of the Kidneys and Bladder cause Bright's Disease, Rheumatism, Gravel, Pain in the Back, Bladder Disorders, difficult or too frequent passing water, Dropsy, etc. For these diseases a Positive Specific Cure is found in a new botanical discovery, the wonderful Kava-Kava Shrub, called by botanists the piper methysticum, from the Ganges River, East India. It has the extraordinary record of 1,500 hospital cures in 30 days. It acts directly on the Kidneys, and cures by draining out of the Blood the poisonous Uric Acid, Lithates, etc., which cause the disease. Rev. John H. Watson, testifies in the New York World, that it has saved him from the edge of the grave when dying of Kidney disease and terrible suffering when passing water. Mr. James Thomas, Esq., of the Board of Review Bureau of Pensions, Washington, D. C., writes: "Was cured of a usually fatal Kidney Trouble after many physicians had failed and he had given up all hope of recovery. Hon. R. C. Wood, a prominent attorney of Lowell, Ind., was cured of Chronic Rheumatism, Kidney and Bladder Disease of ten years standing by Allevis. Many ladies including Mrs. E. R. Blismore, South Deerfield, Mass., and Mrs. James Young, Kent, Ohio, also testify to its wonderful curative power in Kidney and allied disorders peculiar to womanhood."

That you may judge the value of this Great Discovery for yourself, we will send you One Large Case by mail Free, only asking that when cured yourself you will recommend it to others. It is a Sure Specific and can not fail. Address: The Chicago Kidney Cure Company, 406 Fourth Ave., New York.

TO MOTHERS

Mrs. J. H. Haskins, of Chicago, Ill., President Chicago Arcade Club, Addresses Comforting Words to Women Regarding Childbirth.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Mothers need not dread childbirth after they know the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. While I loved children I dreaded the ordeal, for it left me weak and sick for months after, and at the time I thought death was a welcome relief; but before my last child was born a good neighbor advised Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I used that, together with your Pills and Sanative Wash for four months before the child's birth;—it brought me wonderful relief. I hardly had an ache or pain, and when the child was ten days old I left my bed strong in health. Every spring and fall I now take a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and find it keeps me in continual excellent health."

Mrs. J. H. HASKINS, 3248 Indiana Ave., Chicago, Ill.—$5000 forfeit if above testimony is not genuine.

Care and careful counsel is what the expectant and would-be mother needs, and this counsel she can secure without cost by writing to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass.

BARRINGTON LOCALS.

The "Deestrick Skule,"

At Stott's Hall, Friday evening,
February 28. Everybody is going.

Every girl imagines she can sing—
so does every frog.

The infant son, Isaac Willard, of Mr.
and Mrs. I. B. Fox, died Feb. 9.

A number of Palatine people attended the band concert here Thursday evening.

Material is on the ground for the extension of the telephone line to Chicago Highlands.

Election for judge of the 17th judicial district will be held in the town of Cuba, next Tuesday, Feb. 25.

August Hawk has bought a small farm near Hollister's corners and will remove there the 1st of March.

Have you tried that grated horse radish at Alverson's? It will give you the spring feeling if once used.

Fred Wolf has rented one of the Mc-Intosh cottages on Washington street and will remove there March 1st.

Zornow & Wichman, general blacksmiths, have dissolved partnership.
Edward Wichman will continue the business.

The parsonage of the Baptist church
is to be freshly decorated, previously to its occupancy by the new pastor
and family.

The pupils of the Honey Lake district school will give a basket social next Friday evening. A fine program has been prepared.

Go to Alverson's for Armour's Star
hams and bacon—none better cured.
Give them a trial. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

The regular business meeting of the Epworth League will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Meyer, Tuesday evening, Feb. 25.

A new book of rules will soon be issued by the Northwestern road concerning the movements of trains and train signals. All employees will be examined on the new rules.

The postoffice will be open today from 7 a.m. to 10 a.m., from 2 p.m. to 3 p.m. and from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m. The Barrington bank will be closed all day in observance of Washington's birthday.

The Republican county executive committee of Lake county has as yet
set no date for the county convention, although it is generally believed an early convention will be held. Candidates are numerous.

Waukegan is to have a fine new public library, owing to the generous gift of Andrew Carnegie who contributed $25,000 toward the project. The city has pledged $2,500 per annum to maintain this great public convenience.

The Ladies Aid society of the Methodist church is so well patronized by those wishing plain sewing done, that the ladies are obliged to hold extra meetings. The society now has sixty-nine members and much interest is shown in the work.

The five o'clock tea given last Saturday afternoon by Mrs. M. C. McIntosh to a small number of friends, was greatly enjoyed. A short program, consisting of music and readings, was rendered. The table decorations were most artistically arranged and an excellent luncheon served.

Mrs. P. Dinan will sell at auction on her farm, three miles south of Wau-conda and two miles north of Lake Zurich, on Wednesday, February 26, commencing at 10 o'clock, 19 cows, 10
milchers, balance springers, 6 yearling heifers, 2 yearling bulls, 2 mares, pigs, farming tools, feed and grain.

The aged farrow cow is a cannor by predestination, but sometimes fails to work out her destiny, and a lot of kindly disposed persons in the community are innocently compelled to eat her up as prime steer fed beef. It does not seem so bad when a Chicago picnic party works her up with beer and pretzels.

The pound social, given by the pupils of the Davlin school, district No.
87, marked the closing of the winter term of that school. The pupils scored a grand success and proved themselves
royal entertainers. The recitations, and songs were rendered most acceptably and were well received. After the program, Ray Kimberly, acting as auctioneer, sold pound of eatibles to the highest bidders. A neat sum was realized, which will go towards supplying the school with books, which are badly needed.

Rev. Blanchard will preach at the Baptist church tomorrow.

Now the talk is of the village election. A number of Barkisis are willin'.

This is Washington's birthday anniversary and is deserving of special observance.

Sympathy is all right in its proper place, but there are times when a kick
would be far more effective.

Arnold Schauble will build an addition 40x50 to his machine shop and increase his facilities for manufacturing.

F. L. Waterman has been drawn as a member of the Lake county petit jury, and Fred Kirschner a member of the grand jury, for the March term.

FOR RENT—For cash, farm containing 105 acres, 3½ miles north-west of Barrington. 80 acres under cultivation, balance hay land. Apply to Mrs.
Harriet Fellows, Barrington.

J. Joppa has removed his stock of jewelry, clocks and watches to Palatine and consolidated with his stock there. Mr. Joppa found that he could not conduct two places of business at a profit.

Mayflower camp, Royal Neighbors, brought their goat and side-saddle into use Monday evening, and initiated 4 candidates into the mysteries of the order. A luncheon was served and a general good time was the result.

A Chicago syndicate is securing options on about 2,000 acres of land near Fox river, in McHenry and Lake counties, lying between Volo and Nunda. The land includes Lily Lake and Lake Defiance and is not very valuable as farm land.

There never was a bigger mistake
made by any merchant than for him to think that he has reached a point where he could do without advertising. He may not realize it, but when he stops the more enterprising merchant is gradually taking his business away from him.

Henry Schaefer, who resides on the
F. E. Hawley farm, 1½ miles west of Barrington and 7½ miles east of Algonquin, will sell at public auction on Tuesday, February, commencing at 10 o'clock, the following: 6 work horses, 3 yearling bulls, 40 hogs, 9 sows with pigs, farming implements, grain and feed.

The local paper is the one thing by which strangers judge the size of a town and the ability of its business men, hence, the paper that does not have the advertisement of every business in its town is forced to misrepresent it. The paper is a mirror that should reflect a true picture of the town and every business conducted therein.

Mr. and Mrs. George Hagef and daughter Edith entertained their friends at a party Friday night of last week at their home, north-west of town. Cards and games afforded much and pleasure, as well as the goodly supper served. Mr. Hill and son Wallace furnished music. The party was in honor of the day, and each guest was presented with a valentine.

Several young men made an exhibition of their ill manners and poor bringing up by a series of cat calls and other unearthly sounds at the village hall during the band concert. Such ungentlemanly conduct ought not to be tolerated for a moment. A good cure for members of "the rowdies" is to throw them out of a window or refuse them admittance to public gatherings
of any character.

The annual report of the Chicago
& Northwestern Railway for the calender year ended on Dec. 31, 1901, has just been issued. It shows the following: Miles of road, 5,638; gross earnings, $45,916,020; expenses, $29,126,052;
net, $16,789,968; charges, $6,042,409;
balance for stockholders, $10,747,559;
dividends, $3,914,394; surplus, $66,833,- 165; new equipment, etc., $4,169,626;
balance, $2,663,639.

The Country Town's Federation
have arranged a program for a public meeting for the discussion of questions of vital interest to the taxpayers of Cook county. All citizens interested in the welfare of their town and wishing to see that the municipality of Chicago does not encroach on their rights, should attend the meeting or be represented by delegates. The meeting will be held in the County Board rooms, Chicago, today, Saturday.

John Nicholson, who for the past two years has resided in our village has received a promotion and appointment
as inspector of signal lights on locomotives running out of the main round house at West Fortieth avenue and Chicago avenue round house of the C. & N. W. Railway, and has entered upon his duties. For two years
John has served as fireman on Wm.
Thorp's flyer, 678, and a better or more universally respected railroad employee ever made in Barrington a home. His many friends here are pleased at his promotion but regret to see him and his estimable wife remove to Chicago. May only good fortune attend them.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Mrs. Wm. Ryan visited with friends at Cary the past week.

Mrs. Frank Robertson is recovering from her recent illness.

Mrs. Herman Jahnholtz visited relatives at Elgin Monday.

Mrs. Brashear of Chicago called on friends here Thursday.

Philip Starke and wife of Chicago
visited here Thursday and Friday.

Enoch Colby and wife returned last Saturday from a visit to Chicago.

Lewis Comstock has returned home
after an absence of nearly a year.

M. C. McIntosh has been visiting relatives in New York state the past week.

Miss Elnora Arps of Palatine was the guest of Miss Amanda Kampert,
Thursday.

Miss Olive Murdoch of Des Plaines
was the guest of Mrs. Fred T. Stott, Thursday.

G. C. Roberts is again at his place of business after a week's absence at his Wauconda home.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Meister and Mrs.
H. Walbaum visited with relatives at Crystal Lake last week.

Miss Carrie Schaefer of Chicago is the guest of her uncle and aunt, Mr.
and Mrs. George Schaefer.

Miss Rose Locke will depart next week for an extended visit with relatives and friends at Marseilles, Ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Beinhoff of South Chicago spent Saturday and Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Beinhoff.

Miss Clara Harrison entertained a number of her friends at the home of her sister, Mrs. J. E. Heise, Wednesday evening, several different games
being played and during the evening light refreshments were served. The guests departed at a late hour, having spent a most enjoyable evening.
Those present were: Mr. and Mrs.
Henry W. Meyer, Misses Alma Stief-enhofer, Luella Plagge, Messrs. Bert Gieske, Max Lines and Roy Myers.

The Thursday club was entertained
Thursday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. Clara Fackelman. The usual program was rendered, after which a tea was served. Mrs. Fackelman is a very efficient hostess, and the ladies enjoyed a very happy afternoon. Mrs.
Bertha Hawley and baby daughter of Elgin were guests of Mrs. Fackelman.
The club will be entertained next Thursday at the home of Mrs. Jennie Powers.

Rev. Mayhew, the new pastor of the Baptist church, preached to two good sized audiences last Sunday, morning and evening. He will begin his pastorate one week from Sunday. Rev.
Mayhew is a gentleman who has a factully of getting acquainted and will, make a strong effort to attract those without a church home to the Baptist house of worship. All classes of our people deeply regret the departure of
Rev. Blanchard, who expects to bid Barrington farewell the first part of the coming month.

In another column will be found the announcement of Hon. Geo. R. Lyon of Waukegan, who is for the fourth time, a candidate for the legislature.
Mr. Lyon stands on his record as a representative and can well afford to do so. His services were acceptable to the voters of Lake county, as his election for three successive terms, proves. In the Republican convention he will, no doubt, meet with opposition as there are many voters who do not believe in a fourth term. Who his chief opponent will be is not really known. The name of A. K. Stearns, editor of the Waukegan Sun, is mentioned and Mr.
Stearns is willing to take the nomination. Geo. Rice of Lake Forest, an editorial writer on the Chicago Daily News, is a candidate, and may develop considerable strength in the convention, as it is understood he is making a "still hunt" along the north shore.
Mr. Lyon has, in some respects, the advantage in the race as it now appears. The people will choose.

W. R. C. Sleigh Ride.

Three sleigh loads of merry W. R.
C. ladies left Barrington last Friday morning for the hospitable home of E. W. Prouty of Barrington Center, where they had been invited in honor of the birthday of Mr. Prouty's mother, Mrs. Kate Prouty, who is also a member of the W. R. C. They arrived there about 10 o'clock, and after the greetings were over, Mrs. Emma Wool,
the president, in behalf of the Corps,
presented Mrs. Prouty with a beautiful chair. She also received numerous other presents. Then came the dinner; such a dinner would go anyone's eyes good to look at. There were forty set down to dinner and they did it justice from the first course of oyster soup to the last of ice cream.

There were speeches, recitations,
singing and reading, and altogether
the afternoon was gone before those present realized it. All departed, wishing Mrs. Prouty many happy returns of the day, and all agreed that E. W.

Prouty and wife were model entertainers. Besides those from Barrington,
there were guests from Elgin,
Woodstock and Barrington Center.

A MUSICAL TREAT

Was the Barrington M. W. A. Band
Concert Given Thursday Evening.

The annual concert of the Barrington
M. W. A. band, assisted by the Ladies' Military band, given Thursday evening at the village hall, under the efficient management of Prof. C.
S. Horn, was the chief musical event of the season. The hall was uncomfortably crowded by an appreciative audience.

Adding interest to the program was a new feature in Barrington entertainments in the way of a young ladies'
musical organization—the Military Band. The close attention, the harmony of time and the composure of the young ladies were worthy of much commendation. A pleasing effect was given by the white gowns worn which made attractive uniforms.

The M. W. A. band never appeared to better advantage than on this occasion and showed a pronounced improvement during the past year, and Barrington has just cause to be proud of the band which bears its name. A judicious mingling of the classical and the capricious in music reached the tastes of all. The male chorus, "The Tar's Song," merits sincere appreciation and the individual singing favorable comment. Humorous readings by Mrs. Myrtle Bennett and Charles Weincke, were well received and created great amusement.

"The Stampede," descriptive of a hunting scene, showed the talent of the musicians. The trombone solo, Adams' masterpiece, "The Holy City," was effectively rendered by John H.
Kampert.

Every number of the program was repeatedly encored and heartily enjoyed.

Honored Old Age.

Mrs. Hannah Jackson of Grove avenue celebrated her 88th birthday on Thursday. Mr. and Mrs. Jackson enjoy the distinction of being the oldest couple residing in our village—Mr.
Jackson being in his 93rd year. New Year's the couple celebrated the 63rd anniversary of their marriage. Both are in good health considering their advanced age, and retain to a remarkable degree all their faculties.

There are but few who can boast of so many years of life work as this venerable and highly esteemed couple;
few who can recite the happenings of seventy years ago, when our country was in its swaddling clothes. The lives of Mr. and Mrs. Jackson are illustrated by experiences, trials and tribulations of which the present generation can only read. They grew to manhood and womanhood when the star of the empire had barely started on its westward course and are living witnesses of the great development of the country. Ere long The Review will present to its readers portraits and biographical sketches of this aged couple, whom our citizens wish may be spared to complete more than a century of life.

The "Deestrick Skule."

This is one of the best humorous entertainments on the boards and will be given at Stott's hall, next Friday evening, by the members of the Dorcas society and their friends. The entertainment gives a picture of the old time school room, and the pupils recite, play and follow out the routine of school room mischief. The scene presents the last day of school when the closing exercises take place; the "Committee Men" and parents visit the skule and all sorts of humorous incidents ensue. Admission 25 and 15 cents. Pack the hall and enjoy 180 laughs in 180 minutes.

To the Electors of Lake County.

I have decided to allow my name to again go before the Republican Convention of Lake county for the re-nomination for the legislature. My record in the General Assembly is an open book, and I feel that I am qualified to protect the agricultural interests of the county as well as the interests of every individual citizen, and ask your support in the election of delegates.

GEO. R. LYON.

Waukegan, Feb. 17, 1902.

THE HIGHER LIFE.

EDITED BY HACKNEY.

The little sharp vexations,
And the briars that catch and fret,
Why not take all to the Helper
Who has never failed us yet?
Tell Him about the heartache,
And tell him the longings, too;
Tell him the baffled purpose
When we scarce know what to do;
Then, leaving all our weakness
With the One divinely strong,
Forget that we bore the burden,
And carry away the song.—Brooks.

In life troubles will come which seem as if they would never pass away.
The night and the storm look as if they would last forever, but the calm and the morning cannot be stayed.
The storm in its very nature is transient. The effort of nature, as of the human heart, is ever to return to its repose, for God is peace.

Love is not self-centered; it is not a selfish principle, nor is it quiescent or indifferent. Love is the soul of action, the essence of service. Disinterested deeds are only love made visible. Love acts not only upon appeal,
but it is forever appealing for help.
Love differentiates itself in brave deeds, patient endurance, willingness to bear reproach, in undertaking for others, in dying, if need be for them.
Love is not easily provoked, thinkest
no evil. "Love beareth all things, hopeth
all things, believeth all things, hopeth
all things, endureth all things." Love is the sum of all virtues.

Indecision is many a man's ruin.
This is true spiritually as well as temporally. The soul's safety demands prompt action. "Now is the accepted time. Now is the day of salvation."
It may be now or never with you.

Every attempt to make others happy, every sin left behind, every temptation trampled under foot, every step forward in the cause of what is good,
is a step nearer heaven.

When we shirk the duties that belong to us, we are robbing ourselves of something that belongs to us, something we will need by and by. That is the training and experience which the doing of these duties would give us.

"Constant dropping will wear away a stone," the old adage tells us. And constant teasing will sometimes wear out a mother's patience. Almost every boy and girl needs an occasional reminder to the effect that it is best to believe a mother's nay means nay, and her yea, yea.

When we speak of strange or mysterious providences it is because we are looking at things from the human standpoint. Ignorance finds puzzles everywhere. The sprouting of a seed and the opening of a flower and the turning of a leaf are all mysterious because our best knowledge only imperfectly grasps the laws under which these changes take place. To an infinite wisdom our little world, which to us is full of difficult problems, presents nothing strange nor perplexing.
God is love, and love is the explanation of all that he sends to his children.

Sympathy is a large factor in human power. It means more, as an element of strength and success, than brawn or brains, than skill or experience. Whatever one has in himself, or in these faculties or possessions, if he has the added gain of real sympathy, his power is at least doubled.
"Sympathy" is the sharing of another's burdens; literally, it means "to suffer with another in his sorrows and in his joys." Bacon says: "There is no man that imparteth his joy to his friend but he joyeth the more; and no man imparteth his griefs to his friends but he grieveth the less." Who is there who would not feel greatly helped by another who could double his joys and halve his sorrows? He who has a sympathizing friend has one who can do this for him. He who is in full sympathy with another has power to do this for that other. Many a strong man would fall and fail if it were not for sympathy. Many an efficient man is enabled to do his best work through the help of sympathy of which no one but himself knows.
