PALATINE HAPPENINGS.

Events Past, Present and Future of Village and Vicinity.

Gathered and Compiled by A. G. Smith, Local Editor.

Read THE REVIEW.

Mrs. Harry Schoppe visited her parents in Chicago Sunday.

Attorney Lou Bennett of Barrington was in town on business Monday.

Miss Mae Baker has gone to Chicago to spend a few weeks with Mrs. Schaffer.

Mrs. Chas. Patten started for Florida last week, where she will spend the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Bode of Elgin were guests of their aunt, Mrs. G. H. Arps, and family Saturday and Sunday.

Mrs. Chas. Nichols will entertain the Woman's Foreign Missionary society at the home of Mrs. J. A. Burlingame next Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. West and Mrs. Gray have returned to Palatine to live. George Gray is in a Chicago hospital, suffering from a serious case of blood poisoning.

The school districts in the township have been renumbered as follows: No. 3, to 12; No. 8, to 13; No. 5, to 14; No. 4, to 16; No. 7, to 17; No. 2, to 18; No. 1, to 19 and No. 9, to 10.

Mr. Quinsberry, a special deputy of the Court of Honor, spoke before the local lodge Thursday night of last week, and gave the members valuable pointers on keeping up the interest of the order.

H. C. Hitzemann expects to occupy the store now occupied by Henry Senne as a meat market, combining it with his present store. This will give him much needed room and make a large store. The change will not take place for some time.

L. V. Clarke scheduled his household goods, which were held by a custodian, and the appraisers estimated same to be worth a little over $280. Mr. Clarke took about 1,300 pigeons to make up the $400, which he was entitled to, and the balance of the property, including pigeons, etc., were sold Tuesday. Mr. Cox, a commission man of Chicago, bought the pigeons. The lot is still a matter of litigation.

Charles Swick, an old resident of this place, was brought here for burial last Saturday. He went to Dundee the first of last week to live with his daughter, Mrs. Tom Swick, where he died suddenly of apoplexy Thursday. He leaves a widow and several children. For the past few years he was deprived of his eye sight and made brooms for a living. He was buried in the Hillside cemetery.

Town Officers.

Office seekers are cropping out and it now looks as though the caucus will be an interesting one. We have heard of no one who wants to fill the position of assessor. J. H. Schirding is a candidate for re-election as assessor. A. C. Sefton, Chris Kublank, Chas. Griswold and Chas. Wentz are out for collector. Ed Lincoln is out for town clerk. John Krefz says he will again act as commissioner of highways if the people want him and C. E. Julian says the same as school trustee.

Let the people begin to think of the election and make up their minds to select the best men obtainable for the offices. A poor official is a source of embarrassment to a town or village and their faults cast a reflection upon those who put them in power. Vote for the candidate who will best fill the offices.

Louis F. Stroker.

Louis F. Stroker was born October 17, 1867, in Chicago and died at Palatine on Tuesday, February 25, 1902. Lou was around Wednesday of last week and the next day was stricken with typhoid pneumonia. Although seriously ill from the start, his many friends entertained hopes of his recovery, but his stoutness was against him and he passed away Tuesday afternoon. The deceased was a young man of exceptional strength and fine physique. He was always of a cheerful disposition and had a host of friends. He came to Palatine with his parents in 1876 and attended the public school of this place. Until recently he worked for Swift & Stroker, real estate agents in Chicago.

The funeral services were held at his mother's home yesterday afternoon, Rev. J. C. Hoffmeister preaching the funeral sermon. The Athletic club quartette, composed of Peter Knowe, Henry Pahlman, Ernest Beutler and

Will Mosser, sang appropriate music. A large assembly gathered to help lay him to rest and many floral tributes were sent as tokens of remembrance. The remains were laid to rest beside those of his father, brother and sister in the Hillside cemetery. Mrs. Stroker and family have the sympathy of their many friends in their bereavement.

Woodmen to be Social.

At the last meeting of the Woodmen camp it was decided to use the hall as a place of amusement for the lodge members. A committee on social entertainment was appointed and they were donated a sum to buy two carpet ball outfits for the hall. The lodge room will be open to members at any time they wish to gather there. It was also decided to hold two meetings a month, one of which is to be a purely social affair for members and their ladies only. A drama committee was appointed, who are arranging for another presentation before many weeks.

The Woodmen have made a grand move in the right direction and have done the one thing to hold the member's interest in the order.

Will Break the Record.

The report of the American Iron and Steel association upon the production of pig iron during 1901 presents official confirmation of the prediction, says the Pittsburgh Dispatch, that the current year will furnish a record in the iron industry. The production during the first half of last year exceeded the second half of the previous year by 1,500,000 tons, and the second half of 1901 exceeded the first half by 529,000 tons, the total increase over 1900 being 2,089,000 tons, a larger increase than the boom year of 1899 showed over 1898. Stock in the hands of manufacturers or under their control, not intended for their own requirements, amounted to but 70,647 tons at the close of the year, compared to 442,370 tons a year before and to 372,500 tons on June 31, 1901. There were 266 furnaces in blast Dec. 31, as to 232 a twelvemonth previous and 259 in June. These figures, considering that freight congestion, through difficulty in securing coke, curtailed production, are most satisfactory. They show that the demand is steadily increasing and point to an even greater demand and production during the present year.

POLITICAL POT BOILS.

A. K. Stearns Announces His Candidacy for Legislature.

There is going to be a hot time in the Lake county republican convention between the forces of George R. Lyon and A. K. Stearns, aspirants for the nomination as candidate for legislative honors. These gentlemen fought a pitched battle two years ago, and, although Mr. Stearns claims he had a majority of the delegates in the convention, Mr. Lyons was given the nomination. The editor of the Sun has ever since that eventful day been perfecting plans to capture the coveted honor, and has a following which will be difficult for Mr. Lyons's friends to capture.

The Stearns contingent are known as the Seuator Mason phalanx, while the element backing Mr. Lyons are favorable to no particular candidate for senator, but want an unpledged representative.

The following announcement by Editor Stearns tells its own story:

A new campaign is about to open in Lake county.

Two years ago I was a candidate before the republican voters for the nomination to the legislature. During the campaign and until the convention met, I believed, and still believe, I was the choice of a majority of the republican party selecting delegates and of the delegates themselves.

The methods used to accomplish my defeat were of such a nature that many of the delegates who sat at the convention and voted against me have asked me to give them another opportunity to rectify their error.

In the light of these facts, and with the full knowledge of the loyalty of those who stood faithfully by me two years ago, and because of the assurances of support on the part of those who took a little interest before, I have decided to fight out the battle along the same lines.

I make this brief statement in order that the republicans of Lake county may not again be misled by unfair methods.

Respectfully requesting your active support, I beg to remain,

Yours very respectfully,

A. K. STEARNS.

THE PRINCE WELCOMED

By President Roosevelt and High Officials of the Government.

Roosevelt's Memoranda on Schley-Sampson Controversy.

The capital of the nation has been the scene of unusual festivities the past week, the event occasioning this flutter in cabinet and diplomatic circles being the visit of Prince Henry of Prussia.

Prince Henry of Prussia, admiral of the German navy, is here as the personal representative of his brother, the German emperor, and in a larger sense as the envoy extraordinary of the German people. While coming nominally for the purpose of performing a simple and nonessential ceremony in connection with the launching of a pleasure boat which Emperor William is having built by American shipwrights, the real purpose of the visit is to cement more closely the bonds of friendship and comity which already exist between the German empire and our own republic.

Upon such a mission, wherever he may go during the two weeks' sojourn with us, every good element in American life will accord Prince Henry sincere and cordial welcome. In doing this we are by no means abating in the slightest our democratic traditions nor recognizing royalty simply as royalty. Neither does the prince in accepting our hospitality surrender in any sense his belief in the traditions of monarchy. Anything in the nature of fawning would no doubt be as distasteful to him as it would be unbecoming to us.

We welcome him, therefore, not because he is a "prince of the royal blood," nor because he is of a family which is in some quarters recognized as the Lord's anointed, but because he represents a people to whom the whole world owes much and to whom this country especially is deeply indebted. In this welcome all Americans will show their appreciation not only of old Germany and her great services to civilization, science and literature, but of the new Germany which exists in the United States and which as a part of the republic has done so much to make the nation great and prosperous.

President's Memoranda.

Everybody, we think, will agree with President Roosevelt that the continued and seemingly unending dispute over the battle of Santiago is an "unhappy affair," and a great proportion of the American people would be glad to see it ended, but it is quite probable that the memoranda of the president on the appeal of Admiral Schley will not suffice to terminate the controversy so far as the general public is concerned, though possibly they may put an end to further official consideration. So strongly have the lines been drawn and so positive are the convictions of the partisans that the conclusions of the president are not likely to be universally accepted by either side. The friends of Admiral Schley, despite the president's decision, will still insist with Admiral Dewey that Schley was in command at the battle of Santiago and is therefore entitled to the credit of the victory.

According to the president, the battle was a "captains' fight," and neither Sampson nor Schley was really in command during the actual engagement. On this point he says:

In short, the question as to which of the two men, Admiral Sampson or Admiral Schley, was at the time in command is of merely nominal character. Technically Sampson commanded the fleet and Schley, as usual, the western division. The actual fact, the important fact, is that after the battle was joined not a helm was shifted, not a gun was fired, not a pound of steam was put on in the engine room aboard any vessel actively engaged in obedience to the order of either Sampson or Schley save on their own two vessels. It was a captains' fight.

Therefore the credit to which each of the two is entitled rests on matters apart from the claim of nominal command over the squadron, for, so far as the actual fight was concerned, neither one nor the other in fact exercised any command. Sampson was hardly more than technically in the fight. His real claim for credit rests upon his work as commander in chief, upon the excellence of the blockade, upon the preparedness of the squadron, upon the arduousness of the duty, upon the standing orders in accordance with which they instantly moved to the attack of the Spaniards when the latter appeared. For these things all the credit is his.

As to the "loop," which has been the source of the most controversy, the president says it was, "in fact, the one grave mistake made by any American ship that day." Admiral Schley, he asserts, is entitled to the credit of what the Brooklyn did that day, but holds that if the Brooklyn was placed in greater danger by continuing her course, so also was the Spanish fleet, and "this kind of danger," he adds, "must not be too closely weighed by those whose trade it is to dare greatly for the honor of the flag."

After the "loop," continues the president, "Admiral Schley handled the Brooklyn manfully and well."

Political Notes.

The republicans of the counties of Lake, McHenry and Boone, comprising the Eighth senatorial district are requested to send delegates to the convention to be held in the village of McHenry, on Monday, April 28, at 1 o'clock, for the purpose of placing in nomination candidates for the legislature. Lake county is entitled to 21 delegates.

The political prophets are guessing that the Cullom-Dawes-Mason-Sherman-Stewart anti-Lorimer and anti-Yates combination will shortly announce a general campaign committee which will embrace every county in the state. It is rumored that the committee will be one of the most formidable ever named in Illinois and that Charles T. Bent of Whiteside county will be its chairman.

Mr. Bent is a newspaper proprietor and has a large acquaintance throughout the state. Governor Yates recently offered Bent a canal commissionership, but he declined the honor. The anti-machine leaders insist that the time is ripe for a general attack upon the state administration and William Lorimer, and that immediate steps should be taken to prevent administrative control of county, senatorial and congressional conventions.

It is taken for granted that Governor Yates will seek instructions for Congressman Hopkins at all county conventions and that a strong effort will be made to secure Hopkins' endorsement by the next state convention.

Floyd K. Whittemore has announced that he will be a candidate for the republican nomination for state treasurer to succeed M. O. Williamson. He will run as a "no faction" candidate, and says that he expects the support of both administration and anti-administration.

Indeed, it is understood that a number of the leaders of both factions have practically agreed upon him as the most available neutral candidate for the office, and will support him in order to save the state ticket from the havoc that will be wrought in the party by the coming contest for control of the organization.

The Hon. Ed Shurtleff won out in the caucuses held at Marengo Saturday. He defeated the combined opposition by a vote of 381 to 270. That means his endorsement by McHenry county for the legislature and his return to Springfield. Those who are familiar with his record during the last session will be pleased to learn that he is to be returned.

Reciprocity.

Last September President McKinley, in the address which was destined to be his last word to his fellow-countrymen, said:

"Reciprocity is the natural outgrowth of our wonderful industrial development under the domestic policy now firmly established. What we produce beyond our domestic consumption must have a vent abroad. The excess must be relieved through a foreign outlet and we should sell everywhere we can and buy wherever the buying will enlarge our sales and production and thereby make a greater demand for home labor. The period of exclusiveness is past. The expansion of our trade and commerce is the pressing problem. Commercial wars are unprofitable. Reciprocity treaties are in harmony with the spirit of the times."

The brief period which has elapsed since the delivery of this speech at Buffalo finds the leaders in the house fighting tooth and nail to prevent the adoption of reciprocity measures either with European powers or with Cuba which has especial claims upon this nation.

It has taken less than six months for the republican leaders in the house to forget their passionate sympathy with the course of statesmanship outlined by McKinley and to abandon the policy which he championed in his last public address.—Chicago News.

CONDENSED TELEGRAPHIC NEWS

As a result of "land jumping" in Hall county, Tex., there is likely to be serious trouble. The practice was at first confined to the land held in big tracts by cattlemen, but recently the holdings of actual settlers have been trespassed upon.

William E. Kittredge, well known in railroad circles and master car builder of the northern division of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad, died after a long illness, aged 81 years. Mr. Kittredge built the first passenger coach constructed in Wisconsin.

Indian police are removing about 5,000 head of cattle belonging to cattlemen on Chickasaw nation lands because of refusal to pay tribal tax. These cattle are being taken to Texas.

The approaching reunion of Confederate veterans to be held at Dallas has caused the organization of a large number of camps of Sons and Daughters of the Confederacy in Texas.

A very large acreage will be planted to Irish potatoes in Texas this spring. The farmers of the whole of east Texas are preparing to raise them in varying quantities.

Dr. I. D. Reynieron of Jamestown, Ind., has been commissioned as veterinary by the British government, and will enter upon his duties at once.

George Buecker, a bachelor and a wealthy retired merchant, aged 78 years, died suddenly of heart disease at Washington, Mo.

The Ministerial association of Salt Lake, Utah, adopted a resolution denouncing recent statements that "only a comparatively few" of the Mormons ever entered into polygamous relations.

Mrs. Deborah Baldwin, aged 97, is dead at her home at Logansport, Ind. She was the daughter of Ebenezer Lines, who served in the revolutionary war.

At Memphis, Tenn., Will Parton shot and probably fatally wounded Clarence Hodge, as the result of an alleged insult to his sister.

A company of farmers has been organized to build a $10,000 cotton oil mill at Deport, Tex. The town is eight miles from a railroad, but the organizers of the company contend that it is as cheap to haul the oil and meal as it is to haul the seed, and they gain in not having to go so far for cattle feed.

J. C. Shallor, a pioneer of Dubuque, Iowa, and a veteran of the civil war, is dead at Dubuque, aged 79.

A heavy rain has fallen in central Texas, but not enough to thoroughly break the drought and give water for stock.

The First National bank of Ivesdale, Ill., capital $25,000, has been authorized to commence business.

Charles W. Ten Broeck, for two years division freight agent of the Lackawanna at Scranton, has been appointed industrial agent of that road.

Mrs. Katherine Meyers, who would have been 100 years old had she lived until next May, died at her home, five miles north of Decatur, Ind.

Three counterfeiters were arrested at King City, Mo., after they had succeeded in passing considerable money on farmers and merchants.

Legal proceedings to test the ruling of Commissioner of Internal Revenue Yerkes that all banks were liable to a tax on undivided profits as well as capital and surplus, have been begun at New York.

Mrs. Louise De Champ, the first white woman born in Wisconsin, died at Prairie du Chien, Wis. She was 104 years old.

Mr. Butterfield, who has an experiment station near Farmington, Mo., has recently received from Angiers, France, a consignment of 55,000 pear and cherry stock. It will be nearly three years before this stock is ready for the market.

The Southern Pacific will supply the strawberries for the Chicago banquet to Prince Henry of Prussia. The coast country of Texas will be searched for fine fruit.

WEEK'S DOINGS IN CONGRESS

Business Transacted by the House and Senate in the National Capital.

WHEELER'S SPEECH THE TOPIC.

Many Representatives Take Exception to His Language and Sharp Words Are Exchanged—Kleberg of Texas Asks Hearty Welcome for Prince Henry.

Thursday, February 20.

With the exception of a few minutes given to routine business, the senate devoted its entire session to the Philippine question. Mr. Patterson (Colo.), one of the minority members of the Philippine committee, delivered his first extended speech in the senate. He vigorously attacked the authority of the Philippine commission to enact and enforce sedition laws. He maintained that congress alone had the power. He compared information furnished by the executive departments with some of the statements of Governor Taft, in his testimony before the Philippine committee, with respect to the capabilities of the Philippine people and declared his belief that Governor Taft misrepresented the true situation in the islands for motives unknown. Mr. Nelson (Minn.) presented an argument in support of this government's action in the Philippines and sharply criticized Mr. Patterson. Mr. McCumber (N. D.) urged that congress should not bind the future now by a declaration of a definite policy regarding the Philippines.

The house spent the day working on the Indian appropriation bill. Forty-two of the sixty-two pages were disposed of. The appropriation for preliminary work in the reservoir for the Gila River Valley went out on a point of order. Mr. Smith (Ariz.) offered an amendment to strike out the appropriation for the Carlisle School, but it was defeated. Just before the close of the session, Mr. Fitzgerald (N. Y.) made an attack on the superintendent of the school at Mount Pleasant, Mich., who, he said, was charged with permitting the debauching of Indian girls. Mr. Sherman, chairman of the Indian committee, promised to make an investigation at the Indian office.

Friday, February 21.

For more than six hours the senate had the Philippine tariff bill under discussion. Mr. Bate delivered a carefully prepared speech in opposition to the pending measure. He was followed by Mr. Spooner in a brilliant defense of the Republican attitude toward the Philippine islands. Mr. Spooner became involved frequently in heated colloquy with members of the minority. He concluded with an appeal to congress to stand by the policies of McKinley and Roosevelt. Mr. Tillman began a characteristic arraignment of the administration in the Philippines, but had not concluded when the senate adjourned.

The house passed the Indian appropriation bill. No amendments of importance were attached to it. The latter part of the session was devoted to the consideration of private claim bills, a number of which were passed. A resolution was passed providing for an investigation of Mr. Nardin's relations to the Shoshone Indian School. During the consideration of one of the minor claim bills, Mr. Kleberg (Tex.), who is a German, made a brief speech, deprecating any attempt to make political capital out of the coming visit of Prince Henry. He said the United States should extend to him and the great nation he represents a hearty welcome and true American hospitality.

Saturday, February 22.

In the senate Mr. Tillman (S. C.) in concluding his speech on the Philippine tariff measure declared that his colleague, Senator McLaurin, had traded his vote on the Spanish treaty for federal patronage in his state. Mr. McLaurin on hearing of the matter, sought his seat, and addressing the president pro tem, declared the assertion to be a willful, deliberate and malicious lie. Mr. Tillman rushed from his seat, brushing Mr. Teller aside and overturning a chair, and advanced upon Mr. McLaurin, striking him. The blow was returned and a general mix-up followed. Upon quiet being restored the senate went into executive session. As a result both senators were deprived of the right to speak or vote, except by permission of the senate, and they were suspended pending a report on the matter by the committee on elections and privileges.

Monday, February 24.

The senate passed the Philippine tariff bill by a vote of 46 to 26, a strict party vote. Final debate was begun at 11 o'clock, and a vote was taken at 4 o'clock. Aside from the controversy over the Tillman-McLaurin incident, there was no especial feature to the proceedings, with the exception that Senators McComas and Wellington of Maryland, indulged in a caustic tilt. During the debate Mr. McComas denied Mr. Wellington's charges that the former was induced to vote for the treaty by promises from President McKinley. Mr. Wellington said that if his colleague would repeat outside the senate chamber what he had told the senate in the speech he (Wellington) would tell McComas that it was a cowardly and malicious falsehood. Mr. Hoar promptly called Mr. Wellington to order, and President pro tem Frye as promptly directed Mr. Wellington to take his seat.

The house passed a bill to divide Texas into four judicial districts, and also the Towney resolution, calling upon the Secretary of War for information concerning the transfer of sugar lands in Cuba since the American occupation. It then transacted some business pertaining to the District of Columbia, and later took up the diplomatic and consular appropriation bill. The bill carries an appropriation of $1,931,678, an increase of $82,950 over last year. It was made the vehicle for speeches on trusts, coinage and other irrelevant matters. Mr. Irwin (Ky.) delivered his first speech in the House and denounced the remarks of his colleague (Mr. Wheeler) regarding the visit of Prince Henry. Mr. Gilbert (Ky.) opposed the Republican policy in the Philippines. Without disposing of the pending bill the House, at 4:20 p. m., adjourned.

Tuesday, February 25.

The senate adjourned within fifteen minutes after it convened. Several Democratic Senators were preparing to continue the contest of Monday. When the clerk began the reading of the journal the usual request that the reading be suspended was made by Mr. Stewart. "I object," interjected Mr. Turner (Dem., Wash.) and Mr. Dubois (Dem., Idaho) in unison, and the reading was continued. At its conclusion the journal was approved without comment. Instantly Mr. McMillan (Rep., Mich.) called up the message of the House of Representatives announcing to the senate the death last fall of Representative Rosseau Crum of Michigan. He presented resolutions expressive of the sorrow of the senate at the announcement. These were adopted, and then the senate, as an additional mark of respect, at 12:15 adjourned.

The house passed the diplomatic and consular appropriation bill. It was the fifth of the regular annual supply measures to be sent to the senate at this session. No amendments of importance were adopted. The feature of the day was a speech by Mr. Richardson (Ala.) in reply to Mr. Corliss' speech a few days ago in favor of the construction of a Pacific cable by the government. The question of reforming the consular service was debated at some length, but no amendments on that subject were offered. Mr. Grosvenor maintained that the present consuls were rendering excellent service, while Messrs. Feely (Ill.), Gaines (Texas), Green (Pa.) and others urged a reform in the system.

Wednesday, February 26.

President Mitchell of the United Mine Workers of America discussed the meeting of the executive committee of the National Civic Federation at New York, from which he has just returned. The executive committee was appointed to consider ways and means of bringing labor and capital into closer relationship. The committee adopted a constitution and by-laws and hereafter will meet once each year, unless called together by an emergency. President Mitchell firmly believes that the object for which the committee was appointed will be achieved and points to the settling of the big strike of garment-workers in New York recently in which over 40,000 persons were out as one of the substantial results already attained.

Thursday, February 27.

Mississippi land bottom case, pending since 1889, in which executors of the Palms estate, Detroit, endeavored to recover $350,000, with 10 per cent interest, from Adams, Pike and Calhoun counties of Illinois, was decided against the petitioners by the United States Supreme Court. The decision of the lower court was affirmed.

Friday, February 28.

At Beaumont, Tex., Barney Brown, a negro bath attendant, was shot and mortally wounded by a negro bootblack named Simpkins. Governor Otero of New Mexico has appointed C. M. Light, president of the normal school at Silver City, a member of the territorial board of education, to succeed F. W. Sanders of the agricultural college, who removed out of the territory. Lieutenant Commander von Reistoff, who came over in Prince Henry's suite, will explore the Amazon River country. It is claimed that crude Beaumont oil is a remedy for all bronchial and lung diseases, and that there have been many remarkable cures in Texas.

SOUTH CAROLINA SENATORS FIGHT

McLaurin Resents Accusation by Tillman and Blows Are Struck.

ARE DEPRIVED OF PRIVILEGES.

Senior Senator Says His Colleague Traded His Vote on the Spanish Treaty for Patronage, and Later Declares It a Willful and Malicious Lie.

Senator Benjamin R. Tillman, South Carolina, Saturday afternoon made an assault on his colleague, Senator John L. McLaurin, on the floor of the senate. The two senators thereupon engaged in a fist fight until separated by the officers and members of the senate. Immediately thereafter they were adjudged in contempt of the senate, were formally suspended and are now members of the upper house of congress in name only, being admitted to the floor, but without the privilege of speaking or voting.

Mr. Tillman's provocation was the public denunciation of one of his statements as "a willful, malicious and deliberate lie" by the junior senator from South Carolina, Mr. McLaurin, during his absence from the chamber, had been accused by his colleague of securing the patronage of his state in payment for his vote in favor of the Spanish treaty. Immediately he was rushed to his seat and requested a hearing, and the denunciation, the personal clash, and the other incidents of the remarkable affair followed. Mr. Tillman struck the first blow, brushing aside Mr. Teller and upsetting a chair in his rush to confront his colleague. Mr. McLaurin, who had stepped forward to meet his opponent, was hit on the forehead and struck back, landing on Mr. Tillman's nose, drawing blood. A general mix-up followed, and the blows were falling thick and fast when the combatants were dragged apart and pinioned by those first to reach them. One of the peacekeepers, Sergeant at Arms Layton, was struck in separating the men. After the action by the senate suspending the men and they had been given the privilege of the floor to apologize, Mr. Tillman asked the pardon of the senate, but made no apology to his colleague. Mr. McLaurin's statement was more of an explanation than an apology, and when he began a threat—"If there is any more of that talk"—friends persuaded him to desist, and it is believed another violent scene was averted.

"Mr. President," said Mr. Foraker, "I moveth that the senate go into executive session." Without comment, every senator laboring under the emotion which all endeavored to conceal, the motion was agreed to, and the doors were closed. The proceedings after the doors were closed covered almost two hours of time and resulted in the adoption of a resolution in the form of an order, as follows: "Ordered, that the two senators from the state of South Carolina be declared in contempt of the senate on account of the altercation and personal encounter between them this day in open session, and that the matter be referred to the Committee on Privileges and Elections with instructions to report what action shall be taken by the senate in regard thereto."

Mr. Tillman was exceedingly angry when he received a note from the President's secretary withdrawing the invitation to be present at the dinner to Prince Henry. He issued a statement scoring the President for insulting him and denying that he was in contempt of the senate. Senator Martin of Virginia was invited to the dinner in place of Mr. Tillman, but he declined. Mr. McLaurin asked the senate to make a full investigation of his controversy with Senator Tillman.

The names of Senators Tillman and McLaurin have been restored to the senate roll, from which they were stricken by direction of President pro tem Frye. This action is the result of a desire to take from the shoulders of the president pro tem the responsibility for curbing the two men and shifting it to the senate as a whole. It is considered likely that the senate will endorse the action of the president pro tem in ordering their names erased and will suspend both men for some definite time.

Got the Bank's Cash, Then Fled. Council Bluffs, Iowa, special: Gilbert S. Gilbertson, state treasurer, and his business partner have filed a petition in involuntary bankruptcy against Thomas Crenshaw, a grocer here, who disappeared Feb. 10. They allege that a few days prior to his disappearance they sold the Crystal Lake bank to him, but received no cash, having extended him credit for the purchase money. They further allege he induced the cashier to issue to him a number of certificates of deposit aggregating over $20,000 and then fled.

SNY LEVEE CASE DECIDED.

United States Supreme Court Finds Against the Plaintiff.

Springfield, Ill., dispatch: The United States Supreme Court has decided in favor of the defendant land owners in the case of O'Brien et al., executors of the estate of Francis Palm, against Wheelock et al., commonly known as the "Sny Levee bond suit." The case has been in litigation for twenty-five years and involved the liability of owners of property in Adams, Pike and Calhoun counties for bonds issued by the commissioners of the Sny levee drainage district. The act under which the district was organized was declared unconstitutional by the State Supreme Court in 1876, about the same time the levee broke and destroyed nearly all the improvements. Later Judge Drummond upheld the lien of the bondholders, and Palm's executors sued about a thousand property owners to secure payment. This is the suit that has just been decided.

CHAPTER I.

JACK, FROM BOHEMIA.

Famous old Big Ben had boomed out the hour of 3 one afternoon in May, when Jack Overton, who had recently shaken off the dust of the Bohemian Latin quarter in Paris, debouched from one of the numerous courts branching out from the Strand, London, and strolled along this great thoroughfare.

Overton was a man of possibly twenty-five. His form was well built and athletic, his countenance, while not wholly handsome, worthy of deep study—an expert at physiognomy would have gloried in reading the potential features so plainly marked, and his verdict must have been that while the young man had not yet awakened to the restless and dominant power that numbered within his grasp, the force of circumstances would sooner or later bring it to the fore.

For some time he had drifted along in his studies—a faint gleam of success had begun to brighten the eastern skies—there was a promise of his latest picture being accepted for the Salon, when his future could be looked upon as assured.

It was at this critical juncture in his affairs when a little more resolute work would have landed him well on the road to success, that fortune, and a woman, brought about a crisis which threatened his bark with disaster.

This accounted for the eagerness with which he scrutinized the inmates of the various vehicles moving hither and thither along the Strand. Finally his kindling gaze was glued upon a dashing equipage, evidently headed toward Rotten Row, and particularly upon the beautiful woman who sat there nonchalantly holding a lace-trimmed parasol above her dainty head, and occasionally addressing some word to her elderly gentleman companion, whose bronzed face and air of distinction marked him as a traveler or man of note in Her Majesty's colonial empire.

Jack held his breath and gritted his teeth as he looked. He loved, aye, worshipped this radiant creature. He, a poor, unknown artist, dared to raise his eyes to such a beautiful bird of fashion.

Why not—who had a right one-half so strong? Time was when he knew Fedora as a modest little English girl with a passionate desire to study art, when he had given innumerable opportunities to stand between her and insult, to soften the rough places for her dainty feet, to assist her in the work she had chosen while his own lay neglected in his garret studio. Yes, they had become such great friends in Bohemia that it ripened into love, though on Jack's part he fairly adored the girl from the hour they first met.

Thus vows were exchanged, and for months they drifted along in a fool's paradise. Then Jack, poor fellow, insisted on endeavoring to open communications between Fedora and the grim old English grandfather who had exiled his daughter for marrying against his august will.

The negotiations succeeded, all too well, and one day there can be a dolorous scene when Jack and his betrothed separated, she to go to her new English home, he to work feverishly on the great picture that was to make such a sensation in the Salon—the face of Fedora, created by a hand inspired by the divine passion—and bring him the fame and fortune which he longed to lay at her feet.

At last it was finished, all but a few touches. He had for some time been on the verge of distraction. Stray rumors that Fedora had forgotten him. He, faithful to death himself, believed steadfastly in the woman he loved, and indignantly chased all satanic doubts headlong from his mind. Still, they crept back in spite of him, and when existence finally became unendurable away from the atmosphere she breathed, he had brought his treasured canvas to London.

Never had he suspected the full extent of her radiant beauty and her queenly manner until the moment his eyes fell upon her in the vehicle that rolled toward Rotten Row. Could such a prize be for him?

Then came a revulsion of feeling. She belonged to him—she had again and again vowed no power on earth but death could take her from him. More than that, did he not owe her his life? There had been a fire, and Jack, overcome in his sleep by smoke, might have perished but that some girl dared death to run in and drag him to the open air. They told him it was Fedora, and although she had always in her modesty, appeared confused when he spoke of the subject, yet he never doubted.

At this day Overton had not learned what a mighty influence Moloch had upon the average human heart, nor the winning power of Gold. The time was coming when he would discover these things through bitter experience that would warp his nature and change his disposition.

It was his desire to notice what effect his presence might have upon the beautiful girl in the landau. When her wandering gaze suddenly fell upon him she gave a perceptible start, and the color left her cheeks only to immediately return, and as the vehicle passed he was quick to discover the card, which she had dextrously tossed out apparently unseen by her escort, flutter to the asphalt.

CHAPTER II.

THE MEETING ON THE STRAND.

Jack lost not a second in capturing the bit of pasteboard. It was simply a carte de visite, and gave the address of her grandfather's city house.

Overton made up his mind that come what would that night should see him at the address she had given, to hear from her own lips his doom. Until that had been pronounced he could not and would not believe that she meant to cast him aside.

As he swung down the crowded Strand he was suddenly aware of a gentle pull at his sleeve, a modest little jerk, entirely lacking the assurances that might suggest a bold seeker after aims.

"Oh, Mr. Jack!" said a quick voice in accents of eagerness.

An when Overton looked down from his six feet, and saw the girl's rosy face half shrouded in a blue hood, he experienced such genuine pleasure that the haunted, devil-may-care expression gave way to a glow of sincere satisfaction as he caught the hand she had laid on his own and squeezed it in his own broad palm. If he hurt her the girl gave no sign.

"Bless me, Mazette, this is a pleasure now. Fancy our meeting in the crowded streets of London. How do you get on? Has fortune looked your way? I hope and trust those divine little miniature portraits on ivory bring you in a fair income among these people of your blood."

Thus he chattered on. Mazette looked up to the long-legged, big-hearted American as a prince of men. Secretly she adored him, but no one ever knew that his face was the shrine at which the modest child of nature worshipped, for, like most girls of the present day, Mazette refused to wear her heart upon her sleeve for daws to peck at.

"What brings you here, Mr. Jack?" she asked.

Overton winced as he remembered the nature of his hasty jump from Paris. Then he made up his mind to unburden his soul, and having resolved to make the plunge, he started in with an impetuosity that startled his demure little companion.

If Jack had been able to look under that blue hood while he poured out his passionate story he might have received something of a shock. Most certainly poor Mazette was experiencing one.

"It is hard to give advice, Mr. Jack. She has not thrown you over yet," she said.

"You know Fedora so well, you should be able to judge what she will do—whether or not the glitter of gold would tempt her to give up the man to whom she swore deathless fealty. Tell me truly, little friend, although I would bless you for words of comfort, still I only desire to know what you believe—the truth, even if it kill me."

"You must be calm, Mr. Jack. Even though you lost Fedora, there are other things in the world worth living for," she began, slowly, painfully.

He uttered a hollow groan.

"Ah, money is very powerful, Mr. Jack. It makes the strongest weak. You must not think too harshly of her if the temptation proves irresistible."

"Already you fear the worst," he exclaimed. "God help me if it proves to be so. You would never condemn the man you loved, Mazette; sell him for filthy lucre."

"Thanks for your good opinion. No one may ever know how strong they are until the temptation has come," she replied, steadily, but deep down in her heart the little artist girl was saying over and over again: "Not for all the gold in the world, nor for precious stones, would I sell his love if it were only mine."

Mazette adroitly changed the conversation, and endeavored to cheer him up.

"You must be sure to drop in to see us very soon, and take tea with us," she said at length, as they were about to separate.

"I promise you," he replied quickly. God bless you for a true-hearted comrade, and may you in the years to come never know the agony of mind and heart that threatens me now."

"I shall endeavor to avoid that by never allowing myself to fall in love," she replied, a little hysterically, offering him her hand.

"What, your left hand, Mazette. Pardon me, did I hurt the other, brute that I am? No, then surely you have been in an accident since last I saw you, else why should your arm hang so helplessly at your side? Tell me, is it not so?" with anxious solicitude that was not at all affected.

The girl looked either vexed or frightened.

"It is nothing. Long ago I had an accident, and when I use the arm steadily I feel it. Of late I have been unusually industrious. That is all, believe me, Mr. Jack. You will come—soon?" as she moved off.

"Surely," was his reply.

As Mazette hurried on, her heart throbbing with conflicting emotions, she was saying to herself, almost hysterically: "He must never, never know what a weak little fool I am, or why this poor arm sometimes hangs useless at my side. That is my secret, and it shall die with me. But I fear Fedora is lost to him forever—that gold has won her heart."

CHAPTER III.

DECLINED, WITH THANKS.

Somehow Overton felt better after this little chat with the miniature painter. True, in her candor and knowledge of Fedora's weakness she had not been able to give him much encouragement. In fact, she seemed to accept it as a settled fact that the girl he loved would sacrifice him on the altar of Mammon, but the very contact with such a cheery nature as that of Mazette was bound to exert a helpful influence upon him.

He was standing at the corner of Chancery Lane, debating the momentous question as to where he should bestow the favor of his patronage for supper, when he was given something of a staggering shock, for there, within ten feet of him, seated in a hansom, and evidently trying to attract his attention, was the identical bronzed and bearded gentleman whom he had seen some hours before at Fedora's side in the handsome turnout, bound for Rotten Row.

In this distinguished personage Overton at once and instinctively recognized the rival whom he had to meet on uneven terms.

The gentleman had now a fair look at his face, and immediately jumped out of his cab.

"Pardon me," said he, in a deep voice that somehow grated on Jack's ears, perhaps because he had already conceived a deadly feeling of enmity toward the other. "Pardon me, but I believe I have the honor of addressing Mr. John Overton, late of the Latin Quarter, Paris?"

Overton answered stiffly: "That happens to be my name, sir."

"Allow me to introduce myself."

Overton looked at the card and deliberately looked at the inscription.

"Captain Maurice Stanton Livermore, The Horseguards."

It was a name known far and wide—a name that had been carried to remote places in the Dark Continent—a name mentioned with especial honor in descriptions of English operations on the borders of India, where only valor counts, and men carve out reputations with the sword in a desperate duel with savage tribes.

Jack knew it well. The name is not unfamiliar to me. In what way can I be of service to you, sir?" he said with an effort at diffidence.

"You are an artist, if I mistake."

"Yes, I aim to be."

"I am greatly interested in art, and desire to have some commissions executed. Having heard you favorably mentioned I would like you to join me at dinner where we can doubtless find an opportunity to reach an agreement."

It was on the tip of Jack's tongue to coldly decline the invitation. Prudence—policy if you will—checked his disdainful tongue in time.

"I accept your invitation, sir, without in any way committing myself to any policy you may suggest, or compromising myself in the least," he said quietly.

The other looked grimly pleased. They walked along together as well as the crowded condition of the street would permit, until finally they reached a notable restaurant, into which the strangely matched couple plunged.

As Overton sat there in the cozy room, vis-a-vis with Captain Livermore, somehow he was reminded of a man whom the irony of fortune had seated above a volcano or a powder magazine, liable to explode at any moment.

BUCKEYE ANIMADVERSIONS

In an Indianapolis Plan to Make Life Sweeter.

The young women of the Indianapolis telephone exchange are to be given the benefits of voice culture. A prominent elocutionist has been engaged, and all the sharp voices will be filed down, and all the rough voices will be planned off, and if there is any dignity and sweetness in a voice it will be drawn to the surface. It is a nice scheme, but it will take some time. The average Hoosier voice is far from being of the liquid velvet order, and the elocutionary improver will find his hands full for some time to come. Of course the hours for vocal practice will have to be snatched from the regular hours of duty, and the Indianapolis subscriber who calls up "exchange" may be expected at any time to hear somebody shrieking: "I am not mad! I am not mad!" A good deal startled, he will probably hastily remark: "Hello, central; you have given me the insane asylum." And then the girl will explain that she's only getting letter perfect in "The Mameluke." And very likely some other subscriber will be told that the curfew shall not ring to-night, and perhaps he'll vigorously ask the curfew to ring off. And may be an incensed patron of the line who earnestly inquires what the girl means by not answering his call will be told to "wake and call me early, call me early, mother, dear." In short, there'll be a good deal doing in that Indianapolis call shop before all the voices that need it are cultured into proper vocal shape.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Von Holleben's Invitation to Dewey.

We have no doubt that Admiral Dewey was entirely sincere in his statement of the reason why he could not accept the invitation to dine with the German ambassador and meet Prince Henry of Prussia, though there had been no previous reports or even rumors that the health of Mrs. Dewey was such as to excite grave apprehension or require the constant attendance of her husband.

However, the phrasing of Ambassador von Holleben's invitation was not such as to inspire in the admiral any special desire to accept it. It was sent by telegraph from Florida and read: "Will you dine with me on Feb. 28 at 7 p. m., to have the honor to meet his royal highness Prince Henry of Prussia?"

The clause "to have the honor" used in this connection grates somewhat harshly on the American ear, and both Admiral Dewey's ears are thoroughly American. According to our notions, it is not, nor ought it to be, the height of courtesy to ask a man of Admiral Dewey's eminence "to have the honor" of meeting Prince Henry or any one else. Had the invitation read simply "to meet" the German prince and admiral and had Admiral Dewey accepted it he no doubt would have regarded the opportunity as both an honor and a pleasure. But that is an entirely different matter.

Unquestionably the German ambassador was wholly guiltless of any intent to display that spirit of condescension which his telegram indicates and which is so objectionable to true Americans, but simply worded his invitation according to the rules of the social game as played in Germany. The formula employed by Ambassador von Holleben is, at least, not a pleasing one in this country, and it is hardly possible that Prince Henry, as host, would have asked a man more distinguished than himself in his own profession to have the honor of dining with him.

But the incident is not likely to mar in any degree the prevailing good feeling and courtesy extended to the German prince and the Germans generally, as Admiral Dewey undoubtedly gave the true reason for declining the invitation. It can by no means be construed as a slight to the nation's guest, but is rather an exhibition of the admiral's high sense of marital duty and devotion.

The Two and a Half Cent Piece.

There would seem at present to be no pressing necessity for a two and a half cent piece, provision for the coining of which is made in a bill presented in congress by Representative Cummings of New York. To multiply unnecessarily the subdivisions of our money is undesirable and would prove perplexing and confusing, though if the exigencies of trade require a fractional coin between the penny and the nickel it should, of course, be provided. But this, it is believed, is not, at present at least, demanded. There are no general groups of things sold for 2½ cents, nor does there seem to be any great likelihood that such groups will appear in the near future.

The unit of value for things like a loaf of bread, a street car ride and a glass of beer is now, and for some time will be the nickel. It is argued that when the unit changes there will be room for a new coin which shall crystallize the change. Yet, on the other hand, it may be urged that the new coin might act as a lever in bringing down the price of certain standard commodities which now sell currently for 5 cents. For instance, the general circulation of a two and half cent piece might be a factor in bringing about two and a half cent street car fares.

Lent may be appropriately observed by others than those whose religious faith calls for such observance. It is a season of self denial which may well invite the attention of all. Archbishop Corrigan mentions abstinence from alcoholic stimulants, tobacco and unnecessary sweets as worthy of observance. Overindulgence in these is by no means confined to his flock, nor is the suggestion exclusive in its scope.

While nobody has claimed that Spain was our real friend four years ago, a good argument in that direction might be made from the fact that she stoically presented herself as a candidate for the whipping the administration of which has so notably increased the affection of Europe for the United States.

Whatever else may be said of Rough Rider Ben Daniels of Arizona, whose appointment was held up in the senate, it is reasonably certain that he was not, as might be inferred from the reports, in the Kansas and Wyoming penitentiaries at the same time.

It is undisputed that the Daughters of the American Revolution come of good old fighting stock.

Electric Stimulation of Plant Life.

The possibilities of the utilization of electricity are seemingly beyond present comprehension, and daily experiments are enlarging the scope of its practical service to mankind. Late investigations conducted by Von Georg Heber and reported in the Elektrotechnischer Anzeiger tend to show that the influence of an electrical current upon plant life is in a high degree conducive to luxuriant growth. The German experiments deal with three phases of electrical stimulation.

By one method the seeds are submitted for some time to the action of the electric current before sowing. Some seeds are caused to sprout more quickly by this treatment, but so far as the records show the results are not important.

The second method is to simulate as nearly as possible the natural action of electricity in the air. The plants experimented on are surrounded with harbed wire having points from which the current will run off into the air and find its way to the nearest attractive conductor. The results of this are said to be extremely favorable, but perhaps not compensatory to the cost.

The third experimental method consists in causing a feeble current to permeate the soil in which the plant is growing, and with this the results were sufficiently remarkable to challenge attention. Tests were made on wheat, oats, barley, carrots, beets and other common food vegetables grown in beds in which all the conditions were as nearly as possible identical except that half the beds were subjected to electrochemical action and the other half were not. Photographs of electrified and nonelectrified plants of equal age show that the former are, generally speaking, at least twice as luxuriant as the latter and that maturity is attained in about half the time.

The German experimenter, however, is not the first to have employed this latter method of stimulating plant life by electricity. Last summer a New Jersey market gardener tapped the power cable of the trolley line that passed his truck farm and conveyed the current to his vegetable patches, with results quite as marvelous as those subsequently attained by the experiments of Heber. It will be recalled that the New Jersey gardener claimed that with electrical stimulation he practically trebled the productiveness of his ground. No doubt he committed a technical offense against the property right of the railroad company; but, in view of the German's experiments, it is apparent that he had made a discovery of such value that the company could well afford to condone the appropriation of its current and pay him something for the knowledge it has gained.

The coming to this country of Messrs. Wessels and Wolmarans, two accepted European representatives of the South African Boers in the field, may fairly be taken as an indication that the fighting burghers do not intend to give up the struggle, at least immediately. Unquestionably Messrs. Wessels and Wolmarans will be cordially received, as was the former delegation of Boer representatives, but just what they expect to accomplish here is not yet apparent. Possibly they intend to lay down a new programme for the work of the American pro-Boer committee and to get the ear of the president and government of the United States as far as they can. While there is every indication that the weight of public sympathy in this country is with the Boer cause, it can hardly be expected that the visiting delegates will be able to influence the United States government to any sort of intervention or intercession.

Let us hope that dear little Miss Alice Roosevelt's head will not be turned by the courtesies from royalty and all the fine things that are being said to and about her. The American people think exceedingly well of this eighteen-year-old girl and will wish that in due time she may find her own prince in the usual American fashion. Mayhap while she is hobnobbing with royalty he is roping steers on the western plains or struggling to work his way through college or doing something else worthy of the attention of an intelligent and active American youth.

Frank James has applied to the Kansas City courts for an injunction order to prevent the production of a melodrama called "The James Boys in Missouri." Mr. James has had experience in stopping the stage, but in the old days he did not resort to an injunction.

Still in this sordid age there come to us now and then striking examples of heroic devotion to principle. Here, for instance, is a Massachusetts tramp accepting a sentence of three months in jail rather than saw wood for two hours.

A French chef calls attention to the fact that there has never been a famous Anglo-Saxon cook. However, the race has shown some genius in the proper appreciation of the other fellow's cooking.

American shoes are said to be in great demand in China. From this it may be inferred that the Chinese are really learning to walk.

Some Bargains in Real Estate.

When we compare the price paid for the Danish West Indies and that which we gave for the vast territory embraced in the Louisiana purchase, we must conclude that there has been a marvelous increase in the value of real estate on this continent during the past hundred years. Under the treaty with Denmark, lately ratified by the United States senate, we pay $5,000,000 for the little bunch of islands in the Antilles, which, all told, have an area of scarcely more than 150 square miles, while under the treaty with France in 1803 we got 1,182,000 square miles of territory for $15,000,000. Of course the value of the West Indian Islands to the United States lies in their peculiar location, and they are no doubt worth all they cost us. At all events, there is no inclination to criticize the act of purchase, as the treaty was ratified practically without opposition.

However, as a bargain in real estate it is not to be compared with that made by Thomas Jefferson nearly a hundred years ago, though there were people at the time who thought he was paying too much for the land, a good portion of it being regarded as valueless. Nor was this wholly a land deal. Whether the fathers realized it or not, the purchase was a strategic movement of the greatest importance as giving us the control of the mouth of the Mississippi river. If the Louisiana purchase territory were French, Spanish or British today, there would not be money enough in the United States treasury to buy it. But, of course, this is pure speculation, as it can now hardly be conceived what the United States would have been without that vast and rich area which was acquired through the wisdom and foresight of Thomas Jefferson and his associates.

Compared with the transaction with Denmark, the trade with Russia in 1867, by which we acquired Alaska, was also a pretty clever real estate deal. In that transaction we got 557,000 square miles of territory for $7,200,000. It is true that a great proportion of the land is not of much value for agricultural or grazing purposes, but we have already got back from its goldfields and seal and salmon fisheries a good many times its first cost, while it is apparent that we have only just tapped the practically inexhaustible store of mineral wealth it contains.

Wandering Wireless Words.

It will be recalled that Mr. Marconi shortly after making his last experiment in wireless telegraphy offered a reward of generous proportions to any one who could steal one of his wireless messages, but it would seem, in view of an amusing incident which occurred in New York the other day, that what he really needs is some device to prevent the messages from losing themselves.

Three vessels in the North river, each supplied with the Marconi apparatus, got their messages considerably tangled. The Cunarder Lucania, outward bound, was talking to the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse, lying at her pier at West Twelfth street, whose operator was using English only, when the latter ship got a message from the Lucania. "Don't talk German; I don't understand it." The joke of it was that the Hohenzollern was lying at a pier in Hoboken, and the Kaiser Wilhelm got a lot of German on her ticker also. The royal yacht was trying to talk to somebody, and the part of the message caught by the North German Lloyd's steamer was, "Come over and see me at 4 o'clock."

Evidently Mr. Marconi will have to look into this, as it will never do to have one's wireless messages roaming at will through the circumambient air and landing on the wrong receiver.

Prince Henry is a knight of the Order of the Black Eagle, knight of the Order of the Golden Fleece, knight of the Order of the Annunciation, knight of the Order of the Elephant, knight of the Order of the Seraphim, knight of the Garter and knight of the Order of St. Andrew. The prince certainly has ample reason for carrying a night key.

The celebrated and venerable painter, the late Thomas Sidney Cooper, M. A., came within a year of completing his century. It is intimated that he might have lived a full hundred years if it hadn't been for the fact that he drank Scotch whisky three times a day—at luncheon, at dinner and then a night-cap before he went to bed.

"Young men can point to me as an example of the result of the speculative mania," says Embezzler Andrews of Detroit. Well, there are others, but Andrews appears to be about the top notch in the terrible example line.

The art of flying does not seem to have progressed so tremendously after all. Santos-Dumont has just succeeded in doing what Darius Green did a good many years ago, if we are to believe the good old Fourth Reader.

It is several days since Castro defied a European power, though there is little likelihood that the fiery Venezuelan president will get out of the deft habit.

Detroit's exploded financier is much inclined toward the Oberlin M. Carter style of martyrdom.

Eggs Sell for Highest Prices Known in Twenty Five Years.

Hen fruit is a luxury. The good old chickens have formed a trust and the public having used all powers of persuasion on the hens, and dealers in the much desired fruit, find it impossible to break the combination. Just why the old reliable cacklers should organize in this manner remains a mystery to the oldest inhabitant. The prices quoted last Wednesday, 29@33c a dozen, was not a record breaker by any means, as in 1873 Chicago residents paid 85 and 90 cents a dozen for the necessary article. That was no fault on the part of the hens—a Chicago commission merchant cornered the market.

There are very few eggs in the country and all the teasing and coaxing imaginable will not persuade the hens to resume business. Poultry dealers, who had expected to reap a rich profit during the lenten season, are bewailing their ill-luck.

What's the Good of Lying?

The Elgin News is a newspaper, not a mere partisan sheet. It believes in telling the truth and don't have to cater to the ring managers for support in any way, shape or manner. Under the above heading it has the following editorial which must be admitted as the truth, whole truth, and nothing but the truth:

"There is not a republican editor in the state but is aware that the central committee with its resources is conducted in the interests of the state administration and that these funds are secured from place holders by involuntary contributions or assessments, put it as you like.

Every republican newspaper in the state has the offer of the "boiler-plate" editorials sent out from Springfield. Even now a proposition from this same committee is lying on the editorial desk and a glance through the "editorial" columns of the papers of the state will show the nature of the "independent" press of Illinois, the moulder of public opinion and the palladium of our liberty. The attempts at denial are laughable for their stupidity, if nothing more."

DIDN'T KEEP A HORSE.

For That Reason the Young Housewife Curtailed Her Grocery Order.

The young woman who entered the grocery store the other day had but recently entered upon the sea of matrimony and, like all sensible brides, had begun housekeeping as soon as the wedding trip was ended. But she did not know a little bit about shopping or housekeeping, and was giving her first order. It was a crusher.

"I want two pounds of paralyzed sugar," she began, with a businesslike air.

"Yes'm. Anything else?"

"Two cans of condemned milk."

"Yes'm."

The grocer set down those items, and asked if there was anything else. "Yes, a bag of fresh salt; and be sure it is fresh. A pound of desecrated codfish and two small cans of the best consecrated lye."

"Nothing more, ma'am? We have some nice horseradish just in."

"No," she said. "It would be of no use to us; we shall not keep a horse this summer."

Then she went around to the market and ordered two pounds of sausage, "the kind without the brown bark on."

OLD FAMILIES OF VENICE.

Their Fortunes Are Dissipated and Their Palaces Sold.

Very few of the fine old palaces of Venice belong to the descendants of the families who built and originally occupied them. Very little of the enormous wealth for which Venice was celebrated in the fifteenth century remains. The most of it has been dissipated by the descendants of the men who made it, the same as in England, France and other countries. The rich men of Venice today are an entirely new class of people, whose names do not appear in the Golden Book, which contained a list of the patrician families in Venice who were invited to festivities at the palace. This book was instituted in 1315 and thenceforth until the Austrian occupation was the index and standard of nobility by which all claims to precedence were decided.

Occasionally the grand council, by a vote, rewarded the gallantry or public services of some citizen of humble birth by directing that his name be inscribed upon its pages. None but those whose names were in the Golden Book could use the golden stairs when they entered a doge's palace, and when this right was conferred it was equivalent to an order of nobility in another country. There is one notable exception to the decay of the ancient families, and he is Count Grimani, who traces his lineage back to one of the most famous of the doges, whose portrait, painted by Titian, hangs in the council chamber of the doge's palace. The Grimani palace is on the Grand canal, near the Rialto bridge, and is celebrated for its finely sculptured capitals.

Many of the rich men in Venice today are Jews. They practically control the banking business and manufacturing. They own the fine houses of historical interest and the best paying estates on the mainland in the neighborhood. The present wealth of Venice is invested not so much in real estate as in banking, manufacturing, flour mills, elevators, gas companies, cotton mills, the manufacture of glass and in steamships upon the Adriatic.—Chicago Herald.

MARRIAGE IN ARABIA.

The Wedding Procession an Elaborate and Noisy Affair.

A marriage procession among the Arabs is a very elaborate affair. The camel which bears the bride is decorated with bright henna dye on his neck and shoulders, while there are verses from the Koran inscribed on the hangings. His uncouth legs are often swathed with bright cloths, his head bedecked with plumes and small mirrors, while his back is resplendent with bright colored bits of tinsel, which glisten against a patchwork of many hued cloths. A hood or cage conceals the bride, and no doubt adds to the discomfort of the cramped ride on the beast. There are attendants, and last of all the musicians, chiefly drummers, who attract the crowds by their incessant pounding on small but high keyed instruments.

If the journey to the groom's home is a short one, it is lengthened by stops at frequent intervals, and all the while the lover must not show any eagerness to welcome her, no matter what his feelings may be. The Arab may be affectionate, but he cannot with dignity betray emotion. Among the lower classes buffoons accompany the procession with performing bears or other wild animals, and when the bride is wealthy largess is distributed along the route in the form of clothes or coin. When the groom's tent or fixed home has been reached, the bride is expected to show great reluctance about entering it, and in some cases she has to be lifted by the husband over the blood of a sheep he has just slain.—Woman's Home Companion.

A Magnificent Vessel.

In 238 B. C., Archimedes devised a marvelous ship for Hiero of Syracuse. Her three lofty masts had been brought from Britain, whereas our ships' masts are of iron or obtained from New Zealand or from Vancouver Island. Luxuriously fitted sleeping apartments abounded, and one of her banquetting halls was paved with agate and costly Sicilian stone. Other floors were cunningly inlaid with scenes from the "Iliad." Stables for many horses, ponds stocked with live fish, gardens watered by artificial rivulets and hot baths were provided for use or amusement.—Chambers' Journal.

Longevity.

The span of life is gradually expanding. We live longer and get more out of it than our grandfathers did. Whether the cause of this is a better knowledge of natural law or more skillful surgery we will not undertake to say. At any rate, people think this a pretty good world to live in and want to stay here as long as they can comfortably. The man with 100 birth anniversaries behind him is not such a remarkable fellow after all.—New York Herald.

A WESTERN CANADA FARMER.

SEVEN YEARS AGO HE HAD BUT $24;
NOW HE HAS SEVENTY HEAD OF CATTLE.

This is What a Couple of Eastern Farmers Learned When on a Recent Trip to Canada—Splendid Words About Saskatoon, Rosethorn and Hague District Where They Will Locate.

Messrs. J. E. Blum and J. Crumpler of Manchester, Washtenaw County, Michigan, paid a visit to Alberta last summer and saw there a Mr. Shantz, one of the good old Pennsylvania stock, who had come recently—some seven years ago—from Ontario with $24 in his pocket. He has certainly prospered, as he now has over seventy head of cattle, has a good loghouse framed over; also a good barn, and in all respects looks a thrifty and well-to-do farmer. He had some good crops of oats and barley. After spending some days in Calgary and Edmonton they returned to Regina, Assiniboia, and looked around the country north to Lumsden and Balgonie, where the crops appeared very promising and heavy; continuing up the Regina and Long Lake road they came to Saskatoon on the crossing of the South Saskatchewan River. Of this district they say:

"The country here pleased us better than any we have seen. We drove out eighteen miles in a northwesterly direction through the Smith settlement. This is a wonderful district; the growth was splendid; all kinds of grains and roots were perfection. The older settlers had good buildings of all kinds and looked very prosperous; in fact, we came to the conclusion that we had found what we were looking for, a good country. While the nature of the soil changes and is in some parts light, in others stony, and again heavy, generally speaking it leaves nothing to be desired. Hay and water are also in abundance and wood can be found along the river slopes and islands. We have decided to locate there and shall certainly advise our friends to do likewise. We also trust that this report may have the effect of drawing the attention of land seekers to this district, and can honestly advise all such to locate there. They will find a good thing. As farmers ourselves, from a good district in Michigan, we have come to the conclusion that, properly farmed, western Canada will grow almost anything." Ask for information from any agent of the Canadian government.

A GREAT COUNTRY.

The eyes of all America are turned toward North Dakota's magnificent crops, recently harvested—over 50,000,000 bushels of wheat and 19,000,000 bushels of flax; good corn and abundant grasses. Hundreds of farmers raised 14 to 20 bushels of flax per acre on new breaking, and got from $1.24 to $1.36 a bushel for it. Think of getting free government land and realizing $25 per acre from the first breaking! There is plenty of good government land left, but it is being taken up fast. Excellent chances to go into business are to be found in the new town along the "Soo" line. If you want free land, or are looking for a good business location, write D. W. Casseday, Land Agent, Soo Line, Minneapolis, Minn.

PRINCE HENRY IN THE UNITED STATES

Prince Henry of Prussia left the Fatherland to meet "Old Glory" as quickly as the North German Lloyd steamship Kronprinz Wilhelm, the newest and most magnificent ocean greyhound, will bear him.

His departure from the port of Bremerhaven was made impressive by its simplicity. The Emperor did not want a great show because that, perhaps, would spoil the impression of the great American reception. Besides, the Prince, like a true sailor, hates medieval pomp and ceremonies. Nevertheless, many people hurried to Bremerhaven to see him leave because they felt the importance of the political event.

The Prince arrived in Bremen accompanied by the court marshal, Rear Admiral Freilerr Seckendorff, Captain of the Navy Von Muller, Corvette Captain and Aid-de-Camp of Emperor Von Grumme, Captain Lieutenant Schmidt von Schwind and Captain Lieutenant von Egidy, Aid-de-Camp of the Prince; Captain Lieutenant von Trotha, Assistant Surgeon General of the Navy Reich and Courtney Hintze.

A modest breakfast of four courses was served in the Prince's room at the depot. The arrival of Prince Henry in Bremen passed almost unnoticed, but soon people crowded outside the depot anxiously hoping to see the Prince. They were disappointed by the police, who kept them back from the entrance, and at 1:40 p. m., after the arrival of the general chief of headquarters and the aid-de-camp of the Emperor, His Excellency Von Plessen, Rear Admiral and Minister of State and State Secretary of the Navy, His Excellency Von Tirpitz, and Ambassador His Excellency Von Elsendeher, the Prince with his whole suite boarded the train for Bremerhaven.

The morning had been misty, but at noon it had cleared up and bright sunshine made the snow on the fields and roof, on masts, ship decks and ropes in Bremerhaven scintillate like millions of diamonds. Gay flags decorated the Lloyd Hall, the Kronprinz Wilhelm and all the ships in the "hafen," and the numerous people who had made the trip from Bremen to Bremerhaven to see the Prince off cheered enthusiastically as the special train stopped.

Prince Henry smiled his thanks most amiably, but, followed by his suite, went directly to the Lloyd Hall, where Naval Attache Commander

Beehler, who is officially representing Ambassador White, wished the Prince in warm words a good voyage, telling him he would be a most welcome guest of the United States. After him, Consul Diderich said:

swarmed every part of the dock, and the train with passengers from London was not permitted to draw up to its platform until the Kronprinz Wilhelm had been made fast. Even then the steamship tickets of the South-

"If Your Royal Highness will permit, I have the honor to convey to you the most representative and cordial greetings of His Excellency, the American Ambassador, Andrew D. White of Berlin, who joins me in best wishes for a gluckliche reise to his country and mine. God speed you on your way to that beautiful land beyond the western sea, where a royal welcome is awaiting the royal guest of the President and of the people of the United States of America."

Captain Beaver spoke only a few words of welcome and the Prince shook hands with all three most cordially, especially with Beehler, with whom he is on very friendly terms. Beehler was a guest of the Prince in Kiel and met with him again at the farewell dinner which the Emperor gave to his brother in Berlin.

The whole meeting took hardly six minutes and then the Prince and his suite went aboard where the captain of the Kronprinz, A. Richter, gave a hearty welcome.

The band of the Imperial Second Navy Division played the German "Volkshymne," "The Star-Spangled Banner" and "Hail Columbia." This famous navy band of forty-eight men, under Director Woehlbier, goes as paying passengers in the second cabin, and will be transferred, in New York to the Hohenzollern.

Excessive precautions were taken at the steamer docks at Southampton to guard Prince Henry of Prussia, who was on board the steamship Kronprinz Wilhelm. Policemen and detectives ampton passengers were repeatedly scrutinized.

It had been proposed to arrange a civic welcome for Prince Henry, but the idea was abandoned owing to a politely conveyed intimation that the time would be too short.

When the steamer left the harbor Prince Henry, who was on the navigation bridge, repeatedly removed his cap and waved farewell to those on the quay. Then the band of the Second Marine Division, which accompanies the Prince, played the German national anthem, following it with "Rule, Britannia," the strains of which gradually faded as the vessel dropped down Southampton water.

During the trip from Bremen the Kronprinz Wilhelm communicated with the North Foreland station by means of wireless telegraphy. Prince Henry sent six messages, which were retransmitted from Ramsgate, one being to his wife and another to Emperor Wilhelm. He subsequently sent messages by way of the Isle of Wight to Germany. Emperor Wilhelm desired that an attempt be made to keep in touch with the steamer throughout the voyage and everything has been prepared to carry out his desire.

The Kronprinz Wilhelm arrived at Cherbourg, France, after a pleasant and wireless crossing of the channel. The steamer staid here for only twenty minutes to transship the cargo. Meanwhile the band on deck played two selections. At 9 o'clock, under the most auspicious conditions, the Kronprinz Wilhelm sailed for New York.

Plans All Completed.

General Program for Prince Henry's Entire Tour Announced.

The itinerary and general program of Prince Henry's visit to this country has been announced by Dr. Hill, the President's delegate. It covers the period from Saturday, Feb. 22, to Tuesday, March 11. Several changes have been made from the original draft. The revised plans are as follows:

Saturday, Feb. 22—Arrive in New York harbor on steamer Kronprinz Wilhelm at noon. Official welcome, and entertaining.

Sunday—Religious services on board imperial yacht Hohenzollern in the morning. Private entertainment by the Deutscher Verein in the afternoon. Departure for Washington at night.

Monday—Short stop at Baltimore at 9 a. m., and arrival in Washington at 10:20 o'clock. Official call of Prince Henry on President Roosevelt at the White House, and its return. Interchange of courtesies by ambassadors. Dinner at the White House at 8 in the evening. Return to New York city.

Tuesday—Launching of the new yacht of the German emperor at Shooter's island, in the forenoon, and civic reception in New York city in the afternoon.

Wednesday—Reception and sightseeing in New York city. Departure for Washington at midnight.

Thursday—At the national capital.

Friday—Visit to Annapolis.

Saturday—Departure on western tour, with stops at Pittsburg, Columbus and Cleveland.

Sunday—Stops at Chattanooga, Nashville, Louisville and Indianapolis.

Monday, March 3—Arrival at St. Louis at 7 a. m. and departure at 11. Arrival at Chicago at 6:30 p. m. Reception at Union depot by Mayor Harrison, the German consul and the reception committee. Military escort to the Auditorium Hotel. Dinner by associated reception committees. Grand ball in the Auditorium theater at 10:30 o'clock, and supper.

Tuesday—Visit to Lincoln Park in the morning and departure for Milwaukee at 2 in the afternoon.

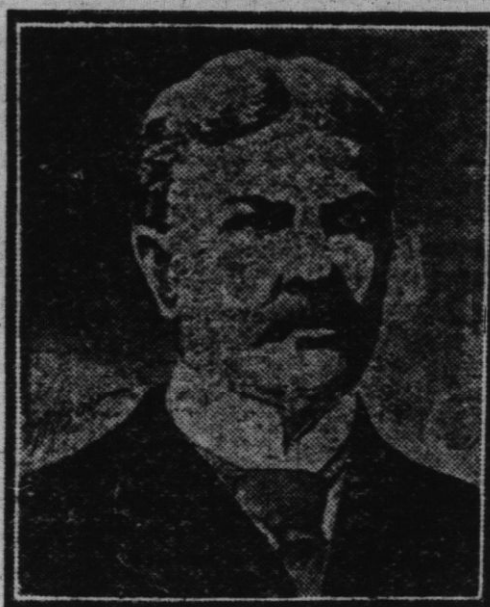

Wednesday—At Buffalo and Niagara Falls.

Thursday—at Boston.

Friday—Visits to Albany, N. Y., and the West Point Military Academy.

Saturday—Rest and recreation in New York city.

Sunday—Visit to the New York Yacht Club and private dinner.

MISS VIRGINIA GRANES.

President of Nurses' Association, Watertown, N.Y. most distressing cases of inflammation and ulceration of the ovaries and womb. I have known that doctors used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound when everything else failed with their patients. I have advised my patients and friends to use it and have yet to hear of its first failure to cure.

"Four years ago I had falling of the womb from straining in lifting a heavy patient, and knowing of the value of your Compound I began to use it at once, and in six weeks I was well once more, and have had no trouble since. I am most pleased to have had an opportunity to say a few words in praise of your Vegetable Compound, and shall take every occasion to recommend it."

FREE KIDNEY AND BLADDER CURE.

Mailed to all Sufferers from Disorders of the Kidneys and Bladder, Bright's Disease, Rheumatism, Gravel, Pain in the Back, Dropsy, etc.

The following letter from Hon. L. A. Hopkins, Chairman of the Board of County Commissioners, Ellsworth, Kan., tells how Alkavis cured after he made up his mind that he had but a short time to live.

Gentlemen:—I believe and know that I owe my life to Alkavis. I had been troubled with Kidney and Bladder Trouble for years. My limbs were swollen with Rheumatism and I could hardly walk. I had to get up every hour of the night to urinate. I passed great quantities of blood on account of hemorrhage of the Kidneys and Bladder. I tried and had been trying everything in the shape of medicine for Kidney Trouble that I could think of or that the doctors recommended, but nothing helped me. I made up my mind that I had only a short time to live. I sent to you for three bottles of Alkavis; began to take it, and before I had taken it one week began to get better. My Kidney Trouble and Rheumatism were soon gone and I am in good health now. I have recommended Alkavis to a great many people and all have been benefited by its use.

Gratefully yours, L. A. HOPKINS.
Mrs. Ida A. Francis, of Mooreville, Ind., writes: "She had been bothered with Kidney and Bladder Trouble ever since she was six years old; did not get any rest day or night, and had to be up fifteen times a night at times. Was also troubled with Rheumatism, Female Complaint and Irregular Menstruation, also symptoms of Dropsy. Tried many physicians but received little benefit. Two years ago took Alkavis and was completely cured and states she will answer any letter that comes to hand concerning the wonderful medicine." Mrs. Mary Fox, Seymour, Iowa; Mrs. Viola Dearing, Petersburg, Ind.; Mrs. Jas. Young, Kent, Ohio; and many other ladies join in testifying to the wonderful curative power of Alkavis in various forms of Kidney and allied diseases, and in other disorders peculiar to womanhood.

That you may judge of the value of this Great Discovery for yourself, we will send you one Large Case by mail free, only asking that when cured yourself you will recommend it to others. It is a sure Specific and can not fail. Address, The Church Kidney Cure Company, No. 406 Fourth Avenue, New York.

CAPSICUM VASELINE

(PUT UP IN COLLAPSIBLE TUBES)
A substitute for and superior to mustard or any other plaster, and will not blister the most delicate skin. The pain-killing and curative qualities of this article are wonderful. It will stop the toothache at once, and relieve headache and neuralgia. We recommend it as the best and safest external counter-irritant known, also as an external remedy for pains in the chest and stomach and all rheumatic, neuralgic and gouty complaints. A trial will prove what we claim for it, and it will be found to be invaluable in the household. Many people say "it is the best of all your preparations." Price 15 cents, at all druggists or other dealers, or by sending this amount to us in postage stamps we will send you a tube by mail. No article should be accepted by the public unless the same carries our label, as otherwise it is not genuine. CHESEBROUGH MFG. CO., 17 State Street, NEW YORK CITY.

It is allied with Thompson's Eye Water.

This is an enlarged reproduction of a postal card made in Germany and designed for use by the fellow-passengers of Prince Henry on the liner Kronprinz Wilhelm. Besides the German and American flags, and portraits of Prince Henry and President Roosevelt, the card shows the statue of Liberty, the Kaiser's yacht Hohenzollern, and the racer Miss Roosevelt will christen. The reading matter, translated, reads: "Greeting from the steamship Kronprinz Wilhelm, bearing his Royal Highness Prince Henry on his memorable journey to America, February, 1902." It is expected thousands of these cards will be mailed by the Kronprinz Wilhelm's passengers to friends all over the world.

REJECTED LOVER KILLS TEACHER

Camargo Educator Shoots the Woman with Whom He Is Infatuated.

CHILDREN WITNESS THE ACT.

Murderer Uses His Revolver on Himself,
Grabs a Shotgun from a Bystander,
Then, Fatally Wounded, He Jumps
Into a Well and Dies.

Fletcher R. Barnett, a teacher, Feb. 25 went to a school near Camargo, at which the girl who had refused to marry him was teaching, shot and killed her, shot a boy who went to the rescue of the girl when the other pupils fled, then shot himself. Falling to end his own life at once, Barnett remained in the schoolhouse by the body of Miss Eva C. Wiseman, whom he had killed, until the farmers came running from all directions, armed and determined to lynch him. Then he rushed out of the door, grabbed a shotgun from a man who was standing near, and shot himself again. Fatally wounded, Barnett continued his flight for 300 yards, then leaped into a well and was drowned.

The farmers who had gathered to avenge the murder of Miss Wiseman did not see the final act of the tragedy, and, not knowing Barnett was dead, organized into excited crowds, and secured the surrounding country, gathering forces as they went. Finally one posse traced the wounded murderer to the top of the well and his body was found. The tragedy occurred at the Rice school, at which Miss Wiseman was teaching. Barnett was teacher at a school near the one at which the murder occurred.

At 10 o'clock he rushed into the crowded schoolroom, throwing open the door without warning, and, advancing directly towards Miss Wiseman, flourished a revolver, and said: "You have ruined my life."

Before the startled girl could rise from her chair the man fired and she fell. The pupils fled in panic, many leaping from the windows, while others struggled, screaming and fighting, to escape by the door.

Bert Hopewell, one of the older pupils, sprang forward to aid his teacher. As he advanced Barnett fired, the bullet inflicting a slight wound in the boy's temple. Hopewell staggered out of the schoolroom and Barnett fired another bullet into Miss Wiseman's body. The boy, recovering his senses, rushed back into the room just in time to see Barnett shoot himself and fall beside the body of the girl.

The cause of Barnett's act was disappointment in love. He fell in love with Miss Wiseman several years ago, but his attentions were distasteful to the girl's family, and she, obedient to their wishes, refused to marry the man. He called on her on Sunday night and pleaded with her to marry him. She again refused and he parted with her in anger.

Treaty Submitted to Rigdag.
Copenhagen, Denmark, special: The text of the treaty between the United States and Denmark for the sale of the Danish West Indies was distributed in Danish and English to the members of the Rigdag. A bill dealing with the sale of the islands will probably be submitted to the Rigdag at the end of this week. King Christian said at a cabinet council that he hoped the matter would be settled as soon as possible.

Artillery Range Options.
Waukegan, Wis., dispatch: Agents working for the government have secured options on 20,000 acres of land in McHenry and Lake counties for the proposed artillery range. The land is about thirty miles west of Fort Sheridan and lies near Fox river, between the villages of Nunda and Voldo. It includes Lily Lake and Lake Defiance. It is not valuable for farming purposes and was contracted for at about $50 an acre.

Metal Roof Caves In.
The metal roof of the American window-glass factory at Winchester, Ind., caved in from the top, about forty-five glass factory at Winchester caved in Friday from the top, about forty-five feet high. As there was no wind at the time the accident is supposed to be due to the action of the various acids and corrosive materials used as ingredients in making glass.

MUSCULAR SORENESS.
As the result of over-exertion and exposure to heat and cold, or from whatever cause, may be treated successfully by the timely application of St. Jacob's Oil. A thorough rubbing is necessary. The Oil should be applied vigorously, for at least twenty minutes, two or three times daily, when all pain, soreness, stiffness will be removed in twenty-four hours. It will also strengthen and harden the muscles. Football players, gymnasts, and all athletes will find St. Jacob's Oil superior to any other remedy for outward application, for the reason that its action is more rapid and its effect permanent. Thousands of people all over the world use and recommend St. Jacob's Oil for muscular soreness. A twenty-five-cent bottle is quite sufficient to prove its efficacy. In cases where muscular soreness is complicated with any disease which requires an alternative, Vogeler's Curative Compound should be taken. This is prepared by the proprietors of St. Jacob's Oil, Baltimore, Md., who will send a sample free on application.

Enterprising Editor.
Senator Deboe of Kentucky tells an interesting story concerning an enterprising editor who ran a paper down in Hardin county, of that state. "The State Fair association," said the senator, "offered a prize of $10 in gold for each of the best samples of corn, oats and tobacco. This offer gave the editor an idea. He advertised that he would give a year's subscription—worth $2—for the best samples of corn, oats and tobacco that were brought to him within a certain time. The country people jumped at the opportunity to get a year's reading matter on such easy terms. Every farmer in Hardin county brought his contributions, and when all the samples had been deposited the wise editor had a barnful of stuff. On a certain day the corn, oats and tobacco were spread upon tables which ran along three sides of the courthouse square, and after a very prolonged examination the prize was duly awarded. Then the editor picked out the finest ears of corn, the heaviest heads of oats and the best twists of tobacco, and sent these selections to the state fair. He got the $30 in gold, and besides that he sold enough stuff to the hotel proprietor to pay his board for six months."

Another Man Altogether.
Valley, Mo., Feb. 24th.—There is a man in this town who has undergone a most remarkable physical change in the last few months. His name is Perry Nelson and those who knew him but a short time ago are amazed at his present condition. He had not been feeling well for some time and suspecting that the trouble came from his kidneys, which he knew were not any too strong, he determined to try a kidney medicine. Dodd's Kidney Pills were highly recommended and Mr. Nelson began a treatment of them. He was rewarded by a complete restoration to vigorous good health. He says: "I used six boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills and they have helped me a great deal. I feel like another man and can recommend Dodd's Kidney Pills very highly."

GOVERNOR OF OREGON Uses Pe-ru-na in His Family For Colds and Grip.

CAPITOL BUILDING, SALEM, OREGON. A Letter From the Executive Office of Oregon.

Pe-ru-na is known from the Atlantic to the Pacific. Letters of commendation testifying to the merits of Pe-ru-na as a cathartic remedy are pouring in from every State in the Union. Dr. Hartman is receiving hundreds of letters daily. All classes write these letters, from the highest to the lowest. The outdoor laborer, the indoor artisan, the clerk, the editor, the statesman, the preacher—all agree that Pe-ru-na is the cathartic remedy of the age. The stage and rostrum, recognizing catharsis as their greatest enemy, are especially enthusiastic in their praise and testimony. Any man who wishes perfect health must be entirely free from catharsis. Catharsis is well-nigh universal; almost omnipresent. Pe-ru-na is the only absolute safeguard known. A cold is the beginning of catharsis. To prevent colds, to cure colds, is to cheat catharsis out of its victims. Pe-ru-na not only cures catharsis, but prevents it. Every household should be supplied with this great remedy for colds, coughs and so forth. The Governor of Oregon is an ardent admirer of Pe-ru-na. He keeps it continually in the house. In a recent letter to Dr. Hartman he says:

STATE OF OREGON,
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
SALEM, May 9, 1898.
The Pe-ru-na Medicine Co., Columbus, O.:
Dear Sirs—I have had occasion to use your Pe-ru-na medicine in my family for colds, and it proved to be an excellent remedy. I have not had occasion to use it for other ailments. Yours very truly,
W. M. LORD.

The track is open to all entries. In connection we will state, for the information of the public, that the officers to be elected this spring are, president, clerk and three trustees to succeed Trustees Plagge, Hatje and Donlea.

The Thursday club was entertained at the home of Mrs. Jennie Powers, Thursday afternoon. A Washington program was given and proved an entertaining feature. An elegant luncheon was served. Mesdames Higley and Leroy Powers, and Mrs. Arps of Palatine, were guests of the club. The annual reception and banquet of this popular organization will be held next Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Frank Hawley. An elaborate program for the event is in preparation.

The McHenry Plaindealer of last week says that Messrs. Robertson and Peck of this village have secured option on land in McHenry county and that sites are being considered for the U. S. rifle range, which is to be built in connection with artillery work at Fort Sheridan. The Plaindealer complains of the small price the government is offering and says there is a doubt on that account whether the range will go there. If Uncle Sam wants the land, it isn't much of a trick for him to get it, and at his own figure, too. He will merely go ahead and condemn and that's all there is to it. The McHenry county site is just about two days march from Fort Sheridan.

Remembered Leroy Powers.

February 27, 1842, in Cortland county New York, a child was born, and the parents named him Leroy Powers. When ten years of age the parents transplanted this youth on the fertile soil of Lake county where he thrived and prospered for years, finally crossing the line into Cook county, entering the mercantile trade, building a beautiful and comfortable home, filling offices of trust, and earning the respect and confidence of all.

Thursday was Mr. Powers' sixtieth birthday and he repaired to his cozy home early in the evening, to quietly observe the occasion, and ponder over the events of the years past. He was not allowed to have the celebration to himself. An army of friends surprised him, and the number would have been much larger had not the weather interfered.

Progressive clique was the leading game of the evening. Parchesi on the side for those who were adverse to, or did not understand handling the decorated pasteboards. A sumptuous repast was served at small tables, and no end of pleasure afforded all who attended. Mr. Powers was the recipient of congratulations, and wishes for sixty years more of earthly residence and enjoyment.

The ladies' first prize was won by Mrs. C. H. Kendall and Dr. Kendall voted off the gentlemen's trophy. By a series of heroic struggles, D. F. Lamey and Mrs. Thomas Dolan captured the booby prizes.

Reached His Majority.

Wednesday, February 26, was the long-looked for day by Henry Sott. It was the date when he stepped from the stage of boyhood into the broad, open field of early manhood—attained his 21st birthday. Henry was not allowed to enjoy the occasion in his own way. His many friends decided that the occasion should be properly observed, and a goodly number visited his home on Cook street, during the evening and carried out a most enjoyable program. An elegant luncheon was served and happiness parceled out in generous quantities.

A Pleasant Surprise.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Burrow was tendered a farewell surprise party Tuesday evening, February 18, at the home of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Brandt. A nice time was enjoyed at various games. After refreshments, the guests departed for their homes.

Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Klein and family, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Brackenbury and family, C. Hartz and family, Mrs. E. W. Klein and daughters and Theodore Skip.

Was a Pronounced Success.

The fifth annual masque ball of the Barrington Social and Athletic club was given at Stott's hall last Friday evening and proved to be one of the most largely attended and enjoyable ever given by that popular organization. Representatives were present from Palatine, Wauconda, Algonquin and other towns. Miss Nellie Gray captured the prize for the most elaborately costumed lady.

Decision Reached.

For six years the suit against the village of Barrington, brought by Mrs. A. D. Parker and A. W. Meyer, for damages to their Main street residence property by reason of the filling in of that street, has dragged along in the Circuit court of Lake county. Last fall Judge Donnelly viewed the property and has finally rendered a decision in favor of the plaintiffs.

Mrs. Parker is awarded $750 and A. W. Meyer $500 damages. This was not considered excessive. The plaintiffs were not after monetary damages, but to have the street placed at a grade made by the engineer who was employed by the village. "This litigation could have been avoided if the demand of the petitioners had been considered by the authorities. The sum of $50 would have put the thoroughfare in condition acceptable to them and to the people, Mr. Meyer offering at one time to lower the grade for $35, and still leave the street in good condition," says a citizen familiar with the matter. There are many phases to the case and many opinions of it. The matter will come before the village board Monday evening for consideration.

Kirschner-Schafer.

Wednesday, February 26, at the parsonage of Salem church, by Rev. A. Strickfaden, Harry Kirschner and Bertha Schafer were united in the bonds of matrimony, in the presence of immediate relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Kirschner have a multitude of friends here who wish them a pleasant voyage over the sea of matrimony.

Harry is one of our best young men and his chosen companion a jewel of pure womanhood, who will prove a valued helpmate. The young couple will take a residence on the Luella Austin farm and will be successful in their chosen pursuit.

Dairy Methods.

Methods of dairy feeding is the subject of a timely bulletin by the Pennsylvania Experiment Station. During the winter months anything which has to do with improved dairy methods is made especially valuable because it has a brief and comprehensive summary, without which any bulletin is incomplete. The experiments failed to show any advantage in having water constantly before the cows in the stable. The cows that were turned into the yard for water once a day made as good returns as those having constant access to water in the stable. Much more bedding was required to keep cows clean and comfortable in the pens than in the stalls. Apparently it would not be economical to keep milch cows loose in pens on farms where the supply of bedding is limited. Considerable less labor was required to care for the cows in the pens than for those in the stalls. The increase in the amount of bedding would result in the production of a greater bulk of manure. The fewest bacteria were found in the milk of those cows that stood in the stalls, and which were, consequently the cleanest.

Once more we wish to emphasize the fact that unsigned communications sent to this office will receive no attention. We welcome contributions but the name of the writer must accompany the same. If you desire to pronounce your views on matters of interest to the public, this paper will gladly publish them, but if you desire to abuse some party or parties retain an attorney or go to them personally. The Review is not in that kind of business. If you address an article to us sign it. We shall decide as to its fitness for publication.

A Printer Greatly Surprised.

"I never was so much surprised in my life, as I was with the result of using Chamberlain's Pain Balm," says Henry T. Crook, pressman of the Asheville (N. C.) Gazette. "I contracted a severe case of rheumatism early last winter by getting my feet wet. I tried several things for it without benefit. One day while looking over the Gazette I noticed that Pain Balm was positively guaranteed to cure rheumatism, so bought a bottle of it and before using two-thirds of it my rheumatism had taken its flight and I have not had a rheumatic pain since." THE HIGHER LIFE.

EDITED BY HACKNEY.

The following poem was written by Secretary of State Hay long years ago when an associate of Abraham Lincoln: Not in dumb resignation
We lift our hands on high;
Not like the nerveless fatalist,
Contest to trust and die,
Our faith springs like the eagle
That soars to meet the sun,
And cries exalting unto Thee:
"O Lord! thy will be done!"

When tyrant feet are trampling
Upon the commonweal,
Thou dost not bid us cringe and writhe
Beneath the iron heel:
In Thy name we assert our rights
With sword and tongue and pen,
And e'en the headsman's ax may flash
Thy message unto men.

To speak frankly, it is not very easy to know what to do with Lent when it does come. The church and society both have their conventional regulations concerning it, but this kind of obligation sits very lightly upon most people. It may help to remind ourselves of first principles here. One of them is that Lent is an affair which concerns Christian people alone. It has its source in the affections and not in the conscience. Those who hold their Lord in dear regard remember that during one of the years of his life He spent forty days in spiritual discipline and abstinence to our great advantage. They are therefore moved to something of the same thing. There is no law commanding them—they do it because they want to. That is Lent.

"Very little money," says the Watchman (baptist) of Boston, "is given by rich men to the distinctive work of the churches—to evangelization of missions—compared with the vast sums devoted to education or to general philanthropies. This fact is symptomatic of the prevalent philosophy of life, and of the relation of the public mind to religion. To the average rich man, there is something far more concrete and tangible in education than in evangelization. A good education is an actual, immediate addition to the beneficiary's capital. It is a positive assurance to him in his efforts to get on in the world. His conversion belongs to an unreal and mystical realm, about which we do not much know. That apparently is the way men reason; if they reason about the matter at all. And underlying all is a conviction that we promote Christianity in the most effective way when we contribute to the advance of civilization. We believe that before long Christian men will open their eyes to the fact that the relation between education and religion is becoming very tenuous, and that the promotion of what is called 'civilization' may be antagonistic to the advance of the kingdom of God."

Mistakes are not to be worried over when they are once made. Mistakes already committed are to be recognized, so as to be repaired if possible and their repetition avoided; but lamentation over them is worse than useless, it only makes matters worse by crippling energy for future success. Robertson says, "He is not the best general who makes the fewest false steps. He is the best who wins the most splendid victories by the retrieval of mistakes." The practical question in view of a manifest mistake is not, "How could I have done that?" but, "What can I now do to correct that mistake, or to make it tell to advantage?"

Education is leading human souls to what is best, and making what is best of them. The training which makes men happiest in themselves also makes them most serviceable to others.

The real attractiveness of a face is not that elusive, deceptive thing called beauty, but the expression of the face itself. From the standpoint of the artist some faces are deficient in outline, in regularity, in harmony of feature, and yet there is so much play of light and feeling that such faces are singularly winsome, and awaken the most ardent affection and regard. Who has not seen faces fairly transfigured with a smile until the whole countenance was lit up and glowed as in a heavenly light? Just as some rugged mountain side, seamed and broken, catches the glory of the sunset and becomes even more beautiful than the picturesque valley, so faces, when illumined with holy impulses and divine desires, lose their commonness and possess for the time being a singular fascination and charm.
